A state may impose on a foreign railroad company, as a condition precedent to its right to own or operate a railroad within the state, the duty of becoming a corporation of the state,[47] and under some constitutional provisions a railroad in a state belonging to a foreign company can be operated only after the owners or projectors shall have first become incorporated under the laws of the state.[48] In some jurisdictions statutes have been enacted providing for the domestication of such foreign companies.[49] Such statutes, however, ordinarily should be given a prospective rather than a retrospective construction,[50] and, unless the contrary appears, should be construed as applicable only to foreign companies thereafter desiring to engage in the railroad business in the state rather than to companies already operating therein,[51] and such a statute has been held inapplicable to a foreign company acquiring in due course rights previously granted by the state to another foreign company.[52]

A statute recognizing a foreign railroad company as such, and giving it authority to construct or operate a railroad within the state, does not make it a domestic corporation;[53] but under a statute declaring railroad companies doing business within the state under a charter or laws of another specified state to be, as to their property, operations, and business in the state, domestic corporations, the status of such a railroad company doing business in the state has been regarded as equivalent to that of a resident of the state.[54]

The matter of a multiple or consolidated corporation existing under the laws of several states is discussed in general aspects in Corporations § 1795; the right of railroad companies of different states to consolidate is discussed infra § 235, and the operation and effect of consolidation with a foreign railroad company infra § 240.

Mode. Where the method by which a foreign railroad company may become a domestic corporation

41. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Department of Labor of State of New York, supra.

42. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Department of Labor of State of New York, supra.

43. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., 115 S.E. 306, 122 S.C. 222.

44. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co., 148 So. 371, 166 Miss. 579.

45. Tex.—Boston, etc., Corp. v. Guarantee Life Ins. Co., Civ.App., 233 S.W. 1022.

46. Mo.—State v. Cook, 71 S.W. 829, 171 Mo. 348.

Organization fee or tax in general see supra § 12.

47. Ky.—Plummer v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 136 S.W. 162, 143 Ky. 102, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 362.

48. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., 115 S.E. 306, 122 S.C. 222.

Domestication statute invalid

(1) A statute providing for the domestication of foreign railroad companies has been regarded as invalid under a constitutional provision prohibiting the grant to a foreign corporation of a license to build or operate a railroad within the state and the operation by such a corporation of such a railroad and providing that the owners or projectors of a railroad, which is to be built or operated, or is being operated, in the state and which is partly in the state and partly in another or other states, shall first become incorporated under the laws of the state.—Carolina, etc., R. v. McCown, 66 S.E. 413, 84 S.C. 318.

(2) It has also been stated that the words "owners," "projectors," and "stockholders" refer to the persons or individuals who own or project the railroad, or own or hold the stock of the foreign corporation interested in building or operating the railroad.—Carolina, etc., R. v. McCown, 66 S.E. 413, 84 S.C. 318.

49. Ky.—Plummer v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 136 S.W. 162, 143 Ky. 102, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 362.

50. Mo.—State v. Roach, 184 S.W. 969, 267 Mo. 300.

51. Mo.—State v. Roach, supra.

52. Mo.—State v. Roach, supra.

53. U.S.—Bryan v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Mo., 244 F. 650, 157 C.C.A. 98, error dismissed and certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 334, 246 U.S. 651, 62 L.Ed. 921.

54. W.Va.—Gridelli v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 125 S.E. 99, 97 W.Va. 400.—Stout v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 63 S.E. 317, 64 W.Va. 502, 131 Am.S.R. 940.

is prescribed by statute, such method must be pursued to the exclusion of all others.[55] Under some statutes owners or projectors of a railroad who have already obtained a charter in another state and who seek to be incorporated in the state must comply with all the regulations, such as those relating to subscription of stock, election of officers, and other steps in organization, applicable to domestic companies.[56]

Effect. The incorporation within a state of a foreign railroad company does not divest it of its original citizenship,[57] but it has been stated broadly that, on compliance with the statute, the foreign company becomes a domestic corporation for all purposes except federal jurisdiction.[58]

Under a constitutional provision prohibiting foreign companies from operating railroads within a state except on condition that the owners or stockholders of such companies incorporate within the state, a company so incorporated within the state is a distinct and separate corporation from the foreign company;[59] the foreign company may own the entire railroad property, including that portion of it within the state which is managed and controlled by the domestic company,[60] and the grant of a domestic charter does not have the effect of transferring the property of the foreign company to the domestic company.[61] Under such constitutional provision the powers of the domestic company are limited to business done within the state or to business outside the state necessarily connected with its operation within the state,[62] and it has no power to make contracts having no connection with the business within the state,[63] nor is it responsible on contracts made by the foreign company.[64]

§ 21. State Regulation

Generally, subject to certain limitations, a foreign railroad corporation may not exercise its corporate powers or do business within a state except by permission of such state and on the conditions imposed by such state.

In accordance with general rules, and subject to limitations to such rules, with respect to foreign corporations, stated in Corporations §§ 1788, 1810, 1811, a railroad company may not exercise its corporate powers or do business within a state other than that of its incorporation except by permission or authority of such foreign state and on the conditions imposed by it,[65] and in some jurisdictions statutes have been enacted prescribing the conditions on which such foreign companies may operate within the state or regulating the exercise of their corporate powers therein.[66] A foreign railroad company is within the terms of a regulatory statute relating to every railroad company doing business in the state.[67] The mere fact that a foreign railroad corporation has acquired property of a domestic corporation does not give such foreign corporation the right to transact business in the state without complying with a statute imposing conditions on the transaction of business by foreign corporations.[68] A statute prescribing the terms on which foreign railroad companies may acquire real estate or exercise the power of eminent domain is applicable to a foreign company purchasing an existing railroad as well as to a company desiring to come into the state for the purpose of constructing a railroad.[69]

55. Ky.—Plummer v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 136 S.W. 162, 143 Ky. 102, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 362.

56. S.C.—Lyles v. McCown, 63 S.E. 355, 82 S.C. 127, 17 Ann.Cas. 436.
Incorporation and organization of domestic railroad companies see supra §§ 8–12.

Organization tax
Under a different statute the view has been taken that there was no liability for the organization tax imposed on domestic corporations at their formation.—State v. Tompkins, 25 S.E. 982, 48 S.C. 49.

57. Ky.—Plummer v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 136 S.W. 162, 143 Ky. 102, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 362.

58. S.C.—Geraty v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 60 S.E. 936, 80 S.C. 355.

59. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., 115 S.E. 306, 122 S.C. 222.

60. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., supra.

61. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., supra.

62. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., supra.

63. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., supra.

64. S.C.—Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Southern R. Co., supra.

65. N.Y.—People v. Gilchrist, 161 N.E. 432, 248 N.Y. 97.
Regulation of railroad companies generally see infra §§ 27–31.

Reference to lines outside state
The legislature might constitutionally identify railroads to be regulated in the state by reference to lines of railroad outside state, and it would not thereby be guilty of extraterritorial legislation.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Anderson, 120 P.2d 578, 167 Or. 687.

66. Ill.—Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. Barrett, 94 N.E.2d 294, 406 Ill. 499.—People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 79 N.E. 144, 223 Ill. 581, 7 Ann. Cas. 1.

67. Ill.—People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

68. Ill.—Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. Barrett, 94 N.E.2d 294, 406 Ill. 499.
Imposition of fees or taxes on exercise of privileges by foreign corporations see C.J.S. title Taxation § 190, also 37 C.J. p. 235 notes 98, 99.
61 C.J. p. 340 note 7–p. 345 note 68.

69. Ky.—Plummer v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 136 S.W. 162, 143 Ky. 102, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 362.
Exercise of power of eminent domain by foreign corporation generally see Eminent Domain § 25.

§ 22. —— What Constitutes "Doing Business"

Generally a foreign corporation is doing business within a state so as to be subject to regulatory statutes of such state where it is operating a railroad line within such state or where it maintains its general offices and conducts its affairs therein.

In accordance with the rules relating to foreign corporations generally, stated in Corporations §§ 1828–1842, a foreign railroad company is doing business within a state, so as to subject it to regulatory statutes enacted therein, when it is operating a line of railroad within the state[70] or when it maintains its general offices and conducts its affairs therein,[71] but a foreign railroad company not owning or operating a railroad within the state is not to be treated as doing business therein by reason of the fact that its cars are brought into the state by another railroad company under a joint traffic arrangement.[72]

C. ACTIONS BY OR AGAINST RAILROAD COMPANIES

§ 23. In General

General rules governing civil actions against corporations apply to actions against railroad companies, except as modified or superseded by particular statutes.

Except as modified or superseded by particular statutes, the general rules governing civil actions against corporations, discussed in Corporations §§ 1287–1357, 1917–1959, apply to actions against railroad companies.[73] Some statutes do not authorize an amendment as to parties which results in the substitution of one railroad company for another and different railroad company as defendant.[74] A sale under execution on a judgment against a railroad company of all the property of such company does not include real property of another, of which such company had taken possession without instituting condemnation proceeding and without giving compensation or security to the owner of such real property.[75]

Actions or proceedings against railroad companies involving various types of matters or situations are considered in detail in appropriate places infra this title, and actions against railroad companies to enforce their liability as common carriers of goods or passengers are treated in detail in appropriate places in the title Carriers.

§ 24. Limitation of Actions

A statute limiting the time for bringing action against any railroad company owning or operating any railroad within the state has been regarded as applicable to both foreign and domestic railroad companies.

A statute limiting the time for bringing action against any railroad company owning or operating any railroad within the state has been regarded as applicable to both foreign and domestic railroad companies operating within the state.[76] A provision in the charter of a railroad company limiting the time within which actions against the company may be begun is not repealed by implication by a general statute subsequently enacted prescribing a longer period of limitation.[77] Limitation with respect to actions against railroad companies involving various

70. Ark.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 128 S.W. 555, 95 Ark. 114.

71. Cal.—Bullfrog Goldfield R. Co. v. Jordan, 163 P. 40, 174 Cal. 342

72. Minn.—Slaughter v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 119 N.W. 398, 106 Minn. 263.
Traffic agreements generally see infra §§ 225–233.

73. N.Y.—Norman v. Long Island R. Co., 18 N.Y.S.2d 51, 258 App.Div. 1089, affirmed 35 N.E.2d 500, 285 N.Y. 829
51 C.J. p. 439 note 11-p. 446 note 75.
Designation of defendant
(1) In an action against a "railway company" its answer and appearance were not sufficient to bring another and different company, which was associated with the designated defendant, before the court as a proper party defendant, even though the designated defendant was not properly served with process.—Gillette Motor Transport Co. v. Whitfield, Tex.Civ.App., 160 S.W.2d 290.

(2) It has been held, however, that where the court has acquired jurisdiction of the person of defendant, as well as of the subject matter, it may permit an amendment of the complaint to correct a misnomer of defendant company.—Thompson v. Southern Pac. Co., 183 P. 153, 160 Cal. 730—Haverstick v. Southern Pac. Co., 87 P.2d 146, 1 Cal.App.2d 605
Dismissal of complaint
In action against railroad company for personal injuries, where plaintiff failed to establish negligence of the company, complaint was properly dismissed.—Norman v. Long Island R. Co., 18 N.Y.S.2d 51, 258 App.Div. 1089, affirmed 35 N.E.2d 500, 285 N.Y. 829.
Furnishing information as to proper party defendant
The view has been taken that an agent of a railroad company who has been served with process in an action against such company is not obliged voluntarily to inform plaintiff that the action should have been brought against another railroad company, notwithstanding such agent is also the agent of such other company.—Van Landingham v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 8 So.2d 266, 243 Ala. 31.

74. Ala.—Van Landingham v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 8 So.2d 266, 243 Ala. 31—Western Ry. of Alabama v. McCall, 7 So. 650, 89 Ala. 375.

75. U.S.—Hustead v. Barron, C.C.A.Pa., 75 F.2d 169.

76. N.J.—Plaut v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 135 A. 505, 103 N.J.Law 40.

77. U.S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Comar, N.Y., 151 F. 559, 81 C.C.A. 39.
Amendment, revocation, or forfeiture of charter or franchise generally see supra § 18.

types of matters or situations is considered in appropriate places infra this title.

§ 25. Jurisdiction and Venue

a. In general
b. Actions against domestic companies
c. Actions against foreign companies

a. In General

The venue of actions against railroad companies depends on the terms of the statutes, duly construed.

While some statutes providing for the venue of actions against corporations, without specifying any particular type of corporation, have been regarded as applicable to railroad corporations,[78] other statutes have made express provision for the venue of actions against railroad corporations.[79] Where the venue of actions against railroad companies is prescribed by mandatory statutory provision, an action against such a company may not be brought in a county not designated in such provision.[80] A statute permitting certain classes of actions to be brought in particular counties has no application to any other action,[81] which may be maintained only at a place otherwise prescribed or permitted by law.[82] The word "may," as used in a statute providing that actions against railroad companies "may" be brought in certain described counties, has been regarded as mandatory so as to prevent the bringing of an action in a county other than so described,[83] but in some cases the word "may," as used in some statutes of this general type, has been regarded as permissive and not mandatory and as not necessarily preventing the bringing of an action in a county not described in the statute.[84] A statutory provision designed merely to regulate the service of process does not necessarily affect the venue of actions against railroad companies otherwise prescribed.[85]

According to some authorities a railroad company may be regarded as a resident, for the purpose of laying venue, of a county through which it operates its road[86] or in which it is doing business.[87] Under some circumstances an action cannot be brought in a county in which the company has no agent on whom process can be served.[88]

78. Ohio—Casebolt v. Kanawha, etc, R Co, 5 Ohio App. 431, 26 Ohio Cir Ct ,N S , 161

79. U S—Bird v J. M Farrin & Co, D C Mo, 4 F R D 257
Ark.—Viking Freight Co v Keck, 153 S W 2d 163, 202 Ark 656, reheard 153 S W 2d 167, 202 Ark 656.
Ga—Southern R Co v Clark, 134 S E. 605, 162 Ga 616
Ill—Taylor v Southern Ry Co, 182 N.E 805, 350 Ill 139
Mich—Pere Marquette Ry. Co v Slutz, 256 N.W 458, 268 Mich 388
Mo—State ex rel Hines v Calhoun, 220 S W. 6, 281 Mo. 583
N C.—Forney v. Black Mountain R. Co, 74 S.E. 884, 159 N C 157—Allen-Fleming Co v Southern Ry. Co, 58 S E 793, 145 N.C. 37
Ohio—New York, C. & St L R. Co v Matzinger, 25 N.E 2d 349, 136 Ohio St 271.
Venue of actions against corporations generally see Corporations §§ 1295-1302, 1932, 1933

County through which line passes

Some statutes have made provision for bringing an action against a railroad company in any county through which its road passes or is operated.—Bruce Transfer Co v. Johnston, 287 N.W. 278, 227 Iowa 50, followed in Bruce Transfer Co v Johnston, 287 N W. 281.

80. Ky—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Glaspy's Adm'r, 64 S W.2d 564, 251 Ky 243.
Mo—State ex rel. Hines v. Calhoun, 220 S W. 6, 281 Mo 583.
Ohio—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co, v Matzinger, 25 N E 2d 349, 136 Ohio St 271—Sanzone-Palmisano Co v Pere Marquette R Co., 187 N E 738, 48 Ohio App. 218

Injury to person or property

(1) Some statutes have limited the venue of actions against railroad companies for injury to person or property to the county in which the cause of action or some part thereof arose, or to the county in which claimant resided when the cause of action arose, or the county nearest to which he so resided, in which any part of the road is located—New York, C & St L R Co v Matzinger, 25 N E 2d 349, 136 Ohio St. 271.

(2) The purpose of the statute is to prevent the filing of actions, in a court far removed from place where cause of action arose, with an exception as to the residence of plaintiff—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Matzinger, supra.

(3) A resident of another state may not sue in the county nearest his place of residence, but must bring his action in the county in which his cause of action accrued—Klappert v N. Y. Central R. Co, 28 Ohio N P.,N S., 346.

81. Iowa—Atchison, etc, R. Co v. Mershon, 165 N W. 86, 181 Iowa 892

82. Iowa—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Mershon, supra.

83. Ark—Viking Freight Co. v Keck, 153 S.W.2d 163, 202 Ark. 656, reheard 153 S W.2d 167, 202 Ark. 656—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co v. Jaber, 107 S W. 1170, 85 Ark. 332

In Illinois

(1) The statute involved was given effect in accordance with the rule stated in the text—Taylor v Southern Ry Co., 182 N.E. 805, 350 Ill 139.

(2) In an earlier case in a lower court, however, the word "may," as used in the statute, was construed as permissive and not mandatory.—O'Donoghue v St Louis Southwestern R. Co, 181 Ill App 286.

84. Ohio—Casebolt v. Kanawha, etc, R Co, 5 Ohio App. 431, 26 Ohio Cir Ct., N.S., 161
Vt—Snyder v. Central Vermont Ry., 22 A 2d 181, 112 Vt. 190.

85. Ill—Taylor v Southern Ry Co, 182 N E 805, 350 Ill 139.
Ky—Chesapeake & O. Ry Co. v. Glaspy's Adm'r, 64 S W 2d 564, 251 Ky 243.

86. N Y.—Polley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 122 N Y S. 708, 138 App Div 636, affirmed and certified question answered 94 N.E. 1098, 200 N Y. 585.

Rule confined to railroad companies

N Y—Williams v. A Hollander & Son, 292 N Y S. 228, 249 App Div. 784

87. N.Y.—De Groat v. New York Cent R. Co., 256 N.Y.S. 353, 235 App.Div. 816—Burman v. Delaware & H. R Co., 85 N.Y S.2d 579—Pond v Hudson River R. Co., 17 How.Pr. 543.

88. U.S.—Fisher v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., C.C Ky, 169 F. 956.

Some statutes authorize the maintenance of an action against a railroad company in any county in which it has or usually keeps an office for the transaction of its usual or customary business[89] A statutory provision authorizing the maintenance of an action against a railroad company for an injury to a person or his property in the county in which the injury occurred refers to the county in which the facts occur out of which the cause of action arises[90] Some general statutes authorize the bringing of an action against a railroad company for a personal injury occurring within the state in the county in which plaintiff resided at the time of the injury.[91]

The validity of a statute authorizing the bringing of an action against two or more railroad companies in a county in which one of the roads is situated has been upheld.[92] Under certain statutes an action against several railroad companies may properly be brought in a county which is the proper venue as to one of such companies.[93] A statute fixing the venue of actions against railroad companies has been regarded as applicable only where the railroad company alone is defendant, and not to cases where there are other parties defendant.[94] So the view has been taken that a statute authorizing the bringing of an action in any county in which any part of defendant railroad company's line may be applies when such a company is sued alone,[95] but not necessarily where two or more railroad companies which own railroad lines or other property within the state are parties defendant,[96] or where there are defendants living in separate counties in the state.[97]

Jurisdiction and venue of actions against domestic railroad companies are treated in detail infra in subdivision b of this section, and of actions against foreign railroad companies infra in subdivision c of this section Jurisdiction and venue of actions against corporations generally are discussed in Corporations §§ 1294–1302, 1918–1926, 1932, 1933, and the venue of actions against corporations in federal courts as between courts in different districts is discussed in Federal Courts § 21.

What constitutes "doing business" in county A railroad company maintaining a station within a county, where trains are stopped and freight and passengers received and delivered, is doing business within the county, within the meaning of statutes relating to the venue of actions against it,[98] even though it employs no agent at such station,[99] and the fact that the engines and cars of a railroad company pass into a particular county does not constitute it a company doing business therein where they do so in pursuance of a contract with another company, under which they travel over the property of such other company and are under its sole control.[1] A railroad company which receives and discharges freight and sells tickets,[2] or which maintains an office for the transaction of fiscal and corporate matters,[3] in a particular county is doing business in such county, even though it does not have tracks,[4] cars, and locomotives in such county.[5]

Action by railroad company. The view has been taken that, unless otherwise provided by statute, the residence of a domestic railroad company for the purpose of the venue of an action by it is in the county, on the line of its road, where its prin-

89. "Usual and customary business" of a railroad company, within the meaning of the statute, consists in the receipt of freight and passengers, at various points on its road, transporting and delivering them at other points thereon, the issuance of bills of lading, the sale of tickets, and keeping the books and accounts relating to such transactions.—State ex rel. Hines v. Calhoun, 220 S.W. 6, 281 Mo. 583.

Case held not within statute

Mo.—State ex rel Hines v. Calhoun, supra.

90. Ky.—Louisville & N. R Co. v Moore's Adm'r, 166 S.W.2d 68, 292 Ky 233—Melton's Adm'r v. Southern Ry Co., 83 S.W.2d 690, 236 Ky. 629.

91. Ark.—Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. v. Bone, 160 S.W.2d 51, 203 Ark. 1067.

Repeal of statute

A statute authorizing the bringing of an action against a railroad company for a personal injury in any county through or into which its road passes, whether the cause of action originated in or out of the state, was repealed with respect to personal injuries occurring within the state by a general statute fixing the venue of actions for personal injuries either in the county in which the accident occurred which caused the injury or in the county in which the person injured resided at the time of the injury.—Chicago, R I & P. Ry. v. Bone, 160 S.W.2d 51, 203 Ark. 1067

92. Tex.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. F. Ry. Co. v White, Civ.App., 103 S. W. 673, error refused.

93. Ark.—St Louis-San Francisco R. Co. v McDonald, 299 S.W. 999, 175 Ark. 630.

51 C.J. p 440 note 46.

94. N.C.—Smith v Patterson, 74 S. E. 923, 159 N.C. 138

95. Miss.—Clark v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 130 So 302, 158 Miss. 287.

96. Miss.—Clark v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.

97. Miss.—Clark v. Louisville & N R. Co, supra.

98. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson, 68 So. 674, 14 Ala.App. 272.

99. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson, supra.

1. U.S.—Fisher v. Cleveland, etc, R. Co., C.C.Ky., 169 F. 956.

2. N.Y.—De Groat v. New York Cent R. Co., 256 N.Y.S. 853, 235 App.Div. 816.

3. N.Y.—Burman v. Delaware & H R. Corp, 85 N.Y.S.2d 579.

4. N.Y.—De Groat v. New York Cent. R. Co., 256 N.Y.S. 853, 235 App.Div. 816—Burman v. Delaware & H. R. Corp., 85 N.Y.S 2d 579.

5. N.Y.—De Groat v. New York Cent. R. Co., 256 N.Y.S. 853, 235 App.Div. 816.

cipal office and the center of its business are situated.[6]

b. Actions against Domestic Companies

The venue of actions against domestic railroad companies depends largely on the terms of governing statutes, duly construed.

It has been held or recognized that, unless the right to sue elsewhere is specially given or the bringing of actions elsewhere is expressly required by statute, a suit against a domestic railroad company is properly brought in the county of its principal place of business;[7] and within this rule it has been held that action is maintainable in the county in which the company is required by law to maintain its principal offices, even though they are actually maintained in another county.[8] In some jurisdictions, however, statutes have been enacted permitting or requiring certain or all classes of actions against such companies to be brought in other counties,[9] and, unless otherwise provided by law, a statute relating to the venue of actions against corporations generally may be applicable to actions against corporations engaged in operating railroads[10] The view has been taken, however, that, the right to sue a railroad company elsewhere than in the county of its principal office being in the nature of an exception to the general rule,[11] a statutory provision conferring such right must be strictly construed,[12] and the burden is on one suing elsewhere than in the county of such principal office to show that the court to which the action is addressed has jurisdiction.[13]

A statute providing merely that actions against railroad companies may be brought in particular places is not necessarily mandatory so as to require actions to be brought only at places so designated,[14] and, where the statute permits actions to be brought in any of several places, plaintiff may elect among the places so designated[15] Where, however, the venue of an action is prescribed by statute, no court at any other place has jurisdiction,[16] so that, under some statutes at least a judgment rendered elsewhere is void.[17]

Under some statutes certain actions may be brought in a county in which defendant company does not have an agent on whom process may be served[18] According to some decisions, unless otherwise provided, a transitory action may be maintained in any county in which, under the statute, the company does business and may properly be served with notice or process,[19] and, under a statute permitting service to be made on station agents, such an action may be brought in any county wherein the company has a station agent.[20]

According to some authorities a railroad company which is doing business in a particular county is deemed a resident of such county for the purpose of

6. Vt—Connecticut & Pasumpsie Rivers R. R. Co v Cooper, 30 Vt 476, 73 Am D 319
Venue of actions by corporations.
Generally see Corporations §§ 1295–1302, 1906
As between districts in federal courts see Federal Courts § 21

7. Ga—McCall v Central of Georgia R. Co, 48 S E 157, 120 Ga 602
51 C J p 439 note 14
Domicile or residence of domestic railroad company generally see Corporations § 176 b.

Principal place of business as residence
The county in which a railroad company had its principal place of business has been regarded as the residence of such company for the purpose of the venue of an action against it, notwithstanding no part of its road was in such county—Bristol v. Chicago & Aurora R. Co., 15 Ill. 436.

8. Tex.—International, etc, R. Co v. Anderson County, 156 S.W. 499, 106 Tex. 60—International, etc., R Co. v Anderson County, Civ App., 174 S.W 305, affirmed 38 S Ct. 370, 246 U.S. 424, 62 L.Ed. 807.

9. Ill—Maguire v Peoria & Pekin Union R Co, 264 Ill App 333

County where cause of action arose
Ga—Grand Trunk Western R Co v. Barge, 44 S E 2d 281, 75 Ga App 646

County in which defendant company has road or line
Miss—Yazoo & M V. R Co v. Denton, 133 So 656, 160 Miss. 850, affirmed Denton v. Yazoo & M V R. Co, 52 S.Ct 141, 284 U.S 305, 76 L.Ed 310
Ohio.—Cleveland, C, C & I R. Co v McLean, 1 Ohio Cir.Ct. 112, 1 Ohio Cir Dec 67.

Statute held not repealed
Ga—Atlantic Log & Export Co. v Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 155 S E 525, 171 Ga 175, answers conformed to 155 S.E. 530, 42 Ga App. 256

10. Ohio.—Casebolt v. Kanawha, etc., R Co, 5 Ohio App. 431, 26 Ohio Cir Ct.,N.S., 161.

11. Tex.—Pecos, etc, R. Co. v Thompson, 167 S.W. 801, 106 Tex 456.

12. Tex—Pecos, etc, R. Co. v. Thompson, supra.

13. Tex—Pecos, etc, R. Co. v. Thompson, supra.
51 C J p 439 note 20.

14. Ohio.—Casebolt v Kanawha, etc, R Co., 5 Ohio App. 431, 26 Ohio Cir Ct,N S, 161.
Vt—Snyder v. Central Vermont Ry, 22 A 2d 181, 112 Vt. 190

15. N.C—Forney v. Black Mountain R Co., 74 S E 884, 159 N C. 157.

16. Ga—Central of Georgia R Co. v Dowe, 65 S E. 1091, 6 Ga.App 858
Ill—Maguire v. Peoria & Pekin Union R Co, 264 Ill.App. 333.
51 C.J p 439 note 25.

17. Ga—Roy v Georgia R., etc, Co, 86 S E 328, 17 Ga.App. 34
51 C J p 439 note 26

18. Ga—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alford, 115 S.E 771, 154 Ga. 863.
51 C.J. p 439 note 30.

19. Mich.—Pollock v. Detroit United R. Co., 134 N W. 1029, 168 Mich 581.
W.Va.—Gridelli v. Norfolk, etc, R. Co, 125 S.E. 99, 97 W Va 400.

20. Kan—Henry v. Missouri, etc, R Co., 142 P 972, 92 Kan. 1017, followed in 142 P. 973, 92 Kan. 1020.

laying venue,[21] and such company may have several places of business and, therefore, residences in different counties for venue purposes.[22]

Actions ex contractu. An action against a railroad company founded on contract may or must, under some statutes, be maintained either in the county in which the contract was made[23] or that in which it is to be performed,[24] or, under some circumstances it seems, in the county in which the company's principal place of business is located[25]

Actions ex delicto. Under statutes so requiring, an action against a railroad company for an injury to person or property must be brought in the county in which the cause of action originated,[26] unless the company has no agent in such county on whom service can be made, in which case the action may be maintained in the county of the company's residence or domicile.[27]

Under some statutes an action against a railroad company for a personal injury must be brought either in the county in which the injury occurred or in the county in which plaintiff resided at the time of the injury,[28] subject to certain specified qualifications, as where defendant company does not run or operate its road in or through the county in which plaintiff resided at the time of the injury and has no agent in such county, in which case action must be brought in the county in which the injury occurred or in the county nearest that in which plaintiff resided at the time of the injury, in which defendant company runs or operates its road or has an agent,[29] or where plaintiff is a

21. N Y—De Groat v. New York Cent R Co, 256 N.Y S. 853, 235 App Div. 816—Burman v. Delaware & H. R. Corp, 85 N Y S 2d 579—Pond v. Hudson River R. Co., 17 How.Pr 543

22. N Y—Pond v Hudson River R Co., 17 How.Pr 543.

23. Ga—Central of Georgia R Co. v. Crapps, 61 S E. 1126, 4 Ga App 550

51 C J. p 440 note 35.

24. Ga—Central of Georgia R. Co. v Crapps, supra.

51 C.J. p 440 note 36.

25. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry Co. v. W T. Kuhns Lumber Co., 86 S.E. 56, 16 Ga.App 700

26. Ga—Coakley v. Southern Ry. Co., 48 S E 372, 120 Ga. 960—Jordan v. Georgia S & F. Ry. Co, 30 S E. 748, 105 Ga. 274—Gilbert v Georgia Railroad & Banking Co, 30 S.E 673, 104 Ga. 412, followed in 30 S.E. 888, 105 Ga 486—Grand Trunk Western R Co. v Barge, 44 S.E.2d 281, 75 Ga.App. 646.

51 C J. p 440 note 38.

Validity of statute

The statute is not in conflict with a constitutional provision that civil actions shall be tried in the county where defendant resides.—Gilbert v. Georgia Railroad & Banking Co., 30 S E. 673, 104 Ga. 412.

Leased railroad

The statute applied to a railroad company, which had been leased, notwithstanding the act for the lease of such company provided for bringing actions against it in any county through which the road ran—La Croix v Western & A. R Co., 44 S.E. 840, 118 Ga. 98.

27. Ga.—Coakley v. Southern Ry. Co., 48 S.E. 372, 120 Ga. 960—Georgia Southern & F. R. Co. v. Pearson, 47 S.E. 904, 120 Ga. 284.

51 C.J. p 440 note 39.

28. Tex—Lewis v Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry Co, Civ App, 229 S.W 2d 395, error dismissed.

Nature of statute

The subdivision containing the provision here under consideration is one of the exceptions to the principal provision of the statute that no inhabitant of the state shall be sued out of the county in which he has his domicile except in cases stated, and the statute is a protective statute which guarantees the right of defendant to have the venue in its home county, if the exceptions stated are not applicable.—Commercial Standard Ins. Co v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., Tex Civ App, 198 S.W.2d 913.

County of plaintiff's residence

(1) Action was properly brought in the county of the permanent residence of plaintiff, which had never been abandoned, notwithstanding plaintiff was temporarily residing elsewhere.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co v. Overton, Civ.App., 107 S.W. 71, reversed on other grounds 110 S.W. 736, 101 Tex. 583, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 500.

(2) The corporate subrogee of a cause of action was not entitled to bring an action in the county in which it resided which was not the county in which the injury occurred or in which the injured person resided—Commercial Standard Ins. Co. v. Texas & N. O. R Co., Tex.Civ. App., 198 S.W.2d 913.

(3) In this connection the view was expressed that the statute does not provide for venue to follow the chose in action.—Commercial Standard Ins. Co. v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., supra.

What corporation within statute

(1) The term "railroad corporation," as used in the statute, does not include a corporation chartered for other purposes but which operates a railroad as a mere incident of its corporate duties—Humble Oil & Refining Co. v Hamer, Tex.Civ App, 167 S W 2d 272.

(2) Thus the statute does not apply to a corporation chartered for the purposes of storing, buying, and selling oil, gas, and the like, and for prospecting for, producing, treating, refining, reducing, and manufacturing oil, gas, and the like, notwithstanding such corporation operates a railroad as an incident of its corporate activities—Humble Oil & Refining Co. v. Hamer, supra.

29. Tex.—Burlington-Rock Island R. Co v. Garlitz, Civ.App., 151 S W. 2d 889.

Construction and effect of provision

(1) The provision of the statute for bringing suit, under the conditions stated, in the county nearest to that in which plaintiff resided is not to be subordinated to the right to bring suit where the injury occurred or in the county of residence of plaintiff where the railway operates its road or has an agent in that county, but such provision is as mandatory as the other provisions, and the rights conferred are of equal dignity.—Dennis v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Tex., 224 S.W.2d 704.

(2) The view has been expressed that "nearest county," as used in the statute, means the county, the courthouse of which is nearest to the courthouse of the county in which plaintiff resided at time suit was filed since the courthouse is the place designated by law as the locus of litigation.—Burlington-Rock Island R. Co. v. Garlitz, 151 S.W.2d 889.

(3) The phrase "in the county nearest that in which the plaintiff resided at the time of the injury" has been construed to mean the county nearest to that in which any plaintiff resided, where there are nonresident of the state [30]

A general statute providing for the trial of an action for an injury to property in the county in which defendant resides has been regarded as applicable to an action against a domestic railroad company, in the absence of any other controlling statute [31]

A statute making the venue of actions for tort dependent on the residence of plaintiff refers, unless otherwise provided, to the time of the commencement of the suit and not to the time the cause of action arose;[32] so, under a statute permitting such actions to be brought in the county in which plaintiff resides, suit may be maintained in the county in which plaintiff resides at the time action is commenced, even though he resided elsewhere when the injury occurred [33]

The view has been taken that, in the absence of a contravening statute, an action on a cause originating outside the state should be brought at the place of the company's principal office,[34] but, under some statutes, an action for an injury occurring outside the state by a resident of the state who was a nonresident at the time of the injury may be brought in a county through which defendant company operates its road.[35] A statute requiring that an action for injury to person or property must be brought in the county in which the cause of action arose or in which the claimant resided when the cause of action arose has so been construed as to prevent the maintenance of an action by a nonresident of the state for injuries occurring outside the state [36]

Objections, waiver, and change of venue In some instances the question of venue must be timely raised in order to avail defendant,[37] and unless the petition or declaration shows on its face that the venue is improper the action will not be dismissed pending a full hearing [38] In view of the provisions of some statutes, however, defendant cannot waive the question of jurisdiction by pleading to the merits [39]

Where a statute contains a mandatory provision fixing the venue of an action, generally defendant railroad company is entitled to have the case transferred to the county so prescribed [40] It has been held that defendant company does not waive its plea of privilege to be sued in the county in which its principal office is located by agreeing to proceed with the trial together of the venue issue and of the cause on the merits,[41] or by failing to request the submission to the jury of a controverted question involving the venue, where the duty to make such request does not devolve on defend-several parties plaintiff —Dennis v Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Ry. Co, Tex Civ App., 221 S.W 2d 852, 853, certified question answered, Sup., 224 S.W 2d 704.

(4) Accordingly, when action was brought in the proper nearest county to the residence of one of several necessary plaintiffs, venue was properly laid in such county as to all plaintiffs —Dennis v, Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Ry. Co, supra.

30. In Texas

(1) Prior to the amendment of 1947, it was provided by Tex Civ St art 1995 subd 25 that where plaintiff was a nonresident of the state, suit could be brought in any county in which defendant corporation ran or operated its railroad or had an agent —Texas & P. Ry Co v Wood, 199 S W 2d 652, 145 Tex 534, conformed to, Civ App, 203 S W 2d 994—Panhandle & S F Ry Co v. Smith, Civ.App, 112 S W 2d 281, error dismissed

(2) Such provision referred to the nonresidence of plaintiff at the time the actron was brought.—Texas & Pac. Ry. Co. v Wood, Civ App., 203 S W 2d 994—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co v. Smith, Civ.App., 112 S.W.2d 281, error dismissed—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Wimberly, Civ App, 19 S W. 2d 604—Texas & P. Ry Co v Conway, Civ.App, 182 S.W 52.

(3) A person who was a resident of the state when the injury occurred, but who was a nonresident when the action was commenced, could bring action in any county in which defendant company operated its road and had an agent —Panhandle & S F Ry. Co. v. Smith, supra—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Conway, supra.

(4) Such statute did not apply where an action was brought by a subrogee who was a resident of Texas —Commercial Standard Ins Co v Texas & N. O R. Co, Civ.App., 198 S W 2d 913.

31. S C —Tobin v Chester & L. Narrow-Gauge R Co, 25 S E. 283, 47 S C. 387, 58 Am S R 890.

What constitutes residence

Within the meaning of the statute, the company is a resident of the county or counties in which its line is located and in which it maintains a public office for the transaction of its business and an agent on whom process may be served,— Tobin v Chester & L. Narrow-Gauge R. Co., supra.

32. Tex —Texas, etc, R Co v. Conway, Civ App, 182 S W 52.
51 C.J p 440 notes 43, 44.

33. Ky —Allen v Cincinnati, etc, R Co., 137 S W. 230, 143 Ky. 723—Louisville, etc, R. Co v. Hoskins, 108 S.W. 305, 32 Ky.L 1263.

34. Ga —Atlanta, K & N. Ry. Co v Wilson, 42 S.E. 356, 116 Ga 189 —Robertson v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 116 S E. 65, 29 Ga App. 530.

35. Tex —Texas, etc, R Co v. Wimberly, Civ.App, 19 S W.2d 604.

36. Ohio —Loftus v. Pennsylvania R. Co , 140 N.E. 94, 107 Ohio St. 352

37. Ga —Central of Georgia R Co v Dowe, 65 S E. 1091, 6 Ga App 858

38. La.—Buteau v Morgan's Louisiana, etc, R., etc, Co, 46 So 813, 121 La. 807.

39. Ga.—Central of Georgia R Co. v. Dowe, 65 S E. 1091, 6 Ga App. 858.

40. Tex.—Lewis v Gulf, C. & S. F Ry Co., Civ.App., 229 S.W 2d 395, error dismissed

41. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co v. Wood, 199 S W 2d 652, 145 Tex 534; conformed to, Civ.App, 203 S. W.2d 994.

ant and plaintiff's request for such submission has been improperly refused.[42]

c. Actions against Foreign Companies

(1) In general
(2) Venue
(3) What constitutes "doing business" or "presence"

(1) In General

A foreign railroad company must be present in the state, either in person or by authorized agent, before jurisdiction in personam of a state court may attach in an action against such company.

A foreign railroad company must be present in the state, either in person or by authorized agents, before the jurisdiction in personam of a court in the state may attach in an action against such company.[43] Accordingly, as a general rule, a foreign railroad company may be sued in personam in another state only when doing business in such other state,[44] and no action may be maintained against it in a state in which it is not doing business;[45] but, generally speaking, if it is doing business, or is present, in the state it is subject to suit therein,[46] even, as a general rule, in the case of a transitory cause of action which arose outside the state.[47] The designation by a foreign railroad company of an agent to receive service of process, under a statute requiring consent by the company that any lawful process served on the agent so designated shall be valid service on the company, constitutes a consent by the company to be served in a cause of action arising outside the state as well as within the state.[48] In some jurisdictions a foreign company may be subject to suit in the state for a cause of action arising in the state either in personam[49] or by attachment.[50]

(2) Venue

Generally speaking, the venue of actions against foreign railroad companies depends on the terms of the statute, duly construed.

It has been held or recognized that, unless otherwise provided by statute, a foreign railroad company doing business within a state may be sued in any county thereof where it has a place of business[51] and an agent[52] on whom process may be

42. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v Wood, supra

Issue as to plaintiff's nonresidence

Tex.—Texas & P. Ry Co v. Wood, supra.

43. Iowa.—Jones v Illinois Cent. R. Co, 175 N.W. 316, 188 Iowa 850.

44. Mo.—State ex rel Nashville, C. & St L. Ry. v Hall, 88 S.W.2d 342, 337 Mo. 1229—State ex rel. Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico v Rutledge, 56 S W 2d 28, 331 Mo. 1015, 85 A.L.R. 1375, certiorari denied Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico, 53 S.Ct. 689, 289 U.S. 746, 77 L.Ed. 1492

51 C J. p 441 note 53.

Jurisdiction of suits against foreign corporations generally see Corporations §§ 1918–1926.

Alien railroad corporation

U.S.—Maxfield v Canadian Pac Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn, 70 F.2d 982, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct 140, 293 U. S. 610, 79 L.Ed 700, rehearing denied 55 S Ct. 212, 293 U.S. 632, 79 L.Ed. 717.

45. U.S.—Fowble v. Chesapeake, etc., R Co., D.C.N.Y., 16 F.2d 504.

Tex.—Pecos, etc, R. Co. v. Cox, 157 S.W. 745, 106 Tex. 74.

46. U.S.—Fisher v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co, D.C.N.Y., 1 F Supp. 235.

Ga.—Louisville & N R. Co v. Meredith, 21 S.E.2d 101, 194 Ga 106—Southern Ry. Co. v. Parker, 21 S E 2d 94, 194 Ga. 94—Reeves v. Southern R Co., 49 S.E. 674, 121 Ga. 561, 70 L.R.A. 513—Southern Ry. Co. v. Wells, 29 S.E 714, 103 Ga. 209—South Carolina & G. R. Co. v. Dietzen, 29 S E. 292, 101 Ga. 730.

N.Y.—Weiss v. Southern Pac. Co., 18 N.Y.S 2d 86, 173 Misc. 670.

Utah.—Wabash R. Co. v District Court of Third Judicial Dist. in and for Salt Lake County, 167 P. 2d 973, 109 Utah 526.

51 C.J. p 441 note 55.

47. Cal.—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v Roller, C.C.A.Cal., 100 F. 738, 47 L.R.A. 77.

Ga.—Louisville & N. R. Co v Meredith, 21 S.E.2d 101, 194 Ga. 106—Southern Ry. Co. v. Parker, 21 S E.2d 94, 194 Ga. 94—Reeves v. Southern R. Co, 49 S E 674, 121 Ga. 561, 70 L.R.A. 513—South Carolina & G R. Co v. Dietzen, 29 S E. 292, 101 Ga. 730.

Minn.—Erving v. Chicago & N W. Ry. Co, 214 N.W. 12, 171 Minn. 87.

Mo.—Draper v. Louisville & N. R Co, 156 S.W.2d 626, 348 Mo. 886—Busch v Louisville & N. R. Co., 17 S W.2d 337, 322 Mo. 469, certiorari denied Louisville & N. R Co. v. Busch, 50 S.Ct. 27, 280 U.S. 569, 74 L.Ed. 622.

N.J.—Kopenhafer v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 148 A. 629, 106 N.J.Law 530

N.Y.—Weiss v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 18 N Y.S.2d 86, 173 Misc. 670.

Tex.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Kellerman, 87 S.W. 401, 39 Tex.Civ.App. 274, error refused.

Jurisdiction of action by nonresident against foreign corporation see Courts § 77 b.

Maintenance of action as undue burden on interstate commerce see Commerce § 138

Claim of forum non conveniens

Refusal to dismiss action based on a cause which arose in another state, where motion to dismiss was based on claim of forum non conveniens, was upheld.—Hoch v Byram, 230 N.W. 823, 180 Minn 298.

48. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Chatters, La., 49 S.Ct. 329, 279 U. S 320, 73 L.Ed. 711.

Officer or agent of foreign company who may be served see infra § 26 c (3).

49. Ga.—Hazlehurst v. Seaboard Air Line Ry, 45 S E. 703, 118 Ga. 858—Grand Trunk Western R Co v Barge, 44 S.E.2d 281, 75 Ga.App. 646.

50. Ga.—Hazlehurst v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 45 S E. 703, 118 Ga. 858—Grand Trunk Western R. Co v. Barge, 44 S.E.2d 281, 75 Ga App 646.

Remedy by attachment against foreign corporation generally see Corporations § 1930.

51. Ga.—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 S.E. 86, 160 Ga. 842

51 C J. p 441 note 57.

Venue of actions against foreign corporations generally see Corporations §§ 1932, 1933.

52. Tex.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Craner, Civ.App., 101 S.W. 534.

51 C.J. p 441 note 58.

Offices; agents

(1) An action for breach of contract against a foreign company and served,[53] and that, under some statutes, a company may be sued in certain actions in any county in which service of process may be obtained.[54] It has been held or recognized that a foreign company may be regarded as a resident of a county in the state for purpose of venue,[55] and that, for such purpose, a foreign company may be deemed a resident of any county through which it operates its road.[56]

While a statute conferring on foreign railroad companies the rights and powers of domestic corporations does not make applicable to such company a constitutional provision requiring a domestic corporation to be sued in the county where its principal place of business is situate,[57] some statutes fixing the venue of actions against railroad companies without specific reference to foreign or domestic companies apply to foreign, as well as to domestic, companies.[58] Some statutes providing for the venue of actions against foreign corporations generally are limited by other statutory provisions specifically fixing the venue of actions against railroad companies.[59] An action against a foreign company may not be brought in a county other than that prescribed by a mandatory statute.[60]

Under some statutes, the same requirements as to venue apply both to actions in personam and to actions by attachment against foreign companies.[61] An attachment suit against a foreign company under some statutes may be prosecuted in a court of a city in which property of such company is found.[62]

In the absence of constitutional or statutory provision for a different venue, generally a foreign

the superintendent of one of its divisions was properly brought in a county in which the company had offices and agents, notwithstanding such superintendent resided in another county—Reynolds v Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 59 S E 2d 344, 217 S C 16

(2) Some statutes authorize the bringing of an action against a foreign company in a county in which it has or usually keeps an office or agent for the transaction of its usual and customary business—Draper v. Louisville, 156 S W 2d 626, 348 Mo 886

53. Okl—Trumble Gas Trap Co v Chicago, etc, R Co., 239 P. 668, 115 Okl 18.
51 C J p 441 note 58
Officer or agent who may be served see infra § 26 c (3).

54. Ky.—Chesapeake & O Ry Co. v Cowherd, 27 S W 990, 96 Ky. 113, 16 Ky L 373

55. Ky—Melton's Adm'r v. Southern Ry Co, 33 S W.2d 690, 236 Ky. 629.

Foreign corporation which has complied with so-called "domestication statute"
Ky—James v Nashville, C & St. L Ry, 221 S.W 2d 449, 310 Ky 616—Knight v Pennsylvania R. Co, 94 S.W.2d 1013, 264 Ky 412.

Action for personal injury occurring outside state
Ky—James v Nashville, C & St L. Ry, 221 S W 2d 449, 310 Ky. 616—Melton's Adm'r v. Southern Ry Co, 33 S W 2d 690, 236 Ky. 629.

What constitutes residence
(1) A general statutory provision, relative to practice, that the words "residence" and "reside" mean, with reference to a corporation, its chief office or place of business has been regarded as applicable to a foreign railroad company with respect to venue of actions against it—Wright v Pennsylvania R Co, 94 S W 2d 1013, 264 Ky 412—Melton's Adm'r v Southern Ry Co, 33 S W.2d 690, 236 Ky. 629.

(2) The residence of such company is in the county in the state in which its chief officer or agent resides when the action is commenced—James v Nashville, C & St L Ry., 221 S W 2d 449, 310 Ky. 616—Knight v Pennsylvania R. Co, 94 S W 2d 1013, 264 Ky. 412

(3) Where a foreign railroad company is present in a county of the state and conducts therein a part of the business for which it was organized, it becomes a resident of the county for purposes of suit—Louisville & N R Co v. Meredith, 21 S E 2d 101, 194 Ga 106—King v Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 129 S E 86, 160 Ga 842.

(4) Foreign railroad company, which had complied with so-called "domestication statute," did not reside in county in which it maintained an office and an agent who was merely a soliciting agent and who had no authority to bind defendant company by contract—James v Nashville, C & St L. Ry, 221 S.W.2d 449, 310 Ky. 616.

56. N.Y.—Polley v Lehigh Valley R Co, 122 N Y.S 708, 138 App Div 636, affirmed and certified question answered 94 N E 1098, 200 N.Y. 585.

57. Cal.—Waechter v Atchison, etc, R Co., 101 P 41, 10 Cal App 70.

58. Ark—Viking Freight Co. v Keck, 153 S.W 2d 163, 202 Ark 656, reheard 153 S W 2d 167, 202 Ark 656.
Ga—Southern R Co v. Clark, 134 S E 605, 162 Ga 616—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 S E 86, 160 Ga 842—Bracewell v. Southern R Co, 68 S E 98, 134 Ga 537, answer to certified question conformed to 68 S E 308, 8 Ga App. 17—Coakley v Southern Ry Co, 48 S E 372, 120 Ga 960—Hazlehurst v Seaboard Air Line Ry, 45 S E 703, 118 Ga 858—Mitchell v. Southern R Co, 45 S E 703, 118 Ga 845—Grand Trunk Western R Co v Barge, 44 S E 2d 281, 75 Ga App 646.
Mo—Draper v Louisville & N R Co, 156 S W 2d 626, 348 Mo 886
N C—Forney v. Black Mountain R Co, 74 S E 884, 159 N C 157—Propst v Southern R. Co, 51 S E. 920, 139 N C 397.

Statutes construed
The rule stated in the text was announced notwithstanding another statute in general terms prescribed the venue of actions against foreign corporations, and the view was taken that such other statute was applicable to foreign corporations other than railroad companies—Propst v Southern R Co, supra

59. Ohio.—Sanzone-Palmisano Co. v Pere Marquette Ry. Co, 187 N E 738, 48 Ohio App 218

60. Ohio—Sanzone-Palmisano Co. v. Pere Marquette Ry Co, supra.

61. Ga—Hazlehurst v. Seaboard Air Line Ry, 45 S E. 703, 118 Ga 858—Grand Trunk Western R Co. v Barge, 44 S.E 2d 281, 75 Ga App. 646

Attachment in action on contract
Ga—Hazlehurst v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 45 S.E 703, 118 Ga. 858.

62. Mo—State ex rel. Ferrocarriles Nacionales De Mexico v. Rutledge, 56 S.W 2d 28, 331 Mo. 1015, 85 A L R 1375, certiorari denied Ferrocarriles Nacionales De Mexico v Rutledge, 53 S.Ct. 689, 289 U.S. 746, 77 L.Ed. 1492.

company is not properly sued in a county in which it does not maintain an office or agent or operate its road,[63] and, under some practice rules, such company must be sued either in a county where its registered office or principal place of business is located or in a county where it regularly conducts business.[64] Under a statute permitting action to be brought against a foreign railroad company in any county in which it operates its trains or has an agent, such a company operating its trains over the lines of a domestic railroad company in a particular county is suable there,[65] even though it maintains an agent and an office for the transaction of its business in another county,[66] and a statute authorizing the bringing of an action against a railroad company in any county through or into which the road of defendant passes permits the bringing of an action against a foreign company in a county in which such company operates its trains over the tracks of another railroad company under an arrangement with such other company.[67]

Some constitutional provisions authorize the maintenance of an action against a foreign company in the county in which plaintiff resides,[68] even though the cause of action did not arise in such county,[69] and even though defendant has no agent in such county and has no part of its line therein.[70]

Under some statutes an action against a foreign company for injury to person or property sustained within the state must be brought in the county in which the cause of action originated if defendant has an agent in such county,[71] or, in the case of a defendant company which is not operating a domestic franchise, even if it does not have an agent in such county,[72] but, if such company is operating a domestic franchise, an action may be brought in the county of residence of the company owning such franchise.[73]

An action against a foreign company for breach of contract, under permissive statute, may be brought either in the county in which the contract was made[74] or in the county in which it was to be performed.[75] The view has been taken, however, that such statute is not controlling if the contract is the basis of an equitable action to enforce some right growing out of the contract.[76]

The view has been taken that a statute requiring certains actions against railroad companies to be brought in the county where the cause of action arose does not apply to actions against foreign railroad companies on causes arising beyond the limits of the state,[77] and that in such cases action may be brought in any county in the state in which service may be obtained.[78]

63. Tex.—Atchison, etc., R. Co v. Stevens, 206 S.W. 921, 109 Tex. 262
51 C.J. p. 441 note 62.

64. Pa.—Law v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 71 Pa.Dist. & Co. 150.

65. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sizemore, 116 S.W. 403, 53 Tex. Civ. App. 491

66. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sizemore, supra

67. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Steele, 80 S.W.2d 623, 190 Ark. 662.

68. Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 117 P.2d 123, 189 Okl. 345—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Lambert, 123 P. 428, 32 Okl. 665.

69. Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Ware, 117 P.2d 123, 189 Okl. 345—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Lambert, 123 P. 428, 32 Okl. 665.

70. Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Ware, 117 P.2d 123, 189 Okl. 345—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Lambert, 123 P. 428, 32 Okl. 665

71. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Clark, 134 S.E. 605, 162 Ga. 616—Tatum v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 58 S.E. 465, 128 Ga. 813—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Dupont, 50 S.E. 103, 122 Ga. 251—Coakley v. Southern Ry. Co., 48 S.E. 372, 120 Ga. 960—Mitchell v. Southern R. Co., 45 S.E. 703, 118 Ga. 845—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Barge, 44 S.E.2d 281, 75 Ga.App. 646.
51 C.J. p. 441 note 67.

72. Ga.—Coakley v. Southern Ry. Co., 48 S.E. 372, 120 Ga. 960—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Barge, 44 S.E.2d 281, 75 Ga.App. 646.

Perfecting service

Where a foreign railroad company had no agent in the county in which an action for personal injuries arose, the action could nevertheless be brought in the county, the court having power to perfect service on defendant.—Coakley v. Southern R. Co., 48 S.E. 372, 120 Ga. 960.

Attachment

Where an attachment is issued against a nonresident railroad company, which is not operating under a domestic franchise and which does not maintain an office, agent, or place of business in the state, based on a cause of action for damages for personal injuries sustained in a county of the state, the attachment must be returned to, and tried in, the county in which the cause of action originated by a court having jurisdiction.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Barge, 44 S.E.2d 281, 75 Ga. App. 646.

73. Ga.—Coakley v. Southern R. Co., 48 S.E. 372, 120 Ga. 960.

74. Ga.—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 S.E. 86, 160 Ga. 842—Friedman v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 52 S.E. 763, 124 Ga. 472

75. Ga.—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 S.E. 86, 160 Ga. 842—Friedman v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 52 S.E. 763, 124 Ga. 472—Hazlehurst v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 45 S.E. 703, 118 Ga. 858

76. Ga.—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 S.E. 86, 160 Ga. 842

77. Ga.—South Carolina & G. R. Co. v. Dietzen, 29 S.E. 292, 101 Ga. 730.
51 C.J. p. 441 note 65.

78. Ga.—Wright v. Southern R. Co., 67 S.E. 272, 7 Ga.App. 542.
51 C.J. p. 441 note 66.
Jurisdiction of transitory action arising out of state by nonresident against foreign corporation see Courts § 77 b.

Effect of statute

The statute under consideration did not affect the law in force as to venue at the time of the passage of such statute with respect to an action against a foreign company for an injury to person or property which occurred outside the state.—South Carolina & G. R. Co. v. Dietzen, 29 S.E. 292, 101 Ga. 730.

Change of venue. In some jurisdictions, where a foreign company is sued in a county in which it has no property and is not operating, the place of trial may be changed, on due application, to another county in which such company has property and is doing business,[79] but if defendant fails to ask for removal to the county in which it is doing business it will be deemed to have submitted itself to the jurisdiction.[80] Under some statutes a change of venue may be allowed, on application of defendant company, if both the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice will be promoted by the change.[81] Allegations of the complaint tending to show that an action against a foreign company has been brought in the proper county, when denied by defendant company, raise an issue of fact on an application by defendant for a change of venue on the ground that action has not been brought in the proper county,[82] and the court may, if satisfied that action was brought in the proper county, deny the application.[83]

(3) What Constitutes "Doing Business" or "Presence"

No all-embracing rule has been laid down for determining whether a foreign railroad company is doing business or is present in a state so as to be subject to action against it in a court of such state; the question is determinable in each case in accordance with the facts involved.

No precise or all-embracing rule has been formulated to determine in each case whether a foreign railroad company is doing business or is present in a state so as to be subject to action against it in a court in such state.[84] The question is one of fact,[85] to be determined in each case on the facts therein appearing.[86] While it has been stated broadly that it is sufficient if the facts warrant the inference that the foreign company is present in the state,[87] the general rule has been announced that, in order to constitute doing business, the foreign company must have entered the state and have carried on there, through its agents, the ordinary business in which it is engaged,[88] and that the business done by it within the state must be such in character and extent as to warrant the inference that the company has subjected itself to the jurisdiction.[89] In cases of doubt whether or not a foreign company is subject to suit in a particular state considerations of public policy may properly enter into the determination.[90]

The view has been expressed that the question whether a foreign railroad company is doing business within a state so as to be subject to the jurisdiction of its courts is distinct from the question whether it is doing business in the state within the purview of statutes regulating foreign corporations or prescribing the conditions on which they may exercise their corporate powers,[91] or from the question whether the corporation is doing business in the state so as to be subject to the payment of a franchise tax,[92] and that not as great a degree of 79. N Y —Gaboury v. Central Vermont R Co, 231 N Y.S. 630, 225 App Div. 145, reversed on other grounds 165 N E 275, 250 N.Y. 233.

Change of venue in actions against foreign corporations generally see Corporations § 1933

80. Minn.—Witort v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 226 N.W 934, 178 Minn. 261.

81. S C.—Reynolds v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 59 S E 2d 344, 217 S. C 16.

82. S.C.—Rafield v. Atlantic Coast Line Co, 68 S E 631, 86 S C. 324.

83. S C —Rafield v. Atlantic Coast Line Co, supra

84. U.S.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Alexander, N. Y., 33 S Ct. 245, 227 U.S. 218, 57 L. Ed 486—Fisher v Canadian Pac Ry Co, D C N.Y., 1 F Supp. 235
D C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Goldberg, Mun App, 39 A.2d 563.
Mo —State ex rel Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico v Rutledge, 56 S.W.2d 28, 331 Mo. 1015, 85 A.L. R. 1375, certiorari denied Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico, 53 S Ct. 689, 289 U S 746, 77 L. Ed. 1492—Detmer, Bruner & Mason v. New York Cent R Co., 80 S W 2d 222, 229 Mo App 702.
N Y.—Pomeroy v. Hocking Valley R Co, 113 N E 504, 218 N Y 530—Sperling v. McGee, 49 N Y S 2d 477, affirmed 51 N.Y S.2d 274, 268 App Div. 925.
51 C.J. p 441 note 69.

85. Pa.—Law v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 71 Pa.Dist. & Co. 150.

86. U S.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry Co. of Texas v. Alexander, N. Y, 33 S Ct. 245, 227 U S 218, 57 L Ed 486
Mo.—State ex rel. Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico v. Rutledge, 56 S W 2d 28, 331 Mo. 1015, 85 L R A. 1375, certiorari denied Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico, 53 S Ct 689, 289 U S. 746, 77 L.Ed. 1492—Detmer, Bruner & Mason v. New York Cent R Co, 80 S.W.2d 222, 229 Mo App. 702
N.Y —Pomeroy v. Hocking Valley R. Co., 113 N E. 504, 218 N Y. 530—Geller v. Macon, D. & S. R. Co., 75 N.Y.S 2d 818, 190 Misc 903—Cohen v. Gulf, M. & O. R. Co., 95 N Y.S. 2d 633—Sperling v. McGee, 49 N.Y. S.2d 477, affirmed 51 N.Y.S.2d 274, 268 App Div. 925.

87. N Y.—Sperling v. McGee, supra.

88. Mo —State ex rel. Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico v. Rutledge, 56 S W 2d 28, 331 Mo 1015, 85 L. R A 1375, certiorari denied Ferrocarilles Nacionales De Mexico, 53 S.Ct 689, 289 U S. 746, 77 L Ed. 1492—Detmer, Bruner & Mason v. New York Cent. R Co., 80 S.W.2d 222, 229 Mo App 702.

89. U.S —St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Alexander, N.Y., 33 S.Ct. 245, 227 U S. 218, 57 L Ed. 486.
51 C.J. p 441 note 70.

90. U S.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Weeks, Tex., 254 F. 513, 166 C C.A. 71, certiorari denied Weeks v. Atchison, etc., R. Co, 39 S.Ct. 259, 249 U.S. 602, 63 L Ed. 797
D.C —Cancelmo v Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 12 F.2d 166, 56 App D C. 225.

91. Ga —Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. De Bow, 98 S E 381, 148 Ga. 738.

92. Utah.—Wabash R. Co. v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. in and for Salt Lake County, 167 P.2d 973, 109 Utah 526.
Carrying on business by foreign corporation with respect to franchise tax generally see the C.J.S. titles business activity is required to render such a corporation subject to the jurisdiction of a state court as is required in the case of taxing or licensing,[93] although the view has apparently been taken that the fact that a foreign corporation is doing business for the purposes of registration or taxation does not necessarily show that it is doing business so as to be subject to suit in a particular county[94]

Particular activities. A foreign railroad company may be doing business, within the rules relating to the jurisdiction or venue of actions against it, in a state in which it maintains executive offices for the conduct of its general business or financial affairs,[95] or into or through which it operates a railroad[96] or trains,[97] or, under some circumstances, where it maintains an agent or agency for the sale of tickets[98] or the conduct of the freight business,[99] including the issuance of bills of lading,[1] for transportation or carriage over its lines, or a freight agency for the conduct of freight business and the settlement of claims growing out of it.[2] Even though a foreign company has no railroad within the state, it is doing business therein when it operates tugs, boats, and barges on the waters of the state and delivers freight to piers within the state,[3] and the solicitation of business within the state, in connection with certain other activities on the part of a foreign company, may constitute the doing of business.[4] However, the mere solicitation within the state of business to be done outside the state,[5] without the making of contracts of any kind,[6] is not such doing of business therein by a foreign rail-

Commerce § 118, and Taxation § 190, also 61 C.J. p 342 note 32–p 343 note 38

93. N Y—Sperling v. McGee, 49 N Y S 2d 477, affirmed 51 N.Y S 2d 274, 268 App Div 925

94. Pa—Law v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 71 Pa Dist & Co 150

95. N Y.—Pomeroy v Hocking Valley R. Co., 113 N E. 504, 218 N.Y 530.
51 C J. p 441 note 72

96. Ga.—Louisville & N. R Co v. Meredith, 21 S E.2d 101, 194 Ga 106.
51 C.J. p 442 note 73.

97. Ill.—O'Donoghue v. St. Louis Southern R. Co, 181 Ill App. 286.
Mo—Draper v. Louisville & N. R Co, 156 S.W 2d 626, 348 Mo. 886.
51 C J p 442 note 74.

98. U S.—Fisher v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., D C N.Y., 1 F Supp 235.
51 C J. p 442 note 75

99. U.S.—Fisher v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., supra

1. Md—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Eichberg, 68 A. 690, 107 Md. 363, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 389.
Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co v. Demere, Civ.App., 145 S.W 623.

2. U.S.—St Louis Southwestern R Co. v Alexander, N.Y., 33 S Ct 245, 227 U S. 218, 57 L.Ed. 486
51 C.J. p 442 note 77

Discretionary powers with respect to claims

Fact that agent in state exercised discretionary powers with respect to claims presented against company was given weight in determining that foreign company was doing business in the state.—American Laundry Machinery Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q R. Co., 177 N.E. 533, 39 Ohio App. 430.

3. U.S.—Cafasso v. Philadelphia, etc., R Co, C.C.N Y., 169 F. 887.

4. D C—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Goldberg, Mun App., 39 A 2d 563
Mass—Reynolds v Missouri, K. & T. Ry Co, 113 N.E 413, 224 Mass 379
N Y.—Ledermann v Pennsylvania R. Co, 85 N.Y S 2d 485, 193 Misc. 941—Weiss v. Southern Pac Co, 18 N Y S 2d 86, 173 Misc 670—Sperling v McGee, 49 N.Y S 2d 477, affirmed 51 N.Y S 2d 274, 268 App Div 925
Utah—Wabash R. Co. v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. in and for Salt Lake County, 167 P 2d 973, 109 Utah 526.

Continued solicitation of business

U.S.—Perkins v Louisville & N. R. Co., D.C.Cal., 94 F Supp. 946.

5. U S.—Maxfield v. Canadian Pac. Ry Co., C C.A Minn, 70 F.2d 982, certiorari denied 55 S Ct 140, 293 U S. 610, 79 L.Ed 700, rehearing denied 55 S Ct. 212, 293 U S. 632, 79 L.Ed. 717—Denver & R. G R. Co. v. Roller, C.C.A Cal., 100 F 738—Sowl v. Union Pac. R Co., D. C.Minn., 72 F.Supp. 542—Livingston v. Chesapeake & O. Ry Co., D.C.Okl., 18 F.Supp 863.
D.C.—Cancelmo v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 12 F.2d 166, 56 App.D C. 225—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldberg, Mun.App., 39 A 2d 563.
Ill.—G. W. Bull & Co v. Boston & M. R. R, 175 N.E. 837, 344 Ill 11
Mo.—State ex rel. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Hall, 88 S W.2d 342, 337 Mo. 1229—Detmer, Bruner & Mason v. New York Cent R Co., 80 S W.2d 222, 229 Mo.App. 702.
51 C J. p 442 note 79.

Doing business not shown

(1) Visits by freight agent of foreign railroad company, each of a few days duration and occurring six weeks apart, did not constitute a continuous course of conduct sufficient to constitute doing business in state bringing corporation within jurisdiction of a court of the state especially where it was not shown that the solicitation of business on the visits resulted in obtaining a substantial volume of business—Geller v Macon, D & S. R Co, 75 N.Y S.2d 818, 190 Misc 903.

(2) Where foreign interstate railroad maintained passenger and freight offices in state with a few employees hired by home office and offices solicited substantial freight and passenger business, called on large number of customers and obtained reservations for passengers, and through dining cars passed through the state on trains of another railroad and were tended on entire trip by same crew which sometimes served food or drink in the state, railroad was not "doing business" within the state and could not be served there—Law v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 79 A 2d 252, 367 Pa. 170.

Alien corporation

The rule stated in the text has been applied in an action against an alien railroad corporation.—Maxfield v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Minn., 70 F.2d 982, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 140, 293 U.S. 610, 79 L.Ed. 700, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct 212, 293 U.S. 632, 79 L.Ed. 717.

6. U S—Goldstein v. Chicago, R. I & P R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 93 F.Supp. 671.
Mo—State ex rel. Ferrocarriles Nacionales De Mexico v. Rutledge, 56 S.W.2d 28, 331 Mo. 1015, 85 A. L R. 1375, certiorari denied Ferrocarriles Nacionales De Mexico v. Rutledge, 53 S Ct. 689, 289 U.S 746, 77 L.Ed 1492.
N.Y.—Cohen v. Gulf, M. & O. R. Co., 95 N.Y.S.2d 633—Worthy v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 79 N Y.S.2d 588, affirmed 96 N.Y S.2d 489, 276 App. Div. 1068.
51 C.J. p 442 note 79.

In county

(1) Solicitation of business, to-road company as to render it liable to suit within the state, nor is the sale of tickets by another or connecting railroad company or its agent for transportation over the lines of the foreign company,[7] or the maintenance by the foreign company, in the state, of a stock transfer agent,[8] or a financial office for the payment of interest on bonds of the company,[9] or a bank account from which disbursements are made by checks drawn outside the state,[10] or the ownership by the foreign company of a controlling interest in the stock of a domestic railroad company operating within the state;[11] and the fact that a subsidiary company does business within the state or in a county in the state does not of itself constitute doing business by the parent company.[12] The maintenance of an office in a state to accomplish matters which in themselves do not constitute doing business in the state does not render a foreign railroad company subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of that state.[13]

A foreign railroad company is not doing business, and is not present, in a state for jurisdictional purposes merely because an officer or officers of such company reside or are present in the state[14] or because meetings of its board of directors are customarily held in the state.[15]

Various other activities of a foreign company have been held not to be the doing of business in the state for jurisdictional purposes.[16]

§ 26. Process

a. In general
b Service in general
c On whom service may be made
d. Return and proof of service

a. In General

Generally speaking, the general rules as to process in civil actions and those applicable in actions against corporations apply in actions against railroad companies, except as modified or superseded by special statutory provisions.

Except as modified or superseded by special statute, the general rules relating to process in civil actions, stated in Process § 1 et seq, and those applicable in actions against corporations considered in Corporations §§ 1305–1322, 1937–1949, are applicable to actions against railroad companies.[17] Requirements of law as to process in such an action must be duly complied with,[18] and, in the absence of such compliance, a motion to quash the serv-gether with certain other incidental activities, did not show that foreign corporation was doing business in particular county—Law v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co., 71 Pa Dist & Co 150

(2) Where a company has no line of railroad within a county, the employment by it of an agent who merely solicits freight and passenger business, and who does not make contracts, sell tickets, or issue bills of lading, does not constitute doing business within the county—Trumble Gas Trap Co v Chicago, etc, R Co, 239 P. 668, 115 Okl 18

7. U S.—General Inv Co v Lake Shore, etc., R. Co, Ohio, 43 S Ct 106, 260 U.S 261, 67 L Ed. 244—General Inv Co. v. Lake Shore, etc, R. Co, Ohio, 250 F. 160, 162 C C A 296
Pa—Law v Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 71 Pa Dist & Co 150.
14a C J p 1381 note 51—51 C J. p 442 note 80.

8. U S—Fowble v. Chesapeake, etc, R Co., D C N.Y, 16 F 2d 504
51 C.J. p 442 note 81.

9. N.Y.—Worthy v. Louisville & N R. Co., 79 N.Y S. 588, affirmed 96 N.Y S 2d 489, 276 App Div. 1068.

10. U S—Fowble v Chesapeake, etc, R Co., D.C N Y, 16 F.2d 504

11. U S.—Peterson v Chicago, etc, R. Co, Tex, 27 S.Ct. 513, 205 U S 364, 51 L Ed. 841.
51 C J. p 442 note 83.

12. Tex—Atchison, etc, R Co v Stevens, 206 S W 921, 109 Tex 262
51 C J. p 442 note 84.

13. U S—Fowble v Chesapeake, etc, R Co, D C N Y, 16 F 2d 504
Direction of operations outside state
The maintenance of an office in a state, the activities of which are confined to the direction of the operation of a railroad outside the state, does not necessarily constitute doing business in the state for the purpose of jurisdiction of an action for a tort committed outside the state—Atchison, etc, R Co v Weeks, Tex, 254 F 513, 166 C C A 71, certiorari denied Weeks v. Atchison, etc., R Co, 39 S Ct. 259, 249 U.S. 602, 63 L.Ed. 797.

14. N Y.—Geller v. Macon, D & S R. Co, 75 N Y S 2d 818, 190 Misc 903—Garson v. Richmond, F. & P R. R, 82 N Y S 637.
Utah—Wabash R. Co v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist in and for Salt Lake County, 167 P 2d 973, 109 Utah 526.

15. N Y.—Garson v Richmond, F. & P. R. R, 82 N Y S 2d 637.

16. Particular activities
(1) Provisions in mortgage trust indenture covering property outside state and bond issue executed by foreign railroad corporation for payment of bonds and coupons in state at office of trust company which was one of trustees, and fact that payments were made at office of such trustee, did not constitute doing business within state bringing corporation within jurisdiction of state court—Geller v Macon, D & S R Co, 75 N.Y S 2d 818, 190 Misc 903

(2) Foreign railroad corporation was not doing business in state, where officers visited state to consult with local lawyers and worked out plan to extend maturity of corporate bonds, and office in state designated as office of company on letterheads used in correspondence with bondholders and others concerning extension plan, was not real office of corporation, but was nothing more than law office of lawyers who consulted with corporation officers, and all activities of corporation in state were connected solely with extension plan—Geller v. Macon, D. & S R Co, supra.

(3) Mere fact that defendant railroad company's representative in state made inquiry as to nature and extent of plaintiff's claim did not constitute doing business in state—Cohen v. Gulf, M & O R Co, 95 N Y S 2d 638.

17. Okl—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl 531
51 C.J. p 442 note 90–p 446 note 75.

18. Okl—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Hill, supra.

ice of summons should be granted.[19] It has been held that, where the complaint has properly been amended by correcting a misnomer with respect to defendant company and an alias summons giving the correct name, with a copy of the amended complaint, has been duly served, a motion to quash service of the original summons may be properly denied,[20] and the view has been taken that defendant company may waive defects in process with respect to a misnomer of defendant by filing a demurrer and answer after a motion to quash the service of summons has been denied.[21]

b. Service in General

A mode of service of process on a railroad company which is prescribed by statute is exclusive and service in any other manner is not sufficient.

When the mode of service of process on a railroad company is prescribed by statute, such mode is exclusive and service in any other manner is insufficient,[22] and, in the absence of due compliance with statutory requirements in this respect, a motion to quash service should be granted.[23]

Service by publication. Under a statute authorizing a service of process by publication where no officer or agent of the company is found within the county in which the action is brought, such service is proper, even though the action might properly have been commenced in another county where personal service on an officer or agent of the company could have been had.[24]

c. On Whom Service May Be Made

(1) In general
(2) Action against domestic company in general
(3) Action against foreign company in general
(4) Effect of receivership
(5) Effect of sale or lease of railroad

(1) In General

Generally the determination as to what officer, agent, or employee of a railroad company may be served with process in an action against it depends on the terms of the governing statute, duly construed, and there should be due compliance with such statute in this respect.

The broad general rule has been announced in an action against a railroad company that, apart from statutory regulation, service of process on a corporation is sufficient if made on a person on whom it may fairly be presumed that the duty rests by virtue of his official position, or of his employment, to communicate the fact of service to the governing power of the corporation,[25] but that the agent served must either represent the company in some general capacity or have such connection with the business out of which the cause of action arose as to make him the company's representative with respect to that business.[26] Some statutes designating the persons who may be served in actions against railroad companies have been construed liberally.[27] Statutes sometimes require a railroad company to appoint an agent in each county through or into which its line runs or in which it does business on whom process may be served,[28] and designate certain agents or employees of the company on whom process may be served if the company fails to appoint an agent on whom service may be made.[29] Some statutes which designate officers, agents, or employees who may be served divide them into classes with respect to the order in which an attempt to serve should be made[30] and require that an attempt to serve those of the primary or earlier class shall be made before resorting to service on 19. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co., supra—Kansas, O. & G. Ry Co v. Martin, 51 P.2d 577, 175 Okl 173.

20. Cal.—Haverstick v. Southern Pac. Co., 87 P.2d 146, 1 Cal App 2d 605.

21. Cal.—Haverstick v. Southern Pac Co., supra.

22. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl. 531—Kansas, O & G. Ry. Co v. Martin, 51 P.2d 577, 175 Okl. 173.

51 C.J. p 442 note 90.

Notice to attorneys

Where service of citation was properly made on an agent of defendant company, the view was taken that, under the circumstances involved, no duty rested on such agent or on plaintiff to see that the citation or a copy thereof was delivered to district attorneys of defendant.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co of Texas v. McWilliams, Tex.Civ.App., 61 S.W.2d 598, error dismissed.

23. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl. 531—Kansas, O & G. Ry. Co. v. Martin, 51 P.2d 577, 175 Okl 173.

24. Ill.—Nelson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 80 N.E. 109, 225 Ill. 197, 116 Am.S.R. 133, 8 L.R.A.,N.S., 1186.

25. Md.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Eichberg, 68 A. 690, 107 Md. 363, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 389.

Who may be served in actions against corporations generally see Corporations §§ 1312–1316, 1941–1945.

26. N.J.—Brainard v. New York, etc., R. Co., 150 A. 681, 8 N.J.Misc. 322.

27. U.S.—Kunz v. Lowden, C.C.A. Kan., 124 F.2d 911.

28. U.S.—Kunz v. Lowden, supra

Okl.—Kelley v. Travelers Indem. Co., 184 P.2d 759, 199 Okl. 151—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl. 531.

29. U.S.—Kunz v. Lowden, C.C.A. Kan., 124 F.2d 911.

Okl.—Midland Val. R. Co. v. Pettie, 162 P.2d 548, 196 Okl. 52.

Service held not sufficient

Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Horath, 118 P.2d 660, 189 Okl. 555.

30. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl. 531—St. Louis & G. F. Ry. Co. v. Reed, 158 P. 399, 59 Okl. 95.

those of a later class.[31] Under a statute which provides for service on particular agents or classes of agents, service on any other agent of the company is not sufficient.[32]

Under various statutory provisions the effectiveness of service in an action against a railroad company has been recognized where it is made on a station or depot agent,[33] on a passenger and freight agent,[34] on a ticket agent,[35] on a freight agent,[36] or on a local superintendent of repairs[37]

A statute providing for the service of process on any person who has control of the business of a railroad company as agent contemplates service on an agent at a fixed place of business and not merely on an agent who happens to be within the county at the time of service,[38] and, accordingly, does not authorize service on the conductor of a train passing through a county in which the company maintains no station[39]

Under a statute permitting process against a railroad company to be served on its passenger or freight agent stationed at or nearest to the county seat of the county in which the action was brought, service should be made on the agent conducting the passenger and freight business of the company at its nearest station,[40] and not on an agent whose business merely incidentally includes the sale of tickets or the quoting of freight rates.[41] Under such statute the agent served need not be stationed within the county in which the action is pending.[42]

Under a statute authorizing service on defendant company by leaving a copy at a depot or station of such company with a person in the employ of such company, service may not be made by leaving a copy with an employee at a place where defendant company does not have a depot or station.[43]

An objection that the person served was not the proper officer or agent to be served in behalf of the company may be waived by appearing generally and going to trial on the merits without reserving the objection.[44]

(2) Action against Domestic Company in General

What officer, agent, or employee of a domestic railroad company may be served with process in an action against such company depends largely on the terms of the governing statute, duly construed.

It has been laid down broadly that process in civil actions against a domestic railroad company should and may be served on such officer or agent of the company as may reasonably be expected to communicate the fact of service to the governing body of the company.[45] The officers or agents on whom service may or must be made have frequently been designated by statute.[46] Under some statutes the view has been taken that service on an officer of a domestic corporation in a particular county is not effective where at the time of service such officer is not in the county for the purpose of transacting business for such company,[47] notwithstanding he is a resident of such county.[48]

31. N Y—Vlasak v. Delaware, L & W. R. Co, 47 N Y.S 2d 13.
Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry Co. v. Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl 531—St Louis, etc, R Co. v Reed, 158 P 399, 59 Okl. 95.

32. Mich—Detroit v. Wabash, etc, R Co, 30 N.W. 321, 68 Mich 712.
51 C J. p 443 note 7.

"Any station agent or ticket agent"
A statute authorizing service on any station agent or ticket agent at any station along the line, or at the end, of the railroad, did not authorize service on a "commercial agent" who presumably might have duties at any point, or number of points, or away from the road entirely—Detroit v. Wabash, etc, R. Co, supra.

33. W.Va.—Douglass v. Kanawha, etc., R. Co, 28 S.E. 705, 44 W.Va 267.
Wis.—State ex rel. Fontaine v. Sullivan, 22 N W 2d 535, 248 Wis. 441.

Particular statute
Under a statute authorizing service, under some circumstances, on an agent to sell tickets or a station keeper, it has been held that, where a depot and the residence of the station agent were in one county and part of the station platform was in another county, service on the agent in the latter county was sufficient to confer jurisdiction—St. Louis, etc, R. Co. v. Mobley, 174 P 510, 70 Okl 297

34. W Va—Harrow v Ohio River R Co, 18 S E. 926, 38 W Va 711.

35. U S—Kunz v Lowden, C C A. Kan, 124 F 2d 911.
Ohio—State v. Standard Oil Co., 15 Ohio Cir.Ct,N S., 212.

36. Ohio.—State v. Standard Oil Co, supra
Okl—Midland Val R. Co. v. Pettie, 162 P.2d 543, 196 Okl. 52.
51 C.J. p 443 note 1.

37. Section foreman
Under a statute providing for service on a local superintendent of repairs, service on a section foreman was sufficient—St. Louis, etc, R Co. v De Ford, 16 P. 442, 38 Kan 299.

38. Ark—St Louis-San Francisco R. Co v Soldmon, 256 S.W. 862, 161 Ark. 552

39. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco R Co. v. Solomon, supra

40. Ky—Louisville, etc, R Co. v. Commonwealth, 46 S W. 207, 104 Ky. 35, 20 Ky.L 371

41. Ky—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. Commonwealth, supra.

42. Ky.—Nashville, etc, R Co v. Mattingly, 40 S.W 673, 19 Ky.L. 373—Nashville, etc, R. Co. v. Carrico, 26 S W. 177, 95 Ky. 489, 16 Ky.L 66.

43. Okl—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. Groves, 54 P. 484, 7 Okl. 315.

44. Ark—St Louis-San Francisco R. Co v. Solomon, 256 S.W. 862, 161 Ark. 552

45. Mo—State v. Myers, 104 S.W. 1146, 126 Mo App. 544

46. U S.—Collins v. Erie R. Co, D. C N Y, 6 F.Supp. 562.
Ill—Maguire v. Peoria & Pekin Union R. Co., 264 Ill App. 333.
51 C.J. p 443 notes 95–13.

47. Ill—Maguire v. Peoria & Pekin Union R Co, 264 Ill.App. 333.

48. Ill—Maguire v. Peoria & Pekin Union R. Co, supra.

The view has been taken that a statute providing for service of process by serving an agent of the company should be liberally construed,[49] and that it does not require that service should be made on one designated by the company by the title "agent,"[50] but that it is sufficiently complied with by service on any agent in charge of an office or the business of the company at the time of service.[51]

It has been held or recognized, under various statutes, that it is sufficient to serve process on a station or depot agent[52] or on a regular ticket agent,[53] and that, under a statute authorizing service on any agent, it is permissible to serve process on an agent maintaining an office for the solicitation of freight business.[54]

A statute permitting but not requiring service to be made on a particular agent of the company does not prevent valid service on any other agent permitted by law to be served on behalf of the company;[55] but where a statute requires service to be made on a particular agent or an agent of a particular character, service on any other agent of the company is of no avail.[56]

A "managing agent," within the meaning of a statute authorizing service on such an agent, is an agent who has charge and control of the business activities of the company or of some part thereof and who is vested with powers requiring the exercise of judgment and discretion.[57] It has been held that such a statute does not authorize service on an ordinary freight agent in charge of a station who performs his duties under the supervision of a superintendent,[58] a subordinate agent for the solicitation of freight and passenger business,[59] or an agent in charge of a consolidated ticket office operated by a railroad association, who is not in the employ of defendant company.[60]

The term "clerk," as used in a statute authorizing service on a clerk to the corporation, has been construed to mean some general officer of the corporation,[61] and as not authorizing service on a person who holds a mere clerical position with the corporation.[62]

Under a statute permitting service on a railroad company by leaving a copy at any "business office" of the company with the person in charge thereof, service on the person in charge of an office where any business affairs of the company are conducted is sufficient,[63] and it need not be an office whose business is transacted directly with the public;[64] but a mere shelter for an employee, as distinguished from a place where his duties are performed, is not a business office within the meaning of such a statute.[65]

Agent of another company. An agent of another railroad company who sells tickets or issues bills of lading for transportation or carriage over several lines, including that of defendant company, is not thereby made agent of defendant company so that service of process against it can be made on him;[66] but the mere fact that an agent of defendant company is also agent for other companies does not disqualify him to be served in its behalf.[67] However, service on an agent as representative of one company cannot avail as service on another company represented by him.[68]

(3) Action against Foreign Company in General

What officer, agent, or employee of a foreign railroad company may be served with process in an action against such company depends largely on the terms of the governing statute, duly construed.

Under a statute permitting service of process, in 49. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Ellis, 87 S.E. 815, 17 Ga.App. 536.

50. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Ellis, supra.

51. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Ellis, supra.

52. Wis.—Ruthe v. Green Bay, etc., R. Co., 37 Wis. 344.
51 C.J. p 443 note 99.

53. Ohio.—Cleveland, C., C. & I. R. Co. v. McLean, 1 Ohio Cir.Ct. 112, 1 Ohio Cir.Dec. 67.

54. Mich.—Amyot v. Lamb, 190 N. W. 741, 221 Mich. 256.

55. Ind.—Jeffersonville, etc., R. Co. v. Dunlap, 29 Ind. 426.
Mo.—State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 51 Mo. 532.

56. Minn.—Hatinen v. Payne, 185 N. W. 386, 150 Minn. 344.
51 C.J. p 443 note 7.
Invalidity not cured
Where service was made on an agent not designated by the statute, the fact that the person served sent the summons and complaint to some one in authority over him did not cure the ineffective service.—Collins v. Erie R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 562.

57. Minn.—Hatinen v. Payne, 185 N. W. 386, 150 Minn. 344.

58. U.S.—Collins v. Erie R. Co., D.C. N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 562.

59. Minn.—Hatinen v. Payne, 185 N.W. 386, 150 Minn. 344.

60. U.S.—Collins v. Erie R. Co., D. C.N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 562.

61. N.Y.—Baker v. New York Cent. R. Co., 16 N.Y.S.2d 78, 258 App.Div. 854.

62. N.Y.—Baker v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

63. Mo.—State v. Myers, 104 S.W. 1146, 126 Mo.App. 544.

64. Mo.—State v. Myers, supra.
51 C.J. p 443 note 12.

65. Mo.—State v. Myers, supra.
51 C.J. p 443 note 13.

66. Ill.—Bristow v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 184 Ill.App. 305.
51 C.J. p 444 note 18.

67. Mich.—Amyot v. Lamb, 190 N. W. 741, 221 Mich. 256.
51 C.J. p 444 note 19.

68. Ohio.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Copenhaver, 31 Ohio Cir.Ct. 515, 12 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 69.

actions against a foreign railroad company, to be made on any agent of the company, or in the absence of statute requiring service on particular agents or agents of a particular character, it has been said that service may be made on any agent of the company, as long as he is to some extent its representative,[69] or on an agent whose character and rank are such as to afford reasonable assurance that he will inform his company that process has been served on him.[70] These rules are subject, however, to the qualification that the agent served must be one who represents the company with respect to business which it does within the state where the action was commenced.[71] It has been stated broadly, in a case in which service in an action against a foreign railroad company was involved, that an officer of a foreign corporation, while casually in the state, is not the representative of the corporation there.[72] The view has been expressed that there is no presumption of agency for the purpose of receiving process for a foreign railroad company.[73]

Under various statutory provisions it has been held or recognized that process is properly served within the state on the superintendent of the company,[74] its chief clerk,[75] a local ticket agent[76] or other agent who sells tickets or issues bills of lading,[77] an assistant cashier in a freight office of the company,[78] or a conductor on one of its trains running to or from a point within the state,[79] even though, according to some authorities, the train is being operated over the lines of a domestic railroad company under an agreement providing that the train crews, while in the state, shall be employees of the domestic company.[80] The propriety of service on the agent duly designated by defendant company as the person on whom process may be served has been recognized.[81]

While it has been held or recognized in some cases that one employed by a foreign railroad company merely as a solicitor of freight and passenger business to be done outside the state, and having no power to sell any ticket or make any contract for the company, is an agent who may properly be served with process,[82] the view usually taken is that he is not such an agent of the company that service on him will be binding on it,[83] except, according to some authorities, when the company is doing business within the state.[84]

Some statutes designating who may be served with process in actions against corporations, without specifically referring to foreign or domestic corporations, have been regarded as applicable to foreign railroad corporations.[85] The fact that defendant corporation does not have any trackage within the state does not necessarily affect the question as to

69. Wash.—Sunada v. Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co., 203 P. 64, 118 Wash. 241.
Who may be served in actions against foreign corporations generally see Corporations §§ 1941–1945.

70. Ga.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Meredith, 21 S.E.2d 101, 104 Ga. 106.
Md.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Eichberg, 68 A. 690, 107 Md. 363, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 389.

71. U.S.—Peterson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Tex., 27 S.Ct. 513, 205 U.S. 364, 51 L.Ed. 841
51 C.J. p. 444 note 23

72. Minn.—W. J. Armstrong Co. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 151 N.W. 917, 129 Minn. 104, L.R.A.1916E 232, Ann.Cas.1916E 335

73. Tex.—Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 157 S.W. 745, 106 Tex. 74.

74. Mich.—Sherrill v. Canada Grand Trunk R. Co., 126 N.W. 830, 161 Mich. 495.

75. Ga.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell, 64 S.E. 1134, 6 Ga.App. 390.
Ill.—O'Donoghue v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 181 Ill.App. 286.

76. Mich.—Sherrill v. Canada Grand Trunk R. Co., 126 N.W. 830, 161 Mich. 495
51 C.J. p. 444 note 27.

Agent not in charge of all of company's business
Service was sufficient even though the ticket agent was not in charge of all the company's business in the particular locality.—Seaboard Air-Line R. Co. v. Browder, 87 S.E. 6, 144 Ga. 322.

77. U.S.—Woodcock v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 107 F. 767.
51 C.J. p. 444 note 28

78. Wash.—Sunada v. Oregon-Washington, R., etc., Co., 203 P. 64, 118 Wash. 241.

79. Mich.—Sherrill v. Canada Grand Trunk R. Co., 126 N.W. 830, 161 Mich. 495
Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sizemore, 116 S.W. 403, 53 Tex.Civ.A. 491.

80. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sizemore, supra

81. Ky.—Southern R. Co. v. Avey, 191 S.W. 460, 173 Ky. 598

82. Ga.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Meredith, 21 S.E.2d 101, 104 Ga. 106
51 C.J. p. 444 note 32.

83. U.S.—Livingston v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., D.C.Okl., 18 F.Supp. 863
14a C.J. p. 1413 note 90, 51 C.J. p. 444 note 33
Whether soliciting agent of foreign corporation may be served generally see Corporations § 1942 e.

84. U.S.—Ketch v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C.Tenn., 51 F.Supp. 243
Ill.—American Hide, etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 142 N.E. 200, 310 Ill. 524
Whether solicitation of business constitutes doing business in state for jurisdictional purposes generally see supra § 25 c (3).

What constitutes doing business
Foreign railroad company was doing business within the rule where it was jointly operating a railroad in the state.—Ketch v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C.Tenn., 51 F. Supp. 243.

Cause of action arising out of state
Effectiveness of service on soliciting agent of foreign corporation doing business in the state was not affected by the fact that the cause of action arose outside the state.—Ketch v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

85. U.S.—Ketch v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

the validity of service of process on an agent of such company within the state.[86] Where a statute permits process to be served by leaving a copy at the depot or place of business of the company, the official character of the person with whom the process is left is not material to the validity of the service.[87] The mere fact that one is known and advertised as "agent" of a foreign railroad company does not authorize service to be made on him if he is not in fact its agent.[88] Where service is made on an agent or person not competent to be served, the mere fact that he transmits the process to a general officer of the company does not create an agency so as to render the service valid.[89]

Statutory designation of particular officer, agent, or employee or one of particular character. Generally speaking, a state has authority to prescribe by statute the officers or agents of a foreign railroad company doing business within the state on whom service of process may be made,[90] and in a number of jurisdictions statutes have been enacted permitting or requiring service to be made on particular agents or agents of a particular character.[91] It is not essential to the validity of service that the company shall have expressly authorized any officers or agents so designated to receive service in its behalf.[92] When an officer or agent on whom process must be served is designated by statute, the court does not obtain jurisdiction under an attempted service on any other person,[93] notwithstanding the fact that the process server receives information from persons in an office of defendant company that the person served is the proper person on whom to make service,[94] that the person who is served assures the process server that the matter will be attended to,[95] that defendant company actually receives information as to the attempted service[96] or receives the summons,[97] or that defendant company had actually appeared in other actions after a like service[98]

Under a statute permitting service on any cashier of the company, service may be made on an assistant cashier in a freight office of the company.[99]

A general passenger agent may properly be served with process under a statute providing for service on a chief agent of the company.[1]

The term "managing agent," as used in a statute authorizing service on such an agent of a foreign company, has been variously construed to mean one who is vested with some general powers involving the exercise of independent judgment or discretion,[2] or as one who, as agent of some sort of the foreign company, manages any business which such company transacts at an office which it maintains in the state.[3]

An agent for the solicitation of traffic over the line of a foreign company outside the state,[4] a general agent for the conduct of the freight and

86. Ohio—Railway Supply & Manufacturing Co v. Gulf, M. & O R Co, Com.Pl, 8 Ohio Supp 90

87. N.J.—Smallbein v. Erie R. Co., 76 A. 1011, 79 N.J.Law 593—Hygea Brewing Co. v. Erie R Co., 69 A. 981, 76 N J.Law 261.

88. Wash.—Arrow Lumber, etc., Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 102 P. 650, 53 Wash. 629

89. N.J.—Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen, 69 A. 484, 76 N.J.Law 119.

90. Tex.—El Paso, etc., Co. v. Chisholm, Civ.App., 180 S W. 156.

91. U S.—Diamond v New York, S & W. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp 605.
51 C.J. p 445 notes 40–46.

92. Tex.—El Paso, etc, Co. v. Chisholm, Civ.App., 180 S.W. 156.

93. Minn—Aaltio v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co, 267 N.W. 384, 197 Minn. 461—Bernier v. Illinois Cent R. Co., 223 N.W. 674, 176 Minn. 415.
N.Y.—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 47 N.Y.S.2d 13.

94. N.Y.—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

95. N.Y—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

96. N.Y.—Vlasak v Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra

97. N.Y.—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co, supra.

98. N Y.—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

99. Wash—Sunada v. Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co, 203 P. 64, 118 Wash. 241.

1. Ky—Chesapeake, etc., R Co. v. Cowherd, 27 S.W. 990, 96 Ky. 113, 16 Ky.L. 373.

2. U.S.—Diamond v. New York, S & W R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 605.
N.Y—Yeckes-Eichenbaum, Inc., 49 N.E 2d 517, 290 N.Y. 437, motion denied 50 N.E.2d 1022, 291 N.Y. 642.

Service upheld
N.Y—Wajtman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 83 N.Y.S 2d 493, 274 App.Div. 942, affirmed 85 N.E.2d 57, 298 N. Y. 909.

3. Ohio—Railway Supply & Manufacturing Co. v. Gulf, M. & O. R Co., Com.Pl, 8 Ohio Supp. 90.

4. Ohio.—Price v. Davis, 153 N.E. 529, 22 Ohio App. 388.

Particular agent
(1) Under the statute in question service may be made on an agent in charge of an office for the solicitation of business, the sale of tickets, and the settlement of freight claims —Price v. Davis, 153 N.E. 529, 22 Ohio App. 388.

(2) An agent in charge of an office for the solicitation of traffic over the line of defendant company outside the state, who exercised discretionary powers as to claims presented, could be served with summons, under the statute in question, even though bills of lading were not issued, and tickets were not sold, at such office.—American Laundry Machinery Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 177 N.E. 533, 39 Ohio App. 430.

(3) An agent for the solicitation in the state of freight for shipment over the line of defendant company outside the state, known as a district freight agent, was a managing agent on whom service could be made, notwithstanding he did not issue bills of lading for freight shipped.—Railway Supply & Manufacturing Co. v. Gulf, M. & O. R. Co., Com.Pl., 8 Ohio Supp. 90.

passenger business,[5] a general freight agent who has subordinates and whose duties include the handling of freight claims and soliciting traffic, although he has no power to extend credit, collect or disburse money, or employ, control, or discharge other agents,[6] the general agent of the passenger department,[7] or a local station agent doing business for defendant company within the state[8] has been regarded as a managing agent for the purpose of service under such a statute, but the view has been taken that such a statute does not authorize service on a service supervisor whose functions are merely clerical and of a subordinate nature,[9] or on the acting agent of a consolidated ticket office operated by a railroad association, who was not employed by defendant corporation.[10] Under some statutes it is essential to the effectiveness of service on a managing agent that a diligent effort should first have been made to effect service on certain other officers designated by the statute.[11]

A statute permitting process to be served on "any officer, director, agent, clerk or engineer" of the company requires service to be made on some officer having general or supervisory authority,[12] or, as sometimes stated, on one who has such connection either with the corporation or with the business out of which the alleged cause of action arose that he should be considered the representative of the corporation for the purpose of service,[13] and the courts have regarded such rules as applicable under amendments to such statute adding other classes of employees on whom service may be made.[14] Under such a statute service cannot properly be made on a mere subordinate agent or clerk having no general charge of its corporate concerns or any such connection with the business out of which the cause of action arose as fairly to support an inference that he had authority to represent the company for the purpose of the service of process;[15] nor can service be made under such statute on a locomotive engineer[16] or on the engineer of a steamboat operated by defendant railroad company.[17]

Some statutes have authorized service on a station agent, or, if there is no station or agent, on the conductor of any train.[18] It has been held that a statute authorizing service on a regular freight agent of defendant company authorizes service on an agent for the solicitation of freight business in the state, for shipment over the lines of such company outside the state,[19] notwithstanding such agent does not issue bills of lading.[20] It has been held that, under a statute authorizing service on a ticket or freight agent within the county in which action is brought, service on a freight agent in a county other than that in which action is brought does not confer jurisdiction.[21]

Service on another company or its agent. Service on another railroad company, or its agent, including a company operating a connecting road, does not of itself constitute service on a foreign company.[22] Accordingly, the agent of another or

5. Managing or business agent under statute
U.S.—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Roller, C.C.A.Cal., 100 F. 738.
Both a freight agent and a passenger agent were covered by the term "managing agent" as used in the statute.—Fisher v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 235.

6. N.Y.—Hewitt v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 207 N.Y.S. 797, 124 Misc. 186, affirmed 207 N.Y.S. 851, 212 App. Div. 815.

7. N.Y.—Tuchband v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 22 N.E. 360, 115 N.Y. 437.

8. N.D.—Brown v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 95 N.W. 153, 12 N.D. 61, 102 Am.S.R. 564.

9. N.Y.—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 47 N.Y.S.2d 13.

10. U.S.—Diamond v. New York, S. & W. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 18 F.Supp. 605.

11. N.Y.—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 47 N.Y.S.2d 13.
Plaintiff was not excused from exercising due diligence in attempting to effect service on others designated, as required by statute, by the fact that, on inquiring at an office of defendant company, the process server was informed that the person who was served and who was alleged to be a managing agent was the proper person on whom to make service.—Vlasak v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

12. N.J.—Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen, 69 A. 484, 76 N.J.Law 119.—Brainard v. New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 150 A. 681, 8 N.J.Misc. 322.

13. N.J.—Carroll v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co., 46 A. 708, 65 N.J.Law 124.

14. N.J.—Brainard v. New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 150 A. 681, 8 N.J.Misc. 322.
Freight agent
Evidence did not establish that milk collector of foreign railroad corporation was freight agent on whom process could be served, within meaning of amendment.—Brainard v. New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., supra.

15. N.J.—Hygea Brewing Co. v. Erie R. Co., 69 A. 981, 76 N.J.Law 261.—Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen, 69 A. 484, 76 N.J.Law 119.

16. In New Jersey
(1) It has been stated that the word "engineer" as used in the statute did not include a locomotive engineer.—Erie R. Co. v. Van Allen, supra.
(2) In an earlier federal case in which the same New Jersey statute was involved, a contrary view was taken.—De Vere v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., C.C.N.J., 60 F. 886.

17. N.J.—Carroll v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. Co., 46 A. 708, 65 N.J.Law 124.

18. U.S.—Denver, R. G. R. Co. v. Wagner, Colo., 167 F. 75, 92 C.C.A. 527.

19. Ohio.—Railway Supply & Manufacturing Co. v. Gulf, M. & O. R. Co., Com.Pl., 8 Ohio Supp. 90.

20. Ohio.—Railway Supply & Manufacturing Co. v. Gulf, M. & O. R. Co., supra.

21. Minn.—Aaltio v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 267 N.W. 384, 197 Minn. 461.

22. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v.

connecting line of railroad is not an agent of a foreign railroad company so that service of process can legally be made on him as such, merely because he sells tickets covering transportation over the line of the foreign railroad company[23] or solicits freight and passenger business for transportation over the line of the foreign company;[24] nor is the railroad company operating such other or connecting line an agent of the foreign company by reason of such sale of tickets[25] or the issuance of through bills of lading.[26] Service on a mere subsidiary company is not service on the foreign company by which it is controlled[27] The fact that an agent of a foreign railroad company is also agent of another or other railroad companies does not prevent him from being served in behalf of the former.[28] Under a statute permitting service on any agent who makes contracts for the transportation of passengers or property over the railroad of a foreign company, process may be served on an agent of any railroad company who makes such contracts and need not be served on an agent of defendant company[29] The agent of a railroad company over the tracks of which defendant foreign company operates its trains under agreement between the two companies has been regarded as the agent of defendant company for the purpose of service of process, where such agent performs some service for defendant.[30]

(4) Effect of Receivership

While, according to some authorities, in an action against a railroad company for which a receiver has been appointed, service may be made on any person who, in the absence of the receivership, might properly be served, the view has also been taken that service on one who has been an agent of the company is not service on the company, on the ground that agents of the company cease to be such and become agents of the receiver on his appointment.

In an action against a railroad company for which a receiver has been appointed, service is properly made, according to some authorities, on any person who in the absence of the receivership would be a proper person to be served in behalf of the company[31] Service on one aiding in the operation of the road as agent, together with service on an officer of such company, has been regarded as sufficient, notwithstanding such road is being operated by the receiver of another railroad company under a lease.[32] The view has been taken, however, that service on one who had been an agent of the railroad company prior to the receivership is not service on the company, on the ground that agents of the company cease to be such and become agents of the receiver on his appointment[33] It has been held that service on an officer of a foreign company, after the appointment of receivers, in an action by a nonresident against such company, based on a cause of action arising outside the state, is not effective, on the ground that the officer does not represent defendant company in such case.[34] The Chestnut, 72 S.W 351, 115 Ky. 43, 24 Ky L Rep. 1846.

51 C J. p 445 note 48.

Effect of Carmack amendment

(1) The view has been taken that the federal statute, known as the Carmack amendment, which made the initial carrier of property liable for the entire damage or loss whether occurring on its own line or on the line of a connecting carrier did not make the agent of the connecting or delivering railroad carrier an agent of the initial carrier for the purpose of service of process.
Iowa.—Dye Produce Co. v Davis, 209 N.W 744, 202 Iowa 1008.
Ky.—Basham's Adm'r v. Missouri Pac R. Co., 258 S W. 690, 201 Ky. 807.

(2) Liability of initial carrier under Carmack amendment generally see Carriers § 406 a.

23. U S.—General Inv Co. v. Lake Shore, etc., R Co., Ohio, 250 F. 160, 162 C.C.A. 296.
51 C J. p 445 note 48.

24. Wash.—Arrow Lumber, etc., Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 102 P. 650, 53 Wash. 629.

25. Wash.—Royce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 156 P. 16, 90 Wash 378
51 C J. p 445 note 49.

26. Wash.—Royce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

27. Wash.—Royce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

In Texas

(1) Some cases have recognized the effectiveness with respect to a foreign company of service on a company subsidiary to such foreign company or on the agent of such subsidiary company.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Casselberry, Tex Civ.App., 139 S W 1161—51 C.J. p 446 note 63.

(2) In a case in the state supreme court, however, which was actually decided on another point, the sufficiency of the service was questioned.—St. Louis, etc., R Co. v. Hale, 206 S.W. 75, 109 Tex 251.

28. U S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Novak, Wash., 61 F. 573, 9 C.C.A. 629, error dismissed 17 S.Ct. 1001, 41 L.Ed. 1184.
Ga.—Seaboard Air Line R Co. v. Browder, 87 S.E. 6, 144 Ga. 322.
51 C.J. p 445 note 50.

29. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Demere, Civ.App., 145 S.W. 623.

30. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Steele, 80 S.W.2d 623, 190 Ark 662.

31. Mich.—Innest v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 142 N.W. 567, 176 Mich. 398, 47 L.R.A.,N.S., 179, Ann. Cas.1915B 594.
51 C J p 445 note 54
Receivers of railroad companies generally see infra §§ 376–389.

32. Ga.—Georgia Southern R. Co. v. Bigelow, 68 Ga. 219.

33. N.C.—Harper v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 190 S.E. 750, 211 N. C. 398.
51 C J. p 445 note 55.

Evidence

With respect to whether there had been due service on a railroad company for which a receiver had been appointed, the evidence was regarded as insufficient to show that one served with summons was agent of such company when served.—Sellers v. Carolina R. Co., 170 S.E. 632, 205 N.C. 149.

34. N.Y.—Gaboury v. Central Vermont R. Co., 165 N.E. 275, 250 N.Y. 233.

appointment of a receiver for a railroad company does not bring it within the provisions of a statute designating the persons to be served in behalf of a railroad company which has permitted its road to be used by any other person or corporation.[35]

(5) Effect of Sale or Lease of Railroad

Service on a person who has been an agent or employee of a railroad company which has sold its property to another company does not constitute service on the vendor company, where at the time of service the relationship of such agent or employee to the vendor company has ceased and he has become an agent or employee of the purchasing company, and an agent of a lessee railroad company is not necessarily an agent of the lessor company for the purpose of service of process.

Where a railroad company has sold its property to another company and its agents and employees have become agents and employees of the latter, service of process on such an agent or employee is not service on the vendor company.[36] An agent of a lessee railroad company is not an agent of the lessor company for the purpose of service of process;[37] and a statute imposing on a railroad company, which has leased its road, liability for claims against the lessee does not authorize service to be made on such lessee in behalf of the lessor company [38]

d. Return and Proof of Service

Generally speaking, the general rules as to return of process in civil actions and rules as to return in actions against corporations apply in actions against railroad companies, in the absence of statute providing otherwise, and in such actions there must be due compliance with requirements of law as to return of process.

In the absence of statute providing otherwise, generally speaking, rules as to return of process in civil actions, stated in Process §§ 90–105, and rules as to return of process in actions against corporations generally, discussed in Corporations §§ 1321, 1948, apply in actions against railroad companies,[39] and there must be due compliance with requirements of law as to return in such actions.[40] Where a statute permits service to be made on particular officers or agents of the company or in a particular manner only in specified circumstances, a return of such service which fails to show the existence of circumstances authorizing it is insufficient,[41] but a return need not set forth other matters or circumstances not required to be shown [42]

The recitals of the return are not conclusive;[43] they may be overcome by clear and convincing proof.[44]

Officer or agent served. The return must show that the person served was an officer or agent of the company on whom service might properly be made,[45] and the return is not conclusive of the fact that the person served was in fact the agent of defendant company.[46] A return is sufficient which states that service was made on a certain conductor without stating that he was conductor of a train passing through the county,[47] or which recites service on a certain agent without giving his full name,[48] or which states that it was served on defendant company by handing a copy to the station agent at a certain station without stating that he was an agent of defendant,[49] but a return reciting service on a designated railroad company by serving a named person as "agent," without showing that he was agent for the company, has been held too indefinite to confer jurisdiction.[50] A return describing the person served as the highest officer of the company found in the county is not insufficient as failing to show that no higher officer could be found.[51] The view has been taken that, in order to show the effectiveness of service under a statute authorizing service on employees or agents of a designated type if defendant company has not appointed a person on whom process may be served, the return must negative the fact of such appointment,[52] and that,

35. Ala.—Ex parte Charles, 18 So 73, 106 Ala. 203.

36. Ga.—Pennington v Douglas, etc, R Co., 65 S E 1084, 6 Ga App 854

Sale of railroad property:
Generally see infra §§ 199–207.
As ground for forfeiture of franchise see supra § 18.

37. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co v. Suta, 123 Ill App 125.
51 C J p 446 note 62.

Lease of railroad property:
Generally see infra §§ 208–224.
As ground for forfeiture of franchise see supra § 18.

38. Ga.—Perry v Brunswick, etc., R Co, 47 S E. 172, 119 Ga. 819.
5 C J p 446 note 62.

39. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl 531.
51 C J p 446 notes 67–75.

40. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry Co v. Hill, supra—Kansas, O & G Ry Co v. Martin, 51 P 2d 577, 175 Okl. 173

41. U S.—St. Louis, etc, R Co. v. Loughmiller, D C Okl, 193 F. 689.

42. Okl.—Empire Refineries v. Atchison, etc, R Co., 217 P. 160, 91 Okl. 171.

43. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v Horath, 118 P 2d 660, 189 Okl. 555

44. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry. Co. v. Horath, supra

45. Mo.—Antonelli v. Basile, 93 Mo. App 138.
51 C.J p 446 note 69.

46. Tex.—Pecos, etc, R. Co. v. Cox, 157 S W. 745, 106 Tex. 74.

47. Ind.—Ohio, etc, R Co v. Quier, 16 Ind 440—New Albany, etc, R Co v. Powell, 13 Ind 373

48. Ind.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co v McDougall, 8 N.E 571, 108 Ind. 179

49. Mich.—Talbot v Minneapolis, etc, R. Co, 45 N W. 1113, 82 Mich 66.

50. Mich.—Price v Delano, 153 N. W 7, 187 Mich. 49

51. Ind.—Baltimore, etc, R. Co. v Miles, 112 N E 524, 184 Ind 719

52. Okl.—Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Ry Co v Hill, 99 P.2d 115, 186 Okl 531, overruling so far as in conflict Empire Refineries v. At-where service on a particular officer, agent, or employee, on whom service is authorized only if other designated officers or persons cannot be served or found, is relied on, the return or proof of service should show why one of such other officers or persons was not served[53] or that he could not be served[54]

Place of service. A recital in a return that service was made at the office and usual place of business of a railroad company in a designated city is sufficient to show that service was made at a depot or station of the company as required by statute[55]

III. REGULATION AND CONTROL IN GENERAL

§ 27. In General

Railroad companies are subject to the imposition of license fees or privilege taxes

"Regulation," as applied to railroads, embraces two ideas, control of operation and fixing compensation to be received.[56]

License fee or privilege tax. The state may impose a license fee or privilege tax on railroads[57] for doing a purely intra-state business;[58] and a railroad company subject to such a tax may be prohibited from carrying on its business until the tax has been paid.[59] Whether or not a particular company or operation of a company is within a statute or ordinance imposing such a tax depends on the intent of the law-making body as gathered from the language of the provision.[60] Where by statute railroad companies are divided into different classes, and a privilege tax imposed varying according to the classification of the roads to be made by railroad commissioners, the making of such classification is a condition precedent to the right to collect the tax,[61] and the commissioners cannot make a back classification so as to subject a railroad company to an additional privilege tax for past years for which it would not be liable under the former classification.[62] Long acquiescence by a company in a classification of it as a company within the statute is persuasive, although not conclusive, in any proceeding in which the issue is raised,[63] but a judgment of the commission classifying a railroad for purposes of the privilege taxes is conclusive as to the years in question unless an appeal is duly taken.[64] The rules governing collection of license fees and taxes generally, as discussed in Licenses §§ 52–55, are applicable.[65] In a suit by chison, etc, R. Co., 217 P. 160, 91 Okl. 171.

53. Okl.—St. Louis, etc, R. Co. v. Reed, 158 P. 399, 59 Okl 95.

54. U S—Fisher v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co, D C N Y, 1 F.Supp. 235.

Proof held sufficient

U S—Fisher v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co, supra.

55. Okl.—Shawnee-Tecumseh Tract Co. v. Henry, 236 P. 894, 110 Okl 160.

56. U S—Boston, etc, R. Co v. Hooker, Mass, 34 S.Ct. 526, 233 U. S 97, 116, 117, 58 L Ed. 868.

53 C.J. p 1179 note 91

Regulation of operation of railroads generally see infra §§ 393–399.

Regulation of rates of railroads see Carriers §§ 275–311 and §§ 580–583

57. Miss—New Orleans, M. & C. R Co. v. State, 70 So. 355, 110 Miss. 290.

Wis.—State v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 112 N.W. 515, 132 Wis. 345, followed in State v Chicago, M & St. P. Ry. Co., 112 N.W. 522, 132 Wis. 364.

Imposition of license fees or privilege taxes on carriers generally see Carriers §§ 20, 567.

58. Miss.—New Orleans, M. & C R. Co. v. State, 70 So. 355, 110 Miss. 290.

59. N.Y.—Muehlenbeck v. Babylon, etc, R. Co, 55 N Y S. 1023, 26 Misc 136.

60. Ark.—City of Ft Smith v. Midland Valley R. Co., 246 S.W. 842, 156 Ark 479.

Ill—City of Chicago v. Chicago River & Indiana R. Co, 14 N E 2d 285, 294 Ill App. 577

Tenn—Illinois Cent R Co. v. City of Memphis, 110 S.W 2d 352, 21 Tenn App 327.

Determination of legislative intent

In arriving at legislative intent, in designating railroad terminal companies liable for payment of privilege tax, court should not be entirely controlled by any narrow technical definition, but by what a terminal company has authority to do, and what it actually does—Memphis Union Station Co. v. Stratton, 186 S.W.2d 621, 182 Tenn. 323.

Held subject to tax

Tenn—Memphis Union Station Co. v. Stratton, supra—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. City of Memphis, 110 S W. 2d 352, 21 Tenn.App. 327—State v. Union Ry Co., 168 S.W. 575, 129 Tenn. 705, Ann Cas.1915D, 1240.

61. Miss.—Craig v. Gulf, Mobile & Ohio R. Co., 16 So.2d 760, 196 Miss 172—Gulf, etc., R. Co v. Adams, 86 So 144, 83 Miss. 306.

Classification of other lines

The tax commissioner's classifications of the main and branch lines of a railroad after opportunity for hearing cannot be invoked as an assessment or classification against another railroad, which acquired first railroad's lines, without further affirmative action by commissioner.—Craig v. Gulf, Mobile & Ohio R Co., 16 So. 2d 760, 196 Miss. 172.

Transfer of lines after payment

Where company which formerly owned railroad lines paid privilege taxes for year ending Dec. 1, 1940, another company which acquired such lines Sept. 1, 1940, could not be required to pay privilege tax for intervening period to Dec. 1, 1940, on same lines, where the new operator was otherwise already entitled to operate its own lines of railroad in state under licenses previously acquired—Craig v Gulf, Mobile & Ohio R Co, supra.

62. Miss—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 38 So. 348, 85 Miss. 772.

63. Tenn.—Memphis Union Station Co v Stratton, 186 S.W.2d 621, 182 Tenn. 323.

64. Miss.—New Orleans, M. & C. R Co. v. State, 70 So. 355, 110 Miss 290.

65. Wis.—State v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co, 112 N W. 515, 132 Wis. 345, followed in State v Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 112 N.W. 522, 132 Wis. 364.

10 C.J. p 62 note 4 [a], [b].

a city against a railroad company to recover a license fee or privilege tax imposed by an ordinance on a railroad company having an office in, or running cars through or in the city for the business of transporting freight or passengers, a plea averring that defendant had neither an agent nor an office in the city and had not had is properly stricken on motion as not defeating the entire cause set forth.[66]

§ 28. —— Power to Regulate

A railroad company is subject to the police power and may be regulated and controlled by public authority for the common good within constitutional limits.

A railroad company is, of course, subject to the police power,[67] and its property, being devoted to the public use, is affected with a public interest.[68] Accordingly, such a company, like every other public utility, as discussed in Public Utilities §§ 10–12, may be regulated and controlled by public authority for the common good and to the extent of the public interest,[69] but power to regulate may not be so exercised as to trammel or interfere unnecessarily with the operation of railroad properties and business.[70] Further, the regulatory power may be restricted by the character of the company or by general statute,[71] and is subject to the constitutional guaranties as to the impairment of vested rights,[72] equal protection of the laws,[73] and due process of law.[74] Constitutional provisions regulating railroads are ingrafted on every law concerning them.[75]

The regulatory power of the state extends to the performance of the railroad's public functions[76] as well as to every act incidental to such functions,[77] but not to uses of its property by the railroad which do not involve a duty to the public.[78] The state may order improvements necessary to the public safety[79] regardless of the effect of such order on the railroad's financial condition.[80] The fact that a railway company is chartered by the United States does not relieve it from regulation by state laws as far as the state's police power is concerned.[81]

Of courts. In some jurisdictions, under statutes providing therefor, the courts have power to prescribe regulations for the control of railroad companies,[82] but in the absence of such statutes no such power exists.[83]

66. Ala.—Nashville, etc, R Co v. Alabama City, 32 So. 731, 134 Ala. 414

67. Ill—Chicago, N S & M R Co v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E 177, 354 Ill 58
Tex—Texas & P Ry. Co. v. State, Civ App, 52 S W 2d 957, affirmed 78 S W 2d 580, 124 Tex. 482, certiorari denied Texas & P Ry. Co v. State of Texas, 56 S Ct 91, 296 U.S 581, 80 L Ed 410, appeal dismissed 56 S Ct. 369, 296 U S. 552, 80 L.Ed. 390.
51 C J. p 446 note 77.

68. Ohio—State v. Black Diamond Co, 119 N E. 195, 97 Ohio St. 24, L.R A.1918E 352
51 C.J p 446 note 78.
Special interest of private industry
The uses for which a railroad track is desired are not less public because the motive which dictates its location is to reach a private industry or because the proprietors of that industry contribute to the cost, with respect to state's power of regulation—Alton R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, Ill., 59 S.Ct 340, 305 U.S 548, 83 L Ed. 344.
Sovereign interest
The state, as representative of the public, has a sovereign interest in railroads—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co v. Ammons, Tex.Civ.App, 215 S. W 2d 407, refused no reversible error.

69. Ill—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E 177, 354 Ill. 58
N Y—People v. Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corp., 28 N E 2d 925, 283 N.Y 484
51 C.J. p 446 note 80.

70. U S—Atchison, T. & S F. Ry Co v. Railroad Commission of State of California, Cal., 51 S Ct 553, 283 U S 380, 75 L Ed. 1128.

71. Fla—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Coachman, 52 So. 377, 59 Fla 130, 20 Ann Cas 1047.
Inconsistent statutes
The Railroad Act and Public Utilities Act are so inconsistent that both cannot operate, and therefore, repugnant provisions of Railroad Act must yield to Public Utilities Act insofar as the acts are inconsistent, since Public Utilities Act is the later act, and as so construed both acts may operate in their respective fields—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Franklin County, 56 N.E.2d 775, 387 Ill 301.

72. U.S—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Commission, Tenn., 19 F. 679.
51 C.J. p 447 note 82.

73. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota, Minn., 10 S Ct 462, 702, 134 U.S. 418, 33 L.Ed. 970.
51 C.J. p 447 note 83.

74. U S.—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v. Minnesota, supra
51 C J. p 447 note 84

75. Ill—People v City of Chicago, 182 N E 419, 349 Ill. 304.

76. N.Y.—People v. Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corp, 28 N E 2d 925, 283 N.Y. 484

77. N Y—People v. Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corp., supra.

78. Mich—Bohn Lumber Products Co v. Michigan Public Service Commission, 26 N.W.2d 875, 317 Mich 174.

79. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v Public Service Commission, 70 S.W 2d 61, 334 Mo 1001.

80. Mo—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

81. Tex—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. State, Civ.App, 52 S.W.2d 957, affirmed 78 S.W.2d 580, 124 Tex. 482, certiorari denied Texas & P Ry. Co. v. State of Texas, 56 S Ct. 91, 296 U.S. 581, 80 L Ed. 410, appeal dismissed 56 S.Ct. 369, 296 U.S. 552, 80 L Ed. 390.

82. N.J.—In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., R. Co, 35 A. 387.
51 C.J. p 447 note 87.

83. U.S—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Territory, Wash., 12 S Ct. 283, 142 U S. 492, 35 L.Ed. 1092.
51 C.J. p 447 note 88.

§ 29. —— Regulation by Commission

The regulation of railroads may be delegated to a board or commission, and as long as such board or commission acts within the limits of its authority its orders will be sustained.

There is nothing in the federal Constitution or statutes which prevents a state from creating a commission to regulate and control railroads,[84] except that, as discussed in Commerce § 78, a state cannot authorize the regulation thereby of interstate commerce. As long as such a board or commission acts within the limits of its authority its orders will be sustained.[85] Whether, and to what extent, a particular board or commission has regulatory powers over railroads generally or over particular roads depends on the terms and language of the statutes creating and governing the commission.[86] A railroad commission has jurisdiction over such roads only as may be included within its grant of power;[87] but it has the same jurisdiction over the use by a railroad of private tracks as it has over the tracks of such railroad.[88]

§ 30. —— Enforcement of Duties

The courts have power to determine the duties which a railroad owes to the public and to enforce the performance thereof.

The courts have power to determine the duties owed by a railroad company to the public,[89] and to enforce the performance thereof;[90] and the right of the state to institute proceedings to forfeit the charter of the company or annul the corporation for failure to perform its public duties, discussed supra § 18, does not preclude it from invoking the powers of the courts to compel such performance.[91] The courts will enforce an order of the commission only where such order is reasonable and just and where refusal to comply therewith constitutes neglect on the part of the railroad company to perform a public obligation.[92] The duty sought to be enforced must ordinarily be one that is imposed on the railroad by statute.[93] The exercise of purely discretionary powers on the part of railroad companies cannot be controlled or interfered with by the courts unless manifestly abused.[94]

The performance by the railroad company of a clear legal duty may, in a proper case, be enforced by a proceeding in a court of equity.[95] A court of equity, however, is not ordinarily justified in retaining future control of a railroad and its facilities and in supervising its operation.[96]

§ 31. Federal Wartime Control

a. In general
b. Scope and extent
c. In whom vested
d. Effect on particular matters
e. Right to moneys accruing from operation
f. Termination of federal control
g. Compensation and guaranty of income

84. U.S.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, Miss., 28 S.Ct. 650, 210 U.S. 187, 52 L.Ed. 1016.
Tenn.—Pharr v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry., 208 S.W.2d 1013, 186 Tenn. 154.
Creation, nature, and powers of commissions generally see Public Utilities §§ 1-68.

85. Tenn.—Pharr v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry., 208 S.W.2d 1013, 186 Tenn. 154.
Tex.—Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Tex. v. City of Whitney, Civ.App., 222 S.W.2d 1009.

86. Cal.—Holder v. Key System, 200 P.2d 98, 88 Cal.App.2d 925.
Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 74 N.E.2d 885, 397 Ill. 406.
Minn.—Rock Island Motor Transit Co. v. Murphy Motor Freight Lines, 40 N.W.2d 896, 229 Minn. 291.
Neb.—Application of Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 41 N.W.2d 165, 152 Neb. 367.
S.C.—Piedmont & Northern Ry. Co. v. Scott, 24 S.E.2d 353, 202 S.C. 207—Darby v. Southern Ry. Co., 10 S.E.2d 465, 194 S.C. 421.

87. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 30 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862.
Ohio—Cooperative Legislative Committee of R. R. Brotherhoods v. Public Utilities Commission, 80 N.E.2d 159, 149 Ohio St. 511.
51 C.J. p. 447 note 95.
Subsidiary corporations, owned, controlled, and operated by railroads to carry on pick-up and delivery service for less than carload lots of freight, do not possess separate legal individuality from their parent railroads, with respect to jurisdiction of state railroad commission.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 77 S.W.2d 773.

88. Ohio—Morgan Run R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 128 N.E. 295, 98 Ohio St. 218.

89. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 44 So. 213, 53 Fla. 650, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 320, 12 Ann.Cas. 359.
Neb.—State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 115 N.W. 757, 81 Neb. 174, reversed on other grounds 30 S.Ct. 461, 217 U.S. 196, 54 L.Ed. 727, 18 Ann.Cas. 989.
Power of courts to prescribe regulations see supra § 28.

90. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 44 So. 213, 53 Fla. 650, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 320.
51 C.J. p. 447 note 99.
Proceedings to compel operations and furnishing facilities see infra §§ 449-452.

91. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 28 Hun 543, 3 N.Y.Civ.Proc. 11, 2 McCarty Civ. Proc. 345.

92. Iowa.—Lowden v. Iowa State Commerce Commission, 294 N.W. 749, 229 Iowa 526.

93. Iowa.—Lowden v. Iowa State Commerce Commission, supra.

94. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 42 S.E. 315, 116 Ga. 64.
51 C.J. p. 448 note 3.

95. U.S.—McCoy v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 13 F. 3.

96. Ohio—New York Cent. R. Co. v. City of Bucyrus, 136 N.E. 450, 126 Ohio St. 558, followed in Bush v. Hague, 191 N.E. 5, 128 Ohio St. 342.

a. In General

Under a statute to such effect, the president has power to take possession and control of all systems of transportation within the United States in time of war.

During the period of United States participation in World War I, congress enacted a statute giving the president power "in time of war" to take possession and assume control of systems of transportation within the boundaries of the continental United States,[97] and in pursuance thereof the president issued his proclamation declaring that he took possession and assumed control of each and every system of transportation within such boundaries, consisting of railroads engaged in general transportation, including terminals and all other equipment and appurtenances commonly used on, or operated as a part of, such rail systems of transportation.[98] By a later statute rights and liabilities under the federal control were defined and the manner of such control prescribed.[99] Subsequently, as discussed infra subdivision f of this section, the Transportation Act of 1920 was enacted, terminating federal possession and control of the railroads; hence, the many decisions construing and applying the statutes and rules governing such control would appear to be limited to the period and circumstances of federal control during and for a short time after World War I. However, the authority granted to the president to take possession and control of railroads in time of war has not been abolished, and has been exercised in a number of instances during periods in which the country was technically at war.[1] In taking over the control and operation of such railroads the United States acts in its sovereign capacity,[2] under a right in the nature of eminent domain,[3] and the statute providing therefor is not unconstitutional.[4]

By proclamation the president of the United States assumed control of the American Railway Express Company, in connection with the federal control of the railroads, and directed that it should be controlled and operated by the director general.[5] It was the duty of the express company to give precedence to shipments of the government during the period of such control.[6]

b. Scope and Extent

Federal control of railroads in time of war extends to their entire organization including physical property, but control of the owning companies or corporations is not taken over and the railroads remain the private property of their respective owners.

During the period of federal control of railroads during and for a short period after World War I, complete possession by the United States replaced the ordinary incidents of private ownership,[7] and its control extended not merely to the physical property but to the entire organization, including officers, directors, and employees,[8] who thereupon became agents and employees of the government rather than of the respective railroad companies.[9] So the railroads became mere agencies or instrumentalities of the government,[10] and it was a bailee of property being transported thereby,[11] and a carrier of passengers.[12] However, control of the owning companies or corporations was not taken

97. Through whom possession taken The provision of Act of 1916 empowering the president in time of war to take possession of a transportation system "through the Secretary of War" was a mandatory limitation of power of the president to such possessory action through the Secretary of War, and, hence, the president had no power under the Act to designate some agency or person other than the Secretary of War to take possession of a railroad—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Stover, D.C.Ill., 60 F.Supp. 587.

98. U.S.—Krichman v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 263 F. 538, reversed on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 514, 256 U.S. 363, 65 L.Ed. 992

99. U.S.—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Stover, D.C.Ill., 60 F.Supp. 587.
51 C.J. p. 448 note 11.

1. D.C.—U. S. v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, D.C.D.C., 79 F.Supp. 485, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 137, 335 U.S. 867, 93 L.Ed. 412, cause remanded 174 F.2d 160, 85 U.S.App.D.C. 417, certiorari denied Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers v. U. S., 70 S.Ct. 140, 338 U.S. 872, 94 L.Ed. 535.

2. Ala.—Vaughn v. State, 81 So. 417, 17 Ala.App. 35, certiorari denied Vaughn, Ex parte, 82 So. 894, 203 Ala. 700
51 C.J. p. 448 note 12

3. U.S.—Dupont de Nemours v. Davis, Ark., 44 S.Ct. 364, 264 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 788—North Carolina R. Co. v. Lee, N.C., 43 S.Ct. 2, 260 U.S. 16, 67 L.Ed. 104.

4. U.S.—Wainwright v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Mo., 253 F. 459
Miss.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Jobe, 84 So. 910, 122 Miss. 696

5. Mo.—Edwards v. American R. Express Co., App., 216 S.W. 781.

6. Mo.—Edwards v. American R. Express Co., supra.

7. Ala.—Moon v. Hines, 87 So. 603, 205 Ala. 355, 13 A.L.R. 1020.
51 C.J. p. 448 note 15.

8. Ala.—Kittrell v. Hatter, 10 So.2d 827, 243 Ala. 472.
51 C.J. p. 448 note 16

9. D.C.—U. S. v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, D.C., 79 F.Supp. 485, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 137, 335 U.S. 867, 93 L.Ed. 412, cause remanded 174 F.2d 160, 85 U.S.App.D.C. 417, certiorari denied, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers & Broth. of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers v. U. S., 70 S.Ct. 140, 338 U.S. 872, 94 L.Ed. 535
51 C.J. p. 448 note 17.

10. N.Y.—Second Dist. Public Service Commission v. New York Cent. R. Co., 185 N.Y.S. 267, 193 App.Div. 615, affirmed 129 N.E. 455, 230 N.Y. 149, 14 A.L.R. 449.
Tenn.—Dickens v. Bransford Realty Co., 210 S.W. 644, 141 Tenn. 387.

11. U.S.—Bloch v. U. S., C.C.A.Tex., 261 F. 321, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 481, 253 U.S. 484, 64 L.Ed. 1025

12. N.Y.—Gainer v. Hines, 184 N.Y.S. 768, 194 App.Div. 21.

over,[13] and they retained their identities and existence;[14] and the railroads remained the private property of their respective owners,[15] the relations between the companies and the United States being analogous to those of lessor and lessee.[16]

The extent of the power conferred by statute on the president[17] and the validity of orders attempted to be made under such authority[18] are necessarily judicial questions, and it was held that such power extended to all matters having direct relation to the facilitation of the transport of troops, war materials, and supplies.[19] The power granted was broad enough to include both interstate and intra-state transportation,[20] but did not necessarily extend to every short line or "tap line;"[21] nor did it extend to property of a railroad company not used in, or necessary to, its business of carriage;[22] and a purely military railroad was not within the statute.[23] The federal control did not abrogate the requirements of the general laws regulating commerce,[24] the rules and regulations of the interstate commerce commission,[25] or the federal statutes regulating the operation of railroads,[26] except as far as they were inconsistent therewith.

c. In Whom Vested

The president may appoint a director general or designate some other person in whom the possession, control and management of the railroads shall vest.

By the president's proclamation assuming possession and control of the railroads during World War I a director general of railroads was appointed and authorized to take possession and control of the systems of transportation embraced by the proclamation and to operate and administer them.[27] Such appointment and delegation of authority were within the power conferred on the president,[28] and by virtue of it the possession, control, and management of such railroads became completely and exclusively vested in the director general,[29] whose status was not that of a carrier, but rather of an operator of carriers,[30] and whose orders, made within the scope of his powers, were in legal effect orders of the president.[31] The power of the director general and managers appointed by him continued, of course, only during the period of federal control.[32]

Under the statute, the president may appoint the secretary of the army to take over railroads and act on behalf of the government.[33]

13. U.S.—Hines v. Dahn, C.C.A. Iowa, 267 F. 105, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 320, 258 U.S. 421, 66 L.Ed. 696.
N.D.—McGregor v. Great No. R. Co., 172 N.W. 841, 42 N.D. 269, 4 A.L.R. 1365.

14. Ark.—Davis v. Chrisp, 252 S.W. 606, 159 Ark. 335, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 710, 68 L.Ed. 518.
51 C.J. p. 448 note 22.

15. Mo.—Brown v. St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co., App., 268 S.W. 678.
51 C.J. p. 448 note 23.

16. Mich.—Peacock v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 175 N.W. 580, 208 Mich. 403, 8 A.L.R. 964.

17. U.S.—U. S. Railroad Administration v. Burch, D.C.S.C., 254 F. 140.

18. U.S.—Cheney v. Hines, C.C.A. N.Y., 266 F. 310—U. S. v. Metropolitan Lumber Co., D.C.N.J., 254 F. 335.

19. N.Y.—Zuckerbraum v. Old Dominion SS. Co., 197 N.Y.S. 299, 119 Misc. 790.

Intent

Congress intended that in time of war a transportation system taken over by executive order should be operated by Secretary of War for prime purpose of the war effort, and that secretary's possession would dedicate operation of the system to war effort rather than as a government agency with the war effort incidental to possession and control taken over by the government.—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Stover, D.C. Ill., 60 F.Supp. 587.

Partially constructed railroad

The statute did not include a partially constructed railroad of a land company.—Burroughs v. Southern Colonization Co., 173 N.E. 716, 96 Ind.App. 93.

20. N.J.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Maas, etc., Co., 124 A. 111, 99 N.J.Law 194.
51 C.J. p. 449 note 28.

21. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Springfield Terminal R. Co., 127 N.E. 128, 292 Ill. 505.

22. U.S.—U. S. Railroad Administration v. Burch, D.C.S.C., 254 F. 140.
Pa.—Austin v. Hines, 123 A. 502, 278 Pa. 537.

23. U.S.—Bryson v. Hines, C.C.A. N.C., 268 F. 290.
51 C.J. p. 449 note 31.

24. Ala.—Payne v. Zimmern, 92 So. 433, 207 Ala. 155.

25. U.S.—U. S. v. Metropolitan Lumber Co., D.C.N.J., 254 F. 335.
Ala.—Payne v. Zimmern, 92 So. 433, 207 Ala. 155.

26. U.S.—U. S. v. Geer, D.C.Pa., 268 F. 385, certificate dismissed 43 S.Ct. 165, 260 U.S. 756, 67 L.Ed. 498.

27. U.S.—Krichman v. U. S., C.C.A. N.Y., 263 F. 538, reversed on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 514, 256 U.S. 363, 65 L.Ed. 992.

28. Mass.—West v. New York, etc., R. Co., 133 N.E. 621, 233 Mass. 162.
Tex.—Rhodes v. Tatum, Civ.App., 206 S.W. 114.

29. U.S.—Morgenthau v. Sugar Land Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 83 F.2d 72.
Ala.—Vaughn v. State, 81 So. 417, 17 Ala.App. 35.
51 C.J. p. 449 note 39.

30. U.S.—Dupont de Nemours v. Davis, Ark., 44 S.Ct. 364, 264 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 788.
Pa.—Florida East Coast Growers Assoc. v. Davis, 83 Pa.Super. 472.

31. U.S.—Davis v. O'Hara, Neb., 45 S.Ct. 104, 266 U.S. 314, 69 L.Ed. 303.

32. U.S.—Crawshaw v. Corbett, C.C.A.Mo., 264 F. 962.

33. D.C.—U. S. v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, D.C., 79 F.Supp. 485, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 137, 335 U.S. 867, 93 L.Ed. 412, cause remanded 174 F.2d 160, 85 U.S.App.D.C. 417, certiorari denied Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers v. U. S., 70 S.Ct. 140, 338 U.S. 872, 94 L.Ed. ——.

Authority to act in labor dispute

Where government had taken over railroads and placed them in jurisdiction of the secretary of the army, he had authority to act on behalf of government and take such action as seemed to be wise and proper under the circumstances concerning such railroads and their labor rela-

d. Effect on Particular Matters

(1) On separate identities of railroads
(2) On rights of action
(3) Offenses
(4) Other matters

(1) On Separate Identities of Railroads

Federal control did not change or destroy the separate identity of the individual railroads or result in a consolidation so as to render all the railroad companies in effect one company.

The enactment of the statutes authorizing the government to take possession of the railroads in no way changed or destroyed their separate identities,[34] and the taking of possession did not result in such a consolidation as to render all the railroad companies in effect one company.[35] While such statutes placed the operation of all the railroads of which possession and control had been assumed under one directing head,[36] the director general, in the operation of each road, sustained to it a relation separate and distinct from his relation to other roads under his control,[37] and, in actions against him, he was brought into court only as the government's representative in the operation of the railroad on whose agent notice was served,[38] and was liable only with respect to the particular railroad out of the operation of which the liability in question arose.[39] Accordingly, in order to establish a claim for damages against the director general growing out of the operation of a railroad under his control, the identity of the railroad must have been disclosed, and plaintiff's right to a judgment against the director general as operator of the particular road must have been shown;[40] and a petition against him as operator of one road would not support a judgment against him as operator of another;[41] nor would service on an agent or officer of one railroad give jurisdiction in a suit against the director general on a cause of action arising out of the operation of another railroad.[42] An action against the director general on a cause arising out of the operation of two or more railroads was required to proceed as if against the several railroad companies,[43] and liability fixed among or between them as if the government or director general were not a party.[44]

(2) On Rights of Action

(a) Accruing before federal control
(b) Accruing during federal control

(a) Accruing before Federal Control

A railroad's liability on a cause of action arising before federal possession and control began continued thereafter and could be enforced against it.

The liability of a railroad company on a cause of action arising before possession and control of such road was assumed by the United States continued thereafter and could be enforced against it,[45] and the director general had no authority to make any order whereby an existing right of action would be extinguished or cut off;[46] but the procedure governing such an action was subject to restrictions imposed by, or under authority of, the federal statutes,[47] and no judgment could be collected by levying on railroad property as long as the federal control continued.[48] No liability ex-tions even though he expressed the thought to certain labor leaders that he should not interfere as long as the president was conducting negotiations—U. S. v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, D.C.D.C., 79 F.Supp. 485, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 137, 335 U.S. 867, 93 L.Ed. 412, cause remanded 174 F.2d 160, 85 U.S.App.D.C. 417, certiorari denied, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers & Broth. of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers v. U. S., 70 S.Ct. 140, 338 U.S. 872, 94 L.Ed. ——.

34. Minn.—Granquist v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 193 N.W. 126, 155 Minn. 217
51 C.J. p 455 note 29.

35. Ga.—Davis v. McMillan, 112 S.E. 913, 28 Ga.App. 689, reversed on other grounds 115 S.E. 494, 154 Ga. 803.
51 C.J. p 455 note 30

36. U.S.—Globe, etc., F. Ins. Co. v. Hines, C.C.A.N.Y., 273 F. 774, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 54, 257 U.S. 643, 66 L.Ed. 413.
51 C.J. p 455 note 31.

37. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McLean, Com.App., 253 S.W. 248.
51 C.J. p 455 note 32

38. U.S.—Manbar Coal Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.W.Va., 297 F. 24.
51 C.J. p 455 note 33

39. U.S.—Davis v. Alexander, Okl., 46 S.Ct. 34, 269 U.S. 114, 70 L.Ed. 186.
51 C.J. p 455 note 34.

40. U.S.—Manbar Coal Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.W.Va., 297 F. 24.
51 C.J. p 455 note 35

41. La.—Luckett v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 2 La.App. 752, annulled on other grounds, 108 So. 405, 161 La. 175
Tex.—Davis v. Standard Rice Co., Civ.App., 293 S.W. 593.
Pleadings in actions on causes accruing during federal control generally see infra subdivision d (2) of this section.

42. U.S.—Seaver v. Hines, D.C.N.H., 263 F. 454—Seaver v. Hines, D.C.N.H., 261 F. 239.
Process and service in actions on causes accruing during federal control see infra subdivision d (2) of this section

43. Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So. 680, 217 Ala. 75

44. Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, supra.
Ill.—Cardwell v. Payne, 226 Ill.App. 227.

45. U.S.—Davis v. L. N. Dantzler Lumber Co., Miss., 43 S.Ct. 349, 261 U.S. 280, 67 L.Ed. 387, 28 A.L.R. 834.
51 C.J. p 450 note 66—37 C.J. p 1048 note 79 [a]

46. U.S.—Bryson v. Hines, C.C.A.N.C., 268 F. 290
51 C.J. p 450 note 67.

47. U.S.—Davis v. L. N. Dantzler Lumber Co., Miss., 43 S.Ct. 349, 261 U.S. 280, 67 L.Ed. 387, 28 A.L.R. 834
51 C.J. p 450 note 68.

48. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Steele, 202 S.W. 878, 180 Ky. 290.
Tex.—Bell v. Baker, Civ.App., 249 S.W. 246, reversed on other grounds Com.App., 260 S.W. 158.

isted, however, and no suit could be maintained, against the director general on such a cause of action.[49]

Service of process. The fact that one employed in the operation of a railroad was an employee of the government did not prevent his being an employee or agent of the company so that process could be served on him as such in an action on a cause arising before federal control.[50]

Express company. Under a rule similar to that applying to actions on causes arising out of the operation of railroads, actions on causes arising prior to the federal control of the express company were maintainable against the American Railway Express Company.[51]

(b) Accruing during Federal Control

There being no provision to the contrary, an action on a cause accruing during the period of federal control could be maintained against the director general, as representative of the United States, on such conditions as were prescribed by statute and orders, and with the consent of the director general; general rules governing procedure in civil actions were applicable.

Under the statutes providing for federal possession and control of railroads, and the orders promulgated under the authority thereby conferred, an action was maintainable for any cause arising during the period of such control for which it could have been maintained in the absence thereof, except as otherwise provided by such statutes or orders,[52] and no defense was interposable on the ground that the railroad was an instrumentality of the government.[53] The United States being suable, however, only when it has consented thereto, as discussed in the title United States § 176, also 65 C. J. p 1403 note 58, it, or the director general, as its representative, was subject to suit only to the extent and on the conditions prescribed by the statute and his orders,[54] and no action could be maintained on any cause as to which consent had not been given,[55] nor except within the time specified by the statute.[56] It was incumbent on the director general to defend actions brought on causes arising during federal control.[57] A claim against the director general for injuries was a claim against the United States,[58] and so was barred by a recovery under the Federal Employees' Compensation Act.[59] The director general's order remitting soldiers injured on railroads to claims for compensation under the war risk insurance acts was intended to deprive soldiers so injured of any right of action against the director general,[60] but such order had no application to injuries sustained before its promulgation.[61]

Venue. Prior to the issuance by the director general of any order to the contrary, an action against him might be brought at any place where the railroad company would have been suable in the absence of federal control;[62] but after the making of orders prescribing the place for bringing such actions, the director general could be sued only at the place designated, as long as the federal control continued.[63]

49. U.S.—Hines v. Woodson, C.C.A. Ill., 280 F. 966
51 C.J. p 450 note 70.

50. U.S.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson-Tully Co., C.C.A.Miss., 261 F. 741, affirmed 41 S.Ct. 524, 256 U.S. 408, 65 L.Ed. 1020.

51. Mass.—Clapp v. American Express Co., 125 N.E. 162, 234 Mass. 174.

52. Mo.—Bradford v. McAdoo, 219 S.W. 92, 202 Mo.App. 412
Neb.—Schneider v. Davis, 192 N.W. 230, 109 Neb. 638.
Tex.—Hines v. Steele, Civ.App., 224 S.W. 606, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.
51 C.J. p 450 note 73.

53. U.S.—Hines v. Atlantic Refining Co., C.C.A.W.Va., 265 F. 839—Hines v. Henaghan, C.C.A.W.Va., 265 F. 831.
51 C.J. p 451 note 74.

Common-law rules as to liability applicable
Fla.—Williams v. Hines, 86 So. 695, 80 Fla. 690.

Defense available
Since the federal control of railroads was primarily to supply transportation needed for the Great War, and only secondarily to supply such transportation for the public, the fact that cars were needed for shipments of the government is a defense to an action for breach of contract by the carrier's station agent to have cars ready for plaintiff at a stated time and place.—Underwood v. Hines, Mo.App., 222 S.W. 1037.

54. U.S.—Davis v. O'Hara, Neb., 45 S.Ct. 104, 266 U.S. 314, 69 L.Ed. 303.
51 C.J. p 451 note 76.

55. D.C.—Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co. v. Mellon, 24 F.2d 613, 58 App.D.C. 38.
51 C.J. p 451 note 77.

56. D.C.—U.S. v. Davis, 8 F.2d 907, 56 App.D.C. 46, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 352, 270 U.S. 653, 70 L.Ed. 782.
51 C.J. p 451 note 78.

57. U.S.—Johnson v. McAdoo, D.C. La., 257 F. 757, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 274 F. 207.

58. U.S.—Sandoval v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 288 F. 56.

59. U.S.—Dahn v. Davis, Iowa, 42 S.Ct. 330, 258 U.S. 421, 66 L.Ed. 696—Sandoval v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 288 F. 56.

60. U.S.—Sandoval v. Davis, D.C. Ohio, 278 F. 968, affirmed, C.C.A., 288 F. 56.

61. Mo.—Skinner v. Davis, 230 S.W. 37, 312 Mo. 581, appeal dismissed 47 S.Ct. 333, 273 U.S. 776, 71 L.Ed. 887.

62. Mo.—State ex rel. Hines v. Calhoun, 220 S.W. 6, 281 Mo. 583.
51 C.J. p 451 note 85.

63. U.S.—Davis v. O'Hara, Neb., 45 S.Ct. 104, 266 U.S. 314, 69 L.Ed. 303.
51 C.J. p 451 note 86.

Place of residence of plaintiff's assignor
Where the director general's order required the action to be brought in the county or district where plaintiff resided at the time the cause of action accrued, the county in which a corporation, which assigned its cause of action to plain-

Parties. General rules as to parties plaintiff were applicable in an action against the director general.[64] During the early part of the period of federal control an action on a cause arising during such period was maintainable against the railroad company from the operation of whose lines the action arose,[65] although a judgment recovered therein was in effect one against the director general.[66] Subsequently, however, under an order so providing, all such actions were required to be brought against the director general, and the railroad company was not liable for any action founded on any cause so arising.[67]

Accordingly, where an action was instituted against the company, the director general was properly substituted as party defendant,[68] and a succeeding director general substituted for his predecessor,[69] but unless so substituted no judgment could be rendered against him.[70] The liability of the director general was, of course, in his official, and not in his personal, capacity,[71] and it was unnecessary to name the incumbent,[72] but the insertion of his name was harmless surplusage.[73] The substitution, however, of a person who did not at the time occupy the position of director general rendered the action defective.[74] The fact that an action was brought against the director general operating a designated railroad company instead of its railroad was immaterial.[75] The appearance of the director general and his proceeding to trial on the merits waived any defect in naming him as party defendant.[76]

Actions founded on the torts of the American Railway Express Company while under the control of the United States were properly maintainable against the director general, and not against the express company,[77] although the company could waive the defense of nonliability.[78]

An action by the director general for damages to a bridge under federal control could be prosecuted to final judgment, notwithstanding failure to substitute his successor within the time prescribed by statute.[79]

Process and service. The statutes providing for federal control did not change the manner or mode of service of process in actions brought during the period of such control,[80] and service on any agent of the director general was sufficient to bring him into court, where no agent for service had been designated.[81] Under an order, however, requiring service of process in an action against the director general to be made on officials operating the railroad for the director general in the same manner as was theretofore made on operating officials of the railroad company, service on any other official was insufficient.[82] Any want or defect of service was waived by a general appearance by the director general.[83]

Pleading. A petition or complaint which sufficiently set forth a cause of action against a railroad company, and alleged that the railroad was under the control of the director general at the time the cause arose, was sufficient to state a cause of action against the director general.[84]

Trial. The plaintiff in an action against the ditiff, resided was the proper place to bring the action, since "plaintiff" means the party in whose favor the cause of action originally accrued —Goodwin Preserving Co v Davis, 258 S.W. 97, 201 Ky 646, 650

Effective date of order

Tex —El Paso & S. W R Co. v. Lovick, Civ App., 210 S W 283, affirmed 218 S W 489, 110 Tex 244, appeal dismissed 41 S Ct. 6, 254 U S 659, 65 L Ed. 462.

64. Mo —Forest Green Farmers' Elevator Co v Davis, 270 S.W. 394, 216 Mo App. 545.

65. N.D —McGregor v. Great Northern R. Co., 172 N.W. 841, 42 N D. 269, 4 A L R. 1635.
51 C.J p 452 note 88.

66. S C —Calhoun v Southern R. Co, 106 S E 780, 115 S C. 489, certiorari denied 41 S Ct. 376, 255 U.S. 573, 65 L.Ed. 792.

67. Ga.—Sanders v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 172 S E. 649, 48 Ga App. 284
51 C J p 452 note 91.

68. U S —Missouri Pac R Co v Ault, Ark, 41 S Ct. 593, 256 U.S. 554, 65 L Ed. 1087.
51 C J p 453 note 92.

69. Tex —Kilgore v. Hines, Civ App, 265 S W. 744.

70. Ky —Payne v. Ramsey, 242 S. W. 5, 195 Ky. 117.

71. Ala.—Hines v. Wimbish, 85 So 765, 204 Ala. 350

72. D C.—Mellon v. Seymoure, 12 F 2d 836, 56 App D C. 301.
Va —Bailey v. Hines, 109 S.E 470, 131 Va. 421.

73. U S —Blevins v Hines, D C Va, 264 F. 1005.

74. Ala —McAdoo v. Booker, 88 So 196, 17 Ala App 623.
51 C J. p 453 note 98.

75. Ala —Hines v Dollar, 87 So. 825, 205 Ala. 330.

76. Ala —Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So. 680, 217 Ala 75

77. Mass —Lonergan v. American R Express Co, 144 N E 756, 250 Mass 30.
51 C J. p 459 note 51

78. Mass —Lonergan v. American R Express Co, supra.

79. Mass —Hines v. Eastern S. S Lines, 139 N E. 823, 245 Mass. 385

80. Ark —Farr v St Louis Southwestern R. Co, 243 S W. 800, 154 Ark 585

81. N C —Lanier v. Pullman Co., 105 S.E. 21, 180 N C. 406.
51 C J. p 454 note 3.

Service on connecting railroad

Iowa —Dye Produce Co. v. Davis, 209 N.W 744, 202 Iowa 1008

82. N.Y.—Hartog v. Hines, 180 N Y S. 375, 190 App Div 640

83. Mo —Sonken-Galamba Iron, etc, Co v Hines, App, 238 S W 135.

84. Ark —Payne v. Mallory, 230 S. W 270, 148 Ark. 431.
51 C.J. p 454 note 6.

rector general had to prove all the essential allegations of his pleading,[85] and general rules of evidence were applicable on questions relating to admissibility[86] or weight and sufficiency[87] of evidence General rules also were applicable in determining the sufficiency of evidence to take the case to the jury,[88] and with respect to instructions to the jury.[89]

Stay of proceedings. Under the director general's order providing that trial of an action against him should be stayed where the interests of the government would be prejudiced by a present trial, the granting of a stay was within the discretion of the court,[90] and the propriety thereof depended on the circumstances of each case.[91]

Judgment or verdict; amount of recovery. A judgment against the director general was a judgment against the United States,[92] and it was the duty of the director general to pay it out of his receipts.[93] Where compensatory damages were recoverable, the judgment might reasonably include interest[94] and costs.[95] The verdict was required to conform to the evidence and findings.[96]

The measure of damages in an action against the director general was the same as in an action against a railroad.[97] The amount of recovery for goods damaged or lost in transit was limited to the value placed thereon by the contract of shipment.[98]

Appeal. An order of the director general that no bond should be required of him on appeal was beyond his powers, and ineffective.[99]

Process to enforce right or judgment. The possession of the director general was not subject to interference by any process,[1] and so no judgment was enforceable by execution during the period of federal control,[2] but the enforcement of a mechanic's lien was not within the statutory prohibition;[3] nor was the initiation of an action by a trustee process.[4] Such prohibition of interference with the director general's possession did not preclude the owner of goods in transit from replevying them.[5]

(3) Offenses

Federal assumption of control did not prevent a state from punishing a railroad company for an offense committed prior to the enactment of the control law, but it did prevent prosecution of a railroad company for acts or omissions occurring during and arising out of federal control and operation; taking goods in which the United States had property as bailee in connection with its operation of a railroad, and interfering with federal possession and operation, were offenses against the United States.

Nothing in the federal statutes providing for possession and control of the railroads by the United States interfered with the power of a state to punish a railroad company for an offense committed prior to the enactment of such statutes;[6] but a railroad company whose property was under federal control could not be prosecuted for the violation of a state statute for acts or omissions occurring during the period of such control and arising out of the operation of the road by the director general.[7]

85. Mo.—Bradford v. McAdoo, 219 S.W. 92, 202 Mo.App. 412.

86. Tex.—Hines v. Whiteman, Civ. App., 228 S.W. 979.

87. Ark.—Payne v. Mallory, 230 S.W. 270, 148 Ark. 431—Hines v. Morgan, 218 S.W. 672, 142 Ark. 272.
Ky.—Hines v. Harris, 258 S.W. 930, 202 Ky. 75.
Mass.—Fahy v. Director General of R., 126 N.E. 784, 235 Mass. 510.
Mo.—Neeley v. Hines, 227 S.W. 650, 206 Mo.App. 621.
Mont.—Cornwell v. Davis, 213 P. 218, 66 Mont. 100, reversed on other grounds 44 S.Ct. 410, 264 U.S. 560, 68 L.Ed. 848, mandate conformed to 226 P. 1117, 70 Mont. 608.
Tex.—Davis v. Sullivan & Opry, Civ. App., 242 S.W. 764, affirmed Com. App., 258 S.W. 157.

88. U.S.—Bryson v. Hines, C.C.A. N.C., 268 F. 290.
Ark.—Payne v. Cotner, 230 S.W. 275, 148 Ark. 401.
Ky.—Hines v. Harris, 258 S.W. 930, 202 Ky. 75.

89. Ky.—Hines v. Harris, supra.
Tex.—Davis v. Sullivan & Opry, Civ. App., 242 S.W. 764, affirmed Com. App., 258 S.W. 157.

90. U.S.—Harnick v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 254 F. 748.
51 C.J. p. 454 note 8.

91. U.S.—Cocker v. New York, etc., R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 253 F. 676.

92. La.—Aymond v. Western Union Tel. Co., 91 So. 671, 151 La. 184.

93. U.S.—Johnson v. McAdoo, D.C. La., 257 F. 757, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 274 F. 207.

94. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Ault, Ark., 41 S.Ct. 593, 256 U.S. 554, 65 L.Ed. 1087.
51 C.J. p. 454 note 12.

95. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Ault, supra.
51 C.J. p. 454 note 13.

96. Tex.—Davis v. Sullivan & Opry, Civ.App., 242 S.W. 764, affirmed, Com.App., 258 S.W. 157.

97. Ark.—Hines v. Morgan, 218 S.W. 672, 142 Ark. 272.

98. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Harrell, Civ.App., 270 S.W. 187.

99. Tex.—Bryson v. Payne, Civ. App., 232 S.W. 362.

1. U.S.—Nueces Valley Town-Site Co. v. McAdoo, D.C.Tex., 257 F. 143
51 C.J. p. 454 note 15.

2. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Fowler, D.C.N.C., 275 F. 239.
51 C.J. p. 454 note 16.

3. U.S.—McGill v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., C.C.A.Idaho, 295 F. 41.

4. N.H.—Fitzhugh v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 109 A. 562, 79 N.H. 372.
Vt.—Northfield Trust Co. v. Cutting, 115 A. 289, 95 Vt. 343.

5. N.Y.—Salant v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 177 N.Y.S. 475, 188 App.Div. 851, affirmed 132 N.E. 907, 231 N.Y. 607.

6. Miss.—State v. Southern R. Co., 89 So. 769, 126 Miss. 875.

7. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 224 S.W. 847, 189 Ky. 309.

Against the United States. A statute providing punishment for the taking of any property of the United States applied to goods in which the United States had a special property as bailee in connection with its operation and control of the railroads,[8] and the taking of goods in the course of transportation interfered with and impeded the government's possession, operation, and control in violation of a statute prohibiting such interference or impediment,[9] but goods being transported were not property derived from, or used in connection with, the possession, use, or operation of the railroads within a statute punishing the taking of such property.[10]

(4) Other Matters

The director general was not bound to carry out preexisting contracts of the railroads unless he adopted them, the power of possession and control conferred by the statute included the power to make and enforce rates; federal possession and control did not relieve the railroads of their obligations under state tax laws.

The proclamation of the president establishing federal control of railroads did not purport to take over the rights and obligations of the carriers under contracts theretofore made by them for supplies and service,[11] and the director general was not bound to carry out such contracts,[12] but had a reasonable time within which to determine whether to adopt or reject them.[13] Unless he had adopted them, he could take no advantage of their terms,[14] and, on the other hand, no action lay against him for failing to perform them;[15] but he was liable in quantum meruit for supplies received and accepted by him after contracts therefor made by the railroad had been terminated.[16] When a contract made by a railroad was adopted by the director general, however, it became binding on him,[17] and he had such legal interest in its performance as entitled him to maintain an action for damages for interference therewith or breach thereof.[18] Contracts of the carriers which were rendered impossible of performance by the governmental assumption of control became terminated,[19] but the mere fact that control of a railroad was taken by the government did not excuse the company from performing a contract where it had ample opportunity before the period of such control to comply with the terms thereof.[20]

Rates and charges. The general power of possession and control of railroads conferred by statute on the president included the power to make and enforce the rates to be charged by such railroads for carriage and transportation,[21] intra-state as well as interstate.[22] A rate so fixed became the sole legal rate,[23] even though it conflicted with rates previously established by state authority.[24] The mere fact that control of the railroads was taken over by the government, however, did not abrogate rates and tariff regulations then in force,[25] but they continued in force until changed.[26] The order of the director general providing for a general increase of all rates then in effect was not an order establishing rates but one authorizing new rates to be established in a proper manner.[27]

State and municipal regulations. The statutes under which the United States assumed possession and control of the railroads superseded all state

8. U.S.—Kamberlz v. U. S., C.C.A. N.Y., 262 F. 378.

Sufficiency of evidence

U.S.—Vaughn v. U. S., C.C.A.Or., 272 F. 451.

9. U.S.—Kamberlz v. U. S., C.C.A. N.Y., 262 F. 378.

10. U.S.—Kamberlz v. U. S., supra.

11. U.S.—Corona Coal Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.Miss., 20 F.2d 738.

12. U.S.—Martin v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., C.C.A.Va., 3 F.2d 26.

13. U.S.—Martin v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., supra.

14. U.S.—Herbert v. Payne, C.C.A. N.M., 291 F. 555.

15. U.S.—Corona Coal Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.Miss., 20 F.2d 738—Martin v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., C.C.A. Va., 3 F.2d 26.

16. U.S.—Martin v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., supra.

17. Ga.—Davis v. Gossett, 118 S.E. 773, 30 Ga.App. 576.

Ind.—U. S. Railroad Administration v. Monahan, 137 N.E. 778, 188 N. E. 785, 79 Ind.App. 673.

18. U.S.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cities Service Co., D.C.Del., 273 F. 946.

19. U.S.—Corona Coal Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.Miss., 20 F.2d 738.

51 C.J. p. 449 note 51.

20. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tuttle, 258 S.W. 688, 201 Ky. 798.

21. Tex.—Lutcher & Moore Lumber Co. v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 33 S.W.2d 1077, affirmed, Com.App., 49 S.W.2d 726.

51 C.J. p. 449 note 54.

22. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. North Dakota, N.D., 39 S.Ct. 502, 250 U.S. 135, 63 L.Ed. 897.

51 C.J. p. 449 note 55.

23. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Georgia R. Commission, D.C. Ga., 281 F. 321.

24. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. North Dakota, N.D., 39 S.Ct. 502, 250 U.S. 135, 63 L.Ed. 897—New York Cent. R. Co. v. New York Second Dist. Public Service Commission, D.C.N.Y., 268 F. 558.

Failure to adopt state tariff in part

Director general's failure to adopt general circular of state commission for purpose of lumber tariff after adopting it for other tariffs was affirmation of intention to exclude it in determining rates on lumber—Lutcher & Moore Lumber Co. v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 33 S.W.2d 1077, affirmed, Com.App., 49 S.W.2d 726.

25. Neb.—Lincoln Commercial Club v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 172 N.W. 687, 103 Neb. 504.

26. U.S.—Morgenthau v. Sugar Land Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 33 F.2d 72.

Wis.—Mellon v. Johnson Co., 219 N. W. 352, 196 Wis. 64.

Division of joint interstate rates

U.S.—Morgenthau v. Sugar Land Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 33 F.2d 72.

27. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 244 P. 440, 116 Okl. 95.

Pro-rating among participants in joint rates

U.S.—Morgenthau v. Sugar Land Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 33 F.2d 72.

or municipal regulations inconsistent therewith or with orders made thereunder by the director general, as to the railroads of which control was taken,[28] but, so far as not inconsistent with the federal statutes or such orders, lawful regulations imposed by the states continued in force and effect,[29] and the full regulatory power of the state continued as to railroads over which the federal control did not extend.[30]

Condemnation proceedings The right of another public utility to condemn a right of way or user over property of a railroad company was not suspended by the federal control and operation of the railroads.[31]

Taxes and assessments. Inasmuch as the railroads remained the property of the respective owning companies during the period of federal operation and control, they were not relieved of any of their obligations under state tax laws,[32] including the obligation to report property for assessment.[33] A notice of a special assessment was properly given to the railroad company and was not required to be given to the director general.[34]

e. Right to Moneys Accruing from Operation

Money accruing from federal operation was the property of the United States, and an action could be maintained for its recovery.

Moneys and other property accruing from the federal operation of the railroads were the property of the United States;[35] and an action to recover on a liability arising out of such operation was an action on behalf of the United States in its governmental capacity,[36] and was not subject to statutes of limitation not expressly applicable to the government.[37] The director general was the proper party plaintiff in such an action,[38] rather than the United States co nomine,[39] and a railroad company was not properly joined with him as plaintiff.[40] A failure to substitute the successor of the director general by whom such an action had been commenced did not cause an abatement of the action.[41]

f. Termination of Federal Control

(1) In general
(2) Effect on actions
(3) Effect on rates and charges

(1) In General

The statutory termination of federal control rendered orders of the director general thenceforth ineffective, and restored the effectiveness of laws and regulations governing railroads which had been suspended during federal control.

Although the power conferred by statute on the president to take possession and assume control of the railroads related to the "time of war," the termination of hostilities under the armistice did not justify judicial interference to restrain the further exercise by him of such extraordinary executive powers.[42] By the Transportation Act of 1920, however, the federal possession and control assumed during World War I were terminated on March 1, 1920,[43] whereupon the orders of the di-

28. U.S.—Nueces Valley Town-Site Co. v. McAdoo, D.C.Tex., 257 F. 143.
51 C.J. p 450 note 63.

29. Colo.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 190 P. 539, 68 Colo. 475.
51 C.J. p 450 note 64.

30. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Springfield Terminal R. Co., 127 N.E. 128, 292 Ill. 505.

31. U.S.—Postal Tel.-Cable Co. v. Call, Fla., 255 F. 850, 167 C.C.A. 178.

32. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, Ky., 52 S.Ct. 160, 284 U.S. 338, 76 L.Ed. 327, mandate stayed Southern R. Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 52 S.Ct. 639, set aside on other grounds 53 S.Ct. 24, 287 U.S. 561, 77 L.Ed. 495.
Cal.—Payne v. Richardson, 207 P. 547, 189 Cal. 103.
County's lien for taxes attached to railroad property in receivership notwithstanding railroad was under federal control.—Board of Com'rs of Routt County v. Denver & S. L. R. Co., 291 P. 1020, 88 Colo. 14, dismissed 51 S.Ct. 216, 282 U.S. 814, 75 L.Ed. 729, and certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 348, 283 U.S. 826, 75 L.Ed. 1440, followed in Board of Com'rs of Moffat County v. Denver & S. L. R. Co., 291 P. 1022, 88 Colo. 21, dismissed 51 S.Ct. 216, 282 U.S. 814, 75 L.Ed. 729, and certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 348, 283 U.S. 826, 75 L.Ed. 1440.

33. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, Ky., 52 S.Ct. 160, 284 U.S. 338, 76 L.Ed. 327, mandate stayed 52 S.Ct. 639, set aside on other grounds 53 S.Ct. 24, 287 U.S. 561, 77 L.Ed. 495.

34. Iowa.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Clinton County, 198 N.W. 640, 197 Iowa 1209.

35. U.S.—Du Pont de Nemours v. Davis, Ark., 44 S.Ct. 364, 264 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 788.

36. U.S.—Davis v. Dupont de Nemours, C.C.A.Ark., 287 F. 522, affirmed 44 S.Ct. 364, 264 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 788.—In re Tidewater Coal Exch., C.C.A.N.Y., 280 F. 648, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 12, 260 U.S. 721, 67 L.Ed. 481.

37. U.S.—Davis v. Corona Coal Co., La., 44 S.Ct. 552, 265 U.S. 219, 68 L.Ed. 987.—Du Pont de Nemours v. Davis, Ark., 44 S.Ct. 364, 264 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 788.

38. U.S.—Du Pont de Nemours v. Davis, supra.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Laurel Coal Min. Co., D.C.Pa., 276 F. 1019.
51 C.J. p 455 note 43.

39. U.S.—Davis v. Dupont de Nemours, C.C.A.Ark., 287 F. 522, affirmed 44 S.Ct. 364, 264 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 788.

40. U.S.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Laurel Coal Min. Co., D.C.Pa., 276 F. 1019.

41. Mass.—Illnes v. Eastern SS. Lines, Inc., 139 N.E. 823, 245 Mass. 385.

42. N.D.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 172 N.W. 324, 43 N.D. 556, reversed on other grounds 39 S.Ct. 502, 250 U.S. 135, 63 L.Ed. 897.

43. U.S.—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Stover, D.C.Ill., 60 F.Supp. 587.
51 C.J. p 456 note 50.

rector general ceased to be effective,[44] and it became his duty to transfer and redeliver to the respective railroad companies all of their property in his possession.[45] On the resumption of possession and operation of the railroads by the respective companies, those persons who had been employees of the federal government during the period of its control became employees of such companies as of the date on which possession was resumed by them.[46] Laws and regulations in effect prior to the federal control, which had been suspended during the period thereof by the statutes providing therefor, automatically resumed their effectiveness,[47] except laws prescribing rates and charges, as discussed infra subdivision f (3) of this section; and, similarly, contract obligations of the railroad companies which had not been frustrated by the assumption of control by the government were revived by the termination of such control.[48] No contract binding on a railroad company after its resumption of possession, operation, and control could be inferred from dealings of the federal railroad administration with third persons.[49]

(2) Effect on Actions

After termination of federal control, an action could be brought against the United States through its representative on a cause arising out of federal control, possession, and operation, but compliance with rules and provisions relating to limitations, jurisdiction and venue, parties, process and pleading was required.

Under the statute terminating the possession and control of the railroads by the United States, such termination did not put an end to the government's liability on causes of action arising out of its possession, use, and operation of the railroads,[50] but an action on a cause arising during the period of federal control could be brought after the termination thereof, subject to the limitations provided by the statute,[51] and an action pending when control was terminated did not abate, but could be maintained and prosecuted to final judgment.[52] Only causes of action of such character as prior to federal control could have been brought against the railroad company were maintainable against the government.[53] No action lay against the United States or its representative on a cause arising after the federal possession and control had been terminated.[54]

Limitations. Under the Transportation Act the right to bring action on causes arising out of the federal possession and control of the railroads was restricted to such period of limitation as might be prescribed by federal or state statutes,[55] but not exceeding two years from the date of the passage of the act.[56] Such restriction was not a statute

44. Pa.—Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 74 Pa.Super 338.

45. U.S.—In re Tidewater Coal Exch., D.C.N.Y., 292 F. 225, affirmed, C.C.A., 296 F. 701, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 454, 264 U.S. 596, 68 L.Ed. 868

46. Mass.—Sheridan v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 149 N.E. 150, 253 Mass. 446.

47. U.S.—Director General of Railroads v. Viscose Co., Pa., 41 S.Ct. 151, 254 U.S. 498, 65 L.Ed. 372.
51 C.J. p. 456 note 56.

Election not to come within compensation law

A railroad company's election, made prior to the period of federal control, not to come within the scope of a state workmen's compensation law was revived at the termination of federal control, and another election was not necessary to take the company out of the operation of such law.

Ind.—Corpus Juris cited in Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, Ind., 75 N.E.2d 900, 903, 225 Ind. 643.

Kan.—McFarland v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 211 P. 635, 112 Kan. 620

48. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 270 S.W. 58, 207 Ky. 813.

49. Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co., 125 A. 405, 144 Md. 556.

50. Ark.—Payne v. Stockton, 229 S.W. 44, 147 Ark. 598

Ohio.—Davis v. Oswald, 149 N.E. 861, 113 Ohio St. 499, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 354, 267 U.S. 599, 69 L.Ed. 807

51. U.S.—Rosenzweig v. Hines, D.C.N.Y., 285 F. 622, affirmed, C.C.A., Payne v. Rosenzweig, 285 F. 1021

Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McLean, Civ.App., 241 S.W. 1072, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 253 S.W. 248.

52. U.S.—Davis v. Cohen, Mass., 45 S.Ct. 633, 268 U.S. 638, 69 L.Ed. 1129
51 C.J. p. 456 note 64.

53. U.S.—Corona Coal Co. v. Davis, D.C.La., 8 F.2d 297, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 20 F.2d 738
51 C.J. p. 456 note 65

54. U.S.—Mellon v. Weston Dodson & Co., Mass., 20 F.2d 549.
51 C.J. p. 456 note 66.

55. Ark.—Davis v. Chrisp, 252 S.W. 606, 159 Ark. 335, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 710, 68 L.Ed. 518, error dismissed 45 S.Ct. 227, 267 U.S. 572, 69 L.Ed. 793.
51 C.J. p. 456 note 67.

Effect of statute relating to admiralty suits

Suits in Admiralty Act did not repeal limitation with respect to suit in admiralty under Transportation Act of 1920 against director general of railroads for damage to drill scow caused by car float in tow of railroad tug.—Pullen v. Morgenthau, C.C.A.N.Y., 73 F.2d 281.

56. U.S.—Bartlesville Zinc Co. v. Mellon, C.C.A.Ill., 56 F.2d 154, certiorari denied Bartlesville Zinc Co. v. Mills, 53 S.Ct. 8, 287 U.S. 602, 77 L.Ed. 524.

Ga.—Sanders v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 172 S.E. 649, 48 Ga.App. 284
51 C.J. p. 456 note 68

Joinder of additional party after expiration of the two-year period did not bar prosecution of an action brought within such period.—Stephens v. Davis, 36 P.2d 316, 140 Kan. 220, certiorari denied Morganthau v. Stephens, 55 S.Ct. 542, 294 U.S. 720, 79 L.Ed. 1252, time extended 55 S.Ct. 652

Substitution of party

Where an action was brought under the Federal Transportation Act within the time allowed but in the warrant the designated agent was sued personally and without being designated in his official character and later after the expiration of two of limitations, but a qualification of the consent of the United States to be sued[57] and a condition of liability,[58] and, accordingly, it operated by its own force and was not required to be specially pleaded[59] and could not be waived by the presidential agent[60] Periods of limitation prescribed by other statutes continued to operate, subject to the two-year restriction of the Transportation Act,[61] and the provision limiting the right to bring action to two years after the enactment of the statute had no application.[62] Where, however, an action was already pending at the termination of federal control, no time within which the agent was required to be substituted as defendant was prescribed by the statute.[63]

In computing periods of limitation of actions on causes arising prior to federal control, under the provisions of the Transportation Act the period of federal control was to be excluded[64] in state as well as federal courts,[65] although there is authority holding that such period was not to be excluded[66] at least in an action in a state court[67] Although there was some authority to the contrary,[68] the provision was held applicable even as to cases where the state limitation period had expired before the Transportation Act was enacted,[69] but it did not invalidate a judgment, rendered before the enactment of that statute, dismissing a petition for death caused by the negligence of a railroad company on the ground that the action was not brought within the year after the accident as required by the state statute[70] Such provision for exclusion of the period had no application to causes arising during federal control,[71] but it was effective to authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to award reparation for an excessive charge made prior to federal control, although the claim would otherwise have been barred.[72] The provision was not applicable to actions under the Federal Employers' Liability Act.[73]

Jurisdiction and venue. Actions against the representative of the government on causes arising during the federal possession and control of the railroads were maintainable after the termination thereof only at such place or in such courts as designated by the Transportation Act,[74] which superseded the orders of the director general as to venue.[75] Under its provisions, such an action was ordinarily to be brought where the railroad company, out of the operation of whose road the cause arose, would have been suable in the absence of federal control,[76] as provided by state statutes,[77] but, when a contract made between the director general and a railroad company provided where action thereon should be brought, the tribunal or tribunals so designated had exclusive jurisdiction[78] The statute did not, however, invalidate the defense that an action pending at the termination of federal control was not brought at the place designated by orders of the director general in force at the time of its commencement.[79] years the warrant was amended to state his official character, the amendment constituted the bringing in of a new party and the cause of action was barred under the transportation act.—Mellon v. American Flour & Grain Co., 9 Tenn App 383.

57. U.S.—Knickerbocker Fuel Co. v. Mellon, C.C.A.N.Y., 22 F.2d 500, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 320, 276 U.S. 626, 72 L.Ed. 738.

58. Tenn.—Mellon v. American Flour & Grain Co., 9 Tenn.App. 383.

59. Cal.—Tutsch v. Director-General of Railroads, 199 P. 961, 52 Cal. App. 650.

60. Mont.—Vassau v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 221 P. 1069, 69 Mont 305.
51 C.J. p 456 note 71.

61. Mont.—Pierson v. Davis, 224 P. 235, 70 Mont 106.

62. N.Y.—De Witt v. New York Cent. R. Co., 196 N.Y.S. 870, 119 Misc. 456, affirmed 198 N.Y.S. 909, 206 App.Div 638.

63. Mass.—Sack v. Director General of Railroads, 139 N.E. 819, 245 Mass. 114.
51 C.J. p 457 note 78.

64. U.S.—Arcadia Mills v. Carolina, C. & O. R. Co., D.C.S.C., 293 F. 639.
51 C.J. p 457 note 73.

Validity of provision

Since, under its war power, congress could provide that no action of any kind should be brought against carriers over whom control was taken by the government during the war in any court, state or federal, during the period of such control, it follows that it could effectively enact the provision referred to in the text.—Cravens v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 242 S.W. 628, 195 Ky. 257.

65. Ky.—Cravens v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.

66. N.C.—Vanderbilt v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 125 S.E. 387, 188 N.C. 568, 52 A.L.R. 287, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 204, 270 U.S. 625, 70 L.Ed. 767.

67. Ga.—Georgia Southern, etc., R. Co. v. Smiley, 108 S.E. 273, 151 Ga. 795.

68. Minn.—Kanellos v. Great Northern R. Co., 186 N.W. 389, 151 Minn. 157.

69. U.S.—Arcadia Mills v. Carolina, C. & O. R. Co., D.C.S.C., 293 F. 639.
Ky.—Cravens v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 242 S.W. 628, 195 Ky. 257.

70. Ky.—Cravens v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.

71. Pa.—Hilbert v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 120 A. 778, 277 Pa. 105

72. U.S.—San Diego & A. R. Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., D.C. Cal., 293 F. 139.

73. N.J.—Jones v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 114 A. 331, 96 N.J.Law 197.

74. Tex.—Davis v. Young, Civ.App., 248 S.W. 409.

75. Iowa.—Payne v. Knapp, 198 N.W. 62, 197 Iowa 737.

76. U.S.—Walters v. Payne, C.C.A. Pa., 292 F. 124, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 136, 263 U.S. 715, 68 L.Ed. 521.
51 C.J. p 457 note 83.

77. Ohio.—Jamieson v. Davis, 144 N.E. 291, 110 Ohio St. 636.

78. U.S.—Missouri Southern R. Co. v. U. S., 65 Ct.Cl. 136, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 19, 278 U.S. 614, 73 L.Ed. 538.

79. U.S.—Davis v. Wechsler, Mo., 44 S.Ct. 13, 263 U.S. 22, 68 L.Ed. 143.

Person liable; parties Under the statutory provision for the designation by the president of an agent for the purpose of being sued, actions on causes arising out of the operation of the railroads by the federal government were, after the termination of federal control, properly brought against the agent so designated,[80] and in actions pending at such termination the agent was properly substituted as party defendant.[81] Accordingly, the agent was the only proper party defendant in any such action after federal control had been terminated,[82] and action could not be brought or maintained against a railroad company[83] or against the director general,[84] although where the agent of the president appeared in such an action the court had jurisdiction,[85] and, where one was properly sued as agent, the additional designation of him as director general was harmless surplusage;[86] but the agent could properly be substituted as party defendant in an action wrongly brought after the period of such control against a railroad company[87] or the director general,[88] subject to the period of limitation prescribed by the statute.[89] Unless he was so substituted, however, no judgment could be rendered against him[90]

When one person succeeded another as agent, the former was properly substituted for the latter as party defendant in a pending action;[91] but an action brought against one as agent who had theretofore resigned or ceased to be such was against the wrong party, and subject to dismissal.[92] It was not sufficient to sue the agent merely by his title without naming the incumbent of the office;[93] but failure to designate the agent by his exact official title did not defeat jurisdiction, being susceptible of correction by amendment.[94] Actions on causes which, although accruing during the period of federal control, did not arise out of the possession and use of the railroads by the government were properly brought against the railroad company responsible after the federal control had terminated,[95] as were actions on causes arising after such termination,[96] but in the latter case the burden was on plaintiff to show that the federal control had terminated when the cause arose.[97]

Process and appearance. When action was brought against the agent of the president, process was required to be served on such officer or agent of the railroad company, out of the operation of whose road the cause arose, as was designated by or under the provisions of the statute,[98] and service on the presidential agent in person was unauthorized.[99] The substitution of the agent as party defendant in place of the director general did not necessitate any new service.[1] A general appearance by the agent obviated any failure or defect of service.[2]

Pleadings. The petition or complaint was required to set forth sufficient facts to state a cause of action.[3]

(3) Effect on Rates and Charges

On termination of federal control, rates and charges

80. U.S.—Davis v. Cohen, Mass., 45 S.Ct. 633, 268 U.S. 638, 69 L.Ed. 1129.
51 C.J. p. 457 note 88

81. U.S.—Davis v. Cohen, supra.
51 C.J. p. 457 note 89.

82. Tenn.—Mellon v. American Flour & Grain Co., 9 Tenn.App. 383.
51 C.J. p. 457 note 90.

83. U.S.—Schroeder v. Davis, C.C.A. Mo., 32 F.2d 454.
51 C.J. p. 457 note 91.

84. Ga.—Shiell v. Davis, 119 S.E. 539, 31 Ga.App. 87.
51 C.J. p. 457 note 92.

85. U.S.—Rosenzweig v. Hines, D.C. N.Y., 285 F. 622, affirmed, C.C.A., Payne v. Rosenzweig, 285 F. 1021.
Mo.—Adams v. Quincy, etc., R. Co., 229 S.W. 790, 287 Mo. 535

86. Pa.—Hanlon v. Davis, 119 A. 822, 276 Pa. 113, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 520, 262 U.S. 742, 67 L.Ed. 1210, error dismissed 43 S.Ct. 704, 262 U.S. 762, 67 L.Ed. 1221

87. Minn.—Borsheim v. Great Northern R. Co., 183 N.W. 519, 149 Minn. 210.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 95.

88. Mont.—Pierson v. Davis, 224 P. 235, 70 Mont. 106
51 C.J. p. 458 note 96

89. U.S.—Mellon v. Weiss, Mass., 46 S.Ct. 378, 270 U.S. 565, 70 L.Ed. 736.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 97.

After period of limitation had expired, amendment of complaint which did not designate defendant as agent so as to designate him as such constituted the commencement of an action against a new party, which was barred by expiration of the period of limitation.—Mellon v. American Flour & Grain Co., 9 Tenn. App. 383.

90. S.C.—Wilhelm v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 120 S.E. 705, 127 S.C. 82.

91. Ala.—Davis v. Smitherman, 96 So. 208, 209 Ala. 244.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 99.

92. U.S.—Davidson v. Payne, C.C.A. Kan., 289 F. 69.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 1.

93. Cal.—Valley Lumber Co. v. Davis, 282 P. 512, 102 Cal.App. 126.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 2.

94. U.S.—Acheson Graphite Co. v. Mellon, D.C.N.Y., 21 F.2d 562
N.C.—Wright v. Davis, 117 S.E. 347, 185 N.C. 354.

95. U.S.—The Arizona, D.C.N.Y., 267 F. 598

96. S.C.—Bowman v. Northwestern R. Co., 130 S.E. 878, 133 S.C. 298.

97. S.C.—Bowman v. Northwestern R. Co., supra

98. D.C.—Whalen Paper, etc., Mills v. Davis, 288 F. 438, 53 App.D.C. 84.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 8.

99. D.C.—Whalen Paper, etc., Mills v. Davis, supra.

1. Ark.—Payne v. Stockton, 229 S.W. 44, 147 Ark. 598.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 10.

2. Cal.—Gilinsky Fruit Co. v. Davis, 276 P. 1050, 98 Cal.App. 301

3. U.S.—St. Louis, K. & S.E. R. Co. v. U.S., Ct.Cl., 45 S.Ct. 245, 267 U.S. 346, 69 L.Ed. 649.

in effect continued in force until changed thereafter by due authority.

Under the provisions of the Transportation Act, which were held valid as an exercise of the war powers of congress and an incident to the federal control,[4] rates and charges in effect on the railroad systems at the termination of federal control thereof continued in force until thereafter changed by due authority,[5] and state statutes or regulations fixing rates, which were suspended during the period of federal control, did not automatically become effective again at the termination thereof;[6] but such provisions did not prevent the award of reparation of excessive charges collected during the period such rates continued in effect.[7] A statute fixing rates, which was passed during the period of federal control, but which by its terms took effect only at the termination of such control, did not have the effect of changing rates in force at such termination;[8] but an affirmative reduction by the proper authority was binding on the railroad companies, even though the rate as so reduced was the same as that in effect prior to federal control.[9] As to the rates so continued in effect, however, the general rule that a rate fixed by public authority is presumed to be reasonable and proper did not apply.[10]

g. Compensation and Guaranty of Income

On termination of federal control, a railroad company was entitled to just compensation for the period of such control and possession, and to a guaranty of income for a six-month period thereafter.

The provisions of the Federal Control Act authorizing the president to agree with railroad companies, on a specified basis, on the compensation to be paid them for the federal possession and use of their roads did not establish a rule of compensation,[11] and when no agreement on such basis had been made the director general had authority to agree to the payment of such sums as under all the circumstances he should find just,[12] but the company was entitled to just compensation, determined by judicial inquiry, for each year of federal control.[13] If the parties failed to agree, a company had the right to proceed under the statute to have its just compensation determined by a board of referees;[14] and such procedure was a prerequisite to any suit against the government in the court of claims.[15]

In such a proceeding the just compensation due to the company was to be ascertained as a question of fact,[16] and the burden was on the company to prove the value of the use made of its road or the damage caused to it,[17] the fact that the right to compensation was a statutory one not relieving it of such burden.[18] The report of the board of referees provided for by the statute ordinarily was prima facie evidence of the compensation justly due,[19] but findings of such board not based on evidence showing loss or damage were of no effect.[20] A railroad company was entitled to no compensation where it had actually retained possession of its road and continued to operate it during the period for which it was theoretically or technically under federal control, and had suffered no pecuniary loss.[21]

Guaranty of income. Under the Transportation Act, a railroad company which had entered into an agreement with the president as to the amount of compensation to be paid it was guaranteed a railway operating income for a period of six months

4. Tex.—Lutcher & Moore Lumber Co. v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. R. Co., Civ.App., 33 S.W.2d 1077, affirmed, Com.App., 49 S.W.2d 726.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 13.

5. Tex.—San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. D. M. Picton & Co., Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 842, error refused—Lutcher & Moore Lumber Co. v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co., Civ. App., 33 S.W.2d 1077, affirmed, Com.App., 49 S.W.2d 726.
51 C.J. p. 458 note 14.

6. U.S.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Michigan Public Utilities Commission, D.C.Mich., 271 F. 319.
Utah.—Wasatch Coal Co. v. Baldwin, 208 P. 1109, 60 Utah 397.

7. Cal.—Southern Pac. Co. v. State R. Commission, 231 P. 28, 194 Cal. 734.

8. U.S.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Michigan Public Utilities Commission, D.C.Mich., 271 F. 319.

9. N.Y.—Public Service Commission v. New York Cent. R. Co., 139 N.E. 455, 230 N.Y. 149

10. Idaho.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 238 P. 970, 41 Idaho 181, reversed on other grounds 47 S.Ct. 604, 274 U.S. 344, 71 L.Ed. 1085

11. U.S.—Marion, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 46 S.Ct. 253, 270 U.S. 280, 70 L.Ed. 585.

12. U.S.—Railway Steel Spring Co. v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 261 F. 690.

Acceptance of benefits
U.S.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. C. I. R., C.C.A.6, 97 F.2d 348.

Basis of payment
On return of railroads to their owners after period of federal control, the United States had the obligation to return the railroads in as good physical condition as when taken, or to compensate owners in damages for impairment.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. C. I. R., supra.

13. U.S.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue v. Midland Valley R. Co., C.C.A., 57 F.2d 1042.

14. U.S.—Railway Steel Spring Co. v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 261 F. 690.

15. U.S.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 61 Ct.Cl. 961.

16. U.S.—Marion, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 46 S.Ct. 253, 270 U.S. 280, 70 L.Ed. 585.

17. U.S.—Marion, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

18. U.S.—Marion, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

19. U.S.—Marion, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

20. U.S.—Marion, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

21. U.S.—Marion, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

next after the termination of federal control equal to at least one half of the annual compensation specified in its contract,[22] and a railroad company which had not entered into such an agreement was guaranteed an income for such guaranty period of not less than one half of the annual amount estimated by the president or determined in proper proceedings to be just compensation for the use of its road.[23]

While the amount of the compensation to be paid a railway company was to be determined by a board of referees, the statute did not authorize the appointment of such a board to determine the amount of the guaranty alone.[24] A certificate from the Interstate Commerce Commission as to the amount due a railroad company on such guaranty was conclusive and not an order reviewable by the courts,[25] and the court had no jurisdiction to annul it or set it aside.[26] Even if payments made on certificates proved subsequently to be in excess of the amount to which the railroad was entitled, the company would not, in the absence of fraud or mistake, be required to make restitution.[27]

Payment of deficit. The provision of the Transportation Act for payment to any railroad company which sustained a deficit in its railway operating income during the guaranty period related only to an actual red-ink balance in such operating income and not to a mere decrease thereof.[28] A note of a railroad company held by the United States was available as an offset against the guaranty made by the government.[29] The decision of the commission as to the amount of reimbursement for deficit sustained was conclusive;[30] if, in adjudicating such question, the commission erred as to matters within its jurisdiction, the government, as well as the railroad company, was without remedy,[31] whether the error was one of fact or law.[32]

Release or settlement by railroad companies. The director general had authority to enter into an agreement with a railroad company releasing the United States from liability on claims for compensation or guaranty of income.[33] Such a release by a railroad company of all claims against the government growing out of the federal control of railroads, when founded on a valuable consideration, concluded its rights to compensation for the use of its road during the period of such control,[34] but not to compensation for war transportation service prior to federal control.[35]

IV. PUBLIC AID

§ 32. In General

In order that a grant of public aid to a railroad company may be valid there must be substantial compliance with all of the provisions authorizing and governing such grants.

In a number of jurisdictions constitutional and

22. D C—Interstate Commerce Commission v U. S, 17 F 2d 860, 57 App D C 101.

Railroads included

A company not incorporated as a carrier, but to manufacture, rent, and sell cars, and owning no railroad lines, was not a "carrier by railroad," within Transportation Act guaranteeing a minimum railway operating income to such carriers for a six-month period—U. S ex rel Chicago, New York & Boston Refrigerator Co v Interstate Commerce Commission, 44 S Ct 558, 265 U.S. 292, 68 L Ed 1024.

23. D C—Interstate Commerce Commission v U. S, 17 F.2d 860, 57 App.D C. 101.

24. D C—Interstate Commerce Commission v. U. S, supra

25. U S—U. S. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., Minn, 53 S Ct 28, 287 U. S. 144, 77 L Ed 223—Great Northern R. Co. v U S., D C Minn, 22 F.2d 865, affirmed 48 S Ct. 466, 277 U S 172, 72 L Ed. 838.

Analogy to decision of arbitrator

Interstate Commerce Commission authorized to certify amounts ascertained to be owed railroads under statutory guaranty of income following federal control occupies position analogous to that of arbitrator agreed on by contract providing that his finding is final—U S v Great Northern Ry Co, C C A Mich, 57 F 2d 385, affirmed 53 S.Ct 28, 287 U.S 144, 77 L Ed 223

26. U S—Great Northern R Co v. U S, Minn, 22 F 2d 865, affirmed 48 S Ct 466, 277 U S 172, 72 L Ed 838.

27. U S—U. S v. Great Northern Ry. Co, Minn, 53 S Ct 28, 287 U. S 144, 77 L Ed 223—U S v Great Northern Ry Co, D C.Minn., 46 F. 2d 999—Northern Pac Ry. Co v. U S, Ct Cl, 18 F Supp. 543, certiorari denied U S. v Northern Pac. R. Co, 58 S Ct. 270, 302 U S. 750, 82 L Ed. 580

Mistake not shown

U S—Northern Pac Ry. Co v. U S, Ct.Cl, 18 F Supp. 543, certiorari denied U S v. Northern Pac R. Co, 58 S Ct. 270, 302 U.S. 750, 82 L.Ed. 580.

28. U S.—U S v Butte, A. & P. R Co, D.C Mont., 38 F.2d 871.

29. U S—Birmingham Trust & Savings Co. v. Atlanta, B & A R Co., D C Ga, 300 F 173

30. U S—Butte, A & P Ry Co. v. U S, Mont, 54 S Ct 108, 290 U S 127, 78 L Ed 222

31. U S—Butte, A. & P Ry Co v. U S, supra.

32. U S.—Butte, A. & P Ry Co v. U S, supra

33. U S.—Cairo, etc., R Co v U. S, Ct Cl, 45 S Ct 247, 267 U S 350, 69 L Ed 651—St Louis, etc, R Co v U. S, Ct Cl., 45 S Ct. 245, 267 U S. 346, 69 L Ed 649.

Settlement construed

U S.—Chicago & Eastern Illinois Ry Co. v U S, 66 Ct Cl 193.

34. U S—St Louis, etc., R Co v U. S., Ct Cl, 45 S Ct 245, 267 U S 346, 69 L Ed 649—Missouri Southern R. Co v. U. S, 65 Ct Cl 136, certiorari denied 49 S Ct 19, 278 U S 614, 73 L Ed 538—Cairo, etc, R Co v U S, 58 Ct Cl 336, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 247, 267 U.S. 350, 69 L Ed. 651.

35. U S.—Pere Marquette R Co. v. U. S, Ct Cl., 46 S Ct. 267, 270 U S. 320, 70 L.Ed 606.

statutory provisions, or municipal ordinances enacted pursuant to such provisions, have at various times provided for the extension to railroad companies of public aid in the establishment and construction of railroads, either by gifts of money or property, the issuance of public securities, subscriptions to or purchases of the stock of the companies, or the like, and in order that a grant of public aid to a railroad company may be valid there must be substantial compliance with all such provisions authorizing it;[36] but a mere irregularity in the proceedings will not necessarily invalidate the grant or destroy the company's right thereto,[37] and may be cured by statutes subsequently enacted.[38]

Where a municipality is authorized merely to make gifts or donations in aid of a railroad company, a grant made on the condition or in consideration that the company perform certain acts is void and the company cannot enforce it, although it has performed such acts on the faith thereof.[39] The fact that a railroad company is authorized to construct and operate a telegraph line in connection with, and as incidental to, the operation of its road will not invalidate a grant of public aid in the construction of the road.[40]

A grant of a right of way for a railroad is not a "gratuity" within a constitutional provision prohibiting the grant of any gratuity in favor of any person, corporation, or association.[41]

§ 33. Indemnity or Security for Aid Granted

Where so required, the railroad company must give proper security in order to be entitled to the benefit of a grant of public aid.

Railroad companies to which aid is granted by the state ordinarily are required by constitutional or statutory provisions to secure or indemnify the state for the amount of such aid; and when so required the company is not entitled to the benefit of the grant without giving the required security.[42] The purpose of such a provision for security or indemnification is to secure the state in the loan of its credit to the company,[43] and the state is not thereby made a trustee for the benefit of the company's bondholders,[44] nor do such bondholders have any interest in the security taken by the state.[45]

The security given by the company must be of such character as may be required by the constitutional or statutory provisions relating thereto, such as a mortgage or pledge of the company's stock,[46] a mortgage of its property,[47] or such other lien or security, real or personal, as may be agreed on by the parties.[48] Where a municipality is authorized to require the execution of a bond guaranteeing the application of the funds covered by the public grant to the construction of a road, its failure to require such a bond does not invalidate its right to indemnity under other security taken by it.[49] A statute requiring security from the railroad company does not apply to grants of public aid made prior to its enactment.[50]

§ 34. Control of Grant by Commissioners or Other Officers

A railroad company is not entitled to the benefits of a grant of public aid until such action as a board or other group of officers is required to take has been taken; and such board or officers may not take the necessary action until all conditions attached to the grant have been complied with.

Where a legislative provision for public aid to railroad companies places the control of the grant in a board of commissioners or other officers, a company has no right to the benefit of such grant or to receive aid thereunder until such board or officers have acted in its favor,[51] as until after they have determined that all conditions attached to the grant have been complied with[52] and have made an appropriation or donation of the money voted,[53] which can be done only after it is collected.[54]

On the other hand, the board has no authority to execute the grant in favor of a railroad company

36. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Allegheny County, 37 Pa. 237.

37. Ind.—Darby v. Anderson, 77 N.E. 1083, 167 Ind. 707.
51 C.J. p. 460 note 57.

38. Mass.—Portage County v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 121 Mass. 460.

39. Ind.—Indiana North, etc., R. Co. v. Attica, 56 Ind. 476.
51 C.J. p. 460 note 59.

40. Iowa.—Snell v. Leonard, 8 N.W. 425, 55 Iowa 553.

41. U.S.—State of Georgia v. Trustees of Cincinnati Southern Ry., 39 S.Ct. 14, 248 U.S. 26, 63 L.Ed. 104.

42. Miss.—Hemmingway v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 52 Miss. 16.

43. U.S.—Cunningham v. Macon & B. R. Co., C.C.Ga., 6 F.Cas.No.3,483, 3 Woods 418.

44. U.S.—Cunningham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., supra.

45. U.S.—Weil v. Alabama State Land Co., C.C.Ala., 175 F. 252.

46. U.S.—Cincinnati v. Morgan, 3 Wall. 275, 18 L.Ed. 146.

47. U.S.—Cunningham v. Macon & B. R. Co., C.C.Ga., 6 F.Cas.No.3,483, 3 Woods 418.
51 C.J. p. 460 note 69.

48. U.S.—Cincinnati v. Morgan, 3 Wall. 275, 18 L.Ed. 146.

49. Ky.—Sinking Fund Comrs. v. Northern Bank, 1 Metc. 174.

50. Ky.—Russell v. Cumberland, etc., R. Co., 8 Ky.Op. 344.

51. Iowa.—Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

52. Ind.—Demaree v. Bridges, 65 N.E. 601, 30 Ind.App. 131.
51 C.J. p. 460 note 74.

53. Ind.—State v. Clinton County, 76 N.E. 986, 166 Ind. 162.

54. Ind.—State v. Clinton County, supra.

until the performance by such company of the conditions on which the grant is made.[55] The determination of the commissioners as to whether the conditions of the grant have been complied with is not conclusive in a direct action before a court of competent jurisdiction,[56] although it cannot be collaterally attacked,[57] but no action for damages can be maintained against the commissioners for failure to act in favor of a railroad company unless such failure is willful or corrupt.[58] Where a public agency has subscribed to stock of a railroad company, as an aid to the construction of its road, it is the duty of the commissioners to exchange or otherwise dispose of such stock in the manner authorized by statute,[59] and to account for the proceeds thereof to the proper county, state, or municipal authorities,[60] who may maintain an action against the commissioners for an accounting.[61]

Abandonment and termination of office. Commissioners or other similar officers charged with the control of a grant of public aid cannot, while they continue to hold office, transfer their official rights[62] or divest themselves of their official duties,[63] and, on the other hand, they cannot perform any official acts after they cease to hold office.[64] Such commissioners or similar officers may be removed from office for unlawful or willful nonfeasance in office.[65]

§ 35. Assignments of Right to Aid Granted

A railroad company may assign its right to aid which has been granted to it.

A railroad company to which aid has been granted may assign its right thereto,[66] and whether such assignment is with or without consideration ordinarily is no concern of the state, county, or municipal corporation by which the grant is made.[67] Similarly, a company has power to make a general assignment of its right to avail itself of a standing offer of public aid,[68] even though it has not yet complied with the terms or conditions on which the offer is made.[69] Such an assignment of aid granted or of the right to obtain it may be made to private persons.[70]

§ 36. Negotiation and Transfer of Securities

In the absence of a provision to the contrary, a railroad company may negotiate securities issued to it by a state or a municipal corporation, or its own securities indorsed by a state or municipal corporation, as a measure of public aid; and the rights of holders of negotiable bonds so issued are the same as those of holders of other negotiable instruments.

Except as may be provided otherwise by constitution or statute,[71] a railroad company has full authority to negotiate or transfer bonds or other securities issued to it by a state, county, or municipality in aid of the establishment and construction of its road,[72] or its own securities indorsed by a state, county or municipality, as a measure of public aid;[73] and the company may assign and transfer scrip issued to it.[74]

Rights of purchasers and transferees. Holders of negotiable bonds or securities issued in aid of a railroad company are entitled, as against a state, county, or municipality by which such bonds or securities are made or indorsed, to the same rights, privileges, and immunities as holders of other negotiable instruments.[75] Where bonds are invalid as against the state, an innocent holder thereof may hold the railroad which negotiated the bonds.[76] An innocent holder is not affected by any fraud or mistake in the issue of the bonds[77] although the

55. U.S.—Buffalo & J. R. Co. v. Falconer, N.Y., 103 U.S. 821, 26 L.Ed. 471.

56. Minn.—McManus v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 52 N.W. 980, 51 Minn. 30

57. Ind.—Demaree v. Bridges, 65 N.E. 601, 30 Ind.App. 131.

58. Iowa—Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33

59. N.Y.—People v. Eddy, 3 Lans. 80—People v. Burnside, 3 Lans. 74

60. N.Y.—Griggs v. Griggs, 56 N.Y. 504.

61. N.Y.—Griggs v. Griggs, supra.

62. N.Y.—Biddlecom v. Newton, 13 Hun 582

63. N.Y.—Biddlecom v. Newton, supra

64. N.Y.—Biddlecom v. Newton, supra.

65. N.Y.—People v. Eddy, 3 Lans. 80—People v. Burnside, 3 Lans. 74.

66. Iowa—Manning v. Mathews, 30 N.W. 749, 70 Iowa 303—Arkansas Southern R. Co. v. Wilson, 42 So. 976, 118 La. 395.
51 C.J. p. 461 note 88.

67. La.—Arkansas Southern R. Co. v. Wilson, 42 So. 976, 118 La. 395.

68. Minn.—State v. Hastings, 24 Minn. 78
Wis.—Crogster v. Bayfield County, 74 N.W. 635, 77 N.W. 167, 99 Wis. 1.

69. Minn.—State v. Hastings, 24 Minn. 78

70. La.—Arkansas Southern R. Co. v. Wilson, 42 So. 976, 118 La. 395.

71. Ga.—Jones v. Mason, etc., R. Co., 39 Ga. 138.
51 C.J. p. 461 note 93.

72. U.S.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Howard, Iowa, 7 Wall. 392, 19 L.Ed. 117.
51 C.J. p. 461 note 94.

73. Ala.—State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127.

74. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Haupt, 10 Allen 38.

75. U.S.—Curtis v. Butler County, C.C.Pa., 6 F.Cas.No. 3,500.
Conn.—Society for Sav. v. New London, 29 Conn. 174.
Rights in particular case determined
U.S.—Cunningham v. Macon & B. R. Co., Ga., 15 S.Ct. 361, 156 U.S. 400, 39 L.Ed. 471.

76. U.S.—Tompkins v. Little Rock & Ft. S. R. Co., C.C.Ark., 18 F. 344, 5 McCrary 597, affirmed 8 S.Ct. 762, 125 U.S. 109, 31 L.Ed. 615—Tompkins v. Little Rock & Ft. S. R. Co., C.C.Ark., 15 F. 6.

77. U.S.—Florida Cent. R. Co. v. Schutte, Fla., 103 U.S. 118, 26 L.Ed. 327.
51 C.J. p. 461 note 98.

company may be liable to the state because of it;[78] but a purchaser or holder who has notice, actual or constructive, of irregularities or informalities in the bonds or securities or their negotiation takes subject thereto,[79] and if they were fraudulently issued it is incumbent on a holder thereof to show that he is a bona fide purchaser for value[80]

§ 37. Termination, Avoidance, and Forfeiture of Grant

A grant of public aid may expire by its own terms on the occurrence of a designated event, and may be avoided if secured by fraud; it may be lost by failure to perform certain acts.

A grant of public aid to a railroad company expires by its own terms on the occurrence of any acts or circumstances expressly made a cause for such expiration,[81] and may be avoided or its execution restrained if secured by fraud or misrepresentation.[82] The right to the benefit of a grant may be lost by failure to claim it within a prescribed time[83] or failure to perform conditions precedent, on which the grant is to be made;[84] but such right is not forfeited by an assignment of the aid granted,[85] or by a temporary suspension of the work on the road,[86] or by an omission to make compensation to a landowner for land taken;[87] and, where a railroad company has substantially performed the conditions on which it becomes entitled to aid, its right thereto is not affected by its subsequent misconduct in operating the road.[88]

No parol contract, stipulation, or limitation can be set up to defeat a tax voted in aid of a railroad company[89] except to establish fraud,[90] and, where the road has been completed before the tax is levied, an omission to state in the levy the time when the road was to be completed, will not defeat the tax[91] The repeal of a statute authorizing a tax to be levied for the purpose of aiding a railroad company does not take away the right to such tax of a company which had expended money in construction on the faith of it, even though no levy has been made at the time of the repeal,[92] but, when no money has been expended in reliance on the tax, the repeal of the statute deprives the company of all right to have the tax collected[93] A grant of aid is not invalidated by a subsequent amendment to the charter of the company changing its name[94] or by any other change not a fundamental one[95]

§ 38. —— Effect of Sale, Lease, or Consolidation of Railroad

According to some, but not other, authorities, where a railroad company which has been granted public aid transfers its property and franchises to another company before performing the conditions attached to the grant, the vendee company is not entitled to the benefit of the grant, even though it complies with such conditions; a grant of aid is not invalidated by an agreement of a company to sell or transfer its road after completion A grant of public aid is not necessarily invalidated by consolidation.

It has been held that, where a railroad company to which public aid has been granted transfers its property and franchises to another company without having performed conditions which were attached to the grant, the vendee company is not entitled to the benefit of the grant, even though it complies with such conditions,[96] except when the grant was made with knowledge and in contemplation of a proposed transfer or assignment by the company in whose favor the grant was made;[97] but there is authority to the contrary that, in the absence of statutory restriction, the sale of the railroad before compliance with the attached conditions does not destroy the right to the aid granted, where such conditions are thereafter complied

78. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Haupt, 10 Allen 38.

79. U.S.—Curtis v. Butler County, C.C.Pa., 6 F.Cas.No.3,500.
51 C.J. p. 461 note 1.

80. U.S.—Curtis v. Butler County, supra.

81. Pa.—West Branch Canal Co. v. Elmira, etc., R. Co., 85 Pa. 180
51 C.J. p. 461 note 4.

82. Neb.—Nash v. Baker, 56 N.W. 376, 37 Neb. 713.
51 C.J. p. 461 note 5.

83. Iowa.—Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Elseffer, 51 N.W. 27, 84 Iowa 510.
51 C.J. p. 462 note 6.

84. W.Va.—West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 34 S.E. 786, 47 W.Va. 273.

85. La.—Arkansas Southern R. Co. v. Wilson, 42 So. 976, 118 La. 395

86. Iowa.—Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61
51 C.J. p. 462 note 9

87. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Keene, 62 N.H. 81.

88. Minn.—Hodgman v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 153.

89. Iowa.—Harwood v. Quinby, 44 Iowa 385—Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

90. Iowa.—Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, supra.

91. Iowa.—Burges v. Mabin, 27 N.W. 464, 70 Iowa 633.

92. Iowa.—Cantillon v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 42 N.W. 613, 78 Iowa 48, 5 L.R.A. 776—Burges v. Mabin, 27 N.W. 464, 70 Iowa 633.

93. Iowa.—Barthel v. Meader, 33 N.W. 446, 72 Iowa 125.

94. Ill.—Reading v. Wedder, 66 Ill. 80.
Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stafford County, 12 P. 593, 36 Kan. 121.

95. Ill.—Reading v. Wedder, 66 Ill. 80.

96. Neb.—Midland Tp. v. Gage County, 56 N.W. 317, 37 Neb. 582.

97. Wis.—Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 15 N.W. 743, 825, 57 Wis. 430

with,[98] even though such sale works a dissolution of the original company.[99]

Under a statute giving taxpayers a right to stock in a railroad company on the payment of a tax voted in its aid, a sale of the road before completion works a forfeiture of the tax[1] except where the transfer provides that stock of the purchasing company of equal or greater value shall be issued to taxpayers in return for the aid voted.[2] A grant of aid is not, however, invalidated by the agreement of a company to sell or transfer its road after completion,[3] or by a partial assignment of its franchises,[4] or by the alienation[5] or perpetual lease[6] of the railroad after completion; and, where there is no question as to the performance of conditions precedent, a state, county, or municipality cannot, after the collection and payment into the public treasury of a tax voted in aid of a railroad company, set up the defense that the company had sold and disposed of its property and franchises before the tax became due.[7]

Effect of consolidation of company. A grant of public aid to a railroad company is not necessarily invalidated by its consolidation or merger with another company,[8] and the consolidated company ordinarily is entitled to the benefit of the grant;[9] but, where the aid granted consists in a subscription to bonds of a railroad company, the company formed by its consolidation with another or others cannot claim the benefit of the grant on tendering bonds of such consolidated company.[10]

§ 39. Rights and Liabilities of Railroad Company

A grant of public aid should be strictly construed in favor of the rights of property. Where a grant is duly made and all the conditions are complied with, it becomes a binding contract, and the grant cannot be withdrawn or revoked without the consent of the company.

Since grants of public aid to railroad companies impose a burden on the public and deprive owners of property of the full rights of control and disposition thereof, such grants should be strictly construed in favor of the rights of property;[11] but they should not be construed so strictly as to deprive a company of aid clearly intended to be given it.[12] Where a grant of aid is duly made and all the conditions, if any, annexed thereto are performed by the railroad company, it becomes a binding contract, to the benefit of which the company is entitled,[13] in preference to any other company to which a later grant has been or may be made,[14] even though the conditions of the later grant may first be complied with by such other company,[15] and this is true irrespective of the company's financial ability to complete or maintain its road,[16] and although the company has issued its own bonds in excess of the statutory limit;[17] nor is the company's right to such aid affected by its noncompliance with additional conditions in a subsequent statute[18] or by independent conditions which are to be performed after the company is entitled to the aid.[19]

After it has so become binding, a grant cannot be withdrawn or revoked without the consent of the company;[20] but until aid has actually been granted the company has no vested right thereto,[21] and until then the method by which grants may or must be made may be altered without infringing any right.[22] Under some statutes a mere vote of the public to issue bonds or levy a tax in aid of a

98. Iowa—Muscatine Western R. Co v. Horton, 33 Iowa 33.

99. Iowa—Muscatine Western R Co v. Horton, supra.

1. Iowa—State v. Iowa Cent. R Co., 32 N.W. 409, 71 Iowa 410, 60 Am.R. 806.
51 C.J. p 462 note 25.

2. Iowa—Cantillon v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 35 N.W. 620, reversed 42 N. W. 613, 78 Iowa 48, 5 L.R.A. 776.

3. Kan.—Southern Kansas, etc., R. Co. v Towner, 21 P. 221, 41 Kan. 72.

4. U.S.—Cass County v. Gillett, Mo., 100 U.S. 585, 25 L.Ed. 585.
Wis.—Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 15 N.W. 743, 825, 57 Wis. 430.

5. Iowa.—Parsons v. Childs, 36 Iowa 108

6. Iowa—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Shea, 25 N.W. 901, 67 Iowa 728.

7. Iowa—Merrill v. Marshall County, 36 N.W. 778, 74 Iowa 24.

8. U.S.—Bates County v. Winters, Mo., 5 S.Ct. 157, 112 U.S. 325, 28 L. Ed. 744.
Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stafford County, 12 P. 593, 36 Kan. 121.

9. U.S.—Livingston County v. First National Bank of Portsmouth, Mo., 9 S.Ct. 18, 128 U.S. 102, 32 L.Ed. 359
51 C.J. p 462 note 34.

10. N.J.—New Jersey Midland R. Co. v. Strait, 35 N.J.Law 322.

11. Ind.—Demaree v. Johnson, 49 N. E. 1062, 50 N.E. 376, 156 Ind. 419.

12. S.C.—State v. Ashmore, 44 S.C. L. 248
51 C.J. p 463 note 39.

13. U.S.—Red Rock v. Henry, Minn., 1 S.Ct. 434, 106 U.S. 596, 27 L.Ed. 251
51 C.J. p 463 note 40.

14. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Osage County, 16 P. 828, 38 Kan. 597.

15. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Osage County, supra.

16. Ind.—Zintsmaster v. Gill, 114 N. E. 210, 185 Ind. 610.
Iowa—Whitney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 110 N.W. 912, 133 Iowa 508.

17. Iowa.—Whitney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

18. Ala.—Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 36 Ala. 371.

19. Iowa—Zorger v. Rapids Tp., 36 Iowa 175.
51 C.J. p 463 note 46.

20. U.S.—Red Rock v. Henry, Minn 1 S.Ct. 434, 106 U.S. 596, 27 L.Ed. 251.
51 C.J. p 463 note 47

21. Mo.—State v. Garroutte, 67 Mo. 445.

22. Mo.—State v. Garroutte, supra.

railroad is not sufficient to entitle the company to the aid voted until there is also made an agreement between the company and the county or municipality, fixing the conditions on which the money or bonds are to be delivered,[23] or until the tax voted has been collected.[24]

Where money granted is to be paid over to the railroad company "when ordered by the court," the company has no lien on money collected but not ordered to be paid over, and until so ordered the money may be recalled from the agent holding it.[25] Where a railroad company issues warrants in anticipation of taxes voted by a municipality in aid of the company, providing that they shall be receivable by the company from the county treasurer in payment of the aid voted, neither the railroad company issuing them nor the indorser thereof is liable thereon until after a demand that they be received by the county treasurer in payment of the railroad tax, and his refusal so to receive them.[26]

§ 40. —— Acceptance and Performance of Conditions

a. In general
b. Construction, maintenance, and operation of railroad
c. Location of railroad, offices, stations, etc.
d. Amount or value of work done
e. Expenditure of aid

a. In General

A railroad company becomes entitled to the benefit of aid granted to it only on substantial compliance with all the conditions precedent on which the grant was made, unless performance of such conditions is waived or excused; acceptance of the grant is an acceptance of all its conditions and estops the company to attack them.

In order that a railroad company may become entitled to aid granted to it by a state, county, or other municipal corporation, and compel the collection of the tax, the issue of bonds, or the like, as the case may be, it must at least substantially perform on its part all the conditions precedent on which the grant was made[27] unless the performance of such conditions has been waived[28] or is sufficiently excused,[29] and the acceptance of a grant is an acceptance of all its terms and conditions,[30] so that the company is estopped to assert that such terms or conditions are void or unreasonable.[31] In determining whether conditions have been complied with, the language used in the grant should be considered according to its ordinary and popular meaning, that is, as it would be understood by the voters or public generally.[32]

Where the condition is the running of the first locomotive over the line of road between certain points, the running of the company's trains along the road of another company for a part of the distance under a lease from the latter, liable to be terminated by either party on notice, is not a substantial compliance,[33] although it has been said that it would be otherwise if the performance were under a perpetual lease[34] or a purchase of the other road.[35] Bonds or moneys granted as aid should not be deposited in escrow, in advance of compliance with the conditions of the grant,[36] and such a deposit, if made, does not enlarge the company's rights or give it any vested rights in advance of compliance with such conditions.[37] Where aid granted is payable in portions or installments, the right of the company to one installment is not affected by its failure to comply with the conditions on which another or other installments are payable.[38]

Conditions subsequent. Where a railroad company fails to perform fully conditions subsequent attached to a grant or acts in consideration of which the grant was made, the municipality granting the aid has a cause of action against the company on common-law principles to recover the mon-

23. U.S.—Pope v. Board of Com'rs of Lake County, C.C.Ind., 51 F. 769.
51 C.J. p. 463 note 50.

24. U.S.—Pope v. Board of Com'rs of Lake County, supra.

25. Mo.—Henry County v. Allen, 50 Mo. 231.

26. Iowa.—Lisle v. Iowa, etc., R. Co., 6 N.W. 696, 54 Iowa 499

27. Minn.—Birch Cooley v. Minneapolis First Nat. Bank, 90 N.W. 789, 86 Minn. 385.
51 C.J. p. 463 note 55.

28. U.S.—Randolph County v. Post, Ill., 93 U.S. 502, 23 L.Ed. 957
Kan.—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 24 Kan. 170

29. Mo.—State v. Daviess County Ct., 64 Mo. 30

30. W.Va.—West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 34 S.E. 786, 47 W.Va. 273.

31. Tenn.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Wisdom, 5 Heisk. 125.
W.Va.—West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 34 S.E. 786, 47 W.Va. 273.

32. Ill.—People v. Clayton, 88 Ill. 45.

33. Ill.—People v. Clayton, supra.

34. Ill.—People v. Clayton, supra.

35. Ill.—People v. Clayton, supra.

36. W.Va.—West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 34 S.E. 786, 47 W.Va. 273.

37. W.Va.—West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., supra.

38. Tenn.—Sholl v. Carter County, Ch.App., 42 S.W. 78.
51 C.J. p. 464 note 66.

ey or bonds delivered to it, or the value of the aid.[39]

b. Construction, Maintenance, and Operation of Railroad

A railroad company's right to aid granted depends on its performance of any conditions relative to the construction, maintenance, or operation of the railroad; in the absence of a provision specifying the time within which such conditions should be performed, the railroad company is entitled to a reasonable time.

In accordance with the general rules relating to the performance of conditions attached to a grant of public aid, a railroad company's right to aid granted depends on its performance of any conditions relative to the construction, maintenance, and equipment of the road,[40] as that it shall be constructed between designated points or to or through a designated place[41] or that it shall be completed and put into operation.[42] In the absence of anything in the grant to the contrary, a provision making the construction of the railroad a condition of the grant does not require construction in any other manner or a railroad of any other character than that which is contemplated by the charter of the company and is usual under like circumstances,[43] and, unless the terms of the grant describe the kind of road, the condition is complied with by constructing any road which is capable of doing the business of the territory through which it passes, even though it be a narrow-gauge road.[44]

While it has been held that a purchase of a completed line of railroad is not sufficient compliance with such a condition,[45] there is authority for the contrary view, at least where the road purchased constitutes only a minor part of the line for the construction of which the aid was granted.[46] Under a condition requiring completion or operation, the railroad need not be perfect in every respect so long as it is in a condition to be operated;[47] but it must be so far completed that it may be properly and regularly used for the purpose of transporting freight and passengers,[48] and must be in as reasonably fit condition, and as safe and convenient for public use, as new roads usually are in similar localities,[49] and construction in such an incomplete and imperfect manner that the ordinary business of the company cannot be transacted thereon is not sufficient.[50]

Even though not expressed by the grant, and unless otherwise provided therein, the maintenance and operation of the railroad during the life of the company as fixed by its charter or articles of incorporation is ordinarily, by clear implication, either a condition of, or the consideration for, the grant of aid.[51]

Time for commencement and completion of construction. In the absence of express provision in a grant of public aid, conditioned on the construction or completion of the railroad, as to the time within which construction shall be commenced or the railroad be completed, the company is entitled to a reasonable time,[52] and mere lapse of time, provided it is not unreasonable, will not cause a forfeiture of the company's rights,[53] except where the charter of the company requires its road to be completed within a specified period, in which case such requirement will be regarded as a condition of the grant.[54] Where, however, the time for commencement[55] or completion[56] is specified in the grant, the right of the railroad company to the aid granted depends on compliance with such provisions, and a court of equity will not relieve it from a failure to comply therewith[57] unless such failure is caused by the state, county, or municipality granting the aid.[58] An act of God is not, it has been held, an excuse for failure of compliance;[59] nor is a delay excusable which results from the company's negligence in taking the steps necessary to 39. Minn.—Hinckley v. Kettle River R. Co., 72 N.W. 835, 70 Minn. 105. 51 C.J. p. 464 note 67.

40. Iowa.—Lamb v. Anderson, 3 N.W. 416, 6 N.W. 268, 54 Iowa 190.

41. Iowa.—Burges v. Mabin, 27 N.W. 464, 70 Iowa 633. 51 C.J. p. 464 note 71.

42. Me.—Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Hartford, 58 Me. 23.

43. Minn.—Hodgman v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 153.

44. Iowa.—Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523.—Meader v. Lowry, 45 Iowa 684.

45. Iowa.—Iowa, etc., R. Co. v. Schenck, 10 N.W. 215, 56 Iowa 628. 51 C.J. p. 465 note 75.

46. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Makepeace, 24 P. 1104, 44 Kan. 676. 51 C.J. p. 465 note 77.

47. Iowa.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Shea, 25 N.W. 901, 67 Iowa 728. 51 C.J. p. 465 note 78.

48. Minn.—Hodgman v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 153. 51 C.J. p. 465 note 79.

49. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Keen, 62 N.H. 81.

50. Iowa.—Cox v. Forest City, etc., R. Co., 22 N.W. 672, 66 Iowa 289. 51 C.J. p. 465 note 81.

51. Minn.—Hinckley v. Kettle River R. Co., 72 N.W. 835, 70 Minn. 105.

52. U.S.—Green v. Dyersburg, C.C. Tenn., 10 F.Cas.No.5,756, 2 Flipp. 477.

53. Minn.—State v. Lime, 23 Minn. 521. 51 C.J. p. 465 note 84.

54. U.S.—Green v. Dyersburg, C.C. Tenn., 10 F.Cas.No.5,756, 2 Flipp. 477.

55. N.Y.—Farnham v. Benedict, 13 N.E. 784, 107 N.Y. 159. 51 C.J. p. 565 note 86.

56. U.S.—Grattan Tp. v. Chilton, Neb., 97 F. 145, 38 C.C.A. 84. 51 C.J. p. 465 note 87.

57. W.Va.—West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 34 S.E. 786, 47 W.Va. 273.

58. Ill.—People v. Holden, 82 Ill. 93.

59. Kan.—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 24 Kan. 170.

secure the right to cross the lines and road of another company.[60]

A statute providing that the running of the period for the performance of such conditions shall be stayed during such time as performance is prevented by an injunction is not retroactive.[61] Under some statutes the failure of a railroad company to commence work or complete the road within the specified time does not operate as a forfeiture of the aid voted until a declaration of forfeiture is made by the proper board or officers and in the manner prescribed.[62]

The commencement of work on the railroad, within the requirements of conditions as to the time thereof, means the time of beginning the work of construction,[63] and not the acquirement of the right of way[64] or the letting of contracts for the construction of the road.[65]

c. Location of Railroad, Offices, Stations, Etc.

A railroad company is entitled to the benefit of a grant of aid only on complying with any condition thereto attached relative to the location of the railroad or the establishment and maintenance of its offices, stations, etc, unless performance of such conditions has been waived.

In accordance with the general rules relating to the performance of conditions attached to a grant of public aid, a railroad company is entitled to the benefit of such a grant only on complying with any condition thereto attached relative to the location of its railroad[66] or the establishment and maintenance of offices,[67] stations,[68] and repair shops and roundhouses,[69] unless performance of such conditions has been waived,[70] or unless the change in location is authorized by law[71] or was contemplated by the municipality or county when it made its subscription.[72]

Substantial performance of such conditions, however, ordinarily is sufficient; and so, where the road is completed and accomplishes the main purposes of the grant, in making connection between designated points, inconsiderable changes made by the company in the route originally proposed,[73] such as alterations in the line of the road which do not change the terminal points or materially affect the general route,[74] do not deprive the company of the right to the aid granted. The survey of a line of a railroad before voting a tax to aid in its construction does not constitute a representation as to the location of the line of the road which is binding on the company or on which a taxpayer is authorized to rely,[75] and the fact that there is some deviation from the original route as set forth in the company's articles of incorporation does not disentitle the company to the aid where it does not appear that the location of the road on such route is a condition on which the aid was granted.[76] However, where at the time of submitting such proposition the route of such road was located, it will be presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that such location was a part of the proposition,[77] and so, if after the vote is taken the location is changed to a route materially different from the original one, the right to such aid is lost.[78]

d. Amount or Value of Work Done

In order to become entitled to the benefit of a grant of public aid, a railroad company must comply substantially with a condition attached to the grant requiring the company to do an amount of work on the railroad equal to a specified value.

Under a condition attached to a grant of public aid requiring the railroad company to do work on the railroad equal in value to the amount of aid granted, earth work is not alone to be included in determining whether or not such condition has been

60. Minn—McManus v Duluth, etc, R. Co., 52 N.W. 980, 51 Minn. 30.

61. Minn—McManus v. Duluth, etc., R. Co, supra.

62. Ind—Nixon v Campbell, 4 N E 296, 7 N.E 258, 106 Ind. 47.
51 C J. p 466 note 94.

63. Ind.—State v. Wheadon, 39 Ind. 520

64. Ind—State v. Wheadon, supra.

65. Ind—State v. Wheadon, supra.

66. Tex—Kansas City, etc, R. Co. v. State, 163 S.W 582, 106 Tex 249, error dismissed 36 S Ct. 553, 241 U.S 650, 60 L.Ed 1221.
51 C J. p 466 note 1.

67. Minn—State v. Minneapolis, 21 N W. 722, 32 Minn. 501.
51 C.J. p 466 note 2.

68. Ark—Fayetteville Wagon, etc, Co v. Kenefick Constr. Co., 88 S. W 1031.
51 C J. p 466 note 3.

69. La—Bradley-Ramsay Lumber Co. v. Perkins, 33 So. 351, 109 La. 317.

70. Me—Bucksport, etc, R. Co. v. Brewer, 67 Me. 295.
Ohio—Stewart v. Little Miami R Co., 14 Ohio 353.

71. Me—Lowell v. Washington County R. Co., 37 A. 869, 90 Me 80.
51 C J. p 466 note 6.

72. Wis—Lynch v Eastern, etc, R Co, 15 N.W. 743, 825, 57 Wis 430

73. Cal—Stockton, etc., R. Co. v Stockton, 51 Cal. 328.
Ind.—Marion County v. Center Tp, 2 N E. 368, 7 N E. 189, 105 Ind. 422.

74. Ind—Marion County v. Center Tp, supra.

75. Iowa—Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61.

76. Iowa—Cantillon v Dubuque, etc., R Co., 42 N W. 613, 78 Iowa 48, 5 L.R.A 776
Me—Lowell v. Washington County R. Co, 37 A. 869, 90 Me. 80.

77. W Va—Ravenswood, etc, R. Co. v. Ravenswood, 24 S.E. 597, 41 W. Va. 732, 56 Am S.R. 906.

78. La.—Lawson v. Opelousas, etc, R Co, 56 So 625, 129 La. 649.
W.Va—Ravenswood, etc, R. Co v. Ravenswood, 24 S.E. 597, 41 W.Va. 732, 56 Am.S R. 906.

complied with,[79] but all the work which enters into the construction of the roadbed complete for the transportation of cars may be included.[80] Substantial performance of such a condition is necessary, as in the case of every other condition attached to such grants, in order to entitle the company to the aid granted;[81] but although a company does not expend a sum sufficient to entitle it to the whole aid granted it may be entitled to collect the part earned in satisfaction of the whole.[82]

e. Expenditure of Aid

Public aid granted to a railroad company must be expended in the manner and for the purpose prescribed, if any.

Where a grant of public aid to a railroad company is by its terms made for a designated purpose or to be expended in a prescribed manner, the aid must be expended by the company in the manner prescribed,[83] and must be applied on such part of the railroad as the grant may designate.[84] When the condition is that the aid shall be expended at a particular place or for particular purposes "if necessary," the company is bound to exercise reasonable judgment as to such necessity,[85] and is at liberty to use any surplus remaining for other purposes.[86] However, except where so provided in the grant or by general statute,[87] it is not necessary that aid granted by a county or other municipal corporation be expended within the territorial limits thereof.[88]

§ 41. —— Delivery of Stock to Municipality or Taxpayers

Under a statute to such effect, a railroad company to whose stock a state or municipal corporation subscribes in order to aid in the establishment and construction of the railroad must deliver its stock in such manner, to such persons, and on such terms as may be prescribed.

In some jurisdictions statutes provide for or permit subscriptions to be made by the state, counties, or other municipal corporations to the stock of a railroad company, in order to aid in the establishment and construction of its railroad, and direct the delivery of stock so subscribed to such public corporation or to the taxpayers thereof; and, where a subscription is made, the company has no right to the value of the aid as a donation,[89] but must exchange therefor its stock in such manner, to such persons, and on such terms as may be prescribed by the subscription or the statute authorizing it,[90] whereupon the municipality or taxpayer to whom stock is delivered becomes a stockholder of the company, with all the rights, privileges, and liabilities of other stockholders.[91] A provision in a railroad company's charter that a certain per cent of its stock shall be paid in cash does not apply to public aid extended to the company.[92]

§ 42. —— Payment of Interest and Securities or Repayment of Aid

The liability of the company to pay interest on securities issued or indorsed in its aid, or to pay or redeem such securities or repay other aid lent, and the time, mode, and terms of such payment, are governed by the statute or grant under which the securities were issued or indorsed.

The liability of a railroad company to pay interest on securities issued or indorsed by a state, county, or other municipal corporation in its aid,[93] or to pay or redeem such securities or repay other aid lent,[94] and the time[95] and mode, manner, and terms[96] of such payment or repayment, depend on the terms of the statute or grant under which such securities were so issued or indorsed or the aid was granted, although even where there is no express covenant by the railroad company receiving such securities or aid to repay the amount thereof there may be implied from the statute and the acceptance of the aid an absolute promise of repayment.[97] The public corporation cannot be com-

79. Ill.—Illinois Midland R. Co. v. Barnett, 85 Ill. 313

80. Ill.—Illinois Midland R. Co. v. Barnett, supra.

81. Ill.—People v. Waynesville, 88 Ill. 469.

82. Iowa.—Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523.

83. Ind.—Barner v. Bayless, 33 N.E. 907, 34 N.E. 502, 134 Ind. 600.
N.Y.—Biddlecom v. Newton, 13 Hun 582.

84. N.Y.—People v. Morgan, 65 Barb. 473, 1 Thomps. & C. 101, reversed on other grounds 55 N.Y. 587.

85. Ky.—Marion County v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 78 S.W. 437, 25 Ky.L. 1600.

86. Ky.—Marion County v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

87. Iowa.—Lamb v. Anderson, 3 N.W. 416, 6 N.W. 268, 54 Iowa 190
51 C.J. p. 467 note 24.

88. Ind.—Brocaw v. Gibson County, 73 Ind. 543.

89. Ind.—Hamilton County v. State, 4 N.E. 589, 17 N.E. 855, 115 Ind. 64.

90. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Allegheny County, 79 Pa. 210.

91. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hart County, 75 S.W. 288, 77 S.W. 361, 116 Ky. 186, 25 Ky.L. 1152.

Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Allegheny County, 79 Pa. 210.

92. Tex.—Austin v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 45 Tex. 234.

93. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Ct.Cl., 91 U.S. 72, 23 L.Ed. 224.
51 C.J. p. 467 note 32.

94. Cal.—People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 18 P. 90, 76 Cal. 29.
51 C.J. p. 467 note 33.

95. U.S.—U. S. v. Central Pac. R. Co., Cal., 99 U.S. 449, 25 L.Ed. 237.
51 C.J. p. 467 note 34.

96. U.S.—Rolston v. Crittenden, Mo., 7 S.Ct. 599, 120 U.S. 390, 30 L.Ed. 721.
51 C.J. p. 467 note 35.

97. U.S.—U. S. v. Stanford, 69 F. 25, pelled to accept payment before maturity;[98] nor can the railroad company make the payment in a manner not contemplated by the statute.[99] Under some statutes, if a railroad company fails to pay such securities when due, the municipality issuing them may take possession of the road,[1] provided it does so in the manner prescribed by the statute.[2]

§ 43. Enforcement of Grant

A grant of money out of general public funds or of money which has been commingled with the general funds may be enforced by an ordinary action at law to recover the amount thereof; where the grant consists of bonds an action at law will not lie to enforce the grant, nor will a proceeding in equity to compel issuance of such bonds ordinarily lie.

Where a state, county, or other municipal corporation has made a grant of money to a railroad company out of the general public funds, or moneys granted have been mingled with the general funds, an ordinary action at law may be maintained by the company entitled to the benefit of such grant to recover the amount thereof,[3] although no such action will lie where the moneys granted are held in the treasury as a separate and distinct fund;[4] and no such action lies where the aid granted consists of bonds rather than money.[5] Where a bill in equity has been instituted to enjoin the issuance of bonds granted in aid of a railroad company, the company may maintain a cross bill to enforce their issuance;[6] but ordinarily proceedings in equity to compel the issuance of bonds will not lie.[7]

§ 44. Grants of Aid by Federal Government

The rights and liabilities of parties under grants of aid to railroads by the federal government are controlled by the acts under which such grants are made.

Grants of public aid to railroad companies by lending money, bonds, or credit, or, as discussed in Public Lands §§ 148-169, by granting public lands, have been made in some cases by the United States, through acts of congress, as in the case of the "Pacific Railroad Acts,"[8] and the rights and liabilities of the parties under such grants are controlled by the terms of such acts.[9] Thus, under the "Pacific Railroad Acts," it has been held that the grants made by such acts to the Central Pacific Railroad Company were precisely the same in character and amount as those made to the Union Pacific;[10] that the Union Pacific was under an obligation to build and operate a telegraph line along its right of way,[11] and to transport mail, passengers, supplies, etc., for the government at a fair and reasonable rate not to exceed that paid by private parties for the same kind of service,[12] a certain portion of such compensation to be applied on the government bonds and interest;[13] that a certain per cent of the net earnings of the road should be applied to the payment of bonds and interest;[14] that the United States has no claim against the stockholders of the Central Pacific on account of the aid bonds issued to that company;[15] that under such acts the United States sustains two distinct relations to the Union Pacific Railroad Company, namely, that of the government creating it and exercising legislative and visitatorial powers, and that growing out of the contract contained in the charter and its amendment,[16] but that it did not thereby become a trustee vested with power to enforce the proper use of the property and franchises granted for the benefit of the public, since there were no cestuis que trust.[17] affirmed 70 F. 346, 17 C.C.A. 143, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 576, 161 U.S. 412, 40 L.Ed. 751.

98. Me.—Portland v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 74 Me. 241

99. Me.—Portland v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., supra.

1. Me.—Bath v. Miller, 51 Me. 341

2. Me.—Bath v. Miller, supra.

3. Iowa.—Merrill v. Marshall County, 36 N.W. 778, 74 Iowa 24.

4. Iowa.—Merrill v. Marshall County, supra.

5. U.S.—Smith v. Bourbon County, Kan., 8 S.Ct. 1043, 127 U.S. 105, 32 L.Ed. 73.

6. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Mallory, 101 Ill. 583

7. U.S.—Smith v. Bourbon County, Kan., 8 S.Ct. 1043, 127 U.S. 105, 32 L.Ed. 73.

8. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 10 Ct.Cl. 548.
51 C.J. p. 468 note 51.

9. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., Wis., 77 F. 732, 23 C.C.A. 430
51 C.J. p. 468 note 52.

10. U.S.—U. S. v. Stanford, C.C.Cal., 69 F. 25, affirmed 70 F. 346, 17 C.C.A. 143, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 576, 161 U.S. 412, 40 L.Ed. 751.

11. U.S.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., C.C.Kan., 3 F. 721, 1 McCrary 581.

12. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 6 S.Ct. 772, 117 U.S. 355, 29 L.Ed. 920
51 C.J. p. 468 note 55.

13. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 10 Ct.Cl. 548.
51 C.J. p. 468 note 56.

14. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 20 Ct.Cl. 70.
51 C.J. p. 468 note 57

15. U.S.—U. S. v. Stanford, Cal., 16 S.Ct. 576, 161 U.S. 412, 40 L.Ed. 751.

16. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Conn., 98 U.S. 569, 25 L.Ed. 143.

17. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Conn., 98 U.S. 569, 25 L.Ed. 143.

V. LOCATION OF ROUTE, TERMINI, STATIONS, DIVISION POINTS, ETC.

A. DESIGNATION AND DETERMINATION OF LOCATION

§ 45. Main Line

The location of a railroad consists in the selection, and adoption of the particular line or route on which it is to be constructed. Such location by the company invests it with title as against third persons or rival companies, and, as against the landowner, invests the company with an inchoate title constituting an encumbrance on the title of the landowner.

The location of a railroad consists in the selection and adoption of the particular line or route on which it is to be constructed.[18] A mere survey is not a location;[19] but in order to constitute a valid location there must be an adoption of a particular line or survey by the company itself,[20] and until it has done so it has no right to condemn lands,[21] nor has the landowner any right to recover damages as for a taking of his lands.[22] The actual construction of the road may operate as a definite location thereof;[23] also, there is a valid location whenever the railroad company has adopted a particular line or survey,[24] although actual construction is not begun until years afterward,[25] and such location invests the railroad company with title as against third persons or rival companies.[26] As against the landowner, such location invests the railroad company with an inchoate title which constitutes an encumbrance on the title of the landowner,[27] and gives the company the right to proceed to condemn the lands[28] and the landowner a right to recover damages,[29] although the title of the company as against the landowner is not complete until compensation has been made or secured.[30] The mere making of a preliminary survey by a railroad company does not prevent the owner of the land from alienating his title pending the final adoption of the line,[31] and where the land is alienated after preliminary survey, but before final adoption, the alienee having title at the time of such final adoption is the party entitled to damages.[32]

§ 46. —— Statutory and Charter Provisions

While charter or statutory provisions relating to the route of a railroad must be conformed to, they will be reasonably construed.

It is competent for a state to prescribe the route of a railroad created by it,[33] and, in so far as the location of a road is regulated by a statutory or charter provision, the company must comply therewith.[34] The company may, in the absence of any constitutional or charter restrictions as to the length or direction of a railroad, be authorized to construct a road lying entirely in one county,[35] or town or city,[36] or having a circular or polygonal route beginning and terminating at the same place.[37] Where the legislature has reserved a general power to alter or amend all charters, it may, after the road has been located, but before it is constructed, limit a discretion previously vested in the company as to the selection of the route and require that it be located through a certain point.[38] Constitutional or statutory provisions may require railroads pass-

18. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641.
38 C.J. p 133 note 90—51 C.J. p 471, note 41

19. Pa.—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.
51 C.J. p 471 note 42.
Survey generally see infra § 62.

20. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641.
51 C.J. p 471 note 43.

21. Pa.—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.

22. Pa.—Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 60 A. 2, 210 Pa. 440—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.

23. U.S.—Jamestown, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, N.D., 20 S.Ct. 568, 177 U.S. 125, 44 L.Ed. 698.

24. Pa.—Johnston v. Callery, 39 A. 73, 184 Pa. 146.
W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641.

25. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 101 Pa. 192.

26. Pa.—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.
51 C.J. p 472 note 51.
Conflicting locations see infra § 71

27. N.Y.—Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 17 N.E. 680, 110 N.Y. 128
51 C.J. p 472 note 52.

28. Pa.—Johnston v. Callery, 39 A. 73, 184 Pa. 146.

29. Pa.—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220
51 C.J. p 472 note 54.

30. Pa.—Johnston v. Callery, 39 A. 73, 184 Pa. 146—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.

31. Pa.—In re Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 17 Pa.Dist. 70.

32. Pa.—In re Buffalo, etc., R. Co., supra.

33. U.S.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, Miss., 28 S.Ct. 650, 210 U.S. 187, 52 L.Ed. 1016.

34. Mo.—Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 95 S.W. 881, 197 Mo. 669, 114 Am.S.R. 790.
51 C.J. p 472 note 60.

35. Kan.—State v. Martin, 33 P. 9, 51 Kan. 462.

36. N.J.—Long Branch Commissioners v. West End R. Co., 29 N.J. Eq. 566.

37. Kan.—State v. Martin, 33 P. 9, 51 Kan. 462.
Tenn.—Collier v. Union R. Co., 33 S.W. 155, 113 Tenn. 96.

38. Ga.—Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Gibson, 11 S.E. 135, 85 Ga. 1, 21 Am.S.R. 135.
51 C.J. p 472 note 64.

ing within a specified distance of certain towns to pass through them, and the recovery of a penalty for failure to comply therewith may be authorized.[39] Such provisions are mandatory.[40]

Construction. Constitutional or statutory provisions imposing duties,[41] or charter provisions conferring powers,[42] on a railroad company in respect of the route of the railroad will be reasonably construed. Indefinite terms of description as to the route or points along it, such as "at," "near," "at or near," and the like, should be so construed as to vest in the company a reasonable discretion as to the exact location,[43] and, where the terminal points are fixed, indefinite terms of discretion must be construed with reference thereto.[44] A provision authorizing a railroad company to construct a railroad "along" a river does not authorize the company to locate it in or upon the river,[45] but where the company is authorized to locate its road through certain towns it need not pass through such towns in the order named in the statute.[46] Under a charter provision authorizing a railroad company to construct its road on the most practicable route "passing near" a particular place, it may construct the road through such place;[47] and, where two different routes are authorized, the fact that a certain place is specified as a necessary intermediate point on one route does not necessarily prevent its being made an intermediate point on the other if the latter be adopted.[48] So, also, where a railroad company is authorized to construct a railroad between certain points, the route not being specifically designated, and to construct a lateral road from the main line to an intermediate point, it may construct the main line through such point if the location is made in good faith and does not show an abuse of discretion.[49] An authority to construct a double track road should be construed to mean two tracks essentially upon the same location in order to enable cars to run in opposite directions without detention or collision, and not two essentially different routes such as would be occupied by parallel roads[50]

§ 47. —— Discretion of Railroad Company

Where the exact location of a railroad is not prescribed by charter or statute, the location between the termini named or within the limits of the general description given rests in the sound discretion of the railroad company.

Where the exact location of a railroad is not prescribed by a statutory or charter provision, the location between the termini named or within the limits of the general description given rests in the sound discretion of the railroad company,[51] subject to any restrictions which a municipality may lawfully impose under statutory authority.[52] It may select the route which it deems feasible and advantageous;[53] and it has been held bound to select such route as will best serve its own and the public interests rather than the speculative interests of its officers and stockholders or land speculators.[54]

§ 48. —— Method of Determination, Remedies, and Proceedings

a. In general
b. Remedies

a. In General

Ordinarily the final determination of the location of a railroad must be made by the directors of the company and be the corporate act of the company.

The location of the route of a railroad must be determined by proceedings taken under, and in the manner provided by any statutes governing the subject.[55] As a general rule, the location of its line

39. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 561, modified on other grounds 163 S.W. 582, 106 Tex. 249, error dismissed 36 S.Ct. 553, 241 U.S. 650, 60 L.Ed. 1221.

40. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. State, 163 S.W. 582, 106 Tex. 249, error dismissed 36 S.Ct. 553, 241 U.S. 650, 60 L.Ed. 1221.
51 C.J. p. 472 note 67.

41. Tex.—Felton v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 132 S.W. 650.
51 C.J. p. 472 note 68.

42. Mo.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. McCooey, 200 S.W. 59, 273 Mo. 29.
51 C.J. p. 473 note 70.

43. Tenn.—Collier v. Union R. Co., 83 S.W. 155, 113 Tenn. 96.
51 C.J. p. 473 note 71.
Discretion of company generally see infra § 47.

44. Ga.—Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 56 S.E. 624, 127 Ga. 520, 10 L.R.A.,N.S., 909.
51 C.J. p. 473 note 72.

45. N.J.—Stevens v. Erie R. Co., 21 N.J.Eq. 259
51 C.J. p. 473 note 73.

46. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Fitchburg R. Co., 8 Cush. 240.

47. S.C.—Hill v. Southern R. Co., 46 S.E. 486, 67 S.C. 548.

48. N.H.—State v. Wilton R. Co., 19 N.H. 521.

49. U.S.—Bonaparte v. Camden, etc., R. Co., C.C.N.J., 8 F.Cas.No.1,617, Baldw. p. 205.

50. N.Y.—People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. 73, 26 How.Pr. 44.
51 C.J. p. 473 note 78.
Parallel roads see infra § 49.

51. N.Y.—Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 17 N.E. 680, 110 N.Y. 128
51 C.J. p. 473 note 80.
Construction of charter or statute using indefinite terms of description as vesting reasonable discretion in company see supra § 46.

52. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 100 Ill. 110.
51 C.J. p. 473 note 81.

53. Mont.—State v. Tenth Judicial Dist. Ct., 88 P. 44, 34 Mont. 535, 115 Am.S.R. 540.
Or.—Pacific R., etc., Co. v. Astoria, etc., R. Co., 99 P. 1044, 53 Or. 247.

54. U.S.—Oldham v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.S.D., 52 F.2d 111.

55. N.Y.—In re Long Island R. Co., 45 N.Y. 364.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 84 [a].

is intrusted to the company alone,[56] and the final determination must be by the corporate act of the company itself.[57] If the statute expressly provides by whom and in what manner the company shall act, the requirements must be complied with.[58] Ordinarily the location should be determined by the directors of the company,[59] but in the absence of a statute so requiring it has been held that the formal action of the directors of the company is not essential to a valid location.[60] It has been held that an engineer cannot locate the line.[61]

In so far as the location is discretionary with the railroad company, the courts will not attempt to control or interfere with the exercise of such discretion unless it is clearly shown that it has been abused;[62] nor can persons whose lands may be taken or affected by the location selected object that a different route might have been adopted[63] unless they are authorized by statute to make such objection and have a review of the propriety of the location selected.[64] Under a statute providing that the location selected by the railroad company shall be approved by the court on view of a jury, the company may waive its right to select the location in the first instance and permit the jury to do so.[65]

Presumption of regularity. Every presumption in favor of the regularity of proceedings whereby a railroad is located should be indulged after a lapse of more than twenty-five years during which the railroad was maintained and operated without objection.[66]

b. Remedies

The construction of a railroad on an unauthorized location may be enjoined, or the company may be compelled by mandamus or mandatory injunction to comply with constitutional or statutory requirements as to the places through which the road shall pass; but sometimes an injunction applied for by a person specially injured will be refused and the plaintiff left to his action at law.

A writ of mandamus or mandatory injunction may be employed to compel a railroad company to comply with constitutional or statutory provisions as to the places through which its road must pass,[67] even though the road has passed the place before suit is filed.[68] Where a railroad company is required under its charter or by reason of constitutional or statutory provisions to locate its road so as to pass through a particular town or city, such municipality or its citizens,[69] or the state,[70] has sufficient interest to be entitled to sue to compel compliance therewith. The construction of a railroad on an unauthorized location may also be enjoined at the suit of a person who will be specially injured thereby;[71] but, if the railroad has already been constructed, ordinarily the court will not enjoin the continued operation of trains thereon, which would result in inconvenience to the public, but will leave plaintiff to his action at law.[72] So also, if the location of the road is not specifically designated by the statute or charter, the company will not be enjoined at the suit of a private landowner from constructing its road on the route selected unless it is clearly shown that the discretion of the company has been abused, but plaintiff will be left to his action at law.[73] The fact that a railroad company has violated a provision of its charter as to the location of its road may not be set up by a subscriber to stock as a defense in an action by the company to recover the amount of the

56. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 100 Ill. 110
Pa.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 33 Pa. 175.

57. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641
51 C.J. p. 474 note 86.

58. U.S.—Weidenfeld v. Sugar Run R. Co., C.C.Pa., 48 F. 615
51 C.J. p. 474 note 89.

59. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., 106 N.E. 818, 265 Ill. 194, Ann.Cas. 1916A 833.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 90

60. Tenn.—Tennessee Cent. R. Co. v. Campbell, 73 S.W. 11, 109 Tenn. 655.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 91.

61. Pa.—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 92.

62. U.S.—Bonaparte v. Camden, etc., R. Co., C.C.N.J., 3 F.Cas.No.1,617, Baldw. p. 205
51 C.J. p. 474 note 94.

63. Mont.—State v. Meagher County, 88 P. 44, 34 Mont. 535, 115 Am.St.R. 540.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 95.

64. N.Y.—Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 23 N.Y.S. 31, 68 Hun 391, affirmed 39 N.E. 21, 143 N.Y. 669.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 96 [a]

65. Pa.—In re Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 6 Whart. 25, 36 Am.D. 202.

66. Me.—U.S. Peg Wood, etc., Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 190, 104 Me. 472.

67. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 561, modified on other grounds 163 S.W. 582, 106 Tex. 249, error dismissed 36 S.Ct. 553, 241 U.S. 650, 60 L.Ed. 1221.
Mandamus to compel performance of duty by railroad company generally see Mandamus § 231 d

68. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra.

69. Ga.—Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Gibson, 11 S.E. 442, 85 Ga. 1, 21 Am.St.R. 135.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 1.

70. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 561, modified on other grounds 163 S.W. 582, 106 Tex. 249, error dismissed 36 S.Ct. 553, 241 U.S. 650, 60 L.Ed. 1221.
51 C.J. p. 474 note 2.

71. N.J.—Stevens v. Erie R. Co., 21 N.J.Eq. 259.
N.Y.—Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. 373.

72. N.J.—Stevens v. Erie R. Co., 21 N.J.Eq. 259

73. U.S.—Bonaparte v. Camden, etc., R. Co., C.C.N.J., 3 F.Cas.No.1,617, Baldw. p. 205.

subscription.[74]

A commission may have jurisdiction to investigate and make an order in a proceeding to compel a railroad to locate its road through a place specified in its charter or provision.[75]

Questions of law and fact. The question as to the existence of natural obstacles preventing the construction of a railroad through a specified place is one of fact,[76] as is also the question whether a road is begun at or near a particular place as required by contract.[77]

Judgment. In an action to compel a railroad company to locate its line through a specified town, a judgment conditioned on the performance of certain acts and requirements by the citizens of the town may be granted where by constitutional or statutory provisions such matters must be provided before the road need be constructed through such town.[78]

§ 49. Parallel Roads

A charter or statutory prohibition of the construction of a railroad parallel to, and within a certain distance of, an existing railroad will be construed strictly and not extended further than its terms require.

The mere grant of a right to construct a railroad between certain points does not prevent the state from subsequently authorizing the establishment of another parallel and competing railroad[79] or other mode of transportation,[80] and no monopoly will be presumed to have been intended in the enactment of a general law for the formation of railroad companies.[81] One railroad company may, in the absence of any legislation to the contrary, be authorized to build a second railroad parallel with its own road.[82]

In some cases the construction of parallel railroads within a certain distance of an existing railroad is prohibited by the charter of the first company,[83] or by a general statute,[84] in which case a railroad company which has already constructed or located its road may enjoin another company from constructing a road within the limits prohibited by the statute;[85] but exclusive grants of this character will be construed strictly and not extended further than their terms require.[86] It has been held that the prohibition applies only to an entire road in itself extending to each point and not to a chain or series of railroads, one of which might reach one of the prohibited points and another the other;[87] but there is also authority to the contrary.[88]

§ 50. Lateral or Branch Roads, Spurs, Switches, Sidings, and Extensions

The length and location of lateral or branch roads are discussed infra § 51, of spurs, switches, turnouts, and sidings infra § 52, and of extensions infra § 53.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

§ 51. —— Lateral or Branch Roads

In the exercise of authority conferred by the proper legislative body, and subject to the conditions or restrictions imposed by such body, a railroad company may construct lateral or branch roads and, before doing so, determine in good faith such matters as location, length, direction, and termini.

While a railroad company has an implied authority to construct such switches, turnouts, and sidings as may be necessary for the proper operation of the road and conduct of its business, as discussed infra § 122, it cannot construct lateral or branch roads without legislative authority.[89] Such authority is 74. Ark.—Mississippi, etc., R. Co v. Cross, 20 Ark. 443.

51 C.J. p. 475 note 6.
Rights and liabilities of stockholders see supra § 14.

75. S.D.—Chicago, etc., R. Co v. Dougherty, 163 N.W. 715, 39 S.D. 147.
51 C.J. p. 475 note 8.

76. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co v. State, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 561, modified on other grounds 163 S.W. 582, 106 Tex. 249, error dismissed 36 S.Ct. 553, 241 U.S. 650, 60 L.Ed. 1221.

77. Wash.—Hunt v. Upton, 87 P. 56, 44 Wash. 124.

78. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 561, modified on other grounds 163 S.W. 582, 106 Tex. 249, error dismissed 36 S.Ct. 553, 241 U.S. 650, 60 L.Ed. 1221.
51 C.J. p. 475 note 13.

79. Ill.—East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. East St. Louis Union R. Co., 108 Ill. 265.
Parallelism of roads as affecting right of companies to:
Consolidate see infra § 235.
Contract for control, operation, or use see infra § 227.
Make or take lease see infra § 212.
Sell or purchase road see infra § 201.

80. Ind.—Lafayette Plankroad Co. v. New Albany, etc., R. Co., 13 Ind. 90, 74 Am.D. 246.
51 C.J. p. 475 note 16.

81. Ill.—East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. East St. Louis Union R. Co., 108 Ill. 265.

82. Pa.—Catawissa R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 3 Pa.Dist. 111, 14 Pa.Co. 280.
Tenn.—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Union R. Co., 95 S.W. 1019, 116 Tenn. 500.

83. Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Michigan Southern R. Co., 4 Mich. 361.
51 C.J. p. 475 note 19.

84. Special statute is void where the subject is dealt with by an existing general law.—Morrison v. Cook, 91 S.E. 671, 146 Ga. 570.—51 C.J. p. 475 note 20 [a].

85. Ga.—Georgia Northern R. Co. v. Tifton, etc., R. Co., 35 S.E. 104, 109 Ga. 762.

86. Va.—Wheelwright v. Commonwealth, 49 S.E. 647, 103 Va. 512.
51 C.J. p. 475 note 22.

87. Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Michigan Southern R. Co., 4 Mich. 361.

88. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Salem, 2 Gray 1.

89. Ill.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v.

frequently granted by charter, general statutory provisions, or city ordinances,[90] which often contain conditions precedent to the exercise of the right which must be complied with,[91] and any limitation as to the length, character, or location of such roads must be observed.[92] Except in so far as expressly restricted, the railroad company has a broad discretion in determining not only the necessity for the proposed branch, but also such matters as its location, length, direction, and termini,[93] which, unless exercised in bad faith, will not be interfered with by the courts[94] or restrained at the instance of persons whose lands may be taken or affected thereby;[95] but, if a railroad has no right to construct a branch road, its construction may be enjoined at the suit of a person who will be injured thereby.[96] So, where a railroad company is authorized to construct lateral or branch roads, it is, except in so far as restricted by statute, invested with the same power and authority as it possesses and can exercise in the construction of its main line,[97] including the power to acquire and condemn lands,[98] and subject to the same rules with respect to the occupation or use of streets and highways.[99]

Connection with main line. A lateral or branch line should be connected with, and lead from some point on, a main line.[1] It may proceed from some point between the termini[2] or it may be constructed from one of the terminal points of the main line.

A company authorized to construct a main line and certain branches cannot abandon the construction of the main line and retain the right to construct the branches.[4]

Length or direction compared with that of main line. A lateral or branch road may be constructed in the same general direction as the main line.[5] Also, in the absence of any provision to the contrary, a branch road which is of greater length than the main line may be constructed,[6] or a branch may be constructed from a branch, or two branches have a common stem leading to the main line, provided neither exceeds the length prescribed by statute from such line.[7]

§ 52. —— Spurs, Switches, Turnouts, and Sidings

Switches, sidings, and spur tracks may be constructed in pursuance of statutory authority.

Under some railroad statutes private owners of lands, mills, quarries, mines, or limekilns, in the vicinity of any railroad, canal, or slack-water navigation are authorized to construct,[8] or have constructed,[9] lateral or spur railroads, and to acquire Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 37 N.E. 91, 149 Ill. 272.

51 C.J. p. 476 note 26.

90. Md.—Levin v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 17 A.2d 101, 179 Md. 125.
Pa.—C. O. Struse & Sons Co. v. Reading Co., 153 A. 350, 302 Pa. 211.
51 C.J. p. 476 note 27.

Statute not affected or repealed by later statute.
A statute authorizing railroad companies to extend their lines on certain conditions does not repeal or affect a previous statute authorizing the construction of branch roads.—Appeal of Volmer, 8 A. 223, 115 Pa. 166.

91. U.S.—Memphis v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 183 F. 529, 106 C.C.A. 75.
51 C.J. p. 476 note 28.

92. Cal.—Boca, etc., R. Co. v. Sierra Valleys R. Co., 84 P. 298, 2 Cal. App. 546.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 29.

Company authorized to construct only particular branch cannot construct any other.
Cal.—Boca, etc., R. Co. v. Sierra Valleys R. Co., supra.
Wash.—Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 32 P. 211, 5 Wash. 509.

93. Ill.—Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 30.

94. Me.—Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 57 A. 1001, 98 Me. 579, 66 L.R.A. 387.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 31.

Location held determinable by corporation, not by court.
Pa.—C. O. Struse & Sons Co. v. Reading Co., 153 A. 350, 302 Pa. 211.

95. Pa.—Rudolph v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 31 A. 131, 166 Pa. 430.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 32.

96. N.Y.—Goelet v. Metropolitan Transit Co., 1 N.Y.S. 74, 48 Hun 520.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 33.

97. Pa.—Pittsburgh v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 48 Pa. 355.

98. Ill.—Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273.
Pa.—French v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 13 Phila. 187.
Condemnation of property for lateral or branch roads see Eminent Domain § 39.

99. Pa.—Appeal of McAboy, 107 Pa. 548.

1. Wash.—Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 32 P. 211, 5 Wash. 509.

Statute held not to require physical connection enabling cars to be run directly from a lateral railroad directly to and on the rails of the main railroad; but where the roads are of different gauge it is necessary to provide reasonable facilities for handling traffic by transferring the contents of the cars on one railroad into cars on the other railroad.
—In re Gladys Coal Mining Co., 91 Pa.Super. 57.

2. Va.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeling, 13 Gratt. 40, 54 Va. 40.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 39.

3. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Untermyer, 117 N.Y.S. 443, 133 App.Div. 146, affirmed 89 N.E. 1106, 196 N.Y. 531.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 40.

4. N.Y.—Goelet v. Metropolitan Transit Co., 1 N.Y.S. 74, 48 Hun 520.

5. Pa.—Appeal of McAboy, 107 Pa. 548.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 41.

6. Pa.—Appeal of Volmer, 8 A. 223, 115 Pa. 166.

7. W.Va.—Wheeling Bridge, etc., Co. v. Camden Consolidated Oil Co., 13 S.E. 369, 35 W.Va. 205.

8. Ind.—Westport Stone Co. v. Thomas, 94 N.E. 406, 175 Ind. 319, 35 L.R.A.,N.S., 646.
51 C.J. p. 477 note 46.

9. Wis.—Manasha Woodenware Co. v. State R. Commission, 166 N.W. 435, 167 Wis. 19.
51 C.J. p. 478 note 47.

wharves and landings where such roads connect with a canal or other navigation;[10] but such roads are authorized only in connection with a public improvement, railroad, or highway of some description,[11] and any limitation as to their length, character, or location must be observed.[12] Where railroads are required to construct sidings and spur tracks at stations, they must do so only where it is necessary in order to furnish sufficient accommodations for the transportation of passengers and property.[13] Inasmuch as commissioners may not be appointed to pass on the propriety of constructing an industrial switch on a route not described in the petition therefor[14] or to substitute a new route for that described,[15] a motion for leave to construct such a switch may be denied where the route described is conceded faulty in that it includes private property which cannot be acquired.[16]

§ 53. —— Extensions

The right of a railroad company to extend its road depends on statutory authorization and the observance of requirements or conditions imposed by statute. An extension must be from one of the original termini and be substantially in the same general direction as the road already constructed.

A railroad company cannot, without legislative authority, extend its road beyond the termini originally authorized,[17] but the legislature may authorize it to do so[18] and to construct an extension longer than the original line.[19] Ordinarily whether a railroad company having the requisite authority will extend its line to points not before reached is for it to determine;[20] but if at any time it fails to make extensions which its duty as a common carrier bound to keep up with public demands requires the remedy is through appropriate proceedings instituted by the commonwealth.[21] Where the right to extend is given by the statute under which the company is incorporated, no specific amendment of the charter is necessary to authorize an extension.[22] A power to extend a road beyond its original terminus includes the power to acquire the use of the road of another company beyond such point,[23] but a statute authorizing an alteration in the route or termini for the purpose of improving the line does not authorize an extension of the line beyond one of the original termini.[24]

Any requirements or conditions imposed by the statute authorizing the extension must be complied with.[25] Where a railroad company is authorized to extend its road, the extension must be from a point on the road already built and not a separate and independent road,[26] and the extension must be from one of the original termini and not a departure from an intermediate point,[27] and it must be substantially in the same general direction as the road already constructed.[28] So also, where a railroad company is authorized to extend its road to a specified point, the statute will be construed as contemplating the most direct eligible route considered with reference to facility of construction.[29]

§ 54. —— Federal Control

Under a federal statute, a railroad company engaged in interstate commerce may not extend its line of railroad unless and until it obtains from the Interstate Commerce Commission a certificate of public convenience and necessity; and where it undertakes to do so, the construction of the extension may be enjoined at the suit of a party in interest.

10. Pa.—Hays v. Briggs, 74 Pa. 373. 51 C.J. p. 478 note 48.

11. Pa.—Appeal of Waddell, 84 Pa. 90—Keeling v. Griffin, 56 Pa. 305.

12. D.C.—Oppenheimer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 39 App. D.C. 253. 51 C.J. p. 478 note 50.

13. Tex.—State R. Commission v. Pecos, etc., R. Co., Civ. App., 212 S.W. 535.

14. N.Y.—George Sweet Mfg. Co. v. Van der Hoof, 121 N.Y.S. 842, 137 App. Div. 492.

15. N.Y.—George Sweet Mfg. Co. v. Van der Hoof, supra.

16. N.Y.—George Sweet Mfg. Co. v. Van der Hoof, supra.

17. N.Y.—Greenwich, etc., R. Co. v. Greenwich, etc., Electric R. Co., 65 N.E. 278, 172 N.Y. 462.

18. Ind.—Newcastle, etc., R. Co. v. Peru, etc., R. Co., 3 Ind. 464. 51 C.J. p. 478 note 57.

The term "extend," as used in a statute giving a railroad company which had been authorized to build a single or double track on certain streets in a city the right to extend its course, means to continue or prolong its course, and not to build independent branch roads.—People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb., N.Y., 73, 74, 26 How. Pr. 43.—25 C.J. p. 225 note 85 [a].

19. N.H.—Laconia St. R. Co.'s Pet., 52 A. 458, 71 N.H. 355. 51 C.J. p. 478 note 58.

20. Ohio.—Morgan Run R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 295, 98 Ohio St. 218. 51 C.J. p. 478 note 59.

21. Pa.—Pioneer Coal Co. v. Cherrytree, etc., R. Co., 116 A. 45, 272 Pa. 43.

22. Fla.—Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 31 So. 259, 43 Fla. 359.

23. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., Neb., 128 F. 230, 64 C.C.A. 348, affirmed 26 S. Ct. 19, 199 U.S. 160, 50 L.Ed. 134.

24. N.Y.—Greenwich, etc., R. Co. v. Greenwich, etc., Electric R. Co., 65 N.E. 278, 172 N.Y. 462.

25. N.Y.—Brooklyn, etc., R. Co. v. Long Island R. Co., 76 N.Y.S. 777, 72 App. Div. 496, appeal dismissed 70 N.E. 1096, 178 N.Y. 593. 51 C.J. p. 479 note 65.

Necessity of obtaining certificate of public convenience and necessity from interstate commerce commission see infra § 54.

26. Ga.—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Shiels, 33 Ga. 601. 51 C.J. p. 479 note 66.

27. Ga.—Leverett v. Middle Georgia, etc., R. Co., 24 S.E. 154, 96 Ga. 385. 51 C.J. p. 479 note 67.

28. N.Y.—People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. 73, 26 How. Pr. 44. 51 C.J. p. 479 note 68.

29. Ind.—Newcastle, etc., R. Co. v. Peru, etc., R. Co., 3 Ind. 464. 51 C.J. p. 479 note 69.

Obtaining a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the Interstate Commerce Commission is a prerequisite to the construction of new trackage where the proposed construction is within the provisions of the federal statute, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1 par. (18), which prohibit a railroad company from undertaking an extension of its line of railroad unless and until it obtains such certificate;[30] but in a particular case the proposed trackage may not be an "extension" within the meaning of the statute,[31] or the statute may be otherwise inapplicable,[32] or the facts may be within an express statutory exemption, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1 par (22), of the construction of spur, industrial, team, or switching tracks, or side tracks, located or to be located wholly within one state, or of street, suburban, or interurban electric railways which are not operated as a part or parts of a general steam railroad system.[33] In determining whether a proposed construction constitutes an extension of a line of railroad or a mere spur, industrial, switching, or side tracks, resort must be had not only to the words and context, but also to the policy disclosed by the statute.[34]

Under the federal statute, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1, par (20), the construction of an extension without a certificate having been obtained may be enjoined at the suit of a party in interest;[35] but in order to be a party in interest an individual must possess something more than a common concern for obedience to law, and it is necessary that he have some special or peculiar interest which may be directly and materially affected.[36] Another railroad com-

30. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ark., 73 F.2d 21—Southern Pac. Co. v. Western Pac. California R. Co., C.C.A.Cal., 61 F.2d 732—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., D.C.S.C., 51 F.2d 766, affirmed Piedmont & N. Ry. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 52 S.Ct. 541, 286 U.S. 299, 76 L.Ed. 1115—51 C.J. p. 479 note 72

Certificate for construction of new line see supra § 6.

Power of commission to authorize or require extension of line see Commerce § 142 b.

Statute held not unconstitutional

U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., D.C.S.C., 51 F.2d 766, affirmed Piedmont & N. Ry. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 52 S.Ct. 541, 286 U.S. 299, 76 L.Ed. 1115.

Parties

(1) Railroad threatened with competition through proposed extension of another road has interest in application for extension entitling it to intervene—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 921.

(2) Other decisions with respect to parties see 51 C.J. p. 479 note 72 [i].

Evidence

(1) Exercise of discretion by Interstate Commerce Commission in issuing certificate authorizing extension of railroad lines will not be set aside if supported by evidence—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. U. S., D.C. Pa., 40 F.2d 921.

(2) Evidence held sufficient to support finding of commission of public convenience and necessity for railroad's construction of extension—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. U. S., supra—51 C.J. p. 479 note 72 [k] (3).

(3) Whatever regard commission may have given former application as related matter in determining convenience and necessity of railroad extension, distinguished from evidential matter, in determining later application, cannot invalidate last order—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

(4) Other decisions with respect to evidence see 51 C.J. p. 479 note 72 [k]

31. U.S.—Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., C.A.Tex., 172 F.2d 768

Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 49 S.W.2d 1054, 185 Ark. 824, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 516, 289 U.S. 76, 77 L.Ed. 1042.

51 C.J. p. 479 note 72 [b], [n]

32. Construction begun in good faith prior to effective date of statute

Fla.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Tampa Southern R. Co., 121 So. 477, 97 Fla. 340.

51 C.J. p. 479 note 72 [l].

Carrier engaged in intra-state commerce

The statutory provision under consideration is restricted in its application to carriers engaged in transporting persons or property in interstate and foreign commerce and is intended to affect intra-state commerce only as that may be incidental to the effective regulation of interstate commerce—Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co. v. U. S., App. D.C., 52 S.Ct. 440, 285 U.S. 382, 76 L.Ed. 808.

33. Ark.—St. Louis Southewestern Ry. Co. v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 49 S.W.2d 1054, 185 Ark. 824, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 516, 289 U.S. 76, 77 L.Ed. 1042

51 C.J. p. 480 note 73.

34. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Ark., 41 F.2d 188, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 74, 282 U.S. 866, 75 L.Ed 765.

51 C.J. p. 480 note 73 [c].

Purpose of statute

(1) Purpose of statute is to empower commission, in proceedings instituted by a carrier proposing to engage in transportation over or by means of extended line, authoritatively to decide whether it would be in the public interest.—Powell v. U.S., Ga., 57 S.Ct. 470, 300 U.S. 276, 81 L.Ed. 643.

(2) Other purposes see 51 C.J. p. 479 note 72 [a].

35. U.S.—Western Pacific California R. Co. v. Southern Pacific Co., Cal., 52 S.Ct. 56, 284 U.S. 47, 76 L.Ed. 160, conformed to C.C.A., Southern Pac. Co. v. Western Pac. California R. Co., 161 F.2d 732—L. Singer & Sons v. Union Pac. R. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 109 F.2d 493, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 254, 311 U.S. 295, 85 L.Ed. 198.

51 C.J. p. 479 note 72 [h], [i] (2).

Laches by a company contesting construction of an extension was not shown where it protested immediately on learning that the line was planned.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., Tex., 46 S.Ct. 263, 270 U.S. 266, 70 L.Ed. 578.

Two companies covered by single order

The court cannot separate and divide a line authorized by the interstate commerce commission and so, where a single order authorized two railroads to build separate sections of lines found necessary, the order cannot be enjoined as to one railroad company—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.W.Va., 35 F.2d 769, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 337, 283 U.S. 35, 75 L.Ed. 824.

36. U.S.—L. Singer & Sons v. Union Pac. R. Co., Mo., 61 S.Ct. 254, 311 U.S. 295, 85 L.Ed. 198.

Right to sue is individual so that plaintiffs are not helped by uniting.—L. Singer & Sons v. Union Pac. R. Co., supra.

pany which will be affected as a competitor by the extension may sue for an injunction;[37] but it has been held that the interest of a railroad company threatened with competition does not alone authorize it to maintain an independent suit to set aside an order of the commission authorizing an extension.[38]

§ 55. Termini

A railroad company has a reasonable discretion in locating a terminus not definitely fixed by the legislature, as where the terminus is designated by terms of indefinite description, such as "at," "near," and the like; and where it is authorized to construct its road from or to a certain town or city, it is not obliged to begin or stop construction at the corporate limits, but may, as far as the state is concerned, fix a terminus at any point within the corporate limits.

In the absence of any constitutional or statutory restrictions a railroad company may be authorized to construct a railroad having both of its termini in the same town, city, or village.[39] If the statute or charter under which a railroad is constructed specifies its termini, such provision must be complied with;[40] but the terminus need not be located at exactly the place specified by the charter or articles of incorporation, as long as there is no substantial variance therefrom.[41]

Where the legislature does not undertake definitely to fix the termini or one of the termini of a railroad, a reasonable discretion should be allowed the company as to the location,[42] and such discretion, unless clearly abused, will not be interfered with.[43] This rule applies where the terminus is designated by terms of indefinite description such as "at," "near," and the like,[44] or as being on a state or county line without fixing the particular point.[45] Where a railroad company is authorized to construct a road to one or the other of two cities named, it may select either of such places as its terminus.[46]

Construction into cities, towns, and villages. An authority to construct a railroad "to" or "from" a certain city, town, or village is not restricted to the corporate limits;[47] but authorizes the company to construct its road from a point within,[48] or to a point within,[49] the place named as a terminus, particularly where the company is authorized by its charter to acquire property within such place.[50] A railroad company may also construct its road into a certain place where the charter designates its terminus as being "at,"[51] or "at or near,"[52] such place; and where a statute authorizes the construction of a railroad "between" two places, such places are not excluded and the road may be constructed into them.[53] In such case, in the absence of any restriction, express or implied, the company may, as far as the state is concerned, fix its terminus at any point within such place.[54]

Under a charter authorizing the construction of a railroad "to" or "from" a certain town or city, the company is not obliged to construct its road into such place but may stop at the corporate limits,[55] or, if it goes within the corporate limits, is not obliged to establish its terminal at any particular point within such limits;[56] but when authorized to construct its road from a certain place it cannot begin at a point neither on nor within, but entirely outside of, the corporate limits.[57]

37. U.S.—Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Boyne City, etc., R. Co., D.C.Mich., 286 F. 540.

Company constructing railroad in good faith

U.S.—Western Pacific California R. Co. v. Southern Pacific Co., Cal., 52 S.Ct. 56, 284 U.S. 47, 76 L.Ed. 160, conformed to Southern Pac. Co. v. Western Pac. California R. Co., C.C.A., 61 F.2d 732.

38. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 40 F.2d 921.

39. Tenn.—Collier v. Union R. Co., 83 S.W. 155, 113 Tenn. 96.
51 C.J. p. 480 note 74.

40. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Franklin Canal Co., 21 Pa. 117.
51 C.J. p. 480 note 75.

41. N.Y.—People v. Public Service Commission, 156 N.Y.S. 1023, 171 App.Div. 366, reversed on other grounds 125 N.E. 438, 227 N.Y. 248.

42. Wis.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, 75 N.W. 1079, 100 Wis. 39.
51 C.J. p. 480 note 77.

43. Wis.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, supra.
51 C.J. p. 480 note 78.

44. Wis.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, 75 N.W. 1079, 100 Wis. 39, affirmed 20 S.Ct. 677, 177 U.S. 421, 44 L.Ed. 830.
51 C.J. p. 480 note 79.

45. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Cross Cut R. Co., 53 Pa. 62.
51 C.J. p. 481 note 80.

46. Va.—Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 26 S.E. 943, 94 Va. 291.

47. Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Union Springs, etc., R. Co., 39 So. 473, 144 Ala. 639, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 144.
51 C.J. p. 481 note 82.

48. Ill.—McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.
51 C.J. p. 481 note 83.

49. Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Union Springs, etc., R. Co., 39 So. 473, 144 Ala. 639, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 144.
51 C.J. p. 481 note 84.

50. Ill.—Moses v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 21 Ill. 516.

51. N.Y.—Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. 373.

52. N.Y.—Mohawk Bridge Co. v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 6 Paige 554.

53. N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 31 N.J.Law 205.

54. U.S.—Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., C.C.Colo., 41 F. 293.
51 C.J. p. 481 note 89.

55. Ill.—People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 5 N.E. 379.

56. Ill.—People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 482 note 91.

57. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. 339, 67 Am.D. 471.

§ 56. Connections

a. With other railroads
b. With private tracks or switches
c. Remedies and proceedings

a. With Other Railroads

Subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission over physical connections between railroads engaged in interstate commerce, a railroad may be empowered, under a state constitution or statute, to connect with another intersecting or contiguous railroad The right to a connection between railroads is, however, not absolute, but is dependent on the proposed connection, being practicable and a public necessity.

At common law connecting carriers are not bound to make track connections.[58] As a general rule a state possesses the power to compel connections to be made between different railroads;[59] but this power resides in the federal government in so far as it affects interstate commerce.[60] Subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission over physical connections between railroads engaged in interstate commerce, discussed in Commerce § 142 b, which is exclusive of that of the states, discussed in Commerce § 78 c (2), railroads which intersect or are contiguous may be empowered, under state constitutions or statutes, to connect with others and the latter required to permit it,[61] or they may be required to establish connections,[62] or boards or commissions may be empowered to require connections in proper cases.[63] The statutes frequently provide for a determination by commissioners of matters with respect to such connections as to which the companies are unable to agree.[64] A constitutional or statutory provision merely authorizing one railroad to connect with other roads is not mandatory but permissive,[65] and the authority conferred thereby need not, in the absence of express limitation, be exercised within any particular time,[66] and a connection once made under such authority may, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, be discontinued without the consent of the other company.[67] So also, a statutory right on the part of one company to connect with the road of another will not prevent the latter from changing the gauge of its road, at least where the power to do so is granted and accepted before the first company has elected to make the connection.[68]

The right to a connection between railroads is not an absolute right;[69] it cannot be compelled regardless of its necessity,[70] but is dependent on whether the proposed connection is practicable[71] and a public necessity.[72] An order of a commission requiring a connection which is unreasonable will not be enforced.[73] In determining the propriety of a connection all the facts must be considered.[74] Thus the cost of making the connection,[75] the income to be derived from its operation,[76] and the possibility of loss therefrom[77] are important, but not the only criteria to be considered,[78] since the public interest and the fact that the connecting track will become part of the regular equipment, the cost of which will be considered in fixing rates, must also be considered.[79] It is no objection to an order of a railroad commission for a connection that such con-

58. U S.—The No, 37, 53 S.Ct. 328, 288 U S. 239, 77 L.Ed 721

59. U S —Seaboard Air Line R Co v. Georgia R Commission, Ga, 36 S Ct. 260, 240 U S 324, 60 L Ed 669.
51 C J. p 482 note 94.

60. N.Y.—People v. State Public Service Commission, 135 N E. 195, 233 N Y. 113, 22 A L R 1073.
51 C J p 482 note 95

61. Pa.—Graff v. Evergreen R Co, 2 Pa Co 502.
51 C.J. p 482 note 97.

62. Fla —Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. State, 29 So 319, 42 Fla. 358, 89 Am S.R 233.
51 C.J. p 482 note 98

63. S C—Shealy v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co, 126 S.E 622, 131 S.C. 144.
51 C J. p 483 note 99.

64. N.C.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Durham, etc, R., Co, 10 S E. 659, 104 N.C. 658
51 C.J. p 483 note 1.

65. Iowa.—Richmond v Dubuque, etc, R. Co, 33 Iowa 422.
Me —Androscoggin, etc,, R. Co. v. Androscoggin, etc, R. Co, 52 Me 417

66. Mo —Atlantic, etc, R Co v St Louis, 66 Mo 228
51 C J. p 483 note 3.

67. Me —Androscoggin, etc., R Co v Androscoggin, etc, R Co, 52 Me 417
Mass —Boston, etc., R Corp v. Boston, etc, R Co., 5 Cush. 375.

68. Me —Androscoggin, etc., R Co. v Androscoggin, etc., R. Co, 52 Me. 417.

69. Ohio —Akron, etc., R Co v State Public Utilities Commission, 117 N E. 314, 96 Ohio St. 359

70. Iowa —Smith v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 53 N.W. 128, 86 Iowa 202
51 C J. p 483 note 7.

71. Ohio.—Akron, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 117 N E. 314, 96 Ohio St. 359.
51 C J p 483 note 8

72. Ohio —Akron, etc, R Co v. State Public Utilities Commission, supra.
51 C.J. p 483 note 9

73. Miss —State R. Commission v Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 56 So. 668, 100 Miss 595.
51 C J. p 484 note 10.

74. Ohio —Akron, etc, R Co v. State Public Utilities Commission, 117 N.E 314, 96 Ohio St 359.
51 C J p 484 note 11

75. U S —State of Washington ex rel Oregon R & Nav. Co. v. Fairchild, Wash, 32 S.Ct. 535, 224 U.S 510, 56 L Ed. 863.
51 C J p 484 note 12.

76. S D.—Mitchell Commercial Club v Chicago, etc., R. Co., 170 N.W. 149, 41 S.D. 314.

77. Ohio —Pennsylvania Co. v. State Public Service Commission, 14 Ohio N.P ,N S, 262.

78. Ohio —Pennsylvania Co. v. State Public Service Commission, supra.
S D —Mitchell Commercial Club v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 170 N W. 149, 41 S D. 314.

79. S D.—Mitchell Commercial Club v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, supra

nection will greatly increase the danger of handling the traffic of one of the railroads,[80] or that the connection will cross at grade a siding and a yard track,[81] or that the objecting company will be deprived of a small amount of trackage,[82] or that it owns most of the land to be occupied by the connecting track.[83] A connection will not be ordered for the purpose of aiding or assisting one carrier as against another in its competition for business,[84] nor will it be denied because it will afford facilities which will be of advantage to one of the companies and detrimental to the other.[85] Such matters are foreign to the considerations which control the commission in making its decision.[86]

Place of connection. Where a railroad company is authorized to construct its road so as to connect with another railroad, if the statute or charter does not definitely specify the point of connection, a reasonable discretion should be allowed the company as to its selection,[87] as where the point of connection is indefinitely designated as "at" or "at or near" a certain place,[88] and such discretion, unless manifestly abused, will not be interfered with.[89] Under a general authority to connect with another railroad the connection need not be made in a city, town, or village;[90] but, on the contrary, an authority to connect with another railroad does not, in the absence of express provision, authorize a railroad company to construct its road through an incorporated city without the consent of the municipal authorities for the purpose of forming such a connection,[91] and a statute merely authorizing a municipality to permit connections between railroad companies within its limits only invests it with a discretionary power and does not require that it should do so.[92] Where a railroad company is authorized to extend its road to any point in a certain county and to connect with any other railroad, if such county is on the border line of the state the company may connect with a road of another state at the state line.[93]

Under a provision giving a state commission the power to designate the place at which connections may be located, if the petition of an applicant for a connection at a particular point shows that the hearing therefor is not to be restricted to one point, the commission may locate the connection at a point other than that mentioned.[94]

b. With Private Tracks or Switches

The right, if any, to connect private tracks or switches with a railroad is dependent on constitutional, statutory, or contract provisions.

The state has the power to require a railroad to furnish or allow connections with the private tracks or switches of the owners of lands, mills, warehouses, mines, or manufacturing plants;[95] and under some constitutional and statutory provisions the owners of lands, mills, warehouses, mines, and the like have an absolute right to connect private tracks or switches with railroads in their vicinity,[96] which right cannot be defeated by any contract between the railroad company and a third person.[97] Such statutes may provide for a determination by boards or commissions of matters as to which the parties are unable to agree.[98] The right to a switch connection is incidental to the ownership of mills and manufactories and the shipper's right to construct a siding to the railroad[99] or his location adjoining the railroad.[1] A shipper already having connection with one road and not situated on a second road cannot compel the latter to permit a connection,[2]

80. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 86 N.E. 328, 171 Ind. 189
51 C.J. p. 484 note 17.

81. Pa.—In re Western Allegheny R. Co., 82 A. 687, 233 Pa. 438

82. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 86 N.E. 328, 171 Ind. 189.

83. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, supra.
51 C.J. p. 484 note 20

84. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 121 N.E. 276, 123 N.E. 465, 188 Ind. 334.

85. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra

86. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

87. N.C.—Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 12 S.E. 741, 108 N.C. 100.
Pa.—Appeal of Parke, 64 Pa. 137.

88. Pa.—Appeal of Parke, supra.
51 C.J. p. 484 note 28

89. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 42 S.E. 315, 116 Ga. 64
Pa.—Appeal of Parke, 64 Pa. 137.

90. N.J.—Long Branch Comrs. v. West End R. Co., 29 N.J.Eq. 566.

91. Ga.—Augusta v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 74 Ga. 658.

92. Ga.—Augusta v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., supra.

93. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. 26—Commonwealth v. Cross Cut R. Co., 58 Pa. 62.

94. Kan.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 118 P. 872, 85 Kan. 649

95. Mich.—Detroit v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 120 N.W. 592, 156 Mich. 121
N.Y.—People v. Public Service Commission, 156 N.Y.S. 198, 170 App. Div. 429.

96. Pa.—Reeser v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 64 A. 376, 215 Pa. 136
51 C.J. p. 485 note 40.

97. Pa.—Reeser v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., supra

98. N.Y.—People v. Public Service Commission, 156 N.Y.S. 198, 170 App. Div. 429
51 C.J. p. 485 note 42.

99. Pa.—Moser v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 82 A. 362, 233 Pa. 259, 40 L.R.A.,N.S., 519.
51 C.J. p. 1005 note 52.

1. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 115 N.E. 519, 277 Ill. 574, 582
51 C.J. p. 1005 note 53.

2. Ill.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 146 N.E. 606, 315 Ill. 461, 54 A.L.R. 45.
51 C.J. p. 1004 note 32.

especially where this would amount to an extension of the second road by connection with the first.[3]

In the absence of statute or agreement, the owners of adjacent property have no right to connect private tracks or switches with a railroad without the consent of the railroad company.[4] Where the right to such a connection is secured by contract, the rights of the parties depend on a proper construction of the agreement;[5] and the agreement must be deemed to have been made subject to any existing statutes under which the company may be required to change or elevate the grades of its tracks in the interest of public safety or to abolish grade crossings.[6] A personal agreement between a railroad company and a landowner, permitting such a connection, does not pass to a lessee of the property.[7]

Reimbursement of another shipper. An applicant for a switch connection with a siding cannot be required to reimburse another shipper for expenses voluntarily incurred in previously changing the location of the siding.[8]

c. Remedies and Proceedings

A statutory right to form a connection with a railroad may be enforced by a mandatory injunction. The power of a state commission to order the making of a connection may be exercised only in the manner prescribed by statute.

A statutory right to form a connection with a railroad may be enforced in a suit in equity[9] by a mandatory injunction;[10] and, where railroad companies are authorized to make connections for an interchange of traffic, they may acquire land by purchase or condemnation for the purpose of effecting such connections[11]

The power of a state commission to order the making of a connection may be exercised only in the manner prescribed by statute,[12] and an order to establish a connection which does not comply with the provisions of the statute is void[13] Before a board or commission orders a connection to be made between railroads a hearing must be had[14] and such facts as are necessary to justify the connection must be found,[15] and the burden of proof rests on applicant for the connection.[16] The finding of the commission is deemed prima facie correct,[17] and all presumptions are in favor of its action[18] In a suit to enjoin a railroad commission from requiring a railroad to make a connection with another line, a temporary injunction will be issued if the injury to plaintiff, in case it should succeed, cannot be compensated for, while the other road can be protected by a bond.[19]

Parties. Under a statute authorizing a shipper to complain to the commission if a railroad fails to install a connection on the application either of any lateral branch railroad or of any shipper tendering interstate traffic, a complaint by a lateral branch line railroad is not authorized[20]

Exceptions in proceedings to determine the manner of a proposed connection between two railroads, not based on any facts in the case, are properly dismissed[21]

§ 57. Stations

a. Stations of one railroad
b. Union stations

a. Stations of One Railroad

(1) In general
(2) Powers and proceedings of commission

3. Ill—Cleveland, etc, R Co. v Commerce Commission, supra.
51 C J. p 1004 note 33.

4. Ill—People v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 57 Ill 436.
51 C.J. p 485 note 36.

5. Pa—In re Ohio River Junction R Co, 68 A 830, 219 Pa. 345.
51 C.J p 485 note 37.

6. N.J—Swift v. Delaware, etc, R Co, 57 A 456, 66 N.J.Law 34.

7. Ill—People v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 57 Ill. 436.

8. Ohio—Cincinnati Crushed Stone, etc, Co v State Public Utilities Commission, 117 N E 217, 96 Ohio St 288.

9. Md—Union R Co v. Canton R Co, 65 A. 409, 105 Md. 12.
51 C.J. p 485 note 44.

10. U S—Beech Creek R Co v. Olanta Coal Min Co, Pa, 158 F 36, 85 C C A. 148
Pa—Beech Creek R Co v. Olanta Coal Min Co, 17 Pa Dist 30

11. Tenn—Louisville, etc, R Co. v State, 9 Baxt 522

12. Ind—New York Cent R. Co. v State Public Service Commission, 134 N E 282, 191 Ind 627

13. Ind—New York Cent R Co. v State Public Service Commission, supra
51 C J p 486 note 48.

14. Ala—State R Commission v Louisville, etc, R Co, 72 So 397, 197 Ala 161
51 C.J. p 486 note 49

15. Ala.—State R. Commission v. Louisville, etc, R. Co., supra.
51 C J. p 486 note 50.

16. Ohio—Wheeling, etc, R. Co v State Public Utilities Commission, 117 N.E 317, 96 Ohio St 370.

17. Kan—State v Chicago, etc, R. Co, 118 P 872, 85 Kan 649
51 C J p 486 note 52

18. Ind—Pittsburgh, etc, R Co. v. State R. Commission, 86 N E 328, 171 Ind. 189.
51 C J. p 486 note 53

19. S.C—Seaboard Air Line R Co v. Hampton, 88 S E 5, 103 S C. 455

20. U S—Delaware, L & W. R Co v Interstate Commerce Commission, C C N.Y., 166 F. 498, affirmed 30 S Ct. 415, 216 U S 531, 54 L.Ed 605.

21. Pa—In re Ohio River Junction R. Co., 68 A. 830, 219 Pa. 345.

(1) In General

Both the power which the legislature possesses to determine and direct at what places a railroad company shall establish stations and the discretion which the company possesses, in the absence of statute, as to the location of stations must be exercised reasonably and with due regard to the interests of the company and the public.

A place may become a station either by designation by the railroad company or designation by statute, or by being established as a siding or stopping place to receive and discharge passengers and freight.[22] The legislature of any state may, within certain limitations, determine and direct at what places a railroad company shall establish and maintain depots or stopping places for the convenience of the public,[23] or it may delegate such power to a board or commission, as discussed infra subdivision a (2) of this section. Such power may exist under either the police power[24] or a power reserved to repeal, alter, or amend a railroad charter.[25] However, it must be exercised reasonably and with due regard to the rights of the railroad.[26]

In some jurisdictions statutes require railway companies to designate their depot grounds before constructing their roads.[27] In the absence of statute railroad companies have a large discretion as to the location of their stations;[28] this discretion, however, is not arbitrary but is a reasonable discretion to be exercised with due regard to the interests of both the company and the public.[29] A railroad company is not necessarily obliged to establish a station at every town or village through which the road passes,[30] or at a place constituting a suburb of another larger place at which it maintains a station,[31] or, in case it establishes a station at a certain place, to establish it within the corporate limits of such place.[32]

A limitation as to the location of mills, warehouses, and other structures located on the right of way has no application to the location of a depot.[33]

Location at crossing A statute requiring depots to be built at all crossings and intersections of other railroads and providing a penalty for failure therefor is a penal statute[34] and must be strictly construed.[35] A statute requiring the construction of passenger depots at all intersections of railroads carrying passengers has been construed as inapplicable to an intersection of nonpassenger roads.[36] Under a statute requiring provision of a depot at the intersection of two or more railroads, there is no obligation to erect a depot at the intersection of a railroad with one of its own side tracks.[37]

A municipality, as such, has no power, not delegated to it by the legislature, to determine whether public convenience and necessity require the erection of a station by a railroad company at a particular place or to compel the erection of the station if public convenience and necessity so require.[38]

Vote of town. Under a statute providing that, if the proprietors of any railroad shall not, on request, establish proper stopping places or depots for

22. Tex.—State R. Commission v. Pecos, etc., R. Co., Civ. App., 212 S.W. 535.
Accommodations and facilities at stations see infra §§ 403–408.

23. Utah.—State v. Ogden Rapid Transit Co., 112 P. 120, 38 Utah 242.
51 C.J. p. 486 note 59.
Railroads may be compelled by state legislation to establish stations at proper places for convenience of patrons.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of State of California, Cal., 51 S.Ct. 553, 283 U.S. 380, 75 L.Ed. 1128.—Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. West Virginia Public Service Commission, W.Va., 44 S.Ct. 439, 265 U.S. 70, 68 L.Ed. 904.

24. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sutton, 119 P. 423, 29 Okl. 553.
51 C.J. p. 486 note 61.
Lack of denial of due process of law see Constitutional Law § 698 b (1).

25. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Eastern R. Co., 103 Mass. 254, 4 Am.R. 555.

26. Ark.—Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, 106 S.W. 960, 85 Ark. 12.
51 C.J. p. 486 note 63.

27. Tex.—Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, Civ. App., 193 S.W. 770.
51 C.J. p. 486 note 64.

28. Fla.—Florida Cent. R. Co. v. State, 13 So. 103, 31 Fla. 482, 34 Am.S.R. 30, 20 L.R.A. 419.
51 C.J. p. 487 note 65.

29. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 78 N.E. 784, 222 Ill. 396.
51 C.J. p. 487 note 66.
Duty of company
(1) Railroad companies owe a duty to the general public to locate their stations at such places as will best serve the public interests.—Minnesota, etc., R. Co. v. Way, 148 N.W. 858, 34 S.D. 435, L.R.A.1915B 925.

(2) A railway company is bound to locate its stations so as best to serve its own and the public interests rather than the speculative interests of its officers, and stockholders or land speculators.—Oldham v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.S.D., 52 F. 2d 111.

30. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 38 N.E. 562, 152 Ill. 230, 26 L.R.A. 224.
Under a statute requiring railroads to construct depots "at all villages," a railroad will not be compelled to construct a depot at an unincorporated village.—State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 79 N.W. 510, 76 Minn. 469.

31. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 38 N.E. 562, 152 Ill. 230, 26 L.R.A. 224.

32. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, supra.

33. S.D.—Emery v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 164 N.W. 108, 39 S.D. 334.

34. Mo.—State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 142 S.W. 279, 238 Mo. 605.

35. Mo.—State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 487 note 79.

36. Mo.—State v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 83 Mo. 144.
51 C.J. p. 991 note 11.

37. Mo.—State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 142 S.W. 279, 238 Mo. 605.

38. N.Y.—City of New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 9 N.E.2d 931, 275 N.Y. 287.

the public accommodation, they may be required to do so on vote by any town, a notification of the vote of the town is equivalent to a request under the statute.[39]

Judicial control or interference. In some jurisdictions it has been held that in the absence of statute the courts cannot compel a railroad company to establish a station at a particular place,[40] but in other jurisdictions the courts may require the establishment of a station at a place where a failure on the part of a railroad company to establish one shows a manifest disregard of its duties to the public,[41] although the discretion of the railroad company will not be interfered with unless it is clearly abused.[42] Where a railroad company is required by statute to establish such stations as "shall be necessary," the courts may determine the question of necessity and require the establishment of a station at any place where such necessity is shown to exist.[43] In at least one jurisdiction the power to require the establishment of stations at particular places is expressly vested by statute in the supreme court.[44]

(2) Powers and Proceedings of Commission

(a) In general

(b) Judicial review or enforcement of orders

(a) In General

A board of railroad commissioners, or similar board or commission, may, within the limits of the authority conferred on it by statute, make orders relative to the location of railroad stations. In arriving at a decision, it may and must consider the various interests involved.

The legislature may confer on a board or commission the power to determine the location of stations and depots;[45] but a board of railroad commissioners or similar board or commission may make only such orders with respect to the location of railroad stations as it is authorized by statute to make,[46] and the statute will be strictly construed as to matters in derogation of the common-law rights of railroad companies.[47] In most jurisdictions where there is such a board or commission it may require the establishment of a station at a particular point[48] or the reestablishment of a station at a place where one formerly existed.[49] It has power to enforce statutory requirements as to the location of stations.[50]

The commission may not act arbitrarily.[51] In arriving at its decision it must consider the interests of the particular locality, the traveling public, and the general situation and operating requirements of the railroad.[52] It may consider the safety of the public and of the railroad employees,[53] the topographical and geographical features of the particular locality,[54] and the cost of maintenance and the income to be derived,[55] but it may not ignore the benefit to, and interest of, the railroad-using public and base its decision on considerations arising from a townsite controversy,[56] nor may it give the business convenience and property valuation in a city importance paramount to advantages from an operating standpoint in determining on a particular depot site.[57]

The findings of the board or commission are considered prima facie correct,[58] and its orders are presumptively just and reasonable.[59] Where an

39. N.H.—Nashua, etc., R. Co v. Derry, 58 N H 65

40. Utah.—State v. Ogden Rapid Transit Co., 112 P. 120, 38 Utah 242
51 C J p 487 note 67.
Judicial review of order of board or commission see infra subdivision a (2) (b) of this section.
Mandamus to compel establishment and maintenance of station see Mandamus § 231 d (2) (d).

41. Ill.—People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 22 N.E. 857, 130 Ill. 175.

42. Neb.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. State, 103 N.W. 1087, 74 Neb. 77.
51 C.J p 487 note 69

43. Neb.—State v. Republican Valley R. Co., 26 N.W. 205, 18 Neb. 512.

44. Vt.—In re Railroad Comrs., 65 A. 82, 79 Vt. 266.

45. Ala.—Horton v. Southern R. Co., 55 So. 531, 173 Ala. 231, Ann.Cas. 1914A 685—Nashville, etc, R. Co. v. State, 34 So 401, 137 Ala. 439.

46. N D—Aandahl v Great Northern R Co., 171 N W. 628, 41 N.D 577.
51 C J. p 489 note 3.

47. Miss.—State v. Yazoo, etc, R Co., 40 So. 263, 87 Miss. 679.

48. Ala.—State R Commission v Alabama Northern R. Co., 62 So 749, 182 Ala 357
51 C J. p 489 note 5.

49. Minn.—Brogger v Chicago, etc., R Co, 163 N W 662, 164 N W. 368, 137 Minn. 338.
51 C J. p 489 note 6.

50. Tex.—State R Commission v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 117 S.W. 794, 102 Tex. 393
51 C.J. p 489 note 7.

51. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R Co. v. State, 112 P. 1010, 27 Okl 565.

52. Minn.—Brogger v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 163 N W 662, 164 N.W. 368, 137 Minn 338
51 C J p 489 note 15

53. Okl.—Kansas City Southern R Co v Redwine, 143 P. 847, 43 Okl 610
51 C.J p 490 note 16

54. Okl.—Atchison, etc, R. Co v. State, 112 P 1010, 27 Okl. 565.
51 C J p 490 note 17.

55. La.—Morgan's Louisiana, etc, R., etc., Co v. State R Commission, 33 So 214, 109 La. 247.
51 C J p 490 note 18.

56. Okl.—Missouri, etc, R. Co v. State, 156 P. 1155, 53 Okl 341.

57. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 122 P. 217, 31 Okl. 509.

58. Tex.—Mosel v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 249 S.W. 893.
51 C.J. p 490 note 21.

59. Colo.—Chicago, etc, R. Co v. Public Utilities Commission, 190 P. 539, 68 Colo. 475.
51 C J. p 490 note 22.

order of the railroad commissioners is merely permissive to the company, nothing further is necessary in order to make it effective.[60]

Expenditures after notice. A railroad company which proceeds with the establishment of a station after notice has been given it by the commission to delay until after an investigation of the proposed site has been made does so at its own peril for any expenditures made.[61]

(b) Judicial Review or Enforcement of Orders

An order of a railroad board or commission concerning the location of stations is reviewable by the courts; and, if an order requires affirmative action on the part of a railroad company, it may be enforced by the courts.

The orders of railroad boards or commissions concerning the location of stations are reviewable by the courts.[62] The courts will reverse orders of a commission which are not within the powers conferred on it,[63] or orders within the scope of its powers which under the circumstances of the particular case are unreasonable or unjust.[64] On the other hand, unless clearly erroneous, the orders of the commission will not be reversed,[65] but will be upheld if they are within the powers conferred on the commission and not unjust or unreasonable.[66]

If an order is mandatory, requiring affirmative action on the part of the company, it may be enforced by the courts[67] except as to matters concerning which the powers of the commission are merely advisory.[68] Under some statutes the commissioners cannot maintain a suit to compel compliance with their orders, but the remedy is by an action to be brought by the attorney general on the request of the commissioners.[69]

Injunction is the proper remedy for a railroad company to employ in objecting to an order by the railroad commission for the erection of a new depot on a different site.[70]

The burden of proof rests on him who attacks the order;[71] but where the lower court has decided against the order of the commission its decree will not be disturbed if under the testimony the court could have so found.[72]

b. Union Stations

In the exercise of authority conferred on it by the legislature, a board or commission may select the site on which a union depot is to be located.

A board or commission, to which power with reference to union depots has been delegated by the legislature, may,[73] but need not,[74] select the site on which the depot is to be located. The safety of the employees and patrons of the railroads[75] and the needs and accommodation of the public, together with the effect it will have on the property rights of the railroad,[76] must be considered in determining the proper location of the depot.

Power of court. It has been held that, where the 60. N.Y.—People v. Railroad Comrs., 53 N.E. 163, 158 N.Y. 421.

61. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 105 S.E. 65, 128 Va. 176.

62. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 135 P. 244, 75 Wash. 487.
51 C.J. p. 490 note 29.

63. Ala.—Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 34 So. 401, 137 Ala. 439
Miss.—State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 40 So. 263, 87 Miss. 679.

64. Okl.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. State, 178 P. 662, 72 Okl. 38.
51 C.J. p. 490 note 26.

65. Ala.—State R. Commission v. Alabama Northern R. Co., 62 So. 749, 182 Ala. 357.
51 C.J. p. 490 note 23.

66. Colo.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 190 P. 539, 68 Colo. 475.
51 C.J. p. 490 note 24.

67. N.Y.—People v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 52 N.Y.S. 350, 32 App. Div. 120, affirmed 59 N.E. 138, 165 N.Y. 362

68. Ala.—Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 34 So. 401, 137 Ala. 439.

69. S.C.—Railroad Comrs. v. Railroad Co., 2 S.E. 127, 26 S.C. 353.

70. Miss.—State R. Commission v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 75 So. 778, 115 Miss. 101, Ann.Cas.1918B 828.

71. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, Civ.App., 275 S.W. 261
51 C.J. p. 491 note 42.

72. Miss.—State R. Commission v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 75 So. 778, 115 Miss. 101, Ann.Cas.1918B 828
51 C.J. p. 491 note 43.

73. Ala.—State R. Commission v. Alabama Northern R. Co., 62 So. 749, 182 Ala. 357.
51 C.J. p. 488 note 84.
Matters, other than location, pertaining to union depots see infra § 405.

Proper location

Location of union depot at the terminus of an important and much frequented street, two hundred and ten feet from the corporate line, within four blocks of the former depot in the city and within the police jurisdiction of the city, was held proper.—Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 55 S.E. 292, 142 N.C. 392

74. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 167 S.W. 192.
51 C.J. p. 488 note 86.

75. Okl.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. State, 133 P. 35, 38 Okl. 401.
51 C.J. p. 488 note 90.

76. Ala.—State R. Commission v. Alabama Northern R. Co., 62 So. 749, 182 Ala. 357

Depot site prescribed is presumed suitable and such that sufficient ground can be obtained therefor at reasonable figures.—State R. Commission v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 64 So. 13, 185 Ala. 354, L.R.A. 1915D 98.

Railroads must show, when objecting as to the cost of a depot, a more suitable and less costly site.—State v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 199 S.W. 329, modified on other grounds, Com.App., 255 S.W. 390.

legislature has invested no other tribunal with the power of locating railroad stations, the supreme court may determine the location of a union depot which the public good requires.[77]

B. CONTRACTS AS TO LOCATION

§ 58. In General

An agreement by a railroad company, for a valuable consideration, to locate its road within the authorized limits on a particular route or through a particular place is valid and not against public policy where it does not violate any public rights or duties and it is made in good faith and in the interest of the company; but it is otherwise as to a contract made by officers, agents, or directors of the company for their individual benefit.

A railroad company may for a valuable consideration agree to locate its road within the authorized limits upon a particular route or through a particular place, provided the contract is made in good faith in the interest of the company, and no public rights or duties are thereby violated.[78] Such contracts are not void as against public policy,[79] and may be enforced by[80] or against[81] the railroad company, provided they are entered into by the proper authorities.[82] Such a contract is, however, void if made by officers, agents, or directors of the company for their individual benefit,[83] and this is true without regard to the propriety of the route agreed on or the effect of its selection on the company or the public.[84]

Where a railroad company has by a valid contract bound itself to a particular location, it may not subsequently change it[85] unless it appears that a paramount public interest requires it,[86] but the mere adoption of a particular route through a city after a controversy with respect thereto does not amount to a contract which will preclude the railroad company from subsequently, by legislative authority, changing the location,[87] nor will a specific contract for a particular location prevent the railroad company from subsequently exercising a power conferred on it to make a shorter and cheaper route, provided the road already located pursuant to the contract is continued in use with proper facilities for traffic.[88]

It is the duty of the court to construe contracts as to location.[89]

§ 59. Extensions and Branch or Spur Lines

A contract on the part of a railroad company to build a branch or spur track from its main line to a mill may be valid.

A contract on the part of a railroad company to build a branch or spur track from its main line to a mill or other private enterprise is not contrary to public policy,[90] and such a contract is not void for lack of mutuality because it contains a provision giving the railroad the right to remove the track when in its judgment the business is not sufficient to justify its maintenance.[91] A particular contract has been construed not to bind the company to extend its line.[92]

§ 60. Terminal Buildings, Division Terminal, Offices, Shops, Etc.

A railroad company may contract for the location of its general offices, machine shops, and roundhouses at

77. N H—Concord, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co, 41 A. 263, 67 N.H 464.
51 C J. p 487 note 72.

78. Cal—McCowen v. Pew, 98 P 893, 153 Cal. 735, 21 L R.A.,N.S., 800, 15 Ann Cas. 630.
51 C J p 492 note 48.
Conditions in:
Conveyance to railroad company see infra § 92.
Grant of public aid see supra § 40.
Subscriptions or contributions by private persons see the C.J S. title Subscriptions § 13, also 51 C. J. p 470 notes 21, 24.

Consideration moving to other party held sufficient
Iowa.—Mills County v. Burlington, etc, R. Co., 47 Iowa 66, affirmed 2 S Ct. 654, 107 U.S. 557, 27 L Ed. 578.
13 C J. p 322 note 53.

79. Pa.—Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Baab, 9 Watts 458, 36 Am D 132.
51 C J. p 492 note 49.

80. Okl—Piper v Choctaw Northern Townsite, etc, Co, 85 P. 965, 16 Okl 436.
51 C.J. p 492 note 50.

81. Ohio—Chapman v Mad River, etc, R Co, 1 Ohio Dec, Reprint, 559, 10 West.L.J 391.
51 C.J. p 492 note 51.

82. Mass—Central Mills Co. v. New York, etc., R Co, 127 Mass 537.
51 C.J. p 492 note 52.

83. U.S—Woodstock Iron Co v. Richmond & D. Extension Co, Ala., 9 S Ct. 402, 129 U S. 643, 32 L Ed 819.
51 C J. p 492 note 53.

84. Ill—Bestor v. Wathen, 60 Ill. 138.
51 C J. p 492 note 54.

85. Ohio—Chapman v. Mad River R. Co, 1 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 559, 10 West L J. 391.
Change of location generally see infra § 65.

86. U S.—Armour & Co v Texas & P. R. Co, La, 258 F. 185, 169 C C A. 253, certiorari denied 40 S Ct 56, 251 U S 551, 64 L.Ed 410
51 C J p 492 note 56.

87. U S.—Milnor v. New Jersey R Co, C C N J., 17 F Cas No.9,620, 3 Wall appendix 782, 16 L.Ed appendix 1.

88. Ohio—Chapman v. Mad River, etc, R. Co, 1 Ohio Dec, Reprint, 565, 10 West L J. 399

89. Wash—Hunt v. Upton, 87 P. 56, 44 Wash 124
51 C.J p 492 note 59.

90. Ga—Butler v. Tifton, etc., R Co, 49 S E 763, 121 Ga. 817.

91. Mich—Michigan Cent R Co v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 93 N W. 882, 132 Mich. 324.

92. U S—Oldham v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A S.D., 52 F.2d 111.

a particular place, or for the purchase of land and the erection of terminal buildings thereon.

A railroad company may, in return for a bonus or other consideration, contract with property owners in a city to buy lots and erect and maintain its terminal buildings thereon,[93] and, where officers of the company have so contracted with property owners, a bond executed by the company guaranteeing their performance is not ultra vires.[94]

Division terminal, offices, shops, etc. A contract for the location of the general offices, machine shops, and roundhouses of a railroad at a particular place is valid,[95] and under some statutes where such a contract exists their location may not be changed to another place.[96] In order to be binding on the railroad, such a contract must be made by the proper authorities.[97]

§ 61. Stations

Contracts not to locate stations at designated points or within certain limits are void as against public policy, as are also contracts by officers, agents, or stockholders of a railroad company for their own gain to secure the location of stations at certain places; but it is otherwise as to a contract by the company merely to locate a station at a designated point. Damages may be recovered for breach of a valid contract for the location of a station; but reasonable compliance with such a contract is sufficient.

The majority rule, although there is authority to the contrary,[98] is that a contract made by a railroad company merely to locate a station or depot at a designated point is valid and not in contravention of public policy.[99] However, any contract entered into by a railroad company which tends to interfere or come in conflict with the full and proper exercise of its duty to locate its stations at such places as will best serve the public interests will be deemed illegal and against good morals,[1] and in all cases, if it is made to appear that contracts concerning the location of stations are prejudicial to the interests of the public, the rights of the contracting parties must yield to those of the public.[2] Thus contracts which limit the power of the railroad to locate and relocate its stations,[3] as where they prohibit the location of a station or depot at a designated point or within certain prescribed limits,[4] or contracts by officers, agents, or stockholders of the railroad for their own gain to secure the location of stations or depots at certain places,[5] are void as against public policy; but a contract to pay a given sum of money to one who should present a petition or proposition to the directors of a railroad company for the location of a depot in certain land is not void as against public policy unless it appears that sinister, extraneous, or corrupting influences were brought to bear on the company.[6]

A contract obligation to locate a station at a designated place is not a charge or lien on the property of the railroad[7] and does not pass by foreclosure or sale to, or devolve on, its successors.[8] Where a station is constructed by one railroad company upon the land of another under an agreement for its joint use by both companies, if the business of the companies increases so that it becomes inadequate the owner of the land may require its removal.[9]

Railroad commissioners have no power or jurisdiction over contracts between railroad compa-

93. Tex.—Eastern Texas Tract Co v. Harrison, Civ.App., 189 S.W. 302

94. Tex.—Eastern Texas Tract. Co. v. Harrison, supra.
51 C.J. p 493 note 64.

95. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson County, Civ.App., 150 S.W. 239, affirmed 156 S.W. 499, 106 Tex. 60
51 C.J. p 493 note 65.

96. Tex.—Nueces Valley Townsite Co v San Antonio, U. & G. R Co., 67 S.W.2d 215, 123 Tex 167.
51 C.J. p 493 note 66, p 501 note 9.
Statute held constitutional
Tex.—Nueces Valley Townsite Co. v. San Antonio, U. & G. R Co., supra.

97. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v Sweetwater, 137 S.W. 1117, 104 Tex. 329
51 C.J. p 493 note 68.

98. Mo.—Pacific R Co. v. Seely, 45 Mo. 212, 100 Am D 369.

99. Cal.—Herzog v. Atchison, etc., R Co., 95 P. 898, 153 Cal. 496, 17 L.R.A.,N.S., 428.
51 C.J. p 493 note 73.
Permission of federal commission
A provision in a federal statute requiring railroads to secure approval of Interstate Commerce Commission before issuing securities did not render illegal an alleged contract between municipality and railroads for erection of station at a particular point, but at most rendered contract unenforceable until permission should be given to issue and sell securities to obtain funds for erection of station.—City of New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 9 N.E.2d 931, 275 N.Y. 287
Contract construed not to require location of stations at particular places
U.S.—Oldham v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.S.D., 52 F.2d 111.

1. S.D.—Minnesota, etc., R. Co. v. Way, 148 N.W. 858, 34 S.D. 435, L.R.A.1915B 925.

2. Ga.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Camp, 60 S.E. 177, 130 Ga. 1, 124 Am.S.R. 151, 15 L.R.A.,N.S., 594, 14 Ann.Cas. 439.
51 C.J. p 494 note 74

3. U.S.—Corpus Juris cited in Oldham v. Chicago & N. W. Ry Co., C.C.A.S.D., 52 F.2d 111, 114.
51 C.J. p 494 note 75, p 502 note 21

4. U.S.—Corpus Juris cited in Oldham v. Chicago & N. W. Ry Co., C.C.A.S.D., 52 F.2d 111, 114.
51 C.J. p 494 note 76.

5. U.S.—Corpus Juris cited in Oldham v. Chicago & N. W. Ry Co., C.C.A.S.D., 52 F.2d 111, 114.
51 C.J. p 494 note 77.

6. Mo.—Workman v. Campbell, 46 Mo. 305.

7. N.Y.—People v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 8 N.E. 369, 103 N.Y. 95.

8. N.Y.—People v. Rome, etc., R Co., supra.

9. La.—McCormick v. Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 33 So. 762, 109 La. 704.

nies and private individuals as to the location and maintenance of stations,[10] and in the location of a depot[11] or in the determination of an application for permission to discontinue a station[12] the commissioners should disregard such contracts.

Performance or breach. Contracts to locate and maintain depots must be construed in the light of the exigencies of the business of the railroad and the needs of the public.[13] Compliance in a reasonable way is sufficient.[14] Thus a contract to establish a depot at a specified town is complied with by locating it at a convenient distance from the business portion of the town,[15] and a contract to locate a station at a given place is fairly complied with by the erection and maintenance of a station at the designated place for a period of years, until the exigencies of business, the convenience of the public, and the welfare of the railroad demand its removal.[16] In a contract between two individuals, a condition for the location of a depot at a certain place within a designated time is complied with if, within the time limited, the ground is staked off, a platform built, and the premises actually used for depot purposes.[17]

Damages. Where there is a valid contract with respect to the location or maintenance of a station, an action may be maintained for damages for a breach thereof[18] or to recover the value of the land conveyed as the consideration for the agreement.[19]

Injunction. A contract not to locate a depot at a certain place or within certain limits will not be enforced by injunction restraining the building of a depot within the prescribed limits.[20]

C. SURVEY OR RECORD OF LOCATION

§ 62. Survey

A railroad company may enter on private property and make preliminary surveys before finally locating its route.

A railroad company when authorized to lay out and construct a railroad may enter on private property for the purpose of exploration and preliminary surveys, without being guilty of a trespass or actionable wrong,[21] and such entry and survey, if no unnecessary damage is done, do not constitute a taking of the property for which compensation must be made, as discussed in Eminent Domain § 113. The company may make any number of experimental surveys at pleasure before finally locating its route,[22] but it has no right to institute experimental condemnation proceedings along the different surveys before making a final selection in order to ascertain which would be the cheapest route.[23]

§ 63. Filing Map, Profile, or Record

It is necessary to comply with charter or statutory requirements as to the filing of a map, profile, or description of the location of the road.

It is frequently required by general statutes or charter provisions that a railroad company shall file a map, profile, or description of the location of its road in the counties through which it passes,[24] or with a specified state officer[25] or commission,[26] and there are similar requirements with respect to branch roads,[27] extensions,[28] and changes of

10. N.Y.—People v. Railroad Comrs., 53 N.E. 163, 158 N.Y. 421.
51 C.J. p. 489 note 8.

11. La.—Louisiana R., etc., Co. v. State R. Commission, 46 So. 884, 121 La. 848.

12. N.Y.—People v. Railroad Comrs., 53 N.E. 163, 158 N.Y. 421

13. Tenn.—Cross v. Southern R. Co., 2 Tenn. Civ. A. 588.

14. Tex.—Wooters v. International, etc., R. Co., 54 Tex. 294
51 C.J. p. 494 note 84.

15. Tex.—Frey v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 24 S.W. 950, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 29, affirmed 25 S.W. 609, 86 Tex. 465.
51 C.J. p. 494 note 85.

16. Md.—Maryland, etc., R. Co. v. Silver, 73 A. 297, 110 Md. 510
51 C.J. p. 494 note 86.

17. Ill.—Waldron v. Marcier, 82 Ill. 550.

18. Fla.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Thomas, 53 So. 510, 60 Fla. 412
51 C.J. p. 491 note 44.

19. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson, 62 Tex. 260

20. U.S.—Beasley v. Texas & P. R. Co., La., 24 S.Ct. 164, 191 U.S. 492, 48 L.Ed. 274

21. Ky.—Corpus Juris cited in Thomas v. City of Horse Cave, 61 S.W. 2d 601, 604, 249 Ky. 713.
51 C.J. p. 494 note 88.

22. Pa.—Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 2 Grant 137.
Effect of preliminary survey:
As constituting location see supra § 45.
As affecting right to change location see infra § 65.
In cases of conflicting locations see infra §§ 71, 72.

23. Pa.—Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., supra.

24. Mo.—Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 95 S.W. 881, 197 Mo. 669, 114 Am.S.R. 790
51 C.J. p. 495 note 92

25. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641
51 C.J. p. 495 note 93.

26. Me.—U. S. Peg Wood, etc., Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 190, 104 Me. 472.
51 C.J. p. 495 note 94

27. S.D.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. East Sioux Falls Quarry Co., 144 N.W. 724, 33 S.D. 63.
Wash.—Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 32 P. 211, 5 Wash. 509.

28. N.J.—Mercer County Tract. Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 56 A. 897, 65 N.J.Eq. 574, reversed on other grounds 61 A. 461, 68 N.J.Eq. 715
S.D.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. East

location,[29] but such requirements do not apply to spur tracks or industrial side tracks[30] Branches constituting a part of the proposed road and designated and surveyed at the same time as the main line may be included in the map filed of the survey thereof;[31] but where a railroad company is authorized to construct branches before or after the completion of its main line, a survey for a branch line may be filed separately and need not be filed with the survey of the main line[32] The object of these requirements is to enable the public to know the line of the railroad,[33] to furnish permanent record evidence of the true and exact location and boundaries of the road,[34] and to fix and determine the rights of the railroad company and others interested or affected by such location[35] The filing should be done by authority of the directors of the company.[36]

Any express provisions of the statute as to what the map or location filed shall show must be complied with,[37] and in any case a mere general designation of the location is insufficient,[38] but the exact location and limits thereof must be shown.[39] While a requirement that the company shall file a "survey" of its route does not necessarily require a map or profile but may be complied with by designating the location by words and figures,[40] there must be sufficient data in some form from which the exact and true location may be ascertained.[41] Where a railroad company is required to file the "location" of its road, a definite reference in the written description to a map or plan is a part of the description to which reference may be made to explain or make certain the terms of such description,[42] but not to modify or control the written description of the location,[43] and a map or plan not referred to in the written description cannot be used to supply defects therein[44] So, also, the map filed cannot in any way control or modify the charter of the company, and when the two conflict the latter must control.[45] It is not essential that the location when filed should bear any date,[46] and where the statute requires the location to be filed with the county commissioners "approved by them and recorded," the approval of the location need not be signed by the different members of the board, but it is sufficient if attested by the clerk who is the recording officer of the commissioners as a court[47]

Under some of the statutes the filing of the map and survey or location is a condition precedent to the right to institute condemnation proceedings, as discussed in Eminent Domain § 226 a, but if the landowner has agreed to allow the railroad company to cross his premises he is estopped subsequently to set up, as against the validity of the taking, the failure to file the plan[48] Some of the statutes expressly require that the filing shall be done before any part of the road is constructed,[49] but under others it may be done after the road is constructed[50] or located,[51] and is not an essential step in effecting a valid location[52]

§ 64. Evidence of Location

A map or other paper, or, where it is on record, a certified copy of the record, may be the best evidence of Sioux Falls Quarry Co, 144 N.W. 724, 33 S.D. 63.

29. N.J.—Vail v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 21 N.J. Law 189
N.Y.—Matter of Riverhead, etc., R. Co., 55 N.Y.S. 938, 36 App. Div. 514

30. N.J.—Akers v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 43 N.J. Law 110.
51 C.J. p. 495 note 98

31. Mich.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. East Saginaw, etc., R. Co., 40 N.W. 436, 72 Mich. 206.

32. N.J.—Greenville, etc., R. Co. v. Grey, 43 A. 568, 62 N.J.Eq. 768.

33. Mich.—Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Cheseboro, 42 N.W. 66, 74 Mich. 466
51 C.J. p. 495 note 2.

34. Mass.—Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray 574
N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 67 N.E. 119, 175 N.Y. 72.

35. Mass.—Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray 574

36. Wis.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, 75 N.W. 1079, 100 Wis. 39, affirmed 20 S.Ct. 677, 177 U.S. 421, 44 L.Ed. 830.
51 C.J. p. 495 note 5.

37. Mass.—Housatonic R. Co. v. Lee, etc., R. Co., 118 Mass. 391
N.J.—Mercer County Tract Co. v. United New Jersey, etc., R. Co., 56 A. 897, 65 N.J.Eq. 574, reversed on other grounds 61 A. 461, 68 N.J.Eq. 715.

38. Mich.—Appeal of Conver, 18 Mich. 459

39. N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 67 N.E. 119, 175 N.Y. 72.
51 C.J. p. 495 note 8

40. N.J.—Attorney General v. Stevens, 1 N.J.Eq. 369, 22 Am.D. 526.

41. Mich.—Appeal of Conver, 18 Mich. 459

42. Mass.—Grand Junction R., etc., R. Co. v. Middlesex County Comrs., 14 Gray 553

43. Mass.—Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray 574.

44. Mass.—Housatonic R. Co. v. Lee, etc., R. Co., 118 Mass. 391.

45. N.Y.—Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. 373.

46. Me.—Nicholson v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 53 A. 839, 97 Me. 43.
51 C.J. p. 496 note 15

47. Me.—Nicholson v. Maine Cent. R. Co., supra.

48. Me.—U. S. Peg Wood, etc., Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 190, 104 Me. 472.

49. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 143 S.W. 107, 102 Ark. 492
51 C.J. p. 496 note 19.

50. N.C.—Fayetteville, etc., R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 345, 142 N.C. 423.

51. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641

52. N.C.—Fayetteville, etc., R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 345, 142 N.C. 423.
W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641.

location; but, where the best evidence is lacking, secondary evidence is admissible.

In order to prove that a location was made it is not necessary for the railroad company to produce the engineers who made the survey to testify to their work, but the plan or map of the survey is the best evidence of what was done.[53] In case of a controversy between rival companies as to priority of location, if there is no statute requiring a record of the location adopted, the action of the company must be proved by other evidence, but when proved it has the same effect as though it had been recorded and settles the date of appropriation and the exact location;[54] and where the statute requires a map to be filed but permits it to be done after the road is located, the filing of a map of its survey, if authorized by the company, while not conclusive, is prima facie proof of its adoption as the location of the road.[55] The map or location filed by the railroad company pursuant to a statutory requirement is conclusive evidence against the railroad company as to what has been taken.[56] A certified copy of the record of the location of a railroad from the records of a town is admissible to prove the location;[57] and in a proceeding to enforce a tax in aid of a railroad, the permanent location of the road is sufficiently shown by the map and profile filed by it as required by statute, together with proof that the road has been actually constructed on the line indicated thereon.[58]

Secondary evidence to show the adoption by the directors of a railroad company of a survey as the location of its road,[59] or the approval of the location by the railroad commissioners,[60] or that a plan of the location of the road was duly filed with the clerk of court of county commissioners[61] and with the railroad commissioners[62] is admissible where the best evidence is lacking. A map issued by a railway company which shows the location of a station on a road which in fact, although not in name, was built and owned by the former, is admissible in evidence to show such location.[63]

D. CHANGE OR ABANDONMENT OF LOCATION

§ 65. Change of Location

a. Route
b. Termini

a. Route

When authorized to do so by charter or statute, and statutory conditions precedent, such as obtaining the consent of municipal authorities or a board or commission, have been complied with, a railroad company may change the location of its road; but, without legislative authority, it may not do so after a particular location has been definitely adopted, especially after the road has been actually constructed, although some authorities favor a right to change location before actual construction, at least for the limited purpose of correcting engineering errors or avoiding obstacles to proper construction.

A change of location or a relocation of a railroad means a removal of the road from one right of way to another.[64] A mere shifting of the position of the tracks within the limits of the right of way is not a change of location;[65] nor is the construction of new switch tracks, or side tracks, or even of a new track as a part of the main line necessarily a relocation of the railroad;[66] nor will an inconsequential or minor change of trackage which does not affect the public be held a relocation within the application of the statutes.[67]

After a railroad company has definitely adopted a particular location for its road, the general rule is that it cannot change it without legislative authority,[68] but as to what constitutes a location within the application of the rule the decisions are not uniform.[69] A mere survey not adopted by the

53. Pa.—Johnston v. Callery, 39 A. 73, 184 Pa. 146.
54. Pa.—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.
55. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641.
56. Mass.—Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray 574.
51 C.J. p. 496 note 26.
57. Vt.—Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 28 Vt. 142.
58. Ind.—Caffyn v. State, 91 Ind. 324.
59. U.S.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Arizona, etc., R. Co., N.M., 34 S.Ct. 691, 233 U.S. 601, 58 L.Ed. 1111.
51 C.J. p. 496 note 29.
60. Me.—U. S. Peg Wood, etc., Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 190, 104 Me. 472
51 C.J. p. 496 note 30.
61. Me.—U. S. Peg Wood, etc., Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., supra.
62. Me.—U. S. Peg Wood, etc., Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., supra.
63. Tex.—Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, Civ.App., 193 S.W. 770.
64. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 N.E. 1017, 211 Ill. 352
51 C.J. p. 497 note 35.
65. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 497 note 36.
66. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Mechanics' Inst., 87 N.E. 933, 239 Ill. 197.
51 C.J. p. 497 note 37.
67. Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Williams Slate Co., 129 S.E. 499, 143 Va. 722, error dismissed 46 S. Ct. 202, 269 U.S. 540, 70 L.Ed. 401.
51 C.J. p. 497 note 38.
68. Ill.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 37 N.E. 91, 149 Ill. 272
51 C.J. p. 497 note 39.
69. Del.—Williams v. Odessa, etc., R. Co., 44 A. 821, 7 Del.Ch. 303.
Ga.—Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 24, 126 Ga. 248.

directors of the company is not a location which will prevent a subsequent survey and adoption of a different route,[70] and contracting for the construction of a road on a particular route will not prevent the company from changing the route if it has never been actually adopted by the directors of the company in the manner prescribed.[71] So, also, if the first location as shown by the map filed is not such as is authorized by the charter of the company, it cannot control the charter and will not prevent a second location which is so authorized.[72] The authorities are practically uniform to the effect that after the road has been located and actually constructed no change can be made without legislative authority,[73] even where the object of the change of location is to straighten curves and reduce grades, and if made would be a benefit to the public;[74] and, while there is some conflict as to the right to change the location after it has been selected and before the road is constructed, the better rule would seem to be that after a particular location has been definitely adopted the company cannot, without legislative authority, change it merely from motives of convenience, expediency, or economy,[75] or to avoid an unsatisfactory assessment of damages,[76] but that such changes may be made as are necessary to correct errors in engineering or to avoid obstacles which would defeat or interfere with a proper construction of the road.[77] In some cases it has been held that no change can be made after the assessment of damages,[78] but that a change may be made after the adoption of a location and before the assessment;[79] and in others that it may be made after assessment,[80] at any time before actual construction,[81] the railroad company being liable for the damages already actually sustained by landowners by reason of the prior location.[82]

Under charter or statutory authority generally. A railroad charter may be amended so as to require the company to change its route.[83] Where authorized to do so by a statutory or charter provision a railroad company may change the location of its road,[84] and the authority for such change need not be given in the charter or by an amendment thereto but may be given by a special enactment or general railroad law,[85] or even by legislative ratification after its occurrence,[86] or it may be implied from a statute providing for the establishment and use of union depots.[87] Also it has been held that a railroad company may, for the purpose of carrying out the object of its creation, change the location of its main line.[88] Any conditions precedent imposed by the statute must be complied with,[89] whether the owner of the railroad be a company or an individual.[90]

Construction and application of statutes. Statutes authorizing changes in the location of railroads are strictly construed,[91] and if the authority is to change the location for certain causes or on certain conditions the right is limited accordingly.[92] A statute authorizing a railroad company

70. Ill—East St Louis, etc, R Co v. Illinois State Trust Co, 94 N.E. 149, 248 Ill. 559.
51 C.J. p 497 note 41.

71. N.Y—Hudson, etc., Canal Co. v New York, etc., R Co., 9 Paige 323
Ohio—Baldwin v. Hillsboro, etc, R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 546, 10 West L J. 356.
Right to change location of road as affected by contract for particular location see supra § 58

72. N.Y—Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. 373.

73. U.S—Bryan v. Louisville, etc, R. Co, Mo., 244 F. 650, 157 C.C.A. 98, error dismissed and certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 334, 246 U.S. 651, 62 L.Ed. 921.
51 C.J. p 497 note 44.

74. Ill—Cairo, etc, R. Co. v. Woodyard, 80 N.E. 382, 226 Ill. 331

75. Miss—Lusby v Kansas City, etc, R Co., 19 So. 235, 73 Miss 360, 36 L.R.A. 510

76. Pa—Beale v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 86 Pa 509
51 C.J p 498 note 47.

77. Ohio—Devou v. Cincinnati Interterminal R. Co., 29 Ohio Cir.Ct. 113
51 C.J p 498 note 48.

78. Pa—Beale v. Pennsylvania R Co., 86 Pa 509—Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co., 31 Pa 19

79. Pa—Hagner v. Pennsylvania St. R. Co, 25 A. 1082, 154 Pa. 475—In re Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 15 Pa. Dist. 42.

80. Del.—Williams v. Odessa, etc, R Co, 44 A 321, 7 Del Ch 303
Iowa—Gear v Dubuque, etc, R. Co, 20 Iowa 523, 89 Am D. 550

81. Iowa.—Mahaska County R. Co v. Des Moines Valley R. Co, 28 Iowa 437—Gear v Dubuque, etc., R. Co, 20 Iowa 523, 89 Am D 550

82. Iowa.—Gear v. Dubuque, etc, R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 498 note 53.
Liability of railroad company on change or abandonment of location generally see infra § 69

83. Ga—Macon, etc, R. Co. v. Gibson, 11 S.E. 412, 85 Ga. 1, 21 Am. S.R. 135.
51 C.J. p 498 note 54.

84. Ohio—Lorain County v. Lake Shore, etc, R. Co., 11 Ohio Cir.Ct, N.S, 419, 22 Ohio Cir.Ct. 805
51 C.J. p 498 note 55.

85. N.C—Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 55 S.E. 292, 142 N.C 392
51 C.J. p 498 note 56.

86. Tex—Jeff Bland Lumber, etc, Co v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., Civ. App, 212 S.W. 750.

87. N.C—Dewey v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 55 S.E 292, 142 N.C 392.

88. Md—Whalen v. Baltimore, etc, R Co., 69 A 390, 108 Md 11, 129 Am.S.R. 428, 17 L.R.A.,N.S, 130.
51 C.J. p 499 note 59.

89. N.Y.—Matter of Riverhead, etc, R Co, 55 N.Y.S. 938, 36 App Div 514
51 C.J. p 499 note 61.

90. Iowa—State v. Beaton, 178 N. W. 1, 180 N.W. 166, 190 Iowa 216.
51 C.J. p 499 note 62.

91. Ga—Brown v. Atlantic, etc, R. Co, 55 S.E. 24, 126 Ga. 248.
51 C.J. p 499 note 68.

92. U.S.—Works v. Junction R. Co, after beginning the construction of its road to make all necessary changes in its course or direction does not authorize any change after the road is completed;[93] nor will a mere prohibition against making any change of location within a town or city after the road has been constructed impliedly authorize a change of location after construction at points outside of a town or city,[94] but where a railroad company is authorized to change the route of the road it seems that such change may be made at any time before construction,[95] and a change of location may be made after the road is constructed under an authority to change the location of and "reconstruct" the road,[96] or to acquire such lands as the company might find necessary for the site of the road "or to vary the plans thereof,"[97] and where a railroad company is authorized to change the location after construction a limitation on the time for the completion of the construction of the road applies only to the original construction and will not prevent a relocation.[98] Where a change of location is authorized because of difficulty of construction, it may be made after the road has been partly constructed at any time before its construction is complete at the place where the change is made,[99] but not after the road is finally completed.[1] A provision that the relocation shall not depart from the original line of road between the termini means the original termini of the road and not two points on the line between which there is a relocation of the track.[2]

A statute permitting a change of line only with the consent of stockholders is intended to apply only to a change of a proposed line and does not apply to a change in the line of a completed railroad.[3]

Power of state commissions. In some jurisdictions power has been conferred on boards or commissions to require or allow a change in the location of a railroad.[4]

Consent of municipal authorities. Some statutes provide that changes of location within cities, towns, or villages shall not be made after the road is constructed without the consent of the municipal authorities.[5]

Federal control. Under the federal statute, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1(18), providing that no railroad shall extend its lines, construct or acquire new lines, or abandon any line or the operation thereof without first obtaining from the interstate commerce commission a certificate of convenience and necessity, a railroad company must obtain such a certificate before relocating its line or a portion thereof, if such relocation constitutes a new construction or if abandonment is desired,[6] and a certificate authorizing a railroad to abandon a portion of its trackage does not authorize or require its relocation.[7]

A resolution of the board of directors of a railroad company relocating the route of their road is not void because passed in another state.[8]

On application of landowner. Some statutes require a railroad company to make and file a map or profile of the proposed location of its road and give notice thereof to every occupant of land through which the route passes;[9] and within fifteen days after such notice any owner or occupant of such lands aggrieved by the proposed location may apply to a justice of a court of general jurisdiction for the appointment of commissioners to examine the route proposed by the railroad company and the substitute therefor suggested by petitioner.[10] No person can make the application except one whose lands have not been acquired by

C.C.Ohio, 30 F.Cas.No.18,046, 5 McLean 425.
51 C.J. p 499 note 69.

93. Miss.—State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 38 So. 732, 86 Miss. 172, 122 Am.S.R. 277.

94. Ga.—Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 24, 126 Ga. 248.

95. Mo.—North Missouri R. Co. v. Lackland, 25 Mo. 515.
51 C.J. p 500 note 72.

96. Minn.—Hewett v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 255, 35 Minn. 226

97. S.C.—Ex parte South Carolina R. Co., 31 S.C.L. 434.

98. Minn.—Hewett v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 255, 35 Minn. 226

99. Ohio.—Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio St. 21.

1. Ohio.—Moorhead v. Little Miami R. Co., 17 Ohio 340.

2. U.S.—Bryan v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Mo., 244 F. 650, 157 C.C.A. 98, writ of error dismissed and certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 334, 246 U.S. 651, 62 L.Ed. 921.

3. U.S.—Atwater v. Wheeling & L.E. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 56 F.2d 720

4. Ill.—Roy v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 153 N.E. 648, 322 Ill. 452
51 C.J. p 499 note 60.
Power of commission to order relocation of tracks in connection with abolition of grade crossings see infra § 163.

5. Ga.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Warthen, 25 S.E. 988, 98 Ga. 599.
51 C.J. p 499 note 63.

6. U.S.—Purcell v. U.S., D.C.Md., 41 F.Supp. 309, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 709, 315 U.S. 381, 86 L.Ed. 910.

N.Y.—Hudson River Regulating Dist. v. Fonda, etc., R. Co., 217 N.Y.S. 781, 127 Misc. 866, affirmed 228 N.Y.S. 686, 223 App.Div. 358, modified on other grounds 164 N.E. 541, 249 N.Y. 445.

7. U.S.—U.S. Feldspar Corp. v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 38 F.2d 91.
51 C.J. p 499 note 67.
Certificate authorizing abandonment generally see infra § 67.

8. Pa.—Illig v. Chartiers Southern R. Co., 112 A. 116, 268 Pa. 467.

9. N.Y.—Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 23 N.Y.S. 31, 68 Hun 391, affirmed 39 N.E. 21, 143 N.Y. 669.
51 C.J. p 500 note 79.
Filing map or profile generally see supra § 63.

10. N.Y.—Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 23 N.

the railroad company and after the service on him of the notice provided for,[11] and the court cannot appoint the commission until the fifteen days allowed for the filing of such petition has elapsed,[12] and all persons entitled to notice of the application have been served.[13] The justice to whom the application is made cannot pass on the merits of the case but may merely appoint the commission,[14] one of whom must be a civil engineer.[15]

It is the duty of the commissioners to examine the proposed route, and to affirm or alter it as may be consistent with the just rights of all the parties and the public;[16] and they can adopt only the route proposed by the railroad company or the substitute proposed by the objecting party, and cannot reject both and select a different route.[17] However, they are not limited to a consideration of that part of the route within the bounds of the land of the party procuring their appointment,[18] but must examine the entire route intended to be adopted in the county,[19] and in making an alteration they must do it in such a manner as to preserve the continuity of the line.[20] The statute contemplates that one commission shall hear and determine all objections to the proposed location within the county;[21] but if the appointment of the first commission was premature and unauthorized and its proceedings void, a second commission may be appointed.[22] The determination of the commissioners may be based on a personal examination of the route and of the adjacent property as well as on testimony given before them.[23]

On appeal from the decision of the commissioners, the appellate court can consider only questions of law,[24] and cannot substitute its judgment for that of the commission as to the merits of the proposed routes;[25] and if errors of law have been committed, all that the appellate court can do is to send back the report.[26] Where it appears that the commissioners have gone beyond the scope of their powers their decision will be set aside.[27]

b. Termini

A change of termini of a railroad is permissible when, but only when, there is legislative authority therefor.

Where a railroad company has once selected and made valid location of its termini, it cannot change the location without legislative authority,[28] and an authority to change the location of the route of the road applies only to the route between the termini and does not authorize a change of the termini;[29] but a railroad company on constructing its road to or into a place named as a terminus may temporarily use a particular point as a terminal without losing the right to establish its permanent terminal at a different point within such place.[30] If the location of the termini is fixed in the articles of incorporation they cannot be changed by order of a public service commission.[31] However, a railroad charter may be amended so as to change the termini.[32] If expressly authorized by statute to do so the company may change the location of its termini,[33] and a change within a particular place may be impliedly authorized by a statute providing

Y S 31, 68 Hun 391, affirmed 39 N E 21, 143 N Y 669.
51 C.J. p 500 note 80

11. N.Y.—People v Tubbs, 59 Barb. 401, affirmed 49 N.Y. 356.

12. N.Y—In re Long Island R Co, 45 N.Y. 364.

13. N.Y.—People v Lockport, etc., R. Co, 13 Hun 211.
51 C.J. p 500 note 83.

Persons entitled to notice
All owners and occupants of land to be affected by the proposed location, as well as the railroad company, are entitled to notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard.—Norton v. Wallkill Valley R Co, 63 Barb., N.Y., 77—51 C.J. p 500 note 86.

14. N.Y.—Norton v. Wallkill Valley R. Co, 61 Barb. 476, 42 How.Pr. 228, reversed on other grounds 63 Barb 77.

15. N Y—Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co, 28 N Y.S. 31, 68 Hun 391, affirmed 39 N E 21, 143 N.Y. 669.
51 C.J. p 500 note 85.

16. N.Y—People v. Tubbs, 49 N Y. 356

17. N Y—Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc, Co., 28 N. Y S 31, 68 Hun 391, affirmed 39 N. E 21, 143 N.Y. 669.
51 C J. p 500 note 88.

18. N Y—People v Tubbs, 49 N Y. 356—In re Long Island R Co, 45 N.Y. 364.

19. N Y.—People v. Tubbs, 49 N.Y. 356—In re Long Island R. Co., 45 N.Y 364.

20. N.Y.—People v. Tubbs, 49 N.Y. 356.

21. N Y—People v. Tubbs, supra.
51 C.J. p 501 note 92.

22. N.Y—In re Long Island R. Co, 45 N Y. 364

23. N.Y.—People v. Tubbs, 49 N.Y. 356.

24. N Y.—In re Lake Shore, etc., R. Co, 89 N Y. 442.
51 C.J. p 501 note 95.

25. N Y.—Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 28 N. Y S 31, 68 Hun 391, affirmed 39 N E 21, 143 N Y. 669

26. N.Y.—In re Lake Shore, etc, R. Co, 89 N Y. 442.

27. N.Y.—People v Tubbs, 59 Barb. 401, affirmed 49 N.Y. 356.

28. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v Chicago Mechanics' Inst., 87 N.E 933, 239 Ill. 197.
51 C J. p 501 note 1.

29. Wis.—Attorney General v. West Wisconsin R Co., 36 Wis. 466.

30. U S—Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Union Pac. R Co, C.C.Colo, 41 F 293
Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co v. Union Springs, etc., R. Co, 39 So 473, 144 Ala. 639, 2 L.R.A.,N.S, 144.

31. N Y.—People v. Second Dist Public Service Commission, 125 N.E 438, 227 N Y. 248.

32. Tenn—Anderson v. Railroad Co., 17 S W. 803, 91 Tenn 44.

33. Tenn—Memphis, etc., R. Co v. Union R Co., 95 S.W. 1019, 116 Tenn. 500
51 C.J. p 501 note 6.

for the construction and use of union depots.[34] It has been held that terminal facilities within a city may be extended from time to time as the industrial expansion of the city requires[35]

Consent of stockholders A statute permitting a change of termini only with the consent of stockholders is intended to apply only to a change of proposed termini and does not apply to a change of termini of a completed railroad.[36]

§ 66. —— Stations

A change of location of a railroad station may be made if it is done in good faith with due regard to the interests of both the company and the public, and the new location furnishes proper accommodation to the public.

A railroad company may, at least to the extent permitted by statute, change the location of its stations and depots,[37] and, in the absence of statute, the duty of maintaining or continuing stations at particular places is governed largely by the same principles as relate to their original establishment and location.[38] In the relocation of a station a railroad company is discharging a public duty.[39] It cannot consult merely its own convenience but must consider its duties to the public;[40] the new site must be convenient and accessible.[41] The mere fact that a station has been maintained at a particular place will not prevent a change of location,[42] and a change may be made if it is done in good faith with due regard to the interests of both the company and the public, and the new location furnishes proper accommodation to the public.[43] In such cases, where no improper motive or abuse of discretion is shown, the courts will not attempt to interfere with its exercise,[44] and although it appears that the original change of location was improper, the court will not require the reëstablishment of a station at its original location after conditions have so changed that the general public is better accommodated by the new location and the conditions do not warrant the maintenance of a station at both places[45]

The right to change the location of a station in a particular case cannot be controlled or prevented by contract, as discussed supra § 61, or by the fact that private citizens in the expectation of the continuance of a station at a particular place have made donations of land or money to the railroad company,[46] or purchased property or established business enterprises in the vicinity of the original location.[47] A railroad company cannot, when compelled to remove a depot erected on land dedicated to a public street, recover for the value thereof.[48]

Power of board or commission. In some jurisdictions power has been conferred on boards or commissions to direct, authorize, or prevent the relocation of a station or depot,[49] and in determining whether a new depot shall be built or alterations made in an old one the commission can consider the dangers which exist in the present location of the old depot.[50] Statutory provisions prohibiting the abandonment of a station without legislative authority and permitting a change of location with the permission of the railroad commissioners and the municipal authorities of the place where the station is located are not necessarily conflicting.[51]

§ 67. Abandonment of Location

After actual construction on a particular location, a railroad or part thereof may be abandoned by the company when, but only when, there is legislative authority for the abandonment or permission or consent is grant-

34. Mo.—State v. St Louis, etc., R. Co, 3 Mo.App. 180.
N.C.—Dewey v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 55 S.E 292, 142 N.C. 392

35. Or—Oregon-Washington R., etc, Co v Spokane, etc, R Co, 163 P. 600, 989, 83 Or 528.
Pa—Appeal of Western Pennsylvania R. Co., 99 Pa. 155.

36. U.S—Atwater v. Wheeling & L. E Ry Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 56 F.2d 720.

37. Ky.—Beatty v Louisville, etc., R. Co, 195 S.W. 487, 176 Ky. 100.
51 C.J. p 501 note 11.

38. Ill.—Mobile, etc., R Co. v. People, 24 N.E 643, 132 Ill. 559, 22 Am S.R 556.
51 C.J. p 501 note 12.

39. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 105 S.E. 65, 128 Va. 176.

40. Minn.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 96 N.W 81, 90 Minn. 277.
51 C.J p 501 note 14.

41. Va—Southern R Co. v. Commonwealth, 105 S.E 65, 128 Va 176.
51 C.J. p 501 note 15.

42. Ill—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. People, 78 N.E 734, 222 Ill. 396.

43. Ill—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, supra.
51 C.J. p 502 note 17.

44. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, supra
51 C.J. p 502 note 18.

45. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Terr., Wash., 12 S.Ct. 283, 142 U.S. 492, 35 L.Ed 1092
Tex.—Mosel v San Antonio, etc., R. Co, Civ.App, 249 S.W. 893.

46. Fla—College Arms Hotel Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 54 So. 459, 61 Fla. 550.
Ill—Mobile, etc, R. Co. v People, 24 N.E. 643, 132 Ill. 559, 22 Am. S.R. 556.

47. Ky—Beatty v Louisville R. Co, 195 S.W. 487, 176 Ky 100.
51 C.J. p 502 note 23.

48. Tex—Galveston, etc., R. Co v. Eagle Pass, Civ.App., 249 S.W. 268, reversed on other grounds, Com.App, 260 S.W. 841.

49. Ark—St Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Bellamy, 169 S.W. 322, 113 Ark. 384, L.R.A.1915D 91.
51 C.J. p 502 note 24.

50. Minn—St. James Commercial Club v Chicago, etc, R. Co., 171 N.W. 312, 142 Minn. 169.
51 C.J. p 502 note 25.

51. Mass—Cunningham v Railroad Commissioners, 32 N.E. 959, 158 Mass. 104.

ed by a commission in the exercise of power conferred on it by statute.

In the absence of any statutory provision on the subject the question whether a railroad company has abandoned a particular location is largely one of intention,[52] and, in the absence of other facts showing such intention, a mere lapse of time without constructing a railroad on the location adopted will not constitute an abandonment thereof.[53] A railroad company authorized to construct a single road cannot have more than one location in full force at the same time;[54] so if a company which has adopted one location subsequently adopts another it thereby abandons the former;[55] and if a railroad company is given an alternative right to construct a single railroad on one of several specified routes its adoption of one constitutes an abandonment of the others.[56] A railroad company incorporated to construct a road between certain points has no right to abandon a portion of the chartered route and construct only the remainder,[57] nor in the absence of statutory authority can a railroad company after constructing its road on a particular location abandon it[58] and reconstruct the road on another.[59] If authorized by statute to do so it may abandon a portion of its road after it has been constructed,[60] provided it complies with any conditions imposed by the statute.[61]

Consent or permission of commission. Under the federal statute, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1(18), a railroad engaged in interstate commerce may not abandon all or any portion of a line of railroad unless and until there is first obtained from the interstate commerce commission a certificate that public convenience and necessity permit of such abandonment.[62] When not empowered by statute to do so, a state commission may not authorize or permit a railroad company to abandon its road or a portion thereof[63] on the ground that the road can be operated only at a loss,[64] nor may it order abandonment of side tracks or switch tracks as a means of assuring proper sanitary conditions.[65] A commission may have power, in granting a certificate of public convenience for abandonment of part of a line, to attach reasonable conditions to its consent as long as the conditions are proper under the company's franchise or under contracts previously entered into by it with municipal authorities;[66] but after it has been actually carried into effect, a certificate issued without any conditions attached thereto may not be rescinded by the commission.[67]

§ 68. —— Stations

Under some statutes a railroad company may not abolish or abandon a station without the consent of a designated commission.

No general rule of law applicable to all cases can be laid down as to what change of station will constitute an abandonment or a relocation, but the decision in each case must rest on the facts thereof.[68] It is not an abandonment of a station to change its location from one point to another in the same vicinity,[69] or to consolidate two stations in the same vicinity into one by relocating each at a single intermediate point, although the number of stations is thereby reduced,[70] or to enter into a contract granting a terminal company temporary possession of its grounds with a restoration clause if a contract for the building of a union station is not approved by a commission.[71]

52. Ill.—Stannard v. Aurora, etc., R. Co., 77 N.E. 254, 220 Ill. 469.
51 C.J. p. 502 note 31.
Abandonment of:
Operation of road or portion thereof see infra § 392.
Right of way see infra § 117.

53. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 28 A. 155, 159 Pa. 331.
51 C.J. p. 502 note 32.

54. Pa.—Hagner v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 25 A. 1082, 154 Pa. 475.

55. Pa.—Hagner v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 502 note 34.

56. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville City R. Co., 2 Duv. 175.
51 C.J. p. 503 note 35.

57. Mo.—Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 95 S.W. 881, 197 Mo. 669, 114 Am.St.R. 790.

58. Tex.—Railroad Commission of Tex. v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., Civ. App., 197 S.W.2d 176, reversed on other grounds 200 S.W.2d 626, 145 Tex. 541.

59. Miss.—Lusby v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 19 So. 239, 73 Miss. 360, 36 L.R.A. 510.
51 C.J. p. 503 note 37.
Change of location generally see supra § 65.

60. N.H.—Northern R. Co. v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 31 A. 17, 66 N.H. 560.
51 C.J. p. 503 note 38.

61. Mich.—Williams v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 74 N.W. 641, 116 Mich. 392
51 C.J. p. 503 note 39.

62. U.S.—Woodruff v. U. S., D.C. Conn., 40 F.Supp. 949.
Power of interstate commerce commission to authorize or require abandonment see Commerce § 142 b.

63. Tex.—State v. Sugarland R. Co., Civ.App., 163 S.W. 1047.
51 C.J. p. 503 note 37 [d].

64. Minn.—Minneapolis & St. P. S. R. Co. v. Village of Birchwood, 244 N.W. 57, 186 Minn. 563.

65. Tenn.—Pharr v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry., 208 S.W.2d 1013, 186 Tenn. 154.

66. Pa.—Jennings v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 382, 140 Pa.Super. 569.

67. Pa.—Jennings v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, supra.

68. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Commission, 105 S.E. 65, 128 Va. 176.
51 C.J. p. 503 note 40.

69. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Callahan, 136 S.W. 1018, 143 Ky. 517, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 412.
51 C.J. p. 503 note 41.

70. Mass.—Cunningham v. Railroad Commissioners, 32 N.E. 959, 158 Mass. 104.

71. U.S.—Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 33 F.2d 390, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 40, 280 U.S. 593.

In some jurisdictions power has been conferred on boards or commissions to deal with the question of discontinuance or abandonment of an existing station.[72] Statutes expressly providing that a railroad company shall not abolish or abandon a station or one which has been maintained for a certain length of time without the consent of the railroad commissioners, are, when applicable, accorded effect,[73] and under such statutes the commissioners may authorize the discontinuance of a station.[74] On an application for permission to abandon a station the commissioners are only to determine the issue as to whether it shall be abandoned and cannot impose conditions.[75] A petition filed before a board or commission for an abandonment of a station must be broad enough to justify the relief sought,[76] and the burden of proof is on petitioner to show that it is entitled thereto.[77] The abandonment of a station with the consent of the railroad commissioners, as authorized by statute, and the construction of a new station at a different place, do not constitute a contract with the state which will prevent the legislature from subsequently requiring the reestablishment of the station abandoned.[78]

If one station will furnish proper accommodation to the public, a company having two stations in the same place or near each other may be granted leave to discontinue the use of one of them.[79]

§ 69. Liability of Railroad Company

In the absence of statute or special contract, no right to damages accrues to a member of the public from an authorized removal, abandonment, or change of location of a railroad line or portion thereof.

Some statutes provide for the payment of damages by a railroad to those injured by the removal of its tracks;[80] but in the absence of statute or special contract no right to damages accrues to a member of the public from an authorized removal, abandonment, or change of location of a railroad line or a portion thereof, since any injury sustained is damnum absque injuria,[81] and if authority to change its route has been granted unconditionally to a railroad it owes no duty to fill or bridge a cut on the abandoned location.[82] On the other hand, if a railroad company has made an unauthorized change of location it is liable for a resulting injury to property caused by the new location, although such location does not actually touch plaintiff's property;[83] but even in the case of a change of location alleged to be unlawful, an action for damages predicated thereon may not be maintained by a person not injured or affected thereby,[84] and penalties for abandonment and removal of tracks without first making application to a commission for authority to do so may not be recovered from a railroad company by the state where, during the pendency of the suit, the statute providing for the penalties was repealed and superseded by another statute containing no special saving clause and providing that a general saving statute should not apply.[85]

A right to damages from the removal of a station does arise from the mere fact that one is the owner of property adjoining the station.[86]

72. N.J.—Fritts v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 73 A. 92, 75 N.J.Eq. 384
51 C.J. p. 503 note 44.

73. Minn.—Minnesota Transfer Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission, 274 N.W. 408, 200 Minn. 422.
51 C.J. p. 503 note 45

74. N.Y.—People v. Railroad Commissioners, 53 N.E. 163, 158 N.Y. 421.

75. Conn.—Chester v. Connecticut Valley R. Co., 41 Conn. 348
51 C.J. p. 504 note 49.

76. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 164 N.E. 147, 333 Ill. 215.
51 C.J. p. 504 note 50.

77. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, supra.

78. Conn.—State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351.

79. Va.—Clayville Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 76 S.E. 942, 114 Va. 356.
51 C.J. p. 504 note 47.

80. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Cook, 151 N.E. 20, 85 Ind.App. 356
51 C.J. p. 504 note 52.

81. U.S.—Woodruff v. U. S., D.C. Conn., 40 F.Supp. 949
Mont.—Briggs v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 15 P.2d 840, 92 Mont. 463
Neb.—Scully v. Central Nebraska Public Power & Irrigation Dist., 9 N.W.2d 207, 143 Neb. 184
51 C.J. p. 504 note 53.
Liability of company, after change of location, for damages actually sustained by landowners from prior location see supra § 65.

Petition held not to state cause of action

Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Toccoa Rock Crushing Co., 171 S.E. 179, 47 Ga.App. 558

Decision of federal commission or court

It has been said that neither the decision of interstate commerce commission that public convenience or necessity permitted of the abandonment of a branch line railroad, nor decision of federal court, refusing to enjoin operation of order authorizing abandonment, would have any effect on the right to compensation, if any, for injury inflicted by abandonment on operator of a coal mine located on the branch line.—Purcell v. U. S., D.C.Md., 41 F.Supp. 309, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 709, 315 U.S. 381, 86 L.Ed. 910

82. Miss.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Brandon, 14 So. 438.
51 C.J. p. 504 note 57

83. Ohio.—Little Miami R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 Ohio St. 235, 59 Am.D. 667.

84. Mont.—Briggs v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 15 P.2d 840, 92 Mont. 463.

85. Minn.—State v. Chicago Great Western Ry. Co., 25 N.W.2d 294, 222 Minn. 504.

86. Ky.—Beatty v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 195 S.W. 487, 176 Ky. 100
51 C.J. p. 492 note 46.

Property fronting on alley and opposite to depot

Ky.—Watson v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 56 S.W.2d 699, 247 Ky. 135

A railroad company seeking to remove shop facilities and terminals which were located under a contract to maintain them at that place forever must show by clear and satisfactory evidence that the public interest in the proper discharge of its duties demands it.[87]

§ 70. Remedies and Proceedings

A railroad company may be enjoined from making an unauthorized relocation or abandonment of its road; but an injunction against discontinuance of a station at a certain place will not be granted for the purpose of enforcing a contract to maintain a station at that place.

A railroad company may be restrained by injunction from making an unauthorized relocation or abandonment of its road,[88] and any person who will sustain a special injury by such change which is of an irreparable character or cannot be adequately compensated in damages may maintain the suit.[89] Also, where a company authorized to construct a certain line of railroad resolves to abandon a portion of the authorized route and construct a road only on the remainder, a landowner may resist the condemnation of his land for such purpose.[90] It has been held, however, that, where a location has been surveyed and adopted, the question of abandonment can be raised only by the state and not by a rival company seeking to appropriate the same location.[91]

A railroad company which has put in a private siding under a contract for the payment of its cost cannot remove it because of a failure to receive the entire amount due.[92]

Discontinuance or change of location of station or depot. A contract to maintain a station at a certain place will not be enforced by injunction restraining its discontinuance,[93] and, where the company is restrained from abandoning its old route through a town and the relocation of its depot at the old site necessarily follows, it cannot be restrained from making such change.[94] A railroad company which seeks to change the location of its depot on the ground that it is for the public benefit has the burden of proving such benefit in an action to restrain the change.[95]

Judicial review of order of commission. An order of a commission requiring a railroad company to relocate its stock pens is appealable,[96] and on appeal is presumed to be just and reasonable.[97] Towns and cities are not aggrieved parties so as to be entitled to bring exceptions to rulings by a commission on petitions by railroad companies for changes in locations.[98]

E. CONFLICTING LOCATIONS

§ 71. In General

In the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary, priority of location and of right thereto, as between two or more railroad companies, belongs to the company which first defines, marks out, and adopts its route as a permanent location, by authoritative corporate action.

In the case of conflicting grants of a specific location to different companies, the prior grant will control,[99] but if no specific route is granted to either of two companies, no right to any particular route accrues to either until it has determined on a location.[1] In such cases where the exact route is to be selected by the company, the prior right will attach to that company which first definitely 87. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R Co. v State, Civ App, 275 S W. 673, certiorari granted 46 S Ct 483, 271 U S 653, 70 L Ed 1134, writ vacated 48 S Ct. 82, 275 U S 494, 72 L. Ed 391—Houston, etc, R Co v. Ennis, Civ.App, 201 S W. 256, certiorari denied 40 S Ct. 393, 252 U S 583, 64 L Ed. 728, and error dismissed 41 S Ct. 622, 256 U S. 684, 56 L Ed 1171.

88. Ga.—Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R Co, 55 S E 24, 126 Ga 248.
Application by landowner for change of location and proceedings thereon see supra § 65.
Mandamus to prevent, or to compel restoration after, abandonment or removal of station or part of road see Mandamus § 231 d (2).

89. Ga.—Atlantic, etc, R Co v Kirkland, 59 S E 220, 129 Ga. 552
51 C J. p 504 note 61.

90. Mo.—Kansas City Interurban R Co. v. Davis, 95 S.W. 881, 197 Mo 669, 114 Am.S R 790.

91. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R Co. v Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co, 28 A. 155, 159 Pa 331.

92. N J.—Smith v. Atlantic City R Co., 76 A. 977, 78 N.J Law 708.
51 C.J. p 505 note 66.

93. N J.—Fritts v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 73 A. 92, 75 N.J.Eq 384.
51 C J p 491 note 33.

94. Miss.—Cooper v Mobile, etc., R Co., 48 So. 832, 94 Miss 413.

95. Tex.—San Antonio, etc, R. Co. v. Mosel, Civ App., 180 S.W 1138

96. Okl.—St Louis, etc., R. Co v. Miller, 123 P. 1047, 31 Okl. 801.

97. Okl.—St Louis, etc., R. Co. v Miller, supra.

98. Me.—In re Maine Cent. R. Co, 183 A. 844, 134 Me 217.

99. Md.—Chesapeake, etc, Canal Co v Baltimore, etc., R. Co, 4 Gill & J. 1.
N.J.—Morris, etc, R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N J Eq 635.

Exclusive right
A statute which granted a railroad a franchise to lay down its line on a right of way surveyed by it was held to be a grant of an exclusive right to use that particular route—Rochester, etc, R Co v. New York, etc, R Co, 44 Hun 206, affirmed 17 N E 680, 110 N Y. 128.

1. N J.—Morris, etc, R Co. v. Blair, 9 N J.Eq 635.

locates its line,[2] without regard to the dates of their respective charters[3] or dates of entry on the property or preliminary surveys or work of construction,[4] and, in the absence of statutory regulations to the contrary, the first location belongs to the company which first defines, marks out, and adopts its route for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action.[5] In order to constitute a valid location for such purpose a mere preliminary survey is not sufficient,[6] but there must be an adoption of a particular line or survey as a corporate act of the company itself,[7] and if after such survey but before its adoption another company surveys and adopts the same location, the latter company will acquire the prior right thereto.[8] Mere mental selection or intention by officers or members of the corporation to construct a line over a specified route is not sufficient,[9] but it has been held that a preliminary survey followed by actual possession of the ground is sufficient.[10] It seems that if there is a definite line or survey marked out which may be adopted, it is not material when or by whom it was made;[11] and so it has been held that a company may without a survey by engineers acquire a valid location as against another company by staking out a line on the abandoned roadbed of another company,[12] or by adopting a survey made by promoters for the benefit of the company prior to its incorporation.[13]

Where the statute or charter requires a railroad company before constructing its road or instituting condemnation proceedings to file a map or survey of its route, that company acquires the prior right which first selects and adopts a location and files the map or survey required,[14] but if the statute authorizes this to be done after the road is located or constructed, it is not essential to a valid location as against another company.[15] The institution of condemnation proceedings or acquisition of title to the property is not essential to priority of location against rival companies,[16] and where priority of right has been secured by priority of location it cannot be defeated by a rival company agreeing with the owners and purchasing the property,[17] or instituting condemnation proceedings in advance of such proceedings by the company first completing its location,[18] since, while the location does not give title as against the landowner, it fixes the prior right as between companies to acquire such title.[19] If a railroad company has marked out the line of its location it need not as against a rival company be exact as to the width of the right of way or other matters of mere detail,[20] such as the marks for grades, slopes, cuts, and fills nec-

2. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., 106 N.E. 818, 265 Ill. 194, Ann.Cas. 1916A 833.
51 C.J. p. 505 note 70.

3. N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N.J.Eq. 635.
Wis.—Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 112 N.W. 663, 132 Wis. 313.

4. U.S.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., Tenn., 131 F. 657, 66 C.C.A. 601, certiorari denied 25 S.Ct. 791, 195 U.S. 634, 49 L.Ed. 354.—Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., C.C.Nev., 110 F. 879.

5. N.C.—Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen R. Co., 55 S.E. 345, 142 N.C. 423.
51 C.J. p. 505 note 73.

Text rule has been recognized in a decision which holds, however, that mere location by railroad of its future lines does not carry with it right to occupy land but gives rise to incipient right only, which if perfected into right of occupancy must be followed with dispatch by further action relating to acquisition of the property or an easement therein, either by purchase or institution of condemnation proceedings, and which also holds that railroad company which was given consent by legislature to cross roadway and which secured permission of abutting owner, who retained fee of roadway, to cross it and which thereafter acquired title to land from owner, had right perfected to cross roadway and such right was superior to inchoate right of defendant company to lay tracks for commercial railroad along roadway on ground that it was not perfected for failure to compensate abutting owners.—Texas & N.O.R. Co. v. Thompson, Tex.Civ.App., 194 S.W.2d 123, error refused.

6. N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N.J.Eq. 635.
51 C.J. p. 505 note 74.
Requisites of location generally see supra § 45.

7. U.S.—Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., C.C.Nev., 110 F. 879.
51 C.J. p. 505 notes 75, 77

8. N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N.J.Eq. 635.
51 C.J. p. 505 note 76.

9. Mont.—Great Falls, etc., R. Co. v. Ganong, 136 P. 391, 48 Mont. 43.
N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N.J.Eq. 635.

10. U.S.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Alling, Colo., 99 U.S. 463, 25 L.Ed. 438.

11. N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N.J.Eq. 635.
51 C.J. p. 506 note 80.

12. N.C.—Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 345, 142 N.C. 423.

13. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641
51 C.J. p. 506 note 82.

14. Vt.—Barre R. Co. v. Montpelier, etc., R. Co., 17 A. 923, 61 Vt. 1, 15 Am.S.R. 877, 4 L.R.A. 785.
51 C.J. p. 506 note 83.

15. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641
51 C.J. p. 506 note 84.

16. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., supra
51 C.J. p. 506 note 85.

17. Vt.—Barre R. Co. v. Montpelier, etc., R. Co., 17 A. 923, 61 Vt. 1, 15 Am.S.R. 877, 4 L.R.A. 785
51 C.J. p. 506 note 86.

18. Wis.—Milwaukee Light, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee-Northern R. Co., 112 N.W. 663, 132 Wis. 313
51 C.J. p. 506 note 87.

19. Pa.—Dilts v. Plumville R. Co., 71 A. 1072, 222 Pa. 516.
51 C.J. p. 506 note 88.

20. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 28 A. 155, 159 Pa. 331.
W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641.

essary for the actual construction of the road,[21] and where a company has surveyed, marked out, and adopted its location, it is not necessary that it should maintain the stakes and keep them in position in order to hold such location against another company.[22] A railroad company may also, prior to a survey of its entire line, locate and hold as against another company a particular section or portion thereof,[23] as long as it proceeds in good faith and with reasonable diligence in the prosecution of the work contemplated by its organization.[24]

§ 72. Remedies and Proceedings

Where one railroad company, by first making a valid location, has secured a prior right thereto, another railroad company may be enjoined from interfering therewith.

As a general rule a court of equity will not interfere to protect an unlocated or indefinite right of way,[25] but it will intervene to protect rights acquired by prior location against the trespasses of another road.[26] Thus, a company which has merely made a preliminary survey but never adopted it has no standing in equity to enjoin another company from surveying and adopting the same location;[27] but when one railroad company by first making a valid location has secured a prior right thereto, another railroad company will be enjoined from interfering therewith,[28] notwithstanding the latter company has expended a large sum of money in grading.[29] Such cases are, however, governed by the general rules relating to the granting of injunctions,[30] and a preliminary injunction will not ordinarily be granted where the right of plaintiff is not clear, as where the validity of its location is in dispute,[31] and it does not appear that any great or irreparable injury can result from denying an injunction until final hearing.[32]

VI. RIGHT OF WAY AND OTHER INTERESTS IN LAND

§ 73. Capacity to Acquire and Hold Land

a. In general
b. Foreign railroad companies

a. In General

The general rule, as sometimes expressly given and regulated by statute, is that a railroad company has power to acquire, hold, and use necessary real estate for the construction, maintenance, and operation of its road.

As long as it is a properly going corporation,[33] and in the absence of restrictions in its charter or the governing statute, the general rule, as sometimes expressly given and regulated by statute, is that a railroad company has power to acquire, hold, and use necessary real estate for the construction, maintenance, and operation of its road.[34] Such power arises, in the absence of an express grant thereof, by necessary implication from the power to construct and operate a railroad.[35] Where such power is given and regulated by statute, it is subject to such restrictions or limitations as are imposed by the statute.[36] Where statutory power is acquired while such a statute is in force, it becomes a vested right which cannot be taken away or affected by the subsequent repeal or modification of the stat-

21. Pa.—Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., 12 Phila. 642.—Wilkesbarre, etc., R. Co. v. Danville, etc., R. Co., 29 Leg. Int. 373.

22. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 28 A. 155, 159 Pa. 331.

23. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 50 S.E. 890, 57 W.Va. 641.
51 C.J. p. 506 note 92.

24. W.Va.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., supra.

25. S.C.—Marion County Lumber Co. v. Tilghman Lumber Co., 55 S.E. 337, 75 S.C. 220.

26. N.M.—Arizona, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 117 P. 730, 16 N.M. 281, affirmed 34 S.Ct. 691, 233 U.S. 601, 58 L.Ed. 1111.
51 C.J. p. 507 note 95.

27. Pa.—Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 645, 141 Pa. 407, 12 L.R.A. 220.

28. Pa.—Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., 12 Phila. 642.
51 C.J. p. 507 note 97.

29. Pa.—Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., supra.

30. U.S.—Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., C.C.Nev., 110 F. 879.

31. W.Va.—Kanawha, etc., R. Co. v. Glen Jean, etc., R. Co., 30 S.E. 86, 45 W.Va. 119.
51 C.J. p. 507 note 1.

32. N.Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 11 Abb.N. Cas. 386.

33. N.Y.—Greenwood Lake, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 N.Y.S. 26, 5 Silv. Sup. 305, affirmed 31 N.E. 874, 134 N.Y. 435.
51 C.J. p. 507 note 5.

34. U.S.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A.Mo., 106 F.2d 217, certiorari denied Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S.Ct. 180, 308 U.S. 613, 84 L.Ed. 513, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L.Ed. 876.
Conn.—Parsons v. Town of Wethersfield, 60 A.2d 771, 135 Conn. 24.
Ill.—Keen v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 64 N.E.2d 499, 392 Ill. 362.
Mo.—State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 347 Mo. 690.
Okl.—Higgins v. Oklahoma City, 127 P.2d 845, 191 Okl. 16, reversed on other grounds 56 S.Ct. 562, 297 U.S. 431, 80 L.Ed. 816—Oklahoma City v. Dobbins, 44 P.2d 148, 172 Okl. 194.
Tenn.—Pemberton v. Southern Ry. Co., 34 S.W.2d 444, 162 Tenn. 65.
51 C.J. p. 507 note 6.

35. Ill.—Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Carmichael, 56 N.E. 372, 184 Ill. 348.
N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark, 10 N.J.Eq. 352.

36. Pa.—Jarden v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 3 Whart. 502.

ute,[37] and such power is unaffected by the limitations of a constitution subsequently adopted.[38]

The power to acquire property can be questioned only by the state.[39]

Additional and unused property. Power to acquire land is not exhausted by the acquisition of as much real estate as the company needs at the time, but it may afterward acquire such additional property as its necessities require,[40] and in anticipation of its ultimate needs it may hold unused available land which it will require, within a reasonable time, for necessary future uses,[41] and this rule applies notwithstanding a constitutional provision which prohibits a corporation from holding land, other than that used for its legitimate business, for longer than a specified period.[42] The fact that a city grants a right of way in an alley does not prevent the railroad company from acquiring by purchase a private right of way in addition thereto on lands adjoining the alley.[43]

Validity of unauthorized acquisition. A railroad cannot acquire land which is not reasonably necessary for railroad purposes by procuring a trustee to make entry upon the land in its behalf;[44] nor can it enforce a trust in such land, held by another for it.[45] It has been held, however, that a conveyance to a railroad company of land which it is not authorized to acquire, such as for an unauthorized purpose, is not void,[46] but is good as against all the world except the state.[47]

b. Foreign Railroad Companies

Unless limited or prohibited by constitutional provisions, statutes, or other manifestations of public policy of the state in which the land is situated, a railroad company has the right, to the extent of its charter authority, to acquire land in a state other than that of its creation.

In accordance with, and subject to, the rules regulating the power of foreign or nonresident corporations generally to acquire and hold land in another state, unless limited or prohibited by constitutional provisions, statutes, or other manifestations of public policy of the state in which the land is situated, a railroad company has the right, to the extent of its charter authority, to acquire land in a state other than that of its creation.[48] This power, however, is subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be imposed by the laws of the domestic state,[49] such as that the nonresident company cannot acquire and hold land within the state unless it is specially authorized by the local legislature[50] or becomes a corporation under the local laws.[51]

On the other hand, where a nonresident railroad company is not absolutely prohibited from acquiring and holding land within a state, but is required only to perform certain conditions, a conveyance to such a railroad company which has not complied with the statute is not void, but passes title as against the grantor and others, and can be attacked, if at all, only by the state,[52] and a title may be acquired by it by adverse possession which will be good against all but the state.[53] Even where a foreign company has power to hold land in the state, it cannot acquire it by eminent domain without the assent of the local legislature, as discussed in Eminent Domain § 25; but a provision prohibiting it from acquiring land by condemnation proceedings does not prevent it from acquiring land by agreement with any citizen having the right to contract.[54] A statute granting power to acquire and hold land to a domestic railroad company has been held by implication to deny such power to a foreign company.[55]

37. Ala.—Georgia Pac. R. Co. v. Wilks, 6 So. 34, 86 Ala. 478.

38. Okl.—Oklahoma City v. Dobbins, 44 P.2d 148, 172 Okl. 194.

39. Tenn.—Pemberton v. Southern Ry. Co., 34 S.W.2d 444, 162 Tenn. 65.

40. N.C.—Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. McGuire, 88 S.E. 337, 171 N.C. 277.
51 C.J. p. 507 note 11

41. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 151 S.W. 934, 151 Ky. 325, 152 S.W. 976, 151 Ky. 774.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 12.

42. Ky.—Louisville Property Co. v. Commonwealth, 143 S.W. 412, 146 Ky. 827, 38 L.R.A.,N.S., 880.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 13.

43. Iowa.—Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 85 N.W. 902, 113 Iowa 561.

44. N.C.—Wallace v. Moore, 100 S.E. 287, 178 N.C. 114.

45. U.S.—Case v. Kelly, Wis., 10 S. Ct. 216, 133 U.S. 21, 33 L.Ed. 513.
Alaska.—Alaska Northern R. Co. v. Alaska Cent. R. Co., 5 Alaska 377.

46. Tex.—Knowles v. Northern Texas Tract. Co., Civ.App., 121 S.W. 232.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 18.

47. Ill.—Rockford Trust Co. v. Moon, 18 N.E.2d 447, 370 Ill. 250.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 19.

48. Neb.—Myers v. McGavock, 58 N.W. 522, 39 Neb. 843, 42 Am.S.R. 627.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 21.
Power of foreign corporations to acquire and hold land in another state generally see Corporations §§ 1868–1873

49. U.S.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, Tenn., 66 F. 809, 14 C.C.A. 116.

50. Pa.—Commonwealth v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 A. 756, 114 Pa. 340.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 23

51. U.S.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, Tenn., 66 F. 809, 14 C.C.A. 116.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 24.

52. U.S.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, supra.
51 C.J. p. 508 note 25.

53. Neb.—Hanlon v. Union Pac. R. Co., 58 N.W. 590, 40 Neb. 52.

54. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Foltz, C.C.Ark., 52 F. 627.

55. Iowa.—Holbert v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 23.

§ 74. —— Purposes for Which Land May Be Acquired

Except in so far as restricted by its charter or by statute, a railroad company may acquire and hold such real estate as is reasonably necessary to enable it to carry out any purpose authorized by its charter.

Except in so far as restricted by its charter or by statute,[56] a railroad company may acquire and hold such real estate as is reasonably necessary to enable it to carry out any purpose authorized by its charter, that is, such real estate as is reasonably necessary to enable it to perform its corporate duties and functions in constructing, maintaining, and operating a railroad.[57] It may acquire and hold land other than that occupied by its tracks,[58] as for the construction of necessary appurtenances without which the road cannot be successfully operated,[59] such as sidings, turnouts, and extra tracks,[60] depot grounds and approaches,[61] ground at its terminals for warehouses to be constructed thereon to facilitate the receipt and delivery of freight,[62] slopes,[63] or lands reasonably necessary to procure timber or other materials for the economical construction and maintenance of the road,[64] such as land for the purpose of getting crossties and firewood,[65] or for collecting and holding a water supply for its engines,[66] or from which to obtain gravel to construct or keep its roadbed in repair.[67]

It has also been held that real estate may be acquired and held for the purpose of procuring material to be transported as a commodity as a means of promoting the purposes of the railroad and increasing its business,[68] or even as security for debts.[69] In case of an electric railway company, land may be acquired for the construction of a power transmission line from a distant point.[70]

Under the power incident to its statutory duty to provide suitable and convenient waiting rooms and facilities for the accommodation of its passengers, as discussed infra § 405, a railroad company may hold land adjacent to its depot and maintain it as a park for the convenience and enjoyment of its passengers and employees,[71] and this rule applies notwithstanding a constitutional provision that no corporation shall hold any real estate, except such as may be necessary for carrying on its legitimate business, for longer than a given period of time.[72]

In the absence of statute providing otherwise, ordinarily it is a question for the railroad company, when acting in good faith, to decide what lands are reasonably necessary for the purpose of its road.[73]

Purposes for which land may not be acquired. Unless authorized by statute, a railroad has no power to acquire and hold land which is not reasonably necessary for the construction or maintenance of its road or the carrying on of its business as authorized by its charter.[74] In the absence of

56. U S —Case v. Kelly, Wis, 10 S. Ct 216, 133 U S 21, 33 L Ed. 513.
Purposes for which land may be taken by a railroad company by condemnation proceedings see Eminent Domain §§ 37–43.

57. U S —Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C C A.Mo, 106 F 2d 217, certiorari denied Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S.Ct 180, 308 U S. 613, 84 L Ed 513, reversed on other grounds 60 S Ct. 628, 309 U.S 478, 84 L.Ed 876
Conn —Parsons v Town of Wethersfield, 60 A 2d 771, 135 Conn. 24.
Mo —State ex rel State Highway Commission v Union Electric Co of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 347 Mo. 690—Coates & Hopkins Realty Co. v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 43 S.W 2d 817, 328 Mo. 1118
51 C.J. p 509 note 32.

Changes in circumstances

Railroad purposes include such a variety of uses as changes in circumstances may bring about, depending on the facts in each case The use, if reasonably necessary, is generally sustained —Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co, 51 N E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369—Toledo, P. & W R. R v. Brown, 31 N E 2d 767, 375 Ill. 438.

58. U.S.—Oregon Short Line R Co v. Ada County, D C Idaho, 18 F Supp 842, affirmed, C C.A., Ada County v. Oregon Short Line R Co, 97 F 2d 666
Ill —Toledo, P & W. R R v. Brown, 31 N.E 2d 767, 375 Ill 438.
Ind —Pfaff v. Terre Haute, etc., R Co., 9 N.E 93, 108 Ind 144.

59. La —Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc, Co, 2 So 69, 39 La Ann 427, 4 Am S R. 265.

60. Ind —Pfaff v. Terre Haute, etc, R. Co, 9 N.E. 93, 108 Ind. 144.
51 C.J. p 509 note 35.

61. N.C.—Hickory v. Southern R. Co, 49 S E 202, 137 N.C. 189.
51 C J. p 509 note 36.

62. U.S.—Oregon Short Line R Co v. Ada County, D.C.Idaho, 18 F. Supp. 842, affirmed, C C.A, Ada County v. Oregon Short Line R. Co, 97 F.2d 666.

63. Pa —Aliquippa v. Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co., 94 Pa Super. 279.

64. U.S.—Midland Valley R. Co. v Sutter, C.C.A.Kan, 28 F 2d 163, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 65, 280 U S 521, 74 L Ed. 590.
Ohio —Overmyer v. Williams, 15 Ohio 26.

65. N C —Mallett v. Simpson, 94 N C. 37, 55 Am R 595.
51 C J p 509 note 39

66. U S.—Summers v. Atchison, etc, R. Co, D C Mo, 2 F 2d 717
51 C.J p 509 note 40.

67. Tex.—Small v McMurphy, 32 S W 788, 11 Tex Civ.App 409

68. Mass —Old Colony R Corp v. Evans, 6 Gray 25, 66 Am D 394.
51 C.J. p 509 note 42

69. Wis —Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis 334, 78 Am D. 709.
51 C.J. p 509 note 43.

70. U S —Westinghouse Electric Mfg Co v. Binghamton R. Co., D C.N D, 268 F. 262.
51 C.J. p 509 note 44

71. Ky —Louisville Property Co v. Commonwealth, 143 S W 412, 146 Ky. 827, 38 L R A,N S, 830.
51 C J. p 509 note 47

72. Ky —Louisville Property Co. v. Commonwealth, supra.

73. Neb.—Hull v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 98 N W 47, 70 Neb. 756.
51 C J p 510 note 50

74. Mo.—Coates & Hopkins Realty Co v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co, 43 S W 2d 817, 328 Mo 1118.
51 C J. p 510 note 53.

statutory authority therefor, a railroad company cannot acquire and hold real estate indefinitely without regard to the uses to be made of it,[75] or for speculation only,[76] or for the purpose of erecting dwelling houses for employees,[77] or car or locomotive factories,[78] or for purposes of mining.[79]

Presumptions. Where a railroad company is authorized by its charter or statute to acquire land only for railroad purposes, it will be presumed that land conveyed to it was acquired for such purposes.[80] Accordingly, where land so acquired is soon after actually and continuously appropriated for railroad purposes by the successor of the company which acquired it, it affords a reasonable presumption that it was acquired for those purposes.[81]

§ 75. Modes of Acquiring Land or Rights Therein

a. In general
b. Adverse possession or prescription

a. In General

Where a method of acquiring property for a right of way is prescribed in the charter of a railroad company, that method generally must be strictly followed, and in the absence of a statutory or charter restriction a railroad company may acquire real estate or an interest therein by grant, purchase, or other contract with the owner.

Where a method of acquiring property for a right of way is prescribed in the charter of a railroad company, that method generally must be strictly followed,[82] and the charter method may be pursued, although it is inconsistent with statutory provisions, enacted after the company was incorporated, as to the mode in which a railroad company may acquire real property.[83] In the absence of a statutory or charter restriction a railroad company may acquire real estate or an interest therein for the construction, maintenance, and operation of its road, by deed or grant,[84] and under some statutes such grant may be made in advance and in aid of the organization of the company,[85] and, after it is organized, be made obligatory on the grantor, by the company ratifying and accepting the grant by entering upon and using the land for railroad purposes.[86] Unless restricted by its charter or a governing statute, a railroad company may also acquire real estate by purchase[87] or other contract with the owner,[88] and by completing a road over the lands and thereby exposing the company to liability for compensation.[89]

75. U S—Case v Kelly, Wis, 10 S Ct. 216, 133 U S 21, 33 L Ed. 513.

76. U.S.—In re Missouri Pac. R Co, D.C Mo., 13 F Supp. 888.
51 C.J. p 510 note 55

77. N J—State v. Mansfield Tp, 23 N J Law 510, 57 Am.D 409.

78. N.J.—State v Mansfield Tp., supra.
Vt—Eldridge v. Smith, 34 Vt. 484.

79. Ala.—Wilks v. Georgia Pac. R. Co., 79 Ala. 180.
51 C.J. p 510 note 58.

80. N.Y.—Atlantic Mills v. New York Cent. R. Co., 214 N Y.S 123, 126 Misc 349.
51 C J. p 510 note 60.

81. Mo.—Chouteau v Missouri Pac. R Co, 22 S W. 458, 30 S.W. 299, 122 Mo 375.

82. S C.—Carolina, etc, R Co. v. Alexander, 151 S.E. 893, 155 S C. 91.
51 C J p 510 note 63.
Acquisition of title by:
Dedication see Dedication § 8.
Estoppel see Estoppel § 95.
Act clothed with authority
Where taking of right of way by railroad was by virtue of charter, action of railroad in taking the right of way without obtaining a deed for the right of way or paying assessed or appraised value of the land was not that of a trespasser, but rather the act of one clothed with authority.—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co. v Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co, 51 S E.2d 301, 229 N C. 695.

83. N Y—Clarkson v. Hudson River R. Co., 12 N Y. 304.

84. U S—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A.Mo., 106 F 2d 217, certiorari denied Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co, 60 S Ct 180, 308 U.S. 613, 84 L Ed 513, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 628, 309 U S. 478, 84 L Ed 876
Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143
Mo—Brown v. Weare, 152 S W 2d 649, 348 Mo 135, 136 A.L R. 286.
51 C.J. p 511 note 65.
"Voluntary grants"
(1) Term "voluntary grant" means a conveyance without a valuable consideration—Brown v Weare, 152 S W 2d 649, 348 Mo 135, 136 A.L.R. 286.

(2) It also means grants without voluntary consideration; gratuitous. —University City v. Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co., 149 S.W.2d 321, 347 Mo. 814

(3) "Voluntary" is defined in its legal aspect as without valuable consideration; gratuitous "Grant" means give, bestow, or confer, to transfer property by an instrument in writing—Coates & Hopkins Realty Co. v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co, 43 S W 2d 817, 328 Mo. 1118.

85. Ind—Bravard v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co, 17 N.E. 183, 115 Ind. 1.
Grant of public lands for right of way or in aid of railroad see Public Lands §§ 148–169.

86. Ind—Bravard v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., supra.

87. Ill—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Brown, 31 N E.2d 767, 375 Ill. 438.
Ky—Reynolds v. Keith's Admr, 3 Ky.Op 646.
Mich—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co, 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich 143.
Mo—State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 347 Mo 690
Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., Civ.App., 41 S W.2d 319, affirmed 49 S W 2d 437, 121 Tex 338, 84 A.L.R. 265.
51 C.J. p 511 note 68.
Limitation on power
Constitutional provision that fee of land taken for railroad tracks without consent of owner thereof shall remain in owner subject to use for which it is taken does not constitute limitation on power of railroad to acquire by purchase right of way in fee simple—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L Ry. Co. v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 43 N.E.2d 993, 380 Ill. 130.

88. Ill.—Cleveland, C., C. & St L. Ry. Co. v. Central Illinois Public Service Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 511 note 69.

89. N.C.—Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 12 S E. 913, 108 N.C. 425.

A railroad company may also be authorized to take property by the exercise of the power of eminent domain, as discussed in Eminent Domain § 24, but where it is without charter power to condemn land its remedy against an owner who refuses to sell is not by injunction against the person who is obstructing its entering on the land,[90] but by an amendment of its charter so as to give it the power of condemnation.[91]

Under lease. Where a lease to a railroad company gives it no rights to lay tracks in a projected street, shown on a plat of certain real estate, it can acquire such right only by condemnation[92] or by agreement with the owners of the land.[93]

Consent of railroad commissioners. A statute providing that companies incorporated to construct buildings and tracks for the use of railroad companies may acquire such rights of way as the railroad commissioners shall deem necessary does not apply to railroad companies; and hence the consent of the railroad commissioners is not necessary under such a statute to an acquisition of a right of way.[94]

b. Adverse Possession or Prescription

Generally, a railroad company by remaining in the adverse and uninterrupted possession and use of land, for the statutory period and complying otherwise with statutory conditions, may acquire title to the land by adverse possession, or a prescriptive right to an easement therein.

Subject to the rules which control adverse possession, and easements generally, a railroad company by remaining in the adverse and uninterrupted possession and use of land, for the statutory period and complying otherwise with statutory conditions, may acquire title to the land for a right of way or other railroad purpose, by adverse possession,[95] or a prescriptive right to an easement therein;[96] and by the weight of authority such title may be acquired by adverse possession, notwithstanding a constitutional provision that private property shall not be taken for public use without adequate compensation first being made.[97] The erection, maintenance, and operation of a telegraph line by a railroad company does not constitute an appropriation of the strip of land between the poles and the line or the railroad so

90. Md.—Piedmont, etc., R. Co. v. Speelman, 10 A. 77, 293, 67 Md. 260
51 C.J. p 511 note 75.

91. Md.—Piedmont, etc., R. Co. v. Speelman, supra.

92. Md.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Canton Co., 65 A. 337, 104 Md. 682.

93. Md.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Canton Co., supra.

94. Iowa.—Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 85 N.W. 902, 113 Iowa 561.

95. Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406.
51 C.J. p 511 note 83.
Power of corporations generally to acquire title by adverse possession see Adverse Possession § 6
Title acquired by mere user or adverse possession see infra § 85

96. La.—Gumbel v. New Orleans Terminal Co., 173 So. 518, 186 La. 882.
Tex.—Peterson v. Holland, Civ.App., 189 S.W.2d 94, error refused.
51 C.J. p 512 note 84.

Public purpose

Spur tracks of railroad which served three industrial plants and which were available to any industrial plants which might locate in area in future were held to serve public purpose within doctrine of acquisition of a servitude by unopposed use for a public purpose, and not a mere private purpose.—Gumbel v. New Orleans Terminal Co., 173 So. 518, 186 La. 882.

Not dependent on any specific period

Application of doctrine of acquisition of servitude by unopposed use for public purpose, such as for railroad purposes, is not dependent on lapse of any specific prescriptive period, and even a brief period of occupancy and use of property by public utility, with knowledge, consent, or acquiescence of landowner, will suffice to effectuate doctrine in favor of utility.—Gumbel v. New Orleans Terminal Co., supra.

New servitude

Sale by railroad of half of tract on which its tracks were situated, if it extinguished existing servitude in favor of railroad, did not prevent subsequent creation of new servitude for railroad purposes across entire tract by virtue of unopposed exercise of servitude by railroad for many years.—Gumbel v. New Orleans Terminal Co., supra.

Furnishing of current to others

Where poles and electric wires placed on right of way easement of an electric railway are employed primarily in operation of railway system, the furnishing and sale of a part of electric current flowing through such wires to others is incidental to the primary use and is not hostile to right of fee owners so as to give rise to an easement by prescription or adverse user.—Pierce v. Cherry Val. Farms, 66 N.E.2d 639, 146 Ohio St. 400.

Public nuisances

The erection of obstructions in a public street, such as a railroad trestle, which materially interfere with public travel and are public nuisances, cannot ripen into a right of use by the running of the statute of limitations, even though the statute may in some instances run against municipalities.—Yackee v. Village of Napoleon, 21 N.E.2d 111, 135 Ohio St. 344.

In Puerto Rico

A right of way for a railroad, which is a discontinuous servitude, cannot be acquired by prescription, but only by title.—Mendez v. Eastern Sugar Associates, C.C.A. Puerto Rico, 89 F.2d 399.—Central Cambalache, Inc. v. Martinez, C.C.A. Puerto Rico, 82 F.2d 37.

Claim of right of way

If sole use of realty is as a right of way, the user will ripen into an easement, and it is only where there is some additional type of user or other action which will give notice that the claim is to more than a right of way that the use and permission may ripen into a fee title.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406.

Color of title

Deeds from railroad to trustees of railroad's realty and from trustees reconveying realty to railroad were not color of title to fee in parcel of realty which railroad had used adversely as a right of way, and which was not specifically mentioned in deeds, and railroad could not successfully claim title in fee to parcel, on ground of adverse possession, rather than a mere easement in the parcel.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., supra.

97. Mo.—Boyce v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 68 S.W. 920, 168 Mo. 583, 58 L.R.A. 442
2 C.J. p 229 note 84.

as to give the company title thereto after twenty years.[98] Moving spur tracks crossing another's property, at the latter's request, without interrupting the continuity of the use of the tracks, does not interrupt the running of the prescriptive period[99] or impair rights already accrued.[1]

Adverse possession immaterial. Where the contract under which a right of way is acquired is fully complied with, the title under the contract alone is sufficient,[2] and adverse occupancy for the statutory period is not material.[3]

§ 76. Agreements, Licenses, and Implied Grants

Agreements, licenses, and implied grants with respect to railroad rights of way and other interests in land are discussed infra §§ 77–80.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

§ 77. —— Agreements as to Right of Way or Use of Land

a. In general
b. Options
c. Contract to furnish or procure right of way

a. In General

A railroad company may enter into a contract to acquire real property or an interest therein which is necessary or convenient for the operation of its road.

Under the power to acquire land for railroad purposes, a railroad company may enter into a contract to acquire real property or an interest therein which is necessary to, or convenient for, the operation of its road[4] and to agree to pay such price for land as shall be fixed by arbitration;[5] and, in the absence of specific provisions in its charter to the contrary, the power of making or receiving such contracts may be exercised by the president of the railroad company.[6] Such agreement, in order to be valid, must be mutual,[7] and definite and certain in its terms,[8] and for a sufficient consideration,[9] which may consist of advantages to the owner, in the increase in the value of his land, from the construction and operation of the road,[10] or of a detriment to the railroad company.[11] The agreement must not be contrary to public policy,[12] and under some statutes it must be recorded.[13]

Where a proposed right of way extends through demised premises, the lessee is a necessary party to the negotiations and contracts leading up to the procurement of the right of way,[14] but a lessee who has only a license or easement on the land cannot authorize the construction of a railroad thereon.[15]

Effect of agreement. The general rules relating to contracts, particularly those relating to the purchase of real estate, apply to a contract by a railroad company for the acquisition of a right of way or other interest in land with respect to the rights and liabilities of the parties thereunder,[16] such as under 98. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Beck, 53 N.E. 439, 152 Ind. 421.

99. U.S.—Ayres Mercantile Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., C.C.A.Colo., 16 F.2d 395.
1. U.S.—Ayres Mercantile Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., supra.
2. U.S.—Scott v. Texas, etc., R. Co., Tex., 94 F. 340, 36 C.C.A. 282
3. U.S.—Scott v. Texas, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 512 note 90.
4. U.S.—Quality Realty Co. v. Wabash Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 50 F.2d 1051.
Mich.—F. W. Stock & Sons v. Litchfield Co-op. Shippers' Ass'n, 232 N.W. 395, 251 Mich. 488.
51 C.J. p. 512 note 93.
5. N.Y.—Wood v. Auburn, etc., R. Co., 8 N.Y. 160, Seld. p. 79
6. N.C.—Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 49 S.E. 202, 137 N.C. 189.
7. Iowa—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Estes, 33 N.W. 124, 71 Iowa 603.
51 C.J. p. 513 note 96.
8. Va.—Camp Mfg. Co. v. Carpenter, 70 S.E. 497, 112 Va. 79.
51 C.J. p. 513 note 97.
9. Ky.—Sparks v. Ritter, 265 S.W. 26, 204 Ky. 623
51 C.J. p. 513 note 98.
10. Cal.—Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 77 P. 1124, 144 Cal. 560
51 C.J. p. 513 note 99.
11. Ky.—Cadiz R. Co. v. Roach, 72 S.W. 280, 114 Ky. 934, 24 Ky.Law 1761.
51 C.J. p. 513 note 1.
12. Ga.—Dowman-Dozier Mfg. Co. v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 114 S.E. 815, 29 Ga.App. 187.
51 C.J. p. 513 note 2.
13. Ill.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 75 N.E. 523, 217 Ill. 462.
51 C.J. p. 513 note 3.
14. N.Y.—Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 89 N.Y.S. 92, 96 App.Div. 539.
51 C.J. p. 513 note 4.
15. Utah.—Snell v. Wasatch, etc., R. Co., 2 P. 193, 3 Utah 122.
51 C.J. p. 514 note 5.
16. Ky.—Meacham v. Louisville & N.R. Co., 169 S.W.2d 330, 293 Ky. 642
51 C.J. p. 514 note 8.

Subject to law of sovereign.

Contract with railroads regarding right of way is subject to law of the sovereign, and such contractual obligations cannot be extended to defeat legitimate governmental authority.—Meacham v. Louisville & N.R. Co., supra.

Agreement for benefit of owner

Under an agreement to the effect that the railroad company was to furnish a switch at such points as might be required by the owner of the land, the railroad was not entitled to construct a spur track to serve one owner over lands of a neighboring owner, since the agreement was for the benefit of the respective owners of the property and not for the benefit of the railroad.—River & Rail Terminals v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 130 So. 337, 171 La. 223.

Benefiting other shippers

Agreement for construction of side track and lease to railroad did not authorize railroad to construct other tracks connecting with side track for benefit of other shippers.—F. W. Stock & Sons v. Litchfield Co-op. Shippers' Ass'n, 232 N.W. 395, 251 Mich. 488.

an agreement to convey or secure conveyance to the railroad company[17] or for the ascertainment and payment of compensation to the owner of the land[18] Where the agreement for a conveyance of a right of way is acted on and the railroad constructed, the provisions of the agreement are binding on the landowner[19] and others claiming under him[20] As long as the contract remains executory, however, the railroad company is not authorized to enter upon the land and locate its road,[21] nor may it demand a conveyance.[22]

b. Options

An option given a railroad company to purchase a right of way is not invalid because of the nonpayment of a nominal consideration which has been tendered and refused.

An option given a railroad company to purchase a right of way is not invalid because of the nonpayment of a nominal consideration which has been tendered and refused;[23] nor is it waived by the continuance of proceedings to condemn the right of way.[24] Where such an option is to become null and void unless exercised within a specified time by the payment of a specified sum, time is of the essence of the contract, and if tender is not made within the time fixed the contract is at an end,[25] and the railroad company cannot compel performance thereof, although it has entered and expended money in construction.[26] Such an option is not changed into a binding contract, freed from the conditions of the option as to time and payment, by a letter written by the company stating that the payments agreed on will be made.[27]

c. Contract to Furnish or Procure Right of Way

A contract to furnish or procure a right of way for a proposed railroad must be certain as to parties and subject matter.

A contract to furnish or procure a right of way for a proposed railroad must be certain as to parties and subject matter;[28] and a bond given to a railroad company conditioned to secure land for a right of way and depot grounds, etc, requires that a good title be secured and that the land be paid for by the obligor before the condition is performed.[29] A provision in such a contract that the railroad must be built to a specified point within a specified time, followed by an agreement to pay a bonus to be agreed on, is merely a limitation on the bonus obligation, and not a limitation on the obligation to furnish the right of way only in the event the road is built within the time specified.[30] Where a company, having a contract to construct a railroad and stations for a railroad company, contracts to purchase land for a station at a particular location, it has been held not relieved from its obligation to purchase the land by a subsequent change of the location of the railroad,[31] and it is liable for damages sustained by its breach of the contract.[32]

Promoter's obligation. A promoter who, in consideration of another furnishing and grading a right of way, contracts to procure the organization of the proposed railroad and the operation of trains thereon at all times is personally bound to procure the continuous and permanent operation of the railroad involved,[33] and if he fails to do so the person furnishing the right of way under the contract is entitled to damages sufficient to make him whole on his investment in reliance on the contract.[34] A provision that an accepted title is to be furnished within a specified time after request does not require the 17. Wis.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. H. W. Wright Lumber Co., 100 N.W. 1034, 123 Wis. 46.

51 C.J. p. 514 note 9.

18. U.S.—Quality Realty Co. v. Wabash Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 50 F.2d 1051.
51 C.J. p. 514 note 10.
Contract with predecessor
Owner of land was not entitled to compensation for use by railroad company of side track, constructed under contract with predecessor, under which contract predecessor had consistently claimed compensation and railroad had consistently denied such claim.—Quality Realty Co. v. Wabash Ry., supra.

19. Ill.—Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 56 N.E. 1050, 185 Ill. 154.
51 C.J. p. 514 note 11.

20. Grantee with notice
Ill.—Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 13.

21. Or.—Boring Lumber Co. v. Roots, 90 P. 487, 49 Or. 569.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 14.

22. Pa.—Weigold v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 57 A. 188, 208 Pa. 81.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 15.

23. Ill.—Seyforth v. Groves, etc., R. Co., 119 Ill.App. 275, affirmed 75 N.E. 522, 217 Ill. 483.

24. Wis.—Stamnes v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 111 N.W. 62, 131 Wis. 85.

25. Wash.—Spokane, etc., R. Co. v. Ballinger, 97 P. 739, 50 Wash. 547.

26. Wash.—Spokane, etc., R. Co. v. Ballinger, supra.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 20.

27. Wash.—Spokane, etc., R. Co. v. Ballinger, supra.

28. Tex.—Risinger v. Clark, Civ. App., 246 S.W. 1092.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 22.

29. Tex.—Frey v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 24 S.W. 950, 6 Tex.Civ.App. 29, reversed on other grounds 25 S.W. 609, 86 Tex. 465.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 23.

30. Tex.—Risinger v. Clark, Civ. App., 246 S.W. 1092.

31. N.Y.—Fairchild v. City, etc., Contract Co., 143 N.Y.S. 35, 158 App.Div. 166, motion denied 105 N.E. 1084, 211 N.Y. 526, and affirmed 109 N.E. 1073, 215 N.Y. 671.

32. N.Y.—Fairchild v. City, etc., Contract Co., supra.

33. U.S.—Drummond v. Steele, C.C.A.Ga., 11 F.2d 595, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 53, 275 U.S. 199, 72 L.Ed. 238.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 27.

34. U.S.—Drummond v. Steele, supra.
51 C.J. p. 515 note 28.

promoters of the railroad to wait until the expiration of such time before they may begin acquiring any of the right of way, where the contractors, after receiving notice of the location, fail to take steps to procure the right of way.[35] Where the parties making such contract repudiate their obligation to furnish a portion of the right of way to a particular place, and thus render it impossible for the promoters to construct a road to that place in the time specified in the contract, the promoters are under no obligation to hasten the construction of the road on other portions of the right of way.[36]

Bonus contract. Where under such a contract a landowner agrees to pay the railroad a specific amount as soon as it puts into operation a railroad line from a specific point to a described piece of land, and gives a specified service, it is binding as a bonus contract,[37] and is certain and definite as to the time when the obligation will mature,[38] but does not require that the road shall be operated on or over such piece of land in order to earn the bonus.[39]

§ 78. —— License or Consent

a. In general
b. Duration and termination

a. In General

Unless prohibited by statute, a railroad company may acquire the right to construct and operate its railroad upon the land of another by license from the owner or other person entitled to give consent thereto.

Subject to the rules relating to licenses in respect of real property generally, unless prohibited by statute,[40] a railroad company may acquire the right to construct and operate upon the land of another by license from the owner[41] or other person entitled to give consent thereto.[42] Although there is authority to the contrary,[43] as a general rule consent to such a license may be implied from acts of acquiescence on the part of the owner;[44] and this rule applies to land which the railroad company is otherwise prohibited from invading,[45] as where, with full knowledge on his part, he permits or acquiesces in the taking of possession by the railroad company of his land and expending large sums of money in constructing and operating its road.[46] Consent may also be presumed where the owner is unknown[47] or has no immediate right to object by reason of the nature of his title.[48]

Where the license is given on certain conditions, the railroad company must observe the conditions imposed,[49] and cannot compel specific performance of the license without performing such conditions.[50] A failure, however, to comply with municipal ordinances does not prevent the company from holding its right of way as against the owner,[51] since the right to complain is confined to the municipality.[52]

Operation and effect. Such a license will excuse any acts properly done under the license while it is in force;[53] and improvements placed on the land thereunder do not become a part of the land,[54] and the landowner is not entitled to recover from the railroad company the value of such improvements after their removal.[55]

Such a license is good as against a tenant of the land, with notice thereof,[56] and a purchaser of land over which railroad tracks are in operation at the time of the sale is chargeable with notice of a license granted by the landowner to the railroad

35. Tex.—Risinger v. Clark, Civ. App., 246 S.W. 1092

36. Tex.—Risinger v. Clark, supra

37. Idaho.—Boise Valley Constr. Co. v. Kroeger, 105 P. 1070, 17 Idaho 384, 28 L.R.A.,N.S., 968
Tex.—Risinger v. Clark, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1092.

38. Idaho.—Boise Valley Constr. Co. v. Kroeger, 105 P. 1070, 17 Idaho 384, 28 L.R.A.,N.S., 968.

39. Idaho.—Boise Valley Constr. Co. v. Kroeger, supra.

40. Md.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Algire, 63 Md. 319.
51 C.J. p. 516 note 36.

41. U.S.—Plazuela Sugar Co. v. Pastoriza, Puerto Rico, 245 F. 115, 157 C.C.A. 411
51 C.J. p. 516 note 37.
Licenses in respect of real property generally see Licenses §§ 79-96

42. N.Y.—McCarty v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 76 N.Y.S. 321, 73 App.Div. 34
51 C.J. p. 516 note 38

43. N.J.—Heifield v. Central R. Co., 29 N.J.Law 571
51 C.J. p. 516 note 39

44. Wis.—Maginnis v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 88 N.W. 300, 112 Wis. 385, 69 L.R.A. 833
51 C.J. p. 516 note 40

45. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Stricklin, D.C.N.C., 264 F. 546.
51 C.J. p. 516 note 41.

46. W.Va.—Dulin v. Ohio River R. Co., 80 S.E. 145, 73 W.Va. 166, 168, L.R.A.1916B 653, Ann.Cas.1916D 1183
51 C.J. p. 516 note 42.

47. S.C.—Moore v. North, etc., Carolina, R. Co., 77 S.E. 926, 94 S.C. 243

48. S.C.—Moore v. North, etc., Carolina R. Co., supra

49. Pa.—Appeal of Unangst, 55 Pa. 128.
Covenants and conditions in conveyance see infra §§ 89-97.

50. N.Y.—Rome, etc., R. Co. v. Gleason, 59 N.Y.S. 647, 42 App.Div. 530.
51 C.J. p. 517 note 46.

51. Tex.—Knowles v. Northern Texas Tract. Co., Civ.App., 121 S.W. 232

52. Tex.—Knowles v. Northern Texas Tract Co., supra

53. N.H.—Blaisdell v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 51 N.H. 483

54. Ind.—Cranor v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 149 N.E. 97, 83 Ind.App. 449.
51 C.J. p. 517 note 51.

55. Ill.—O'Connell v. Heed, 219 Ill.App. 598.

56. Mo.—Darlington v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 72 S.W. 122, 99 Mo.App. 1.
51 C.J. p. 517 note 53.

company to lay and operate such tracks.[57] Where however, a license is given by one who holds an equitable title to the land, as by a mortgagor in possession, it cannot avail as against one holding the legal title,[58] such as a title derived from the foreclosure of the mortgage[59]

b. Duration and Termination

If the license or contract of the company is of a temporary nature, it terminates on the abandonment or exhaustion of the purpose for which the railroad was constructed thereunder, but if it is for a specified period, in the absence of a written extension, it expires at the end of that period.

If the license or contract of the company is of a temporary nature, it terminates on the abandonment or exhaustion of the purpose for which the railroad was constructed thereunder.[60] If the license or contract is for a specified period, in the absence of a written extension, it expires at the end of that period,[61] unless under the terms of the contract written notice is required before termination;[62] and unless the company procures an additional right, and sufficient time has not elapsed to acquire an easement by prescription, the company does not, under such a contract, become the owner of an easement for its right of way,[63] and the contract is thereafter no bar to an action of ejectment.[64] In a suit against it, after the expiration of such period, to recover possession of the land, the railroad company may not contend that plaintiff's only remedy is by condemnation.[65]

Such a contract should be construed as of the time when it was made, and not in the light of conditions which existed some years thereafter;[66] and, where the contract contains express provision for its renewal by written notice, if such notice is not given a further provision that, when notice of renewal is given, the contract shall continue until notice of termination does not operate,[67] and the continued use for several years after expiration of the time specified, although no steps are taken to oust the company, will not continue the contract.[68] Where the parties to such a contract, after the bankruptcy of one owner, enter into a contract for a joint use, the power of termination rests in the surviving owners, and not in their successors in title.[69]

Where one of several contiguous owners, who have entered into a contract for a spur track, is adjudged a bankrupt and his lot sold, no period of enjoyment short of the bar of the statute or permissive use will give the purchaser at bankruptcy sale or its assignee a right to continued use of the right of way.[70]

Revocation. In accordance with rules relating to the revocation of licenses in respect of real property in general, a mere license to enter on land and construct and maintain a railroad thereon is revocable at the option of the licensor as to anything in the future,[71] unless the license is coupled with an interest[72] or is necessary to the possession or enjoyment of a right or title arising from the act or contract of the person who creates the license.[73] In some jurisdictions, where the railroad company enters in good faith under the license, and expends

57. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hay, 10 N.E. 29, 119 Ill. 493
Ind.—Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. McBroom, 15 N.E. 831, 114 Ind. 198—Campbell v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 N.E. 482, 110 Ind. 490—Paul v. Connersville, etc., R. Co., 51 Ind. 527.
Ky.—Kamer v. Bryant, 46 S.W. 14, 103 Ky. 723, 20 Ky.L. 340
Mo.—Edwards v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 82 Mo.App. 96
Ohio.—Day, Williams & Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 41 Ohio St. 392.
51 C.J. p. 517 note 54.

Although contract granting right of way was not recorded, possession of portion thereof by railroad put purchaser on inquiry as to extent.—Dunford v. Dardanelle & R. R. Co., 287 S.W. 170, 171 Ark. 1036.

Additional tracks

The fact that a railroad company was in possession and use of a track on a street was not notice to a purchaser of an abutting lot of an unrecorded deed from his grantor executed to the company more than six months previously, granting permission to lay additional tracks.—Varwig v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 44 N.E. 92, 54 Ohio St. 455.

58. Mass.—Meriam v. Brown, 128 Mass. 391.

59. Mass.—Meriam v. Brown, supra

60. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Terre Haute Vitrified Brick Co., 108 N.E. 953, 183 Ind. 551.
51 C.J. p. 517 note 58.

61. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 So. 85, 202 Ala. 583.
Ind.—Cranor v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 149 N.E. 97, 83 Ind.App. 449.

62. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 So. 85, 202 Ala. 583
51 C.J. p. 517 note 60

63. Ind.—Cranor v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 149 N.E. 97, 83 Ind.App. 449.

64. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 So. 85, 202 Ala. 583.

65. S.C.—Griffin v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 128 S.E. 855, 132 S.C. 492.
51 C.J. p. 517 note 63.

66. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 So. 85, 202 Ala. 583

67. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

68. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

69. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

70. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

71. Minn.—Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 59 N.W. 983, 58 Minn. 128.
51 C.J. p. 518 note 71.

72. Mo.—Darlington v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 72 S.W. 122, 99 Mo.App. 1.
51 C.J. p. 518 note 72.

73. Ill.—Illinois Southern R. Co. v. Borders, 66 N.E. 382, 201 Ill. 459.
51 C.J. p. 518 note 73.

money in constructing and maintaining its road, the license cannot be revoked as long as the company is using its right of way for the operation of its road.[74] On a proper revocation of the license the railroad company may be directed to remove its railroad from the owner's land.[75]

Where the license is granted on certain conditions precedent and the railroad company fails to perform such conditions, the licensor may revoke the license[76] unless the condition is waived.[77] The failure of a railroad company to perform conditions subsequent, however, contained in the agreement, furnishes no ground for the revocation of the license under which it entered and constructed its road, where complete indemnity in damages is recoverable therefor in an action at law,[78] and in such a case the landowner cannot recover possession of the right of way or other land in an action of ejectment for the breach of such conditions.[79]

§ 79. —— Implied Grants

Where the owner permits the railroad to take possession and use his land for a right of way or other railroad uses, and to make expenditures accordingly, for a long period of time, the company may be regarded as having an implied grant of the property for such purposes.

The mere fact that a railroad company has entered on land, constructed its road, and occupied it for several years raises no presumption that the owner has sold the right of way to the company[80] or that the tracks laid thereon belong to the company.[81] However, where the owner knowingly permits the company to take possession and use his land for a right of way, or other railroad uses, and to make expenditures accordingly, for a long period of time, the company may be regarded as having an implied grant of the property for such purposes,[82] and the owner will be estopped to deny the company's right to use the property and to maintain an action against it therefor, as discussed in Estoppel § 95. A subsequent vendee of the owner takes the land subject to the burden thus acquired by the railroad company.[83]

Under some charters or statutes the presumption of a conveyance to a railroad company arises from its taking possession and completing the road without any contract, or without grant or condemnation of the right of way, and the failure of the landowner to take steps to have his damages assessed within a specified time thereafter.[84] The burden is on the party claiming the benefit of such presumption to show every fact out of which it arises,[85] and, therefore, the burden is on the railroad company to show its entry and the construction of its road without a contract.[86] This presumption does not arise where a deed from the owner of the land to the railroad company is made within such time.[87]

As to exempt property. Real property, which is exempt from acquisition for railroad purposes without the owner's consent, cannot be acquired by a railroad company by presumptive consent from lapse of time,[88] and the owner need not act to preserve his rights until adverse title is asserted by the company.[89]

74. Ky.—Koch v. Kentucky, etc., R., etc., Co., 80 S.W. 1133, 26 Ky.L. 216.
51 C.J. p. 518 note 74.

75. U.S.—Plazuela Sugar Co. v. Pastoriza, Puerto Rico, 245 F. 115, 157 C.C.A. 411.

76. Ill.—Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., Co., 76 N.E. 840, 219 Ill. 584.

77. Ill.—Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.
50 C.J. p. 518 note 77.

78. N.C.—Williamston, etc., R. Co. v. Battle, 66 N.C. 540.
51 C.J. p. 518 note 78.

79. Ill.—Morris v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 522.

80. Ill.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Darst, 61 Ill. 231.

81. Minn.—Washburn Flouring Mills Co. v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 57 N.W. 309, 56 Minn. 200.
51 C.J. p. 518 note 81.

82. N.C.—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co., 51 S.E.2d 301, 229 N.C. 695.
51 C.J. p. 518 note 82.

83. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Standard Fuel Supply Co., 86 S.E. 228, 144 Ga. 92.

Private railroad

Plaintiff was not estopped to assert his title to land against private corporation operating railroad for its own purposes by fact that plaintiff knew, when he purchased land, that it was crossed by corporation's tracks, where corporation was without contract right and paid no consideration for right to maintain tracks over plaintiff's land.—Central Cambalache v. Martinez, C.C.A.Puerto Rico, 82 F.2d 37.

84. N.C.—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co., 51 S.E.2d 301, 229 N.C. 695.
51 C.J. p. 519 note 85.

Change of location

The fact that the present location of the railroad constructed many years after the date of the charter did not coincide with the original location was immaterial.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Liessenbee, 13 S.E.2d 561, 219 N.C. 318.

Law incorporating railroad held not to give any presumptive grant or right of way through lands over which railroad might be constructed.—Willard v. Southern Ry. Co., 155 S.E. 833, 158 S.C. 522.

Evidence held sufficient to take case to jury

N.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lissenbee, 13 S.E.2d 561, 219 N.C. 318.

85. N.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lissenbee, supra.—Barker v. Southern Ry. Co., 49 S.E. 115, 137 N.C. 214.

86. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Stricklin, D.C.N.C., 264 F. 546.
51 C.J. p. 519 note 86.

87. N.C.—Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 49 S.E. 202, 137 N.C. 189.

88. N.C.—Earnhardt v. Southern R. Co., 72 S.E. 1062, 157 N.C. 358.
51 C.J. p. 519 note 89.

89. S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Dawes, 88 S.E. 286, 103 S.C. 507.

§ 80. —— Remedies of Parties

a. Remedies of landowner
b. Remedies of railroad company

a. Remedies of Landowner

Where a railroad constructs its road over or occupies land to which it has acquired no requisite right or title by conveyance or license, express or implied, the owner of the land may maintain an action of ejectment, a suit for injunction, or a suit to cancel or rescind his contract with respect to a railroad right of way or other interest claimed in his land.

Where a railroad company constructs its road over or occupies land to which it has acquired no requisite right or title by condemnation, conveyance, or license, express or implied, it is a mere trespasser, and acquires no right to hold the land,[90] and unless the owner has by his acquiescence or consent estopped himself, as discussed in Estoppel § 95, he may maintain ejectment or other possessory action for the recovery of the possession of the land,[91] or he may institute proceedings to recover compensation for the right of way after the railroad is completed.[92]

Acquiescence in, or consent to, the building of a railroad is not of itself sufficient to show that a landowner has waived his right to be ultimately compensated for his land;[93] and in such a case, if the land is taken without just compensation, the landowner may maintain an action for compensation by way of damages for the value of the land taken and for injuries done by the construction and operation of the road,[94] or, if the road has been transferred to another, the landowner may maintain an equitable action for damages against such transferee.[95] If the location of the railroad through his land is abandoned before the owner surrenders possession and before the construction of the road is commenced, an action for specific performance cannot be maintained, and he is relegated to an action for damages.[96]

If the railroad company fails to comply with the contract or grant, the owner may maintain an action for damages, for breach of contract,[97] and where he retains the legal title, he may, in a jurisdiction in which equitable relief is administered in common-law actions, maintain ejectment to enforce payment, by means of a conditional verdict, of the purchase money due.[98] Thus, where one of two tenants in common grants a right of way through their premises to a railroad company on certain conditions, and the grantee enters but fails to fulfill the conditions, the granting tenant can recover for a breach of the contract,[99] and the other tenant, where the entry is without his consent may recover for the trespass.[1]

Where a railroad company wrongfully appropriates another's land to its use, the proper remedy of the owner for compensation and damages is, under some statutes, to compel an appropriation or condemnation, and assessment of compensation, as discussed in Eminent Domain § 398, and it has also been held that this is the proper remedy, in the absence of gift or purchase, where the company builds its road over certain land with the owner's consent and with the understanding that the question of damages shall be settled after the road is built,[2] or where a person having knowledge of the possession and use of land by a railroad company afterward takes a lease of the mineral beneath.[3]

A license to occupy land for railroad purposes constitutes a defense to an action of trespass against the company for acts properly performed thereunder, while it is in force,[4] except in those jurisdictions which hold that a right of way cannot be acquired by a mere license.[5]

Injunction. The landowner may maintain a suit for injunction to restrain the railroad company from

90. Iowa.—Hibbs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Iowa 340
Compelling proceedings for failure to assess compensation and damages of the owner see Eminent Domain § 398.
Recovery of damages for property appropriated or injured for a public use without payment of compensation see Eminent Domain § 400.

91. N C.—Carolina & N W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co., 51 S E 2d 301, 229 N C 695.
51 C.J. p 519 note 95.

92. Iowa.—Hibbs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Iowa 340.

93. Ala.—Hendrix v. Southern R. Co., 30 So. 596, 130 Ala. 205, 89 Am. S.R. 27.

94. N C.—Carolina & N. W. Ry Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co, 51 S E 2d 301, 229 N C 695.
51 C.J. p 520 note 1

95. Ind.—Chicago, etc, R. Co v Hall, 34 N E 704, 135 Ind. 91, 23 L R A. 231.
N J.—New York, etc, R Co. v Stanley, 34 N.J Eq. 55, affirmed 35 N. J.Eq. 283.

96. Ohio.—Detroit, etc, R. Co. v. Murry, 152 N E 771, 21 Ohio App 97.
Suit for specific performance of contract for right of way generally see Specific Performance § 74

97. Ark.—Kansas, etc., R. Co. v. Smithson, 168 S.W. 555, 113 Ark. 305.
51 C J. p 520 note 6.

98. Pa.—Daubert v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 26 A. 108, 155 Pa. 178

99. Iowa.—Rush v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 10 N W. 628, 57 Iowa 201.

1. Iowa.—Rush v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., supra

2. Minn.—St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Murphy, 19 Minn. 500.

3. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence, 10 Phila. 604.

4. Miss.—Currie v. Natchez, etc, R. Co, 61 Miss 725.
51 C.J. p 521 note 15.

5. Md.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Algire, 63 Md. 319.

continuing its possession and use of the property, where the company has entered and taken possession without having acquired the legal right or title to the land and without making compensation therefor,[6] or from occupying more land than it has acquired.[7] Where the landowner has, expressly or impliedly, agreed to the construction of the railroad on his land, he is not entitled to an injunction to restrain the company from its use and enjoyment because it is prejudicial to the landowner's rights;[8] nor is he entitled to injunctive relief because the railroad company abandons the right of way contracted for.[9] A landowner, seeking to enjoin the use of a railroad right of way as a trespass, on the ground of nonpayment of a balance due on the sale of the land, has the burden of proving such default in payment,[10] and may not rely on the statute of limitations to maintain affirmatively his claim;[11] and where intermediate instruments refer to the "land of the . . . Railroad" which has been in open and constant use, a subsequent grantee's suit to restrain the use of the right of way on the ground that defendant railroad company had not paid therefor is stale and inequitable.[12]

Cancellation or rescission of contract. Subject to the rules relating to the rescission of contracts generally, particularly those relating to the rescission or forfeiture of contracts for the sale of the land, a landowner may maintain a suit to cancel or rescind his contract with respect to a railroad right of way or other interest claimed in his land, on the ground of nonperformance of a condition precedent,[13] or on the ground of fraud or mistake,[14] provided he acts promptly and makes known his intention on discovery of the facts;[15] and if with such knowledge he acquiesces in the construction of the road equity may require him specifically to perform his contract.[16] For example, if he has a right to rescind a license for delay in the construction of the railroad, good faith requires him to give notice of such intention before the company takes possession of the land and constructs its road so that it may adopt another location or take proceedings to condemn before rendering itself otherwise liable.[17] Where the railroad has been dedicated to public use, the landowner is not entitled to rescind for nonperformance, where performance of the contract on the part of the railroad company is thereafter made illegal by statute,[18] and the remedy of the owner in such a case is recovery of compensation to the extent of the value of land not paid for.[19]

b. Remedies of Railroad Company

Where a railroad company has performed its part of a contract for the purchase of land, it may maintain an action for specific performance against the landowner to compel a conveyance to it, and may also maintain an action to enjoin an action of ejectment for the possession of the land.

Where a railroad company has performed its part of a contract for the purchase of land, it may maintain an action for specific performance against the landowner to compel a conveyance to it,[20] and may avail itself of this remedy by cross complaint in an action against it with respect to the land.[21] Under such circumstances the railroad company may also maintain an action to enjoin an action of ejectment for the possession of the land,[22] or to enjoin the landowner from interfering with the easement over the land;[23] or may maintain an action to quiet title[24] or to recover possession of the land.[25] So also, on the owner's failure or refusal to perform his contract to sell a right of way, the railroad com-

6. N.C.—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co., 51 S.E.2d 301, 229 N.C. 695.
51 C.J. p 521 note 18.

7. Ind.—Barth v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co, 90 N.E. 322, 45 Ind.App 434.
51 C.J. p 521 note 20.

8. W.Va.—Mullens v. Virginian R Co., 123 S.E. 287, 96 W.Va. 465.
51 C.J. p 521 note 21.

9. Pa.—Gallagher v. Fayette County R. Co, 38 Pa. 102.

10. N.Y.—Cherrington v. South Brooklyn R. Co, 168 N.Y.S. 322, 180 App.Div. 659.
51 C.J. p 521 note 23.

11. N.Y.—Cherrington v. South Brooklyn R Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 521 note 24.

12. N.Y.—Cherrington v. South Brooklyn R. Co, supra.

13. W.Va.—Adams v. Guyandotte Valley R Co., 61 S.E. 341, 64 W. Va. 181.
51 C.J. p 521 note 29.

14. Iowa.—Smith v. Waterloo, etc, R. Co, 182 N.W. 890, 191 Iowa 668.
51 C.J. p 521 note 30

15. Neb.—Ensign v. Citizens' Interurban R. Co., 138 N.W. 718, 92 Neb 363
51 C.J. p 522 note 31.

16. Neb.—Ensign v. Citizens' Interurban R. Co, supra.

17. Ill.—Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 77 Ill. 127.

18. W.Va.—Bell v. Kanawha Tract., etc, Co., 98 S.E. 885, 83 W.Va. 640.
51 C.J. p 522 note 34.

19. W.Va.—Bell v. Kanawha Tract., etc, Co, supra.

20. Iowa.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Swinney, 38 Iowa 182.
Puerto Rico.—R. Co. v. Feliu, 6 Puerto Rico Fed 216.
Va.—Tidewater R. Co. v. Hurt, 63 S.E. 421, 109 Va. 204.
51 C.J. p 522 note 36.

21. N.J.—Huntington v. Headley, Ch., 41 A. 670
51 C.J. p 522 note 37.

22. Ill.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co v Van Hoorebeke, 61 N.E. 326, 191 Ill. 633.
51 C.J. p 522 note 38.

23. S.C.—Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Ford, 89 S.E. 309, 105 S.C. 80.
51 C.J. p 522 note 39.

24. Wash.—Walla Walla Valley R. Co v. Carter, 233 P. 329, 133 Wash. 205
51 C.J. p 522 note 40.

25. S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Dawes, 88 S.E. 286, 103 S.C. 507.
51 C.J. p 523 note 41.

pany, notwithstanding it has condemned the right of way,[26] may maintain an action for damages for breach of the contract,[27] such as for breach of covenants of warranty contained in the contract of sale,[28] or it may rescind the contract and sue to recover the purchase price paid by it,[29] but where the contract is an entire one the company must either stand on its contract rights or rescind in toto.[30]

On contract to furnish right of way A railroad company may also maintain an action for damages for breach of contract against persons who have contracted to furnish a right of way for a proposed railroad;[31] and it has been held that, where it is agreed that the company may recover such sum as it is bound to pay for the right of way, it is entitled to recover as damages amounts expended in good faith for lands of a sufficient width for the roadbed and such width in addition thereto as is necessary for the proper construction and security of the road,[32] land damages which it is obliged to pay,[33] including money paid for farm bridges and bank walls, if the land damages are thereby decreased to an amount equal to their cost,[34] ordinary legal costs and attorney's fees in the land damage cases,[35] and also unpaid damages for land taken for the use of the road ordered to be paid by the county commissioners to one of the defendants,[36] but is not entitled to recover for land taken for stations or for procuring gravel to be used in the construction of the road[37] or for money paid to county commissioners for assessing land damages.[38] In such action, an allegation of the market value of property purchased by plaintiff may be made for the purpose of showing its reasonable value so as to hold defendants liable for the amount expended in procuring the right of way,[39] and a defense that plaintiffs violated the contract in procuring a portion of the right of way before the time allowed for furnishing it is not available, in the absence of allegations and proof that plaintiff paid more than the right of way would have cost defendants.[40]

§ 81. Conveyances to or for Railroad Company

a In general
b. Persons entitled to convey
c Location of way or land conveyed
d. Operation and effect in general

a. In General

The general rules regulating conveyances apply with respect to the requisites and validity of a deed of conveyance of a right of way, or other interest in land, to a railroad company.

The general rules regulating conveyances, particularly those relating to conveyances to corporations, apply with respect to the requisites and validity of a deed of conveyance of a right of way, or other interest in land, to a railroad company[41] A conveyance in fee to a railroad company authorized to acquire an easement only is valid until assailed in a direct proceeding by the government,[42] and may not be collaterally attacked by private persons.[43]

Consideration. Where a consideration for a deed to a right of way is necessary, the general rules apply as to the sufficiency of the consideration.[44] It may consist of the benefit to be received by the grantor from the construction and operation of the railroad.[45] Where the right of way deed expressly provides that it shall not be binding until the consideration is paid, an entry and trespass thereunder cannot be justified where the consideration is not paid.[46]

26. Ind.—Baltimore, etc, R Co v Adams, 60 N.E 1004, 27 Ind App 185.

27. Ind —Baltimore, etc, R Co v. Adams, supra.

28. S C—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Jones, 131 S.E 434, 134 S C 305. 51 C J. p 523 note 44.

29. Ind.—Baltimore, etc, R Co v. Adams, 60 N E. 1004, 27 Ind.App. 185

30. Pa —Semple v. Cleveland, etc., R Co, 33 A. 564, 172 Pa 369
51 C J p 523 note 46

31. Tex —Risinger v. Clark, Civ. App, 246 S W. 1092.
51 C J. p 523 note 47.

32. Mass —New Haven, etc., Co v. Hayden, 117 Mass. 433.

33. Mass —New Haven, etc., Co. v. Hayden, supra.

34. Mass.—New Haven, etc., Co v Hayden, supra.

35. Mass —New Haven, etc., Co v Hayden, supra.

36. Mass.—New Haven, etc, Co. v. Hayden, supra

37. Mass.—New Haven, etc., Co. v. Hayden, supra

38. Mass —New Haven, etc., Co v. Hayden, supra.

39. Tex —Risinger v. Clark, Civ. App, 246 S W. 1092.

40. Tex —Risinger v. Clark, supra

41. W.Va.—Ohio River R. Co. v. Johnson, 40 S E. 407, 50 W.Va. 499.
51 C J p 523 note 60
Grant of right in highway or street see infra §§ 103, 104.

42. Wis.—Attorney General v. Smith, 85 N W 512, 109 Wis. 532.

43. Wis —Attorney General v. Smith, supra.

44. Mo.—Bagby v Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co., 171 S W 2d 673, 351 Mo 79
51 C.J p 524 note 66.

45. La —Simoneaux v Lebermuth, etc, Planting Co., 99 So. 531, 155 La 689.
51 C.J p 524 note 67
Erection of car and coach shops
Where land was conveyed to railroad company on condition that it build its car and coach shops thereon, erection of such shops constituted a valuable and substantial consideration for the deed.—Bagby v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co., 171 S. W.2d 673, 351 Mo. 79.

46. S C.—Moore v. North, etc, Carolina R. Co., 77 S.E. 926, 94 S.C 242.

Description. Subject to the rules relating to the description of property in deeds generally, a conveyance of a right of way to a railroad company must describe the land conveyed with sufficient certainty to identify it.[47] A conveyance indefinite in its description may be made certain by the conduct of the parties acting under it.[48] An obvious clerical error will be rejected where the right of way may be sufficiently identified by that which remains.[49] A conveyance of a right of way across land is not void for indefiniteness or uncertainty, because it does not describe the exact route or location thereof, where it describes its purpose as enabling the railroad to reach a designated place,[50] or where its location is made certain by reference to a survey,[51] or where its location is made definite and certain by the filing of a map and profile of the road[52] or by the construction of the road.[53]

Execution and delivery. Where the conveyance is duly acknowledged and recorded and is beneficial to the railroad company, its acceptance is presumed;[54] and, if the company takes possession and duly performs the covenants of the deed, it constitutes an acceptance thereof,[55] and under such circumstances a formal execution of the deed including delivery and acceptance is not necessary.[56] However, a contract to convey or conveyance, which is not executed and acknowledged, as required by law, does not operate to convey the legal title to the railroad company;[57] but, where the agreement has been performed on the part of the railroad company, it is sufficient to pass the equitable title[58] and to entitle it to compel a legal conveyance.[59] An unacknowledged deed expressing an inadequate consideration for the granting of a railroad right of way, until set aside, passes an equitable title to the right of way,[60] even though there was fraud in obtaining it.[61]

A deed to a third person reserving a strip for railroad purposes according to a diagram showing the railroad company's name will not operate as a conveyance to the company,[62] or as a dedication;[63] but, as against a subsequent grantee of lands crossed by a right of way, the railway company is the owner of the strip, notwithstanding the deed to such grantee contains no reference thereto.[64]

Construction. The rules of construction applicable to deeds usually apply in construing instruments conveying a right of way or other interest in land to a railroad.[65] Effect will be given to the intention of the parties as far as it is lawful and can be gathered from the contents of the instrument,[66] irrespective of all technical or arbitrary rules of construction.[67] The instrument must be considered as

47. Ga.—Gainesville Midland R. Co. v. Tyner, 50 S.E.2d 108, 204 Ga. 535
Wash.—Bank v. Eastern R., etc., Co., 252 P. 916, 142 Wash. 204.
Description held sufficient
Ga.—Woods v. Flanders, 181 S.E. 83, 180 Ga. 835
51 C.J. p. 524 note 70 [a].

48. Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406

49. Cal.—Blume v. MacGregor, 148 P.2d 656, 64 Cal.App.2d 244

50. Ark.—Dunford v. Dardanelle, etc., R. Co., 287 S.W. 170, 171 Ark. 1036.

51. U.S.—Carter Oil Co. v. Welker, C.C.A.Ill., 112 F.2d 299, motion denied 62 S.Ct. 122. Reversed 63 S.Ct. 70, 317 U.S. 592, 87 L.Ed. 485.

52. Kan.—Abercrombie v. Simmons, 81 P. 208, 71 Kan. 538, 114 Am.St.R. 509, 1 L.R.A.,N.S., 806, 6 Ann.Cas. 239.
51 C.J. p. 524 note 72.

53. Ark.—Dunford v. Dardanelle, etc., R. Co., 287 S.W. 170, 171 Ark. 1036
51 C.J. p. 524 note 73.

54. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Kearns, 108 N.E. 873, 58 Ind.App. 694.

55. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Kearns, 128 N.E. 42, 191 Ind. 1.
51 C.J. p. 524 note 76

56. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Kearns, supra
La.—Fazende v. Morgan, 31 La.Ann. 549.

57. Ohio.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Oak Hill, 157 N.E. 817, 25 Ohio App. 301
51 C.J. p. 524 note 78.

58. Wash.—Matson v. Port Townsend Southern R. Co., 37 P. 705, 9 Wash. 449
51 C.J. p. 524 note 79.

59. Ohio.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Oak Hill, 157 N.E. 817, 25 Ohio App. 301.
51 C.J. p. 524 note 80.

60. Mo.—Graves v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 112 S.W. 736, 133 Mo.App. 91.

61. Mo.—Graves v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

62. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 85 Ill. 211.
Md.—Hines v. Symington, 112 A. 814, 137 Md. 441.

63. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 85 Ill. 211.

64. Ohio.—Miller v. L. S. & M. S. R. Co., 12 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 683

65. Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., Civ.App., 41 S.W.2d 319, affirmed 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265.
Construction as though grantees were individuals
Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., Civ.App., 41 S.W.2d 319, affirmed 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265.
Liberal construction
A deed of right of way to railroad company and deeds of like kind, given by landowners having no choice in matter because lands can be taken by condemnation if they refuse to convey them, should be given such liberal construction as will effectuate parties' intention and fully protect rights of grantors and their assigns.—Keokuk County v. Reimer, 288 N.W. 676, 227 Iowa 499
Use as station grounds
A deed to a railroad of land for use as station grounds for railroad purposes must be read with the limitations and conditions which the law put into it, and in the light of public policy of the state.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R. 286.

66. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, 171 S.E. 128, 177 Ga. 698.

67. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, supra.

a whole,[68] all its clauses contextually,[69] without technical distinction or arbitrary preference of any of them because of the order in which they come in the instrument, or their historical significance.[70] The consideration of inferences drawn from extraneous facts in aid of interpretation is not justified where the language of the instrument is unambiguous.[71]

b. Persons Entitled to Convey

The owner of the land is ordinarily the proper person to convey it to a railroad company for a right of way or other purposes.

The owner of the land is ordinarily the proper person to convey it to a railroad company for a right of way or other purposes,[72] and this he may do notwithstanding he has previously leased rights thereon to a third person under a lease which conveys no interest in the land,[73] although the lessee is entitled to be protected in his rights.[74]

The owner of the fee in a private way, subject to certain easements, may authorize the construction of a track across such way for railroad purposes, without the consent of the owners of the easements, where the reasonable use and enjoyment of such easements are not thereby interfered with.[75] In case of public property, a right of way thereover may be conveyed by the proper public officer.[76] A charter provision, of a railroad company, for voluntary relinquishments of property for railroad purposes by the owner of land impliedly makes it unnecessary for a wife to join in a conveyance by her husband by reason of her inchoate right of dower,[77] and it makes no difference that the husband does not convey directly to the railroad company, but by mesne conveyances.[78]

Conveyance without authority. Where a conveyance to a railroad company is made by persons not having proper authority, it may be afterward repudiated by the persons having the authority to convey;[79] but, if the company has acted in good faith in constructing its road, it may be entitled to be protected in equity.[80]

c. Location of Way or Land Conveyed

The general rules relating to the construction of contracts to convey and deeds of conveyance apply in determining the rights of a railroad company under a contract to convey or a conveyance which describes the land conveyed in the terms of the location of the right of way.

The general rules relating to the construction of contracts to convey and deeds of conveyance apply in determining the rights of a railroad company under a contract to convey or a conveyance which describes the land conveyed in the terms of the location of the right of way,[81] such as with respect to the time when the land granted is to be selected;[82] and, where the conveyance fails to describe clearly the exact situation of the land conveyed, parol evidence is admissible to assist in ascertaining its true location.[83] Where the conveyance describes the land conveyed, as being along a line or route which has already been established by the company, it has no right to select a different location,[84] but is entitled to a right of way or land only along such line or route.[85] A conveyance of a "right of way" across land without further description, made after the tracks across the land have been constructed, refers to the road as constructed,[86] and is in effect a grant and license to maintain a roadbed as then existing.[87] Where the terms of the grant are general and indefinite without any definite description of

68. N.C.—Reidsville Grocery Co v Southern Ry Co, 1 S.E.2d 535, 215 N.C. 223

69. N.C.—Reidsville Grocery Co. v Southern Ry. Co, supra.

70. N.C.—Reidsville Grocery Co. v. Southern Ry Co, supra.

71. N.C.—Reidsville Grocery Co. v. Southern Ry Co, supra.

72. Ohio.—Ohio Oil Co v. Toledo, etc, R Co, 4 Ohio Cir Ct. 210, 2 Ohio Cir.Dec. 505

73. Ohio—Ohio Oil Co. v. Toledo, etc, R. Co, supra
51 C.J. p 525 note 87
Agreement as to right of way on leased land generally see supra § 77.

74. Ohio—Ohio Oil Co v. Toledo, etc, R. Co, supra.

75. Mass—Salter v Boston, etc, R Co., 132 N.E. 37, 239 Mass 235.
51 C.J. p 525 note 95.

76. N.Y.—People v. Walsh, 105 N.E. 136, 211 N.Y. 90
51 C.J. p 525 note 90

77. Mo—Chouteau v. Missouri Pac. R Co., 22 S.W. 458, 30 S.W. 299, 122 Mo. 375

78. Mo.—Chouteau v. Missouri Pac R Co., supra

79. Ga—Macon, etc, R Co v. Riggs, 13 S.E. 312, 87 Ga. 158.
51 C.J. p 525 note 93

80. Pa—McClane v McClane, 62 A. 861, 213 Pa. 286
51 C.J. p 525 note 94.

81. Ga.—Gainesville Midland R Co v Tyner, 50 S.E.2d 108, 204 Ga. 535
51 C.J. p 528 note 24
Location of road, termini, or station as condition of grant see infra §§ 92, 93.

82. Ohio.—Warner v. Columbus, etc, R Co, 39 Ohio St 70.
51 C.J. p 528 note 25

83. Ga.—Gainesville Midland R Co. v. Tyner, 50 S.E.2d 108, 204 Ga. 535
51 C.J. p 528 note 26.

84. Mich—Wood v Michigan Air Line R Co, 51 N.W. 263, 90 Mich 334
S.C—Moore v North, etc., Carolina R Co, 77 S.E. 926, 94 S.C. 243
51 C.J. p 528 note 28.

85. S.C—American Spinning Co. v Southern R Co, 62 S.E. 787, 81 S.C. 482.
51 C.J. p 528 note 28

86. Tex—Olive v Sabine, etc, R. Co, 33 S.W. 139, 11 Tex Civ.App. 208

87. Minn—Evans v Northern Pac R. Co., 134 N.W. 294, 117 Minn. 4.
51 C.J. p 528 note 30.

location, it does not give the railroad company the right to choose the exact location of the right of way.[88] If, however, the grantor acquiesces in the location and use of a right of way by the company, such acquiescence will operate to identify and locate the route or property conveyed,[89] and has the same legal effect as though it had been definitely described,[90] especially where the company pays the purchase price of the property granted and it is afterward fully located.[91]

Under contract to convey. A contract to convey a right of way or land in a certain tract of land vests in the company the right to select the particular location of such right of way or land.[92] Where the contract also provides for a conveyance of a specified number of acres adjoining and on the other side of the right of way, it means a strip of land of uniform width extending along the railway through the entire tract described, and having one half of the specified number of acres on each side of the right of way.[93]

d. Operation and Effect in General

A conveyance of land to a railroad company for an agreed consideration presumptively embraces in such consideration all reasonably necessary damages to the grantor's adjoining land, which have already been caused or which may be caused by the construction, maintenance, and operation of the road in a reasonably careful and prudent manner; and, therefore, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, such conveyance relieves the company from all liability for such damages.

A conveyance of land to a railroad company for an agreed consideration presumptively embraces in such consideration all reasonably necessary damages to the grantor's adjoining land, which have already been caused or which may be caused by the construction, maintenance, and operation of the road in a reasonably careful and prudent manner,[94] and which might have been recovered in condemnation proceedings;[95] and, therefore, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, such conveyance relieves the company from all liability for such damages,[96] especially where the conveyance contains a general waiver or release to this effect.[97] Until the deed is set aside, this rule applies, although the railroad company is the holder only of an equitable title by reason of the deed being unacknowledged and for an inadequate consideration.[98] On the same principle a conveyance of a right of way relieves the railroad company from damages for additional fence building required,[99] and from the duty of constructing and maintaining stock gaps or bridges,[1] or private ways or crossings,[2] unless such duty is imposed on it by the conditions or stipulations contained in the conveyance,[3] or by statute.[4]

A conveyance to the railroad company also relieves it from liability for other damages which the terms of the instrument or the attendant circumstances expressly or impliedly show to have been included in the compensation paid;[5] and, where the conveyance expressly authorizes the railroad company to do particular acts in constructing its road and releases it from all claims for damages by reason thereof, the grantor is not entitled to recover such damages, although they are the result of bad engineering judgment.[6] A recital in the deed that the consideration is in full liquidation and settlement of claims for damages sustained prior to the date of the deed precludes a recovery for any permanent injury by reason of construction prior

88. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Langer, 123 N.E. 61, 288 Ill. 16

89. Ga.—Jackson v. Rodgers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581
Ky.—Buck Creek R. Co. v. Haws, 69 S.W.2d 333, 253 Ky. 203.
51 C.J. p. 528 note 32.

90. Ga.—Martin v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 77 S.E. 1060, 139 Ga. 807
51 C.J. p. 528 note 33.

91. Ga.—Jackson v. Rogers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581.—Johnson v. Valdosta, etc., R. Co., 150 S.E. 845, 169 Ga. 559.

92. Wash.—Netherlands American Mortg. Bank v. Eastern R., etc., Co., 252 P. 916, 142 Wash. 204
51 C.J. p. 528 note 36.

93. Ill.—Chidester v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Ill. 87.

94. Ill.—Catello v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 131 N.E. 591, 298 Ill. 248.
Tex.—Corpus Juris cited in State v. Brewer, 169 S.W.2d 468, 471, 141 Tex. 1
51 C.J. p. 525 note 96.

95. Ill.—Catello v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 131 N.E. 591, 298 Ill. 248
51 C.J. p. 525 note 97.

96. Tenn.—Knott v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 234 S.W. 1003, 144 Tenn. 676, 19 A.L.R. 482.
51 C.J. p. 526 note 98.

97. Iowa.—Swanson v. Ft. Dodge, etc., R. Co., 133 N.W. 351, 153 Iowa 78.
51 C.J. p. 526 note 99

98. Mo.—Graves v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 112 S.W. 736, 133 Mo.App. 91.

99. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 1 S.W. 545, 47 Ark. 330
Construction and maintenance of crossings, fences, and cattle guards generally see infra §§ 169–181.

1. Ga.—Cook v. North, etc., R. Co., 50 Ga. 211.

2. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 3 Tex. A. Civ. Cas. § 23.

3. Ga.—Cook v. North, etc., R. Co., 50 Ga. 211.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 3 Tex. A. Civ. Cas. § 21
Covenants or conditions as to crossings, fences, and cattle guards generally see infra § 94.

4. N.Y.—Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co., 63 N.Y. 58
51 C.J. p. 527 note 20.

5. Minn.—Liedel v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 94 N.W. 877, 89 Minn. 284.
51 C.J. p. 526 note 2

6. U.S.—Schoening v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., C.C.A.Wyo., 30 F.2d 803
51 C.J. p. 526 note 3.

to such time, whether or not it was prudent construction.[7]

Unless the terms of the instrument require such a construction,[8] such a conveyance does not relieve the railroad company from liability for damages which are caused by its negligence in designing, constructing, and maintaining the road,[9] or for damages resulting from improper encroachments on land outside the right of way,[10] or arising out of a breach of the conditions on which the deed was delivered,[11] nor does it relieve the company from such damages as from the terms of the instrument are not to be presumed to have been in contemplation of the parties at the time of the sale,[12] such as damages from acts of the company on a different parcel of land from that granted,[13] nor does it relieve the company from damages which were expressly reserved.[14]

As against subsequent purchaser. A subsequent purchaser from the same grantor of adjoining land with notice of the right of way cannot recover for reasonable and necessary damages to his land,[15] unless his property rights are invaded;[16] and, where the conveyance to the company is recorded, it operates as notice to the subsequent grantee of the company's rights in this respect.[17]

§ 82. Extent of Way or Land Acquired

a. In general
b. Right of way

a. In General

The nature and extent of the way or land acquired by a railroad under a grant or conveyance for a right of way or other uses depend on the terms of the description or limitations employed in the instrument.

The nature and extent of the way or land acquired by a railroad company under a grant or conveyance for a right of way or other uses depend on the terms of the description or limitations employed in the instrument.[18] Under a contract to convey such lands as shall be required for the road, an owner is not bound to convey more land than the company fairly requires for its legitimate uses under its charter;[19] but a vendor may not complain that the contract of sale calls for the purchase of more land than the railroad company actually requires.[20]

As against subsequent purchaser. Where the grant to the railroad company has been recorded, the grant, together with the company's occupation and use, charges a subsequent purchaser of the land with notice of the extent of land to which the company has right or title;[21] and, even though it has been granted more, if the company fails to record its title, it is restricted, as against a subsequent purchaser for value without notice, to the land in its actual occupation and use.[22]

b. Right of Way

(1) In general
(2) As confined to space actually occupied
(3) Width of right of way

(1) In General

It has been stated that the ordinary signification of the term "right of way," when used to describe land which a railroad corporation owns or is entitled to use for railroad purposes, is the entire strip or tract which the company owns or has found it necessary or convenient to acquire the right to use for these purposes, and not any specific or limited part thereof on which its main track or other particular improvements are located.

7. Ky.—Elkhorn, etc., R Co. v Martin, 241 S.W. 344, 195 Ky. 20
8. Ala.—Alabama Western R Co. v Wilson, 55 So 932, 1 Ala App 306
9. Wash.—Jordan v Welch, 112 P 656, 61 Wash. 569.
51 C.J. p 526 note 5
10. Ala.—Alabama Western R Co v. Wilson, 55 So. 932, 1 Ala App 306.
51 C.J p 527 note 6.
11. Iowa.—Swanson v Ft Dodge, etc, R Co., 133 N.W. 351, 153 Iowa 78
12. Ill.—Catello v. Chicago, B & Q R. Co, 131 N.E 591, 298 Ill. 248
51 C J. p 527 note 8
13. Va.—Pamplin v. Norfolk, etc, R Co, 98 S E 51, 124 Va 254.
51 C J p 527 note 9
14. Pa.—North, etc, Branch R. Co v Swank, 105 Pa 555.
51 C J p 527 note 10.
15. Ga.—Darnall v. Georgia R., etc., Co, 68 S E 584, 134 Ga. 656
51 C J. p 527 note 12.
16. Ga.—Darnall v. Georgia R, etc, Co., supra.
17. N.Y.—Allerton v. New York, etc, R Co, 93 N.E. 270, 199 N.Y. 489
51 C J. p 527 note 14.
18. U.S.—Mendez v. Eastern Sugar Associates, C C A.Puerto Rico, 89 F 2d 399.
Miss.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co v. Patten, 178 So 468, 180 Miss. 756
51 C.J. p 529 note 40
Location of way or land see supra § 81 c.

Where servitude or right of way for railroad resulted from a contract between parties and not by mere operation of law, the extent and mode of using the servitude are governed by the provisions in the agreement.—Rock Island, A. & L. R Co. v. Gournay, 17 So.2d 21, 205 La. 164.

Grant not implied

Fact that area within legs of railroad wye should be unobstructed and unoccupied did not give rise to implied grant, in right of way deed to a wye, of land within legs of wye.—Gulf & S I R Co. v. Patten, 178 So 468, 180 Miss. 756.

19. Vt.—Hill v. Western Vermont R. Co., 32 Vt 68.
20. Pa.—Delaware, etc., R Co. v Welser, 81 A. 994, 233 Pa. 154.
51 C J. p 529 note 42.
21. Ky.—Fishback v. Glasgow R. Co., 130 S W. 982, 140 Ky. 155.
51 C J. p 529 note 43.
22. La.—John T. Moore Planting Co. v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R, etc, Co, 53 So. 22, 126 La. 840.
51 C.J. p 529 note 44.

It has been stated that the ordinary signification of the term "right of way," when used to describe land which a railroad corporation owns or is entitled to use for railroad purposes, is the entire strip or tract which the company owns or has found it necessary or convenient to acquire the right to use for these purposes,[23] and not any specific or limited part thereof on which its main track or other particular improvements are located.[24] It includes land immediately beneath the tracks, switches, and buildings used in the operation of the road,[25] and also such portions as, in connection therewith, are necessary to the use of the tracks and buildings,[26] although it is not of the same width, or used in the same manner, at all points.[27] It includes lands and lots acquired for necessary side tracks and turnouts, and the improvements thereon in the way of coal sheds, freight houses, water tanks, repair shops, roundhouses, and the like,[28] and, where the railroad company acquires the fee, it is for the company, and not for the adjacent landowner, to determine how much land is reasonably necessary for depot grounds and right-of-way purposes.[29] Where, however, a strip of a distinct width is used and marked by fences or otherwise, as the right of way, additions thereto are not integral parts of the right of way.[30] Where conveyance by deed is made, the limits of the right of way are to be determined by the calls in the deed,[31] and they cannot be extended by an actual survey of the boundary beyond the limits called for.[32] If the right of way is granted in general terms, its extent depends on what the railroad company requires in order to operate its road properly over the right of way.[33] It has been held that neither the fact that a tract of land adjoining the right of way and used by the railroad company for railroad purposes was assessed and taxed by the state tax commission,[34] nor the fact that the use made of such adjacent tract was within the list of purposes for which it might have been condemned,[35] will make it necessarily a part of the railroad right of way.

Additional land. Where the grant of a right of way includes the right to use such additional land as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of the road, the necessity for taking additional land is to be determined by ordinary care in constructing the road,[36] but, where the parties expressly so agree, such additional land must be taken in parcels of specific dimensions,[37] and must be used for the railroad purposes agreed on;[38] and, where the additional land is so used, the fact that buildings thereon, used in connection with the land for incidental railroad purposes, were erected by third persons does not prevent the company from claiming that they are so used.[39]

Height and depth. A right of way of a railroad under an easement extends only to such height and depth as reasonably permit the full and free enjoyment of the surface for railroad purposes,[40] and the space or distance upward or downward which is necessary for the full free use of its franchise is a question of fact to be determined from the circumstances of each case.[41] It has been stated

23. U S—St Louis, etc, R. Co v. Wabash R. Co, Mo, 152 F 849, 81 C C.A. 643, modified on other grounds 30 S Ct. 510, 217 U S 247, 54 L Ed 752
51 C.J. p 529 note 46.
"Right of way" defined generally see supra § 1.

24. Cal.—Shannon v. Wilson, 101 P. 2d 116, 38 Cal App.2d 219.
51 C J. p 529 note 47.

25. Ky—Illinois Cent. R Co v Taylor, 177 S W. 293, 165 Ky 503

26. Ky—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Taylor, supra.
51 C J. p 529 note 49.
Adjoining grounds
A railroad "right of way" includes all adjoining grounds covered by easement and reasonably necessary for such use.—Shannon v Wilson, 101 P.2d 116, 38 Cal.App 2d 219.
Loading and unloading
Railroad presumptively acquired right of way of such extent as to enable it and persons dealing with it to load and unload freight at point where it established freight depot without being guilty of trespassing on rights of adjacent landowner.—Anderson v Peters, 124 S W.2d 717, 22 Tenn App 563.

27. Utah.—Rio Grande Western R Co v. Salt Lake Inv. Co., 101 P. 586, 35 Utah 528

28. Ind—Pfaff v. Terre Haute, etc, R Co, 9 N E 93, 108 Ind. 144
51 C J. p 530 note 51.

29. Neb—Hull v. Kansas City, etc, R. Co, 98 N.W. 47, 70 Neb 756.

30. Utah.—Rio Grande Western R Co v Salt Lake Inv. Co., 101 P 586, 35 Utah 528, 537.
51 C.J. p 530 note 53

31. Tex—Missouri, etc., R Co. v Anderson, 81 S.W 781, 36 Tex.Civ App. 121

32. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, supra.

33. U S—Midland Valley R. Co. v Sutter, C.C.A.Kan., 28 F 2d 163, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 65, 280 U.S. 521, 74 L Ed. 590.

34. Kan.—Danielson v. Woestemeyer, 293 P. 507, 131 Kan. 796.

35. Kan—Danielson v. Woestemeyer, supra.

36. Tex—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v. Richards, 18 S W. 611, 83 Tex. 203.
51 C.J. p 530 note 57.

37. N Y.—New York, etc., R Co v Dunning, 123 N Y.S 15, 138 App. Div. 377.
51 C.J. p 530 note 58

38. Wash—Walla Walla Valley R Co v Carter, 233 P. 329, 133 Wash 205.

39. Wash.—Walla Walla Valley R. Co v Carter, supra.
51 C J. p 530 note 60.

40. Ill.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E 2d 77, 316 Ill.App. 116.

41. Ill.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., supra.
Reasonable construction of deed
Where deed conveying right of way easement to railroad was silent regarding the distance above surface of earth within which the granthat the property rights of a railroad company, under an easement, in its right of way extend upward for a space necessary for the use of its franchise,[42] and downward to a line of support for its tracks and superstructures.[43] Where the company acquires a fee-simple title, its absolute ownership will extend indefinitely upward so as to include proprietorship of the air and space above the land.[44]

(2) As Confined to Space Actually Occupied

In the absence of a paper title or condemnation proceedings, or title by adverse possession, a railroad company is generally confined to the land which is actually occupied and used by it.

In the absence of a paper title or condemnation proceedings, or title by adverse possession, a railroad company is generally confined to the land which is actually occupied and used by it;[45] and, if it seeks to go beyond its previously occupied land, it must show title outside of its present occupancy, either by the record of condemnation proceedings,[46] or by the production of a deed or written muniments of title,[47] or by proof showing the actual delivery of the land as ascertained by landmarks, fences, etc.[48] A subsequent vendee as owner of the servient estate may object to the enlargement of an easement of right of way.[49] Where a strip of a specified width is granted, the company is not required to exercise its option to occupy the entire strip on any single occasion or within any precise period, but may locate one track first and add others later.[50]

(3) Width of Right of Way

- (a) Width definitely specified
- (b) Width not definitely specified
- (c) Effect of charter or statutory limitations
- (d) Presumptions

(a) Width Definitely Specified

Where the grant or conveyance of a right of way specifies the width, the extent thereof is determined by a proper construction of the terms of the instrument.

A railroad company is not entitled to a right of way of a specified width as a matter of law,[51] but its right of way, in the absence of a conveyance, depends on its charter and on condemnation proceedings.[52] Where the grant or conveyance of a right of way specifies the width, the extent thereof is determined by a proper construction of the terms of the instrument,[53] and, unless there is a further grant, or some act of estoppel on the part of the grantor,[54] the occupancy and use of a great-tee could exercise its rights, the deed was required to be given a reasonable construction which was required to be in accord with what the parties had in mind when the deed was made.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 43 N.E.2d 993, 380 Ill. 130.

42. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in United States v. Great Northern Ry. Co., D.C.Mont., 32 F.Supp. 651, 654.
Ill.—Corpus Juris cited in Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 43 N.E.2d 993, 997, 380 Ill. 130—Corpus Juris quoted in Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 81, 316 Ill.App. 116.
51 C.J. p 530 note 61.

Safe and convenient passage
An easement for railroad right of way extends to height sufficient for safe and convenient passage of all trains and their burdens of whatever nature.
Ill.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 316 Ill.App. 116.
Ky.—Citizens' Tel. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 233 S.W. 901, 192 Ky. 399.

Construction by another above right of way
(1) A railroad company cannot complain of, or interfere with, construction of improvement above its right of way by a stranger to fee, if it is above and beyond use and purpose of easement granted to such company.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 316 Ill.App. 116

(2) A railroad company, owning right of way easement, has no right to require, or maintain action for, removal of structure erected above tracks by another, if it does not interfere with full enjoyment of right of way and is of such permanent and substantial nature as not to be a menace to persons passing under it.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., supra.

43. U.S.—Corpus Juris quoted in United States v. Great Northern Ry. Co., D.C.Mont., 32 F.Supp. 651, 654
Ill.—Corpus Juris quoted in Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 81, 316 Ill.App. 116.
Pa.—Cumberland Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Chambersburg, etc., R. Co., 15 Pa.Dist. 965.

44. Ill.—Corpus Juris quoted in Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 81, 316 Ill.App. 116.
51 C.J. p 530 note 63.

45. N.Y.—Jones v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 101 N.E. 763, 208 N.Y. 40
51 C.J. p 530 note 64.

46. Pa.—Goddard v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Del.Co. 337, 2 Lanc.L.Rev. 265.

47. N.C.—Heaton v. Kilpatrick, 143 S.E. 644, 195 N.C. 708.
51 C.J. p 531 note 66.

48. Pa.—Goddard v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Del.Co. 337, 2 Lanc.L.Rev. 265.

49. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Standard Fuel Supply Co., 86 S.E. 228, 144 Ga. 92.

50. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Armstrong, 102 A. 791, 92 Conn. 349.

51. Tenn.—Smith v. Zwicker, 133 S.W. 595, 136 Tenn. 77, 80.

52. Tenn.—Smith v. Zwicker, supra.
51 C.J. p 531 note 73.

53. Wash.—Northwestern Lumber Co. v. Bloom, 237 P. 295, 135 Wash. 195.
51 C.J. p 531 note 74.

Fraud
The company may be estopped from claiming the width specified where the conveyance thereof has been induced by fraud.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Victor Mfg. Co., 76 S.E. 1091, 93 S.C. 397—51 C.J. p 532 note 85.

54. Wash.—Northwestern Lumber

er width than that specified may not be claimed by the company,[55] especially where to do so would interfere with another's rights which have been acquired in the meantime;[56] and this rule applies, although the width conveyed is less than the width the company is permitted by statute to acquire.[57] The fact that a conveyance of a part of a tract indicates a right of way of a specified width across the part conveyed does not establish an intention of the parties that the right of way across the rest of the tract of the same owner shall be of the same width;[58] and the fact that a deed and plat are made by the owner of the land after the railroad is constructed across it by permission, in which deed and plat the railroad has no interest, and for which it furnishes no consideration, does not give the railroad title to its right of way for the full width shown on such deed and plat.[59]

Not exceeding specified width. A deed for a right of way, not exceeding a specified width, is not an absolute conveyance of a right of way of the width specified,[60] but only a right to locate a right of way not exceeding the width stated,[61] and, where the company locates its road on a narrower strip, it may not thereafter claim the specified width, as against a subsequent grantee in whose occupancy it has acquiesced.[62]

Slopes. A railroad company having a right of way of a specified width also has the right to the necessary slopes for embankments, although they extend in some places beyond such right of way.[63]

(b) Width Not Definitely Specified

In the absence of a definite specification in the grant or conveyance as to the width of the right of way, such width as is reasonably necessary for the construction and maintenance of the railroad and its convenient operation is contemplated.

Where the width granted or conveyed is not definitely specified in the instrument, parol or extrinsic evidence is admissible to show the intention of the parties in respect thereof.[64] In the absence of a definite specification in the grant or conveyance as to the width of the right of way, such width as is reasonably necessary for the construction and maintenance of the railroad and its convenient operation is contemplated[65] It has been held that such an instrument conveys merely such a strip of land as is of sufficient width to locate and construct the roadbed,[66] to the outer line of poles, carrying a telegraph wire used in operating the railroad,[67] including the ditches on each side of its right of way necessary for drainage;[68] or such a width as the parties have assented to by practical construction[69] It has also been held that, where a deed conveys "the full and perfect right of way" without specifying its width, the railroad company may appropriate such width as its board of directors in its honest judgment deems necessary for its present and future purposes;[70] and, where the company thereafter duly condemns a right of way on each side of the grant of a specified width, it indicates to the grantor that the right of way will be that width,[71] and, if with knowledge thereof he acquiesces, the company is not estopped to claim such width under its grant.[72]

Where, although the width is specified, it is too indefinitely described to be located, it conveys

Co. v. Bloom, 237 P. 295, 135 Wash. 195.
51 C.J. p 531 note 75.

55. Ill.—Cleveland, C., C. & St L Ry. Co. v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 43 N.E.2d 993, 380 Ill. 130.
51 C.J. p 531 note 76.

56. Mo.—Joplin, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 37 S.W. 540, 135 Mo. 549.

57. Ind.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Michener, 20 N.E. 254, 117 Ind. 465.
Iowa.—Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119.

58. Md.—Hines v. Symington, 112 A. 814, 137 Md. 441.

59. Md.—Hines v. Symington, supra.

60. Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett, 7 So. 549, 67 Miss. 579.

61. Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett, supra.

62. Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett, supra
51 C.J. p 532 note 83.

63. Pa.—Rodgers v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 100 A. 271, 255 Pa. 462.

64. Va.—South, etc., R. Co. v. Mann, 62 S.E. 354, 108 Va. 557.
51 C.J. p 532 note 87.

65. Ky.—Buck Creek R. Co. v. Haws, 69 S.W.2d 333, 253 Ky. 203.
Criterion of reasonableness is a statute allowing a designated number of feet.—Buck Creek R. Co. v. Haws, supra.
Remedy for taking excess
(1) Owner of surface subject to easement for railroad can recover land or value thereof taken for right of way beyond width reasonably necessary therefor and also damages for trespasses as to such excess.—Buck Creek R. Co. v. Haws, supra.
(2) Owner of servient estate suing within limitation period has been held not estopped from recovering excess land or value thereof.—Buck Creek R. Co. v. Haws, supra.

66. Ga.—Martin v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 77 S.E. 1060, 139 Ga. 807.
51 C.J. p 532 note 88.

67. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Stevenson, 188 S.W. 832, 125 Ark. 357.

68. La.—John T. Moore Planting Co. v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 53 So. 22, 126 La. 840.
51 C.J. p 532 note 90.

69. W.Va.—Miller v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 116 S.E. 521, 93 W.Va. 257.
51 C.J. p 532 note 91.

70. Pa.—Rodgers v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 100 A. 271, 255 Pa. 462, 464.

71. Pa.—Rodgers v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., supra.

72. Pa.—Rodgers v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., supra.

the right of way actually occupied under the deed,[73] including space occupied by rails, ties, switches, side tracks, ditches, etc., with means of ingress and egress on both sides, such as are reasonably necessary for operation and maintenance of the road in the customary way,[74] and is not presumed to extend an equal distance on either side of the center line of tracks as located, but only to include space actually occupied[75]

Additional width. A grant of such additional width as may be required for the use of the railroad for side tracks, turnouts, and so forth, as finally located, limits the grant to the necessity of the railroad as finally located,[76] and limits the grant of land for side tracks and turnouts to such as were originally constructed,[77] and does not authorize the taking of additional land therefor.[78]

(c) Effect of Charter or Statutory Limitations

The width of the strip which a railroad company acquires for its right of way may be expressly limited either by the provisions of the charter of the company or by statute.

The width of the strip of land which a railroad company acquires for its right of way may be expressly limited either by the provisions of the charter of the company[79] or by statute.[80] A charter provision to this effect should be construed in the light of conditions existing when the charter was granted.[81] Such a provision does not definitely fix the rights of the parties;[82] and, if the company takes a deed for less than the charter or statutory width, the limitation does not apply[83] Where there has been no conveyance or the conveyance to the company does not definitely specify the width of the land granted, the company may ordinarily occupy any width it chooses not exceeding that allowed by the charter or statute,[84] with this limitation in some jurisdictions, however, that it does not take more than is reasonably necessary for the convenient use and maintenance of the road in the customary mode[85]

In jurisdictions in which the company is presumed to have acquired only the width actually occupied and used, if the company occupies and uses less than the maximum width, it may not thereafter claim a greater width up to the maximum,[86] unless it has acquired to the additional width by a new grant from the owner[87] by condemnation,[88] or by adverse occupancy,[89] or unless it has entered on the land and occupied it under such circumstances that the owner is estopped to reclaim possession;[90] and it has been held that, where the railroad company maintains on the right of way one or more railroad tracks, it has done all that is necessary to assert its right to the entire width.[91]

A charter or statutory limitation of the amount of land a railroad company may acquire by appropriation proceedings does not limit the amount which the company may acquire by purchase;[92] and hence a grant of a right of way of such width as the law provides may be used by the company does not fix the statutory limit, as the width granted,[93] but the company takes only as much land as is necessary to construct and maintain its road.[94] A grant of as much as and no more than the company could acquire under its right to condemn for a right of way is a grant of the statutory width, and not only of the land occupied[95]

Grant by life tenant. A grant by a life tenant of a railway right of way wider than the company is empowered to condemn under its charter does

73. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Langer, 123 N.E. 61, 288 Ill. 16.
51 C.J. p. 532 note 95.

74. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Langer, supra.

75. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Langer, supra.

76. Md.—Kensington R. Co. v. Moore, 80 A. 614, 115 Md. 36, Ann. Cas. 1912C 1306.

77. Md.—Kensington R. Co. v. Moore, supra.

78. Md.—Kensington R. Co. v. Moore, supra.

79. N.C.—Earnhardt v. Southern R. Co., 72 S.E. 1062, 157 N.C. 358—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 55 S.E. 263, 142 N.C. 257.

80. Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Moore, 7 Tenn. App. 319.

81. N.C.—Earnhardt v. Southern R. Co., 72 S.E. 1062, 157 N.C. 358—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 55 S.E. 263, 142 N.C. 257.

82. Ind.—Ft. Wayne, etc., R. Co. v. Sherry, 25 N.E. 898, 126 Ind. 334, 10 L.R.A. 48.

83. N.C.—Dargan v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 18 S.E. 653, 113 N.C. 596.

84. Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Moore, 7 Tenn. App. 319.
51 C.J. p. 533 note 7.

85. Ala.—Whitewater Lumber Co. v. Prather, 100 So. 549, 211 Ala. 361.
51 C.J. p. 533 note 8.

86. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Stevenson, 188 S.W. 832, 125 Ark. 357.
51 C.J. p. 533 note 10.

87. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Stevenson, supra.

88. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Stevenson, supra.
51 C.J. p. 533 note 12.

89. Ill.—Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 56 N.E. 1050, 185 Ill. 154
Ind.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Michener, 20 N.E. 254, 117 Ind. 465.

90. Ind.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Michener, supra
51 C.J. p. 533 note 14.

91. Pa.—Templeton v. Lehigh, etc., Coal Co., 50 Pa. Super. 341.

92. Ohio.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Oak Hill, 157 N.E. 817, 25 Ohio App. 301
51 C.J. p. 533 note 17.

93. Ohio.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Oak Hill, supra.

94. Ohio.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Oak Hill, supra.
51 C.J. p. 533 note 19.

95. N.C.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 55 S.E. 263, 142 N.C. 257.

not give any easement as against remaindermen or their grantee beyond the authorized width.[96]

Lands for depots, sidetracks, etc. It has been held that a statutory provision that any railroad constructed under the statute shall not exceed a specified number of feet in width is not limited to roadbed and tracks, but includes all necessary appurtenances.[97] On the other hand it has been held that a charter provision authorizing the company to take a strip of land not exceeding a specified width refers to the right of way, and does not prohibit the company from acquiring more lands for depot grounds and side tracks;[98] and under some statutes it may acquire even more than the charter or statutory width, when necessary for the successful operation of the road,[99] such as for the purpose of maintaining slopes and cuts.[1]

(d) Presumptions

Under some charters or statutes limiting the width of the land which a railroad company may acquire for a right of way, it is held that the occupancy and use by the company of a strip of land without a conveyance or under a conveyance which does not specify the width granted are presumed to be of the full width allowed by its charter or by statute and not merely of the width actually used.

Under some charters or statutes limiting the width of the land which a railroad company may acquire for a right of way, it is held that, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, the occupancy and use by the company of a strip of land without a conveyance or under a conveyance which does not specify the width granted are presumed to be of the full width allowed by its charter or by statute and not merely of the width actually used.[2] This presumption, however, is only a prima facie presumption,[3] and may be overcome by evidence rebutting the inference,[4] but it cannot be overcome by a general reputation as to the width acquired by railroad companies.[5] Such a presumption does not arise as against land which is exempt by statute from acquisition by a railroad company for a right of way without the consent of the owner,[6] such as land inclosed within the yard, dwelling house, garden, or graveyard of a citizen,[7] but the burden is on the railroad company to show that the then owner of such land consented to its use.[8] So, also, the statutory presumption does not apply when the company has entered on the land and constructed its roadway under a description limiting the width to that of its present use,[9] or otherwise limiting it to less than the statutory width;[10] nor does the presumption extend to lands adjoining those of the grantor, whose owners are not parties to the conveyance.[11]

Acquisition of only width actually occupied and used. Under some statutes it has been held in such cases that, in the absence of proof that the company acquired the full statutory width, it will be presumed to have acquired only the strip occupied and used.[12] The fact that the company is empowered to lay out its road to a specified width does not raise a presumption that a grant of a right of way which fails to define the width of the strip was intended to convey the full authorized width,[13] or that the company in occupying the land for a part of the authorized width intended to locate over the entire width;[14] and evidence is admissible to

96. S.C.—Northwestern R. Co. v. Colclough, 72 S.E. 494, 89 S.C. 555

97. N.J.—New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Hudson Terminal R. Co., 46 N.J.Law 289.

98. Ill.—Carmody v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 111 Ill. 69.

99. Del.—Bubenzer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., Ch., 61 A. 270.
51 C.J. p. 534 note 24.

1. Pa.—Aliquippa v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 94 Pa.Super. 279.
51 C.J. p. 534 note 25.

2. Ariz.—Boyd v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co., 4 P.2d 670, 39 Ariz. 154.
N.C.—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co., 51 S.E.2d 301, 229 N.C. 695
S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Little, 12 S.E.2d 7, 195 S.C. 455
51 C.J. p. 534 note 26.

Strong presumption

The fact that railroad right of way is fixed under authority of the state creates strong presumption that whole of it should be preserved as necessary for the purpose for which it is set apart.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Little, supra.

Constructive notice

Where predecessor of railroad company acquired right of way under statute providing for right of way two hundred feet wide with presumption after expiration of two years following construction of road that right of way was granted to company by the owners thereof, owner who acquired her lands after construction of the railroad would be regarded as having "constructive notice" that right of way extended one hundred feet on each side of the center of the track.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Little, supra.

3. N.C.—Tighe v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 97 S.E. 164, 176 N.C. 239.
51 C.J. p. 534 note 27.

4. Iowa.—Cedar Rapids Canning Co. v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 95 N.W. 195, 120 Iowa 724.
51 C.J. p. 534 note 28.

5. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Stricklin, D.C.N.C., 264 F. 546
51 C.J. p. 534 note 29.

6. S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Dawes, 88 S.E. 286, 103 S.C. 507

7. S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Dawes, supra.

8. S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Dawes, supra.

9. N.C.—Wearn v. North Carolina R. Co., 132 S.E. 576, 191 N.C. 575.

10. N.C.—Wearn v. North Carolina R. Co., supra.

11. N.C.—Wearn v. North Carolina R. Co., supra.

12. Neb.—Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Rickards, 57 N.W. 739, 38 Neb. 847.
51 C.J. p. 535 note 36.

13. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 19 N.E. 141, 116 Ind. 356

14. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Armstrong, 102 A. 791, 92 Conn. 349.
51 C.J. p. 535 note 39.

show that the road was originally laid out at a shorter width, so as to explain the intention of the parties.[15]

§ 83. Title, Estate, or Interest Acquired

A railroad company may acquire a title in fee simple, a determinable fee, an easement, a lease, or a license in a strip of land for a right of way.

A railroad company may acquire a title in fee simple, a determinable fee, an easement, a lease, or a license in a strip of land for a right of way.[16] The same title or rights that would have been acquired by condemnation proceedings are generally acquired by company under a grant or conveyance of land for a right of way[17] and the nature and quality of the right or title that may be acquired are usually fixed by the charter of the company or by statute.[18] Accordingly where, it is so authorized by its charter or by statute, a railroad company, although created for a limited period,[19] may acquire a fee-simple title in land for its right of way, depot grounds, and other railroad necessities, by purchase.[20] While it has been held that this right is not affected by the fact that the company may obtain only an easement or determinable fee if it resorts to condemnation proceedings,[21] it has also been held that, where the statute authorizes only an easement or interest in land and not a fee to be taken by condemnation proceedings, a deed will not be construed to convey a fee in the absence of a clearly apparent intention to that effect.[22]

15. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R Co. v. Reynolds, 19 N.E. 141, 116 Ind. 356

16. Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.
Rights in highways and public places see infra § 112.

Easement or fee-simple title
U.S.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A. Mo., 106 F.2d 217, certiorari denied Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S.Ct. 180, 308 U.S. 613, 84 L.Ed. 513, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L.Ed. 876
Miss.—Williams v. Patterson, 21 So.2d 477, 198 Miss. 120
Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., Civ.App., 41 S.W.2d 319, affirmed 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265

Perpetual servitude
Where deed gave perpetual right of way for railroad lines of grantee in favor of rural property of grantee without any restrictions, the servitude created could be perpetual in character.—Mendez v. Bowie, C.C.A. Puerto Rico, 118 F.2d 435, certiorari denied Mendez Rios v. Bowie, 62 S.Ct. 76, 314 U.S. 639, 86 L.Ed. 513.

Revocable license
Instrument executed by landowner granting railroad, a private corporation, right to maintain tracks, which was without consideration, gave only revocable license, not right of way or servitude.—Central Cambalache v. Martinez, C.C.A. Puerto Rico, 82 F.2d 37.

Discontinuous servitude
Presence of railroad tracks for passage of trains over another's lands was a discontinuous servitude which could only be acquired by virtue of title.—Central Cambalache v. Martinez, supra

17. Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690
51 C.J. p. 535 note 43

18. Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co., 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690.

19. Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690.
51 C.J. p. 535 note 45.

20. U.S.—Knoell v. Frisco Lease, C.C.A. Okl., 78 F.2d 286.
Cal.—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., 102 P.2d 387, 38 Cal. App.2d 659
Conn.—Parsons v. Town of Wethersfield, 60 A.2d 771, 135 Conn. 24, 4 A.L.R.2d 330
Ill.—Keen v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 64 N.E.2d 499, 392 Ill. 362
Miss.—Williams v. Patterson, 21 So.2d 477, 198 Miss. 120.
Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690—Corpus Juris cited in Coates & Hopkins Realty Co. v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 43 S.W.2d 817, 822, 328 Mo. 1118
Okl.—Higgins v. Oklahoma City, 127 P.2d 845, 191 Okl. 16, reversed on other grounds 56 S.Ct. 562, 297 U.S. 481, 80 L.Ed. 816—Cumbey v. Urschel, 42 P.2d 902, 171 Okl. 389—Cobbs v. Wiedmann, 40 P.2d 1075, 170 Okl. 493—Marland v. Gillespie, 33 P.2d 207, 168 Okl. 376
Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265—Nesral Production Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 84 S.W.2d 805, error dismissed.
51 C.J. p. 535 note 46.

Constitutional provision held inapplicable
The constitutional provision that fee of land taken for railroad tracks without consent of owner thereof shall remain in such owner subject to the use for which it is taken is applicable only to condemnation proceedings.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 43 N.E.2d 993, 380 Ill. 130.

Lack of authority
Where railroad company had no authority to acquire fee-simple title to land within Indian nation, deed conveying to railroad company part of allotment of an enrolled Indian freedman citizen, in so far as it purported to convey fee-simple title, was a nullity; and approval by secretary of interior of deed purporting to convey fee-simple title to part of the allotment of an enrolled freedman citizen could not make the deed convey fee-simple title.—Gutensohn v. McGuirt, 147 P.2d 777, 194 Okl. 64.

Occupancy and payment of taxes by a railroad company on its property located on its right of way did not evidence its ownership of fee title or color of title to freehold.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 316 Ill.App. 116.

21. Cal.—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., 102 P.2d 387, 38 Cal.App.2d 659.
Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690—Corpus Juris cited in Coates & Hopkins Realty Co. v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 43 S.W.2d 817, 822, 328 Mo. 1118.
51 C.J. p. 535 note 47.

22. Ohio.—Hinman v. Barnes, 66 N.E.2d 911, 146 Ohio St. 497.

Perfecting defective title. The fact that a railroad company has constructed and commenced operating its road in reliance on a title subsequently found to be defective is no objection to proceedings on its part to perfect its title to lands so occupied under a statute authorizing railroad corporations to perfect defective titles.[23]

Waiver of defect. Where the value of land appropriated by a railroad company is by agreement submitted to arbitration and an award is made, and the company enters for the purposes of its road, its act in taking possession waives all right to object to a defect in the title, existing at the time a deed is tendered, but which is removed a few days afterward.[24]

§ 84. —— Under Grant or Conveyance from Owner

a. In general

b. Title in fee

c. Easement

a. In General

The question as to what estate or interest is acquired by a railroad company by a grant or conveyance of land to it must be determined from the intention of the parties as shown by the whole instrument, as construed in connection with the charter of the company or governing statutes, and, in case of ambiguity, with the accompanying circumstances.

Where there has been a grant or conveyance of land to a railroad company, the question as to what estate or interest is thereby acquired by the company must be determined from the intention of the parties as shown by the whole instrument,[25] as construed in connection with the railroad company's charter or governing statutes,[26] and, in case of ambiguity, with the accompanying circumstances.[27]

23. N.Y.—Matter of Prospect Park, etc., R. Co., 67 N.Y. 371.

24. N.Y.—Viele v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 20 N.Y. 184.

25. U.S.—Polk v. Ball, C.C.A.La., 149 F.2d 263—In re Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 127 F.2d 1001, certiorari denied Thomson v. Hicks, 63 S.Ct. 59, 317 U.S. 659, 87 L.Ed. 530, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 155, 317 U.S. 708, 87 L.Ed. 564—U. S. v. Certain Parcels of Land in Rapides Parish, D.C.La., 57 F. Supp. 486.

Ga.—Jackson v. Rodgers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581—Rogers v. Pitchford, 184 S.E. 623, 181 Ga. 845.

Ill.—Keen v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 64 N.E.2d 499, 392 Ill. 362—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 43 N.E.2d 993, 380 Ill. 130—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 316 Ill.App. 116.

Kan.—Danielson v. Woestemeyer, 293 P. 507, 131 Kan. 796.

Ky.—Sherman v. Petroleum Exploration, 132 S.W.2d 768, 280 Ky. 105, 132 A.L.R. 137.

La.—Rock Island, A. & L. R. Co. v. Gournay, 17 So.2d 21, 205 La. 164—Texas & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Ellerbe, 6 So.2d 556, 199 La. 489—Arkansas Imp. Co. v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 181 So. 445, 189 La. 921—Persigo v. Johnson & Co., App., 18 So.2d 186.

Md.—Richfield Oil Corp. of New York v. Chesapeake & C. B. R. Co., 20 A.2d 581, 179 Md. 560.

Mass.—Putnam Furniture Bldg. v. Commonwealth, 80 N.E.2d 649, 323 Mass. 179.

Mo.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R. 286—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690.

Ohio.—Corpus Juris cited in Hinman v. Barnes, 66 N.E.2d 911, 916, 146 Ohio St. 497.

Tenn.—Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 162 Tenn. 661.

Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265—Peterson v. Holland, Civ.App., 189 S.W.2d 94, error refused.

51 C.J. p. 536 note 50.

Consideration

Fact that money consideration received by landowner for conveyance to railroad was only nominal, and remaining consideration was the benefit which would accrue to landowner by construction of railroad through owner's land, did not require conclusion that only an easement rather than title to land was conveyed.—Jackson v. Rogers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581.

Indefiniteness in description

Indefiniteness in description of land would not be considered in determining whether conveyance to railroad was of title to land or merely an easement over lands of grantor where railroad occupied a particular route with consent of grantor.—Jackson v. Rogers, supra.

Terms of grant

Where railroad purchases land, character of estate is determined, as in other cases, by terms of grant.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.

Release of fee title from mortgage

Fact that mortgagee released from his mortgage the fee title to tract described in mortgagor's right-of-way deed to railroad was not evidence that the railroad had acquired the fee rather than a servitude.—Polk v. Ball, C.C.A.La., 149 F.2d 263.

The words "for railroad purposes" in conveyance to railroad would not create an estate on condition, or an estate with a conditional limitation.—Jackson v. Rogers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581.

26. Kan.—Danielson v. Woestemeyer, 293 P. 507, 131 Kan. 796.

Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690.

Tenn.—Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 162 Tenn. 661.

51 C.J. p. 536 note 51.

Not continuous servitude

A grant of right of way for railroad is not continuous servitude within Puerto Rico statute, but a discontinuous, although apparent servitude.—Mendez v. Eastern Sugar Associates, C.C.A.Puerto Rico, 89 F.2d 399.

27. Md.—Richfield Oil Corp. of New York v. Chesapeake & C. B. R. Co., 20 A.2d 581, 179 Md. 560.

Miss.—New Orleans & N. E. R. R. v. Morrison, 35 So.2d 68, 203 Miss. 791.

Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690.

Tenn.—Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 162 Tenn. 661.

51 C.J. p. 536 note 52.

An indefinite or ambiguous conveyance of land specifically for a railroad right of way is in its interpretation subject to influence of a gi n-

As thus construed the grant or conveyance may convey the title in fee, as considered infra subdivision b of this section, a mere easement, infra subdivision c of this section, a fee simple in land taken by the company for the roadbed, and an easement in adjoining land for certain purposes,[28] or the grant or conveyance may create merely a lease of a tenancy at will,[29] or an option,[30] or it may amount merely to a temporary use during the continuance of a joint enterprise between the company and the owner of the land.[31] Ordinarily, where no limitation or restriction on the right conveyed to a railroad corporation in lands or property necessary for its use appears in the grant, the grantee takes all the estate possessed by the grantor,[32] and only such right or title as he possesses.[33]

A right of way acquired by a railroad and its tracks are its private property,[34] although subject to public use, as considered infra § 98.

b. Title in Fee

A grant or conveyance to a railroad company will be held to convey a fee-simple title in the land and not a mere easement where such appears to be the intention of the parties as gathered from the entire instrument

A grant or conveyance to a railroad company which has power to acquire by purchase such real estate as may be necessary for the construction and operation of its road, and to take a fee-simple title thereto, will be held to convey a fee-simple title in the land and not a mere easement where such appears to be the intention of the parties as gathered from the entire instrument,[35] particularly where the conveyance is in the usual form of a general warranty deed,[36] or quitclaim deed,[37] without any words of limitation or restriction[38] and eral knowledge that much railroad right of way is expressly or by operation of law limited to an easement, which has usually been found sufficient for purposes desired—Sherman v. Petroleum Exploration, 132 S.W.2d 768, 280 Ky. 105, 132 A.L.R. 137

28. Mo.—Clevenger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 210 S.W. 867
51 C.J. p. 536 note 55.

29. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Barth, 114 N.E. 81, 185 Ind. 593.
51 C.J. p. 536 note 56.

30. S.C.—Alderman, etc., Co. v. Wilson, 50 S.E. 643, 71 S.C. 64
51 C.J. p. 537 note 57.
Options generally see supra § 77.

31. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 86 So. 20, 204 Ala. 453.
51 C.J. p. 537 note 58.

32. Cal.—East San Mateo Land Co. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 157 P. 634, 30 Cal.App. 223
51 C.J. p. 537 note 59.

33. Ohio.—Collins v. Craig Shipbuilding Co., 7 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 350, 27 Ohio Cir. Ct. 802.
51 C.J. p. 537 note 60.

34. Neb.—Luedeke v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., 231 N.W. 695, 120 Neb. 124, 71 A.L.R. 912
Pa.—Lehigh Nav. Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 540, 133 Pa.Super. 67—Pennsylvania R. Company v. Public Service Commission, 64 Pa.Super. 586

35. U.S.—Knoell v. Frisco Lease, C.C.A.Okl., 78 F.2d 286—Playa De Flor Land & Imp. Co. v. U.S., D.C. Canal Zone, 70 F.Supp. 281, modified on other grounds, 160 F.2d 131—U.S. v. Certain Parcels of Land in Rapides Parish, D.C.La., 57 F.Supp. 486—Phillips v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas Ry. Co., D.C.Okl., 20 F.Supp. 498—Gates v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., D.C.Okl., 13 F.Supp. 466, appeal dismissed 79 F.2d 993
Ala.—Rowell v. Gulf, M. & O. R. Co., 28 So.2d 209, 248 Ala. 463
Ga.—Jackson v. Rogers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581—Woods v. Flanders, 181 S.E. 83, 180 Ga. 835
Ill.—Keen v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 64 N.E.2d 499, 392 Ill. 362.
Iowa.—Montgomery County v. Case, 232 N.W. 150, 212 Iowa 73
Kan.—Nott v. Beightel, 122 P.2d 747, 155 Kan. 94—Danielson v. Woestemeyer, 293 P. 507, 131 Kan. 796.
La.—Arkansas Imp. Co. v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 181 So. 445, 189 La. 921—Askew v. Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co., 132 So. 510, 171 La. 947.
Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.
Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo. 690.
Okl.—Gutensohn v. McGuirt, 147 P.2d 777, 194 Okl. 64—Higgins v. Oklahoma City, 127 P.2d 845, 191 Okl. 16, reversed on other grounds 56 S.Ct. 562, 297 U.S. 481, 80 L.Ed. 816—Cobbs v. Wiedmann, 40 P.2d 1075, 170 Okl. 493—Marland v. Gillespie, 33 P.2d 207, 168 Okl. 376.
S.C.—Groce v. Southern Ry. Co., 162 S.E. 425, 164 S.C. 427.
Tenn.—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn. 661.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Martin, 71 S.W.2d 867, 123 Tex. 383, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 121, 293 U.S. 598, 79 L.Ed. 691—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265—Texas Conservative Oil Co. v. Thompson, Civ.App., 163 S.W.2d 854, error refused—Nesral Production Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 84 S.W.2d 805, error dismissed—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Vaughan, Civ.App., 73 S.W.2d 632.
Va.—Hale v. Davis, 195 S.E. 523, 170 Va. 68
51 C.J. p. 537 note 63

"Forever in fee simple"

The use of the words "forever in fee simple," in conveyance to railroad, did not require construction that title to land rather than an easement was conveyed, but the words were potent when considered in connection with other terms of instrument in inducing holding that title was conveyed.—Jackson v. Rogers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581.

Grant by statute

Mont.—State v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 295 P. 257, 88 Mont. 529

36. U.S.—Phillips v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas Ry. Co., D.C.Okl., 20 F.Supp. 498—Gates v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., D.C.Okl., 13 F.Supp. 466, appeal dismissed 79 F.2d 993.
Ga.—Jackson v. Rogers, 54 S.E.2d 132, 205 Ga. 581.
Kan.—Nott v. Beightel, 122 P.2d 747, 155 Kan. 94.
Tenn.—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn. 661.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Vaughan, Civ.App., 73 S.W.2d 632
51 C.J. p. 537 note 64.

37. Ill.—Keen v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 64 N.E.2d 499, 392 Ill. 362.
Tenn.—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn. 661.
51 C.J. p. 538 note 65.

38. U.S.—Knoell v. Frisco Lease, C.C.A.Okl., 78 F.2d 286—Phillips v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas Ry. Co., D.C.Okl., 20 F.Supp. 498.

without purporting to convey merely a right of way,[39] or where the only reservation made is the use of the granted premises by the grantor for ingress and egress to and from adjoining lands.[40] This rule is particularly applicable under a statutory provision that every estate in land conveyed shall be deemed an estate in fee simple unless limited by express words.[41]

If the conveyance is in the form of a general warranty deed, or otherwise shows an intention to convey a fee-simple title, it will be so construed, although the instrument is entitled "deed of right of way,"[42] or employs the term "right of way" in describing the property conveyed,[43] or states that the conveyance is for railroad purposes only.[44] So, also, the fee passes under such an instrument, although the deed provides that the title conveyed is subject to forfeiture or reverter, or to a condition subsequent,[45] or the governing statute limits the authority of the company to take and hold title except for special purposes,[46] or puts it under disability to hold title to its right of way in case of long nonuser,[47] since in such cases the title passes as a fee, but a fee liable to divestment when the use of the land becomes inconsistent with the limitation of the deed or statute.[48]

Fee simple, determinable fee, or qualified fee. The distinction has been made that, where the fee is conveyed for the use and purposes of a railroad, it conveys the fee simple for purposes of alienation;[49] but for purposes of use and enjoyment it creates merely a determinable fee for as long as the land is used for railroad purposes.[50] The words "for and during the continuance" of the railroad in the habendum clause of the conveyance do not create a qualified fee, determinable by abandonment by the railroad company or its successors for railroad purposes,[51] but create a fee determinable only if and when the railroad shall cease to exist.[52]

Lease as base fee. A lease to a railroad company for an indefinite term, to continue until the happening of one of several events, which may happen

Ala.—Rowell v. Gulf, M & O. R Co., 28 So 2d 209, 248 Ala 463.
Cal.—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry Co., 102 P.2d 387, 38 Cal App.2d 659.
Ill.—Keen v Cleveland, C, C & St L. Ry Co, 64 N E 2d 499, 392 Ill 362
Kan.—Nott v. Beightel, 122 P 2d 747, 155 Kan 94.
Okl.—Higgins v. Oklahoma City, 127 P 2d 845, 191 Okl 16, reversed on other grounds 56 S Ct 562, 297 U S. 431, 80 L Ed. 816—Cobbs v Wiedmann, 40 P 2d 1075, 170 Okl 493.
Tenn.—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C. & S L Ry v. Bell, 39 S W.2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn. 661.
Tex.—Nesral Production Co v. St Louis, B & M. Ry. Co, Civ App., 84 S W.2d 805, error dismissed.
51 C J. p 538 note 66.

Recital of consideration

Where deed conveying land to railroad for right of way purports to convey the land itself, the recital of consideration which moved the grantor to make the conveyance cannot be construed as a limitation on the estate granted in lands conveyed.—Keen v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co, 64 N.E.2d 499, 392 Ill. 362.

39. U.S.—Knoell v. Frisco Lease, C. C.A.Okl., 78 F.2d 286.
Tenn.—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C. & S. L Ry. v. Bell, 39 S. W.2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn. 661.
51 C J. p 538 note 67.

40. Mass.—Battelle v. New York, etc., R. Co., 97 N.E. 1004, 211 Mass 442.
51 C.J. p 538 note 68.

41. U.S.—Kynerd v. Hulen, C.C.A Tex., 5 F 2d 160, certiorari denied 46 S Ct 20, 269 U S 560, 70 L Ed 411.
51 C J p 538 note 69.

42. Ky.—Ballard v. Louisville, etc., R. Co, 5 S W. 484, 9 Ky L. 523.

43. U S.—Polk v. Ball, C C A La., 149 F 2d 263—U. S. v Certain Parcels of Land in Rapides Parish, D C La., 57 F Supp. 486—Corpus Juris cited in Carter Oil Co v. Welker, D C.Ill., 24 F Supp 753, 756, affirmed, C.C.A., 112 F 2d 299, motion denied 62 S Ct. 122, reversed on other grounds 63 S Ct. 70, 317 U S. 592, 87 L Ed 485—Phillips v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas Ry. Co, D C. Okl., 20 F Supp. 498
Cal.—Lemon v Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., 102 P.2d 387, 38 Cal App.2d 659.
La.—Arkansas Imp. Co. v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 181 So. 445, 189 La. 921
Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R Co., 49 S W 2d 437, 121 Tex 338, 84 A L R 265
Va.—Hale v. Davis, 195 S E 523, 170 Va 68.
51 C.J. p 538 note 71.

44. U.S.—Polk v. Hall, C.C.A.La., 149 F.2d 263.
La.—Arkansas Imp. Co. v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co, 181 So. 445, 189 La. 921.
Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.
S.C.—Groce v. Southern Ry. Co, 162 S.E. 425, 164 S.C 427.
Tenn.—Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 162 Tenn 661.
51 C J. p 538 note 72.

Words considered

The words "for railroad purposes" in conveyance to railroad would be considered in construing instrument but did not require a holding that an easement rather than title was conveyed to railroad.—Jackson v Rogers, 54 S E 2d 132, 205 Ga. 581.

45. Mich.—Dolby v. Dillman, 278 N W 694, 283 Mich. 609, 117 A.L R. 538—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co, 239 N W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.
51 C J p 538 note 74.
Conditions subsequent generally see infra § 89
Loss or forfeiture of land or rights generally see infra §§ 116–120

46. Iowa.—Des Moines City R. Co. v. Des Moines, 159 N.W 450, 183 Iowa 1261, 165 N.W. 398, L.R.A 1918D 839

47. Iowa.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Churdan, 195 N.W. 996, 196 Iowa 1057.

48. Iowa.—Des Moines City R Co v. Des Moines, 159 N.W. 450, 183 Iowa 1261, 165 N.W. 398, L R.A. 1918D 839.

49. N.Y.—In re Buffalo, 99 N.E. 850, 206 N.Y 319.
51 C.J. p 538 note 78.

50. Iowa.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R Co., 1 N.W.2d 721, 231 Iowa 563.
Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.
51 C J. p 538 note 79.

51. N.J.—Camden, etc, Land Co. v. West Jersey, etc., R. Co., 105 A. 229, 92 N J.Law 385.

52. N.J.—Camden, etc., Land Co. v. West Jersey, etc., R Co., supra at any time or may never happen, so that the lease may never come to an end, has the effect of conveying a base fee.[53]

c. Easement

(1) In general

(2) Nature of easement

(1) In General

As a general rule, where land obtained by purchase or agreement is conveyed by an instrument which purports to convey a right of way only, it does not convey title to the land itself, but the railroad company acquires a mere easement in the land for right-of-way purposes.

A "right of way" in its legal and generally accepted meaning with respect to the interest of a railroad company in land is a mere easement for railroad purposes in the lands of others,[54] and, therefore, as a general rule, where land obtained by purchase or agreement is conveyed by an instrument which purports to convey a right of way only, it does not convey title to the land itself, but the railroad company acquires a mere easement in the land for right-of-way purposes,[55] leaving the fee

53. Mass.—Merrimack River Locks, etc. v Boston, etc., R. Co., 139 N. E. 839, 245 Mass 52

54. U S —Magnolia Petroleum Co v. Thompson, C C A.Mo., 106 F 2d 217, 226, reversed on other grounds Thompson v Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S Ct 628, 309 U S 478, 84 L Ed. 876

Md.—Richfield Oil Corp. of New York v. Chesapeake & C. B. R Co., 20 A 2d 581, 588, 179 Md 560

Mo.—Corpus Juris quoted in University City v Chicago, R. I. & P Ry. Co., 149 S W 2d 321, 325, 347 Mo 814—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S W 2d 503, 506, 347 Mo. 690—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Griffith, 114 S W 2d 976, 978, 342 Mo. 229.

Tenn.—Corpus Juris quoted in Baird v. Southern Ry. Co., 166 S W.2d 617, 618, 179 Tenn. 366—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C. & S L. Ry v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn 661.

51 C J. p 539 note 84

"Right of way" defined generally see supra § 1.

May mean easement

In railroad parlance, "right of way," when meaning legal right to use land on which track is laid, may mean easement.—Quinn v Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N W. 376, 379, 256 Mich. 143.

55. U.S.—East Alabama Ry Co. v. Doe, Ala., 5 S Ct 869, 114 U.S 340, 29 L.Ed 136—Polk v Ball, C C.A La., 149 F 2d 263—In re Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A Ill., 127 F.2d 1001, certiorari denied Thomson v Hicks, 63 S Ct. 59, 317 U.S. 659, 87 L Ed. 530, rehearing denied 63 S Ct 155, 317 U S 708, 87 L.Ed. 564—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C C.A.Mo., 106 F.2d 217, reversed on other grounds, Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L Ed 876

Ark.—St Louis-San Francisco Ry Co. v White, 132 S.W 2d 807, 199 Ark 56.

Cal.—Moakley v. Los Angeles Pac Ry. Co., 34 P.2d 218, 139 Cal App. 421

Ga.—Byrd v. Goodman, 25 S.E 2d 34, 195 Ga 621—Jackson v Crutchfield, 191 S E 468, 184 Ga 412—Rogers v Pitchford, 184 S E 623, 181 Ga 845

Ill.—Cleveland, C., C & St L. Ry. Co v. Central Illinois Public Service Co., 43 N E 2d 993, 380 Ill. 130—Tallman v. Eastern Illinois & Peoria R Co., 41 N E 2d 537, 379 Ill 441—Woodward Governor Co v City of Loves Park, Winnebago County, 82 N E 2d 387, 335 Ill.App. 528.

Ky.—Sherman v. Petroleum Exploration, 132 S W 2d 768, 280 Ky 105, 132 A L R. 137—Mammoth Cave Nat Park Ass'n v. State Highway Commission, 88 S W.2d 931, 261 Ky 769.

La.—Rock Island, A. & L. R Co v Gournay, 17 So 2d 21, 205 La 164—Texas & Pac. Ry. Co v Ellerbe, 6 So 2d 556, 199 La 489—Noel Estate v. Kansas City Southern & Gulf Ry. Co., 175 So. 468, 187 La 717—Bond v. Texas & P. R. Co., 160 So. 406, 181 La 763—Persigo v. Johnson & Co., App., 18 So 2d 186.

Md.—Richfield Oil Corp of New York v Chesapeake & C B R. Co., 20 A.2d 581, 179 Md 560—Hodges v. Owings, 13 A 2d 338, 178 Md 300.

Miss.—Williams v. Patterson, 21 So. 2d 477, 198 Miss 120.

Mo.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R 286—Corpus Juris quoted in University City v. Chicago, R I. & P. R. Co., 149 S W 2d 321, 325, 347 Mo. 814—Corpus Juris quoted in State ex rel State Highway Commission v. Union Electric Co. of Missouri, 148 S.W.2d 503, 505, 347 Mo 690—State ex rel State Highway Commission v. Griffith, 114 S W.2d 976, 342 Mo. 229—Broderick v. Tyer, 187 S.W.2d 476, 239 Mo.App. 118.

N.J.—Lee v. Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, 20 A.2d 71, 129 N. J Eq. 530.

Ohio.—Hinman v. Barnes, 66 N.E.2d 911, 146 Ohio St 497.

Okl.—Kansas, O. & G Ry Co. v. Rogers, 191 P.2d 209, 200 Okl 111.

Pa.—Dalton St Ry Co v Commonwealth, 53 Pa Dist. & Co. 650, 46 Lack Jur 209.

Tenn.—Corpus Juris quoted in Baird v Southern Ry Co., 166 S W 2d 617, 618, 179 Tenn. 366—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry v. Bell, 39 S W 2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn 661—Corpus Juris cited in City of Knoxville v. Phillips, 36 S W 2d 434, 435, 162 Tenn. 328—Corpus Juris quoted in Pemberton v. Southern Ry. Co., 34 S W.2d 444, 445, 162 Tenn. 65—Croft v. Gentry, App., 232 S W 2d 424—Summers v. Linx, 84 S W.2d 1043, 19 Tenn App 245

Tex.—Boles v. Red, Civ.App., 227 S W 2d 310, refused no reversible error—Peterson v. Holland, Civ App., 189 S.W 2d 94, error refused—Penn v Holland, Civ.App., 105 S W 2d 351, error refused—Houston & T C. R Co. v. Contral Texas Securities Corporation, Civ.App., 68 S W 2d 585.

51 C J p 539 note 85.

In the construction of a deed conveying land to a railroad for "railroad right of way," the quoted words could not be rejected as surplusage, since it is presumed that no clause or word in a deed was used without meaning or intent, and words could be considered as a declaration of purpose or use to be made of the land.—Sherman v. Petroleum Exploration, 132 S.W.2d 768, 280 Ky. 105, 132 A.L R. 137.

Floating easement

Grant by deed of a right of way through certain land reserving to grantor the privilege of using timber and cultivating parts not used in operation of railroad and identifying no particular strip with a certainty required by conveyance of a fee, created only a floating easement or right of user.—New Orleans & N. E. R. R. v. Morrison, 35 So 2d 68, 208 Miss. 791.

Grant of fee not implied

Miss.—New Orleans & N. E. R. R. v. Morrison, supra.

subject to such servitude in the owner,[56] particularly where the deed provides for reverter to the grantor if the land is not used for such purposes.[57] This rule applies, although the conveyance, for right of way purposes only, is in the usual form of a general warranty deed,[58] particularly under a statute which authorizes the railroad company to acquire land only for the purposes of constructing, maintaining, and operating a railroad,[59] since, although the language used in the granting part of the deed and in the habendum is appropriate and that commonly used to convey the fee, the clause descriptive of the use to be made of the land may so limit or qualify the grant as to change it from a fee to an easement.[60]

An easement only is conveyed under such a grant or conveyance, however extensive its duration,[61] and however exclusive and paramount may be the rights conveyed,[62] and although the agreement to convey provides for the execution of a deed in fee simple.[63] Such a grant or conveyance is not enlarged by a clause giving the company the right to take and use timber, earth, stone, and mineral within the right of way.[64]

On the other hand, in at least one jurisdiction, a railroad right of way, which may be acquired by purchase or condemnation, vests a fee in the company acquiring it.[65]

Under an implied grant, which arises, under some charters or statutes, from the company's taking possession and constructing its road without any contract with the owner, and without the owner taking steps to have his damages assessed within a specified time, the railroad company acquires only an easement in the land on which it has constructed its road.[66]

Voluntary grant. Under a statutory provision that real estate received by voluntary grant to a railroad company shall be held and used for the purpose of the grant only, a deed to a railroad company conveys an easement only.[67]

56. U S —Magnolia Petroleum Co v Thompson, C C A Mo, 106 F 2d 217, reversed on other grounds, Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co, 60 S Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L Ed 876
Md.—Richfield Oil Corp. of New York v. Chesapeake & C B. R Co, 20 A.2d 581, 179 Md 560
Mo —Brown v. Weare, 152 S W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A L.R 286—Corpus Juris quoted in University City v Chicago, R I. & P Ry Co, 149 S.W 2d 321, 325, 347 Mo. 814
Ohio —Cincinnati, etc, R. Co. v Wachter, 70 N E 974, 70 Ohio St 113—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Kearns, 48 N E 2d 1012, 71 Ohio App 209.
Tenn —Corpus Juris quoted in Baird v Southern Ry Co, 166 S.W.2d 617, 618, 179 Tenn 366—Corpus Juris quoted in Nashville, C & S L. Ry v Bell, 39 S W 2d 1026, 1028, 162 Tenn 661—Corpus Juris quoted in Pemberton v. Southern Ry Co, 34 S W 2d 444, 445, 162 Tenn 65—Summers v. Linx, 84 S.W.2d 1043, 19 Tenn App 245.
51 C J. p 539 note 85.

Highway rule applicable
The rule that in the absence of evidence to contrary the title to the fee of a highway is presumed to be in the abutting owners and that the title of each extends to the center of the way and that such presumption may be rebutted by evidence to show that the entire way has been taken from the land of only one of the abutting owners applies to land acquired by railroad for railroad purposes —Brown v. Weare, 152 S W 2d. 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L R. 286.

57. Cal —Moakley v. Los Angeles Pac Ry. Co, 34 P 2d 218, 139 Cal. App 421.
Ill —Woodward Governor Co. v City of Loves Park, Winnebago County, 82 N E 2d 387, 335 Ill App. 528
La —Noel Estate v. Kansas City Southern & Gulf Ry Co., 175 So. 468, 187 La 717.
Mo —Corpus Juris quoted in University City v Chicago, R. I. & P Ry Co, 149 S W.2d 321, 325, 347 Mo 814.
Tenn —Corpus Juris quoted in Pemberton v. Southern Ry. Co, 34 S. W 2d 444, 445, 162 Tenn. 65.
51 C.J. p 540 note 87.

58. U S.—Polk v. Ball, C.C A La, 149 F 2d 263—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C C.A Mo., 106 F 2d 217, reversed on other grounds, Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co, 60 S Ct. 628, 309 U. S 478, 84 L.Ed 876.
Ky —Sherman v. Petroleum Exploration, 132 S.W 2d 768, 280 Ky. 105, 132 A L R. 137—Mammoth Cave Nat Park Ass'n v. State Highway Commission, 88 S W 2d 931, 261 Ky. 769.
Mo —Corpus Juris quoted in University City v. Chicago, R. I. & P Ry Co., 149 S W.2d 321, 325, 347 Mo 814—State ex rel. State Highway Commission v Griffith, 114 S W 2d 976, 342 Mo. 229.
51 C J p 540 note 88.

59. Mo —Corpus Juris quoted in University City v Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry Co, 149 S.W.2d 321, 325, 347 Mo. 814—Chouteau v. Missouri Pac R Co, 22 S.W. 458, 30 S.W 299, 122 Mo 375.

60. U S —Polk v. Ball, C.C.A La, 149 F 2d 263.
Ky —Sherman v Petroleum Exploration, 132 S W 2d 768, 280 Ky. 105, 132 A L R. 137.
La —Noel Estate v. Kansas City Southern & Gulf Ry. Co., 175 So. 468, 187 La. 717.
51 C J p 540 note 90.

61. La.—Persigo v. Johnson & Co, App, 18 So.2d 186
51 C.J. p 540 note 91.

62. Ga —Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Coffee County, 110 S E. 214, 152 Ga. 432.
51 C J. p 540 note 92.

63. Iowa —Ottumwa, etc, R. Co. v. McWilliams, 32 N.W. 315, 71 Iowa 164
51 C J. p 540 note 93

64. Tex.—Gladys City Oil, etc, Mfg. Co. v. Right of Way Oil Co., Civ. App., 137 S.W. 171, affirmed 157 S. W. 737, 106 Tex. 94, 51 L.R A.,N S, 268.
51 C J. p 540 note 94.

65. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v Duval County, 154 So. 331, 114 Fla. 254.

66. N.C —Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C 589.
51 C J. p 540 note 96.

67. Mo —Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W 2d 649, 348 Mo 135, 136 A L R 286 —Coates v. Hopkins Realty Co, 43 S W.2d 817, 328 Mo. 1113—Allen v. Beasley, 249 S W. 387, 297 Mo. 544

Deed held voluntary grant
A deed to a railroad of land for station grounds and for railroad purposes was a voluntary grant within

(2) Nature of Easement

An easement acquired by a railroad company for a right of way is more than a mere "easement" in the strict technical sense of the term, and differs therefrom in important respects.

An easement acquired by a railroad company for a right of way is more than a mere "easement" in the strict technical sense of the term,[68] and differs therefrom in important respects.[69] It is in the nature of an interest in the land of a special and exclusive nature,[70] and also an encumbrance thereon,[71] and generally leaves the remaining fee of nominal value only.[72] Except where it is granted for a limited term only,[73] it includes the actual possession or right to actual possession of the entire surface[74] and has, as to its use and enjoyment, the attributes of a fee,[75] including perpetuity, in that as long as the land is used for railroad right-of-way purposes, it continues in the railroad company,[76] its successors and assigns,[77] even after the time limited by the charter of the company for its corporate existence has expired.[78]

As public easement. Although a railroad right of way is not strictly a public easement, it possesses some characteristics thereof, in that the use is a public one;[79] but the company has no such broad easement in its right of way as a city has in its streets.[80]

§ 85. —— By Mere Use or Adverse Possession.

A mere easement is generally acquired by a railroad company where the land is acquired by occupancy for a right of way without condemnation proceedings and without any contract with the owner.

A mere easement is generally acquired where the land is acquired by occupancy for a right of way without condemnation proceedings and without any contract with the owner,[81] as where it is acquired by adverse possession or prescription,[82] but there is also authority to the contrary.[83] the statute, and was not removed therefrom by express consideration of one dollar—Brown v Weare, 152 S W 2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L R 286.

68. Mo.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S W 2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A L.R. 286. 51 C J. p 540 note 98.

Not tenant of owner

A railroad does not possess its right of way as tenant of the owner of the land so as to enable owner to rely on possession of railroad to defeat a title by adverse possession, but railroad only exercises its own easement, and its possession is in its own right without reference to the servient estate—Federal Crude Oil Co v Yount-Lee Oil Co., C.C A. Tex, 103 F 2d 171, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 96, 308 U S. 579, 84 L Ed 485.

69. Mo.—Brown v Weare, 152 S W 2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A L R. 286 51 C.J. p 540 note 99.

70. Mo—Brown v Weare, supra. 51 C.J. p 540 note 1.

Nature of corporeal estate

The term "easement" as applied to the interest in land which a railroad acquires for right of way and railroad purposes is a term of convenience and is not used in its technical and limited sense, and in some respects such interest which has been referred to as a special peculiar interest, subject to its own rules, partakes of the nature of a corporeal estate—Brown v. Weare, supra.

71. Minn—Delisha v Minneapolis, etc, Electric Tract. Co, 126 N.W 276, 110 Minn. 518, 27 L.R A, N S, 963.

72. Minn—Delisha v Minneapolis, etc., Electric Tract Co, supra 51 C.J. p 540 note 3

Little or no value

U S—Polk v Ball, C C A.La, 149 F. 2d 263.

73. S C—Griffin v Charleston, etc, R Co, 128 S E 855, 132 S C. 492 51 C J p 540 note 4

74. Ala—Sadler v Alabama Great Southern R Co, 85 So. 380, 204 Ala 155.

Exclusiveness of possession and use see infra § 100

75. Ark—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co v. White, 132 S W 2d 807, 199 Ark 56.

Ill—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co, 47 N.E.2d 115, 317 Ill.App 501, reversed on other grounds 51 N E 2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L R 369. 51 C J. p 541 note 6.

76. U.S—Magnolia Petroleum Co v. Thompson, C C A.Mo., 106 F 2d 217, reversed on other grounds, Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L Ed 876.

Ark—St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. White, 132 S W.2d 807, 199 Ark. 56.

Cal.—Corpus Juris cited in City of San Gabriel v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 18 P.2d 996, 998, 129 Cal App. 460.

Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 51 N.E 2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A L R. 369.

Ky—Sherman v. Petroleum Exploration, 132 S.W.2d 768, 280 Ky. 105, 132 A.L.R. 137.

51 C.J. p 541 note 7.

77. Cal.—Northwestern Pac. R Co v. Humboldt Milling Co., 200 P. 9, 186 Cal 599.

78. Iowa—Henry v. Dubuque, etc, R Co, 2 Iowa 288.

79. N.Y—Atlantic Mills v. New York Cent R Co, 214 N.Y S 123, 126 Misc 349, reversed on other grounds 223 N Y S. 206, 221 App Div 886, affirmed 162 N E 514, 248 N Y 535.

80. Tenn—Western Union Tel. Co v Nashville, etc, R Co, 237 S. W. 64, 145 Tenn 85, certiorari denied 42 S Ct. 382, 258 U S. 626, 66 L.Ed. 798.

81. Ariz—Boyd v Atchison, T. & S. F Ry. Co., 4 P.2d 670, 39 Ariz 154.

La—Gumbel v New Orleans Terminal Co., 173 So. 518, 186 La 882

N C—Carolina & N. W Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg Co., 51 S E 2d 301, 229 N C 695. 51 C.J p 541 note 14.

82. Cal—People v Ocean Shore R R, 196 P 2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406, 6 A L R.2d 1179.

Tex—International-Great Northern R Co. v. John T. Brady Corporation, Com.App, 283 S.W. 484. 51 C J. p 541 note 15

Acquisition by adverse possession generally see supra § 75.

Title or right acquired by adverse possession generally see Adverse Possession §§ 199–208.

Color of title

Inapplicable charter provisions of different railroad was not color of title sufficient to base adverse possession of right of way—Willard v. Southern Ry. Co, 155 S.E. 833, 158 S.C. 522.

83. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Noyes, 96 N E. 830, 252 Ill. 178. 51 C.J. p 541 note 16.

§ 86. —— Rights in Adjoining Lands

The grant of a railroad right of way confers the right to make a reasonable use of the adjoining land of the same owner, for the purposes expressed in the grant or deed, and for such other purposes as may be reasonably necessary for the enjoyment of the grant or license.

The grant of a railroad right of way confers the right to make a reasonable use of the adjoining land of the same owner, for the purposes expressed in the grant or deed,[84] and for such other purposes as may be reasonably necessary for the enjoyment of the grant or license,[85] such as for the widening and deepening of streams on adjoining land so as to secure the railroad and the adjoining land from damage by washing.[86] It does not, however, give the company the right to use the adjoining land for purposes neither expressed in the grant nor reasonably necessary thereto.[87] Thus a grant "for all purposes connected with the construction, use, and occupation" of the right of way confers no right to take sand therefrom for the construction of a roundhouse without compensating the owner of the land therefor;[88] nor in the absence of agreement has the company a right to go outside its right of way and take sand, gravel, or other material for the construction of its road,[89] nor has it the right to deposit large quantities of earth, rock, and waste matter from other portions of its right of way on land beyond the line of the slope or embankment contemplated by the owner's grant.[90]

Changing watercourse. Where a railroad company, by agreement with the landowner, for an adequate consideration has rightfully turned the course of a stream, it is not obliged to observe the action of the water, or take other timely measures to protect adjoining land;[91] but it is the duty of the landowner thereafter to do what is necessary to protect the bank of the stream on his land against erosion, and he cannot hold the company liable therefor.[92]

Cutting timber. Where a railroad company in good faith, under a supposed charter or statutory authority, enters on and uses adjoining land for the purpose of cutting timber, but without a right to do so, it will be liable for the actual damage sustained by the landowner,[93] but not for a statutory penalty of treble damages.[94]

Drainage. A railroad company has also been held to have the incidental right to make carefully constructed ditches and culverts for draining water from the right of way,[95] subject, however, to the limitation that it be done without negligence and unnecessary injury to the adjoining land.[96] On the other hand it has been held that a grant of a right of way does not carry, as incident thereto, any right on the part of the company to discharge onto the land surface water collected by drainage,[97] or to construct a grade in such a manner as to throw surface water on the grantor's property to its injury.[98]

Right of way for servants. A voucher showing that a railroad company, which laid out a highway over another's land, had paid damages for the taking of the land, and for injury to the remaining land, does not of itself show that the servants of the railroad company were entitled to cross the owner's other property for the purpose of reaching the new highway.[99]

Temporary structures Under some charters or statutes a railroad company or contractor may enter on and use such adjoining land as is reasonably necessary for temporary buildings or structures while constructing the road.[1]

§ 87. —— Priority of Right

Where a railroad acquires title by purchase, it is governed by the same principles as private persons with respect to the priority of its right or title, such as in claiming compensation for improvements put on the land of which it is deprived.

Where a railroad company acquires title by pur-

84. Conn—Earley v. Hall, 95 A. 2, 89 Conn. 606.
51 C.J. p 541 note 17.

85. Mass—Babcock v. Western R Corp, 9 Metc 553, 43 Am D. 411.

86. Mass—Babcock v. Western R Corp, supra.

87. Ala—Whitewater Lumber Co. v. Prather, 100 So. 549, 211 Ala. 361.
51 C.J. p 542 note 21.

88. Iowa—Vermilya v Chicago, etc., R Co., 24 N.W. 234, 66 Iowa 606, 55 Am.R. 279.

89. Pa.—Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R Co, 58 A. 486, 209 Pa 256, 103 Am S R 1005
51 C J p 542 note 23

90. Pa—Bigham v. Pittsburg Constr, Co., 29 Pa Super. 86.
51 C J. p 542 note 24

91. W Va—Briscoe Home v Ohio River R Co, 89 S E 727, 78 W.Va. 502, L R A 1916F 1294.

92. W.Va—Briscoe Home v. Ohio River R Co, supra.

93. Mo—Lindell v. Hannibal, etc., R Co., 25 Mo. 550.

94. Mo.—Lindell v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., supra.

95. Mass—Babcock v Western R. Corp, 9 Metc. 553, 43 Am.D 411
N C—Parks v Southern R. Co, 55 S E 701, 143 N C. 289, 12 L R A.,N. S, 680
Covenant or condition as to culverts, ditches, and drains see infra § 91.

96. N C—Parks, v. Southern R. Co, supra

97. Iowa—Earhart v. Cowles, 97 N. W. 1085, 122 Iowa 194

98. Ky—Childers v. Louisville, etc, R. Co., 74 S.W. 241, 24 Ky.L. 2375.

99. Vt.—Rogers v. Bigelow, 96 A. 417, 90 Vt. 41.

1. Pa—Lauderbrun v. Duffy, 2 Pa. 398.

chase, it is governed by the same principles as private individuals, with respect to the priority of its right or title,[2] such as in claiming compensation for improvements put on the land of which it is deprived.[3] The possession by a railroad company of its right of way is notice to all subsequent purchasers or encumbrancers of its rights in the premises.[4] The right or title of a railroad company in a right of way legally acquired by it is superior to that of a lessee of the land whose lease has expired, although such lessee purchases the land before the expiration of the lease, but after the grant of the right of way;[5] or to a lease made subsequent to its entry with the owner's consent;[6] or to a subsequent dedication of the right of way[7] or a part thereof[8] for the purposes of a street; or to subsequent purchasers with notice from the landowner.[9]

Existing rights and liens. A private conveyance to a railroad company for a right of way conveys it subject to all inchoate rights and liens existing at the time of the conveyance,[10] such as a covenant running with the land.[11] Where the owner of the fee of land already encumbered for purchase money conveys a right of way over it to a railroad company which takes possession and constructs its road under such conveyance, the lienor can claim his full compensation from the railroad company for the land conveyed to, and appropriated by, it.[12] It has been held that in such a case the lienor is not entitled to sell the land with the improvements thereon in satisfaction of his lien;[13] but on the other hand it has been held that, if the company purchases and constructs a part of its road on land which is subject to judgment liens, the land with the improvements thereon may be sold to satisfy the liens.[14]

§ 38. Exceptions and Reservations

a. In general
b. Private way or crossing
c. Exception or reservation of railroad right of way

a. In General

A railroad company may accept a conveyance of land or right of way subject to such exceptions or reservations contained therein as are not inconsistent with the use of the land or right of way for railroad purposes.

A railroad company may accept a conveyance of land or right of way subject to such exceptions or reservations contained therein as are not inconsistent with the use of the land or right of way for railroad purposes,[15] and where such a grant or conveyance is made, the general rules apply as to the creation and nature of the exceptions or reservations,[16] and as to their construction and operation,[17] such as that they relate only to the property conveyed.[18] If the company accepts and holds under such deed, it is bound by the exceptions contained therein,[19] notwithstanding it has otherwise acquired an absolute right to use the lands.[20] Under such a grant the railroad company has title to

2. U.S.—Clarke v. Boysen, C.C.A. Wyo., 39 F.2d 800.
Va.—Fulkerson v. Taylor, 46 S.E. 309, 102 Va. 314.
Conflicting locations see supra §§ 71, 72.

3. Va.—Fulkerson v. Taylor, supra.

4. Ariz.—Boyd v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 4 P.2d 670, 39 Ariz. 154.
51 C.J. p. 543 note 40.

5. Tex.—Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 33 S.W. 139, 11 Tex. Civ.App. 208.
51 C.J. p. 543 note 41.

6. Ark.—Caststeel v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 99 S.W. 540, 81 Ark. 364.

7. Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. City of Eagle Pass, Com. App., 260 S.W. 841.

8. Pa.—Nalley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 35 A. 638, 177 Pa. 117.
51 C.J. p. 543 note 43.

9. Md.—Richfield Oil Corp. of New York v. Chesapeake & C. B. R. Co., 20 A.2d 581, 179 Md. 560
51 C.J. p. 543 note 44.

10. Ky.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Slaughter, 104 S.W. 293, 31 Ky.L. 894.
51 C.J. p. 543 note 45.

11. N.Y.—Flynn v. New York, etc., R. Co., 123 N.Y.S. 759, 139 App. Div. 199.

12. Ala.—Gadsden First Nat. Bank v. Thompson, 22 So. 668, 116 Ala. 166.
51 C.J. p. 544 note 47.

13. Ala.—Gadsden First Nat. Bank v. Thompson, supra.

14. Va.—Flanary v. Kane, 46 S.E. 312, 681, 102 Va. 547.
51 C.J. p. 544 note 49.

15. Mich.—Hustina v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., 6 N.W.2d 902, 303 Mich. 581.
Mo.—Granite Bituminous Paving Co. v. St. Louis & M. R. R. Co., 55 S.W.2d 468, 331 Mo. 899, followed in Granite Bituminous Paving Co. v. Meryl Realty & Investment Co., 55 S.W.2d 473
51 C.J. p. 544 note 51.

16. Ill.—Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 N.E. 840, 219 Ill. 584.
51 C.J. p. 544 note 53.

Right of reentry
Where wife and husband made quitclaim deed conveying land to railroad for right of way and reserved right of reentry should property cease to be used for such purposes, wife's subsequent deed to third person did not transfer right of reentry.—Oklahoma City v. Wainwright, 197 P.2d 956, 200 Okl. 552.

17. Ga.—Tift v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 30 S.E. 266, 103 Ga. 580.
51 C.J. p. 544 note 54.

Provision held void
Provision in deed to railroad company that land should not be sold or leased without consent of grantor or his heirs has been held void.—Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W. 2d 1026, 162 Tenn. 661.

18. Me.—Brown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 76 A. 692, 106 Me. 248.
51 C.J. p. 544 note 55.

19. Fla.—Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 34 So. 884, 45 Fla. 559.
51 C.J. p. 544 note 56.

20. Mass.—White v. New York, etc., R. Co., 30 N.E. 612, 156 Mass. 181.

the land or right of way subject to the exceptions or reservations specified,[21] and is entitled to use and enjoy the land conveyed in all lawful ways not inconsistent with the rights excepted or reserved;[22] and, on the other hand, the grantor must exercise the rights reserved so as not to interfere with the railroad,[23] unless the right to do so is reserved by either express words or necessary implication.[24]

Subject to these rules, grants have been made reserving an easement to the grantor,[25] such as to the use and occupancy of a spring or stream,[26] or the use or cultivation of the outside portion of the right of way,[27] or of that portion of the land which is not actually used and occupied by the company.[28]

Exception and condition. A grant of a railroad right of way excepting a certain plant with the land it occupies, as long as it is used as such, conveys at most a possibility of title following a breach of the condition for continuous use of the plant;[29] and therefore, where the railroad company claims title, the burden is not on the grantor to show a continuous use,[30] but on the company to show a breach of the condition,[31] and the railroad company cannot by destroying the plant without authority work a forfeiture of the grantor's rights and acquire title to the land, since the latter's failure to fulfill the condition is caused by the company.[32]

As to grantor's successors or subsequent grantees. A reservation of a right to use portions of the railroad right of way will not extend beyond the grantor's own life,[33] unless the reservation contains words of limitation or inheritance;[34] or unless the reservation is in the nature of a covenant running with the land.[35]

b. Private Way or Crossing

Clauses in deeds which reserve to the grantor a right of way for passing over and across the railroad have been held binding on the railroad company.

Clauses in deeds which reserve to the grantor a right of way for passing over and across the railroad have been held binding on the railroad company,[36] and the character and extent of such right of way depend on the terms of the reservation,[37] the railroad company has no right in constructing and maintaining its road to interfere with the grantor's reasonable use of the right of way so reserved.[38] Such a reservation does not entitle the landowner to cross over any and every part of the right of way, but only to such a crossing as is reasonably necessary,[39] and where a definite place is to be selected, after selection there is no

21. U S—Iowa R, etc, Co v. Chicago, etc, R Co, Iowa, 241 F. 581, 154 C C A 357.
51 C J. p 544 note 58.

22. Mo—Porter v. Kansas City, etc, R Co., 77 S.W 582, 103 Mo. App 422
N Y—Matthews v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co, 20 Hun 427.

23. Fla—Silver Springs, etc, R. Co v Van Ness, 34 So 884, 45 Fla 559.

24. Fla—Silver Springs, etc., R Co. v. Van Ness, supra.

25. Mich.—Hustina v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co, 6 N W.2d 902, 303 Mich 581.
51 C J. p 544 note 62.

Loss of easement
An easement of way from and to rear portion of lot, reserved in deed of right of way to railroad, was not lost by mere nonuser in absence of proof of clear and decisive act of dominant owner showing intention to abandon and release such right —Hustina v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co, supra.

26. Ind—Smith v. Holloway, 24 N. E. 886, 124 Ind 329
51 C J. p 544 note 63.

27. Ind—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wood, 66 N E. 923, 30 Ind App. 650.

28. U S—Iowa R., etc., Co. v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, Iowa, 241 F. 581, 154 C C A 357.

29. N Y—Walker v Marcellus, etc, R Co, 166 N Y.S. 354, 179 App Div. 313, affirmed, 123 N.E 736, 226 N. Y. 347.

30. N Y.—Walker v. Marcellus, etc, R. Co, supra.

31. N.Y—Walker v. Marcellus, etc, R. Co, supra.

32. N Y—Walker v. Marcellus, etc., R. Co, supra

33. U S.—Iowa R, etc, Co. v. Chicago, etc, R Co, Iowa, 241 F. 581, 154 C C A 357.

34. U S—Iowa R, etc, Co. v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, supra

35. U.S—Ferguson v Omaha, etc., R Co, Neb, 227 F 513, 142 C.C.A 145.

36. Ind—New York Cent. R. Co v. Yarian, 39 N E 2d 604, 219 Ind. 477, 139 A.L R. 455.
Mich—Hustina v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., 6 N.W.2d 902, 303 Mich 581
Or—Butcher v. Flagg, 203 P.2d 651, 185 Or 471.
51 C J p 545 note 76.
Covenant or condition to maintain private or farm crossing see infra § 94.

37. Mich—Hustina v Grand Trunk Western R. Co., 6 N.W.2d 902, 303 Mich. 581
51 C.J. p 545 note 77.

Public crossing not established
Where grant to railroad of right of way for its tracks reserved a crossing at grade, the reservation did not inure to benefit of public and did not establish a public crossing —Butcher v. Flagg, 203 P.2d 651, 185 Or 471

Underground conduit
(1) A conveyance of strip of land across farm to railroad as right of way, which reserved to grantor right to maintain two farm crossings over right of way, is broad enough to permit installation of an underground conduit for purpose of supplying electricity to farm of grantor for domestic and farm purposes.—New York Cent R Co. v. Yarian, Ind, 39 N E 2d 604, 219 Ind. 477, 139 A L R 455.

(2) Where deed provided that railroad should maintain crossing, railroad was not required to maintain conduit and electric wires transporting electricity to farm for farm and domestic purposes, since such a structure would be more in the nature of a vehicle—New York Cent R. Co v Yarian, supra.

38. Mo—Porter v. Kansas City, etc., R Co, 77 S.W 582, 103 Mo App 422
51 C J. p 545 note 78.

39. Ky—Chesapeake, etc, R Co. v. Richardson, 98 S.W. 1042, 30 Ky. L. 426.

right to pass over any other part of the right of way [40]

A reservation of a right to cross the railroad right of way with roadways of any and every character includes crossings by the grantor's industrial plant railway,[41] and imposes a servitude by way of affirmative easement benefiting the remaining lands and the industrial use thereof by the grantor by the commission of acts on the land granted.[42] Such a reservation is not modified by the grantor's amicable construction of overhead and underground electric power lines across the railroad right of way, so as to prohibit crossing by a plant railway at grade;[43] and where such grade crossing is approved by the public utilities commission, the grantor is entitled to maintain it as a matter of right.[44] The grantor's enjoyment of such right is not affected by his failure to comply with a statutory requirement with respect to the plant locomotives and equipment operated across the railroad right of way.[45]

Implied reservation. Where the conveyance to the railroad company is absolute without reservation, there is no implied reservation of an existing private roadway or crossing,[46] unless it is necessary as an outlet to a public road or railroad [47] Therefore, where a landowner with an easement across a railroad track conveys an additional right of way unconditionally and without reservation of the easement across the newly conveyed tract of land, he cannot maintain an action for the obstruction of the old crossing by a change in the grade of the railroad, where another crossing on his land is available to him.[48]

c. Exception or Reservation of Railroad Right of Way

It has been held that a deed from the landowner to a third person excepting the part of the land occupied by a railroad right of way excepts the soil itself, and not merely the right of way, and on its abandonment for railroad purposes it does not revert to the grantee.

It has been held that a deed from the landowner to a third person excepting the part of the land occupied by a railroad right of way excepts the soil itself,[49] and not merely the right of way,[50] and such an exception is not repugnant to the grant,[51] and the title to the land excepted remains in the grantor,[52] and, on its abandonment for railway purposes, does not revert to the grantee [53] On the other hand, it has been held that where a landowner conveys land to a third person excepting a railroad right of way and station grounds he does not retain title to the servient estate.[54] A deed given, subject to an agreement for a railroad right of way, does not except the right of way from the terms of the grant,[55] unless it is so agreed between the grantor and the grantee;[56] and an exception of rights of way now located over the land does not apply to a railroad company occupying the land as a trespasser [57] So, where a conveyance is made subject to all rights of way over such property, the rights of way do not include a portion of the tract claimed by a railroad company as depot grounds.[58]

§ 89. Covenants and Conditions

A railroad company may accept a conveyance on any covenant or condition which may be lawfully annexed to an ordinary grant and which is reasonable and possible to be performed.

A railroad company in buying land as an ordinary purchaser may make its own terms,[59] and may ac-

40. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, supra.
51 C.J. p 545 note 80

41. Mich.—Michigan Limestone, etc., Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 213 N. W. 96, 238 Mich. 221.

42. Mich.—Michigan Limestone, etc., Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., supra.

43. Mich.—Michigan Limestone, etc., Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., supra.

44. Mich.—Michigan Limestone, etc., Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., supra.

45. Mich.—Michigan Limestone, etc., Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., supra.

46. Ga.—Carlton v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 85 S.E. 863, 143 Ga. 516, Ann Cas 1917A 497.
51 C.J. p 545 note 86

47. N.Y.—Birkett Mills v. Fenner, 142 N.Y.S. 1045.
51 C J p 545 note 87.

48. Ky.—Witt v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 270 S.W. 732, 208 Ky. 126—McGurn v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 198 S.W. 222, 177 Ky. 835

49. Iowa.—Hall v. Wabash R. Co., 110 N.W. 1039, 133 Iowa 714

50. Iowa.—Hall v. Wabash R. Co., supra
Ky.—Corpus Juris quoted in Marr v. Wood, 141 S.W.2d 573, 576, 283 Ky. 428

51. Iowa.—Hall v. Wabash R. Co., 110 N.W. 1039, 133 Iowa 714

52. Iowa.—Hall v. Wabash R. Co., supra
51 C.J. p 546 note 93.

53. Iowa.—Hall v. Wabash R. Co., supra

54. Mo.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W. 2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R. 286.
Where owner had conveyed easement in land for railroad purposes and in conveying the land subsequently excepted from grant land covered by easement, it was not intention of owner to retain title to the servient estate in the strip over which the right of way ran while disposing of the abutting land, since "right of way" has two meanings in railroad parlance, as the strip of land on which the track is laid, and the legal right to use such strip, and, hence, owner must have intended to except the use only.—Brown v. Weare, supra.

55. Ill.—Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 N.E. 840, 219 Ill. 584.
51 C.J. p 546 note 95

56. Wis.—Barkhausen v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 N.W. 649, 125 N. W. 680, 142 Wis. 292.
51 C J p 546 note 96.

57. Iowa.—Clark v. Wabash R. Co., 109 N.W. 309, 132 Iowa 11.
51 C J. p 546 note 97.

58. Iowa.—Mead v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 83 N.W. 979, 112 Iowa 291.

59. Or.—Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Mccept a conveyance on any covenant or condition in writing,[60] which may be lawfully annexed to an ordinary grant,[61] and which is reasonable and possible to be performed;[62] and such a contract may create an estate less than a fee in land taken for a right of way.[63] Such conditions and covenants are governed by the rules regulating covenants and conditions in deeds generally, as in respect of whether the deed contains a particular covenant or condition,[64] and as to the construction and operation thereof,[65] as to whether the terms of the grant or conveyance, as showing the intention of the parties, create a condition precedent, the performance of which is essential before the railroad company can claim title or assert any rights under the deed,[66] or whether they create a condition subsequent, a breach of which renders the company's right or title, which has already vested, subject to forfeiture, at the election of the grantor,[67] or whether they create merely a covenant or limitation, a breach of which does not invalidate the deed but merely entitles the grantor to damages.[68] Where the language used in the deed is ambiguous and may import a condition subsequent or a covenant, it will be construed to be the latter in preference to the former.[69]

An agreement on the part of the railroad company as part of the consideration to perform certain acts, contained in a deed poll not signed by the company, does not constitute a covenant;[70] but, where the railroad company accepts such a conveyance, it becomes the mutual contract of the parties, and the company must perform the condition annexed to the grant constituting its consideration, although it has not signed the grant.[71]

Discharge of condition by subsequent deed. A condition contained in an agreement is discharged where a deed covering the same subject matter is substituted for the agreement, without mentioning the condition.[72]

§ 90. —— Particular Covenants and Conditions in General

a. In general
b. Use for railroad purposes in general
c. Time for construction of road

Donald, 112 P. 413, 58 Or. 228, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 117, appeal dismissed 34 S.Ct. 772, 233 U.S. 665, 58 L.Ed. 1145

60. Ga.—Hutchens v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 87 S.E. 28, 144 Ga. 312
51 C.J. p. 546 note 2

61. Cal.—Conlin v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 182 P. 67, 40 Cal.App. 733.
51 C.J. p. 546 note 3.

62. Tex.—Sullivan-Sanford Lumber Co. v. Reeves, 125 S.W. 96, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 488.
51 C.J. p. 546 note 4.

63. Cal.—Conlin v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 182 P. 67, 40 Cal.App. 733.
51 C.J. p. 546 note 5.

64. Tenn.—Baird v. Southern Ry. Co., 166 S.W.2d 617, 179 Tenn. 366.
51 C.J. p. 546 note 7.

Language held not to import condition

Ill.—Rockford Trust Co. v. Moon, 18 N.E.2d 447, 370 Ill. 250.
Tenn.—Baird v. Southern Ry. Co., 166 S.W.2d 617, 179 Tenn. 366.—Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S.W.2d 1026, 162 Tenn. 661.

Covenant running with land

Where deed to railroad provided that, if railroad ceased to operate as contemplated in contracts whereby citizens donated land, railroad should pay to contributors actual cost price of property and railroad operated for many years and at end of period it was directed to abandon the road by court and interstate commerce commission because of expansion of other transportation routes, condition in deed did not constitute a covenant running with the land so as to render receiver of railroad liable for purchase price on cessation of operation of the road.—Central United Nat. Bank of Cleveland v. Fort Smith & W. Ry. Co., D.C.Ark., 32 F.Supp. 568

65. Ohio.—Central Ohio Light & Power Co. v. Hixenbaugh, 3 N.E.2d 919, 52 Ohio App. 467.
51 C.J. p. 546 note 8.

Construction by acts and conduct of parties

Ohio.—Central Ohio Light & Power Co. v. Hixenbaugh, supra.

Construed against grantor

Debasing of fee in grant to railroad company is not favored by law, and provisions tending thereto are to be construed against grantor.—Central Land Co. v. City of Grand Rapids, 4 N.W.2d 485, 302 Mich. 105, 144 A.L.R. 478.

66. Ill.—Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 N.E. 340, 219 Ill. 584.
51 C.J. p. 547 note 9.

67. Cal.—Rosecrans v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 134 P.2d 245, 21 Cal.2d 602.
Mich.—Dolby v. Dillman, 278 N.W. 694, 283 Mich. 609, 117 A.L.R. 538.—Avery v. Consumers' Power Co., 253 N.W. 189, 265 Mich. 696.—Rhines v. Consumers' Power Co., 242 N.W. 898, 259 Mich. 236.
N.Y.—In re Opening and Extending of North Conduit Avenue, Borough of Queens, City of New York, 27 N.Y.S.2d 841, 262 App.Div. 70.
Okl.—Oklahoma City v. Local Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n of Oklahoma City, 134 P.2d 565, 192 Okl. 188.
51 C.J. p. 547 note 10.

Possibility of reverter held alienable

Where deed expressly provided that land was conveyed for depot grounds and for a railroad route through it and that on permanent abandonment of such use, the land was to revert to the grantors, their heirs or assigns, the possibility of reverter was alienable.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 1 N.W.2d 721, 231 Iowa 563.

68. Ark.—Bain v. Parker, 90 S.W. 1000, 77 Ark. 168
51 C.J. p. 547 note 11.

Provision held not covenant of use

Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.

69. Ark.—Bain v. Parker, 90 S.W. 1000, 77 Ark. 168
51 C.J. p. 547 note 12.

70. Mass.—Plimpton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 109 N.E. 732, 221 Mass. 548.—Childs v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 99 N.E. 957, 213 Mass. 91, 43 L.R.A.,N.S., 373.

71. Mass.—Plimpton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 109 N.E. 732, 221 Mass. 548.
51 C.J. p. 547 note 14.

72. Ark.—Ozark, etc., R. Co. v. Ferguson, 122 S.W. 624, 92 Ark. 254.
51 C.J. p. 547 note 15.

a. In General

A grant may be made to a railroad company on a condition subsequent that the company shall maintain a spur track or side track on the premises, or that the railroad company shall stop trains at a depot on the right of way granted.

Grants may be made, and held binding on the company, on a condition subsequent that the company shall maintain a spur track or side track on the premises;[73] or that the railroad company shall stop certain trains at a depot on the right of way granted;[74] and this condition continues as long as the company holds the land and runs such trains,[75] and is not satisfied by performance merely for a number of years[76] A covenant binding on the company may be created by a provision that the grantor and others shall have free passage on the trains of the road,[77] unless a further condition is annexed that a failure to furnish such pass shall work a forfeiture of the land, in which case it becomes a condition subsequent;[78] or by a provision that it will drill wells to supply the grantor's premises with water.[79]

A covenant has been held to be created by a provision that other railroads shall have the right to run a parallel track on or along the right of way.[80] Under such a covenant, such use may be made of the right of way by another company without compensation,[81] and the covenant may be enforced at the suit of another company, although it was not in existence at the time the deed was made,[82] and mere lapse of time and increase of business of the grantee company will not prevent such enforcement.[83] Such provision contemplates that the grantee company may acquire the right to the exclusive use of all the right of way in case of sufficient growth in its business,[84] and, therefore, before another company may enforce its right to construct thereon, it must show that there is space on the right of way on which to build its track[85]

As to damages from construction and maintenance. A stipulation in a grant to a railroad company releasing it from damages caused or to be caused by the location, construction, maintenance, and operation of the road, releases the company from liability for such damages as are a necessary result of the location, construction, maintenance, and operation of the road in a legal and proper manner;[86] including injuries caused by the proper construction of a ditch, culvert, or embankment,[87] and protects the company from liability for such damages to a subsequent purchaser of the land, with notice[88] Such a stipulation does not release the company from such damages as are the result of its negligence or unskillfulness[89] A recital in a deed granting a right of way that the grantor has been fully paid for the damage done or which may be done to his property by the location and construction of the roadway does not preclude the grantor's right to have his damages assessed according to law, where the railroad company has not fulfilled a condition in the deed requiring it to complete the road within a specified time.[90]

A release from damages arising "by reason of the location or construction" of a railroad does not release the grantor's right to a way of necessity across the land conveyed unless facts are shown which favor such a construction.[91]

b. Use for Railroad Purposes in General

A grant is made on a condition subsequent where it provides, either expressly or impliedly, that the land shall revert to the grantor, if the railroad is not constructed or if the land ceases to be used for railroad purposes.

73. Fla.—Taylor v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 45 So. 574, 54 Fla. 635, 127 Am.S.R. 155, 16 L.R.A., N.S., 307, 14 Ann.Cas. 472.
51 C.J. p. 548 note 18

74. Ill.—Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 59 N.E. 950, 189 Ill. 400.
51 C.J. p. 548 note 19.

75. Ill.—Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

76. Ill.—Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

77. Mass.—Dodge v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 28 N.E. 243, 154 Mass. 299, 13 L.R.A. 318
51 C.J. p. 548 note 22.

78. Mo.—Ruddick v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 22 S.W. 499, 116 Mo. 25, 38 Am.S.R. 570.

79. Pa.—Beedy v. Nypano R. Co., 95 A. 343, 250 Pa. 51.

80. Ala.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 23 So. 973, 117 Ala. 395.

81. Ala.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., supra.

82. Ala.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., supra.

83. Ala.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., supra.

84. Ala.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., supra.

85. Ala.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., supra.

86. S.C.—White v. Southern R. Co., 140 S.E. 560, 142 S.C. 284, 57 A.L.R. 634.
51 C.J. p. 559 note 89.
Effect of conveyance as waiver of damages independent of stipulations see supra § 81 d.

87. Pa.—Updegrove v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co., 19 A. 283, 132 Pa. 540, 7 L.R.A. 213—Hoffoditz v. Southern Pennsylvania R., etc., Co., 18 A. 125, 129 Pa. 264.

88. Ind.—Burrow v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 8 N.E. 167, 107 Ind. 432.

89. Pa.—McMinn v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 23 A. 325, 147 Pa. 5.
51 C.J. p. 559 note 94

90. Pa.—Bredin v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 31 A. 39, 165 Pa. 262.

91. Mass.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commissioners, 38 N.E. 27, 162 Mass. 81.

A grant is made on a condition subsequent, which must be complied with, where it provides, either expressly or impliedly, that the land shall revert to the grantor, if the railroad is not constructed,[92] or if the land ceases to be used for railroad purposes,[93] or for the particular railroad purpose for which it was granted,[94] such as for a coal road to be operated as a public railroad,[95] or if the land is devoted to a different use.[96] A mere promise to construct a railroad and operate cars over the land granted is merely a covenant,[97] and not a condition subsequent;[98] and does not require the company to operate the road in perpetuity.[99]

Construction and operation. A deed with such a condition and reversion clause should in case of doubt be construed in favor of the grantee railroad company.[1] It is a continuing obligation which cannot be satisfied by the operation of the road on the land conveyed for a limited period only.[2] It does not require that the company shall at once use all parts of the land conveyed;[3] and the company is entitled to possession of the entire strip as long as any part of it is used for railroad purposes,[4] except where the condition provides for the reverter of such portions as are not so used;[5] nor does it require that the road shall be built over the entire charter route of the grantee.[6] The condition may be fulfilled by the use of the land for railroad purposes by a successor of the railroad company.[7]

Period of nonuse. A temporary nonuser is not a breach of such a condition,[8] and if the reverter clause does not purport to specify the period of nonuse necessary to a breach of the condition it will be construed to mean a reasonable period of time.[9] If it purports to specify the period, and leaves blank the space intended for the designation of the length of such period, the reverter clause as a condition subsequent is void,[10] although it may still be considered for the purpose of determining the purpose of the grant.[11]

Effect of disposal of adjacent property by grantor. Where a conveyance with such a condition subsequent is made in consideration of benefits to be realized, the railroad company takes an indefeasible title if, after improvements have been made, the company purchases the grantor's adjacent property[12] or it is sold by the owner to another.[13]

c. Time for Construction of Road

A provision in a grant of a right of way that the railroad or a certain portion thereof shall be constructed and operated within a certain time, as construed from the language employed, may be either a condition precedent, or a condition subsequent, or a mere covenant.

A provision in a grant of a right of way that the road or a certain portion thereof shall be constructed and operated within a certain time, as construed from the language employed, may be either a condition precedent,[14] or a condition sub-

92. Ala.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Anniston Mfg. Co., 65 So. 187, 186 Ala. 264.
51 C.J. p 548 note 33.

93. Cal.—Romero v. Department of Public Works, 109 P.2d 662, 17 Cal. 2d 189.
N.Y.—In re Opening and Extending of North Conduit Avenue, Borough of Queens, City of New York, 27 N.Y.S.2d 841, 262 App.Div. 70
Okl.—Oklahoma City v. Wainwright, 187 P.2d 226, 199 Okl. 470—Fuhr v. Oklahoma City, 153 P.2d 115, 194 Okl. 482—Jones v. Oklahoma City, 145 P.2d 971, 193 Okl. 637.
51 C.J. p 548 note 34.

Construction of underpass

Use of land for construction of underpass on railway property to take place of grade crossing was not violative of restriction on land which required land to be used for railway purposes, since underpass did not require appropriation to new purpose, but was merely a means of making safer use of land for railway purposes.—Shelton v. City of Abilene, Tex.Civ.App., 80 S.W.2d 351.

94. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Curtis, 167 S.W. 489, 113 Ark. 92.
51 C.J. p 549 note 35.

95. Iowa.—Monarch Coal Co. v. Phillips Coal Co., 156 N.W. 297, 178 Iowa 660
51 C.J. p 549 note 37.

96. Neb.—Carr v. Miller, 181 N.W. 557, 105 Neb. 623.
51 C.J. p 549 note 38.

97. Cal.—Palmer v. Los Angeles, etc., R. Co., 203 P. 1012, 55 Cal. App. 519.
Wash.—Scheller v. Tacoma R., etc., Co., 184 P. 344, 108 Wash. 348, 7 A.L.R. 810.

98. Cal.—Palmer v. Los Angeles, etc., R. Co., 203 P. 1012, 55 Cal. App. 519.

99. Wash.—Scheller v. Tacoma R., etc., Co., 184 P. 344, 108 Wash. 348, 7 A.L.R. 810
51 C.J. p 549 note 41.

1. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 167 P.2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917
Tex.—Broun v. Texas, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 295 S.W. 670.

2. Ill.—Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 60 N.E. 515, 190 Ill. 320, 2 L.R.A. 645.
51 C.J. p 549 note 43.

3. Ark.—Graham v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 65 S.W. 1043, 66 S.W. 344, 69 Ark. 562
51 C.J. p 549 note 44.

4. Ark.—Ritter v. Thompson, 144 S.W. 910, 102 Ark. 442.

5. Cal.—Hannah v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 192 P. 304, 48 Cal.App. 517.
51 C.J. p 549 note 46.

6. Mo.—Morrill v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 9 S.W. 657, 96 Mo. 174.

7. U.S.—Jones v. Southern R. Co., C.C.A.Ga., 285 F. 19.

8. Mich.—Hickox v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 N.W. 143, 78 Mich. 615, 53 N.W. 1105, 94 Mich. 237.
Wash.—Mouat v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 47 P. 233, 16 Wash. 84.

9. Va.—Robertson v. Bertha Mineral Co., 104 S.E. 832, 128 Va. 93.

10. Va.—Robertson v. Bertha Mineral Co., supra
51 C.J. p 549 note 51.

11. Va.—Robertson v. Bertha Mineral Co., supra.

12. Tex.—Broun v. Texas, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 295 S.W. 670
51 C.J. p 549 note 53.

13. Tex.—Stevens v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., Com.App., 212 S.W. 639.
51 C.J. p 549 note 54.

14. W.Va.—Adams v. Guyandotte

sequent,[15] or a mere covenant.[16] A substantial compliance with such a condition ordinarily is sufficient.[17] If the condition is the commencement of work on the road, the construction and operation of any part of the road will satisfy the condition,[18] but if the condition is the construction of the road across the premises within a specified time, a completion of about one half of the grading is not a substantial compliance with the condition.[19] Where the performance of the condition is dependent on the grantor's selection of the route, the time specified does not begin to run against the company until the grantor has made such selection.[20]

Where no time stipulated. Where, in case of such condition, no time for construction of the road or appropriation of the land is specified, there is an implied obligation on the part of the company to construct it within a reasonable time,[21] and what is such a reasonable time is largely a question of fact, under all the facts and circumstances of the particular case.[22] Where the deed is made with respect to a statute or ordinance which sets a time limit, that time will prima facie be the reasonable time implied by law to comply with the condition.[23]

Limitation of exclusiveness. A provision in a deed conveying a right of way in general terms, that this right of way shall be exclusive for a fixed period, does not limit the right of the company to enter to such period,[24] but limits only the exclusiveness of the right for that period, after which the grantor may grant other rights of way to other companies.[25]

§ 91. —— Mode of Construction in General

A railroad company is bound by a covenant or condition, in the grant to it, with respect to the mode of constructing and maintaining its roadbed.

A railroad company is bound by a covenant or condition, in the grant to it with respect to the mode of constructing and maintaining its roadbed,[26] such as that it shall be so constructed as not to interfere with the landowner's water power,[27] or irrigation ditches;[28] or so as to permit the building of a dam by the landowner,[29] and to protect its own roadway from injury from such dam,[30] with a corresponding duty on the landowner to use every reasonable precaution to prevent injury to the railroad.[31] So, also, the company is bound by a covenant or condition that it construct and maintain in a proper condition necessary culverts, drains, and ditches to carry off surplus water and drain[32] or otherwise benefit the adjoining land;[33] or that it construct a levee.[34] Where, in compliance with such condition or covenant, the company has constructed its roadbed so as to drain the land to the best advantage, it cannot afterward be compelled to change its roadbed because natural changes have made the drainage insufficient.[35] A covenant to make a culvert or pass under the railroad for the grantor's benefit does not justify the company in digging a ditch on the adjoining land of the grantor to drain the passway.[36]

Bridges. Where a contract with the landowner gives the railroad company a right to construct a bridge over the owner's land for use in connection with its road, such right implies the right to use all proper means to make the bridge an adequate

Valley R Co., 61 S E 341, 64 W. Va. 181.
51 C J p 550 note 57

15. N Y.—In re Opening and Extending of North Conduit Avenue, Borough of Queens, City of New York, 27 N.Y.S 2d 841, 262 App Div 70.
51 C J. p 550 note 58.

16. Mo.—Krueger v. St. Louis, etc., R Co, 84 S.W. 898, 185 Mo. 227.
51 C J. p 550 note 59

17. Ga.—Lester v. Georgia, etc, R. Co, 17 S.E 113, 90 Ga 802.
N.C.—Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc, R. Co., 57 S.E. 523, 144 N.C 729.

18. Ga.—Lester v. Georgia, etc, R. Co., 17 S.E 113, 90 Ga. 802.

19. N.C.—Thomas v Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 57 S.E. 523, 144 N.C. 729.

20. Mich—Waldron v. Toledo, etc, R. Co., 21 N.W. 870, 55 Mich 420.

21. Or—Southern Pac. Co v Erickson, 204 P. 942, 103 Or. 311.
51 C.J. p 550 note 64.

22. Or—Southern Pac Co. v. Erickson, supra
51 C J p 551 note 65.

23. Ala—Seaboard Air Line R. Co v Anniston Mfg. Co., 65 So. 187, 186 Ala. 264.

24. Tenn—Virginia, etc, R. Co. v. Crow, 64 S W. 485, 108 Tenn. 17.

25. Tenn.—Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Crow, supra.

26. Ohio—Miller v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co, 103 N E. 374, 88 Ohio St 499.
51 C J. p 551 note 71.

27. Pa—Appeal of Unahgsts, 55 Pa. 128.
Wis.—Hutchinson v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 37 Wis. 582

28. S D—Taylor v. White River Valley R Co., 135 N W. 758, 29 S D. 12, 132 N W 152, 27 S.D 528
51 C.J p 551 note 73.

29. U S.—Eastern Oregon Land Co v. Deschutes R. Co., Or., 246 F. 400, 158 C C A. 464, certiorari denied 38 S Ct. 192, 245 U.S. 672, 62 L Ed. 540, and appeal dismissed 39 S Ct. 18, 248 U.S. 534, 63 L Ed 407

30. U S—Eastern Oregon Land Co v Deschutes R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 551 note 75.

31. U.S—Eastern Oregon Land Co v. Deschutes R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 551 note 76.

32. Ark—St. Louis, etc, R. Co v. Hardie, 113 S.W 31, 87 Ark 475.
51 C.J p 551 note 77.
Right of drainage of roadbed to adjoining land generally see supra § 86.

33. Mass.—Whitney v. Cheshire R. Co., 96 N.E 676, 210 Mass. 263.
51 C.J. p 551 note 78.

34. Ark—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sanders, 121 S.W. 337, 91 Ark. 153
51 C J. p 551 note 79.

35. Mo—Harrelson v. Kansas City, etc., R Co., 52 S.W. 368, 151 Mo. 482.
51 C.J p 552 note 80.

36. N H—Hills v. Boston, etc; R. Co., 18 N.H. 179.

one for the purpose intended,[37] including the construction of piers and abutments,[38] and the right to change such piers;[39] and, where the contract authorizes the company to use as much of the land as may be necessarily occupied by the piers, it also gives it the right to do so in respect of abutments which are but terminal piers of the bridge.[40]

Diversion of watercourse. Where the diversion of a watercourse is expressly authorized by the terms of the deed of a right of way, the company is not liable for the consequential damages resulting therefrom unless the work is done negligently or unnecessarily.[41] Such authority, however, does not give the company a right to flood the grantor's land with the waters of streams which before did not touch it;[42] and, if the company has the right to bring such streams on the grantor's land, it must prepare a proper channel.[43]

Retaining wall. A covenant that, if the railroad company makes excavations on the grantor's land, interfering with the natural support of its surface, it is to construct retaining walls to prevent its slopes from encroaching on the grantor's property contemplates a protective construction necessary to prevent resulting damage,[44] and it is not intended that the wall is to be erected after the construction of the slope.[45]

§ 92. —— Location and Operation of Road

A railroad company is bound by a covenant or condition in a deed that in consideration of a grant of certain land it will locate, construct, and operate its road over or through the land conveyed, along a contemplated or specified line or route.

A railroad company is bound by a covenant or condition in a deed that in consideration of a grant of certain land it will locate, construct, and operate its road over or through the land conveyed,[46] along a contemplated or specified line or route.[47] If there is any doubt as to the meaning of the terms employed in the grant as to the location of the right of way, it should be solved in favor of the grantee,[48] particularly where the probabilities of the case favor such a condition.[49] Where the grant provides that the right of way shall be located by the chief engineer of the state, the boundary, as designated by him or by his assistant under his authority or direction, is binding on the grantor and his privies,[50] particularly where considerable time has been allowed to elapse after such location has been made.[51]

Period of maintenance. While it has been held that in ascertaining whether a railroad is required perpetually to maintain the railroad service each case must be determined on its particular facts,[52] the clear intention of the parties requiring the railroad to maintain perpetual railway service cannot be brushed aside by invoking the rule that conditions are to be construed against the one relying thereon,[53] and particular conditions in a deed have been construed to require perpetual use of a right of way for passenger train service.[54] On the other hand, it has been held that it is not required that the road shall be maintained on the land in perpetuity,[55] but its maintenance thereon for a long period of years is a compliance with the contract,[56] and its removal to a new location after such time is not a breach thereof.[57]

§ 93. —— Location and Maintenance of Station or Termini

a. In general

b. Performance of covenant or condition

37. Pa.—Terminal Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 139 A. 612, 291 Pa. 103.

38. Pa.—Terminal Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

39. Pa.—Terminal Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

40. Pa.—Terminal Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

41. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 1 S.W. 545, 47 Ark. 330. Md.—Qursler v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 60 Md. 358.

42. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 1 S.W. 609, 47 Ark. 340, followed in St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ussery, 1 S.W. 873, 47 Ark. 340.

43. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 1 S.W. 609, 47 Ark. 340.

44. N.J.—Gumaard Lead, etc., Co. v. Erie R. Co., 104 A. 134, 92 N.J. Law 216.

45. N.J.—Gumaerd Lead, etc., Co. v. Erie R. Co., supra

46. Neb.—Moseley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 78 N.W. 293, 57 Neb. 636. 51 C.J. p. 552 note 93.

A substantial compliance with such a covenant or condition is generally sufficient.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Cook, Neb., 98 F. 281, 39 C.C.A. 86

47. S.C.—Groce v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 78 S.E. 888, 94 S.C. 199. 51 C.J. p. 552 note 94. Location of way or land conveyed generally see supra § 81 c.

48. Ill.—Kirby v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 109 Ill. 412.

49. Ill.—Kirby v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., supra.

50. Ga.—Dougherty v. Western, etc., R. Co., 53 Ga. 304

51. Ga.—Dougherty v. Western, etc., R. Co., supra.

52. Cal.—Rosecrans v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 134 P.2d 245, 21 Cal. 2d 602.

53. Cal.—Rosecrans v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., supra.

54. Cal.—Rosecrans v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., supra.

55. U.S.—Bryan v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 244 F. 650, 157 C.C.A. 98, error dismissed and certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 334, 246 U.S. 651, 62 L.Ed. 921.

56. U.S.—Bryan v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

57. U.S.—Bryan v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra. 51 C.J. p. 552 note 2.

a. In General

A provision in a conveyance of land to a railroad company that the company shall locate, construct, and maintain a station or depot on the land conveyed is, according to the intention of the parties, binding as a covenant, condition precedent or condition subsequent.

A provision in a conveyance of land to a railroad company that the company shall locate, construct, and maintain a station or depot on the land conveyed, either as the whole or as a part of the consideration therefor, unless it is too indefinite to be enforceable,[58] is, according to the intention of the parties, binding on the company as a covenant,[59] as a condition precedent,[60] or as a condition subsequent,[61] where it appears from the terms of the condition that it was intended by the parties that, if the land was not used for station purposes, it should revert to the grantor; and the failure of such a covenant or condition to specify the length of time it is to run does not render it void per se.[62] Where under statutory authority a railroad has come into the control of the state, and it accepts lots as a donation for the purpose of erecting depots and turnouts thereon, the state does not obligate itself thereby to fix on such lots as a terminus,[63] although if the lots are not used for the purpose designated a reconveyance thereof may be enforced.[64]

At particular place. A railroad company may agree to a covenant or condition to erect and perpetually to maintain a depot at a particular place on the land,[65] unless the interests of the public demand its removal,[66] and the grantor may burden the land with such a covenant for the benefit of other land in the vicinity, whether or not owned by him.[67] Accordingly, a covenant requiring the company to erect and maintain a depot at a particular place on the land conveyed in consideration of a grant of a right of way is a valid covenant for a breach of which the company will be liable in damages,[68] except that it is invalid as being contrary to public policy where performance thereof will render it impossible for the company to discharge its duties to the public,[69] as where the provision also prohibits the company from erecting other depots within prescribed limits.[70]

b. Performance of Covenant or Condition

In the absence of a provision for maintenance in perpetuity or during a specified period, a covenant or condition by a railroad company to locate, construct, or maintain a station on the land conveyed does not obligate the company to maintain a station, on the land or at the place specified, indefinitely or forever, and the company may abandon the station or depot when, by reason of changing conditions of traffic and public interests, it is no longer required.

A substantial compliance with a covenant or condition requiring the location and maintenance of a station or depot on the premises is generally sufficient.[71] In the absence of a provision for maintenance in perpetuity, or during a specified period, such a covenant or condition does not obligate the company to maintain a station, on the land or at the place specified, indefinitely or forever,[72] but the covenent or condition is presumed to be made subject to the exigencies of the company's further development and needs and the interests of the public,[73] and the railroad company may abandon the station or depot when, by reason of changing conditions of traffic and public interests, it is no longer

58. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co v. Berry, 110 S.W. 1049, 86 Ark. 309.
51 C.J. p. 553 note 6.
Location of station in absence of covenant or condition see supra § 57.

59. Tenn.—Farrar v. Nashville, C & St. L. Ry., 36 S.W.2d 95, 162 Tenn. 313
51 C.J. p. 553 note 7.
Covenant held not to run with land Tenn.—Farrar v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry., supra.
The phrase "erect and maintain", as used in connection with covenant to erect and maintain railroad depot, has a well-defined meaning which must control interpretation of deed conveying land to railroad.—Cunningham v. New York Cent. R. Co., 48 N.E.2d 176, 114 Ind.App. 90.

60. Miss.—Maxwell v. Mississippi Valley Co., 48 So. 610, 95 Miss. 466.
51 C.J. p. 553 note 8.

61. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Lakeview Tract. Co., 56 So. 393, 100 Miss. 281
51 C.J. p. 553 note 9.

62. W.Va.—Harper v. Virginian R. Co., 86 S.E. 919, 76 W.Va. 788.

63. Ill.—Taylor v. Whitney, 5 Ill. 61.

64. Ill.—Taylor v. Whitney, supra.

65. Tex.—Mosel v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 177 S.W. 1048.
Contracts as to location of stations generally see supra § 61.

66. U.S.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Marshall, Tex., 10 S.Ct. 846, 136 U.S. 393, 34 L.Ed. 385.
51 C.J. p. 553 note 15.

67. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Mosel, Civ.App., 195 S.W. 621.
51 C.J. p. 553 note 16.

68. Ky.—Lexington, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 131 S.W. 257, 140 Ky. 514.
51 C.J. p. 553 note 17.
Damages for breach of covenant or condition generally see infra § 97.

69. Ga.—Reidsville, etc., R. Co. v. Baxter, 79 S.E. 187, 13 Ga.App. 357.

70. Ky.—Lexington, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 131 S.W. 257, 140 Ky. 514.
51 C.J. p. 554 note 19.

71. Ind.—Cunningham v. New York Cent. R. Co., 48 N.E.2d 176, 114 Ind.App. 90.
Miss.—City of Jackson v. Alabama & V. R. Co., 160 So. 602, 172 Miss. 528.
51 C.J. p. 554 note 21.

72. U.S.—Central United Nat. Bank of Cleveland v. Fort Smith & W. Ry. Co., D.C.Ark., 32 F.Supp. 568.
Ind.—Cunningham v. New York Cent. R. Co., 48 N.E.2d 176, 114 Ind.App. 90.
51 C.J. p. 554 note 22.

73. Colo.—Denver & S. L. Ry. Co. v. St. Clair, 28 P.2d 340, 94 Colo. 67.
Ind.—Cunningham v. New York Cent. R. Co., 48 N.E.2d 176, 114 Ind.App. 90.
51 C.J. p. 554 note 23.

required,[74] regardless of the enhanced value of the adjoining land of the owner, by the continuance of the station.[75] Accordingly, if it is maintained for a number of years and until the company's interest and public convenience require its abandonment or removal, it is a substantial compliance with the covenant or condition,[76] and is sufficient to discharge the company from further liability thereunder;[77] and this rule has been held to apply notwithstanding the covenant or condition provides for the "permanent" establishment of the depot, etc,[78] since such a provision is sufficiently complied with by the establishment of the depot, with no intention at the time of removing or abandoning it.[79] This does not mean, however, that a railroad may arbitrarily refuse to establish or maintain a station at any place, when it has obligated itself so to do,[80] or escape its obligation merely because it is losing money,[81] and it is not a sufficient compliance that the company has used the land for other railroad purposes as its business requires.[82]

Character of station. The character of the station to be located and maintained under such a covenant or condition, including the stopping of trains thereat, is to be determined by the needs of those who use it, and of the public, as construed in connection with the terms of the grant.[83] In the absence of any stipulation as to size and character of the building, ordinarily such a station or depot only is required as is suitable and adequate for the reasonable requirements of the normal passenger and freight business in that place;[84] and, since this in effect means a good and substantial station or depot,[85] the legal effect of such a covenant or condition is not changed by the insertion of the words "good and substantial" before the word "depot"[86] or by the modification of the deed before execution to provide for a passenger as well as a freight depot.[87]

Time for construction. Where the contract fixes no time for the construction of the depot, it will be concluded that the parties intended that it should be erected within a reasonable time after the operation of trains began over the road.[88]

Extension of terminus. A condition in a deed of land for depot purposes, not to use the premises for any other purposes, is not violated by extending the road beyond the point of its terminus as it existed when the deed was given.[89]

§ 94. —— Private Crossings, Fences, and Cattle Guards

a. In general
b. Time for construction and excuses
c Character and sufficiency

a. In General

A railroad company is bound by a covenant or condition imposed by the conveyance that it will erect and maintain a fence along its roadway on the premises con-

74. U.S.—Central United Nat Bank of Cleveland v Fort Smith & W Ry Co, D C Ark, 32 F Supp 568
Colo.—Denver & S. L Ry Co v St Clair, 28 P 2d 340, 94 Colo 67
Ky.—Meacham v Louisville & N. R. Co, 169 S W 2d 830, 293 Ky 642.
51 C J. p 554 note 24.

Power of determination
Public utilities commission has power, subject to review by district court, to determine whether public interest requires termination of contract with private person to maintain station at certain point.—Denver & S L. Ry Co. v. St. Clair, 28 P 2d 340, 94 Colo. 67.

75. Ky.—Johnson v Louisville, etc, R Co., 11 S.W 2d 96, 226 Ky 397

76. U S.—Central United Nat. Bank of Cleveland v Fort Smith & W. Ry. Co, D C Ark, 32 F Supp 568
Colo.—Denver & S L. Ry. Co v. St. Clair, 28 P 2d 340, 94 Colo. 67.
Ind.—Cunningham v New York Cent R Co, 48 N E 2d 176, 114 Ind App. 90.
51 C.J. p 554 note 26.

77. Ky.—Meacham v. Louisville & N R. Co., 169 S.W.2d 830, 293 Ky 642.
51 C J p 554 note 27.

Order of public service commission
Permissive order of public service commission authorizing railroad to abandon depot, in and of itself, does not justify abandonment of depot so as to relieve railroad from liability for damages for breach of covenant to erect and maintain depot on land conveyed to railroad for such purpose.—Cunningham v New York Cent R Co, 48 N E 2d 176, 114 Ind App 90.

78. Ky.—Meacham v Louisville & N R. Co, 169 S W.2d 830, 293 Ky. 642
51 C J p 554 note 28.

79. U S.—Texas, etc, R Co v. Marshall, Tex, 10 S Ct. 846, 136 U S 393, 34 L Ed. 385
51 C J. p 554 note 29

80. Ind.—Cunningham v New York Cent R Co, 48 N E.2d 176, 114 Ind App 90
Md.—Maryland, etc, R Co. v. Silver, 73 A. 297, 110 Md. 510.

81. Ind.—Cunningham v. New York Cent. R. Co., 48 N E 2d 176, 114 Ind App. 90.

82. Ky.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Baskett, 104 S W 695, 31 Ky L. 1035
51 C.J p 555 note 31

83. Colo.—Denver & S. L Ry Co v. St Clair, 28 P 2d 340, 94 Colo 67.
51 C J p 555 note 32.

The word "station" has been construed to mean a regular station with an agency and an agent in accordance with a practical construction of the contract by the parties.—Denver & S L Ry. Co. v. St Clair, 28 P 2d 340, 94 Colo 67

84. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co v. Johnson, 270 S W 58, 207 Ky. 813.
51 C J. p 555 note 33

85. Ky.—Louisville, etc, R Co v. Letcher County Coal, etc, Co., 243 S W 45, 195 Ky. 297

86. Ky.—Louisville, etc, R Co. v. Letcher County Coal, etc, Co., supra.
51 C J p 555 note 35

87. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Letcher County Coal, etc, Co., supra
51 C J. p 555 note 36.

88. Ky.—Elkhorn, etc., R. Co. v. Dingus, 220 S W 1047, 187 Ky 812.

89. N J.—Southard v New Jersey Cent. R Co, 26 N J Law 13.

veyed, or construct and maintain cattle guards, or construct and maintain a private or farm crossing thereon.

Where a railroad company accepts a conveyance,[90] and occupies a right of way granted therein, it is bound, in the absence of any right to cross the land save under the conveyance,[91] by a covenant or condition imposed by the conveyance, in definite terms,[92] that it will erect and maintain a fence along its roadway on the premises conveyed,[93] or construct and maintain cattle guards;[94] or construct and maintain a private or farm crossing thereon,[95] even though it is necessary to reduce the grade of the road in order to do so;[96] and, where such duty is agreed on in the agreement for the sale, the landowner has a right to incorporate it as a covenant in the deed of conveyance,[97] and, even though such agreement is not incorporated in the deed, it may be held binding on the company where it constitutes a part of the consideration for the deed.[98]

Such a crossing clause in a deed of a right of way, dividing the grantor's farm, creates a right in the nature of an equitable restriction over the right of way, and establishes a quasi easement of perpetual use of the way for the crossing.[99] Whether such a covenant contemplated maintenance as well as the making of a crossing depends on the intention of the parties as construed from the terms thereof in connection with the nature of the subject matter;[1] and where, under a deed containing such a covenant, no right is reserved or granted to the landowner to enter and build or maintain a crossing, owing to the character thereof and the continuing necessity therefor, a covenant for the permanent maintenance of the crossing by the railroad company is implied.[2] A covenant or condition for the construction of a crossing without any limitation on the use of contiguous land is not broken by the construction of a station and switch near the crossing, whereby traffic at that point is greatly increased.[3]

Location of crossing. If the covenant does not designate the location of the crossing it contemplates that it shall be on land then owned by the grantor,[4] and where the performance of the condition is dependent on the grantor's selecting the place at which the crossing is to be constructed, the obligation becomes fixed only when such selection is made,[5] and it has been held that, in such a case, damages for a failure to perform such condition can be recovered only on a showing that the grantor designated the place.[6]

Duty on landowner. The company and owner may, by their contract, place the duty of erecting and maintaining fences, etc., on the landowner,[7] and under some statutes, if the landowner, in such a case, elects not to perform the work himself, the railroad company may erect the fence at the reasonable expense of the landowner.[8]

90. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R Co. v. Wilson, 72 N.E 666, 34 Ind App. 324.
51 C J. p 555 note 41.

91. Ind —Pittsburgh, etc, R Co v. Kearns, 108 N E. 873, 58 Ind.App. 694.

92. Md —Linthicum v. Washington, etc, Electric R. Co., 92 A. 917, 124 Md. 263.
51 C J. p 555 note 43.

93. Ind —Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Moore, 5 N.E. 413, 106 Ind 600.
51 C.J. p 555 note 44.
Construction and maintenance of fences generally see infra §§ 176–181.
Conveyance as releasing company from fence building see supra § 81 d.

94. Ky.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Durbin, 198 S W. 908, 178 Ky. 363
51 C J. p 556 note 45.
Construction and maintenance of cattle guards generally see infra §§ 176–181.

95. W.Va.—Recco v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 32 S E 2d 449, 127 W Va. 321.
51 C.J. p 556 note 46.
Construction and maintenance of private or farm crossings generally see infra §§ 169–175.
Duty to construct private crossing generally see infra § 170.

96. Miss —Yazoo, etc., R. Co v. Hughes, 103 So. 805, 139 Miss 177.
51 C J. p 556 note 47.

97. Pa —Hall v. Clearfield, etc., R Co, 31 A. 940, 168 Pa. 64
51 C J p 556 note 48.

98. Pa —Perkiomen R. Co v. Bromer, 66 A 359, 217 Pa 263.
51 C J. p 556 note 49.

99. Miss —Childs v Boston, etc, R. Co, 99 N E. 957, 213 Mass 91, 48 L.R.A.,N S., 378.

Use by public

Where private crossing over railroad tracks was created by covenant running with land contained in deed conveying right of way through farmlands, fact that owners of portions of dominant estate which had been subdivided into town lots had made no objections to use of such crossing by public as connecting link with public highway, in absence of dedication, did not destroy the right to a private crossing—Recco v Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co, supra

1. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co v. Wilson, 72 N.E 666, 34 Ind App 324.
51 C J. p 556 note 51

2. W.Va —Briscoe Home v Ohio River R Co, 89 S.E 727, 78 W Va 502, L R A 1916F 1294.
51 C J. p 556 note 52.

3. N.Y.—Perry v. Lehigh Valley R. Co, 30 N.Y.S. 140, 9 Misc 515, affirmed 35 N Y S. 1114, 86 Hun 617
51 C J p 556 note 53.

4. Ky —Big Sandy R Co. v. Rice, 143 S W 46, 146 Ky. 619, rehearing denied 143 S W. 1199, 147 Ky 645
51 C J p 556 note 54

5. Iowa.—Hull v. Chicago, B & P. R Co, 22 N.W 940, 65 Iowa 713.
51 C J p 557 note 55.

6. Iowa.—Hull v. Chicago, B. & P R Co, supra.
51 C J p 557 note 56.

7. Ky —Louisville, etc, R Co. v Durbin, 198 S.W. 908, 178 Ky. 363

8. Mass.—New York Cent., etc., R Co. v Clarke, 117 N.E. 322, 228 Mass 274
51 C.J. p 557 note 58.

b. Time for Construction and Excuses

Unless the conveyance specifies the time within which private crossings, cattle guards, or fences are to be constructed, the obligation of the railroad company is to comply with such duty within a reasonable time after it takes possession, or after the road is completed.

Unless the conveyance specifies the time within which crossings, cattle guards, or fences are to be constructed,[9] the obligation of the railroad company is to comply with such duty within a reasonable time after it takes possession[10] or after the road is completed.[11] If the company fails to perform this duty, within the time specified, or within a reasonable time, it is not liable as a trespasser for running on the right of way secured from the landowner.[12]

A railroad company cannot avoid its duty to perform a covenant or condition to construct and maintain a private or farm crossing on the ground that, since the conveyance and covenant or condition were made, it has made such changes in its tracks, etc., that the erection and maintenance of such crossing would be a great embarrassment to it in operating its road,[13] or on the ground that the building of the crossing at the particular place or grade designated would be at a considerable expense,[14] or because of the public service character of the railroad company;[15] nor can it exonerate itself from such duty by a statutory condemnation of the right of way.[16] Where the company has assumed responsibility for the maintenance of a fence or crossing, it cannot exempt itself from such obligation by conveying the property to another company, without the landowner's consent,[17] nor is it excused for failing to maintain the crossing by the fact that it had constructed it according to plans agreed on, but that it had collapsed.[18]

c. Character and Sufficiency

The language of the particular covenant or condition, as construed in connection with the general rules relating to the character and sufficiency of private or farm crossings over a railroad right of way, controls in determining the character and sufficiency of the crossing to be constructed and maintained thereunder.

The language of the particular covenant or condition, as construed in connection with the general rules relating to the character and sufficiency of private or farm crossings over a railroad right of way, controls in determining the character and sufficiency of the crossing to be constructed and maintained thereunder;[19] and as so construed may include the duty of constructing necessary approaches to the crossing,[20] as where it is necessary to elevate the tracks above or lower them beneath the natural surface of the ground,[21] and also extends to a crossing over an additional width of the right of way which the company has acquired by condemnation.[22]

Such a covenant or condition also includes a bridge over a watercourse, through the lands of the grantor, which is diverted by the railroad company so as to run parallel to the tracks, and partly on the right of way and partly on the land of the grantor,[23] but where, through negligence of the owner of the stream, the channel is deepened and widened, the railroad company cannot be required to pay the entire cost of rebuilding the bridge which has been destroyed or washed away by high water.[24]

Even though the railroad company is not bound to construct and maintain a particular mode of 9. Ind—Cincinnati, etc, R Co. v Harris, 61 Ind. 290.

51 C J p 557 note 59.

10. Ind—Indiana, etc, R Co v. Koons, 5 N.E 549, 105 Ind 507.

11. Ill—Springfield, etc, Tract Co. v. Warrick, 94 N.E 933, 249 Ill. 470, Ann Cas 1912A 187
51 C J. p 557 note 61.

12. Ky—Mt Sterling Coal Road Co. v Beatty, 4 Ky.L. 365.

13. Ill—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hobbie, 61 Ill App. 396
Excuses for nonperformance of covenants or conditions generally see infra § 96.

14. Ky—Cincinnati Southern R. Co v. Hudson, 11 S W. 509, 88 Ky 480, 10 Ky L 1043.
Md—Linthicum v. Washington, etc., Electric R. Co., 92 A. 917, 124 Md. 268.

15. Md—Linthicum v Washington, etc, Electric R Co, supra

16. Ky—Stafford v Big Sandy R. Co, 105 S W 389, 32 Ky L. 154
51 C J p 557 note 69.

17. Ky—Louisville R Co v. Wiggington, 161 S W 209, 156 Ky. 400.

18. Wash—Clemons v Grays Harbor, etc, R. Co, 114 P. 865, 63 Wash 38
51 C J. p 558 note 71.

19. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Pierce, 230 S W 2d 430, 313 Ky. 139
Mass—Cooley v. Boston & M. R. R., 21 N.E 2d 953, 303 Mass. 371, 122 A.L.R. 1166.
W Va—Recco v. Chesapeake & O Ry Co, 32 S.E.2d 449, 127 W.Va. 321
51 C J. p 558 note 74.
Character and sufficiency of private or farm crossing generally see infra § 173.

Underground crossing
Where landowner and railroad acquiesced in construction of underground railroad crossing pursuant to easement calling for grade crossing, county, as grantee of highway right of way from railroad, could not complain—Beck v. Lane County, 18 P.2d 594, 141 Or. 580.

20. Ky—Louisville, etc, R Co. v. Tuttle, 258 S.W 688, 201 Ky. 798.
51 C.J. p 558 note 75.

21. Ky—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tuttle, supra

22. Ind—Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co. v. Kearns, 128 N E. 42, 191 Ind 1.
51 C.J. p 558 note 77.

23. W Va.—Briscoe Home v. Ohio River R. Co., 89 S E. 727, 78 W.Va. 502, L R A 1916F 1294.

24. W Va.—Briscoe Home v. Ohio River R. Co., supra.

crossing, if it does so and acquiesces therein for a number of years, it cannot afterward abolish it and substitute another mode of crossing without the landowner's consent unless it makes proper compensation therefor,[25] or makes a crossing that is as convenient to the landowner as the old one was.[26]

Fence or cattle guard. Where a covenant to fence does not specify how it shall be done, the law implies a promise to do it in the usual way, and that it shall be complete for the purpose for which it was intended.[27] Where the character of the fence or cattle guard to be erected is regulated by statute, the statutory regulation must be complied with by whomsoever the fence or cattle guard is erected.[28] For example, if the deed requires the grantor to erect and maintain all necessary fencing, and the railroad company to make proper cattle guards, the fencing required to be erected is such as both parties would have been required to construct and maintain by statute except for the contract,[29] and the cattle guards such as the statute requires the railroad company to provide,[30] and, where under such a deed the grantor does not build any parallel fencing on the railroad's right of way, the railroad company is not required to provide cattle guards.[31]

§ 95. —— Effect of Succession to, or Transfer of, Property

a. Of grantee
b. Of grantor

a. Of Grantee

A successor of a railroad company, such as a grantee or assignee, is ordinarily bound by all the conditions and covenants in a conveyance to the original company which run with the land.

Subject to the rules relating to conditions or covenants running with the land in general, a successor of a railroad company, such as a consolidated company,[32] or a grantee or assignee, unless it has never taken possession of or used the land or exercised any ownership over it,[33] is bound by all conditions and covenants in a conveyance to the original company which run with the land,[34] such as a covenant to furnish the grantor with an annual pass and on condition that a failure to do so will work a forfeiture of the grant,[35] or a covenant or condition to construct and maintain a station or depot on the premises,[36] or to construct or maintain fences,[37] cattle guards, or crossings.[38] A corporation purchasing a railroad is charged only with such conditions as attach by law,[39] and no presumption arises from its mere occupancy of the land under a deed that there has been a private agreement as to certain conditions which would not otherwise attach.[40]

A succeeding company is not bound by a covenant or condition which does not run with the land,[41] or which is contained in an unrecorded contract, not made a part of its deed, in the absence of proof of actual notice of the contract providing therefor;[42] nor is it bound by a parol agreement with its predecessor, the consideration for which is a claim for damages which is not a lien on the land, where the burden imposed by the agreement is junior to a trust deed under which the succeeding company acquires title, and is not necessary for the proper construction and operation of the road.[43] The mere fact that one railroad company is operating a road constructed by another does not establish an assumption by it of an obligation incurred by the latter in the construction of its road.[44]

25. N.Y.—Fox v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 123 N.Y.S. 183, 67 Misc. 621
51 C.J. p 558 note 80.

26. N.Y.—Fox v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., supra.

27. Idaho.—Lane v. Pacific, etc., R. Co., 67 P. 656, 8 Idaho 230

28. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co v. Durbin, 198 S.W. 908, 178 Ky. 363.

29. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Durbin, supra.

30. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v Durbin, supra.
51 C.J. p 558 note 86.

31. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Durbin, supra.

32. N.Y.—Morgan Lake Co v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co, 186 N.E. 685, 262 N.Y. 234
51 C.J. p 559 note 1.

33. Tenn.—Carnegie Realty Co. v. Carolina, etc, R. Co., 189 S.W. 371, 136 Tenn. 300.

34. N.Y.—Morgan Lake Co. v. New York, N. H & H. R Co., 186 N.E. 685, 262 N.Y 234—Morgan Lake Co. v. New York, N H & H R Co, 245 N.Y.S. 116, 230 App.Div. 356
51 C.J. p 559 note 3.

35. Mo.—Ruddick v. St. Louis, etc, R. Co., 22 S.W. 499, 116 Mo. 25, 38 Am.S.R. 570.

36. Ill.—Latham v. Illinois Cent. R Co., 97 N.E. 254, 253 Ill. 93.
51 C.J. p 559 note 5.

37. Ind.—Millikan v. Hunter, 100 N. E. 1041, 180 Ind 149.
51 C.J. p 559 note 6.

38. N.Y.—Munro v. Syracuse, etc, R Co, 93 N.E 516, 200 N.Y. 224, 21 Ann Cas. 594
51 C.J. p 559 note 7.

39. Tex.—Logue v. Southern Kansas R. Co, 167 S.W. 805, 106 Tex. 445.

40. Tex.—Logue v. Southern Kansas R Co, supra.
51 C.J p 560 note 9

41. Fla.—Armstrong v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 95 So 506, 85 Fla 126.
51 C.J. p 560 note 10.

Private crossing
Ohio.—Zens v Railroad Co., 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 202.

42. Ky.—Witt v Louisville, etc., R Co, 270 S.W. 732, 208 Ky. 126
51 C.J. p 560 note 11.

43. Iowa.—Hunter v. Burlington, etc, R. Co., 41 N.W. 305, 76 Iowa 490.

44. Obligation to construct farm crossing
Mo.—Sheridan v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 56 Mo.App. 68.

Purchase through third person. Notwithstanding a railroad company procures the premises indirectly through a third person employed by it, it is bound to perform all conditions and undertakings in the deed conveying such premises if it constructs and operates its road under such conveyance.[45] Where the deed to the right of way is made to such third person and the covenants therein are made with him personally, he is personally bound for their subsequent performance or breach,[46] although the grade for the railroad thereon is constructed by a railroad company[47]

Assignment of contract of purchase. Where a contract of purchase, containing covenants which run with the land, is assigned to another company, to whom a deed is made by the grantor, containing such covenants, the contract becomes merged in the deed, and cannot thereafter be enforced against the original purchaser, as containing personal covenants.[48]

b. Of Grantor

Covenants and conditions, in a deed of land for railroad purposes, may be enforced by the grantor, although he subsequently conveys the adjoining land to a third person if the later grant reserves rights against the railroad company. In the absence of such a reservation, however, a covenant or condition that runs with the land ordinarily may be availed of and enforced against the railroad company by the original grantor's successor in title, such as his assignee or grantee.

Covenants and conditions, in a deed to land for railroad purposes, may be enforced by the grantor, although he subsequently conveys the adjoining land to a third person, if the later grant reserves rights against the railroad company;[49] and, where there is a reversion clause for condition broken in the original deed to the railroad company, no estate or interest in the strip of land so conveyed passes to a subsequent grantee of the adjoining land,[50] unless it is transferred to him by terms of the conveyance to him;[51] and especially he has no such estate or interest where the deed to him expressly reserves or excepts such strip of land.[52] In the absence of such a reservation, however, the conveyance of a tract of land abutting on a railroad right of way includes the servient estate in the right of way,[53] and a covenant or condition that runs with the land ordinarily may be availed of and enforced, against the railroad company, by the original grantor's successor in title, such as his assignee or grantee,[54] to the extent that it could have been availed of by the original grantor,[55] except that, where the covenant has already been broken at the time of the transfer, it does not pass without an express assignment.[56]

A covenant by a railroad company to erect and maintain fences, cattle guards, or a farm crossing, when in the form of a covenant running with the land, is available, against a company claiming under the conveyance, for the protection of the grantor's assignees or grantees,[57] including a lessee of

45. Purchase through construction company
Ga.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 15 S.E. 626, 89 Ga. 708.

46. Ind.—Polk v. Givens, 90 N.E. 19, 44 Ind. App. 667.
51 C.J. p. 560 note 15.

47. Ind.—Polk v. Givens, supra.

48. Ga.—Nelson v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 69 S.E. 1118, 135 Ga. 572.

49. Ky.—Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hogan, 13 Ky. Op. 1096.

50. Cal.—Hannah v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 192 P. 304, 48 Cal. App. 517.

51. Cal.—Hannah v. Southern Pac. R. Co., supra.

52. Cal.—Hannah v. Southern Pac. R. Co., supra.

53. U.S.—Roxana Petroleum Corp. v. Sutter, C.C.A. Kan., 28 F.2d 159.

54. Md.—Middleton Realty Co. v. Roland Park Civic League, 78 A.2d 200.
Mass.—Miles v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. Co., 174 N.E. 200, 274 Mass. 87.
W.Va.—Recco v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 32 S.E.2d 449, 127 W.Va. 321.
51 C.J. p. 560 note 23.

Right of reentry
(1) Under statute prohibiting transfer of mere right of reëntry for breach of condition subsequent to anyone except owner of property affected thereby, such a right in grantor and his heirs under reverter provision in deed conveying parts of two lots to railroad company for right of way purposes was inalienable to anyone except such company, so that grantor's subsequent deed, conveying lots in their entirety to individual, did not convey right of reëntry.—Fuhr v. Oklahoma City, 153 P.2d 115, 194 Okl. 482.—Jones v. Oklahoma City, 145 P.2d 971, 193 Okl. 637.

(2) Where right of reëntry, reserved to landowner in deed conveying portion of lot to railroad for right of way purposes, was not alienable when right was created, but thereafter law was changed making contingent remainders the equivalent of a conditional limitation and alienable, landowner's subsequent conveyance by quitclaim deed of all his interest in lot carried with it right of reëntry.—Fuhr v. Oklahoma City, supra.

55. Ala.—Patterson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 So. 85, 202 Ala. 583.
51 C.J. p. 561 note 24.

56. Ky.—Witt v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 270 S.W. 732, 208 Ky. 126.
51 C.J. p. 561 note 25.

57. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Pierce, 230 S.W.2d 430, 313 Ky. 189.
Mass.—Miles v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. Co., 174 N.E. 200, 274 Mass. 87.
51 C.J. p. 561 note 26.

Owners of dominant estate
A railroad's covenant "to build and maintain a good crossing with cattle guards," contained in deed conveying right of way through farm lands, runs with land and is enforceable in suit by owners of any portion of dominant estate which has been subdivided into town lots, in absence of any limitation in covenant as to duration or purpose of crossing.—Recco v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 32 S.E.2d 449, 127 W.Va. 321.

Purchaser of land on both sides of track
The fact that portion of tract of land exclusively on one side of railsuch a grantee[58] or of the grantor.[59] Under a statute requiring a railroad company to keep and maintain its general offices at the place where it has contracted for the locating thereof, the grantee of a tract of land on which a railroad company has located its depot, offices, etc., is entitled to the benefit of any contract with his grantor for the permanent maintenance of them thereon.[60] Where a railroad company accepts and registers a deed conveying the land on which a depot is erected, and containing a covenant on its part to maintain its depot on such land, and thereby induces purchasers to buy contiguous lands of the grantor on the faith of the recitals in the deed, it is estopped to deny that it is bound by the covenant, even though it has in fact obtained the full title through another instrument;[61] and even though such a covenant is not for the benefit of land previously conveyed by the grantor to other parties, the removal of the depot may be restrained at the instance of a person who purchased land that was owned by the common grantor at the time of the covenant, and is therefore entitled to the benefit of the covenant.[62]

Covenant or condition by grantor. Likewise such a covenant or condition, on the part of the grantor, is enforceable against his successor in title,[63] such as a covenant binding the grantor to erect or maintain fences along the right of way.[64] A subsequent purchaser from the grantor is not bound by written agreements of which he had no notice, actual or constructive, at the time of the purchase.[65]

§ 96. —— Excuses for Nonperformance and Waiver of Performance

The general rules as to the release or waiver of covenants or conditions in a deed or of excuses for the nonperformance or breach of such covenants or conditions usually apply with respect to the nonperformance or breach of covenants or conditions in a grant of land to a railroad company.

The general rules as to the release or waiver of covenants or conditions in a deed or of excuses for the nonperformance or breach of such covenants or conditions apply with respect to the nonperformance or breach of covenants or conditions in a grant of land to a railroad company.[66] Thus a railroad company cannot excuse its failure to perform conditions or covenants contained in a grant on the ground of financial embarrassment,[67] or for want of room, where it can acquire additional land by condemnation,[68] or on the ground that it has concentrated its force on some other part of its line;[69] or on the ground of defects of title, if with knowledge thereof it retains exclusive and undisputed possession of the land;[70] or because the part of its roadbed in question has been damaged or washed away by the ordinary action of waters, without any fault on its part, but not to such extent that it cannot be repaired and protected against further injury,[71] unless it protects itself by contract against such damages;[72] nor in case of a grant in a town can it be released from the performance of such conditions by an ordinance of the town.[73] The railroad company is excused from performing a condition or covenant, the performance of which is rendered void by a subsequent statute,[74] and it has been held that, if the estate has already vested in the railroad company, it will not be divested by reason of such nonperformance;[75] but on the other hand it has been held that, if such covenant or condition constituted the consideration for the grant, on road track running through tract was owned by another than persons purchasing rest of tract on both sides of track from grantors of railway right of way did not preclude such purchasers from enforcing their right under right of way deed to additional cattle passway under track —Louisville & N R Co. v. Pierce, 230 S.W.2d 430, 313 Ky. 189.

58. Ky.—Louisville & N. R Co v. Pierce, supra.

59. Pa.—Kelemenan v Pittsburg, etc, R. Co., 52 Pa.Super. 52.
51 C.J. p 561 note 28.

60. Tex.—Logue v. Southern Kansas R Co., 167 S.W. 805, 106 Tex 445.

61. Tex.—San Antonio, etc, R Co v. Mosel, Civ.App, 195 S.W. 621

62. Tex.—San Antonio, etc, R. Co. v. Mosel, supra.

63. Ind.—Union Tract. Co. v. Thompson, 111 N.E. 648, 61 Ind. App. 183
51 C.J. p 562 note 34.

64. Mass.—New York Cent, etc., R. Co. v. Clarke, 117 N.E. 322, 228 Mass. 274
51 C.J. p. 562 note 34.

65. Ohio.—Pittsburg, etc, R Co v Bosworth, 18 N.E. 533, 46 Ohio St 31, 2 L.R.A. 199
51 C.J. p 562 note 35.

66. Ky.—Chicago, etc., R. Co v. Dodds, 181 S.W. 666, 167 Ky. 624.
51 C.J. p 562 note 39.
As to fences, cattle guards, and crossings see supra § 94 b.

67. R.I.—New York, etc, R Co. v. Providence, 19 A. 759, 16 R.I. 746.

68. Ga.—Reidsville, etc, R Co v. Baxter, 79 S.E. 187, 13 Ga.App 357.
51 C.J. p 562 note 41.

69. N.C.—McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc, R. Co., 57 S.E. 520, 144 N.C. 721
51 C.J. p 562 note 42.

70. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Letcher County Coal, etc., Co., 243 S.W. 45, 195 Ky 297.
51 C.J. p 562 note 43.

71. U.S.—Ferguson v Omaha, etc, R Co., Neb, 227 F. 513, 142 C.C.A. 145

72. U.S.—Ferguson v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., supra.

73. Ill.—Lyman v Suburban R Co, 60 N.E. 515, 190 Ill. 320, 52 L.R.A. 645
51 C.J. p 562 note 46.

74. Ill.—Hite v. Cincinnati, etc., R Co., 119 N.E. 904, 284 Ill 297.
W.Va.—Bell v. Kanawha Traction & Electric Co., 98 S.E. 885, 83 W.Va 640

75. Ill.—Hite v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 562 note 48.

the covenant or condition thus becoming impossible of performance, the company should either restore the property or pay for it on equitable terms.[76]

Waiver or release. A covenant or condition may be waived or a forfeiture saved by acts of the grantor which show an intention to forego the benefits of the condition.[77] A railroad company's statutory duty to construct necessary culverts or sluices is not waived by the grantor by recitals in the conveyance that, as a consideration therefor, the company will maintain in good condition all drainage ditches, etc., as long as they are deemed necessary by the grantor;[78] but such provision merely adds the further duty of maintaining existing ditches.[79] A grantor's release of his right to recover damages from the railroad for its failure to discharge such statutory duty must be sustained by a sufficient consideration.[80]

§ 97. —— Rights and Remedies of Parties

a In general
b Cancellation, rescission, or reformation
c Injunction
d. Damages

a. In General

Where a railroad company fails to comply with the covenants or conditions on which land was granted to it, the grantor may maintain an action against the company for damages sustained by reason of the breach.

As in the case of a breach of covenants or conditions in a deed generally, where a railroad company fails to comply with the covenants or conditions on which land was granted to it, the grantor, unless he is estopped by his acquiescence or laches,[81] may maintain an action against the company for damages sustained by reason of the breach,[82] in which action the general rules apply as to parties,[83] pleading,[84] evidence,[85] and trial.[86]

While it has been held that, where the deed conveying land to a railroad company expressly provides that land conveyed shall revert in case of breach of covenant, the grantor is relegated to the remedy so provided,[87] it has also been held that the grantor may sue for damages, even though the contract conveying the land gives the grantor a right to have a reconveyance on a breach of a condition, but does not specifically provide that such reconveyance shall be the exclusive remedy on such breach,[88] and the fact that the grantor has such an election does not give the grantee a right to elect whether it will respond in damages or by a reconveyance.[89] The grantor may sue to recover the land or its value together with such other considerations as have

76. Ky—Louisville, etc, R Co v Crowe, 160 S W 759, 156 Ky 27, 49 L R A,N S, 848
51 C J p 562 note 49

77. Ohio—Central Ohio Light & Power Co v Hixenbaugh, 3 N E. 2d 919, 52 Ohio App 467.
51 C J. p 562 note 50

78. Tex—Missouri, etc, R Co. v. Riverhead Farm, 117 S W. 1049, 53 Tex.Civ App 643

79. Tex—Missouri, etc, R. Co. v Riverhead Farm, supra

80. Tex—Missouri, etc, R Co v Riverhead Farm, supra.

81. La—Gayden v Louisville, etc., R Co., 1 So 792, 39 La Ann. 269.
51 C.J p 563 note 58.

82. Ky—Louisville & Interurban R. Co. v Guenther, 105 S W 2d 1029, 268 Ky 790
La—Louisiana Farms Co v Yazoo & M. V. R Co, 154 So 445, 179 La. 539
N Y—Morgan Lake Co. v. New York, N. H & H R Co, 245 N Y S 116, 230 App.Div. 356.
51 C J p 557 note 63, p 563 note 59
Lien for damages for breach of condition see infra § 264.

Maintenance of switch and flag stop
Where railroad was prevented from carrying out agreement in right-of-way deed to maintain switch and flag stop on plaintiff's premises by interstate commerce commission order directing abandonment of line, and railroad did not seek to retain benefit received and offered to return right of way to plaintiff, railroad was not obligated to compensate plaintiff for loss of switch and flag stop—Meacham v. Louisville & N. R Co, 169 S W.2d 830, 293 Ky. 642

Defenses
In action against railroad for breach of an agreement in right-of-way deed to maintain switch and flag stop on plaintiff's premises, plea that railroad had abandoned line and switch under an order of interstate commerce commission stated a good defense—Meacham v. Louisville & N R Co, supra.

83. Ky—Chicago, M. & G R Co. v. Dodds & Johnson, 181 S.W. 666, 167 Ky 624.

Tenants
In action by grantor to recover for injury to crops, caused by breach of covenant in deed to railroad of right of way to fence and ditch, tenants are not necessary parties—Chicago, M. & G. R. Co v. Dodds & Johnson, supra.

84. Ind—Pittsburgh, etc., R Co. v. Kearns, 108 N.E. 873, 58 Ind.App. 694.
51 C J. p 563 note 60.

85. N Y—Morgan Lake Co. v. New York, N. H & H. R. Co., 186 N E 685, 262 N Y 234
51 C.J. p 563 note 61

Evidence held sufficient
La—Louisiana Farms Co v. Yazoo & M V. R Co, 154 So. 445, 179 La. 539.

Evidence held insufficient
N Y—Morgan Lake Co. v New York, N H & H R. Co., 186 N.E. 685, 262 N Y. 234.

86. Directed verdict held authorized
Ind—Cunningham v. New York Cent. R Co., 48 N E 2d 176, 114 Ind.App. 90.

Questions for jury
N J—Gumaerd Lead, etc., Co v Erie R Co, 104 A. 134, 92 N J. Law 216
51 C J p 563 note 62 [b].

Instructions held proper
Ind—Pittsburgh, etc., R Co v. Kearns, 128 N E. 42, 191 Ind. 1.
51 C J p 563 note 62 [a].

87. Ohio—New York Cent. R Co v. City of Bucyrus, 186 N.E 450, 126 Ohio St 558, followed in Bush v. Hague, 191 N E. 5, 128 Ohio St. 342.

88. N.Y—Fairchild v. City, etc., Contract Co, 138 N.Y.S. 133, 153 App.Div. 277.

89. N.Y.—Fairchild v. City, etc., Contract Co., supra.

passed,[90] but he may not sue both for the land and for damages for its taking.[91] It has been held that, where the condition is a condition subsequent, without any promissory undertaking on the part of the grantee, the grantor is entitled only to a forfeiture of the estate,[92] and not to a decree for specific performance[93] or a judgment for damages.[94]

b. Cancellation, Rescission, or Reformation

Ordinarily, a grantor is not entitled to a cancellation or rescission of a grant to a railroad company for the mere breach of a covenant or condition, unless the whole enterprise is abandoned.

Ordinarily, a grantor is not entitled to a cancellation or rescission of a grant to a railroad company for the mere breach of a covenant or condition,[95] unless the whole enterprise is abandoned.[96] Equity will not cancel a right-of-way deed on the ground of failure to issue an annual pass as consideration additional to that expressed in the deed, where compliance with the agreement is prohibited by the Interstate Commerce Act.[97] So, also, in the absence of fraud, a right-of-way deed will not be canceled because of a breach of a contemporaneous parol agreement,[98] nor in a suit to cancel such a deed will alternative relief in damages be granted for such breach, where the deed itself recites a money consideration that is actually paid and the nonperformance complained of is not incorporated in or made a condition in the written conveyance.[99]

The grantor may, on tendering back the price paid,[1] maintain a suit in equity for the cancellation of a conveyance which has been obtained by fraud.[2]

It has been held that a violation by the railroad of a provision of a right-of-way contract does not authorize the termination of the contract by the grantor and the forcible removal of the tracks.[3]

Where a railroad company receives a right-of-way grant on payment of money and an agreement to construct a crossing, the agreement to construct the crossing has been held to be severable from the grant, and the railroad company may rescind such agreement, if it is found necessary in the improvement of its road, and subject itself to monetary damages without losing the grant.[4]

Reformation. The grantor may maintain an action for the reformation of the contract to convey by the insertion of a covenant or condition, to make it conform to the terms agreed on.[5]

c. Injunction

The grantor may sue for an injunction to restrain the railroad from breaking the covenants or conditions of a conveyance of land.

The grantor, instead of suing for damages or for forfeiture of the land, may sue for an injunction to restrain the railroad company from breaking the covenants or conditions of a conveyance of land,[6] and for damages for breaches already made;[7] and the mere fact that the grantor has delayed in bringing suit does not bar him from equitable relief where defendant is not prejudiced by such delay.[8] Thus until the public interest requires the removal of a depot, the railroad company may be restrained from removing it in violation of a covenant,[9] but a judg-

90. Tex.—Tyler v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., Civ.App., 87 S.W. 238, reversed on other grounds 91 S.W. 11, 99 Tex. 491
51 C.J. p. 564 note 67.

91. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman, 11 S.W. 1094, 74 Tex. 265

92. Iowa.—Close v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 19 N.W. 886, 64 Iowa 149
Wash.—Mills v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 39 P. 246, 10 Wash. 520.
Forfeiture for breach of condition in private grant see infra § 120.

93. Iowa.—Close v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 19 N.W. 886, 64 Iowa 149

94. Iowa.—Close v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., supra.
Wash.—Mills v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 39 P. 246, 10 Wash. 520

95. Mo.—Haydon v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 121 S.W. 15, 222 Mo. 126
51 C.J. p. 565 note 87.
Forfeiture for breach of condition see infra § 120

96. Ga.—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Atkinson, 21 So. 1010, 94 Ga. 780.
51 C.J. p. 565 note 89.

97. W.Va.—Dorr v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 88 S.E. 666, 78 W.Va. 150, L.R.A. 1916E 622
51 C.J. p. 565 note 90.

98. Miss.—New Orleans Great Northern R. Co. v. Belhaven Heights Co., 84 So. 178, 122 Miss. 190, 13 A.L.R. 560
51 C.J. p. 565 note 91.

99. Miss.—New Orleans Great Northern R. Co. v. Belhaven Heights Co., supra.

1. S.C.—Cochran v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 81 S.E. 191, 97 S.C. 34.
51 C.J. p. 565 note 85.

2. S.C.—Cochran v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., supra
51 C.J. p. 565 note 86.

3. Ind.—Barth v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 93 N.E. 535, 175 Ind. 554.

4. Pa.—Williams v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 99 A. 477, 255 Pa. 133—Lilley v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 62 A. 852, 213 Pa. 247.

5. Mo.—Jewett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 45 Mo.App. 58.
51 C.J. p. 565 note 84.

6. Ga.—Wardlaw v. Southern Ry. Co., 33 S.E.2d 304, 199 Ga. 97.
51 C.J. p. 564 note 73
Petition held insufficient
Petition to enjoin use of land for any purpose at variance with stipulation in deed to railroad that it should be used only for railroad depot did not state a cause of action against railroad in absence of allegation of any understanding between railroad and its grantees that grantees would attempt an illegal use of land conveyed.—Wardlaw v. Southern Ry. Co., supra

7. N.Y.—Atlantic Mills v. New York Cent. R. Co., 223 N.Y.S. 206, 221 App.Div. 386, affirmed 162 N.Y.S. 514, 248 N.Y. 535.

8. N.Y.—Atlantic Mills v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 564 note 75.

9. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Mosel, Civ.App., 195 S.W. 621—Mosel v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 177 S.W. 1048.
51 C.J. p. 564 note 77 [a].

ment restraining such removal in violation of a covenant does not prevent such removal in obedience to an order of the railroad commission when public benefit requires such removal,[10] since while the railroad commission has authority to enforce the law as to the removal of railway depots, it is not its duty to enforce contracts of railroad companies with private individuals as to the maintenance of depots.[11] So, where the condition of a license granted is that the license shall be void unless the road is constructed within a certain time, the licensor may enjoin the further extension of the road over the line after such time has elapsed[12] Where the company subsequently finds it necessary to disregard a covenant or condition in order properly to discharge its duty to the public, it will not be enjoined against a breach of its agreement,[13] but the owner of the land will be remanded to a suit for damages growing out of the breach.[14]

A grantor cannot compel discontinuance of railroad operations as a means of securing performance of a contract obligation to himself.[15]

A railroad company may maintain a suit against the landowner to enjoin interference with the right of way and to quiet title,[16] and in such suit the court may restrict the right of the landowner to a private crossing of the track to be maintained by him at the place designated in the conveyance.[17]

d. Damages

(1) In general
(2) Failure to erect or removal of station
(3) Failure to construct and maintain fence or crossings

(1) In General

As a general rule, the measure of damages for a breach of a covenant or a condition by a railroad company is the actual damage sustained by reason of such breach, and the landowner is not entitled to recover speculative damages.

As a general rule, the measure of damages for a breach of a covenant or a condition by a railroad company is the actual damage sustained by reason of such breach,[18] and the landowner is not entitled to recover speculative damages.[19] The measure of damages has been held to be the difference in the value of the land before and after the breach,[20] or the difference in the rental value of the land before and after the breach.[21]

As to ditches and drains; levees. Where a railroad company violates its contract as to constructing and maintaining a culvert or ditches, by reason of which adjacent land is injured, the amount to which plaintiff is entitled is the actual damages sustained,[22] and, in case of injury to growing crops, is the difference in value of such crops immediately before the injury and their value immediately after[23] The measure of damages in such cases as to land in cultivation is the difference in value between what was raised and what could have been raised except for the breach,[24] and, as to land the grantor was prevented from cultivating, has been held to be its rental value,[25] or the cost and expense of restoring the land to its former condition, and the loss occasioned by being deprived of the use of it, with interest.[26] It has been held that the measure of damages for a breach of contract to construct a proper levee is what it would reasonably cost to build the levee which the railroad company con-

10. Tex—San Antonio, etc, R Co v. Mosel, Civ.App, 195 S W 621.

11. Tex.—San Antonio, etc, R Co v. Mosel, Civ App, 195 S W 621—Mosel v San Antonio, etc, R Co, Civ App, 177 S W 1048

12. Mich—Detroit, etc, Plank Road Co. v Detroit Suburban R Co, 61 N E 880, 103 Mich 585
N C—McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc, R Co, 57 S E 520, 114 N C 721

13. Ohio—Miller v L S & M S R. Co, 12 Ohio N.P.,N S, 683

14. Ohio—Miller v. L S & M S. R Co, supra.

15. Fla—Taylor v Florida East Coast R Co, 45 So. 574, 54 Fla 635, 16 L R A,N S, 307.
51 C J p 565 note 83½.

16. Or—Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co v. Reed, 169 P 342, 170 P 300, 87 Or. 398

17. Or—Oregon-Washington R, etc, Co. v. Reed, supra.

18. N Y.—Morgan Lake Co. v. New York, N H & H R Co, 186 N E 685, 262 N Y. 234—Morgan Lake Co v New York, N. H & H R Co, 245 N Y S. 116, 230 App Div 356
51 C J p 565 note 97
Stipulations with respect to damages see supra § 90.

Interest was properly allowed on amount recovered as damages for breach of covenant.—Morgan Lake Co v New York, N H & H. R. Co, 186 N E 685, 262 N Y. 234.

Damaged ice
Measure of damages for railroad's breach of covenant to pay for damages by sparks, ashes, cinders, or coal dust to ice beyond right-of-way strip was difference between market value of clear ice, and fair reasonable value in market of damaged ice —Morgan Lake Co v. New York, N. H. & H. R Co., 186 N E. 685, 262 N. Y. 234.

19. Ga.—Reidsville, etc, R. Co. v. Baxter, 79 S E 187, 13 Ga App 357
51 C J p 565 note 96.

20. U S—Loewenthal v Georgia Coast, etc, R Co, D C Ga, 265 F 961, affirmed, C C A., Clarke v. Aiken, 276 F 21
51 C J p 565 note 98

21. Ind—Louisville, etc, R Co v Malott, 34 N.E 709, 135 Ind 113.

22. Wash—Moorman v Seattle, etc, R Co, 35 P 596, 8 Wash. 98
51 C J p 566 note 1.

23. Tex—Sabine, etc, R. Co v Joachimi, 58 Tex. 456.
51 C J. p 566 note 2.

24. Ky—Chicago, etc, R Co v. Stahr, 212 S W. 115, 184 Ky. 529—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dodds, 181 S W 666, 167 Ky 624.

25. Ky—Chicago, etc., R Co v Stahr, 212 S W. 115, 184 Ky. 529.

26. Tex—Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Joachimi, 58 Tex. 456.

tracted to construct;[27] and that the landowner is not entitled to recover, in addition, damages sustained by loss of crops due to the railroad company's failure properly to construct the levee, since, if plaintiff wished to avoid such loss, he might have done the work himself.[28]

A stipulation for liquidated damages for the breach of one covenant or condition does not apply to and authorize the recovery of such damages for the breach of a different covenant or condition.[29]

(2) Failure to Erect or Removal of Station

The measure of damages for a breach of a covenant or condition to erect and maintain a station on the land conveyed is determined by the injury actually sustained by reason of such a breach.

The measure of damages for a breach of a covenant or condition to erect and maintain a station on the land conveyed, in consideration of the conveyance, is determined by the injury actually sustained by the grantor by reason of such breach,[30] and, in case of a failure to erect a station, the measure of damages has been held to be the value of the land or right of way given,[31] with interest from the time the company took possession;[32] and also the amount in which the adjacent land would have been increased in value by the erection of the depot, that is, the difference between the value of the land without a depot and its value if a suitable depot had been constructed.[33] The increased value of the property with a depot for business purposes may be considered in this connection,[34] but not the profits which might have been made in business on the land.[35] Where the depot is eventually erected, and the breach consists in the failure to erect it within the time agreed, or within a reasonable time, the damages are measured by the benefit which the grantor would have derived therefrom to the time of performance,[36] or, as has been held, by the legal interest on the amount by which the value of land of such owner would have been enhanced by the erection of the building for the time its erection was delayed.[37] Where land is conveyed in consideration of a depot being established thereon, and the depot, after being established, is ordered by the railroad commission to be moved to another point, the grantor may recover the fair value of the land conveyed to, and appropriated and retained by, the company,[38] but not for consequential damages that may result to plaintiff in matters of business convenience and decreased values of contiguous property, from a change in the depot site ordered by an authorized governmental agency.[39]

(3) Failure to Construct and Maintain Fence or Crossings

Where a railroad company violates a covenant or condition to construct or maintain a fence or private crossing, recovery may be had for the reasonable cost of erecting the fences or constructing and maintaining the crossing, and for damages to the adjoining land caused by such construction, together with such damages as may have resulted from the inconvenience of not having the fence or crossing, and also together with special damages proximately caused by the omission of such structures.

Where a railroad company violates a covenant or condition to construct or maintain a fence or private crossing, although the grantor has not first done such work,[40] recovery may be had for the reasonable cost of erecting the fences or cattle guards or constructing and maintaining the crossing,[41] and for damages to the adjoining land caused by such construction,[42] together with such damages as may have resulted up to the time of trial, to the use and enjoyment of the adjoining land, from the inconvenience of not having the fence or crossing,[43] such as the depreciation in the rental value of the land,[44] and also together with special damages proximately

27. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sanders, 121 S.W. 337, 91 Ark. 153

28. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sanders, supra.

29. Wash.—Clemons v. Grays Harbor, etc., R. Co., 114 P. 865, 63 Wash. 38.
51 C.J. p. 566 note 8.

30. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 5 N.E. 404, 106 Ind. 55, 55 Am.R. 719.

31. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 110 S.W. 1049, 86 Ark. 309
N.J.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Stanley, 35 N.J.Eq. 283

32. N.Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Stanley, supra.

33. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Letcher County Coal, etc., Co., 243 S.W. 45, 195 Ky. 297.
51 C.J. p. 566 note 13.

34. Pa.—Watterson v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 74 Pa. 208.

35. Ky.—Elkhorn, etc., R. Co. v. Dingus, 220 S.W. 1047, 187 Ky. 812
Pa.—Watterson v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 74 Pa. 208.

36. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Baskett, 104 S.W. 695, 31 Ky.L. 1035

37. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 270 S.W. 58, 207 Ky. 813
—Elkhorn, etc., R. Co. v. Dingus, 220 S.W. 1047, 187 Ky. 812.

38. Fla.—Armstrong v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 95 So. 506, 85 Fla. 126.

39. Fla.—Armstrong v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., supra.

40. Ind.—Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Koons, 5 N.E. 549, 105 Ind. 507.
51 C.J. p. 567 note 21

41. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 21 N.E. 751, 119 Ind. 269.
51 C.J. p. 567 note 22.

42. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 91 N.E. 725, 46 Ind.App. 444.
51 C.J. p. 567 note 23.

43. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tuttle, 258 S.W. 688, 201 Ky. 798
51 C.J. p. 567 note 24.

44. Ind.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Griffin, 53 N.E. 1042, 57 N.E. 722, 25 Ind.App. 138
51 C.J. p. 567 note 25.

caused by the omission of such structures,[45] such as the value of cattle killed,[46] and damage to crops or pasturage.[47] If the crossing is not intended as a farm crossing alone, but is to be used by others claiming under the grantor, the damages are not to be estimated merely with respect to the value of the land to the owner, but the uses to which it is reasonably capable of being put should be considered.[48] The court, however, in any action for such damages, may grant leave to the railroad company to construct the crossing within a reasonable time, in lieu of paying the amount that it would reasonably cost to construct it.[49] On a breach of stipulation to maintain a crossing, which collapses from an undisclosed cause, the company is liable for at least nominal damages and such actual damages as the grantor can show.[50]

§ 98. Use of Land or Rights Acquired

As a general rule, land acquired by a railroad company for a right of way is charged with a public use for railroad purposes, but, in some jurisdictions, if the railroad acquires a fee-simple title to the land, the right to use the land is as absolute and unrestricted as that of an individual as long as the state does not complain.

As a general rule, land acquired by a railroad company for a right of way, either by condemnation or by purchase or grant from the owner is the private property of the company, but is charged with a public use for railroad purposes,[51] and may be used only for railroad purposes,[52] since, as discussed supra § 2, a railroad is a quasi-public corporation, and due to the fact that to subject the property to an additional use of a private nature imposes on the servient estate an additional burden for which the easement was not acquired and the owner has not been compensated.[53]

Unrestricted rights. In some jurisdictions, however, if the railroad company acquires a fee-simple title in the land, its right to use the land is as absolute and unrestricted as that of an individual,[54] at least as long as the state does not complain.[55] Accordingly, with the exceptions that its operations must not interfere with its railroad business,[56] or seriously invade and endanger public rights,[57] a railroad may exercise the rights and powers usually incident to such ownership in any manner and for any purpose not hurtful to others,[58] regardless of any

45. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 21 N.E. 751, 119 Ind. 269
51 C.J. p. 557 note 64.

46. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, supra
51 C.J. p. 567 note 27.

47. Ky.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dodds, 181 S.W. 666, 167 Ky. 624
51 C.J. p. 567 note 23

48. Md.—Washington, etc., Electric R. Co. v. Linthicum, 96 A. 448, 127 Md. 257

49. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Kearns, 108 N.E. 873, 58 Ind. App. 694
51 C.J. p. 567 note 30

50. Wash.—Clemons v. Grays Harbor, etc., R. Co., 114 P. 865, 63 Wash. 38

51. U.S.—Sioux City, Iowa v. Missouri Valley Pipe Line Co., D.C. Iowa, 46 F.2d 819.
Ky.—City of Grayson v. Eastern Kentucky Southern Ry. Co., 62 S.W.2d 1034, 250 Ky. 316—Louisville & N.R. Co. v. Williams, 53 S.W.2d 751, 245 Ky. 466—Louisville & N.R. Co. v. Hagan, 131 S.W. 1018, 141 Ky. 20, 35 L.R.A.,N.S., 189
Mo.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R. 286.
Neb.—Luedeke v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., 231 N.W. 695, 120 Neb. 124, 71 A.L.R. 912.
N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C. 589
Pa.—Lehigh Nav. Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 540, 133 Pa.Super. 67.
51 C.J. p. 568 note 35.

Condemnation of land for railroad purposes see Eminent Domain §§ 36-43, 451.
Railroad as public highway see Highways § 1.
Title or estate acquired under grant from owner see supra § 84

52. U.S.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A.Mo., 106 F.2d 217, applying Illinois law, reversed on other grounds Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S.Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L.Ed. 876
N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C. 589.
51 C.J. p. 568 note 36

53. N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., supra.

Rights of owner of fee

The owner of the fee of land subject to public easement of a railroad company may maintain trespass or ejectment against any other person whose entrance or acts on the premises would support the action, unless such person can justify under authority of railroad company having the easement.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369.

Subject to governmental supervision

Tenure of land acquired for right of way is in nature of trust for public use, subject to governmental supervision, whether obtained by grant or condemnation.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. King, 50 S.W.2d 94, 329 Mo. 1203.

54. U.S.—Mendez v. Bowie, C.C.A. Puerto Rico, 118 F.2d 435, certiorari denied Mendez Rios v. Bowie, 62 S.Ct. 76, 314 U.S. 639, 86 L.Ed. 513
Mich.—Attorney General v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 860, 263 Mich. 431, 94 A.L.R. 520
Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265—Nesral Production Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 84 S.W.2d 805, error dismissed
51 C.J. p. 568 note 38.

55. Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265.
51 C.J. p. 568 note 39.

Private person having no restrictive estate or interest in land owned by railroad cannot question its use in any manner which would be lawful if held by individual.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.

56. Mich.—Attorney General v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 860, 263 Mich. 431, 94 A.L.R. 520.

57. Mich.—Attorney General v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., supra.
Neb.—Luedeke v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., 231 N.W. 695, 120 Neb. 124, 71 A.L.R. 912.

58. Alaska.—Berger v. Ohlson, 9 Alaska 605.
51 C.J. p. 568 note 40.

limitations contained in a prior grant of an easement to the company,[59] and notwithstanding statutory restrictions and limitations in respect of land acquired by condemnation[60]

Estoppel. Although the railroad may not be entitled to occupy or control a given space or area, if it assumes control thereover, it cannot dispute such occupancy or control as against one who enters thereon by its invitation.[61]

§ 99. —— Incidental Uses

a. In general
b. Determination of necessity of use in general
c. As limited by terms of grant
d. Use or removal of materials
e. Use or removal of minerals
f. Use of telegraph or telephone line

a. In General

Except to the extent that the company is restricted by the terms of the grant to it, or by its charter or by a statute, land or a right of way acquired by a railroad company may be used for any legitimate incidental purpose that is reasonably necessary or convenient to the construction, maintenance, and operation of the railroad.

Except to the extent that the company is restricted by the terms of the grant to it,[62] or by its charter or by a statute,[63] land or a right of way so acquired by a railroad company may be used for any legitimate incidental purpose that is reasonably necessary or convenient to the construction, maintenance, and operation of the railroad,[64] and the mere fact that the company has not yet occupied or made use of the right of way to its full width does not abridge such right.[65] This rule applies as well against the owner of the land,[66] as against all other persons,[67] such as subsequent grantees of adjacent land from the common grantor[68]

Particular uses. Unless restricted by charter or statute, or by the terms of the grant, a railroad company may use land acquired by it for a right of way for the erection of a freight depot,[69] warehouse,[70] water tanks,[71] necessary side tracks and switches,[72] turntables,[73] and other structures or buildings necessary or proper for facilitating the transaction of its ordinary business.[74] The right of way may also be

59. Tex.—Stephenson v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., Civ.App., 181 S.W. 568.

60. Tex.—Calcasieu Lumber Co. v. Harris, 13 S.W. 453, 77 Tex. 18.
51 C.J. p 568 note 42.

61. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Lawley, 126 S.E. 273, 33 Ga.App. 375.
51 C.J. p 568 note 43.

62. Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co., 34 S.W.2d 155, 156, 225 Mo.App. 78.
As limited by terms of grant generally see infra subdivision c. of this section.

63. Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369.
Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co., 34 S.W.2d 155, 156, 225 Mo.App. 78.
51 C.J. p 568 note 45.

64. Ga.—Tift v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 131 S.E. 46, 161 Ga. 432.
Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369.
Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 34 S.W.2d 155, 156, 225 Mo.App. 78.
51 C.J. p 568 note 46.

Easement

(1) An easement for railroad purposes entitles the railroad to devote its right of way to any use which is indispensable to, or which will facilitate the performance of, the objects of its corporate existence as a common carrier or that is reasonably in aid of those purposes.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C. 589.

(2) Ownership of railroad easements carries with it the right to use of property within the bounds of the right of way for any purpose the primary object of which is the furtherance of the business of the railroad.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., supra

65. N.C.—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co., 51 S.E.2d 301, 229 N.C. 695
51 C.J. p 569 note 47.
Right of way as confined to space actually occupied see supra § 82

66. U.S.—Wright v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., C.C.Ark., 175 F. 845, appeal dismissed 181 F. 1023, 104 C.C.A. 670.
Pa.—Terminal Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 139 A. 612, 291 Pa. 103.

Where owner of easement for railroad purposes uses the property within bounds of the right of way for any purpose the primary object of which is the furtherance of the business of the railroad, the owner of the servient estate has no cause to complain, since the grant of the easement was for such purpose and constitutes a part of the dominant estate.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C. 589.

67. Pa.—Terminal Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 139 A. 612, 291 Pa. 103.

68. Mont.—Smith v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 148 P. 393, 50 Mont. 539
51 C.J. p 569 note 50.

69. Ala.—Elyton Land Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 10 So. 270, 95 Ala. 631
51 C.J. p 569 note 53.

70. Ga.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Maxey, 77 S.E. 801, 139 Ga. 541.
51 C.J. p 569 note 54

71. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. French, 43 S.W. 771, 100 Tenn. 209, 66 Am.S.R. 752.

72. Ind.—Bennett v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 127 N.E. 777, 74 Ind.App. 156.
51 C.J. p 569 note 56.

73. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 73 Ill.App. 621.

74. Ill.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P. & W. R. R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 316 Ill.App. 116
Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 34 S.W.2d 155, 156, 225 Mo.App. 78.
51 C.J. p 569 note 58.
Permission to others to erect buildings on right of way see infra § 101.

Houses, shanties, and bunkhouses

(1) Maintenance of bunkhouses along right of way for section men was authorized under grant of way "for all purposes incidental to or connected with the maintenance and used for the storage of freight cars, to be used in shipping products,[75] the making of cuts and embankments,[76] the inclosure of the track with fences,[77] and for otherwise keeping its premises in proper and safe condition for the prosecution of its business,[78] as by removing trees or other things placed or growing on the right of way which the company may deem necessary to remove to insure the safe management of its road.[79]

Changes in the grade of the road and in the tracks may also be made from time to time as the exigencies of traffic and public interest require,[80] although neither the railroad company nor its successor can afterward change the tracks so as to acquire other land of the grantor without compensation,[81] or so as to deprive him of his consideration under the original grant,[82] or so as to shut out those having a right to cross the tracks,[83] or so as unnecessarily or wantonly to interfere with the owner's rights in or under the land.[84]

In the exercise of its right thus to use its right of way a railroad company may abate a private nuisance on adjoining property,[85] as by trimming a hedge extending over and obstructing the right of way.[86]

Unlawful uses. Except where the company is the owner in fee, and as such is unrestricted in its right to use the land, as discussed supra § 98, a railroad company as a general rule has no right to make such use of the land acquired as is not incidental to the construction, maintenance, and operation of the road.[87] Accordingly, an easement for railroad purposes does not entitle the railroad company to use the property for private or nonrailroad purposes.[88] Likewise, a railroad may not use the land in a manner or for a purpose that is detrimental to its use for railroad purposes,[89] or which materially interferes with the rights of property pertaining to the adjacent land,[90] unless the right to make such use of adjoining property is acquired either by purchase or condemnation.[91]

b. Determination of Necessity of Use in General

Whether or not a particular use is necessary for railroad purposes is primarily, at least, a matter to be determined by the railroad company in the exercise of its judgment, but the mere decision of the officers of the railroad that a proposed use is a railroad use does not make it so.

Whether or not a particular use is necessary for railroad purposes is primarily, at least, a matter to be determined by the railroad company in the exercise of its judgment,[92] and in the absence of evidence showing that such use is not necessary and is in bad faith, the courts will not interfere therewith.[93] However, while the railroad is the judge of the necessity of extending the use of its right of way, the proposed additional use must be incidental to, or in furtherance of, the business of the railroad.[94] Only as long as the use is in furtherance of the business of the railroad does the extent of operation of a railroad"—Rombauer v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 84 S.W.2d 155, 225 Mo.App. 75

(2) Other decisions with respect to right to erect houses and shanties see 51 C.J. p 569 note 58 [a].

75. Tex.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Caswell, Civ.App., 295 S.W. 653, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 1 S.W.2d 597, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 34, 278 U.S. 640, 73 L.Ed. 555.

76. Va.—Pamplin v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 98 S.E. 51, 124 Va. 254
51 C.J. p 569 note 60.

77. Tex.—Peterson v. Holland, Civ. App., 189 S.W.2d 94, error refused.
51 C.J. p 569 note 61.
Covenant or condition to erect fences see supra § 94.

78. Tex.—Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 33 S.W. 139, 11 Tex.Civ.App. 208.

79. U.S.—Wright v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., C.C.Ark., 175 F. 845, appeal dismissed 181 F. 1023, 104 C.C.A. 670.
51 C.J. p 570 note 63.

80. Pa.—McKee v. Pittsburg R. Co., 44 Pa.Super. 325
51 C.J. p 570 note 64.
Change as to highway crossings see infra § 145.

81. Ind.—Wysor v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 353, 143 Ind. 6.

82. Ind.—Wysor v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., supra.

83. N.Y.—Townsend v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 106 N.Y.S. 381, 56 Misc. 253.

84. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Simpson, 104 N.E. 301, 108 N.E. 9, 182 Ind. 693.

85. Ill.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Green, 67 Ill. 199

86. Ill.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Green, supra

87. La.—Corpus Juris cited in Bond v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., 160 So. 406, 409, 181 La. 763
51 C.J. p 570 note 73.

88. N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C. 589.

89. Va.—Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Lybrook, 69 S.E. 1066, 111 Va. 623, Ann.Cas.1912A 175.

90. Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369
51 C.J. p 570 note 76.

91. N.Y.—Garvey v. Long Island R. Co., 54 N.E. 57, 159 N.Y. 323, 70 Am.S.R. 550.
51 C.J. p 570 note 76.
Rights in adjoining land generally see supra § 82.

92. Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 84 S.W.2d 155, 156, 225 Mo.App. 78.
N.C.—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co., 51 S.E.2d 301, 229 N.C. 695—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lissenbee, 13 S.E.2d 561, 219 N.C. 318.
51 C.J. p 570 note 77.

93. Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 84 S.W.2d 155, 156, 225 Mo.App. 78
51 C.J. p 571 note 78.

94. N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C. 589.

that use rest with the railroad authorities,[95] and the mere decision of the officers of the railroad that a proposed use is a railroad use does not make it so.[96] Accordingly, when there is a finding supported by the evidence that the use and occupancy of the right of way are not necessary for railroad purposes and that such use is in bad faith, and not the result of an honest exercise of judgment, the courts will not permit such use and occupancy by the railroad to the detriment of others.[97]

c. As Limited by Terms of Grant

Where the grant or conveyance contains words of restriction and limitation to the effect that the land or right of way granted shall be used only for certain specified purposes, it may be used only for purposes that come within the terms of such provision.

Where the grant or conveyance contains words of restriction and limitation to the effect that the land or right of way granted shall be used only for certain specified railroad purposes, it may be used only for purposes that come within the terms of such provision,[98] and it cannot be lawfully used by the railroad company for any other purpose,[99] unless a prescriptive right for the new use is acquired;[1] nor can it be used for a purpose which is expressly excepted in the terms of the grant.[2]

Accordingly, a deed for corporate purposes only conveys the land for such purposes as appertain to the legitimate business of the railroad company under its charter powers,[3] and if the railroad company does not need all the land for such purposes, the grantor may recover as much of the land as is not required by the company for its present and future necessities.[4] If the conveyance mentions only railway and railway purposes, without designation of kind, the land may be used by an interurban line not operated by steam, where it otherwise appears that franchises obtained along the right of way are for permission to operate a line by any motive power except steam.[5] Where the grant is made "for railway and similar purposes," the land may be used for such legitimate railroad and public purposes as the future necessities and convenience of the public require.[6] So, where the land is acquired as a right of way for the passage of trains only, it may be used for the construction thereon of main and necessary side tracks,[7] but it cannot be lawfully used as a switch yard for switching and making up trains,[8] or for machine or repair shops.[9] Likewise, where it is granted as subsidiary to mining rights, it cannot be used for the business of carrying passengers and freight generally,[10] notwithstanding a provision in the grant for a depot and site for the use of the grantor.[11]

On the other hand, where the grant is absolute in form, it conveys to the railroad company all privileges and appurtenances;[12] and where it is made for all legitimate railroad and depot purposes,

95. N.C.—Sparrow v Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co, supra.

96. N C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., supra

97. N C —Powell v. Hamlet Ice Co., 183 S E 386, 209 N.C. 195

Defense of bad faith held improperly stricken

In railroad's ejectment action against owner of railroad refrigerating plant located on right of way, defense that action was not brought in good faith, but to destroy owner's business and enable railroad and others to obtain owner's business for inadequate price by demanding possession of the land on which the business was located, was held improperly stricken.—Powell v. Hamlet Ice Co, supra

98. La.—Bond v. Texas & P. Ry. Co, 160 So 406, 181 La 763

Mo —Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, 34 S.W 2d 155, 157, 225 Mo.App. 78

51 C J p 571 note 79.

99. Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Rombauer v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 34 S.W.2d 155, 157, 225 Mo. App. 78.

51 C.J p 571 note 80.

Grant held unrestricted

(1) Where deed gave perpetual right of way for railroad lines of grantee for benefit of rural property of grantee, addition of the words expressly granting the right to run the rolling stock freely and without restriction was intended to grant a right to unlimited use to the owner of the dominant tenement, even if such use were not strictly for the benefit of grantee's property.—Mendez v Bowie, C C A Puerto Rico, 118 F 2d 435, certiorari denied Mendez Rios v. Bowie, 62 S.Ct. 76, 314 U.S. 639, 86 L Ed 513.

(2) A grant of right of way across grantor's land to railway company for spur track was held not so modified by further provision of instrument containing grant as to restrict use of right of way to service of grantor's enterprises or industries located on land described—Reidsville Grocery Co. v Southern Ry. Co, 1 S E 2d. 535, 215 N C 223.

(3) Other grants held unrestricted see 51 C J. p 571 note 80 [e].

1. Va.—Robertson v. Bertha Mineral Co., 104 S E 832, 128 Va. 93.

2. Ky.—Grubbs v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 123 S.W. 1195.

51 C.J. p 571 note 82.

Exceptions and reservations generally see supra § 88

3. Pa.—Erie v Pennsylvania R Co, 92 A 192, 246 Pa 238.

4. Pa.—Erie v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

5. Mich.—Dunham v. Toledo-Detroit R. Co., 214 N.W. 156, 238 Mich 596

6. Wash.—Tacoma Mill Co. v Northern Pac. R Co, 154 P. 173, 89 Wash 187

51 C J p 571 note 86.

7. Tex.—Missouri, etc, R. Co v Anderson, 81 S W. 781, 36 Tex Civ App. 121.

8. Mich.—Backus v. Detroit, etc., R Co., 40 N W 60, 71 Mich 645

Tex.—Missouri, etc., R Co. v Anderson, 81 S.W. 781, 36 Tex Civ App 121.

9. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v Anderson, supra.

10. W Va.—Jackson v Big Sandy, etc., R Co., 59 S E. 749, 63 W.Va 18.

51 C J. p 572 note 90.

11. Va.—Robertson v. Bertha Mineral Co., 104 S E 832, 128 Va 93.

12. Ky.—Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Dillon, 7 Ky.L. 607.

51 C J. p 572 note 92.

it authorizes the construction of a hotel or eating house on the land,[13] notwithstanding accommodations are granted to the general public,[14] and that another eating house or hotel, ample to accommodate passengers and employees, is near by.[15]

Remedies of owner If the wrongful use of the land for other purposes than those specified results in damages to the grantor, the railroad company is liable therefor to him.[16] Although injunctive relief may be proper to restrain a railroad from wrongfully using the property,[17] the granting of such relief is within the sound discretion of the court.[18]

d. Use or Removal of Materials

Material suitable and necessary for the construction and maintenance of the railroad and its appurtenances such as soil, sand, gravel, and the like, may be taken from the right of way and appropriated to such purpose, at least as far as is necessary for the construction and maintenance of the road through the property of the landowner from which the material is taken.

Material suitable and necessary for the construction and maintenance of the railroad and its appurtenances such as soil, sand, gravel, and the like, may be taken from the right of way and appropriated to such purpose,[19] at least as far as is necessary for the construction and maintenance of the road through the property of the landowner from which the material is taken.[20] This right has also been held to extend to timber growing on the right of way,[21] although there is authority that timber can be obtained from the owner only by agreement or purchase.[22]

Use on other parts of road. It has been held that the railroad company's rights in this respect extend no further, as against each owner, than the boundaries of his own land,[23] and that, ordinarily, the company cannot, without the owner's consent, take material from its right of way over one person's land for the purpose of using it on another part of the road,[24] but as to this there is also authority to the contrary.[25] Where, however, it becomes necessary to remove material, such as earth or dirt, in the construction of the road on its established grade or in changing the grade over a right of way, it has been held that the company may use such material on other parts of the road[26]

Sale or gift. The company cannot, without the owner's permission, sell stone or other material removed from the land;[27] nor can it give away such material.[28]

e. Use or Removal of Minerals

As a general rule, where the railroad company has only an easement for its right of way, minerals thereunder belong to the owner of the fee and cannot be ap-

13. Or.—Abraham v. Oregon, etc., R Co, 60 P 899, 37 Or. 495, 82 Am S R. 779, 64 L R.A 391; 69 P 653, 41 Or 550

14. Or.—Abraham v. Oregon, etc., R Co, supra

15. Or.—Abraham v. Oregon, etc., R. Co, supra

16. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc, R. Co. v. Blankenship, 170 S W. 620, 161 Ky. 315, rehearing denied 164 S W. 943, 158 Ky. 270.
Mich.—Backus v Detroit, etc., R. Co., 40 N.W. 60, 71 Mich. 645.
For breach of conditions generally see supra § 97.

Damnum absque injuria
Damage to land on theory of trespass, arising from erroneously supposed want of authority in railway company to use right of way, conveyed thereto for spur track, to serve owner of property adjacent to that of grantor, must be regarded as damnum absque injuria, in absence of allegation of negligent use thereof or malicious or wanton destruction of grantor's property, or any actionable cause other than described trespass.—Reidsville Grocery Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 1 S.E.2d 535, 215 N.C. 223.

17. U.S.—Mendez v Baetjer, C.C.A. Puerto Rico, 106 F.2d 163, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct 263, 308 U.S 618, 84 L.Ed 516.

Burden of proof
In suit to enjoin alleged wrongful use of railroad across plaintiff's land, plaintiff had burden of proving his contentions concerning the exact nature and extent of the wrongful use.—Mendez v. Baetjer, supra.

18. U.S.—Mendez v. Baetjer, supra

Discretion held not abused
Where one who had lived all his life on a certain tract crossed by railroad right of way failed to allege the wrongful extent of railroad's use as a defense in railroad's action to enjoin interference with the use which resulted in splitting his cause of action, imposing delay and expense on railroad and showing lack of diligence, refusal to issue injunction against such allegedly wrongful use in subsequent suit by landowner was not an abuse of discretion.—Mendez v. Baetjer, supra.

19. Pa.—Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R Co, 58 A. 486, 209 Pa. 256, 103 Am.S.R. 1005.
51 C.J. p 572 note 99.
In case of condemnation see Eminent Domain § 451.
Right to material outside right of way see supra § 86.

20. N.H.—Chapin v. Sullivan R. Co., 39 N.H 564, 75 Am.D. 237
Pa.—Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co, 58 A. 486, 209 Pa. 256, 103 Am. S.R. 1005.

21. Iowa.—Preston v. Dubuque, etc, R Co., 11 Iowa 15.
N.J.—Taylor v New York, etc, R. Co., 38 N.J Law 28.
51 C.J. p 572 note 2.

22. Pa.—Hendler v Lehigh Valley R. Co, 58 A 486, 209 Pa 256, 103 Am S.R 1005.

23. Pa.—Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., supra.

24. Pa.—Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R Co., supra
51 C.J. p 572 note 4.

25. Miss.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 1 So. 637, 64 Miss 479.
51 C.J. p 572 note 5.

26. S.C.—Sims v. Charleston, etc, R Co, 150 S.E 890, 153 S.C 390.
51 C.J. p 572 note 6.

27. Ala.—Nashville, etc, R. Co. v. Karthaus, 43 So 791, 150 Ala. 633.
51 C.J. p 573 note 7.

28. Ind.—Julien v. Woodsmall, 82 Ind. 568.
N.H.—Bailey v. Sweeney, 9 A. 543, 64 N.H. 296.

propriated or used by the company, but where the railroad company owns title in fee in the land, it is entitled to the minerals thereunder.

As a general rule, where the railroad company has only an easement for its right of way, minerals thereunder belong to the owner of the fee and cannot be appropriated or used by the railroad company,[29] except to the extent that the right to take minerals has been granted to the railroad company,[30] and except surface materials which must be removed in constructing the road.[31] However, this does not authorize the owner of the fee to use the right of way for the purpose of extracting the minerals;[32] and, furthermore, it is the duty of both the company and the owner to exercise reasonable care in the use of the property, not to injure the other's rights.[33]

On the other hand, where the railroad company owns the title in fee in the land, it is entitled to the minerals thereunder,[34] and it may not be enjoined from taking them,[35] and may contract with a third person to bore for oil and gas and other minerals thereon;[36] and persons so contracting on the faith of public records will be protected thereby, although the title of the railroad company is voidable.[37]

f. Use of Telegraph or Telephone Line

The construction of a telegraph or telephone line over a right of way by the railroad company in good faith for its use and benefit in the operation of its road and to facilitate its business, or if it is reasonably necessary for that purpose, is a proper use of the right of way, but it has been held that a railroad company may not authorize the erection and maintenance of such a line for general commercial purposes, disconnected from the railroad operation.

The construction of a telegraph or telephone line over a right of way by the railroad company in good faith for its use and benefit in the operation of its road and to facilitate its business, or if it is reasonably necessary for that purpose, is a proper use of the right of way,[38] and it may do this by itself or may employ another company to erect or maintain such a line within the limits of the right of way.[39] It has been held, however, that a railroad company may not authorize the erection and maintenance of such a line for general commercial purposes, disconnected from the railroad operation,[40] and where the main object in constructing such a line is to establish an extensive telephone and telegraph line for general commercial purposes, it is not a proper use of the right of way, if such line is not reasonably necessary for the purposes of the railroad company, although it incidentally benefits therefrom.[41] On the other hand, it has been held that,

29. U.S.—Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., Mo., 60 S.Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L.Ed. 876, applying Illinois law.
Ky.—Sherman v. Petroleum Exploration, 132 S.W.2d 768, 280 Ky. 105, 132 A.L.R. 137.
Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.
51 C.J. p. 573 note 10.
Ownership of minerals generally see Mines and Minerals, §§ 132–134
Sales and conveyances of minerals generally see Mines and Minerals §§ 143–163

"Other material" construed

Statute authorizing railroad to use any earth, timber, stone, or "other material" on its right of way necessary to construction and operation of railroad did not entitle railroad to drill for and produce oil and gas from its right of way for use in operating railroad, since term "other material" means material of the same class as materials enumerated —Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. State, 78 S.W.2d 580, 124 Tex. 482, certiorari denied Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. State of Texas, 56 S.Ct. 91, 296 U.S. 581, 80 L.Ed. 410, appeal dismissed 56 S.Ct. 369, 296 U.S. 552, 80 L.Ed. 390.

30. Tex.—Gladys City Oil, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Right of Way Oil Co., Civ.App., 137 S.W. 171, affirmed 157 S.W. 737, 106 Tex. 94, 51 L.R.A.,N.S., 268
51 C.J. p. 573 note 11.

31. Mo.—Evans v. Haefner, 29 Mo. 141.

32. U.S.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Marietta Oil Corp., C.C.A. La., 102 F.2d 603.
51 C.J. p. 573 note 13

33. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Simpson, 104 N.E. 301, 108 N.E. 9, 182 Ind. 693.
51 C.J. p. 573 note 14
Remedies of owner of mineral rights generally see Mines and Minerals §§ 136–142

34. U.S.—Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., Mo., 60 S.Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L.Ed. 876, applying Illinois law.
Ky.—Cornett v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 182 S.W.2d 230, 298 Ky. 95
Mich.—Attorney General v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 860, 263 Mich. 431, 94 A.L.R. 520—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143
Tex.—Brightwell v. International-Great Northern R. Co., 49 S.W.2d 437, 121 Tex. 338, 84 A.L.R. 265—Nesral Production Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 84 S.W.2d 805, error dismissed
51 C.J. p. 573 note 15.

35. Mich.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143
Tex.—Nesral Production Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 84 S.W.2d 805, error dismissed—Crowell v. Howard, Civ.App., 200 S.W. 911.

36. La.—Nelson v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 92 So. 754, 152 La. 117.
Mich.—Attorney General v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 860, 263 Mich. 431, 94 A.L.R. 520.
Tex.—Nesral Production Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 84 S.W.2d 805, error dismissed
Permitting use by third persons generally see infra § 101

37. La.—Nelson v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 92 So. 754, 152 La. 117.

38. N.C.—Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 45 S.E. 572, 133 N.C. 225.
51 C.J. p. 573 note 20
Right of owner to additional compensation see Eminent Domain § 134.

39. Ind.—Prather v. Western Union Tel. Co., 89 Ind. 501
N.C.—Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 45 S.E. 572, 133 N.C. 225.

40. Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Eureka Real Est. & Inv. Co. v. Southern Real Est. & Financial Co., 290 S.W.2d 328, 332, 355 Mo. 1199
51 C.J. p. 573 note 22, p. 577 note 64

41. Md.—American Tel., etc., Co

if, after the application of as much of the use of its right of way as the maintenance of its own railroad and telegraph line requires, there remains a surplus thereof, the company may lease or permit that surplus or any part of it for telegraph purposes which do not interfere with its own uses.[42]

§ 100. —— Exclusiveness of Possession and Use

a. In general
b. Use or interference by owner

a. In General

As a general rule a railroad company, after its right of way has been located and constructed, has practically the right to the uninterrupted and exclusive possession, use, and control of the surface of the land constituting its right of way and necessary for conducting its business, except where, by consent of the public authorities, it is built on a public highway or over public crossings

As a general rule a railroad company, after its right of way has been located and constructed,[43] has practically the right to the uninterrupted and exclusive possession, use, and control of the surface of the land constituting its right of way and necessary for conducting its business,[44] except where, by consent of the public authorities, it is built on a public highway or over public crossings.[45] As long as the railroad company occupies any portion of its right of way, it has the exclusive use and right of control coextensive with its boundaries,[46] and may occupy and use it at any time against all persons, even the owner of the fee, without showing any actual necessity for its possession for railway purposes, as long as the easement exists and the railroad is operated over it for the purposes of the grant.[47]

Under title in fee. Where the railroad company has title in fee to its right of way, it is entitled to enjoy, in the discharge of its duties as common carrier, the exclusive use and control of the right of way, relieved from any rights therein of adjoining owners to the same extent as a private person would be;[48] and the fact that the road is constructed through a tunnel or archway does not impair this exclusive right or give the original owner any right to the ground above.[49]

A railroad company may exclude persons from its property where they do not have business with the company in its capacity as a common carrier,[50] and to this extent may arbitrarily exclude one individual from its property while admitting others.[51]

b. Use or Interference by Owner

The owner of the servient estate may not so use his adjoining land as to interfere with the use by the railroad company of its right of way.

In accordance with the rule of exclusive use and possession in the railroad company, as discussed supra subdivision a of this section, the owner of the servient estate may not so use his adjoining land as to interfere with the use by the railroad company of its right of way;[52] and, in some jurisdictions, he has no right to enter on or occupy any part of the right of way, in any mode or for any purpose, without the consent of the company,[53] unless such rights

v. Pearce, 18 A. 910, 71 Md. 535, 7 L.R.A. 200.

42. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. North American Tel. Co., Minn., 230 F. 347, 144 C.C.A. 489, L.R.A. 1916E 572, Rule criticized
Tenn.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 237 S.W. 64, 145 Tenn. 85, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 382, 258 U.S. 626, 66 L.Ed. 798.

43. N.C.—Goldsboro Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros. Lumber Co., 35 S.E. 458, 126 N.C. 254
51 C.J. p. 574 note 28.
Nature and extent of rights acquired in case of condemnation see Eminent Domain § 449.

44. U.S.—Polk v. Ball, C.C.A.La., 149 F.2d 263—Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A.Mo., 106 F.2d 217, reversed on other grounds Thompson v. Magnolia Petroleum Co., 60 S.Ct. 628, 309 U.S. 478, 84 L.Ed. 876.
Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 47 N.E.2d 115, 317 Ill.App. 501, reversed on other grounds 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Aman, 254 Ill.App. 498.
Mass.—Tamkun v. Boston & M. R. R., 18 N.E.2d 359, 302 Mass. 59.
Mo.—Hoops v. Thompson, 212 S.W. 2d 730, 357 Mo. 1160.
N.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lissenbee, 13 S.E.2d 561, 219 N.C. 318.
Tenn.—Corpus Juris cited in Harrison v. Southern Ry. Co., 215 S.W. 2d 31, 35, 31 Tenn.App. 377.
Tex.—Peterson v. Holland, Civ.App., 189 S.W.2d 94, error refused
51 C.J. p. 574 note 28.

45. Ill.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Aman, 254 Ill.App. 498
Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spaulding, 77 P. 106, 69 Kan. 431, 105 Am.S.R. 175, 66 L.R.A. 587.
Mo.—Hoops v. Thompson, 212 S.W. 2d 730, 357 Mo. 1160
Nature and extent of right or use of streets, highways, and other public places generally see infra § 112.

46. Ala.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Banks, 92 So. 117, 207 Ala. 194.
51 C.J. p. 574 note 30.

47. Ala.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Banks, 92 So. 117, 207 Ala. 194.
Tenn.—Corpus Juris cited in Harrison v. Southern Ry. Co., 215 S.W. 2d 31, 35, 31 Tenn.App. 377.

48. Tex.—Calcasieu Lumber Co. v. Harris, 13 S.W. 453, 77 Tex. 18
51 C.J. p. 574 note 32.

49. Pa.—Junction R. Co. v. Boyd, 8 Phila. 224.

50. Ga.—Kates v. Atlanta Baggage, etc., Co., 34 S.E. 372, 107 Ga. 636, 46 L.R.A. 431.
52 C.J. p. 637 note 26
Care required and liability of railroad in removal of trespassers see infra §§ 929–931.

51. Ga.—Weimer v. Savannah Union Station Co., 90 S.E. 84, 18 Ga.App. 570.

52. Ill.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Aman, 254 Ill.App. 498.
51 C.J. p. 575 note 35.

53. U.S.—Polk v. Ball, C.C.A.La.,

or privileges are conceded or agreed on by the company[54] or, either expressly or impliedly, reserved in the grant,[55] or authorized by statute;[56] and statutes have been enacted to prevent encroachments on a railroad right of way.[57] Furthermore, it is the duty of the railroad company to prevent the adjoining owner from placing dangerous constructions on the right of way.[58]

In other jurisdictions, however, this rule is so modified as to permit the adjoining owner to use portions of the right of way which are not being used by the railroad and not necessary to the safe and convenient use of used portions,[59] or to enter on and use the land in any manner not inconsistent or interfering with its use by the railroad company;[60] but this right of the owner of the fee does not extend to one who is not such owner or who does not claim under him.[61] The occupancy and use by the owner are subject to the right of the railroad company to extend its use of the right of way to its full extent, whenever the proper management and business necessities of the road require it,[62] and the company is the judge of such necessity[63]

Where the comany has the title in fee, there is no valid right in adjoining landowners or others to occupy as against the railroad company portions of the land not actually used by the company, and one attempting to take possession of such portion is a trespasser[64]

Timber right of way. A grant of a railroad right of way, to be used in carrying on timber operations, does not exclude the right of the owner to use the land subject thereto,[65] and, where he subsequently grants the timber rights and a right of way for a railroad to another company, the prior grantee is not entitled to enjoin the subsequent grantee from crossing the line of his right of way.[66]

Remedy for interference. A railroad company may bring an action of trespass for interference with its enjoyment of its easement in its right of way,[67] or the railroad company may be protected by injunction against such interference[68] without regard to the solvency of the persons interfering therewith.[69] Likewise, where a railroad company has the exclusive right to the enjoyment of an easement, it may maintain forcible entry and detainer.[70] Under the rule that the adjoining owner is not entitled to use the right of way for any purpose, the company is entitled, as against the owner of the servient estate, to recover possession without showing an immediate need of the land for railroad purposes, or that such occupancy by the servient owner disturbs the enjoyment of the right of way for railway purposes.[71] However, under the modi-

149 F.2d 263—Kansas City Southern R Co v. Marietta Oil Corp, C C A.La, 102 F 2d 603
Ill—Chicago, B. & Q R. Co. v Aman, 254 Ill App 498
Tex.—Peterson v Holland, Civ App, 189 S.W 2d 94, error refused—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Candler, Civ.App, 40 S.W 2d 915, affirmed, Com.App., 61 S W.2d 997.
51 C.J p 575 note 36.

Rights of owner as against third person

The owner of adjoining land who is permitted to use a part of the right of way cannot recover damages against a third person for causing obstruction thereon—Campbell v. Southwestern Tel., etc., Co, 158 S W. 1085, 108 Ark. 569—51 C.J. p 579 note 84.

54. Mont.—Montana Ore Purchasing Co v Boston, etc., Min. Co., 22 P. 375, 20 Mont. 533.
51 C J. p 575 notes 37, 39.

55. Mich.—Hanselman v. Grand Trunk Western R Co., 128 N W 732, 163 Mich. 496.
51 C J. p 575 note 38.

56. Conn—New York, etc, R. Co. v. Armstrong, 102 A. 791, 92 Conn. 349.
51 C.J. p 575 note 40.

57. Pa—Downing v. McFadden, 18 Pa 334
51 C J p 575 note 41

58. Tenn—Corpus Juris cited in Harrison v Southern Ry Co, 215 S W 2d 31, 35, 31 Tenn App 377
51 C.J. p 575 note 42.

59. U S—Midland Valley R Co v Sutter, C C A Kan, 28 F 2d 163, certiorari granted 49 S Ct 185, 278 U.S. 597, 73 L Ed. 527, certiorari dismissed 50 S.Ct. 65, 280 U S. 521, 74 L Ed. 590.
N C—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Bunting, 84 S E. 1009, 168 N.C. 579.

60. Ill.—Farmers' Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v. Toledo, P & W R R, 44 N E 2d 77, 316 Ill App. 116
N C.—Carolina & N W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co, 51 S E 2d 301, 229 N.C. 695.
51 C.J. p 575 note 44.

61. Kan—Kansas, etc, R. Co. v. Burns, 79 P 238, 70 Kan 627.

62. N.C—Carolina & N. W. Ry Co v Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co, 51 S E.2d 301, 229 N C 695.

63. N.C—Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co, supra.

64. Pa.—Junction R Co. v. Boyd, 8 Phila. 224.

65. S C—Wilkins v Hilton-Dodge Lumber Co, 78 S E 873, 95 S C 248, Ann Cas.1915C 1190

66. S C—Wilkins v. Hilton-Dodge Lumber Co, supra

67. U S—New Mexico v U. S. Trust Co., N M., 19 S Ct 128, 172 U.S. 171, 43 L.Ed 407—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Stricklin, D C N.C., 264 F. 546.

68. N.C—Carolina & N. W. Ry Co. v Piedmont Wagon & Mfg. Co, 51 S.E 2d 301, 229 N C. 695.
51 C J p 576 note 50.

Drilling on right of way

Injunction is a proper remedy to prevent drilling and operation of oil and gas wells on the railroad right of way by persons claiming under the former owner.—Midland Valley R Co. v. Sutter, C C.A Kan, 28 F 2d 163, certiorari granted 49 S.Ct. 185, 278 U S 597, 73 L.Ed 527, certiorari dismissed 50 S Ct. 65, 280 U.S. 521, 74 L Ed 590.

69. N C—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 55 S.E. 263, 142 N.C. 257

70. Ill.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Aman, 254 Ill.App. 498.

Instructions held properly refused

Ill.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Aman, 254 Ill.App. 498.

71. Minn—Chicago Great Western fied rule an injunction will not issue where the use by the adjoining owner is not inconsistent or does not interfere with the use by the railroad company.[72] It has been held that an injunction will lie to restrain the railroad company from interfering with the use of the land by the owner where such use does not interfere with the reasonable and proper use of the right of way for railroad purposes.[73]

§ 101. —— Permitting Use by Third Person

a. In general
b. Provision for exemption or indemnity from liability

a. In General

Except to the extent that it is restricted by its charter, or the terms of its grant, or by public policy, a railroad company may, by lease or license, permit third persons to use a portion of its right of way or other land for purposes which are not inconsistent or which do not interfere with its use for railroad purposes.

Except to the extent that it is restricted by its charter,[74] or the terms of its grant,[75] or by public policy,[76] a railroad company may, by lease or license, permit third persons to use a portion of its right of way or other land for purposes which are not inconsistent or which do not interfere with its use for railroad purposes,[77] or which in no way concern or affect its duty as a common carrier,[78] or which become a part of the means of operation or of facilitating shipments.[79] A railroad company, however, may not alienate its right of way or any part of it so as to interfere with the full performance of its functions as a railroad.[80] Likewise, an

R Co. v Zahner, 177 N.W. 350, 145 Minn 312

72. Ill.—Farmers Grain & Supply Co. of Warsaw v Toledo, P & W. R R., 44 N.E.2d 77, 316 Ill.App. 116.
51 C.J. p 577 note 55

73. Md.—Richfield Oil Corp of New York v Chesapeake & C B R Co., 20 A.2d 581, 179 Md. 560.
Jurisdiction
Where there were breaches of peace by oil corporation and railroad companies before filing of bill of complaint by oil corporation to enjoin railroad companies from interfering with complainant's placing of pipe lines under defendants' right of way on complainant's property and parties to suit agreed to commit no further acts while case was pending, equity had jurisdiction thereof in order to avoid multiplicity of litigation.—Richfield Oil Corp of New York v. Chesapeake & C. B. R. Co., supra.
Decree held to conform to pleadings
Md.—Chesapeake & C. B R Co. v. Richfield Oil Corp. of New York, 23 A.2d 677, 180 Md. 192, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1297, 316 U.S. 698, 86 L.Ed. 1768.

74. Tenn.—City of Knoxville v Kaiser, 33 S.W.2d 411, 161 Tenn. 607.
Lease or license held not ultra vires
Tenn.—City of Knoxville v. Kaiser, supra.
51 C.J. p 577 note 60 [c].

75. La.—Bond v. Texas & P. R. Co., 160 So. 406, 181 La. 763.
51 C.J. p 577 note 58.

76. Mich.—Detroit v C. H. Little Co., 109 N.W. 671, 146 Mich. 373.
Lease held not contrary to public policy
Tenn.—City of Knoxville v Kaiser, 33 S.W.2d 411, 161 Tenn. 607.
51 C.J. p 577 note 59 [a].

77. U.S.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co v Marietta Oil Corp., D.C.La., 22 F.Supp 279, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 102 F.2d 603—Oregon Short Line R Co v Ada County, D.C.Idaho, 18 F.Supp 842, affirmed, C.C.A., Ada County v Oregon Short Line R. Co., 97 F.2d 666
Fla.—Flowers v. Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co., 192 So. 321, 140 Fla. 805
Mo.—Corpus Juris cited in Eureka Real Est. & Inv. Co. v Southern Real Est. & Financial Co., 200 S.W.2d 328, 332, 355 Mo. 1199.
Tenn.—City of Knoxville v. Kaiser, 33 S.W.2d 411, 161 Tenn. 607.
Tex.—Turner v. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 59 S.W.2d 239, error refused.
51 C.J. p 577 note 60.
Incidental uses of lands or rights acquired see supra § 99.
Public use
Railroad may permit use of right of way for any purpose not interfering with public use.—Sioux City, Iowa v Missouri Valley Pipe Line Co., D.C.Iowa, 46 F.2d 819.
Injunction
Owner of fee cannot enjoin use of right of way by railroad's licensee for driving stock to station without showing special or irreparable damages.—Hall v. Bowers, 222 N.W. 40, 117 Neb. 619, 61 A.L.R. 724, opinion adhered to 225 N.W. 49, 117 Neb. 619, 61 A.L.R. 724.
Registration of lease
Railroad's lease of property for year, and thereafter subject to cancellation, was held not required to be registered as to third person.—City of Knoxville v. Kaiser, 33 S.W.2d 411, 161 Tenn. 607.

78. U.S.—National Transit Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.Pa., 6 F.2d 729, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 104, 269 U.S. 579, 70 L.Ed. 422.
51 C.J. p 577 note 61.
Right to use tracks, right of way, or other property of another road see infra § 114
Leases between railroad companies generally see infra §§ 208–213.
Exclusive license or lease
(1) Fact that a railroad company had for a long time allowed private individuals to engage in the business of loading logs at points between stations, and that plaintiff under a contract with the railroad, not as shipper, but merely as a log-loading agency, had built up a profitable business under that arrangement, does not give plaintiff any right to insist that it be continued, and he may not object that the railroad company thereafter gave another the exclusive license to load logs between stations.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Crawford, 65 So. 462, 107 Miss. 355, L.R.A.1915C 250.

(2) Generally, railroad right of way adjacent to tracks, when not part of railroad transportation facilities devoted or necessary to public use, is private property, and carrier may lease it for private purposes to one or more persons and deny like privilege to others.
U.S.—Donovan v. Pennsylvania R Co., Ill., 26 S.Ct. 91, 199 U.S. 279, 50 L.Ed 192—Missouri P R. Co v Nebraska, Neb., 17 S.Ct 130, 164 U.S. 403, 41 L.Ed 489.
Neb.—Johnson v. Union Pac. R. Co., 274 N.W. 581, 133 Neb 243

79. U.S.—Oregon Short Line R. Co. v. Ada County, D.C.Idaho, 18 F.Supp. 842, affirmed, C.C.A., Ada County v. Oregon Short Line R Co., 97 F.2d 666.
Iowa.—Hohl v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 143 N.W. 850, 162 Iowa 66.

80. U.S.—Oregon Short Line R. Co v Ada County, D.C.Idaho, 18 F.Supp. 842, affirmed, C.C.A., Ada easement for railroad purposes does not entitle the railroad company to let the property for private or nonrailroad purposes.[81] Where the railroad company owns only an easement for railroad purposes, if the use of the right of way by a third person is primarily for the benefit of the railroad as a common carrier, it is for railroad purposes even though incidental benefits flow to the private user.[82] On the other hand, if the use of an easement for railroad purposes is primarily private in nature, the fact that the railroad is incidentally benefited thereby, through the acquisition of a new customer or increased shipments, does not convert it into a railroad use.[83] Accordingly, where the railroad company owns only an easement, it cannot, within the limits of its right of way, permit the erection of warehouses, factories, and the like, not necessarily connected with the use of its franchise,[84] or grant an easement in a private way over its tracks.[85] Further, it has been held that a lease of land by a railroad for a retail filling station is not a proper use of land in which the railroad has only an easement for railroad purposes,[86] although the letting by the railroad of part of its right of way for the purpose of maintaining a bulk oil station,[87] or a combination bulk oil and retail drive-in filling station,[88] has been held a proper use of the land, and such use may not be enjoined by the owner of the fee.[89]

Subject to the above rules, a railroad company may permit the erection of warehouses, elevators, or other buildings or platforms thereon for convenience in delivering and receiving freight,[90] provided the company's duty to shippers is discharged without discrimination;[91] permit the construction of a drainage ditch;[92] permit a third person to use the right of way to haul material to the station for transportation over the railroad,[93] although he makes a profit therefrom,[94] or permit the public to use a right of way across the tracks.[95] A railroad company may construct a spur track for the use of a third person,[96] or it may permit a third

County v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 97 F.2d 666
51 C.J. p 577 note 63.
Right to alienate or transfer franchises or property generally see infra § 197.

81. N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N. C. 589.

Uses held not for railroad purposes
(1) Private gin company serving general public—Bond v. Texas & P. R. Co., 160 So. 406, 181 La. 763
(2) Tobacco storage and curing business—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., 61 S.E.2d 700, 232 N.C. 589

82. N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., supra.

83. N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., supra.

84. N.C.—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., supra.

Ejectment
Where owners of fee who instituted ejectment action made no claim adverse to the right of the railroad in easement or its right to use the easement for railroad purposes but rested their claim on the allegation that the use by the defendants was for a nonrailroad purpose, the statute pertaining to the acquisition of a right of way and limiting owner of the fee to the maintenance of an action for damages resulting from the taking of the right-of-way easement was not applicable—Sparrow v. Dixie Leaf Tobacco Co., supra.

85. N.D.—Lincoln v. Great Northern R. Co., 144 N.W. 713, 26 N.D. 504.

86. U.S.—In re Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 127 F.2d 1001, certiorari denied Thomson v. Hicks, 63 S.Ct. 59, 317 U.S. 659, 87 L.Ed. 530, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 155, 317 U.S. 708, 87 L.Ed. 564.
Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 47 N.E.2d 115, 317 Ill.App. 501, reversed on other grounds 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369

87. Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra
Miss.—Weir v. Standard Oil Co., 101 So. 290, 136 Miss. 205.

88. Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369

Acquiescence of predecessors in title
The acquiescence by predecessors in title of owner in fee of land subject to an easement for railroad purposes for many years in similar uses afforded a practical interpretation of the easement, fortifying the conclusion that railroad's lease of land for use as a combination bulk oil and retail drive-in filling station was a proper use—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra.

89. Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra.

90. U.S.—Oregon Short Line R. Co. v. Ada County, D.C.Idaho, 18 F.Supp. 842, affirmed, C.C.A., Ada County v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 97 F.2d 666.
Tenn.—City of Knoxville v. Kaiser, 83 S.W.2d 411, 161 Tenn. 607.
51 C.J. p 577 note 68.

Adverse possession
(1) Possession of railroad right of way by others must be deemed permissive and, in absence of positive notice to railroad, will not support necessary presumption of grant—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williams, 53 S.W.2d 751, 245 Ky. 466.
(2) Other decisions with respect to adverse possession see 51 C.J. p 577 note 68 [d].

91. Va.—Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Lybrook, 69 S.E. 1066, 111 Va. 623, Ann.Cas.1912A. 175.

Acts held not discriminatory
A railroad company owning title to land on which former lessee had erected packing house had power to grant or withhold lease of lands to such tenant as against contention that company, by agreement and trade with competitors of the former lessee discriminated against him—Flowers v. Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co., 192 So. 321, 140 Fla. 805

92. Mont.—Mize v. Rocky Mountain Bell Tel. Co., 100 P. 971, 38 Mont. 521, 129 Am.S.R. 659, 16 Ann.Cas. 1189.
51 C.J. p 578 note 70.

93. Iowa.—Hohl v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 143 N.W. 850, 162 Iowa 66.

94. Iowa.—Hohl v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., supra.

95. U.S.—Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Commission, D.C.La., 287 F. 390, affirmed 44 S.Ct. 358, 264 U.S. 393, 68 L.Ed. 756.
51 C.J. p 578 note 73.

96. Tex.—Turner v. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 59 S.W.2d 239, error refused.

person to construct a spur track,[97] across or over its right of way for legitimate railroad purposes, and in such a case the spur track does not create an additional servitude on the land,[98] unless it has no connection with the railroad whose right of way it crosses,[99] in which case it is a trespass, for which the owner of the fee is entitled to an account[1]

Who may object. The act of leasing or permitting the use of the land may not be attacked as ultra vires, on the ground that the corporation cannot hold land for such purposes, by anyone except the state[2] A grantor of land "for railroad purposes only" is estopped to claim a right of reëntry because of the granting of certain licenses by the company for nonrailroad purposes, where he himself has accepted similar licenses;[3] and a person who claims to hold land under a railroad right of way may not deny the fact that it is a right of way.[4]

Rights of assignee. An assignee of an easement in railroad tracks has the same right to use the tracks as his assignor had[5]

Rights as between licensees. As between licensees of the same portion of a railroad right of way, claims of the licensee whose license is prior in time is superior to those of subsequent licensees,[6] and until such prior license is revoked subsequent licensees may not maintain an action for trespass against the prior licensee,[7] since the rights of the subsequent licensees do not rise any higher than those of the railroad company.[8]

Requisites and validity. General principles relating to the requisites and validity of contracts and leases apply to the requisites and validity of agreements permitting the use of a railroad right of way by third persons.[9]

Construction. General rules as to the construction of contracts and leases apply in the construction of contracts and leases permitting use of a railroad right of way by third persons.[10] Accordingly, where two or more instruments are executed contemporaneously, with respect to each other, for the purpose of attaining a preconceived object, they must all be construed together and effect given, if possible, to the purpose intended to be accomplished[11] Where a lease of railroad property on the right of way is prepared by the railroad company, it is to be construed favorably to the lessee.[12]

General rights and liabilities of lessor and lessee. The rights, duties, and liabilities of the lessor and lessee, as between themselves, in so far as they are provided for in the lease, must be governed by the terms and proper construction of that contract.[13] Accordingly, the lessee may not use the

97. S C—Cayce Land Co. v Guignard, 134 S E 1, 135 S.C. 446.

98. S C—Cayce Land Co v. Guignard, supra

99. S C—Cayce Land Co. v. Guignard, supra

1. S C—Cayce Land Co. v Guignard, supra.
51 C J. p 578 note 77

2. Mich—Attorney General v. Pere Marquette Ry Co, 248 N.W. 860, 263 Mich. 431, 94 A.L R 520
51 C J. p 578 note 78.

3. Ark—Ritter v. Thompson, 144 S W. 910, 102 Ark 442.

4. Puerto Rico—Gonzales v American R. Co, 6 Puerto Rico Fed 460

5. Minn—Minneapolis Mill Co v Minneapolis, etc, R. Co., 57 N.W. 64, 55 Minn. 371
51 C.J. p 578 note 83

6. Pa—Robertson Coal & Coke Co v. Rothey, 162 A 332, 106 Pa Super. 463.

Authority of "freight agent"

Where railroad company designated person as "freight agent," it clothed him with authority to do things usually done by such agents, including making of arrangements with shippers for unloading freight. —Robertson Coal & Coke Co. v. Rothey, supra.

7. Pa—Robertson Coal & Coke Co. v. Rothey, supra.

8. Pa—Robertson Coal & Coke Co v. Rothey, supra.

9. Tex.—Daugherty v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R Co. of Tex., Civ. App., 221 S W.2d 928.

Offer and acceptance

Telegram sent by assistant director of industrial research and development of railroad to railroad's local agent approving request of grain dealer, who desired to build a grain elevator along railroad's right of way in certain city, to occupy railroad ground, and inquiring whether grain dealer wanted to lease all ground between certain streets, and inquiring on what side of track the ground was located, was not a sufficiently definite offer on part of railroad, and acceptance thereof by grain dealer did not give rise to a contract for breach of which grain dealer could recover damages.—Daugherty v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. of Tex., supra

10. Cal—People v. Ganahl Lumber Co, 75 P 2d 1067, 10 Cal 2d 501.

11. Cal—People v. Ganahl Lumber Co., supra.

12. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co. v. Travis Insulation Co., 223 S.W.2d 765, 215 Ark. 868.

Lease held not violated

Provision in lease of railroad property on right of way for warehouse purposes prohibiting "use" and "occupancy" of leased premises by third persons was not violated by lessee accepting property of third persons for safe-keeping under its own supervision.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Travis Insulation Co, supra.

13. S D—Babcock v. McKee, 18 N. W.2d 750, 70 S D. 442.

Implied covenant for quiet enjoyment

(1) A lessee had no cause of action for breach of implied covenant of power to demise existing in railroad attempting to lease property which it did not own where lessee expressly agreed in the lease to waive all right to question the right or power of the lessor to execute the lease sued on.—Johnson v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R Co., Mo., 216 S.W. 2d 499.

(2) Where, under a lease of property abutting a railroad right of way for warehouse purposes, parties intended to waive all damages for breach of implied covenant for quiet enjoyment, a covenant that the premises be open both legally and actually for entry at the beginning of the term could not be implied, so demised premises for a use different from that designated in the lease,[14] or for a use not contemplated or intended by the parties at the time of its execution and delivery,[15] and the lessee, as against the railroad, may not authorize others to make such different use while his rights as lessee remain fixed by the original terms of the lease.[16] The mere use of the premises for a purpose beyond the scope of the lease will not bind the railroad in the absence of its knowledge or consent,[17] and acquiescence of the railroad company is not the equivalent of an invitation.[18]

Termination of lease. Provisions in the lease with respect to its termination will be accorded effect.[19] If its termination is provided for on a specified notice by either party, in the absence of such termination it will be presumed to continue in existence,[20] although it is no longer fulfilling its function.[21] Accordingly, until the lease is terminated, the tenant has the exclusive right of possession,[22] and any obstruction thereof is a trespass for which damages may be recovered [23]

Authority of boards or commissions. Under some statutes, boards or commissions may regulate charges for leases of railroad property or property under the control of railroad companies [24] The primary purpose of such statutes is to prevent rate discrimination being accomplished indirectly by common carriers through the medium of leases of railroad property.[25] Under such statutes, boards and commissions have the authority to determine the rental value of a site on a railroad right of way where such site is used wholly for public purposes,[26] but they are not empowered to take property of the railroad which is not employed in the public service for the private use of another.[27] Accordingly, such statutes do not empower boards or commissions to compel a railroad company to lease its right of way[28] or to compel it to permit the continued use of the premises after a breach of the lease by the lessee,[29] or to compel a railroad to renew a lease,[30] even though the railroad does not desire to use the property in its business [31] Likewise, a statute authorizing a railroad commission to direct a railroad to furnish sites for private elevators or warehouses has been held invalid,[32] and to confer no power on the railroad as to authorize recovery for breach thereof, where it was subsequently ascertained that railroad did not own property attempted to be leased.—Johnson v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co, supra.

14. Mass—O'Brien v Boston & M R. R., 91 N E 2d 218, 325 Mass 451

15. Mass—O'Brien v. Boston & M R. R, supra.

16. Mass—O'Brien v Boston & M. R R, supra.

17. Mass—O'Brien v. Boston & M R. R., supra.

18. Mass—O'Brien v. Boston & M. R R., supra.

19. Ky—Louisville & N R. Co. v Williams, 53 S.W.2d 751, 245 Ky. 466.

Removal of property on termination of lease

(1) Where railroad unequivocally stated in a letter to former lessee that elevator which lessee had neglected to remove on termination of lease of railroad's land belonged to railroad, subsequent negotiations between railroad and former lessee looking to the releasing of the premises and reacquisition of elevator by lessee did not establish a waiver by railroad of its right of ownership acquired under lease—Babcock v. McKee, 18 N.W 2d 750, 70 S D. 442.

(2) Where, under terms of lease, elevator erected on railroad land became property of railroad on lessee's failure to remove elevator before termination of lease, railroad's act in extending to former lessee privilege of removing elevator within a specified time, which lessee permitted to pass without removal, was not inconsistent with railroad's ownership of elevator—Babcock v McKee, supra

(3) Where railroad cancelled lease for nonpayment of rent and acquired ownership of elevator erected by lessee by virtue of lessee's failure to remove structure within the designated time after notice of termination as provided in lease, lessee's subsequent payment of a sum in settlement of rent due to time of cancellation merely indicated that all parties recognized effect of cancellation, and acceptance of such payment by railroad did not indicate waiver by railroad of ownership of elevator.—Babcock v. McKee, supra.

20. Ark—Clark v. St Louis, etc, R Co, 201 S W. 111, 132 Ark. 257.

21. Ark—Clark v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 766 note 20.

22. Ky.—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Williams, 53 S.W.2d 751, 245 Ky. 466

23. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williams, supra.

24. Mich—Bohn Lumber Products Co. v. Michigan Public Service Commission, 26 N.W.2d 875, 317 Mich 174.

Review

Railroad held not entitled to certiorari in supreme court to review order of railroad commissioners fixing rent for industrial site on railroad's right of way, in view of original jurisdiction of circuit court from whose decision an appeal could be taken to supreme court—Chicago, M, St P. & P R Co. v. Board of Railroad Com'rs of South Dakota, 266 N W 660, 64 S D. 297.

25. Mich—Bohn Lumber Products Co. v Michigan Public Service Commission, 26 N.W.2d 875, 317 Mich 174

26. Iowa—Ferguson v. Illinois Cent R Co, 210 N W 604, 202 Iowa 508, 54 A.L.R. 1
Mich.—Bohn Lumber Products Co. v Michigan Public Service Commission, 26 N W 2d 875, 317 Mich. 174.

27. Iowa.—Ferguson v. Illinois Cent R Co., 210 N.W. 604, 202 Iowa 508, 54 A L R. 1.
Mich—Bohn Lumber Products Co v. Michigan Public Service Commission, 26 N.W 2d 875, 317 Mich 174

28. Iowa—Ferguson v. Illinois Cent R Co., 210 N.W. 604, 202 Iowa 508, 54 A L R. 1.

29. Neb—Johnson v. Union Pac. R Co, 274 N W. 581, 133 Neb 243

30. Mich—Bohn Lumber Products Co v Michigan Public Service Commission, 26 N.W 2d 875, 317 Mich. 174.

31. Mich.—Bohn Lumber Products Co. v Michigan Public Service Commission, supra.

32. Wis—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 221 N.W. 399, 197 Wis. 59.

commission to direct the making of a lease for a portion of its right of way.[33]

b. Provision for Exemption or Indemnity from Liability

Where a contract permitting the use of its right of way in no way concerns or affects the duty of a railroad as a common carrier, it may contract with respect to such use as it sees fit, and may contract for exemption or indemnity from loss or liability for negligence.

Although a railroad company cannot contract for exemption from liability with respect to the performance of its duty as a common carrier, as discussed in Carriers §§ 88–118, 625–639, where a contract permitting use of its right of way in no way concerns or affects the railroad's duty as common carrier, it may contract with respect to such use as it sees fit,[34] and is not subject to any different rule of law than that applicable to other property owners.[35] Accordingly, it may contract for exemption or indemnity from loss or liability for negligence,[36] since the public has no interest as to which of the contracting parties shall suffer the loss.[37] Likewise, in leasing a portion of its right of way for such uses, it may provide that it shall not be liable for negligence resulting in damage to property placed on the leased premises,[38] and such a lease should be considered as extended to cover the use actually made of the property by the lessee or his assignee, in possession.[39] Such a contract is not affected by extensions and changes of location made by mutual consent and under express verbal agreements.[40] A provision in a lease which exempts the railroad from liability for damages resulting from the installation, maintenance, or use of an unloading device has been held not to free the railroad from liability for damages directly resulting from the negligence of the company in unreasonably blocking a crossing.[41]

§ 102. Rights in, and Use of, Streets, Highways, and Other Public Places

The acquisition by a railroad of powers to lay its tracks and operate its trains in public highways or streets involves a grant of two distinct rights, which are the property right to burden the landowner's fee with an additional servitude, and the right to diminish, obstruct, or affect the uses of the street by the public at large.

The acquisition by a railroad of powers to lay its tracks and operate its trains in public highways or streets involves a grant of two distinct rights.[42] One is the property right to burden the landowner's fee with an additional servitude,[43] the power to grant which, whether the landowner be a municipality or an abutter, is an attribute of land proprietorship, and is unrelated to sovereign or governmental power.[44] The other right is the right to diminish, obstruct, or affect the uses of the street by the public at large,[45] the conveyance of which may be made only by or through the sovereign or governmental power of the state legislature.[46]

§ 103. —— Legislataive Grant or Authority

The right of a railroad company to construct and operate its road on or along a public street or highway or other public place can be acquired only by virtue of an enactment or grant of the state legislature.

33. Wis.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. Railroad Commission, supra.

34. U S—Michigan Millers Mut Fire Ins. Co. v. Canadian Northern Ry Co, C.C A Minn., 152 F 2d 292.
51 C J. p 579 note 86.

Where lease of grain warehouse property contained provision exempting railroad as lessor from liability to lessee for loss occasioned by railroad's negligent acts, fact that lease contained further provisions obligating lessee to ship all freight over railroad company's system as far as possible, did not make the lease a contract executed by railroad in its capacity as common carrier, so as to render the provision exempting railroad from liability invalid.—Michigan Millers Mut. Fire Ins Co. v. Canadian Northern Ry Co, D C. Minn., 58 F Supp. 326, affirmed, C.C. A, 152 F 2d 292.

35. U.S—Michigan Millers Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Canadian Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 152 F.2d 292.

36. Ark—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co v Travis Insulation Co., 223 S W 2d 765, 215 Ark 868
Neb—Luedeke v Chicago & N W Ry. Co, 231 N.W 695, 120 Neb 124, 71 A L.R. 912.
51 C.J p 579 note 87.

37. U.S—Michigan Millers Mut Fire Ins Co. v. Canadian Northern Ry Co, C.C A.Minn, 152 F.2d 292.

Lease held not contrary to public policy
U.S—Michigan Millers Mut. Fire Ins. Co v. Canadian Northern Ry Co, D.C.Mo., 58 F.Supp. 326, affirmed, C C.A., 152 F 2d 292.
51 C.J. p 579 note 88 [a].

38. U.S—Southern R. Co v. Stearns, C.C.A N.C., 28 F 2d 560, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 252, 279 U S. 838, 73 L Ed. 985.
51 C J. p 579 note 88.
Contract as exempting from liability for fire see infra § 510.

39. U.S—Southern R. Co. v. Stearns, supra
51 C J. p 579 note 90.

40. Ga—Davis v. Gossett, 118 S E 773, 30 Ga App. 576.

41. Neb.—Luedeke v. Chicago & N. W Ry Co, 231 N.W. 695, 120 Neb. 124, 71 A L.R. 912.

42. N Y.—People v State Tax Commission, 202 N Y S 310, 206 App Div 549, affirmed 148 N E. 718, 240 N Y. 591.

43. N.Y—People v. State Tax Commission, supra.

44. N.Y.—People v. State Tax Commission, supra.
51 C.J. p 579 note 94.
Grant or consent by municipal or other local authorities generally see infra § 104.
Consent or grant by abutting owner generally see infra § 108

45. N.Y.—People v. State Tax Commission, 202 N Y.S. 310, 206 App. Div. 549, 555, affirmed 148 N E. 718, 240 N.Y. 591.

46. N.Y—People v. State Tax Commission, supra.
51 C.J. p 579 note 96.

The right of a railroad company to construct and operate its road on or along a public street or highway or other public place can be acquired only by virtue of an enactment or grant of the state legislature, either directly or indirectly.[47] In the absence of legislative authority, a railroad company has no such right,[48] even though the company owns the fee in the land in the public street or highway,[49] and, in the case of streets, even though the municipal authorities consent to their occupation and use[50]

Power of legislature. The state legislature, subject to constitutional restrictions or limitations, may authorize or grant the occupancy and use of a public highway or other public place, for railroad purposes,[51] since such use is a benefit to the public and is not inconsistent with the purposes for which the public highway was originally intended.[52] The legislature may discriminate and enact that railway tracks may be laid on streets in smaller cities if the municipal authorities deem it safe to grant such permission, while in more densely populated cities tracks may be laid only by direct authority of the legislature.[53]

How right granted. This right or power, subject to prescribed conditions and regulations, may be granted by the legislature by a general statute,[54] or it may be granted directly by special legislation,[55] such as by the charter of the railroad company,[56] or in the charter of a particular municipality;[57] or certain state, county, or municipal boards or officers may be authorized to grant such a right or privilege,[58] or to lease a right of way.[59]

§ 104. —— Grant or Consent by Municipal or Other Local Authorities

a Necessity or propriety

b. Manner of giving or obtaining consent or grant

a. Necessity or Propriety

(1) In general

(2) When consent not required

(1) In General

Authority to construct a railroad on or along public streets and highways may be given by the legislature through municipal or other local authorities as its agents, or through certain courts of competent jurisdiction Where an order of a court or the consent of municipal or other local authorities is required, such order or consent is a condition precedent to the right to construct tracks along a city street or highway.

Authority to construct a railroad on or along public streets and highways may be given by the legislature through municipal or other local authorities as its agents,[60] or through certain courts of competent jurisdiction,[61] where the application to the court for such permission shows a necessity for constructing on the street or highway,[62] and the fact that it is more convenient and less expensive for a railroad company to construct its road on a highway than by some other route, while a proper matter for consideration, is not controlling.[63] If a statute requires an order of court to authorize the construction of tracks along a street or highway, such order is a condition precedent to the right to do so.[64] Likewise, where it is provided that a railroad company shall obtain a grant

47. U S—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C C A Okl, 89 F 2d 94
N.Y—People ex rel New York Cent. R. Co v. State Tax Commission, 35 N.Y S 2d 77, 264 App.Div. 80, modified on other grounds 54 N.E 2d 232, 292 N.Y 130, motion denied 56 N E 2d 122, 292 N.Y. 717.
51 C J p 579 note 98.
Plan and mode of construction see infra §§ 128–132.

48. N.C.—Butler v. F. R. Penn Tobacco Co, 68 S E 12, 152 N.C. 416, 136 Am.S R. 831.
51 C.J. p 580 note 99.

49. N Y.—People v. Gresser, 98 N. E. 205, 205 N.Y. 24.
51 C J. p 580 note 1.

50. N.C—Corporation Commission v. Southern R. Co., 69 S E 621, 153 N.C. 559.

51. Pa.—Foley v. Beech Creek Extension R Co., 129 A. 845, 283 Pa 588.
51 C.J. p 580 note 6.
Power of legislature to grant right to use streets generally see Municipal Corporations § 1726 c.

52. N.J—Morris, etc, R Co v. Newark, 10 N J Eq 352.
51 C.J p 580 note 8.

53. N.J.—Burlington v. Pennsylvania R Co, 38 A. 849, 56 N J Eq 259, affirmed 43 A. 700, 58 N J Eq 547.

54. Pa—Commonwealth v Beaver Valley R Co., 32 Pa.Co. 472.
51 C.J. p 580 note 10

55. Tenn—Pepper v. Union R. Co, 85 S W. 864, 113 Tenn. 53.
51 C.J. p 580 note 11.

56. Ga—Athens Terminal Co v Athens Fdy, etc., Works, 58 S E 891, 129 Ga. 393
51 C.J. p 581 note 12.

57. Ga—Athens Terminal Co v. Athens Fdy., etc, Works, supra.

58. U.S.—Knoxville v. Africa, Tenn., 77 F. 501, 23 C C.A. 252.
51 C.J. p 581 note 14
Powers and functions of highway boards or commissioners generally see Highways § 157.

59. U S—Moffat Tunnel Improvement Dist. v Denver & S L Ry. Co, C.C A Colo, 45 F 2d 715, 51 S Ct 485, 283 U S 837, 75 L Ed 1448
51 C J. p 581 note 15.

60. Wash—Coleman v. Hammond Lumber Co, 294 P. 968, 160 Wash. 170
51 C J. p 581 note 17.
Power of municipality to grant right in general see Municipal Corporations § 1726 c.

61. N Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp, 66 N E 2d 289, 295 N Y. 227.
51 C J. p 581 note 18.

62. N.Y—Hornell, etc, R. Co v. Dansville, 111 N.Y.S. 845, 127 App. Div 867.
51 C J. p 581 note 19.

63. N Y—Hornell, etc., R. Co. v. Dansville, supra.

64. N Y—Osborne v. Jersey City, etc, R Co, 27 Hun 589
Use of federal government in time of war
Consent of court held not required in construction of railroad for use from or the consent of certain municipal or local authorities before it can construct its road on or along a city street or highway, such provision is in the nature of a condition precedent which must be complied with before the company can acquire a right to use the street or highway,[65] otherwise its use of a street constitutes a trespass.[66] Such consent, when required, is also a condition precedent to the construction of depots, engine houses, and other appurtenances of the road as well as the main track,[67] and to the construction of the road over lands subsequently included in the city limits,[68] and in some cases to the construction of additional tracks at a subsequent time, as discussed infra § 112. So, also, where general authority over streets is in the municipality, and there is no statutory provision authorizing a railroad company to use them, they cannot be subjected to the use of a railroad without the consent of the municipality.[69] Under some statutes a railroad company may locate its right of way on a street without consulting the municipality,[70] but cannot construct its tracks thereon without its consent,[71] or construct its road along or lengthwise of a street or highway without the consent of the local authorities.[72] The object of a provision requiring consent of the city or local authorities to such occupancy of streets is to enable the city to exercise police power over its streets;[73] and the propriety of granting such a right in a street is justifiable on the theory that a railroad is, in a sense, a public highway.[74]

Effect of disincorporation of municipality. The fact that, after such a franchise is granted, the municipality disincorporates for a short period, confers no vested rights on the railroad company to lay additional tracks or sidetracks, after reincorporation without the consent of municipal officers as required by statute.[75]

(2) When Consent Not Required

Where the consent of the municipal or other local authorities is not required by statute, and where the right of a railroad company to occupy and use a highway or street is granted in its charter or by statute, such right is paramount to the power of the municipality over its streets, and may be exercised without the consent of the municipal or other local authorities.

Where the consent of the municipal or other local authorities is not required by statute, and where the right of a railroad company to occupy and use a highway or street is granted in its charter or by statute, such right is paramount to the power of a municipality over its streets,[76] and may be exercised without the consent of the municipal or other local authorities,[77] and without the previous payment to the municipality of the damages occasioned by such occupation.[78] This rule applies, even though the statute under which the municipality was incorporated provides that the streets thereof shall be common highways forever.[79] Under some statutes consent of the municipal authorities is not required where consent has been given by the abutting owners[80] or public utility commission-of federal government in time of war—Sells v Defense Plant Corp., 66 N E 2d 289, 295 N Y. 227.

65. Ga.—Tift v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 131 S E. 46, 161 Ga. 432.
51 C J p 581 note 21.

No act of the legislature can authorize the laying of railroad tracks in the streets without the consent of the local authorities.—City of New York v. Bryan, 89 N.E 467, 196 N.Y 158—Beekman v. Third Ave. R. R. Co., 47 N E. 277, 153 N.Y. 144—People ex rel. New York Cent. R. Co v State Tax Commission, 35 N. Y S 2d 77, 264 App Div. 80, modified on other grounds 54 N E.2d 332, 292 N.Y. 130, motion denied 56 N E.2d 122, 292 N Y. 717.

Step in grant of franchise

The consent of city to the construction of tracks by a railroad is but a step in the grant of a single, invisible franchise to construct and operate a railroad—People ex rel. New York Cent R. Co v. State Tax Commission, supra.

66. Cal.—Sincerney v Los Angeles, 200 P 380, 53 Cal App 440.

67. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Chicago, Ill., 20 S.Ct. 509, 176 U.S. 646, 44 L Ed. 622.
Ill.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 42 N.E 781, 159 Ill. 369.

68. U S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Chicago, Ill., 20 S.Ct. 509, 176 U. S 646, 44 L Ed. 622.
Ill.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 42 N.E. 781, 159 Ill. 369.

69. Miss.—Donnaher v. State, 16 Miss. 649.
N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark, 10 N.J Eq. 352.

70. U.S.—Chicago v. New York, etc., R Co., Ill., 216 F. 735, 132 C C A. 645.

71. U.S.—Chicago v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

72. Ill.—Cook County v. Great Western R. Co., 10 N.E. 564, 119 Ill. 218.
51 C.J p 582 note 29.

General statutory power in a railroad company to construct its road on or across any highway which it intersects does not give it a right to construct its road longitudinally on streets without the consent of the municipality or over its objection.—Town of New Castle v. Lake Erie & W R. Co., 57 N E 516, 155 Ind. 18.

73. Md.—State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 96 A. 636, 127 Md. 434.

74. Ind.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co v. South Bend, 89 N E. 885, 91 N E 809, 174 Ind. 203, 36 L R.A.,N. S., 850, reversed on other grounds 33 S Ct 303, 227 U S. 544, 57 L Ed 633, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 405.
51 C J. p 582 note 31.

75. Cal.—San Pedro, etc., R. Co v. Long Beach, 158 P. 204, 172 Cal. 631

76. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covington, 213 S.W. 568, 184 Ky. 811.

77. U S.—New York v. Davis, C.C.A. N Y., 7 F.2d 566
51 C.J. p 582 note 34.

78. Iowa.—Hine v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 636.
51 C J. p 583 note 35
Compensation for taking of property generally see Eminent Domain §§ 96–208.

79. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Beaver Valley R. Co., 71 A. 7, 222 Pa. 220.

80. Iowa.—Interurban R. Co. v. Des ers;[81] or if a municipality refuses a railroad company a right of way, the company may call on certain state officers, such as the state engineer, to designate the streets which it may use.[82]

b. Manner of Giving or Obtaining Consent or Grant

(1) In general
(2) Prescription or estoppel

(1) In General

The manner in which the consent or grant by municipal or other local authorities may be given or obtained depends on the terms of the municipal charter or statute by which the power to give consent or make a grant is conferred.

The manner in which the consent or grant by municipal or other local authorities may be given or obtained depends on the terms of the municipal charter or statute by which the power to give consent or make a grant is conferred,[83] and the manner so prescribed must be followed both on the part of the railroad company and of the municipality or local authorities.[84] Thus, it has been held, under the various charter or statutory provisions, in order that a railroad company may obtain permission from a city to occupy the streets over which it is intended to build its road, that the route of the railroad through the city must be designated in its charter,[85] and that consent must be given by the proper municipal authorities,[86] by a duly enacted by-law or ordinance,[87] or resolution.[88] Under some statutes this action must be assented to by a prescribed number of votes of the municipal or local officers[89] or taxpayers,[90] in which case the function of the municipal council is merely executive and administrative in carrying out the inauditory directions of the taxpayers, when, and not until, they have spoken.[91] The fact that the company's request for permission is referred to a committee, which reports favorably but proceeds no further, does not constitute a sufficient consent.[92] When a city council has jurisdiction to grant a railroad company certain rights in a street, an ordinance exceeding the council's jurisdiction is nevertheless valid to the extent of the council's power to grant.[93]

Acceptance of grant. The grant by the municipal authorities to use the streets or highways does not grant franchise rights.[94] It is at most a mere offer,[95] which, in order to be binding, must be accepted by the railroad company,[96] especially where the ordinance making the grant provides as a condition that the company shall file a written acceptance of its provisions.[97]

Ratification. Any doubt as to the existence or validity of the right of a railroad company under its charter or municipal grant to lay its tracks in a municipality may be removed by a subsequent act of the legislature recognizing and ratifying such right.[98]

Determination of use. Municipal authorities are not required to determine what use of the street is absolutely necessary for the grantee, but may simply determine what street or streets it will devote to the grantee's use, leaving to the railroad company the right to determine what use will be necessary and within the council's jurisdiction to grant, as time and experience shall determine.[99]

Sale of franchise. A statute requiring the sale of street railroad franchises to the highest bidder must be construed as applying to all railroads where Moines, 199 N.W. 355, 197 Iowa 1398.

51 C.J. p 583 note 38.
Grant or consent by abutting owners generally see infra § 108.

81. N.J.—Elizabeth, etc., R. Co. v. Woodbridge Tp., 95 A. 987, 85 N.J. Eq 192.

82. Tex—Indianola v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 56 Tex. 594.
51 C.J. p 583 note 40.

83. La.—Gill v. Lake Charles, 48 So. 440, 122 La. 1019.
Proceedings to obtain grant or license in public streets generally see Municipal Corporations, §§ 1728–1730.

84. La.—Gill v. Lake Charles, supra.
51 C.J. p 583 note 45.

85. Tenn.—Collier v. Union R. Co., 33 S.W. 155, 113 Tenn. 96.

86. Wash.—Schwede v. Hemrich Bros. Brewing Co., 69 P. 362, 29 Wash. 21.
51 C.J. p 583 note 47.

87. Ga.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Merchants', etc., Bank, 143 S.E. 506, 166 Ga. 310.
51 C.J. p 583 note 48.

88. Iowa.—Merchants' Union Barb Wire Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 494, 70 Iowa 105.
51 C.J. p 583 note 49.

89. Cal.—San Pedro, etc., R. Co. v. Long Beach, 158 P. 204, 172 Cal. 631.
51 C.J. p 583 note 50.

90. Ga.—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Woodruff, 13 S.E. 156, 86 Ga. 94.
51 C.J. p 583 note 51.

91. La.—Connell v. Baton Rouge Commission Council, 96 So. 657, 153 La. 788.

92. Cal.—San Pedro, etc., R. Co. v. Long Beach, 158 P. 204, 172 Cal. 631.

93. Cal.—Los Angeles v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 65, 157 Cal. 363.

94. Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406.
Grant as constituting franchise generally see infra § 112 b.

95. Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., supra.

96. Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., supra.
Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 273.
51 C.J. p 584 note 55.

97. U.S.—Memphis v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 183 F. 529, 106 C.C.A. 75.

98. Ky.—Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 40 S.W. 916, 19 Ky.L. 449.
51 C.J. p 584 note 57.

99. Cal.—Los Angeles v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 65, 157 Cal. 363.

bona fide competition is possible.[1] Accordingly, such a statute has been held applicable to a steam railroad where, by its operation within the city limits, it originates a new character of business and obtains new, separate, and distinct sources of revenue.[2] However, the statute has been held not applicable to the extension of a steam railroad through the city en route between its termini, in which there can be no bona fide competition.[3] Where both railroads and street railways are expressly included in the grant of power to the municipal authorities, a provision requiring the sale of railroad franchises in the streets of a city to the highest bidder has been held applicable to steam railroads.[4] Where consent of the local authorities is obtained and confirmed by a subsequent statute, the fact that the franchise was not sold at public auction as required by a statute, which has since been repealed, does not affect the validity of the franchise.[5]

(2) Prescription or Estoppel

(a) Prescription

(b) Estoppel

(a) Prescription

Although occupation and use of public streets or places by a railroad company for a long period of time, with the knowledge and acquiescence of the municipal authorities, have been held to entitle the company to such right by prescription, and to raise a presumption of a grant of the right, there is also authority to the contrary.

Occupation and use of public streets or places by a railroad company for a long period of time, with the knowledge and acquiescence of the municipal authorities, have been held to entitle the company to such right by prescription,[6] and to raise a presumption of a grant of the right,[7] unless prescribed conditions have not been complied with in making application for the right of way and in taking possession.[8] On the other hand, it has been held that a railroad company cannot acquire prescriptive rights in the streets as against the public,[9] and that a grant will not be presumed from lapse of time during which the company has occupied the street, since limitations will not run as to streets and other property held by a city in trust for the public.[10]

(b) Estoppel

A municipality may be estopped, by its knowledge and acquiescence for a long period of time, from objecting to the occupation and use by a railroad company of a street. Likewise, a railroad company may, by its acts, be estopped from denying the validity of a grant or lease to it.

A municipality may be estopped by its knowledge and acquiescence for a long period of time from objecting to the occupation and use of a street by a railroad company,[11] unless the acquiescence is of a use under a revocable license,[12] or under a permission granted by officers without authority so to do.[13]

Estoppel of railroad company. The railroad company may be estopped to deny the validity of the grant or lease to it, where it is in possession and by its acts has acquiesced therein, and affirmed its binding effect.[14] Where land is dedicated by a municipality for street purposes with the assent of the owners, a railroad company, which has obtained municipal permission to use the street, recognizes the public right and cannot repudiate the

1. La.—New Orleans City, etc., R. Co. v Watkins, 21 So. 199, 48 La. Ann. 1550.
51 C J p 584 note 60.
Award of grant or license on competitive bidding generally see Municipal Corporations § 1729.
Sale of franchise to street railroad see Street Railroads § 52.

2. La.—New Orleans City, etc., R. Co. v. Watkins, supra.

3. La.—Capdevielle v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 34 So. 868, 110 La 904.
51 C.J. p 584 note 60.

4. La.—Gill v. Lake Charles, 48 So. 440, 122 La. 1019.
51 C.J. p 584 note 61.

5. N.Y.—New York, etc., R Co. v. O'Brien, 100 N.Y.S. 316, 50 Misc. 13, affirmed 106 N.Y.S. 909, 121 App.Div. 819, affirmed 85 N.E. 1113, 192 N.Y. 558.

6. Ind.—New Castle v Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 57 N.E. 516, 155 Ind. 18.
Adverse rights to property dedicated to, or acquired for public use generally see Adverse Possession §§ 14–17.
Prescription as to property held for public use generally see Easements § 9 c.

7. Ark.—Lonoke v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 S.W. 395, 92 Ark. 546, 135 Am.S.R 200.
51 C.J. p 584 note 65.
Implied grant of railroad right of way generally see supra § 79.

8. Ky.—Klosterman v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 56 S.W. 820, 22 Ky.L 192.
51 C J. p 585 note 66.

9. Mich.—In re City of Detroit, 246 N.W. 51, 261 Mich. 278.

10. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line R Co. v. Raleigh, D.C.N.C., 219 F. 573, affirmed 37 S.Ct. 8, 242 U.S. 15, 61 L.Ed 121.
Ala.—Birmingham Belt R. Co. v. Birmingham, 101 So. 599, 211 Ala. 674.

11. Ill.—Chicago v. Union Stockyards, etc., Co., 45 N.E. 430, 164 Ill. 224, 35 L.R.A. 281.
51 C.J. p 585 note 69.
Estoppel by construction of railroad generally see Estoppel § 95
Estoppel as to grants or licenses to use streets generally see Estoppel § 145.

12. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Raleigh, D.C.N.C., 219 F. 573, affirmed 37 S.Ct. 8, 242 U.S. 15, 61 L.Ed. 121.

13. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Raleigh, supra.

14. U.S.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Moffat Tunnel Impr. Dist, D.C. Colo., 35 F.2d 365, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Moffat Tunnel Improvement Dist. v. Denver & S L. Ry. Co., 45 F.2d 715, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 485, 283 U.S. 837, 75 L.Ed. 1443.
51 C.J. p 585 note 72.

existence of the street.[15] However, where the municipality has no power to authorize the use of any street for a railroad, the mere use by a railroad under an ordinance for the period limited thereby does not estop the railroad company from thereafter using the streets under its general powers.[16]

§ 105. —— What Constitutes Grant of Authority in General

The right of a railroad company to occupy and use a public street or highway must be conferred either in express terms or by necessary implication

Whether the right of a railroad company to occupy and use a public street or highway or other public place is granted by the legislature, or by municipal or other local authorities, it must be conferred either in express terms[17] or by necessary implication,[18] since no legislation will be construed to take away public rights in a highway or other public place unless such purpose is plainly expressed.[19] Thus, authority under a general law, to occupy and use public roads, gives a railroad company no authority to construct its road through streets which are under the supervisory control of the municipal authorities;[20] nor does authority to erect a depot in a certain city authorize the laying of tracks and the running of engines over the streets of that city.[21]

Authority to use specified route. Authority to construct a railroad between designated points, the exact location being left to the company's discretion, by necessary implication, gives the company the right to occupy a public place between those points on the authorized route, as far as necessary for its purposes;[22] and also gives an implied authority to cross public highways which such route may intersect,[23] and such crossings cannot be prevented by municipal corporations through which the road is laid.[24] However, authority to occupy a street or highway longitudinally will not be implied from authority to construct the road between certain designated points or termini,[25] especially where it is declared by statute that public highways shall not be appropriated to railroads in the absence of express authority in their charters,[26] unless the right so to occupy streets and highways is given either expressly or by necessary implication as being necessary for the authorized route.[27] So, where a railroad company is empowered to enter or pass through a city, this power has been held of necessity to give the right to locate the road somewhere, and, if need be, on a street or alley;[28] but there is also authority to the contrary.[29]

§ 106. —— Construction and Operation of Statute or Ordinance Granting Right

A grant of a right to use public streets or highways for railroad purposes must be construed most strongly against the railroad company and in favor of the public, and nothing is to be taken as passing thereby except what necessarily flows from the nature and terms of the grant.

General rules apply in respect of the construction and operation of a statute or municipal ordinance granting or authorizing a right or privilege to use public streets or highways for railroad purposes.[30] In accordance with such rules the grant must be construed most strongly against the railroad company and in favor of the public,[31] and nothing is to be taken as passing thereby except what necessarily flows from the nature and terms of the grant.[32] A company organized as a steam railroad company has no right, by changing its motive power, to operate on streets as a street surface railroad[33]

15. N.Y.—People v. Priest, 99 N.E 547, 206 N.Y. 274.
51 C.J. p 585 note 73.

16. Mo.—Atlantic, etc, R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228

17. N.C.—Corporation Commission v. Southern R Co, 69 S.E. 621, 153 N.C. 559.
51 C.J. p 585 note 78.

18. N J.—Hoboken Land, etc., Co. v. Hoboken, 35 N J Law 205.
51 C J. p 586 note 79.

19. N J.—Newark v. Delaware, etc, R. Co., 7 A. 123, 42 N J Eq 196.

20. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Chicago, 11 N E 907, 121 Ill. 176.
51 C J p 586 note 81.

21. Ga.—Daly v Georgia Southern, etc., R. Co, 7 S.E 146, 80 Ga. 793, 12 Am.S R. 286.

22. Minn.—St. Paul v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 63 N.W. 267, 65 N W. 649, 63 N.W. 458, 63 Minn. 330, 34 L R. A. 184.
51 C J. p 586 note 83.

23. N.J.—Thompson v. Ocean City R Co, 36 A. 1087, 60 N J Law 74
51 C J. p 586 note 84
Crossing highways generally see infra §§ 140–167.

24. Miss.—Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 36 So 266, 84 Miss. 268, 105 Am S R. 428, 65 L.R.A. 561.

25. N J.—Seaman v. Perth Amboy, 119 A. 278, 98 N.J.Law 174.
51 C.J. p 586 note 86.

26. Ga.—Davis v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 13 S E 567, 87 Ga. 605
51 C.J. p 586 note 87.

27. Mass.—Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. 63,

Tenn.—Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v Adams, 3 Head 596.
51 C J. p 586 note 88.

28. Pa.—Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v Speer, 56 Pa. 325, 94 Am D 84
51 C.J. p 586 note 89.

29. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v Chicago, 11 N E 907, 121 Ill. 176.
51 C.J. p 586 note 90.

30. Tex.—Galveston, etc, R. Co v Galveston, Civ.App., 155 S W. 273.
51 C J. p 586 note 92.

31. Ill.—Oak Park v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 120 N E 761, 285 Ill. 459.
51 C.J p 587 note 93.

32. Pa.—Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R Co v Philadelphia, etc, R. Co, 27 A 683, 157 Pa. 42.
51 C J p 587 note 94.

33. N Y.—Matter of Keeseville, etc,

Where the statute authorizes the use of a "public road or street," it applies only to a public street or road which has been legally established.[34] Where a right of way in a city is acquired by one company by purchase from another, and the city by ordinance confirms and grants this right to the purchaser, the fact that the original purchase was illegal does not invalidate the grant.[35]

§ 107. —— Regulation of Use in General

a. In general
b. By municipality

a. In General

A franchise to a railroad to use a public street or highway or other public place is subject to the right of the state, in the exercise of its police power, to regulate the operation of the railroad in order to prevent injuries to persons or property.

A franchise to a railroad company to use a public street or highway or other public place is subject to the right of the state, in the exercise of its police power, to regulate the operation of the railroad in order to prevent injuries to persons or property;[36] and, although such a franchise is to use the streets of a city, subject to the assent of the city, it proceeds from the state and not from the city,[37] and is subject to regulation, modification, or alteration by the state legislature.[38]

b. By Municipality

A municipality may make all reasonable and necessary regulations as to the manner in which the tracks of a railroad company shall be constructed and the condition in which they shall be maintained.

The right of a railroad company to occupy and use a street for railroad purposes is subject to the right of the municipality to improve and control such street,[39] and to make all reasonable and necessary regulations as to the manner in which the tracks of the railroad company shall be constructed and the condition in which they shall be maintained,[40] even though the franchise to use the streets has been granted by or under legislative authority,[41] and the constitutionality of such regulations must be considered, in view of the charter and property rights and also of the consent and acquiescence of the railroad owners.[42] The municipality may regulate the manner of use by the railroad company so as not unreasonably to interfere with the use of the streets by the public or adjoining property owners.[43] Accordingly, the municipality may restrict the number of tracks on particular streets or parts thereof;[44] may regulate the limits in a street where the track of a railroad company shall be laid;[45] or may require a change in the location of tracks,[46] relaying of tracks flush with the street,[47] change of roadbed,[48] or a change of location or total removal of a sidetrack materially impairing the use of the street by rendering the part assigned for public passage too narrow.[49] Likewise, the municipality may restrict the time when a railroad train shall obstruct a street cross-

R Co, 161 N.Y.S 287, 116 App Div 72
51 C.J. p 587 note 95.

34. U.S.—Burns v. Multnomah R Co, C.C.Or., 15 F. 177, 8 Sawy. 543.

35. Tex.—Galveston, etc., R Co. v. Galveston, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 273.

36. U.S.—New York v. Davis, C.C.A. N.Y., 7 F.2d 566.
Regulation and control of railroads generally see supra §§ 27-31, infra §§ 390-436.

37. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. New York, 95 N.E. 638, 202 N.Y. 212.

38. Ill.—Chicago, N.S. & M.R. Co. v. City of Chicago, 163 N.E. 141, 331 Ill. 360
51 C.J. p 587 note 3.

39. Colo.—Colorado, etc., R. Co. v. Ft. Collins, 121 P. 747, 52 Colo. 281, Ann.Cas.1913D 646
51 C.J. p 587 note 4

40. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. City of Mayfield, C.C.A.Ky., 35 F. 2d 808, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 158, 280 U.S. 608, 74 L.Ed. 651.
Colo.—Denver v. Denver, etc., R Co., 167 P. 969, 63 Colo. 574, L.R.A. 1918D 659, affirmed 39 S.Ct. 450, 250 U.S. 241, 63 L.Ed. 958.
51 C.J. p 587 note 5—44 C.J. p 935 note 3
Power to control and regulate use of streets by public utilities generally see Municipal Corporations § 1692.

Prohibition of digging

(1) It has been held that prohibiting the digging up of the surface of any street except by permission of the council, as applied to a railroad company laying its track across a street within its located right of way, is unreasonable and invalid.—Allen v. Jersey City, 22 A. 257, 53 N.J.Law 522.

(2) Effect of ordinance forbidding digging of street as to right of railroad to make repairs see infra § 124.

41. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. City of Mayfield, C.C.A.Ky., 35 F. 2d 808, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 158, 280 U.S. 608, 74 L.Ed. 651.
51 C.J. p 587 note 6.

42. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldsboro, N.C., 34 S.Ct. 364, 232 U.S. 548, 58 L.Ed. 721.
Fla.—Tampa Northern R. Co. v. Tampa, 107 So. 364, 91 Fla. 241.

43. Colo.—Colorado, etc., R. Co. v. Ft. Collins, 121 P. 747, 52 Colo. 281, Ann.Cas.1913D 646.
51 C.J. p 588 note 8

44. Ind.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. South Bend, 89 N.E. 885, 91 N.E. 809, 174 Ind. 203, 36 L.R.A., N.S., 850, reversed on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 303, 227 U.S. 544, 57 L.Ed. 633, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 405.
51 C.J. p 588 note 9.

45. Iowa.—Cain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 3 N.W. 736, 6 N.W. 268, 54 Iowa 255.
Va.—Wagner v. Bristol Belt Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 391, 108 Va. 594, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 1278.

46. Ill.—Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. App. 304
51 C.J. p 588 note 10—44 C.J. p 935 note 94

47. N.Y.—Albany v. Watervliet Turnp., etc., Co., 13 N.E. 370, 108 N.Y. 14

48. Ill.—People v. Chicago City R. Co., 155 N.E. 781, 324 Ill. 618.

49. W.Va.—Mason v. Ohio River R. Co., 41 S.E. 418, 51 W.Va. 183

ing;[50] regulate the time of day during which trains shall be operated along streets;[51] prohibit the use of steam power for railroads along the streets;[52] and may compel a railroad to suspend operations during construction of a municipal improvement.[53] On the other hand, the municipality cannot, by such regulations, deprive the railroad company of its right or franchise to use the street.[54]

Revocation of right to regulate. The right of a municipality to regulate the use of its streets by railroads, when once it has given its consent, may be revoked by the state legislature[55] and conferred on state boards or commissions.[56]

Switching. Although a municipality may not arbitrarily prohibit a railroad company from using the streets for switching cars on an established switch track,[57] it may, under its police power, order the removal of switch tracks when public safety requires it,[58] without regard to the character of the right under which they were first established and maintained.[59] Likewise, a municipality may regulate the manner in which switching may be done, with a view to public safety and welfare,[60] and may prohibit switching on certain streets, where the company has other space available for that purpose,[61] as where it has yards set apart for switching purposes.[62]

Crossings. Where the railroad is operated over a street which divides the city into two parts, the city authorities may, in the exercise of a sound discretion, determine at what points the public shall cross the railroad right of way,[63] and may establish such points as are required for the convenience of the public in the transaction of its business,[64] and for such other purposes as are common to the inhabitants of the city.[65]

§ 108. —— Consent or Grants by Abutting Owners

a. In general
b. Grants by owner

a. In General

As a general rule, where the fee of the land over which a public street or highway passes is in the abutting owner, a right to occupy and use such street or highway for railroad purposes may be granted only with the consent of the abutting owners, or, if they refuse consent, only by condemnation and compensation to such owners.

The power of the state legislature or a municipality to permit the use of highways or streets by railroads is subject to the limitation that no property rights of abutting owners are thereby unreasonably invaded;[66] an abutting owner is entitled to a right of ingress and egress to and from his property over the railroad right of way[67] except over a railroad on a strip of land which has never been dedicated and accepted as a highway, and which has been unconditionally conveyed to the railroad company.[68] As a general rule, therefore, where the fee of the land over which a public street or highway passes is in the abutting owner, as discussed in Highways § 136, and Municipal Corporations §§ 1681, 1682, a right to occupy and use such street or highway for railroad purposes may be granted only with the consent of the abutting owners,[69] or, if they refuse consent, only by

50. N.J.—State v. Jersey City, 37 N. J.Law 348
44 C.J. p. 935 note 98.

51. Ohio—Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hurd, 20 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 10.

52. N.Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, 1 Hilt. 562.
51 C.J. p. 590 note 54 [a]—44 C.J. p. 935 note 2.

53. Tex.—San Antonio v. San Antonio St. R. Co., 39 S.W. 136, 15 Tex.Civ.App. 1.
44 C.J. p. 935 note 4.

54. Ill.—Bushnell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 N.E. 785, 259 Ill. 391, 49 L.R.A.,N.S., 718.
51 C.J. p. 588 note 11.

55. Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. City of Chicago, 163 N.E. 141, 331 Ill. 360.

Construction distinguished from regulation

Statutory provisions with respect to power of cities as to tracks on streets relate to construction of tracks, as distinguished from regulation of trains operated thereon—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. City of Chicago, supra.

56. Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. City of Chicago, supra.

57. Ill.—Bushnell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 N.E. 785, 259 Ill. 391, 396, 49 L.R.A.,N.S., 718.

58. Colo.—City and County of Denver v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 167 P. 969, 63 Colo. 574, L.R.A. 1918D 659, affirmed 39 S.Ct. 450, 250 U.S. 241, 63 L.Ed. 958.

Ordinance held reasonable and warranted

Colo.—City and County of Denver v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., supra.

59. Colo.—City and County of Denver v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., supra.

60. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. City of Mayfield, C.C.A.Ky., 35 F.2d 808, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 158, 280 U.S. 608, 74 L.Ed. 651.
51 C.J. p. 588 note 13.

61. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. City of Mayfield, supra.
Colo.—Colorado, etc., R. Co. v. Ft. Collins, 121 P. 747, 52 Colo. 281, Ann.Cas. 1913D 646.

62. Colo.—Colorado, etc., R. Co. v. Ft. Collins, supra.

63. Fla.—DeFuniak Springs v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 87 So. 47, 81 Fla. 27.

64. Fla.—DeFuniak Springs v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

65. Fla.—DeFuniak Springs v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

66. N.Y.—Reining v. New York, etc., R. Co., 28 N.E. 640, 128 N.Y. 157, 14 L.R.A. 133.

67. Ky.—Fulton v. Short Route R. Transfer Co., 4 S.W. 332, 85 Ky. 640, 9 Ky.L. 291, 7 Am.S.R. 619

68. Mich.—Tapert v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 15 N.W. 450, 50 Mich. 267.

69. N.Y.—Washington Cemetery v. Prospect Park, etc., R. Co., 68 N. Y. 591, 4 Abb.N.Cas. 15.

condemnation and compensation to such owners.[70] Accordingly, where a railroad has been constructed in the street or highway, without lawful authority, such owner may, notwithstanding the public interest in the operation of the road, recover his land,[71] or otherwise dispute the right of the company to occupy and use it,[72] unless he has by his conduct estopped himself.[73]

Prescription. A railroad company using a street for its tracks by permission of a municipality may acquire an easement by prescription as against the abutting owners.[74]

Statutory conditions. Under some railroad charters or statutes permission to construct and operate a railroad along public streets may be granted by the municipal authorities only after notice of the application and an opportunity to resist it are given to persons interested;[75] or only on the petition of a certain proportion of the owners of the abutting property in front of which the road is to be constructed,[76] or with the assent of such proportion of the abutting owners.[77] This requirement applies to individuals, as well as to corporations or companies, seeking to lay railroad tracks in the streets,[78] as where they desire to lay switch tracks from their establishments to railroad tracks.[79]

Land dedicated by owner for street or way cannot be appropriated without his consent to the use of a railroad.[80] However, where a railroad company has rightfully built its road on a strip of land dedicated as a highway by the owner, its use thereof cannot be prevented by the abutting owner because the part of the strip next to complainant's land was never actually used as a highway;[81] and user by a railroad of a street for a number of years pursuant to an agreement as against the dedicators of the street is equivalent to a written conveyance of a right, although its original entry was under verbal contract and permissive only.[82]

b. Grants by Owner

A conveyance to a railroad company by an abutting owner of a right of way over a highway or street in front of certain described premises is a grant only of the right of way in front of the premises described, and is subject to the covenants or conditions in the conveyance.

A conveyance to a railroad company by an abutting owner of a right of way over a highway or street in front of certain described premises is a grant only of the right of way in front of the premises described,[83] and is subject to the covenants or conditions in the conveyance.[84] Such a grant releases the company from any incidental damages resulting from a reasonable use and operation of the road,[85] and is binding on subsequent grantees of the remaining property,[86] and on subsequent purchasers, with knowledge, of the railroad property.[87] A release in the conveyance, of all damages sustained by the grantor by reason of the construction of the road on the street or highway, etc., is limited to the damages sustained by the construction and operation of the road in front of the premises described.[88]

Conveyance in fee. Where land through which

S.C.—Wilkins v. Gaffney City, 32 S E. 299, 54 S.C. 199

70. S.C.—Wilkins v. Gaffney City, supra.
51 C.J. p 588 note 26.

71. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Liebfried, 17 S.W. 870, 92 Ky. 407, 13 Ky.L. 645.

72. Vt.—Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R Co., 28 Vt. 142.
51 C.J. p 588 note 28.

73. Or.—Wolfard v. Fisher, 84 P. 850, 87 P. 530, 48 Or. 479, 7 L.R.A., N.S., 991.
51 C.J. p 588 note 29
Estoppel by construction of railroad generally see Estoppel § 95.

74. Mich.—In re City of Detroit, 246 N.W. 51, 261 Mich. 278—Felton v. Wedthoff, 151 N.W. 727, 185 Mich. 72.
Acquisition of title or rights of abutting owners in streets by adverse possession generally see Adverse Possession § 14.
Easement by prescription against municipal authorities see supra § 104 b (2) (a).

75. Ky.—Klosterman v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 56 S.W. 820, 22 Ky.L. 192.

76. Ill.—McGann v. People, 62 N.E. 941, 194 Ill. 526.
51 C.J. p 589 note 32.

77. N.Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 100 N.Y.S. 316, 50 Misc. 13, affirmed 106 N.Y.S. 909, 121 App.Div. 819, affirmed 85 N.E. 1113, 192 N.Y. 558
51 C.J. p 589 note 33.

78. Ill.—Chicago Dock, etc., Co. v. Garrity, 3 N.E. 448, 115 Ill. 155.

79. Ill.—McGann v. People, 62 N.E. 941, 194 Ill. 526.
51 C.J. p 589 note 35.

80. N.Y.—Bowen v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 47 N.E. 907, 153 N.Y. 476, 60 Am.St.R. 667.
Rights of dedicator of property generally see Dedication § 53.
Misuser of dedicated property generally see Dedication § 65.

81. Cal.—Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Ferris, 28 P. 828, 93 Cal. 263, 18 L.R.A. 510.

82. Ky.—Arn v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 188 S.W. 340, 171 Ky. 157.

83. Cal.—McDonald v. Southern California R. Co., 41 P. 812, 5 Cal. Unrep. Cas. 142.
Conveyance of right of way generally see supra § 81.

84. Minn.—Morrison v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 65 N.W. 141, 63 Minn. 75, 30 L.R.A. 546.
51 C.J. p 589 note 40.

85. Miss.—Conners v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 38 So. 320, 86 Miss. 356.
51 C.J. p 589 note 41.

86. Ohio.—Varwig v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 6 Ohio Cir.Ct. 439, 3 Ohio Cir.Dec. 528.
51 C.J. p 589 note 42.

87. Ohio.—Taylor v. Niles, 21 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 991, 2 Ohio App. 293.

88. Cal.—McDonald v. Southern California R. Co., 41 P. 812, 5 Cal. Unrep.Cas. 142.

is located a public highway, on and along which a railroad company has the right to construct its road and the fee to which is in the owner of the land, is granted in fee simple to the railroad company which covenants to construct and restore the public road and place it along the line of, and on, the premises conveyed, and to construct a good and convenient crossing over the railroad premises to the highway as reconstructed, the company acquires the fee to the highway subject to the public easement, and additional land adjoining sufficient for the highway when changed.[89]

Conveyance of platted land. Where the owner of a tract of land, platted with streets, conveys to a railroad company part of such tract between certain streets, with the right of making a cut in the bed of a street, and erecting and maintaining a bridge over such cut, the bed of the street is not included in the conveyance and the grantor is free to enlarge the use of the street on which the bridge is erected,[90] and may dedicate the way over the bridge to the general public.[91]

§ 109. —— Covenants and Conditions in Grants

a. In general
b. Breach of condition

a. In General

A grant or consent to a railroad company to use a street or highway may be made on reasonable covenants and conditions essential for the protection of the public interest.

A grant or consent to a railroad company to use a street or highway may be made on reasonable covenants or conditions, essential for the protection of the public interest,[92] the determination of which may be conferred on courts, commissioners, or public boards,[93] and, if such a grant is accepted by the railroad company, the covenants and conditions become contractual and binding on it[94] and its successors.[95] Thus a municipality, in granting or consenting to the occupation and use of its streets by a railroad company, may impose on the railroad company any reasonable conditions,[96] such as a requirement that the railroad company construct and maintain proper and safe means for public travel over, across, or under the railroad tracks,[97] and such a contract is not ultra vires as to the railroad company, although it could have procured the right of way through the municipality by application to a state officer.[98] However, it has no authority to impose an unreasonable, unusual, or burdensome condition;[99] and, where the right of occupying a street is granted or authorized directly by the state, requiring the municipality to consent thereto, the municipality has authority, in granting such consent, to annex thereto such terms and conditions only as require the performance by the railroad company of those things which are within the power of the municipal corporation to regulate and enforce against a corporation or individual occupying such streets,[1] and which are not inconsistent with the grant from the state;[2] and it has no authority to attach a condition subsequent, a failure to comply with which will defeat the right granted by the state.[3]

In accordance with these rules various covenants and conditions have been held reasonable and valid,[4] such as conditions that in case of occupancy of streets, the company will pay a certain compensation for the use of the streets,[5] or that it will keep

89. N.Y.—Post v. West Shore R. Co, 26 N.E. 7, 128 N.Y. 580.

90. Md.—South Baltimore Co. v. Washington, etc., Electric R. Co, 132 A. 269, 149 Md. 678.

91. Md.—South Baltimore Co. v. Washington, etc., Electric R Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 590 note 47.

92. U.S.—Pittsburg, etc., R Co. v. Hood, Ohio, 94 F 618, 36 C.C.A. 423.
Mich.—Fort-St Union Depot Co. v. State R Crossing Board, 45 N.W 973, 81 Mich. 248.
Covenants and conditions in conveyances to railroad generally see supra § 89.
Imposing conditions on use of street generally see Municipal Corporations § 1721.

93. Mich.—Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Board, supra.
51 C.J. p 590 note 50.

94. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co v. Portland, Or., 33 S.Ct. 308, 227 U.S. 559, 57 L.Ed 642
51 C.J. p 590 note 51.

95. U.S.—Joy v St Louis, Mo, 11 S.Ct. 243, 138 U.S. 1, 34 L.Ed 843
Ill.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. Chicago, 55 N.E. 648, 183 Ill 341.

96. U.S.—Pittsburg, etc, R. Co. v. Hood, Ohio, 94 F. 618, 36 C.C.A. 423.
51 C.J. p 590 note 54.
As to plan or mode of construction see infra §§ 128–131.

97. Ky.—Chesapeake & O Ry Co v City of Bellevue, 38 S.W 2d 943, 239 Ky. 61.

98. Tex.—Indianola v. Gulf, etc, R. Co, 56 Tex. 594.
51 C.J. p 590 note 55.

99. Ky.—Kentucky, etc., Bridge Co. v. Krieger, 19 S.W. 738, 93 Ky. 243, 14 Ky.L. 151.
51 C.J. p 590 note 56.

1. U.S.—T. B Townsend Brick, etc., Co v. Central Trust Co., Ohio, 187 F. 63, 109 C.C.A. 381.
51 C.J. p 590 note 57.

2. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co v. Portland, Or., 33 S.Ct. 308, 227 U.S. 559, 57 L.Ed. 642.

3. Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, 39 S.W. 920, 91 Tex. 17, 36 L.R.A. 44—Galveston, etc, R. Co. v. Galveston, Civ.App, 155 S.W 273.

4. N.J.—Jersey City v. Hudson, etc., R. Co., 101 A. 266, 90 N.J.Law 649.

5. N.J.—Jersey City v. Hudson, etc, R. Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 591 note 60.

and preserve the street in good condition,[6] or fix its terminus at a certain place,[7] or construct its road to a certain terminus,[8] or locate its offices, machine shops, and roundhouses within the city limits,[9] or that it will not carry freight through the streets without permission of the municipal authorities,[10] or that it will not use its road as a street railroad in competition with other companies operating street railroads in the city.[11] So, also, reasonable stipulations may be made as to the location of the track,[12] the manner of constructing the road,[13] and the time within which it must be constructed.[14]

Benefit of abutting owner. The conditions imposed by the city on its grant to a railroad company may be such as are for the benefit of the abutting property holders[15] or for the public,[16] or for both.[17] Under some statutes giving a railroad company the right to occupy a street, if the railroad is constructed on the side of the street owned by an abutting owner, its occupancy is subject to the condition that he be compensated for damages to his property,[18] but, if it is constructed on the opposite side of the street or on land not owned by him, he is entitled to compensation for any consequential damages sustained through impairment of his rights appurtenant to his property.[19] On the other hand, it has been held that a city cannot impose as a condition, for the benefit of property owners alone, that the company will pay the damages sustained by private owners of property from the use of the street.[20]

b. Breach of Condition

In the absence of a waiver, if a condition to a railroad's occupation of a street is broken, the railroad company is without authority to occupy the street, and the municipality may reenter and take possession of the street and remove the track, or may sue for damages or for specific performance.

In the absence of a waiver, if a condition to a railroad's occupation of a street is broken, the railroad company is without authority to occupy or use the street.[21] The ordinance granting authority may be repealed,[22] and the municipality may reenter and take possession of the street and remove the track,[23] or may sue for damages, as considered infra § 113, or for specific performance.[24] On breach of a condition to make certain improvements, the municipality may have the improvements made at the cost of the railroad company.[25]

Waiver of condition. A condition to occupation of a street by a railroad may be waived by the municipality.[26]

§ 110. —— Conflicting or Exclusive Grants and Priority of Rights

Although as between two railroad companies having the right to use the streets for their tracks, the company which first actually takes possession of the street acquires the better right to the use of the street to the exclusion of the right of the other company to interfere in any way with the construction and operation of its tracks, the occupancy by one company of a street does not prevent an occupancy by another company under a subsequent grant where it does not interfere with or obstruct the first railroad in its right of passage under its prior grant and location.

As between two railroad companies, having the right to extend their tracks in and through a certain street, the company which first actually takes possession of the street, by locating and constructing its tracks thereon, acquires the better right to the use of the street, to the exclusion of the right of the other company to interfere in any way with the construction and operation of its tracks.[27] However,

6. N.C.—New Bern v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 75 S.E. 807, 159 N.C. 542.
51 C.J. p. 591 note 61.
Restoring and maintaining street or highway generally see infra § 130

7. U.S.—New Orleans v. Texas, etc., R. Co., La., 18 S.Ct. 875, 171 U.S. 312, 43 L.Ed. 178.

8. Tex.—Indianola v. Indianola R. Co., 2 Tex.Unrep.Cas. 337.
51 C.J. p. 591 note 63.

9. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Sweetwater, 137 S.W. 1117, 104 Tex. 329
51 C.J. p. 590 note 65.

10. Ga.—Powell v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 17 S.E. 1027, 92 Ga. 209.

11. Cal.—Buswell v. Southern Pac. Co., 46 P. 291, 114 Cal. 445.

12. Iowa.—Cain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 3 N.W. 736, 6 N.W. 268, 54 Iowa 255.

13. Ky.—Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 40 S.W. 916, 19 Ky.L. 449
51 C.J. p. 591 note 69.

14. Ill.—La Grange v. Indiana Harbor Belt R. Co., 204 Ill.App. 457.
51 C.J. p. 591 note 70

15. Ky.—Stein v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 116 S.W. 733, 132 Ky. 322

16. Ky.—Stein v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., supra

17. Ky.—Stein v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 591 note 74.

18. Wis.—Peters v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 162 N.W. 916, 165 Wis. 529.

19. Wis.—Peters v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 591 note 77.

20. Conn.—New Haven v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 25 A. 316, 62 Conn. 252, 18 L.R.A. 256.

21. Pa.—Edwards v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co., 64 A. 798, 215 Pa. 597.

22. U.S.—New Orleans v. Texas, etc., R. Co., La., 18 S.Ct. 875, 171 U.S. 312, 43 L.Ed. 178.

23. U.S.—Pacific R. Co. v. Leavenworth, C.C.Kan., 18 F.Cas.No.10,649, 1 Dill. 393.

24. Ky.—Louisville Southern R. Co. v. Harrodsburg, 32 S.W. 604, 17 Ky.L. 780.
Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 22 S.W. 920, 92 Tenn. 681.

25. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Meacham Contracting Co., 202 S.W. 859, 180 Ky. 430
51 C.J. p. 592 note 86.

26. Idaho.—Coeur d'Alene v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., 169 P. 930, 31 Idaho 160.
51 C.J. p. 591 note 80.

27. N.Y.—Waterbury v. Dry Dock, the occupancy by one company does not prevent an occupancy by another company under a subsequent grant where it does not interfere with or obstruct the first railroad in its right of passage under its prior grant and location,[28] as where the subsequent right of way is granted over the opposite side of the street[29] A grant to a railroad company to use certain streets does not give it the right to interfere with the tracks of a street railway company unless the necessity therefor is so absolute that without it the grant itself would be defeated;[30] and the necessity must also be a necessity that arises from the very nature of things over which the railroad company has no control, and not a necessity created by the company itself for its own convenience or for the sake of economy;[31] nor does such a grant impliedly give other companies the right to use the street by using the tracks of the licensed company.[32] Although the proper county authorities may grant a railroad company the right to cross and use the roadbed of another railroad company along a public highway,[33] it cannot do so without compensation to the original company;[34] nor can it grant such right without the consent of the first company, where such company's roadbed is not on an established and opened public road.[35]

Across canal. A constitutional provision that the legislature "shall not sell, lease or otherwise dispose" of canals does not forbid the granting to a railroad of the right to cross the canal where the use of the canal is not interefered with.[36]

Use of tunnel. Under a statute providing for a transportation tunnel, and expressly declaring that there shall be no monopoly in its use, a lease of the railroad rights in such tunnel is invalid in so far as it gives the lessee an exclusive use for railroad purposes[37] However, a lease for full railroad use to one railroad is not invalid as creating a monopoly, where the right is reserved in the lease permitting subsequent leases for railroad purposes until the total capacity of the railroad use of the tunnel is reached.[38]

§ 111. —— Duration of Right

The duration of a right to use a street or highway for railroad purposes is controlled by the act or ordinance granting the privilege.

The duration of a right to use a street or highway for railroad purposes is controlled by the terms of the act or ordinance granting the right or privilege, as construed by the usual rules of construction,[39] and as so construed, where the grant is of mere permission to lay tracks in a street, it does not constitute a contract or franchise in perpetuity,[40] but confers merely a temporary revocable license,[41] particularly where the granting authorities have no power to make such a grant in perpetuity.[42] Where the grant of a right to a railroad company to lay its tracks in public streets or highways is expressly limited to a definite time, such right terminates at the expiration of such time[43] unless it again obtains the consent of the proper authorities;[44] and the etc., R. Co, 54 Barb. 388, 32 How. Pr 193

Conflicting grants or licenses by municipal corporations generally see Municipal Corporations § 1735.

Power to grant exclusive privileges see Municipal Corporations § 1724.

28. Pa.—Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc, R. Co., 27 A. 683, 157 Pa. 42.
51 C.J. p 592 notes 89, 90.

29. Iowa.—Merchants' Union Barb Wire Co. v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, 28 N.W 494, 29 N.W. 822, 70 Iowa 105.

30. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co, 93 Pa. 150.

31. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co, supra.

32. Mich.—Muskegon, etc., R. Co v. Muskegon Heights, 162 N.W. 92, 194 Mich. 643.

33. U.S.—Cincinnati St R. Co. v. Chattanooga Electric St. R. Co, C. C.Tenn., 44 F. 470.

34. U.S.—Cincinnati St. R Co. v. Chattanooga Electric St. R. Co., supra.

35. U.S.—Cincinnati St. R. Co v. Chattanooga Electric St R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 592 note 97.

36. N.Y.—Pryor v. Buffalo, 112 N.Y. S. 437, 60 Misc. 447.
Grant of license or privilege to cross canal generally see Canals § 40

37. U.S.—Moffat Tunnel Improvement Dist. v. Denver & S. L. Ry Co., C.C.A.Colo, 45 F.2d 715, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 485, 283 U. S. 837, 75 L.Ed. 1448.

Provision limiting future contracts for railroad use held invalid
U.S.—Moffat Tunnel Improvement Dist v. Denver & S. L. Ry. Co., supra.

38. U.S.—Moffat Tunnel Improvement Dist. v. Denver & S. L. Ry. Co., supra.

Provisions of lease held invalid
Provision in lease of tunnel to railroad precluding subsequent leases on more favorable terms was held invalid.—Moffat Tunnel Improvement Dist. v Denver & S. L. Ry. Co., supra

39. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Raleigh, D.C.N.C., 219 F. 573, affirmed 37 S.Ct 8, 242 U.S. 15, 61 L.Ed. 121.
Construction of statute or ordinance granting right generally see supra § 106.
Duration of grant of use of streets generally see Municipal Corporations § 1722.
Revocation or forfeiture of grant of rights in streets or public places see infra § 119.

40. N.Y.—Reimer v. Fullen, 19 N.Y.S.2d 847, 174 Misc. 54.
51 C.J. p 592 note 3

41. U.S.—Fletcher v. Delaware, L. & W. R Co, C.C.A.N.Y., 79 F.2d 306
N.Y.—Reimer v. Fullen, 19 N.Y.S.2d 847, 174 Misc. 54.
51 C.J. p 592 note 4.

42. U.S.—Conway v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C.S.C., 20 F.2d 250

43. Ill.—Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 68 N.E. 99, 201 Ill. 576.
51 C.J. p 593 note 6.

44. Ga.—Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta, 28 S.E. 126, 100 Ga. 701.

mere fact that additional rights or enlarged powers are subsequently granted to the railroad company does not operate to extend the time specified, since, in the absence of a clear intention in the later grant to supersede the prescribed time limit, the additional rights granted are presumed to be for the original time specified.[45] However, where the right to occupy city streets, as granted by the state legislature, is indefinite as to its duration, it contemplates that the franchise should be enjoyed by the grantee and its successor or successors,[46] and although the grantee company's corporate existence is limited to a specified period, if, by an act of the legislature, it is consolidated with another company which has a longer period of corporate existence, the franchise to use the city streets is not limited to the period of existence of the original grantee, but continues during the corporate existence of the new company.[47]

Where the right to use a street for railroad purposes is granted under a petition of abutting property owners as required by statute, the municipal authorities in granting the right are bound by a limitation imposed by the terms of the petition as to the length of time the street is to be so used;[48] and the railroad company may not claim that the abutting property owners are estopped to assert such limitation by reason of the fact it has expended large sums of money,[49] or procured leases of additional property.[50]

In the absence of an express power in the charter of a city to grant a permanent easement in a street, a license granted to a railroad company to lay tracks and operate trains in a street cannot be construed as a grant of a permanent easement.[51]

§ 112. —— Nature and Extent of Right or Use

a. In general

b. Interest or title acquired

c. Designation or selection of street or highway

d. Width of right of way

e. Mutuality of rights of company and public in general

f. Mode and extent of use

g. Tracks, side tracks, switches, and turnouts

a. In General

The nature and extent of a railroad company's right in, or use of, streets or highways are measured by the terms of the grant or permission.

The construction and operation of a railroad on a street or highway, under and within the terms of a legislative or municipal grant or authority, are a lawful use of the street or highway,[52] and, where abutting property is not depreciated or access thereto unreasonably interfered with, are not objectionable as granting a monopoly of the street.[53] The nature and extent of the right, in a particular case, are measured by the terms of the grant or permission,[54] as construed by the usual rules of construction, together with such statute or ordinances as define and regulate such use,[55] and together with the circumstances existing at the time of the grant.[56] Such right or use cannot be extended by construction beyond the reasonable meaning of the terms in which the grant is expressed;[57] and, hence, a railroad company has no right of way in streets, or highways, or other public places outside the terms of the grant by virtue of which it enters.[58] If the grant is in general terms, the company may lawfully occupy the street or highway to the extent of a reasonable necessity;[59] although any part of the street which the company is authorized to take but has not occupied remains a part of the public high-

45. Ill.—Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 68 N.E. 99, 203 Ill. 576

46. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. New York, 95 N.E. 638, 202 N.Y. 212.

47. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. New York, supra.

48. Ill.—Chester v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 55 N.E. 524, 182 Ill. 332.

49. Ill.—Chester v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., supra.

50. Ill.—Chester v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., supra.

51. N.C.—State v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 53 S.E. 290, 141 N.C. 736.

52. U.S.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. South Bend, Ind., 33 S.Ct. 303, 227 U.S. 544, 57 L.Ed. 633, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 405.
51 C.J. p 593 note 17.

53. Mo.—Seibel-Suessdorf Copper, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Manufacturers' R. Co., 130 S.W. 288, 230 Mo. 59.
51 C.J. p 593 note 18.

54. Ky.—Watson v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 36 S.W.2d 641, 238 Ky. 31.
Ohio.—Yackee v. Village of Napoleon, 21 N.E.2d 111, 135 Ohio St. 344.
51 C.J. p 593 note 19.
No greater right than that of city Railroad could not by grant from city get any greater right to public alley than city had.—Watson v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 36 S.W.2d 641, 238 Ky. 31.

55. Mo.—Lueders v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 161 S.W. 1159, 253 Mo. 97.
Regulation of use in general see supra § 107.

56. N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 67 N.E. 119, 175 N.Y. 72
51 C.J. p 593 note 22.

57. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ehsert, 26 N.E. 759, 127 Ind. 156.
51 C.J. p 593 note 23.

58. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Portland, C.C.Or., 177 F. 958, affirmed 33 S.Ct. 308, 227 U.S. 559, 57 L.Ed. 642.
Pa.—Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 32 A. 535, 169 Pa. 333, 47 Am.S.R. 916.

59. Pa.—Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 27 A. 683, 157 Pa. 42.
51 C.J. p 594 note 25.

way until the company actually occupies it for the uses intended [60] The conveyance of a right of way to operate a street railroad on certain streets is not sufficient to authorize the construction and operation of a steam railroad on such streets.[61]

On platted land. Where a railroad, with municipal approval, builds a track on land mapped as a street but which has not been opened as such, the subsequent opening of the street is subject to the right of the railroad to continue to use the street for such purpose.[62] However, the acceptance of a plat by the municipal authorities for the purpose of widening the street does not confer greater powers on the railroad company in the street as originally laid out.[63]

b. Interest or Title Acquired

As a general rule, unless there are express words to that effect, a grant of the right to lay and use tracks in a street is not a grant of the street in fee or otherwise, or of a permanent easement therein; nor does it constitute a vacation of the street, but is a grant simply of the right or easement thus to use the street or highway.

Unless there are express words to that effect, a grant of the right to lay and use tracks in a street is not a grant of the street in fee or otherwise[64] or of a permanent easement therein,[65] nor does it constitute a vacation of the street,[66] but is a grant simply of the right or easement thus to use the street or highway,[67] leaving in the grantor the title to the street,[68] and the right of every other use which may be enjoyed consistently with the right granted,[69] and the rights of the public in such street will be paramount to those of the railroad company for all purposes other than transit [70] Moreover, a railroad company, constructing and operating its road on the streets of a city under the city's consent, cannot acquire title to the streets by adverse possession or prescription,[71] nor can the city be estopped to assert its ownership of the streets.[72]

As special franchise. It has been held that, where the privilege of occupying the street or highway results solely from permission by the proper authorities, and the railroad company has no estate or interest in the land itself, such right or privilege constitutes a special franchise;[73] and where such a franchise is given by the state to run from a point within a city to a point outside the city and to occupy the streets and avenues of the city with the approbation of the city authorities, it constitutes a franchise not only to use the public streets and avenues of the city,[74] but also to use private property owned by the city not devoted to streets and avenues;[75] and the city's consent, where granted, becomes a component part of the franchise and inseparable therefrom [76] On the other hand, it has been held that such a right is not a franchise,[77] but merely a contractual property right, subject to the same conditions, restrictions, and limitations as any other property owned by other persons.[78] Likewise, it has been held that where the constitution prohibits a municipality from granting any franchise for any street without the approval

60. N.Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, 15 N.Y.St. 167, affirmed 24 N.E. 1104, 120 N.Y. 664.

61. Mo.—Ettenson v. Wabash R. Co., 154 S.W. 785, 248 Mo. 395.

62. N.Y.—New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 190 N.Y.S. 777, 198 App.Div. 517, affirmed 136 N.E. 311, 234 N.Y. 113.

63. Ill.—Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 68 N.E. 99, 203 Ill. 576.
51 C.J. p. 594 note 30.

64. N.Y.—New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 136 N.E. 311, 234 N.Y. 113.
51 C.J. p. 594 note 32.
Title, estate, or interest acquired by railroad generally see supra § 83.

65. N.C.—State v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 53 S.E. 290, 141 N.C. 736.
51 C.J. p. 594 note 33.

66. Okl.—Tonkawa Milling Co. v. Tonkawa, 83 P. 915, 15 Okl. 672.
51 C.J. p. 594 note 34.

67. U.S.—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 89 F.2d 94—McPhee, etc., Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Colo., 158 F. 5, 87 C.C.A. 619.
Alaska.—Berger v. Ohlson, 9 Alaska 605.
51 C.J. p. 594 note 35.
Interest in land
A right of way for a railway company is an "easement" although an easement is not a "franchise" but is an "interest in land."—Continental Illinois Nat. Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago v. City of Middlesboro, C.C.A.Ky., 109 F.2d 960.

68. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 28 N.E. 1069, 139 Ill. 355.

69. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, supra.

70. Fla.—DeFuniak Springs v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 87 So. 47, 81 Fla. 27.
51 C.J. p. 595 note 38.

71. N.Y.—New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 136 N.E. 311, 234 N.Y. 113.
Acquisition of right to use street or highway by prescription or estoppel see supra § 104.
Adverse possession of property held for public use generally see Adverse Possession § 14.

72. N.Y.—New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

73. U.S.—Griffin v. Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation, C.C.A.Kan., 37 F.2d 545—McPhee, etc., Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Colo., 158 F. 5, 87 C.C.A. 619.
26 C.J. p. 1011 note 51, p. 1012 note 60—51 C.J. p. 595 note 42.

74. N.Y.—New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 190 N.Y.S. 777, 198 App.Div. 517, affirmed 136 N.E. 311, 234 N.Y. 113.

75. N.Y.—New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

76. N.Y.—New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 136 N.E. 311, 234 N.Y. 113.

77. U.S.—Continental Illinois Nat. Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago v. City of Middlesboro, C.C.A.Ky., 109 F.2d 960—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 89 F.2d 94.
Ill.—Chester v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 55 N.E. 524, 182 Ill. 382.

78. Ill.—Chester v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 594 note 34 [a].

of the taxpayers, but the charter authorizes the council to grant revocable permits, the right given a railroad company to construct a railroad through the city, by an ordinance providing that the permission was revocable at any time, does not constitute a franchise within the prohibition of the constitution but a revocable license within charter powers.[79]

As incorporeal hereditament. A railroad right-of-way easement over a public street is a mere incorporeal hereditament.[80]

As to adjacent land. A grant of a right of way over a street does not include an easement on adjacent land of an abutting owner.[81]

c. Designation or Selection of Street or Highway

Ordinarily, where the ordinance or other grant specifically names the streets that may be used by a railroad company, the company has no right to use other streets.

Where the ordinance or other grant specifically names the streets that may be used by a railroad company, the company has no right to use other streets,[82] except where it is necessary to cross them,[83] unless the intention to grant the use of other streets is apparent from all the facts and circumstances, including the language of the grant,[84] or unless the municipality consents to such relocation or use.[85] Likewise, where the company is authorized, by statute, to occupy a street by condemnation or contract with the city, it is not entitled to select any street for its right of way and obtain control thereof by such proceeding or contract.[86]

A charter right of way along or on "any street, highway, or turnpike in the state," etc., need not mention and designate the particular street on which the road is to be constructed,[87] and under it the railroad company may lay its tracks on the street of an unincorporated village along its route without further permission or authority.[88]

Change of route; relocation. Where a railroad company, under its franchise to use city streets, is given the power to alter or change its route, such right is not an absolute one,[89] and cannot be exercised at will, without regard to the rights of third persons who would be injured by the change;[90] nor can such an absolute right be derived from a subsequent void franchise.[91] Where consent of the municipal authorities is necessary to the occupancy of a street, the fact that part of a railroad in a city is appropriated for a public purpose does not, in the absence of statutory authority, give the railroad company the right to a relocation as a way of necessity, without the consent of the city;[92] nor is such right given by an order of the state railroad commission, authorizing the railroad company to relocate its track wherever it might acquire the right of way, where the commission has no authority to confer such right without the assent of the city.[93] An ordinance authorizing the relocation of a railroad track "at any time thereafter" does not postpone the right to make such relocation until the happening of certain events, but gives a present right.[94]

d. Width of Right of Way

A grant to a railroad company of the right to use a street or public highway gives it merely a right of way of such width as it appropriates and uses for the railroad, and generally, in the absence of express words to the contrary, it cannot occupy the whole width to the exclusion of the public or other railroads unless the whole width is reasonably necessary for its business.

A grant to a railroad company of the right to use a street or public highway gives it merely a right of way of such width as it appropriates and uses for the railroad,[95] and not what it claims or contemplates using.[96] Accordingly, in the absence of express words to the contrary, it cannot occupy the whole width of the street to the exclusion of the public,[97]

79. U S—McPhee, etc, Co v. Union Pac. R Co, Colo., 158 F. 5, 87 C. C A. 619

80. Mont—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. Poland, 172 P. 541, 54 Mont 497.

81. N C.—Wearn v North Carolina R. Co., 132 S E 576, 191 N C. 575.

82. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Chicago, 11 N E 907, 121 Ill. 176. 51 C J p 595 note 52.

83. La—Knight v. Carrollton R. Co., 9 La.Ann. 284. 51 C.J. p 595 note 53

84. Ill—Spring Valley v Chicago, etc., R. Co, 115 N.E. 168, 277 Ill. 313.

85. Tex—Galveston, etc, R. Co v. Galveston, Civ App, 186 S W 368. 51 C J p 595 note 55

86. Neb.—Omaha, etc, R Co. v. Lincoln, 149 N.W. 319, 97 Neb. 122.

87. La—Hepting v. New Orleans Pac R. Co., 36 La.Ann. 898.

88. La—Hepting v New Orleans Pac. R. Co, supra.

Necessity of consent generally see supra §§ 103, 104, 108

89. Colo—Ward v. Colorado Eastern R. Co, 125 P. 567, 22 Colo App 332

90. Colo.—Ward v. Colorado Eastern R Co, supra.

91. Colo—Ward v. Colorado Eastern R. Co., supra.

92. Tex—Galveston, etc., R Co. v. Galveston, Civ App, 155 S.W. 273. 51 C J. p 596 note 61.

93. Tex—Galveston, etc, R. Co v Galveston, supra.

94. Tex—Galveston, etc, R. Co. v. Galveston, supra.

95. Pa.—Pennsylvania, etc, R. Co. v Philadelphia, etc., R Co., 28 A. 771, 160 Pa. 232—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Berks County R. Co, 2 Woodw. 361.

Width of right of way generally see supra § 82

96. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Berks County R. Co, supra.

97. Pa.—Pennsylvania Schuylkill or other railroads,[98] unless the whole width of the street or highway is reasonably necessary for its business[99] or unless it provides for another highway to be used by the public in its place.[1] Where the company is authorized to occupy a strip of land in the street, not exceeding a certain width, it may elect to take less than that width, and by some plain and decisive act define the limits of the right of way so as to exclude whatever is unnecessary to the construction and operation of its line.[2] Where the owner of the fee of a street conveys to a railroad company a strip of land in the center thereof, together with the power of sloping embankments or excavations as much farther beyond the lines of the premises granted as may be necessary to support the works, not beyond the width of the street, the company is authorized, when necessary to support its works, to place an embankment in the street to its full width, as it existed at the time of the grant, for the purpose of procuring a proper slope;[3] and, when it is necessary to make rock cuts or excavations through high ground, the company may make such excavations as wide at the surface of the ground as the full width of the street, as it existed at the time of the grant, at least where that is necessary in order to give the proper slope to the excavation,[4] and, in such case, the railroad company, and not the grantor, is the proper judge to determine where excavations and embankments are necessary and the proper width and slope of them within the limits of the street as it existed at the time of the grant.[5]

e. Mutuality of Rights of Company and Public in General

As a general rule the right given to a railroad company to lay down and use tracks in a street or highway is not exclusive, but is merely the right to use the street on equal terms with, and subject to, the right of the general public to occupy and use it.

Unless an exclusive right is granted to the railroad company by or under the authority of the legislature, in clear and explicit terms or by necessary implication,[6] the right given to a railway company to lay down and use tracks in a street or highway is not exclusive,[7] but, as a general rule, is merely the right to use the street or highway on equal terms with, and subject to, the right of the general public to occupy and use it;[8] and the rights of each therein must be exercised with due regard to the rights and nature of the use of the other.[9] Moreover, in the absence of constitutional or statutory authorization, the municipal authorities cannot grant, or consent to, an exclusive, unreasonable, or oppressive use of a street or highway by a railroad company,[10] and a railroad company has no right, even under an ordinance purporting to authorize it to do so, to lay its track in a street which is so narrow that, if occupied by a railroad track, there would not be room for vehicles to pass.[11] A right to operate to a certain street, which is the city limits, continues to such street only, after the limits are extended.[12]

Constructing new highway or street. Acquiescence of the local authorities in the appropriation of a highway by a railroad, without consent or condemnation until after the railroad has been constructed and put in operation, does not prevent such authorities from requiring the railroad company to construct a sufficient substitute road, as nearly equal as is practical, in point of utility to the road so Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 27 A. 683, 157 Pa. 42.

51 C.J. p 596 note 67.
Interference with use by public in general see infra subdivision e of this section.

98. Pa.—Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 28 A. 771, 160 Pa. 232.
51 C.J. p 596 note 68.
Rights to use tracks, right of way, or other property of another road generally see infra § 114.

99. Pa.—Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 27 A. 683, 157 Pa. 42.

1. Pa.—Stroudsburg v. Wilkes-Barre, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa.Dist. 507, 12 Pa.Co. 395.

2. Pa.—Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 23 A. 251, 144 Pa. 629, 32 A. 535, 169 Pa. 333, 47 Am.S.R. 916.

3. N.Y.—Welde v. New York, etc., R. Co., 61 N.E. 554, 168 N.Y. 597.

4. N.Y.—Welde v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

5. N.Y.—Welde v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

6. Alaska.—Corpus Juris quoted in Berger v. Ohlson, 9 Alaska 605, 615.
51 C.J. p 596 note 76.

7. Alaska.—Corpus Juris quoted in Berger v. Ohlson, 9 Alaska 605, 615.
Ky.—Watson v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 36 S.W.2d 641, 238 Ky. 31.
51 C.J. p 596 note 77.
Exclusiveness of rights granted in streets generally see Municipal Corporations § 1735.

8. Alaska.—Corpus Juris quoted in Berger v. Ohlson, 9 Alaska 605, 615.
Ga.—Corpus Juris cited in Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Ellis, 189 S.E. 559, 561, 54 Ga.App. 783.
Ky.—Watson v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 36 S.W.2d 641, 238 Ky. 31.
51 C.J. p 597 note 78.

9. Alaska.—Corpus Juris quoted in Berger v. Ohlson, 9 Alaska 605, 615.
Ga.—Corpus Juris cited in Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Ellis, 189 S.E. 559, 561, 54 Ga.App. 783.
51 C.J. p 597 note 79.

10. Mo.—Sherlock v. Kansas City Belt R. Co., 43 S.W. 629, 142 Mo. 172, 64 Am.S.R. 551.
51 C.J. p 597 note 80.
Limitations on power of municipality to grant use of street generally see Municipal Corporations §§ 1723, 1724.

11. Ala.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Middleton, 36 So. 782, 139 Ala. 610.

12. Wis.—Milwaukee v. Milwaukee Electric R., etc., Co., 180 N.W. 339, 181 N.W. 321, 178 Wis. 400.

taken and occupied.[13] However, local authorities have no right, in such a case, to oust the railroad company from its location on the site of the former road, where it has by law the superior right of location enforceable by proper procedure.[14] So, too, where a railroad company and city agree that certain public streets shall be used exclusively by the company, and that in lieu thereof the company shall maintain on its own land certain other streets designated as private streets, which contract is ratified by the legislature, neither the company nor its successor can close the streets so designated[15] or prevent abutting owners from using them.[16]

f. Mode and Extent of Use

The right of a railroad company to occupy and use a public street or highway must be exercised in such manner as not unnecessarily or materially to obstruct or interfere with the rights of the general public therein, and so as not unnecessarily to obstruct or interfere with abutting property owners in the enjoyment of their property rights.

In accordance with the rules as to mutual rights discussed supra subdivision e of this section, the right of a railroad company to occupy and use a public street or highway must be exercised in such manner as not unnecessarily or materially to obstruct or interfere with the rights of the general public therein,[17] and so as not unnecessarily to obstruct or interfere with abutting property owners in the enjoyment of their property rights, including the right of ingress to and egress from their property to the street or highway;[18] and provision for the protection of the public generally or abutting owners in these rights is often made in railroad charters or by statute or ordinance.[19] Subject to these limitations, and the rules and regulations enacted by the state or municipality, a grant of a right to lay and operate a railroad over streets or highways carries with it the right to make such use of the street or highway in constructing or operating the road as is necessarily incident to the enjoyment of the original grant,[20] in the mode ordinarily adopted by railroad companies,[21] but it cannot subject the street or highway to a new and independent servitude without further authority.[22] Where the right is to use the street for a single track to transport a particular commodity, the company may not lay tracks for a general railroad business.[23] Likewise, where the right is to cross or pass along a street or highway, it is limited to a reasonable use by crossing, passing, and repassing consistent with the earlier public right,[24] and includes the taking on of passengers and freight on the street to a reasonable extent;[25] but does not include the right to occupy the street, or highway, or other public place with permanent structures[26] other than its tracks at the grade of the street,[27] such as for depot purposes[28] or car houses,[29] or to occupy a street for freight or railroad yard purposes,[30] especially where the charter of the railroad specifically authorizes the railroad to purchase land for terminal purposes,[31] or for a water tank.[32] The right to lay side tracks and turnouts, as considered infra subdivision g of this section, implies the right to use them for the transportation of goods to and from adjoining stores and warehouses;[33] and the grant of a right to cross

13. W.Va.—Wetzel County Court v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 334, 77 W.Va. 535, L.R.A.1917C 967.
Restoring and maintaining street or highway generally see infra § 130.

14. W.Va.—Wetzel County Court v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., supra.

15. Ala.—Greil v. Stollenwerck, 78 So. 79, 201 Ala. 303.

16. Ala.—Greil v. Stollenwerck, supra.

17. Ga.—Corpus Juris cited in Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Ellis, 189 S.E. 559, 561; 54 Ga.App. 783.
51 C.J. p 598 note 90.
Use of streets by railroads as constituting nuisance see Nuisances § 67.

18. Ky.—Watson v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 86 S.W.2d 641, 238 Ky. 31.
51 C.J. p 598 note 91.

19. Ga.—Corpus Juris cited in Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Ellis, 189 S.E. 559, 561, 54 Ga.App. 783.
51 C.J. p 598 note 92.

20. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covington, 213 S.W. 568, 184 Ky. 811.
51 C.J. p 598 note 94.

21. Ala.—Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 4 So. 106, 84 Ala. 115, 5 Am.S.R. 342.

22. Miss.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Inge, 22 So. 294.
51 C.J. p 598 note 96.
Subject to public veto
Use of a street for railway spur track is an additional servitude by a public utility subject to right of public to veto it.—Birmingham Realty Co. v. Birmingham Belt R. Co., 35 So.2d 503, 250 Ala. 623.

23. Mich.—Riedinger v. Marquette, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 775, 62 Mich. 29.

24. N.Y.—Ft. Edward v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 111 N.Y.S. 753, 127 App.Div. 438.
51 C.J. p 599 note 98.

25. N.Y.—Ft. Edward v. Hudson Valley R. Co., supra.

26. R.I.—Taber v. New York, etc., R. Co., 67 A. 9, 28 R.I. 269.
51 C.J. p 599 note 1.

27. R.I.—Taber v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

28. N.J.—State v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 25 N.J. Law 437.
51 C.J. p 599 note 3.

29. Pa.—Allegheny v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 26 Pa. 355.

30. N.Y.—Ft. Edward v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 111 N.Y.S. 753, 127 App.Div. 438.
51 C.J. p 599 note 5.

31. N.J.—Camden v. West Jersey, etc., R. Co., 123 A. 509, 95 N.J.Eq. 346.

32. U.S.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Leavenworth, City First M. E. Church, Kan., 102 F. 85, 42 C.C.A. 178, 50 L.R.A. 488.
51 C.J. p 599 note 7.

33. Ala.—Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 4 So. 106, 84 Ala. 115, 5 Am.S.R. 842.
Pa.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Wiley, 44 A. 583, 193 Pa. 496.

highways in municipal corporations includes the right to lay along the right of way pipes to conduct water needed for locomotives, and the other needs attendant on the operation of the road.[34] However, it has been held that a railroad company has no right to use its main tracks or sidings in a city street for the storage of cars to be loaded or unloaded,[35] or as a depot for cars.[36]

Shifting cars. A railroad company may not use its tracks in a city for the general purpose of shifting cars and making up trains;[37] but in making or breaking up a train in a city station, the temporary use by the railroad company occupying the station of an adjacent street may be necessary, and to that extent the authority to use the street grows out of the necessities of the case and is a necessary incident to the right to use the road and station;[38] and it also has a right to pass and repass over a highway in making up its trains and shifting its cars, provided this is done only to a reasonable extent and in a reasonable manner, without encroaching on the rights of others who have an equal right to use it.[39]

g. Tracks, Side Tracks, Switches, and Turnouts

Subject to the rules as to interference with public use, and of any limitation in its grant or license, a railroad company, as a necessary incident to its right to construct and operate its road on a public street or highway, may, when reasonably necessary, construct additional tracks, side tracks or switch tracks thereon.

Subject to the rules as to interference with public use, as discussed supra subdivision e of this section, and of any limitation in its grant or license, a railroad company, as a necessary incident to its right to construct and operate its road on a public street or highway, may, when reasonably necessary, construct side tracks or switch tracks thereon,[40] and may make a turnout in a street or highway to communicate with a depot, warehouse, or freight yard,[41] even though it is forbidden to make switches or turnouts for standing or passing trains.[42] Where they are delegated such authority, the municipal authorities may expressly grant the right to construct and operate such side tracks, turnouts, and switches in the streets,[43] provided they are not to be used for private purposes only,[44] and the nature and extent of the right in such a case depend on the terms of the grant or permission.[45] Where a railroad siding is laid in a public street for the convenience of property owners, the city may change the grade, even though it interferes with the siding and renders it useless.[46] Under statutory authority to construct such branches from its main line as the company may deem necessary, a company which has constructed its main line in a municipality with its consent may construct a branch line across a street to the plant of a manufacturing company.[47]

Additional tracks. When the necessities of the road require it, and there is sufficient room to do so within prescribed limits,[48] and there is no limitation as to the number of tracks,[49] the railroad company, under the view of public necessity, may construct and use in the street or highway additional tracks to accommodate the increase of its trade and business, and, if damages were assessed to the adjacent owners under the original grant, as under general proceedings of appropriation, it may construct such additional tracks, without paying additional damages.[50] Where the company is given the right to lay a specified number of tracks in a street at the time of the original location of its line, but lays only a part of them, it may thereafter, to ac-

34. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covington, 213 S.W. 568, 184 Ky. 811.
Miss.—Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 36 So. 266, 84 Miss. 268, 105 Am.S.R. 428, 65 L.R.A. 561.

35. Ga.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Montezuma, 49 S.E. 738, 122 Ga. 1.
51 C.J. p. 599 note 11.

36. Ky.—Owensborough, etc., R. Co. v. Sutton, 13 S.W. 1086, 12 Ky. L. 247.
Pa.—Allegheny v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 26 Pa. 355.

37. N.C.—State v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 53 S.E. 290, 141 N.C. 736.
51 C.J. p. 599 note 14.

38. D.C.—Glick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 19 D.C. 412, 21 D.C. 363.—Hopkins v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 17 D.C. 311.

39. Mass.—Gahagan v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 1 Allen 187, 79 Am.D. 724.

40. Iowa.—Hileman v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 85 N.W. 800, 118 Iowa 591.
51 C.J. p. 599 note 18.

41. La.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans Second Municipality, 1 La.Ann. 128.
51 C.J. p. 600 note 19.

42. Pa.—Philadelphia v. River Front R. Co., 19 A. 356, 133 Pa. 134.
51 C.J. p. 600 note 20.

43. Ill.—Mills v. Parlin, 106 Ill. 60.
51 C.J. p. 600 note 22.
Municipal grant or consent to railroad generally see supra § 104.
Power of municipality to grant use of street for railroad purposes in general see Municipal Corporations § 1726 c.

44. Ill.—Greenlee Foundry Co. v. Borin Art Products Corp., 41 N.E. 2d 532, 379 Ill. 494.
51 C.J. p. 600 note 23.
Power of municipality to grant use of street by private railroad generally see Municipal Corporations § 1725 b.

45. N.Y.—Reimer v. Fullen, 19 N.Y.S. 2d 847, 174 Misc. 54.
51 C.J. p. 600 note 24.

46. Pa.—Murdoch v. Pittsburgh, 100 A. 869, 256 Pa. 268.

47. Pa.—Bethlehem Borough v. Lehigh, etc., R. Co., 97 A. 1074, 253 Pa. 251.

48. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, 26 N.E. 759, 127 Ind. 156.

49. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, supra.
51 C.J. p. 600 note 28.

50. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, supra.

commodate the increase of its trade and business, lay the other authorized tracks.[51]

Further authority or consent. Where the power of the railroad company to lay tracks, side tracks, switches, etc., as conferred in the grant or permission to it, is not exhausted by the original laying of tracks on the streets, it may thereafter, without the consent of the municipal authorities, lay thereon additional tracks[52] or a branch line.[53] Accordingly, where a city ordinance purports to grant the unreserved and unrestricted use of a street for railroad purposes, the company is not compelled at the outset to construct all the tracks it has a right to lay in the street under the grant,[54] but it may construct a single track at first and then construct any additional track or tracks, authorized by the ordinance or statute, at any time in the future, whenever it becomes desirable from the necessity or for the convenience of operating its road.[55] However, where the right of the company is exhausted by the construction of its tracks, it has no right some years afterward to build additional tracks, without additional authority therefor,[56] unless they are demanded by public necessity and the railroad owns the right of way.[57] Municipal authority to construct a single track in a street confers no authority to construct a double track.[58] Where, if the location or route of a proposed railroad is indefinitely described on the map filed by the company and in the instrument executed by a property owner conferring a right of way on it, the track as established at the time of the grant of the right of way and with respect to the location of which the consent was given should be held unchangeable, and additional tracks, switches, or sidings may not be constructed without the property owner's permission[59] or the acquisition of the right through statutory condemnation proceedings;[60] since in such a case the consent of the property owner does not give the railroad company the right to utilize the street for as many tracks or for such sidings or switches as it may deem necessary in the accomplishment of its corporate purposes.[61] Where a railroad company, having a right by consent of abutting property owners to maintain only a single track in a highway, changes and adds to its track by constructing switches and sidings, it becomes a trespasser as to the abutting owners.[62]

§ 113. —— Remedies by or against Railroad Company

a. In general
b. Injunction
c. Mandamus

a. In General

The town or municipality in which the highway is situated may proceed in equity against the railroad company to ascertain whether or not the location and construction of the road are within the power granted to the company; whether or not a railroad company rightfully occupies a street or highway must be determined in a direct proceeding, by a proper public officer in the name of the state.

The town or municipality in which the highway is situated may proceed in equity against the railroad company to ascertain whether or not the location and construction of the road are within the power granted to the company;[63] and whether a railroad company rightfully occupies a street or highway must be determined in a direct proceeding, by a proper public officer in the name of the state,[64] and unless so raised the presumption is that the company is in rightful occupancy thereof.[65] Such question may not be raised for the first time in a property owner's action against the railroad for an injunction and for damages as for a nuisance,[66] or in an action for damages against the company for killing plaintiff's intestate;[67] but it may arise in a suit between different railroad companies as to 51. Pa.—Williamsport v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 40 Pa.Co. 267.

52. Pa.—Williamsport v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 601 note 31.
53. Pa.—Bethlehem v. Lehigh, etc., R. Co., 97 A. 1074, 253 Pa. 251.
54. Cal.—Los Angeles v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 65, 157 Cal. 363.—Workman v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 62 P. 185, 316, 129 Cal. 536.
55. Cal.—Los Angeles v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 65, 157 Cal. 363.—Workman v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 62 P. 185, 316, 129 Cal. 536.
56. Iowa.—Henry v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., 118 N.W. 310, 140 Iowa 201.
51 C.J. p 601 note 35.
57. Ark.—McLaughlin v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 300 S.W. 929, 175 Ark. 912.
58. Ky.—Klosterman v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 56 S.W. 820, 22 Ky.L. 192, 114 Ky. 426, 71 S.W. 6, 24 Ky. L. 1183, 1233.
59. N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 67 N.E. 119, 175 N.Y. 72.
60. N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.
61. N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.
62. N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.
63. Mass.—Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. 63.
51 C.J. p 601 note 48.

Actions for injuries to property see infra §§ 465-476.
Remedies for obstruction of highway generally see Highways §§ 222-231.
Summary removal of railroad track from street see Municipal Corporations § 1750.

64. N.Y.—People v. State Board Tax Commissioners, 146 N.Y.S. 112, 160 App.Div. 771.
51 C.J. p 601 note 49.
65. Ala.—Glass v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 10 So. 215, 94 Ala. 581.
66. N.Y.—Willson v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 146 N.Y.S. 208.
67. Ala.—Glass v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 10 So. 215, 94 Ala. 581.

their right to occupy the same highway,[68] in which suit the local authorities of the county or municipality must be made parties.[69]

Under a statute authorizing the highway commissioners or other local authorities to sue, to sustain the rights of the public in and to any highway, and to enforce the performance of any duty enjoined on a railroad company with respect to such highway, such commissioners may sue a railroad company, on its abandoning a turnpike, which it had taken over from the turnpike company, to compel it to surrender the turnpike to them;[70] or they may sue the company to compel it to restore a highway, which it has taken without authority of law, to its original condition,[71] and to recover damages or expenses sustained or which may be sustained by the town or city in consequence of any act or omission of a railroad company in violation of any law or condition with respect to such highway.[72]

Recovery of possession; ejectment; damages. A municipality may maintain ejectment to recover municipal land which a railroad company is occupying unlawfully.[73] Likewise, since city streets are in its possession and control, as discussed in Municipal Corporations §§ 1681–1695, an abutting owner cannot maintain an action for possession of any portion of the street or for ejectment, against a railroad company occupying it with the lawful consent of the municipality.[74] So, too, it has been held that, if an owner stands by and permits the railroad company to enter and construct its road or expend a considerable amount of money in its construction, he may not maintain an action of ejectment,[75] and the abutting property owner is left to his action for damages.[76]

Recovery by railroad of cost of relocation. Where a railroad has lawfully constructed its road through a street, and is occupying the street in a lawful manner under direct legislative authority, it is entitled to recover the reasonable cost of removing and relocating any part of its structures for the accommodation of the municipality without an order therefor.[77]

b. Injunction

(1) In general
(2) By abutting owner or other citizen
(3) By railroad company

(1) In General

An injunction will lie at the instance of the proper state, county, or municipal authorities to restrain a railroad company from constructing or operating its road on a public street or highway without authority of law, or to require its removal, or to restrain the company from using the street or highway in an unreasonable, wrongful, or unlawful manner, or to compel it to abate unlawful obstructions which it has placed in the street or highway.

An injunction will lie at the instance of the proper state, county, or municipal authorities[78] to restrain a railroad company from constructing and operating its road on a public street or highway without authority of law,[79] or to require its removal,[80] or to restrain the company from using the street or highway in an unreasonable, wrongful, or unlawful manner,[81] or to compel it to abate unlawful obstructions which it has placed in the street or highway.[82] Injunction will also lie to restrain the company from removing a roundhouse or other structure which it has contracted to maintain.[83] Where, however, a railroad company has obtained proper authority to construct its road on or along a street or highway, a court of equity ordinarily will not interfere to restrain such construction.[84] In ordering a 68. Pa.—Middletown, etc., St. R. Co. v Middletown Electric R. Co., 4 Pa Dist. 32, 16 Pa.Co. 127.

69. Pa.—Middletown, etc., St R. Co. v. Middletown Electric R. Co., supra

70. N.Y.—Palatine v. New York Cent., etc., R Co., 47 N.Y.S. 1024, 22 App Div. 181.

71. N.Y.—Barse v. Herkimer, etc., R. Co., 13 N.Y.St. 215.

72. N.Y.—Barse v. Herkimer, etc., R Co., supra
Ohio—Cincinnati, etc., R Co. v. Carthage, 36 Ohio St 631.

73. N.Y—New York v New York Cent. R. Co., 190 N.Y.S 777, 198 App Div. 517, affirmed 136 N.E. 311, 234 N.Y. 113.
51 C.J. p 602 note 56.

74. S.D.—Dewey v Chicago, etc., R Co., 158 N.W. 408, 37 S.D 390.

75. Ind.—Strickler v Midland Ry Co., 25 N.E. 455, 125 Ind 412

76. Ind.—Strickler v. Midland Ry. Co., supra
S.D.—Dewey v Chicago, etc., R. Co., 158 N.W. 408, 37 S.D 390

77. U.S.—New York v. Davis, C.C.A.N.Y., 7 F.2d 566.
51 C.J. p 602 note 59.

78. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. New York, 127 N.Y.S. 513, 142 App.Div. 578, affirmed 95 N.E. 638, 202 N.Y. 212.
51 C.J. p 602 note 61
Injunction for obstruction of highway generally see Highways §§ 226, 227.

79. Ala.—Birmingham Belt R. Co. v. Birmingham, 101 So. 599, 211 Ala. 674.
51 C.J. p 602 note 63.
Railroad as nuisance generally see Nuisances § 67.

80. Mich.—Grand Rapids v Pere Marquette R. Co., 227 N.W. 797, 248 Mich 686.
51 C.J. p 602 note 64.

81. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R Co v Remington, 89 N.E. 614, 91 N.E. 249, 45 Ind.App. 561.
51 C.J. p 602 note 65

82. Cal.—Red Bluff v. Southern Pac. Co., 187 P. 152, 44 Cal.App. 667.
51 C.J. p 602 note 66.

83. Tex.—Dublin v. Fort Worth, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 292 S.W. 591
51 C.J. p 603 note 67.

84. N.Y.—Baxter v Spuyten Duyvil, etc., R. Co., 61 Barb. 428, 11 Abb Pr.N.S., 178.
Pa.—Bethlehem v Lehigh, etc., R Co., 97 A. 1074, 253 Pa. 251.

removal of tracks, the court may take into consideration the matter of public interest in deciding on the time or manner of removal;[85] and an injunction which will interfere with the loading of freight in the street by a railroad company operating over the streets should not be ordered on the ground that the company is obstructing the highway, except on a full investigation by trial, since not only the company, but the public offering its freight for carriage, is affected.[86]

Estoppel. Municipal or local authorities will be estopped from enforcing such remedy where the railroad company has gone to considerable expense in constructing its tracks and they have acquiesced or delayed to take action for a number of years;[87] or where the public right in the street or highway has been extinguished by the vacation of it as a public highway, except for a short distance, over which public travel is not impeded.[88]

(2) By Abutting Owner or Other Citizen

As a general rule, where a railroad is rightfully occupying a street or highway, an injunction will not lie, at the instance of an abutting owner or other citizen, to restrain the railroad company from using the street or highway.

Injunction to restrain the construction and operation of a railroad on a street or highway without authority of law may also be maintained by an abutting owner or other citizen who is or will be specially injured thereby,[89] even though he is not irreparably injured,[90] and this rule applies, although the abutting owner is a railroad company which itself operates a railroad on the street without authority.[91] If the abutting owner is the owner of the fee of the street or highway and the railroad is constructed and operated without his consent or compensation to him, he is entitled to injunctive relief.[92]

On the other hand, it has been held that a court of equity is not bound to issue an injunction requiring removal of tracks which were erected without legislative authority or municipal consent over the center of a street, where such an order would produce great public or private mischief and would merely protect technical rights,[93] especially where an abutting owner made no objection to the laying of a railroad track over the highway,[94] since he is guilty of laches which prevents the issuance of an injunction.[95]

Railroad rightfully on street or highway. Where the railroad company is rightfully occupying the street or highway, as a general rule an injunction will not lie, at the instance of an abutting owner or other citizen, to restrain the railroad company from using the street or highway,[96] especially where he has consented to its location[97] or has acquiesced or delayed for a number of years to complain thereof,[98] and the rule is the same whether the fee of the street is in the public or in the abutting property owner.[99] Accordingly, it has been held that, if an owner stands by and permits the railroad company to enter and construct its road or complete its grade or expend a considerable amount of money in the construction of its roadbed, he may not obtain an injunction.[1]

On the other hand, he may insist that such streets be used in a manner not calculated to inflict unnecessary injury,[2] and may be entitled to injunctive relief where he receives or is threatened with such special injury, different from that suffered by the

85. N.J.—Camden v. West Jersey, etc., R. Co., 123 A. 509, 95 N.J.Eq. 346.
51 C.J. p. 603 note 69.

86. N.Y.—Ft. Edward v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 111 N.Y.S. 753, 127 App.Div. 438.

87. Mich.—Flint v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., 174 N.W. 147, 207 Mich. 213.
51 C.J. p. 603 note 72.
Estoppel as to construction of railroad generally see Estoppel §§ 95, 145.

88. N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Stickle, 20 N.J.Eq. 530.

89. Colo.—Ward v. Colorado Eastern R. Co., 125 P. 567, 22 Colo. App. 332.
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Philadelphia B. L. R. Co., 1 Pa.Dist. 1, 10 Pa.Co. 625, affirmed 24 A. 210, 149 Pa. 218, 29 Wkly.N.C. 202.
51 C.J. p. 603 note 75.

90. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co., 5 A. 872, 115 Pa. 514.

91. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 26 So. 895, 124 Ala. 162
51 C.J. p. 603 note 77.

92. Md.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Canton Co., 65 A. 337, 104 Md. 682.
51 C.J. p. 603 note 78
Spur track
Use of street for railway spur track is an additional servitude by a public utility subject to claim of owner of adjacent lot and fee to center of street, to enjoin such additional servitude if it is without his consent, and without condemnation under eminent domain.—Birmingham Realty Co. v. Birmingham Belt R. Co., 35 So.2d 503, 250 Ala. 623.

93. Mich.—Kipp v. Van Wagoner, 231 N.W. 592, 286 Mich. 202.

94. Mich.—Kipp v. Van Wagoner, supra.

95. Mich.—Kipp v. Van Wagoner, supra.

96. U.S.—Whittaker v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ga., 143 F. 583.
51 C.J. p. 603 note 79.

97. Ind.—Burkam v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 23 N.E. 799, 122 Ind. 344
Or.—Wolfard v. Fisher, 84 P. 850, 87 P. 530, 48 Or. 479, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 991.

98. U.S.—Beers v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 141 F. 957.
51 C.J. p. 604 note 81.

99. U.S.—Whittaker v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ga., 143 F. 583.

1. Ind.—Strickler v. Midland Ry. Co., 25 N.E. 455, 125 Ind. 412.
51 C.J. p. 604 note 81 [a].

2. La.—Laviosa v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 1 McG. 229.

public in general, that an action at law would be an inadequate remedy,[3] even though his property is not situated on the part of the street on which the railroad is constructed or to be constructed;[4] but a strong case must be presented and the impending danger must be imminent and impressive in order to justify the issuing of an injunction as a precautionary and preventive remedy.[5] Thus, if this special injury is or will be such that the abutting owner or other citizen would have no adequate remedy at law, he may maintain an injunction to restrain the railroad company from doing unauthorized or negligent acts or placing obstructions in the street or highway;[6] or to compel it to remove its tracks to a greater distance from his property;[7] or to prevent, or compel the removal of, an unlawful obstruction which seriously interferes with the right of ingress or egress to or from his property,[8] or with the use of the street for traffic or travel.[9] Equity, however, will not enjoin a railroad company from using a public street, at the instance of a private citizen, where he has an adequate remedy at law,[10] or where the injury is due merely to a proper use and operation of the road;[11] nor will it require the railroad company to remove obstructions at the instance of abutting owners, on the ground of breach of conditions, which were not imposed for their special benefit.[12]

Enjoining removal. Owners for whose accommodation a railroad siding is laid in a public street may not enjoin its removal by the city.[13]

(3) By Railroad Company

Where a railroad company has lawfully laid its tracks through a street or highway, it may maintain an injunction to prevent the municipal or local authorities or an abutting owner from unreasonably tearing up or removing such tracks, or from interfering with the construction and use of necessary tracks or structures.

Where a railroad company has lawfully laid its tracks through a street or highway, it may maintain an injunction to prevent the municipal or local authorities or an abutting owner from unreasonably tearing up or removing such tracks,[14] or from interfering with the construction and use of necessary tracks or structures;[15] or where the road is constructed on a private right of way, it may sue to enjoin a municipality from encroaching thereon by the construction of a street.[16] An injunction will also lie at the instance of a railroad company to enjoin the enforcement of an ordinance which has for its purpose the destruction of the company's legally vested right to use a street for railroad purposes;[17] and in such suit the municipality may not by cross bill seek to enforce another ordinance requiring the placing of the tracks at a different grade,[18] since such right neither grows out of, nor is connected with, the subject matter of the bill and may be enforced in a separate suit at law.[19] An injunction may issue to enjoin local officers from interfering with the laying of tracks, as authorized by a general law, although consent of the local authorities has not been obtained,[20] or from preventing the company from constructing an additional track, as authorized by ordinance.[21] However, an injunction is not the

3. Colo.—Ward v. Colorado Eastern R. Co., 125 P. 567, 22 Colo.App. 332.
51 C.J. p 604 note 83.

4. Colo.—Ward v. Colorado Eastern R. Co., supra.

5. N.Y.—Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb 508

6. N.Y.—Coatsworth v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 51 N.E. 301, 156 N.Y. 451.
51 C.J. p 604 note 86.

7. La.—Laviosa v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 1 McG. 299.

8. Mo.—Ettenson v. Wabash R. Co., 154 S.W. 785, 248 Mo. 395.
51 C.J. p 604 note 88.

9. Mo.—Foudry v. St Louis, etc., R. Co., 109 S.W. 80, 130 Mo.App. 104
51 C.J. p 604 note 89.

Determination of interference

In determining whether tracks interfere with travel and traffic on a street so as to warrant an injunction, the population and business volume of the city, proximity and convenience of other streets, and environments should be considered, and, while even a considerable hindrance or inconvenience to travel and traffic will not necessarily make the occupation of a street by a railway company unlawful, the monopoly of the street by the company need not go to the extent of rendering passage by teams and vehicles impossible, and if the tracks so far engross a street that the public will forego the use of it rather than encounter the danger and difficulty of using it, injunction will lie.—Foudry v. St Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

10. U.S.—Beers v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 141 F. 957.
51 C.J. p 604 note 90.

11. N.Y.—Conabeer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 51 N.E. 402, 156 N.Y. 474
51 C.J. p 604 note 91.

12. Pa.—Aldine Realty Co. v. Manor Real Est., etc., Co., 148 A. 56, 297 Pa. 583.
51 C.J. p 605 note 92.

13. Pa.—Murdoch v. Pittsburgh, 100 A. 869, 256 Pa. 268.

14. Cal.—Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Ferris, 28 P. 828, 93 Cal. 263, 18 L.R.A. 510.
51 C.J. p 605 note 93.

15. U.S.—Shelbyville v. Glover, Ky., 184 F. 234, 106 C.C.A. 376.
51 C.J. p 605 note 94.

16. S.C.—Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Alexander, 151 S.E. 893, 155 S.C. 91.
51 C.J. p 605 note 95.

17. Ala.—Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 4 So. 106, 84 Ala. 115, 5 Am.S.R. 342
51 C.J. p 605 note 96.

18. Ala.—Florala v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 104 So. 769, 213 Ala. 342

19. Ala.—Florala v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

20. N.J.—Elizabeth, etc., R. Co. v. Woodbridge Tp., 95 A. 987, 85 N.J.Eq. 192, reversed 96 A. 404, 84 N.J.Eq. 72.

21. Ind.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. South Bend, 89 N.E. 885, 91 N.E. 809, 174 Ind. 203, 36 L.R.A., N.S., 850, reversed on other proper remedy to prevent a municipality from repealing orders granting assent to the occupation of the streets by the railroad company,[22] and, where the right of the company to construct its works on a street is subject to the municipality agreeing on the terms and conditions thereof, the company, on the rejection of its own terms and conditions, cannot enforce its right by enjoining the municipal authorities from interfering with the work,[23] since, as discussed infra subdivision c of this section, its remedy, if the municipal authorities arbitrarily refuse to agree on terms and conditions, is by mandamus or mandatory injunction to compel them to exercise their discretion in good faith.[24]

Use of bridge. Where a railroad company, in compliance with its contract, erects and agrees to maintain a substantial street bridge over a railroad cut in a street, it is entitled to an injunction to restrain any use of the bridge beyond or differing from those for which it is adopted, and which tend to increase the burden of maintenance or endanger the railroad and its traffic,[25] regardless of the ownership of the street bridge,[26] and of whether the bridge has been dedicated to public use.[27]

Against individual. Although a railroad company may be entitled to use a certain portion of a street, until it does make use of it, it is not entitled to an injunction to restrain a person from carrying on a transfer baggage business on that part of the street, if he conducts such business in the usual and ordinary manner and under proper authorization from the city.[28]

c. Mandamus

Mandamus will lie to compel the proper board or officers of a municipal corporation to act on the merits of the application of a railroad to extend its track through the streets of the municipality, or to compel their consent to the construction of certain works by the railroad.

Mandamus will lie to compel the proper board or officers of a municipal corporation to act on the merits of the application of a railroad to extend its track through the streets of the municipality,[29] or to compel their consent to the construction of certain works by the railroad company.[30]

Against railroad. Where a railroad company is unlawfully obstructing a street or highway, a writ of mandamus to compel it to remove its structures may be maintained by the municipal corporation,[31] or by a private relator, suing as a citizen and taxpayer,[32] unless the municipality has, by its acts and conduct, estopped itself to assert its right to an unobstructed use of the street.[33]

§ 114. Right to Use Tracks, Right of Way, or Other Property of Another Road

a. In general
b Statutory permission
c. Contracts and agreements between railroads
d. Covenants and conditions in grant of right of way
e. Remedies against interference with right of way or property
f. Enforcement of agreements

a. In General

As a general rule one railroad company may not enter on or use the tracks, depots, right of way, or other property of another railroad company without the latter's consent.

As a general rule one railroad company may not enter on or use the tracks, depots, right of way, or other property of another railroad company without the latter's consent,[34] and the rule has been said to apply even though the act of the first company in building the track in question was ultra grounds 33 S Ct. 303, 227 U S 544. 57 L Ed 633, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 405.

51 C J. p 605 note 1.

22. W.Va.—Belington, etc., R Co v. Alston, 46 S E. 612, 54 W Va 597.

23. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R Co v Covington, 203 S.W. 1060, 181 Ky 86.

24. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v Covington, supra.

25. Md.—South Baltimore Co v Washington, etc., Electric R Co, 132 A. 269, 149 Md. 678.
51 C J. p 606 note 6.

26. Md.—South Baltimore Co. v Washington, etc., Electric R. Co., supra.

27. Md.—South Baltimore Co. v. Washington, etc., Electric R. Co., supra

28. N Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, 15 N Y.St. 167, affirmed 24 N E. 1104, 120 N.Y. 664.

29. Cal.—People v. Craycroft, 44 P. 463, 111 Cal 544.
Mich.—Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R Crossing Board, 45 N W. 973, 81 Mich. 248.
Mandamus to municipal and other public corporations and officers generally see Mandamus §§ 118–193.

30. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covington, 203 S.W. 1060, 181 Ky 86.

31. Ill.—People v. Rock Island, 74 N E 437, 215 Ill 488, 106 Am S.R 179.
51 C J. p 606 note 14.
Mandamus against railroad companies generally see Mandamus § 231.

32. Ill.—People v. Rock Island, supra.

33. Ill.—People v. Rock Island, supra.

34. U S.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Commission, D.C La., 12 F.2d 798.
51 C J. p 606 note 18.
Conflicting locations see supra §§ 71, 72.
Right to cross other railroads see infra § 132.
Right to take in eminent domain proceedings see Eminent Domain § 76.

vires.[35] On the other hand, by reason of charter provisions, a railroad company may be authorized to enter on or use the facilities of another railroad, or it may be required to permit another railroad to enter on or use its facilities.[36] In addition, one railroad may acquire the right to use the facilities of another through the application of the doctrines of equitable estoppel.[37] So, where the acts and declarations of a railroad company have induced the expenditure of a large sum of money in the construction of a connecting railroad, it may not be permitted to control the portion of the road of which it is the proprietor in such a manner as to exclude the junction railroad from participation in its use as part of a continuous line.[38] Where such right is acquired, the second company may make only such reasonable use of the road and other property as is necessary to effectuate the common object,[39] and has no right so to use it as to deprive the first company of its use.[40]

While the mere fact that a junior company locates its right of way over the land of an existing company and files an act or instrument of appropriation may not give it any interest or right in the right of way or other real estate of the senior company,[41] it has been held that, in respect of lands which the senior company has not devoted to public use, if the senior company permits the junior company to use such land, it may not afterward restrain it from laying a side track thereon within the limits of its right of way.[42]

b. Statutory Permission

Provision is frequently made by statute for the acquisition by one railroad of a right to use the facilities of another railroad.

Provision is frequently made by statute for the acquisition by one railroad of a right to use the facilities of another.[43] The rights conferred by a statute granting other roads the right to use the property and facilities of a railroad company are governed by a proper and fair construction of the language used in the particular statute.[44] Thus, a statute which gives such a right has been held not to authorize such an invasion of the property or lands of a railroad company as will amount to a practical destruction of the specific use to which they have been appropriated[45] or for which they are manifestly needed,[46] and it has further been held that such a statute does not authorize such an encroachment as will prevent the discharge by the company of its duties to the government and to the public under its franchise.[47]

Ascertainment of compensation. Under some statutory provisions the ascertainment of the amount to be paid as compensation for the use by one railroad of the facilities of another is vested in particular officers or commissioners.[48] Under a statute which provides for the sitting of a railroad commission as arbitrator where the compensation to be paid for the use of property or facilities cannot be agreed on by the companies, the presumptions are in favor of an award duly made by the commission acting as arbitrator,[49] although such an award may be impeached where it so disregards, mistakes, or misapplies the evidence as to deprive the railroad of its rights,[50] and, where it is set aside, the court should proceed to determine reasonable compensation.[51]

Regulations and conditions. By virtue of statute, particular officers or commissioners may be empowered to establish reasonable regulations[52] and to impose reasonable conditions[53] as to the

35. Tex.—Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 67 S.W. 525, 28 Tex.Civ.App. 551.
51 C.J. p 606 note 19.

36. Md.—Union R. Co v. Canton R. Co., 65 A. 409, 105 Md. 12.
51 C.J. p 606 note 23.

37. U.S.—Union Pac R. Co v. Greeley, Colo., 189 F. 1, 110 C.C.A. 571, appeal dismissed 34 S.Ct. 824, 231 U.S. 757, 58 L.Ed 469.
51 C.J. p 607 note 25.

38. Pa.—Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., 14 Phila. 438.

39. Pa.—Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., supra.

40. Pa.—Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., supra.

41. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 204, 126 Ind. 513.
51 C.J. p 607 note 29.

42. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., supra.

43. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R Co., 26 N.E. 204, 126 Ind 513.
51 C.J. p 607 note 32.

44. Pa.—Miller v. Canal Comrs., 21 Pa. 23.
51 C.J. p 608 note 33.

45. N.Y.—Jennings v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 93 N.Y.S. 374, 103 App. Div. 164, affirmed 83 N.E. 1126, 190 N.Y 544
51 C.J. p 608 note 34.

46. N.Y.—Jennings v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 608 note 35.

47. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co v Mason City, etc., R Co., Neb., 128 F. 230, 64 C.C.A. 348, affirmed 26 S.Ct. 19, 199 U.S. 160, 50 L.Ed. 134.

48. N.H.—Concord, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 39 A. 1073, 68 N.H. 519.
51 C.J. p 608 note 37.

49. Or.—Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co. v Spokane, etc., R. Co., 163 P. 600, 989, 83 Or. 528, Ann.Cas 1918C 991.
51 C.J. p 608 note 39

50. Or.—Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co. v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., supra.

51. Or.—Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co. v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 608 note 41.

52. Mass.—Providence, etc., R. Co v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 138 Mass. 277.

53. Mass.—Providence, etc., R Co. v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 608 note 43.

place and manner of the use by one company of the facilities of another, where necessary for public safety,[54] and the interest of the corporations.[55] However, the powers conferred on a railroad commission under such a statute have been held not to include the authority to determine the rights of several railroad companies under an agreement for the joint use of a track,[56] and it has further been held that such a statute may not be upheld where its effect would be to impair a contract.[57]

Under power to amend charters. Under a reserved power to alter or amend the charter of a railroad corporation, the legislature may compel the railroad to allow the use of its facilities by other railroads[58] on payment of reasonable compensation therefor,[59] and such an authorization does not impair the vested rights of the railroad company[60] or of its mortgage bondholders.[61]

c. Contracts and Agreements between Railroads

Ordinarily, a railroad company may by agreement allow another to use a portion of its line on such terms and conditions as it may deem proper as long as such use does not impair its power properly and adequately to perform its own duty to the public.

Ordinarily, a railroad company may by agreement allow another to use a portion of its line on such terms and conditions as it may deem proper[62] as long as such use does not impair its power properly and adequately to perform its own duty to the public.[63] Where the right to use the property of another railroad is acquired by agreement between the companies, the rights and liabilities of each thereunder are governed by the terms of such agreement.[64] A railroad company having a license from another company to use its right of way may do thereon any act which is necessary to the full enjoyment of the license, although the terms of the license must be strictly followed and may not be extended or varied.[65]

Although the contract between the companies may be irregular, if the second company takes possession thereunder and expends large sums of money on the road to which the directors and stockholders of the first company do not object, they may be estopped afterward to deny the validity of the agreement on the ground of irregularity.[66] Where a railroad company permits its charter to be used for purposes of condemnation of lands for another company's railroad and the latter locates its road, pays and takes title in its own name, the road is the property of the latter company; and if in such case any of the land condemned was paid for by the former company with its own funds which have not been repaid to it, the latter company has been held bound to refund such amount.[67]

d. Covenants and Conditions in Grant of Right of Way

One railroad may have the right to make use of the right of way or of the facilities of another railroad by virtue of a condition or covenant contained in the grant by which the right of way or facilities were originally acquired.

One railroad may have the right to make use of the right of way or of the facilities of another railroad by virtue of a condition or covenant contained in the grant by which the right of way or facilities were originally acquired,[68] as for example, where a railroad has acquired rights from a city to occupy public property on condition that it shall permit other roads the use of its right of way[69] or tracks.[70] By reason of such a covenant, an equitable easement in favor of another company seeking to take advantage of its provisions may be created,[71] and, where not restricted in that respect, such a covenant may include companies operating under a foreign charter[72] and be bind-

54. Mass.—Providence, etc, R. Co v Norwich, etc., R. Co, supra

55. Mass.—Providence, etc, R. Co. v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., supra

56. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 245 S.W. 806. 156 Ark. 259.

57. Mass.—Attorney General v. Fitchburg R. Co., 6 N.E 854, 142 Mass 40.
51 C.J. p 608 note 46.

58. U.S.—Union Pac. R Co v. Mason City, etc., R Co, Neb, 128 F. 230, 64 C.C.A. 348, affirmed 26 S.Ct 19, 199 U.S 160, 50 L.Ed. 134.

59. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C J. p 609 note 49.

60. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., supra.

61. U.S.—Union Pac R Co. v Mason City, etc, R. Co, supra

62. Iowa.—Holbert v. St. Louis, etc., R Co, 38 Iowa 315.
51 C.J. p 609 note 52.

63. U.S.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Commission, D.C.La., 12 F.2d 798.

64. D.C.—New York, N. H. & H R Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 55 F.2d 1028, 60 App D.C. 403, reversed on other grounds Interstate Commerce Commission v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co, 53 S.Ct. 106, 287 U.S. 178, 77 L.Ed. 248.
51 C J. p 609 note 54.

65. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 204, 126 Ind. 513.
51 C J. p 609 note 55.

66. Iowa.—Mahaska County R. Co v. Des Moines Valley R Co, 28 Iowa 437.

67. N.J.—Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co, 31 N.J.Eq 105.

68. U.S.—Joy v. St. Louis, Mo., 11 S.Ct 243, 138 U.S 1, 34 L.Ed. 843.

69. U.S.—Joy v. St. Louis, supra.
51 C.J. p 609 note 59.

70. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 22 S.W 920, 92 Tenn. 681.

71. Ala.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 23 So 973, 117 Ala. 395.

72. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 22 S.W. 920, 92 Tenn 681.

ing on a subsequent purchaser with notice[73] as well as on a consolidating company.[74]

The right of one railroad company to locate on or use the road or property of another company within city limits may be acquired by virtue of an ordinance granting a right of way to such other company, as where the ordinance provides that the grantee's road within the city limits shall be open to all other railroad companies obtaining permission of the city;[75] and the right to use the tracks under such an ordinance has been held not affected by a further provision therein with respect to the method by which compensation shall be made by the second company.[76] It has been held not a ground for excluding an applicant that a portion of the tracks was built on private property,[77] or that applicant by the terms of its charter may use only animal power when such applicant has for years used steam power with the sanction of the city.[78] Moreover, where no limit is provided on the time within which other railroads may come in or on the number of railroads which may come in, a delay in making application during the course of which other railroads have come in is no ground for excluding an applicant,[79] unless it is shown that the road will be overburdened[80]

e. Remedies against Interference with Right of Way or Property

In a proper case, an injunction may be issued to restrain one railroad company from unlawfully interfering with the right of way or property of another company, and also the remedy of ejectment may be available to a railroad company to recover possession of a portion of its right of way from another railroad company which is wrongfully withholding it.

In a proper case, an injunction may be issued to restrain one railroad company from unlawfully interfering with the right of way or property of another company.[81] Thus, a company having a prior right of way may enjoin an intrusion thereon by another company until facts are shown making it necessary for the latter company to come on the right of way, where the latter company has a right, in case of necessity, to intrude on the right of way of the other company,[82] and in a suit for such injunction the latter company may show such necessity and enforce its right to enter on and use the right of way by a cross bill.[83]

On the other hand, the exercise of a later granted franchise may not be restrained unless its exercise will interfere with or obstruct the actual operation and exercise of the prior franchise;[84] and one railroad company will not be enjoined from constructing its road on the land of another company which is not in actual use.[85] A railroad company may have no rights to be protected and enforced by the equitable remedy of injunction where it has lost its easement of right of way because of nonuser.[86] So, where a railroad company has lost its right to occupy a certain route by consenting to its use by another road, it may be enjoined from interfering with such use by the latter company,[87] and it may not afterward enjoin the latter company from using the land within the limits of its right of way.[88]

Ejectment may be maintained by a railroad company to recover possession of a portion of its right of way from another railroad company, which is wrongfully withholding it,[89] unless it is estopped to enforce such remedy, in which case its remedy

73. U.S.—Joy v. St. Louis, Mo., 11 S. Ct. 243, 138 U.S. 1, 34 L.Ed. 843
51 C.J. p. 610 note 63.

74. U.S.—Joy v. St. Louis, supra

75. La.—Capdevielle v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 34 So. 868, 110 La. 904.
51 C.J. p. 610 note 65.

76. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., C.C.Mo., 38 F. 58.

77. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 22 S.W. 920, 92 Tenn. 681.

78. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., supra

79. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., supra.

80. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., supra.

81. Tex.—Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 67 S.W. 525, 28 Tex.Civ.App. 551.
51 C.J. p. 610 note 71.

Findings in such a suit will be construed and given effect according to their import.—Delaware & H. Co. v. Rutland R. Co., 151 A. 510, 103 Vt. 12.

Decree

The use of tracks of railroad company as accessory only to use of that company's bridge over river, and not for purposes which, like local switching, are wholly independent of any use of bridge was what was authorized by decree based on statutes with respect to the bridge.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City & F. D. R. Co., Neb., 32 S.Ct. 86, 222 U.S. 237, 56 L.Ed. 180.

82. U.S.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., C.C.Colo., 17 F. 867, 5 McCrary 443.
51 C.J. p. 610 note 72.

83. U.S.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., supra.

84. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co., 3 Walk. 454.

85. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co., supra

86. S.C.—Boyleston v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 106 S.E. 777, 115 S.C. 530

87. N.J.—Grey v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 46 A. 636, 60 N.J.Eq. 153, reversed on other grounds 48 A. 568, 62 N.J.Eq. 768.

88. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 204, 126 Ind. 513
51 C.J. p. 610 note 78.

89. Ala.—Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. East Alabama R. Co., 75 Ala. 516, 51 Am.R. 475.
Cal.—Fresno St. R. Co. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 67 P. 773, 135 Cal. 202 and express grant of authority, require a railroad to permit the use of its track for local business where it has a contract right to use such track for through business.[11]

§ 115. Conveyance or Release of Right of Way or Land by Railroad

a. Power to make and validity
b. Title and rights conveyed
c. Reservations and exceptions

a. Power to Make and Validity

(1) In general
(2) By dedication

(1) In General

Ordinarily, where a railroad has acquired title to its right of way in fee, it may, in the absence of an express or implied restriction contained in its charter or in the governing law, sell and convey it when no longer required for the uses of the road.

Ordinarily, where a railroad has acquired title to its right of way in fee, it may, in the absence of an express or implied restriction contained in its charter or in the governing law, sell and convey it when no longer required for the uses of the road,[12] or dispose of it by lease,[13] and likewise, where the railroad has acquired merely an easement, it may, ordinarily, release the easement to the owner of the fee,[14] although it may not have the authority to sell or in any way to alienate its right of way, where it has only an easement granted for a public purpose which it cannot defeat.[15]

While a general authority to convey such real estate as may be necessary and expedient to carry into effect the objects of an incorporation may not authorize a transfer of real estate acquired and held for the exercise of the corporate franchise, without further legislative authority,[16] and while under a statute authorizing a railroad company to sell or lease any lands or real estate not necessary for its use, a railroad may have no authority to sell and convey its right of way,[17] a railroad may be authorized to sell its right of way or other interest in land or a portion thereof by statute[18] or by its charter,[19] and, where authorized to make such a sale on credit, a reasonable discretion may be inferred to fix terms,[20] and to fix a reasonable minimum price,[21] subject to the power of the courts to control any attempted abuse of the power.[22] Furthermore, a railroad may have authority voluntarily to grant a right which may be taken from it by condemnation proceedings.[23]

Who may object. The question of whether a particular conveyance of railroad property is in excess of the power of the railroad is one which concerns only the corporation itself,[24] the state,[25] or those persons who have some interest or title in the corporation or the property involved,[26] and may not be urged by others,[27] as, for example, another railroad.[28] So, an owner of property along a rail-

11. U.S.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Commission, D.C.La., 12 F.2d 798.

12. Ky.—Kentucky Joint Stock Land Bank of Lexington v. Newman, 98 S.W.2d 33, 266 Ky. 13
51 C.J. p. 611 note 8.
Nature of title acquired by railroad see supra §§ 83-87.
Mortgages and trust deeds by railroad company see infra §§ 282-293

Successor to railroad

Where plaintiffs were in litigation with railroad company over title to two tracts, and railroad company, during course of litigation, agreed that, if they would acquire an outstanding title to the tract, the company would then settle the lawsuit by conveyance, one to the other, of certain parts of the lands, and plaintiffs pursuant to such agreement did acquire such outstanding title, government of United States, on succeeding to title of railroad company, would be bound by such agreement and would be estopped to question the outstanding title acquired by plaintiffs to the tracts.—Playa De Flor Land & Imp. Co. v. U. S., D.C. Canal Zone, 70 F.Supp. 281, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., 160 F.2d 131.

13. Colo.—Switzer v. Chaffee County, 203 P. 680, 70 Colo. 563.
Lease of road see infra §§ 208-224

14. Pa.—Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 32 A. 535, 169 Pa. 333, 47 Am.S.R. 916.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 5.

15. Neb.—State v. Grimes, 148 N.W. 942, 96 Neb. 719.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 8.

16. N.J.—Kean v. Johnson, 9 N.J. Eq. 401.
Ohio.—Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am.D. 518

17. Fla.—Seaboard Air-Line R. Co. v. McRainey, 68 So. 753, 69 Fla. 462.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 16.

18. Ala.—Coyne v. Warrior Southern R. Co., 34 So. 1004, 137 Ala. 553.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 9

19. U.S.—Venner v. Southern Pac. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 279 F. 832, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 461, 258 U.S. 628, 66 L.Ed. 799.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 10.

20. Ill.—People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 62 Ill. 510.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 11.

21. Ill.—People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 12.

22. Ill.—People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra.

23. U.S.—New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. U. S. Pipe Line Co., D.C.Pa., 290 F. 983, affirmed, C.C.A., 1 F.2d 886
51 C.J. p. 612 note 6.

24. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., 106 N.E. 818, 265 Ill. 194, Ann.Cas. 1916A 833.

25. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., supra.

26. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., supra.

27. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., supra.

28. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., supra.

road right of way may not question the validity of leases or privileges granted by the railroad for the use of portions of its right of way,[29] notwithstanding the railroad is engaged in interstate commerce, and it is asserted that the granting of such leases or privileges is a violation of the Interstate Commerce Act.[30]

(2) By Dedication

Where not forbidden by charter, a railroad company may dedicate land owned by it for a public use, provided this does not interfere with the purposes for which it was incorporated.

Where not forbidden by charter,[31] a railroad company may dedicate land owned by it for a public use,[32] provided this does not materially interfere with the purposes for which it was incorporated,[33] but not otherwise.[34] Thus, as a rule, a railroad company, in the absence of charter or statutory restriction, may dedicate a portion of its land as a public highway[35] or it may dedicate to the public the right of crossing its tracks or right of way,[36] and such an act is not ultra vires as an interference with the purposes for which the land was acquired, where the usefulness of the railroad will not be impaired by the crossing.[37] Moreover, the fact that a railroad has dedicated a crossing has been held not to interfere with its rights to lay an additional track,[38] and when evidence of an intent on the part of a railroad company to dedicate consists of its planking a way over the tracks, the width of the crossing has been held limited to the planking.[39]

Dedication by a railroad company of its land for a public use rests on the intention of the company to make such a dedication.[40] Where the dedication is not express, the acts of the company relied on to imply a dedication must be such as clearly to indicate an intent exclusively to devote the property to a public use,[41] and such acts must be inconsistent and irreconcilable with any construction except an assent on the part of the company to the dedication.[42] Moreover, in order to bind a railroad company beyond revocation, the dedication must be made by the directors, or be recognized by them in some way, or be expressly ratified by them, or by such public use for such time and under such circumstances as to justify the inference of such ratification;[43] the mere act of officers and agents making such dedication, without authority from the directors, ordinarily will not make a valid dedication, unless by such express or implied ratification.[44]

b. Title and Rights Conveyed

A purchaser of railroad land under a valid conveyance acquires only such title or interest as the grantor is capable of transferring, and which the conveyance is intended to transfer, and his title is at least good as against third persons.

A purchaser of railroad land under a valid conveyance acquires only such title or interest as the grantor is capable of transferring, and which the conveyance is intended to transfer,[45] and his title is at least good as against third persons.[46] Likewise,

29. U.S.—Fireproof Storage Co. v. Hines, D.C.Wash., 261 F. 215.

30. U.S.—Fireproof Storage Co. v. Hines, supra.

31. Cal.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Pomona, 37 P. 929, 144 Cal. 339.

32. Cal.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Pomona, supra.
W.Va.—Hast v. Piedmont, etc., R. Co., 44 S.E. 155, 52 W.Va. 396.

33. W.Va.—Hast v. Piedmont, etc., R. Co., supra.

34. U.S.—Holland Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., Wash., 214 F. 920, 131 C.C.A. 216.

35. Conn.—Loomis v. Connecticut R., etc., Co., 61 A. 539, 78 Conn. 156.
Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Christie, 100 N.E. 299, 178 Ind. 691.
51 C.J. p. 612 note 17.

36. Ga.—Atlanta & W. P. R. Co. v. City of Atlanta, 119 S.E. 712, 156 Ga. 251—City of Atlanta v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., 98 S.E. 83, 148 Ga. 635.
18 C.J. p. 43 note 76.

37. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Spokane, C.C.Wash., 56 F. 915, affirmed 64 F. 506, 12 C.C.A. 246, appeal dismissed 17 S.Ct. 997, 41 L.Ed. 1179.

38. Ga.—Brunswick, etc., R. Co. v. Waycross, 17 S.E. 674, 91 Ga. 573.

39. N.J.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Drummond, 45 N.J.Law 511, affirmed 46 N.J.Law 644.

40. Ga.—City of Atlanta v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., 98 S.E. 83, 148 Ga. 635.

41. Ga.—City of Atlanta v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., supra.
Ky.—City of Grayson v. Eastern Kentucky Southern Ry. Co., 62 S.W.2d 1034, 250 Ky. 316.
Clear and unequivocal facts
Facts as to intention necessary to imply dedication must be clear and unequivocal, in view of limitations on power of railroad to dispose of its lands so as not to interfere with its public duties.—City of Atlanta v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., 98 S.E. 83, 148 Ga. 635.

42. Ga.—City of Atlanta v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., supra.

43. W.Va.—Hast v. Piedmont, etc., R. Co., 44 S.E. 155, 52 W.Va. 396.

44. W.Va.—Hast v. Piedmont, etc., R. Co., supra.
18 C.J. p. 43 note 79.

45. S.C.—Chamberlain v. Northeastern R. Co., 19 S.E. 743, 996, 41 S.C. 399, 44 Am.S.R. 717, 25 L.R.A. 139.
51 C.J. p. 613 note 26
Description of boundary line
Under deed of property adjoining right of way describing boundary line as located designated number of feet from center line of railroad as "said railway is now constructed," quoted phrase referred to visible facts rather than location map filed by railroad as against contention that railroad was bound by location map in fixing boundaries.—Harrison v. New York Cent. R. Co., 6 N.Y.S.2d 978, 255 App.Div. 183, reargument denied 8 N.Y.S.2d 1017, 255 App.Div. 1032, affirmed 22 N.E.2d 483, 281 N.Y. 653.

46. S.C.—Chamberlain v. Northeastern R. Co., 19 S.E. 743, 996, 41 S.C. 399, 44 Am.S.R. 717, 25 L.R.A. 139.
51 C.J. p. 613 note 27.

linquish,[68] together with external acts by which the intent is carried into effect.[69] While the facts relied on to show an abandonment must be strong and convincing,[70] an intent to relinquish may be established by acts of the company clearly indicating its purpose not to use such right of way, followed by an actual relinquishment[71] or a long nonuser thereof.[72] Although it has been said in some cases that an abandonment may be found as a matter of fact from long nonuse,[73] as a general rule, and in the absence of an agreement otherwise providing,[74] a mere nonuser does not, in itself, establish an abandonment,[75] no matter how long the nonuser is continued,[76] inasmuch as an actual abandonment is necessary to terminate the estate of the railroad,[77] although a long-continued nonuser may constitute some evidence of an intent to abandon.[78]

Where the nonuser is accompanied by unequivocal and decisive acts on the part of a railroad company clearly showing an intention to abandon,[79] as where the nonuser is accompanied by acts which destroy the object for which the easement was created or the means of its enjoyment,[80] an abandonment may be inferred. Moreover, where nonuser is permanent, that is, without an intention to resume the use, it will constitute an abandonment without regard to the length of time the right of way has not been used.[81]

Various acts on the part of a railroad company have been held not, of themselves, to show or evidence an abandonment by it of a right of way,[82] such as a use of a right of way for an unauthorized purpose,[83] or an excessive use or misuse of a

68. Ill.—Abens v. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. Co., 57 N.E.2d 883, 388 Ill. 261—Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Clapp, 66 N.E. 223, 201 Ill. 418

Mo.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Dillard, 43 S.W.2d 1034, 328 Mo. 1154

N.Y.—Corpus Juris quoted in New York Connecting R. Co. v. Queens Used Auto Parts, 72 N.Y.S.2d 546, 550, modified on other grounds 77 N.Y.S.2d 505, 273 App.Div. 908, motion denied 79 N.Y.S.2d 325, 273 App.Div. 973.

Pa.—Lacy v. East Broad Top R. & Coal Co., 77 A.2d 706, 168 Pa.Super. 351.

51 C.J. p. 614 note 53.

69. Pa.—Lacy v. East Broad Top R. & Coal Co., 77 A.2d 706, 168 Pa.Super. 351

70. Mo.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Dillard, 43 S.W.2d 1034, 328 Mo. 1154.

Approval of application to abandon Certificate of public utilities commission approving railroad's application to abandon a portion of its right of way on plaintiff's land and authorizing railroad to take up tracks on abandoned line did not, in itself, without more, constitute an abandonment.—Lacy v. East Broad Top R. & Coal Co., 77 A.2d 706, 168 Pa.Super. 351.

71. N.Y.—Corpus Juris quoted in New York Connecting R. Co. v. Queens Used Auto Parts, 72 N.Y.S.2d 546, 550, modified on other grounds 77 N.Y.S.2d 505, 273 App.Div. 908, motion denied 79 N.Y.S.2d 325, 273 App.Div. 973.

51 C.J. p. 614 note 54.

72. U.S.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Mills, Colo., 222 F. 481, 138 C.C.A. 77.

N.Y.—Corpus Juris quoted in New York Connecting R. Co. v. Queens Used Auto Parts, 72 N.Y.S.2d 546, 550, modified on other grounds 77 N.Y.S.2d 505, 273 App.Div. 908, motion denied 79 N.Y.S.2d 325, 273 App.Div. 973.

73. Pa.—Guss v. Westchester R. Co., 1 Chest.Co. 363.

51 C.J. p. 614 note 56

74. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, 171 S.E. 123, 177 Ga. 698

75. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, supra.

Idaho.—O'Brien v. Best, 194 P.2d 608, 68 Idaho 348

Mo.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Dillard, 43 S.W.2d 1034, 328 Mo. 1154

Pa.—Lacy v. East Broad Top R. & Coal Co., 77 A.2d 706, 168 Pa.Super. 351

51 C.J. p. 614 note 58.

76. Wash.—Netherlands American Mortg. Bank v. Eastern R., etc., Co., 252 P. 916, 142 Wash. 204.

51 C.J. p. 614 note 59.

77. Pa.—Lacy v. East Broad Top R. & Coal Co., 77 A.2d 706, 168 Pa.Super. 351.

78. U.S.—Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Mich., 101 F. 757, 42 C.C.A. 570

Cal.—Home Real Est. Co. v. Los Angeles Pac. Co., 126 P. 972, 163 Cal. 710.

79. Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406

Mo.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Dillard, 43 S.W.2d 1034, 328 Mo. 1154—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Silver King Oil & Gas Co., 127 S.W.2d 31, 234 Mo.App. 589, transferred 117 S.W.2d 225, certiorari quashed State ex rel. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Shain, 134 S.W.2d 89, 345 Mo. 574.

51 C.J. p. 615 note 61.

Evidence held sufficient to show abandonment

Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406.

Okl.—Kansas, O. & G. Ry. Co. v. Rogers, 191 P.2d 209, 200 Okl. 111

51 C.J. p. 615 note 61 [d]

Evidence held insufficient to show abandonment

Mo.—Coates & Hopkins Realty Co. v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 43 S.W.2d 817, 328 Mo. 1118.

N.Y.—Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 97 N.Y.S.2d 279, 197 Misc. 192, modified on other grounds 32 N.Y.S.2d 620, 263 App.Div. 930, affirmed 49 N.E.2d 131, 290 N.Y. 632.

Evidence held sufficient to show no abandonment

U.S.—In re Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 127 F.2d 1001, certiorari denied Thomson v. Hicks, 63 S.Ct. 59, 317 U.S. 659, 87 L.Ed. 530, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 155, 317 U.S. 708, 87 L.Ed. 564.

80. Mich.—Jones v. Van Bochove, 61 N.W. 342, 103 Mich. 98.

51 C.J. p. 615 note 62.

81. Iowa.—McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 N.W. 594, 90 Iowa 646

82. Ky.—Young v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 163 S.W.2d 451, 291 Ky. 262

Particular acts held not to show abandonment

(1) In general.—Maier v. Dalles & Southern R. Co., 90 P.2d 782, 161 Or. 567—51 C.J. p. 615 note 61 [c].

(2) Failure to use small part of boundary on which depot was located.—Young v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 163 S.W.2d 451, 291 Ky. 262

83. Minn.—Gurney v. Minneapolis Union Ry. Co., 65 N.W. 336, 63 Minn. 70, 30 L.R.A. 534.

N.Y.—Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 36 N.E. 1053, 142 N.Y. 176.

right of way,[84] but various other acts on the part of a railroad company have been held to constitute an abandonment by it of a right of way.[85] Although the fact that an entire right of way is not used may not, of itself, establish an abandonment,[86] in a proper case, the acts of a railroad company may be sufficient to constitute a partial abandonment.[87]

Ordinarily, an abandonment of an easement may be found by nonuser accompanied by adverse occupation under claim of title, as by the owner of the fee or those claiming under him, with recognition on the part of the railroad company that such claim of title is well founded,[88] but the fact that land is used by the owner of the fee for purposes not inconsistent with the use thereof for railroad purposes does not show an abandonment.[89] While a transfer or conveyance of its easement of a right of way by a railroad company for railroad purposes may not constitute an abandonment,[90] an attempted conveyance of a fee for other than railroad purposes, where the company has only an easement for a right of way, has been held to be an abandonment.[91]

Statutory nonuser or abandonment. By virtue of statute, nonuser on the part of a railroad company for a specified period may amount to, or show, an abandonment and result in an extinguishment or forfeiture of the right of the railroad company without regard to the intention of the company.[92] Such a statute should be construed and applied according to its terms,[93] and the word "revert" as used in such a statute has been held to be a technical word which should be accorded a meaning as such.[94] In order to operate as an abandonment under such a statute, the nonuser must have continued for the period fixed by the statute,[95] since nothing less than a nonuser for the statutory period will authorize the owner of the land, from whom the right of way was taken, to take possession,[96] so that where there has been a nonuser for less than the time fixed by statute, the railroad company has a right to take up again the use for which the right of way was granted, at any time within the statutory period.[97]

The extent of the user necessary to prevent an abandonment under such statutes depends on the terms thereof,[98] and such statutes have been held not to require that the full width of the right of way be covered with tracks.[99] It has been questioned whether such a statute applies to a grant of use of a public highway.[1] Under such a statute, the

84. N.Y.—Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., supra.

85. Okl.—Santa Fe, etc., R. Co v. Wichita Falls, etc., R. Co., 166 P. 168, 64 Okl. 88.

Particular acts held to evidence abandonment

(1) In general.—Norton v. Duluth Transf. R. Co., 151 N.W. 907, 129 Minn. 126, Ann.Cas.1916E 760—51 C. J. p 615 note 61 [b].

(2) Abandonment of use of railroad, tearing up and removal of its tracks, and attempt to convey land to others to be dedicated to other purpose.—Mammoth Cave Nat. Park Ass'n v. State Highway Commission, 88 S.W.2d 931, 261 Ky. 769.

86. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Freeport, 20 A. 940, 138 Pa. 91.
51 C.J. p 615 note 68.

87. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 167 P.2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917.

Positive nonuser of segment of land conveyed for railroad right of way, and formerly used, where conveyance provided for reversion on abandonment, precluded railroad from asserting that contract was indivisible, and that railroad's claim to any part of right of way would not be lost as long as railroad used substantially all of it.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, 171 S.E. 123, 177 Ga. 698.

88. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Cella, 85 A. 521, 86 Conn. 275.
Mass.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Benedict, 47 N.E. 1027, 169 Mass. 262.
51 C.J. p 615 note 63.

Reason for rule

Statutes providing that title by adverse possession may not be acquired as against a railroad company are held to have no application in case of abandonment of an easement for a right of way.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Cella, 85 A. 521, 86 Conn. 275.

89. Tenn.—Southern R. Co. v. Vann, 216 S.W. 727, 142 Tenn. 76.
51 C.J. p 615 note 67.

90. N.Y.—Atlantic Mills v. New York Cent. R. Co., 214 N.Y.S. 123, 126 Misc. 349.
51 C.J. p 616 note 77.

91. Ky.—Barton v. Jarvis, 291 S.W. 38, 218 Ky. 239.

92. Iowa.—Fernow v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 N.W. 869, 75 Iowa 526.
51 C.J. p 616 note 72.

Right to servitude

Under some statutory provisions, where a railroad company acquires a right to a servitude on land such right is extinguished by nonusage of the right for a stated period.

U.S.—Polk v. Ball, C.C.A.La., 149 F. 2d 263.
La.—Knox v. Louisiana R. & Nav. Co., 102 So. 685, 157 La. 602—Persigo v. Johnson & Co., App., 18 So. 2d 186.

93. Iowa.—Montgomery County v. Case, 232 N.W. 150, 212 Iowa 73.
Tex.—Stevenson v. Humble Oil & Refining Co., Civ.App., 186 S.W. 2d 115, error refused.

94. Iowa.—Reichard v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co., 1 N.W.2d 721, 231 Iowa 563—Remey v. Iowa Cent. Ry. Co., 89 N.W. 218, 116 Iowa 133.

95. Iowa.—Monarch Coal Co. v. Phillips Coal Co., 156 N.W. 297, 178 Iowa 660.

96. Iowa.—Fernow v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 N.W. 869, 75 Iowa 526.

97. Iowa.—Fernow v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

98. Tex.—Stevenson v. Humble Oil & Refining Co., Civ.App., 186 S.W. 2d 115, error refused.

99. Iowa.—Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 85 N.W. 902, 113 Iowa 561.
Tex.—Stevenson v. Humble Oil & Refining Co., Civ.App., 186 S.W.2d 115, error refused.

1. Iowa.—Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 85 N.W. 902, 113 Iowa 561.

fact that a part of a spur track may have been used and operated as roads usually are is not conclusive that the track was not abandoned as to another part.[2]

Question of law or fact. Generally, it is a question of fact whether there has been an abandonment,[3] and it is not a question of law,[4] but, in a proper case, the question may be decided as one of law,[5] as where the uncontradicted evidence shows that the company is in possession of its right of way and has not discontinued operation,[6] or that a substantial part of the land has been continuously used for strictly railroad purposes, and that there is no intent permanently to abandon any part of it.[7]

c. Rights of Parties or Privies on Abandonment Generally

Where a right of way or an easement has been lost by abandonment by a railroad company, neither the company nor its successor has any title which it may convey.

Where a right of way or an easement has been lost by abandonment by a railroad company, neither the company nor its successor has any title or interest in the land which it may convey.[8] Moreover, once a railroad company has abandoned a right of way, such right of way may not be revived by the company by use;[9] nor may a recognition by the grantor of any right of the company thereto stay the abandonment by the company[10] or revest in it the easement after it has been abandoned[11]

d. Right to Remove Tracks or Other Equipment

Ordinarily, tracks, railroad structures, and other railroad equipment do not become part of the realty and such items belong to, and may be removed by, the railroad company, or its assignee, on abandonment of the right of way or within a reasonable time thereafter.

Ordinarily, tracks, railroad structures, and other railroad equipment do not become part of the realty and such items belong to, and may be removed by, the railroad company, or its assignee, on abandonment of the right of way[12] or within a reasonable time thereafter,[13] in the absence of evidence sufficient to establish an abandonment on the part of the company of such equipment.[14] Moreover, a railroad company may have the right to remove such equipment from a right of way where such removal is prior to a complete abandonment of the land for railway purposes by it,[15] and at any time before abandonment a railroad company is entitled to remove such equipment from the land.[16] The fact that the landowner has been allowed to take possession of the land embraced in the right of way and hold it for a term of years less than is required to extinguish the company's easement does not imply relinquishment by the company of its right to enter and remove its rails

2. Iowa.—Gill v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, 90 N.W. 606, 117 Iowa 278.

3. Cal.—People v Ocean Shore R R. Co, 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal 2d 406.
Pa.—Corpus Juris cited in Lacy v. East Broad Top Railroad & Coal Co, 77 A.2d 706, 707, 168 Pa.Super 351.
Tex.—Karchmer v. Texas Co, Civ. App., 28 S.W 2d 286, error dismissed.
51 C J p 616 note 79.

Partial abandonment
Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co v Northwestern Pac R Co, 167 P 2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917.

4. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co, supra.
Vt.—Stevens v. MacRae, 122 A. 892, 97 Vt. 76

5. Ala.—Birmingham Sawmill Co v. Southern R. Co., 97 So 78, 210 Ala. 126.
Ga.—Lawson v. Georgia Southern, etc, R. Co., 82 S E 233, 142 Ga. 14

6. Ala.—Birmingham Sawmill Co v. Southern R. Co., 97 So 78, 210 Ala. 126.

7. Ga.—Lawson v. Georgia Southern, etc, R. Co., 82 S.E. 233, 142 Ga. 14.

8. Ga.—Byrd v. Goodman, 25 S.E. 2d 34, 195 Ga. 621
Iowa.—Keokuk County v. Reinier, 288 N W. 676, 227 Iowa 499.

9. N.Y.—Atlantic Mills v. New York Cent. R. Co., 223 N Y.S 206, 221 App Div 386, affirmed 162 N.E. 514, 248 N.Y. 535.

10. Ark.—Gurdon, etc, R. Co. v. Vaught, 133 S W. 1019, 97 Ark. 234.

11. Ark.—Gurdon, etc., R. Co. v. Vaught, supra.

12. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co. v White, 132 S W.2d 807, 199 Ark. 56.
Pa.—Baltimore & O R. Co. v. Bond, 29 A.2d 60, 345 Pa. 360.
Va.—Talley v Drumheller, 130 S E. 385, 143 Va. 439.
51 C J. p 616 note 90.

Reservation of right to remove rails and ties
Railroad's attempted quitclaim of right of way, if constituting technical abandonment, nevertheless did not justify forfeiture of right to rails, especially where deed expressly reserved right to remove rails and ties.—Farrar v. Nashville, C & St. L. Ry., 36 S.W.2d 95, 162 Tenn. 313.

The remedy of assignee of railroad against landowners adjoining right of way who claimed that rails, etc, belonged to them was in replevin or trover, if such remedy was as practical and efficient to the ends of justice as the remedy in equity, since rails, etc, were chattels.—American Steel & Iron Co v. Taft, 199 A. 261, 109 Vt. 469

13. Va.—Talley v. Drumheller, 130 S E 385, 143 Va. 439.
51 C.J. p 617 note 91.

14. Va.—Talley v. Drumheller, supra

15. Tenn.—Farrar v. Nashville, C & St. L Ry., 36 S.W 2d 95, 162 Tenn. 313

Attempted quitclaim by railroad company
Inasmuch as there is a presumption that rails placed on right of way are not fixtures, attempt by railroad to quitclaim to county land used for right of way, where county rejected quitclaim, was not such abandonment as precluded subsequent removal by railroad of ties and rails.—Farrar v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry., supra.

16. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Parke, 42 Pa. 31.

and other property which had composed its track[17] or structures built as part of its railroad[18]

e. Right to Reversion; Enforcement of Right

On abandonment by a railroad of a right of way or easement or of an interest in land, the title or right thereto may revert to the grantor or his heirs, or to his successors in title, or to the then owner of the servient estate.

On abandonment by a railroad company of a right of way or easement or of an interest in land, the title or right thereto may revert to the grantor or his heirs,[19] or to his successors in title,[20] or to the then owner of the servient estate.[21] Notwithstanding a subsequent conveyance by the original grantor, the right of way may revert to him if excepted or reserved therefrom;[22] otherwise the abandonment may inure to the benefit of the grantee or those holding under him at the time of the abandonment.[23] On the other hand, the grantee of a deed to land not intended to include any right of reversion in a railroad right of way may not claim that such a right of way reverted to him.[24] Moreover, one whose land is separated from an abandoned right of way by a strip of land acquired by the railroad company in fee and later conveyed by it has been held to have no right as abutting owner in and to the right of way as well as to the intervening strip.[25]

Enforcement of right. Under a statute providing for a reversion of a railroad right of way because of nonuser, a reëntry on the part of the grantor has been held not required.[26] On the other hand, under some statutory provisions, in order that a private person may maintain an action to establish a forfeiture on the part of a railroad and establish a right to a reversion, it has been held that there must first be an adjudication of forfeiture of the right of the railroad to operate in a proceeding in which the state is a party,[27] and that, even if such statute affords a grantor a remedy for the recovery of the land abandoned for railroad purposes without such a determination, the repeal of the statute, without a saving clause, extinguishes such remedy,[28] since such a statute is penal and not remedial.[29]

In a proper case, an action to quiet title may be maintained by the owner of the land where a railroad has abandoned a right of way.[30] It has

17. Ind.—Cranor v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 149 N.E. 97, 83 Ind.App. 449.

18. Ohio—Wagner v. Cleveland, etc, R. Co., 22 Ohio St. 563, 10 Am. R. 770.

19. Ky.—Kentucky Joint Stock Land Bank of Lexington v. Newman, 98 S.W.2d 33, 266 Ky. 13—Mammoth Cave Nat. Park Ass'n v. State Highway Commission, 88 S.W.2d 931, 261 Ky. 769.
Md.—Hodges v. Owings, 13 A.2d 333, 178 Md. 300.
Mo.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R. 286—State ex rel. State Highway Commission v. Griffith, 114 S.W.2d 976, 342 Mo. 229.
Okl.—Corbyn v. Oklahoma City, 172 P.2d 384, 197 Okl. 483.
51 C.J. p. 617 note 96.

Voluntary grant or donation

Under statute, on abandonment of railroad, title to property taken through voluntary grant and donation is restored to donor or his representatives or assigns.—Quinn v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 239 N.W. 376, 256 Mich. 143.

20. Ky.—Mammoth Cave Nat. Park Ass'n v. State Highway Commission, 88 S.W.2d 931, 261 Ky. 769.
Mo.—Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R. 286.
Okl.—Crowl v. Tidnam, 181 P.2d 549, 198 Okl. 650.
Wash.—Swan v. O'Leary, 225 P.2d 199.
51 C.J. p. 617 note 97.

21. U.S.—U. S. v. Drumb, C.C.A. Okl., 152 F.2d 321.
Iowa.—Brugman v. Bloomer, 13 N.W.2d 313, 234 Iowa 813.
Ky.—Corpus Juris cited in Lee County v. Hieronymus, 42 S.W.2d 730, 732, 240 Ky. 490—Henry v. Board of Trustees of Diocese of Kentucky, 270 S.W. 476, 207 Ky. 846.
Mo.—Kelley v. Waymeyer, 204 S.W.2d 744, 356 Mo. 1043—Brown v. Weare, 152 S.W.2d 649, 348 Mo. 135, 136 A.L.R. 286—University City v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 149 S.W.2d 321, 347 Mo. 814.
51 C.J. p. 617 note 98.

22. Iowa.—Spencer v. Wabash R. Co., 109 N.W. 453, 132 Iowa 129.
Kan.—Collins v. Baird, 263 P. 1048, 125 Kan. 303.

23. Tenn.—McLemore v. Charleston, etc, R. Co., 69 S.W. 338, 111 Tenn. 639.

24. Ky.—Davis v. Rose, 129 S.W.2d 530, 278 Ky. 752.

25. Kan.—Danielson v. Woestemeyer, 293 P. 597, 131 Kan. 796.

26. Iowa.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 1 N.W.2d 721, 231 Iowa 563.

Reason for rule

Under statute providing for the reversion of a railroad right of way because of nonuser, word "revert" means the return to owner of fee of easement formerly appropriated or removal of burden cast on fee, and the instant right of way reverts to owner, the easement, with all its incidents, is extinguished.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., supra.

27. Cal.—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., 102 P.2d 387, 38 Cal.App.2d 659.

Reason for rule

Where deed to railroad was in form sufficient to convey title in fee simple absolute, forfeiture of right to operate and reverter of land to grantor for failure of railroad to operate for stated time under statute enacted for a public purpose to compel railroad corporations to operate their roads was not self-executing and would not take place until there was a judicial determination of the forfeiture, since all intendments were against interpretation of statute as providing for a self-executing forfeiture, inasmuch as forfeitures must be strictly interpreted, and only clear compelling language would permit such an interpretation.—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., supra.

28. Cal.—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., supra.

29. Cal.—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., supra.

30. Iowa.—Duggleby v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 243 N.W. 372, 214 Iowa 776.

Joinder of parties

Owners of individual tracts comprising right of way of abandoned branch line of railroad were properly joined as plaintiffs in action against railroad to quiet title.—Dug-also been held that the owner of the land may maintain ejectment on abandonment of an easement by a railroad company.[31] Where a railroad company is in possession, not under a grant of an easement or right of way, but under a release of damages for the occupancy, the owner or his grantee may, on abandonment of the use by the railroad, recover possession in ejectment.[32]

§ 118. —— Failure to Complete or Construct Road

Under some statutory provisions, the right of way of a railroad company does not revert to the original owner on forfeiture of the corporate charter because of the failure to construct the road within the time required by law; nor does it vest in the state, but it constitutes an asset of the company to be administered for the benefit of its creditors and stockholders on dissolution.

Under a statute providing that on forfeiture of the charter of a railroad company its right of way shall remain subject to an extension of the charter or to the grant of a new charter over the same way without a new consideration, the right of way of a railroad company does not revert to the original owner on forfeiture of the charter because of a failure to construct the road within the time required by law;[33] nor does it vest in the state,[34] but it constitutes an asset of the company to be administered for the benefit of its creditors and stockholders on dissolution;[35] and another railroad company not connected with the old one has no right to take possession of the unfinished road and hold it as its own property.[36] However, under a statute which provides that, if the road shall not be finished and put in operation within a specified time, the corporate existence and powers of the railroad shall cease, if at the end of such time the railroad has not been completed, the protection afforded by statute to a regularly located right of way is withdrawn and the land comprising the right of way assumes its former status as private property,[37] except where the property has been conveyed to the railroad corporation in fee.[38] Further, the effect of such a statute may not be evaded by a transfer by the original road of its property to a successor.[39] The fact that a railroad company has not completed its road within the time limited by its charter does not, as to third persons, affect its title to land acquired for a right of way, since only the state may take advantage of the default.[40]

§ 119. —— Revocation, or Forfeiture, or Loss by Estoppel, of Franchise to Use Streets or Public Place

A failure to comply with the conditions of the grant may operate as a forfeiture of a franchise or a privilege given to a railroad company to use streets for railroad purposes.

A failure to comply with the conditions of the grant may operate as a forfeiture of a franchise or privilege given to a railroad company to use streets for railroad purposes,[41] as where the estate granted is limited to exist as long only as such property shall be used for railroad purposes and the property is not appropriated to such purposes within a reasonable time.[42] Moreover, a municipality may revoke its consent to the use of its streets for gleby v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry Co., supra.

31. Cal.—Home Real Est. Co. v. Los Angeles Pac. Co., 126 P. 972, 163 Cal. 710.

Pleading

(1) Plaintiff's pleadings must sufficiently describe premises sought to be recovered so as to enable sheriff to know what land should be placed in plaintiff's possession in event of his recovery.—Broderick v. Tyer, 187 S.W.2d 476, 239 Mo.App. 118.

(2) Where plaintiff alleged that railroad abandoned premises and that title thereto reverted to her and in original complaint and in both of railroad's preliminary objections there were references to proceedings before interstate commerce commission for a certificate of abandonment, if reliance was placed on that certificate, it should have been pleaded in amended complaint.—Lacy v. East Broad Top R. & Coal Co., 77 A.2d 706, 168 Pa.Super. 351.

Necessary parties

Mere fact that persons may derive benefit from existence of railroad is not sufficient to require them to be joined as parties in ejectment by owner of land on abandonment of easement, where they assert no interest in land or right to its possession.—Home Real Est. Co. v. Los Angeles Pac. Co., 126 P. 972, 163 Cal. 710.

32. Pa.—Guss v. Westchester R. Co., 1 Chest. Co. 363.

33. Tex.—Scott v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 151 S.W. 578—Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 22 S.W. 107, 23 S.W. 1012, 2 Tex.Civ.App. 650.

34. Tex.—Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

35. Tex.—Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra. 51 C.J. p. 617 note 7.

36. Tex.—Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

37. Ill.—People v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 117 N.E. 701, 280 Ill. 495, Ann. Cas. 1918D 224.

38. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Motil, 71 A. 563, 81 Conn. 466. 51 C.J. p. 617 note 11.

39. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Motil, supra.

Ill.—People v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 117 N.E. 701, 280 Ill. 495, Ann. Cas. 1918D 224.

40. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 38 N.E. 1062, 153 Ill. 307.

41. Ill.—People v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 117 N.E. 701, 280 Ill. 495, Ann. Cas. 1918D 224. 51 C.J. p. 618 note 32.

Implied condition

A condition which the municipality had no authority to impose will not be implied.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, Tex.Civ.App., 155 S.W. 273.

42. Ga.—Macon v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 9 S.E. 1127, 82 Ga. 501. 51 C.J. p. 619 note 33.

railroad purposes where, after obtaining such consent, a railroad company uses the streets for such purposes, but subsequently abandons the operation of a railroad on such streets.[43] Also, under a statute constituting a mere offer of a franchise for the use of streets or highways for railroad purposes, a railroad company may lose its right to accept such offer by ceasing to be a public utility.[44] However, a railroad may not be estopped to assert a right under a prior legislative grant to enter on and build its tracks on a city street where it had built tracks on the street under an invalid license from the city and subsequently took them up and surrendered possession of the street.[45]

On the failure of a railroad company to comply with the conditions of the grant, the municipality may be entitled to declare a forfeiture of the franchise by a resolution to that effect and by giving notice thereof,[46] although, in the case of an implied condition, where there is no provision for forfeiture in the grant itself, it has been held necessary for the municipality to bring a judicial proceeding in order to forfeit the rights of the railroad company.[47] The municipal corporation may, in a proper case, be entitled to reënter for condition broken unless there is a waiver or estoppel,[48] and it may be entitled to maintain ejectment,[49] or it may be entitled to take possession of the street involved and remove the railroad tracks.[50]

A breach of condition, on the other hand, may not ipso facto terminate the right of way of a railroad company so as to entitle an abutting owner to maintain an action for damages, as for an unlawful occupation of the street,[51] or so as to enjoin the company from entering on and using such street after the time limited for completion of the road.[52] Where an abutting owner consents to the use of a street adjoining his property, in consideration of the location of a line of railroad, and agrees to execute a release by an instrument which is construed to be a license which creates no title in the railroad and is, by law, revocable by the licensor, the fact of performance by the licensee and the expenditure of large sums of money in constructing the road may move a court of equity to protect the licensee's rights against revocation.[53]

Right to sue or enforce forfeiture. The state or municipality only is entitled to enforce a forfeiture because of a breach of a condition in a grant of the right to use a street or public highway for railroad purposes.[54] Where a legislative grant to use city streets becomes subject to be terminated for breach of condition, the city is a proper party to bring suit.[55]

Franchise as subject to police power of municipality While a franchise to use the streets is acquired by a railroad company subject to the power of the municipality to establish reasonable regulations necessary to secure the public safety,[56] mere incidental inconveniences consequent on the occupation and use of the streets under the franchise will not authorize the city, under the guise of exercising its police power, to revoke or annul it.[57]

Permit to use canal land. Where the right of a railroad company to use property owned by the state adjoining a canal is granted under a revocable permit, it has been held that such permit may be revoked without giving notice to the licensee,[58] as where the state abandons the canal and sells the land to another,[59] even though the state conveys

43 N.Y.—Village of Skaneateles v. Barber, 78 N.Y.S.2d 79.

44. Cal.—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406.

45. Mo.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228.

46. Wash.—State v. Benton County Super. Ct., 111 P. 19, 60 Wash. 279
51 C.J. p. 622 note 79 [b].

47. Cal.—Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 28 P. 676, 92 Cal. 639.
51 C.J. p. 622 note 80.

48. Pa.—Erie v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 92 A. 192, 246 Pa. 238.

49. Pa.—Erie v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 619 note 35

50. U.S.—Pacific R. Co. v. Leavenworth, C.C.Kan., 18 F.Cas.No.10,649, 1 Dill. 393.

51. Mo.—Knight v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 70 Mo. 231.
51 C.J. p. 619 note 37.

52. Tex.—McCammon, etc., Lumber Co. v. Trinity, etc., R. Co., Civ. App., 131 S.W. 85, reversed on other grounds 133 S.W. 247, 104 Tex. 8, 36 L.R.A.,N.S., 662, Ann. Cas.1913E 870.

53. N.Y.—Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 67 N.E. 119, 175 N.Y. 72.

54. Tex.—Denison, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 72 S.W. 161, 96 Tex. 233.

55. Ga.—Macon v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 9 S.E. 1127, 82 Ga. 501.
51 C.J. p. 619 note 43.

56. U.S.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. South Bend, Ind., 33 S.Ct. 303, 227 U.S. 544, 57 L.Ed. 633, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 405.
51 C.J. p. 618 note 29.

57. U.S.—Grand Trunk, etc., R. Co. v. South Bend, supra.
51 C.J. p. 618 note 31.

58. U.S.—Fletcher v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 79 F.2d 306.

59. U.S.—Fletcher v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

Grantee not estopped

Railroad's payment to state when superintendent of public works gave railroad revocable permit to build track on property owned by state adjoining canal and railroad's expenditures in laying tracks did not estop person acquiring title to lands to assert his legal rights thereto, where payment to state was merely to cover expenses that state was put to in making changes necessary for installation of track and railroad's expenditures were made with full knowledge that permit was rethe land by quitclaim deed containing a grant of its interest and not by warranty deed.[60]

§ 120. —— Breach of Condition in Private Grant

a. In general
b. Mode of enforcement
c. Waiver or estoppel
d. Effect of enforcement; relief against forfeiture

a. In General

The failure of a railroad company to comply with conditions subsequent in a private grant of a right of way or other interest in land to it may work a forfeiture of the interest granted to the company and cause such interest to revert to the grantor or his heirs.

The failure of a railroad company to comply with conditions subsequent in a private grant of a right of way or other interest in land to it may work a forfeiture of the interest granted to the company and cause such interest to revert to the grantor or his heirs,[61] as, for example, a failure on the part of a railroad company to comply with conditions as to the time within which the road must be constructed,[62] or as to the use to be made of the premises,[63] such as a noncompliance with a condition requiring the use of the property in question for a station[64] or other terminal purposes,[65] or as to the erection and maintenance of a depot[66] or of a section house.[67] Where the condition is that the land shall not cease to be used for railroad purposes, it may be regarded as broken by a failure to construct the road within a reasonable time.[68]

Whether a grant or conveyance to a railroad company is on condition subsequent, the breach of which will work a forfeiture of the interest conveyed to the railroad, may be determined on the principles applicable to conveyances generally.[69] Since a condition may not be raised by implication, as, for example, in the case of a mere declaration in a deed that the grant is made for a special and particular purpose, where such declaration is not coupled with words appropriate to make such a condition, suitable words of forfeiture or reversion are necessary to create a condition subsequent,[70] and the words relied on must be interpret-vocable.—Fletcher v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

60. U S.—Fletcher v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

61. Ark.—Missouri Pac R Co v. Williamson, 112 S.W 2d 957, 195 Ark. 487—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Curtis, 167 S.W. 489, 113 Ark. 92.
Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co v. Northwestern Pac. R Co, 167 P.2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917.
Mich.—Hawkins v Dillman, 256 N. W 492, 268 Mich 483.
51 C.J. p 619 note 44.

Statutory provision for forfeiture
Notwithstanding statute providing for forfeiture in case of nonuser, the parties to conveyance of land to railroad for right of way may agree on forfeiture of the easement on terms other than those provided in statute.—McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 57 N W. 594, 90 Iowa 646

Where separate parcels are conveyed, a breach of condition applicable to one only will not operate as a forfeiture as to the other.—Horner v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 38 Wis. 165—51 C.J. p 621 note 66.

62. U S.—Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc, R Co, Mo, 14 S.Ct. 647, 152 U S 444, 38 L Ed 507
51 C J p 619 note 45

63. Ark.—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Williamson, 112 S W 2d 957, 195 Ark 487
Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co v. Northwestern Pac R Co., 167 P 2d 825, 73 Cal App 2d 917.
51 C J. p 619 note 46.

Use of property for additional purpose may not work a forfeiture, unless expressly so provided in grant or conveyance, where premises are still occupied and used by railroad company for purpose granted.—O'Brien v. New York, etc, R Co, 179 N.Y S. 160, 189 App Div. 703—51 C J p 619 note 46 [a].

Acquisition of land by city
Where intervener's ancestor conveyed land to railroad on condition subsequent that land be used as railroad right of way and city acquired land for use as park by agreement in lieu of condemnation proceeding, city's acquisition of land did not defeat intervener's right to terminate estate when use of land as railroad ceased.—Oklahoma City v. Local Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n of Oklahoma City, 134 P 2d 565, 192 Okl. 188.

64. Ark.—Missouri Pac R Co. v Williamson, 112 S.W.2d 957, 195 Ark. 487.
51 C J p 620 note 47.

Permission to discontinue station
The granting of permission by transit commission to railroad to discontinue station was not the equivalent of actual discontinuance, and title to land did not revert under deed to predecessor in interest to railroad providing for reversion when property was abandoned for railroad purposes.—Carter v New York Cent. R. Co, 73 N.Y S 2d 610, affirmed 77 N.Y S.2d 265, 273 App. Div 884, affirmed 80 N E 2d 671, 298 N.Y. 540.

65. Minn.—Chute v. Washburn, 46 N W 555, 44 Minn 312

66. Ark.—Missouri Pac R Co. v Williamson, 112 S.W 2d 957, 195 Ark 487
51 C J. p 620 note 49.

67. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry Co v. Curtis, 167 S.W. 489, 113 Ark 92

68. Ky.—Pollock v. Maysville, etc, R Co, 44 S W. 359, 103 Ky. 84, 19 Ky L 1717.
51 C.J. p 620 note 50.

69. Mo.—Bagby v Missouri-Kansas-Texas R Co., 171 S W.2d 673, 351 Mo 79

Side agreement with original grantees
Where ultimate grantee of land for railroad right of way had no knowledge of any side agreement between grantor and original grantees with respect to the kind of service to be rendered, ultimate grantee's obligations must be measured by provisions of deed.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co v. Northwestern Pac R Co, 167 P 2d 825, 73 Cal App 2d 917.

70. Mo.—Krueger v St. Louis, etc., R Co, 84 S.W 898, 185 Mo. 227.
Okl.—Stinson v Oklahoma Ry. Co, 126 P 2d 260, 190 Okl 624.
Tenn.—Nashville, C. & S. L. Ry. v. Bell, 39 S W 2d 1026, 162 Tenn 661
51 C.J p 620 note 52—12 C.J. p 401 note 29 [a] (3).

ed in connection with the rest of the instrument of which they are a part.[71] So, the provisions of a statute enacted to compel railroad companies to operate their roads may not be read into a deed to a railroad company to create a statutory condition subsequent resulting in a reversion to the grantor on the failure of the railroad company to operate its road under conditions not permitted by the statute.[72]

Where a provision of a deed to a railroad company constitutes a covenant as distinguished from a condition, a breach thereof will not entitle the grantor to enter as for a forfeiture,[73] and the remedy is an action for damages for breach of covenant.[74] Moreover, a forfeiture may not be enforced where it would be inequitable to do so,[75] or where there has been substantial compliance with the condition.[76]

Determinable fees; conditional limitations. Where a private grant to a railroad company conveys a determinable fee to the company, although before breach there is in the grantor only a possibility of reversion, after breach there is a vested right in the grantor, and the possibility of reverter is transformed into a fee simple divested of all conditions,[77] and a transferee of the railroad company taking after breach, where the deed to the company is of record, takes nothing, since the company has nothing to convey,[78] and the determinable character of the fee follows any transfer by the railroad company.[79] On the expiration of a conditional limitation in a private grant of land for a railroad right of way, the estate granted to the company terminates ipso facto,[80] and a new occupancy by the company or its successors will not reinvest the occupant with title.[81]

Conveyance in consideration of free transportation or services. Notwithstanding the provisions of the Hepburn Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1 (7), and state statutes prohibiting the giving of free transportation by a railroad company, the violation of an agreement by a railroad company to furnish free services or transportation in consideration of a conveyance made to it may work a forfeiture of the grant where the conveyance contains a provision for reversion on its breach,[82] but no forfeiture may result in the case of an agreement not constituting a condition subsequent.[83]

Partial reversion or extinguishment. Where a deed conveying land to a railroad company conveys a fee subject to a condition subsequent, there may be a partial violation of the condition and a partial reversion,[84] and, where a deed conveys to a railroad company a mere easement, there may be a

Express terms or clear implication necessary

When relied on to work a forfeiture, conditions subsequent must be created in express terms or by clear implication and are to be construed strictly.—Bagby v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co., 171 S.W.2d 673, 351 Mo. 79—51 C.J. p. 620 note 52 [a].

Conveyance merely defining use

No forfeiture will result where the terms of the conveyance merely define the use and no condition subsequent is created—Oldham v. Southern R. Co., 2 Tenn.C.C.A. 644—51 C.J. p. 620 note 54.

71. Mass.—Merrimack River Proprietors of Locks, etc. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 139 N.E. 839, 245 Mass. 52.
51 C.J. p. 620 note 53.

72. Cal.—Wingard v. Los Angeles & S. L. R. Co., 102 P.2d 394, 38 Cal.App.2d 757—Lemon v. Los Angeles Terminal Ry. Co., 102 P.2d 387, 38 Cal.App.2d 659.

73. Ill.—Springfield, etc., Tract. Co. v. Warrick, 94 N.E. 933, 249 Ill. 470, Ann.Cas.1912A. 187.
51 C.J. p. 620 note 56.

74. Ill.—Springfield, etc., Tract. Co. v. Warrick, supra.
51 C.J. p. 621 note 57.

75. Mo.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 152 S.W. 118, 167 Mo.App. 524.
51 C.J. p. 621 note 60.

76. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 167 P.2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917.
Ky.—Young v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 163 S.W.2d 451, 291 Ky. 262.
Or.—Algoma Lumber Co. v. Herlihy, 288 P. 202, 132 Or. 667.
51 C.J. p. 621 note 61.

Discontinuance of service

Where agreement by grantors to convey right of way for railroad provided that, if railroad ceased to use land for railroad purposes for stated time, it should revert to grantors, and that railroad should run passenger trains on certain schedules between certain hours each day, discontinuance by railroad of passenger service after many years did not entitle grantors to reconveyance, since railroad was obligated only to devote property to railroad uses, including inauguration in good faith of passenger service with intention of maintaining passenger service permanently—O. T. Johnson Corp. v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 65 P.2d 868, 19 Cal.App.2d 306.

Change in name or merger

Where land was deeded to railroad on condition that, if railroad did not construct road through land or after construction permanently abandoned the route through the land, it should revert to and become property of grantors, their heirs or assigns, the condition was not breached by a mere change in the name of the operating railroad company or in any merger or consolidation of the grantee with another company—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 1 N.W.2d 721, 231 Iowa 563.

77. Iowa.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., supra.

78. Iowa.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. Q. R. Co., supra.

79. Iowa.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., supra.

80. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, 171 S.E. 123, 177 Ga. 698—Lawson v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 82 S.E. 233, 142 Ga. 14.

81. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, 171 S.E. 123, 177 Ga. 698.

82. Ohio.—Short v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 18 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 537.

83. Ala.—Birmingham Packing Co. v. Birmingham Belt R. Co., 77 So. 706, 201 Ala. 180
51 C.J. p. 621 note 65.

84. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water partial extinguishment of the easement.[85]

b. Mode of Enforcement

(1) In general
(2) Reëntry or claim
(3) Pleadings and evidence

(1) In General

The general rules applicable to proceedings to enforce a forfeiture by reason of a breach of a condition subsequent in conveyances ordinarily apply to the procedure to enforce a forfeiture by reason of a breach of a condition subsequent in a private grant to a railroad company of a right of way or other interest in land.

The general rules applicable to proceedings to enforce a forfeiture by reason of a breach of a condition subsequent in conveyances ordinarily apply to the procedure to enforce a forfeiture by reason of a breach of a condition subsequent in a private grant to a railroad company of a right of way or other interest in land,[86] as with respect to questions of law and fact,[87] defenses,[88] and instructions[89]

As a general rule, the remedy of the grantor is by an action at law to recover possession,[90] and a court of equity usually will refuse to entertain a bill to declare a forfeiture of the estate for condition broken.[91] However, where the complaining party has an unquestioned right to the property and has for any cause no remedy at law, equity may take jurisdiction.[92] So, where the grantor has been in continuous possession and the railroad has abandoned whatever claim or right it may have had, an action to cancel the conveyance may be maintained.[93] Also, where, after a failure by the railroad company to perform conditions in the grant, there has been an abandonment and a reentry by the grantor followed by quiet and undisturbed possession, equity may entertain a bill to declare the right of way a cloud on the grantor's title[94]

Persons entitled to enforce. A forfeiture for a breach of condition subsequent may ordinarily be enforced only by the grantor, his heirs, or devisees,[95] but, where an easement only is granted, the grantee of the fee,[96] or the assignee of the grantor,[97] may bring an action to take advantage of a breach of condition or to enforce its performance.

Notice and demand. Where the contract is silent as to the time within which conditions are to be performed, the grantor has been held bound to give notice of his intention to claim a forfeiture,[98] together with a notice of the particular default relied on,[99] and the railroad should, after such notice, have a reasonable time within which to comply and to avoid forfeiture.[1] However, a demand that the railroad comply with the conditions may not be necessary before the grantor may sue in equity to enforce a forfeiture.[2]

(2) Reëntry or Claim

In accordance with general rules, an entry by the grantor, or some act equivalent thereto, showing a purpose to take advantage of the breach of the condition subsequent and to reclaim the estate forfeited by such breach, ordinarily is all that is required in order to enforce a forfeiture, but some act of this kind usually is essential where the grantor is not in possession.

Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 167 P.2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917.

85. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., supra.

86. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., 106 N.E. 818, 265 Ill. 194, Ann.Cas. 1916A 833.

Return of consideration

The grantor ordinarily is not required to tender back the consideration which he has received before he may maintain an action to recover possession for breach of condition.—Sullivan-Sanford Lumber Co. v. Reeves, 125 S.W. 96, 58 Tex.Civ. App. 488.—51 C.J. p. 622 note 91.

87. Ark.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Birnie, 26 S.W. 528, 59 Ark. 66.

Existence of breach

It is a question of fact whether there has been a breach of condition subsequent.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Birnie, supra.

88. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 167 P.2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917.

89. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, 171 S.E. 123, 177 Ga. 698.

Instructions held not insufficient or confusing

Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, supra.

90. N.D.—Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 97 N.W. 538, 12 N.D. 435, 102 Am.S.R. 572.
51 C.J. p. 621 note 73.

91. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Lines Connecting R. Co., 106 N.E. 818, 265 Ill. 194, Ann.Cas. 1916A 833.
51 C.J. p. 621 note 74.

92. Ill.—Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 60 N.E. 515, 190 Ill. 320, 52 L.R.A. 645.

Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200

93. Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, supra.

94. Mich.—Dunham v. Toledo-Detroit R. Co., 214 N.W. 156, 238 Mich. 596.
51 C.J. p. 622 note 77.

95. Ill.—Golconda Northern R. Co. v. Gulf Line Connecting R. Co., 106 N.E. 818, 265 Ill. 194, Ann.Cas. 1916A 833
51 C.J. p. 621 note 69

96. Mich.—Mahar v. Grand Rapids Terminal R. Co., 140 N.W. 535, 174 Mich. 138.

Wash.—Reichenbach v. Washington Short-Line R. Co., 38 P. 1126, 10 Wash. 357.

97. Tex.—Stevens v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 169 S.W. 644, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 212 S.W. 639.

Wash.—Reichenbach v. Washington Short-Line R. Co., 38 P. 1126, 10 Wash. 357.

98. Mich.—Treat v. Detroit United R. Co., 122 N.W. 93, 157 Mich. 320, 133 Am.S.R. 347.

99. Mich.—Treat v. Detroit United R. Co., supra.

1. Mich.—Treat v. Detroit United R. Co., supra.

2. Ill.—Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 60 N.E. 515, 190 Ill. 320, 52 L.R.A. 645.

In accordance with general rules, an entry by the grantor, or some act equivalent thereto, showing a purpose to take advantage of the breach of the condition subsequent and to reclaim the estate forfeited by such breach, ordinarily is all that is required in order to enforce a forfeiture,[3] but some act of this kind usually is essential where the grantor is not in possession,[4] since, until entry or its equivalent, by the grantor or his heirs, the estate vested in the grantee may not cease in it or revest in the grantor,[5] and a breach of a condition subsequent ordinarily does not revest title by mere operation of law.[6]

On the other hand, a reëntry on the breach of condition may be unnecessary where the grantor is in possession and the estate granted is less than a freehold,[7] inasmuch as the estate revests in him at once and his possession may be presumed to be for the purpose of holding under the forfeiture,[8] although in some cases it has been held that he must manifest an intention of holding by reason of the breach.[9] So, a reëntry as for breach of condition may not be necessary to divest the railroad company of its title where the estate created in the railroad in the deed to it is a determinable fee,[10] and reversion is not conditioned on any affirmative action by the grantor or those holding under him.[11]

(3) Pleadings and Evidence

In an action to enforce a forfeiture by reason of a breach of a condition subsequent in a private grant of an interest in land to a railroad company, the petition or complaint must be sufficient to warrant the relief prayed for; the general rules of evidence applicable in civil actions ordinarily apply to the evidence in such an action.

In an action to enforce a forfeiture by reason of a breach of a condition subsequent in a private grant of an interest in land to a railroad company, the petition or complaint must be sufficient to warrant the relief prayed for,[12] and the pleadings must be sufficient to show a breach of the condition relied on,[13] and a complainant, in an action to quiet title to land conveyed to a railroad company for railroad purposes for breach of condition, has been held not entitled to invoke a statute providing for a forfeiture where he has not referred thereto in his complaint or shown any facts under which he may avail himself of it.[14]

Evidence. The general rules of evidence applicable in civil actions ordinarily apply to the evidence in an action to enforce a forfeiture by reason of a breach of a condition subsequent in a private grant of an interest in land to a railroad company.[15] Thus the burden of proving a breach of the condition is on the one asserting such breach,[16] and the burden of proving an abandonment within the meaning of a limitation in a grant is on the one asserting such abandonment.[17]

3. U.S.—Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., Mo., 14 S.Ct. 647, 152 U.S. 444, 38 L.Ed. 507.
51 C.J. p. 622 note 86.

Acts constituting reentry

Even if deed to railroad company created fee on a condition subsequent, the recording of an affidavit by grantors' successor in interest setting forth matters of lineage and descent, describing land in controversy and asserting abandonment by grantee, the giving and recording of conveyances placing title in plaintiffs and their institution of equitable action to quiet title and for possession of property were acts sufficient to comply with any demands of law with respect to reëntry.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 1 N.W.2d 721, 231 Iowa 563.

4. N.Y.—Thypin v. Magner, 28 N.Y.S.2d 262.
Tenn.—East Tennessee & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Gouge, 203 S.W.2d 170, 30 Tenn.App. 40
51 C.J. p. 622 note 87.

5. Tenn.—East Tennessee & W. N. C. R. Co. v. Gouge, supra.

6. U.S.—Jones v. Southern R. Co., C.C.A.Ga., 285 F. 19.

7. Iowa.—Taylor v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 25 Iowa 371
51 C.J. p. 622 note 88.

8. Iowa.—Taylor v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., supra.

9. N.C.—Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 57 S.E. 523, 144 N.C. 729.
51 C.J. p. 622 note 90.

10. N.Y.—Thypin v. Magner, 28 N.Y.S.2d 262.

What constitutes determinable fee

(1) Where realty was conveyed to railroad for railroad purposes and for "so long as" railroad should use realty for its railroad, and deed provided that, when realty should cease to be permanently used for railroad, then realty should revert to grantor or his heirs or assigns, estate created was a "determinable fee" rather than a fee on "condition subsequent," and, in order to divest railroad of its title, reentry by grantor or his representative was not necessary when railroad ceased to use realty for railroad purposes.—Thypin v. Magner, supra.

(2) Under deed expressly providing that land was conveyed for depot grounds and for railroad route through it and that, on permanent abandonment of such use, land was to revert to grantors, their heirs or assigns, estate conveyed by deed was a determinable fee, reverting automatically and at once on happening of event stated in deed.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 1 N.W.2d 721, 231 Iowa 563.

11. Iowa.—Reichard v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., supra.

12. Wash.—Mouat v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 47 P. 233, 16 Wash. 84.

Petition held demurrable

Mo.—Bagby v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co., 171 S.W.2d 673, 351 Mo. 79.

13. Wash.—Mouat v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 47 P. 233, 16 Wash. 84.
51 C.J. p. 622 note 92.

14. Cal.—Behlow v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 62 P. 295, 130 Cal. 16.

15. Ark.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Birnie, 26 S.W. 528, 59 Ark. 66.
Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Sweat, 171 S.E. 123, 177 Ga. 698.

16. Cal.—Tamalpais Land & Water Co. v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 167 P.2d 825, 73 Cal.App.2d 917.
51 C.J. p. 622 note 95.

17. Ga.—Lawson v. Georgia Southern, etc., R. Co., 82 S.E. 233, 142 Ga. 14.

c. Waiver or Estoppel

One entitled to enforce a forfeiture because of a breach of condition in a private grant of an interest in land to a railroad company may be precluded from so doing by reason of waiver or estoppel.

One entitled to enforce a forfeiture because of a breach of condition in a private grant of an interest in land to a railroad company may be precluded from so doing by reason of waiver or estoppel.[18] So, one may, by his acts or conduct, waive[19] or estop himself to enforce[20] a forfeiture. However, in order that one may be precluded from enforcing a forfeiture by reason of waiver[21] or estoppel[22] his acts or conduct must be such as to be sufficient to constitute a waiver or estoppel. So, while there may be no estoppel where the owner has not misled the company in any respect, or caused it to alter its position by inducement, promise, or acquiescence,[23] and while it has been held that delay, acquiescence, and silence, no matter how long continued, do not create an estoppel,[24] it has also been held that one may be estopped to assert a forfeiture where he fails to reënter or assert some claim within a reasonable time after the breach of condition,[25] particularly where the railroad company is permitted to use and make valuable improvements on the land after the condition is broken,[26] or is suffered to make them without objection.[27]

d. Effect of Enforcement; Relief against Forfeiture

After the enforcement of a forfeiture against a railroad company for breach of condition subsequent in a private grant of an interest in land to the company, the company no longer has any interest in the property. Equity will not relieve against a proper forfeiture where there is no sufficient excuse for the breach or default.

After the enforcement of a forfeiture against a railroad company for breach of a condition subsequent in a private grant of an interest in land to the company, the company no longer has any interest in the property,[28] and the property is not subject to an attachment thereafter issued for its debts.[29]

Equity will not relieve against a proper forfeiture where there is no sufficient excuse for the breach or default,[30] and where there is nothing harsh or inequitable in its terms or enforcement,[31] although, where the execution of a judgment of ejectment will operate harshly and seriously affect public interests, the court may properly stay execution for a period of time sufficient to allow the railroad an opportunity to acquire title by condemnation.[32]

VII. CONSTRUCTION, MAINTENANCE, AND EQUIPMENT

A. AUTHORITY AND DUTY OF RAILROAD COMPANY

§ 121. Duty to Construct

a. In general
b. Switches, spurs, and sidings

a. In General

In the absence of an express provision of a statute or charter requiring the construction of a railroad, the company cannot be compelled to construct it.

A statute or charter which does not expressly require but merely authorizes the construction of a railroad does not impose any positive obligation on the company to construct it[33] or to complete the en-

18. Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200.
S.C.—Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 15 S.C. 10.

19. S.C.—Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 623 note 97.

20. Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200.
51 C.J. p. 623 note 98

21. Okl.—Oklahoma City v. Local Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n of Oklahoma City, 134 P.2d 565, 192 Okl. 188.

22. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Williamson, 112 S.W.2d 957, 195 Ark. 487.

Lease of part of realty

Fact that grantor leased part of realty which he had conveyed to railroad for "station and depot purposes" did not estop grantor or his heirs to recover land for failure of railroad to comply with conditions of the deed.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Williamson, supra

23. Or.—Oregon R., etc., Co. v. McDonald, 112 P. 413, 58 Or. 228, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 117, error dismissed 34 S.Ct. 772, 233 U.S. 665, 58 L.Ed. 1145.
51 C.J. p. 623 note 3

24. N.Y.—In re Opening and Extending of North Conduit Avenue, Borough of Queens, City of New York, 27 N.Y.S.2d 841, 262 App. Div. 70.

25. Ky.—Kenner v. American Contract Co., 9 Bush 202.

26. Ky.—Kenner v. American Contract Co., supra.
Mo.—Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265.

27. Ark.—Bain v. Parker, 90 S.W. 1000, 77 Ark. 168.

28. U.S.—Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., Mo., 14 S.Ct. 647, 152 U.S. 444, 38 L.Ed. 507.

29. U.S.—Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., supra.

30. N.C.—Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 57 S.E. 523, 144 N.C. 729.—McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 57 S.E. 520, 144 N.C. 721.

31. N.C.—McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., supra.
N.D.—Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 97 N.W. 538, 12 N.D. 435, 102 Am.S.R. 572.

32. N.D.—Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., supra.

33. Pa.—A. D. Graham & Co. v. Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, 33 A.2d 22, 347 Pa. 622.
51 C.J. p. 623 note 11.

tire line authorized after building a part of it,[34] and consequently the railroad company cannot be compelled to do so,[35] although, as considered supra § 18, its failure to do so subjects it to liability of forfeiture of the rights and franchises conferred. Also such duty is not imposed by a statute passed subsequently to the granting of the charter when the statute expressly provides that it shall not apply to previously organized corporations.[36]

If the railroad company receives a grant of land from the state in consideration of the construction of a particular line of road, its acceptance constitutes a contract on the part of the railroad company which the state is entitled to enforce;[37] but the rule is otherwise where the land was never received and the right to receive it has been forfeited by a failure to construct or complete the road within the time limited,[38] and, where the company was merely to receive land in installments of a certain amount after the completion of any section of the road of a certain length, the completion of a part of the road and the receipt of the land to which it was thereby entitled impose no obligation on the company to complete the road, but the failure to do so merely forfeits the right to any further benefits under the grant.[39]

An existing railroad cannot be compelled to extend its lines to serve territory not reached by its lines.[40]

b. Switches, Spurs, and Sidings

(1) In general
(2) Under constitutional provisions
(3) Under statutes
(4) Under contract

(1) In General

In the absence of a statutory or contractual duty, a railroad company is not required to construct switches or side or spur tracks away from its lines to accommodate private interests.

In the absence of a duty imposed by constitutional, statutory, or contract provisions, railroad companies are not obligated to construct switches or side or spur tracks away from their lines,[41] or over the railroad right of way,[42] to accommodate private interests.

(2) Under Constitutional Provisions

Constitutional provisions sometimes require a railroad to make switch connections with private sidings constructed by the owners of specified industries.

Under a constitutional provision requiring a railroad, where reasonably necessary and remunerative, to make switch connections with a private siding already constructed by an owner and operator of specified mines, mills, elevators, or other industries, the railroad is under a duty to make the connection on such terms as may be prescribed by the proper authorities,[43] such a provision being intended to provide special facilities for industrial plants and not for the benefit of the general public;[44] and private concerns desiring connections to accommodate their particular industries should proceed under these constitutional provisions and not under others relating to the establishment of public service facilities,[45] which latter will not be extended to include private switch connections, even though there may be an existing discrimination between individual shippers as to such switches.[46]

34. Ky.—Bentler v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 203 S.W. 199, 180 Ky. 497, L.R.A. 1918E 315
51 C.J. p. 623 note 12
Charter provision permissive
U.S.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. U.S., D.C.Or., 47 F.2d 250, affirmed Interstate Commerce Commission v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 53 S.Ct. 266, 288 U.S. 14, 77 L.Ed. 588.

35. Va.—Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 26 S.E. 943, 94 Va. 291
51 C.J. p. 623 note 13.

36. Ky.—Bentler v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 203 S.W. 199, 180 Ky. 497, L.R.A. 1918E 315

37. U.S.—Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Henning, C.C.Kan., 8 F. Cas. No. 4,666.

38. U.S.—Kansas v. Southern Kansas R. Co., C.C.Kan., 24 F. 179

39. U.S.—Kansas v. Southern Kansas R. Co., supra.

Minn.—State v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 40.

40. Cal.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 160 P. 828, 173 Cal. 577.

41. Tex.—Railroad Commission v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 80 S.W. 1141, 98 Tex. 67.
51 C.J. p. 1003 note 23
General duties as common carrier as to facilities for shipment of goods see Carriers §§ 41–43.
Right to connect private tracks or switches with railroad see supra § 56
To serve defense plant
In the absence of special contract, railroad was under no obligation to construct a side track on the opposite side of main line track from existing passing track for the benefit of a contractor engaged in work of constructing a defense plant for a governmental agency.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. R.F.C., D.C.Ky., 68 F.Supp. 78, affirmed, C.A., 177 F.2d 201.

42. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 64 Pa. Super. 586.
51 C.J. p. 1003 note 24

43. Okl.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 157 P. 1039, 53 Okl. 712, L.R.A. 1916F 1281.
51 C.J. p. 1004 note 27
Right of owners of private tracks or switches to connect with railroad see supra § 56.

44. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Zalondek, 115 P. 867, 28 Okl. 746.
Public use of side or spur tracks generally see infra § 413

45. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Haywood, 106 P. 862, 25 Okl. 417.
51 C.J. p. 1004 note 29.

46. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State, 104 P. 908, 24 Okl. 616.
51 C.J. p. 1004 note 30.

Phrase "other industries," as used in constitutional provisions imposing a duty to furnish a switch connection, has been held to include a cotton gin,[47] farm,[48] or oil mill.[49]

Duty will not arise except where there is an existing state of facts bringing the case within the provisions of the particular constitution invoked,[50] such as the shipper's previous construction of the private siding,[51] and an amount of traffic from the industry sufficient to justify the connection.[52]

(3) Under Statutes

(a) In general

(b) Switch connections

(c) Sidings and spurs

(a) In General

Statutes sometimes impose a duty on the railroad company to construct or provide switches, spurs, and sidings.

A duty to construct or provide switches, spurs, and sidings is sometimes imposed on a railroad by statute,[53] but the statutory conditions must prevail before such duty can arise.[54] When a shipper is entitled to a side-track connection under statute, his refusal to execute a contract respecting it does not deprive him of his statutory right.[55] A spur-track connection otherwise required cannot lawfully be refused by a road on the ground of resultant decrease in revenue,[56] but the railroad company is not under a duty to furnish a private spur, side track, or switch connection if such connection will seriously interfere with public requirements.[57]

(b) Switch Connections

Under some statutes a railroad company is under a duty to construct and maintain switch connections with private sidings constructed by shippers, if the statutory conditions prevail.

Under a statute providing that under specified conditions a railroad company may be compelled to furnish switch connections to a private shipper, such a company is under no duty to construct a private side track along its right of way.[58] Under statutes requiring a railroad company to construct and maintain a switch connection, when reasonably possible and remunerative, with private sidings constructed by the shipper, the railroad is under a duty to provide such facilities where the statutory conditions prevail,[59] but not otherwise.[60] The railroad need not construct service tracks beyond its own premises,[61] especially where to do so would necessitate exercise of the power of eminent domain through condemnation proceedings.[62]

Interstate Commerce Act. The provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act which, under specified conditions, require a carrier subject thereto to construct and maintain switch connections with private tracks has been held to impose no duty on a railroad company beyond its own right of way.[63] Under the act, an applicant for a switch connection is a "shipper" within the meaning of the section notwithstanding he may be connected with more than one 47. Okl.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. State, 157 P. 1039, 53 Okl. 712, L. R.A 1916F 1281—St Louis, etc, R Co v. Zalondek, 115 P 867, 28 Okl 746.

48. Okl—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. State, 201 P. 260, 83 Okl 161

49. Okl—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 157 P. 1039, 53 Okl 712, L R.A.1916F 1281.

50. Okl.—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S F. Ry. Co., C.C.A Okl, 89 F. 2d 94
51 C.J. p 1004 note 39.

51. Okl.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 157 P. 1039, 53 Okl 712, L. R.A 1916F 1281.
51 C J. p 1004 note 40.

52. Okl—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co, C C A Okl., 89 F 2d 94
51 C J. p 1004 note 41.

53. U S—Alton R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, Ill., 59 S. Ct. 340, 305 U S 548, 83 L Ed 344
Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co, 115 N E. 519, 277 Ill 574.
Minn.—State v Chicago, etc, R. Co, 131 N.W. 859, 115 Minn. 51.

54. U S—Booth-Kelly Lumber Co v. Southern Pac. Co, C A Or, 183 F 2d 902

55. Ill—Public Utilities Commission v. Cleveland, etc., R Co, 129 N E 869, 296 Ill. 513.
51 C J. p 1004 note 43

56. Va—Washington, etc, R Co. v F S. Royster Guano Co, 94 S E 763, 122 Va. 397.
51 C J. p 1005 note 44

57. Minn.—State v. Chicago, etc., R Co, 131 N.W 859, 155 Minn. 51.
51 C J. p 1005 note 45.

58. Pa—Pennsylvania R Co v. Public Service Commission, 64 Pa. Super 586.
51 C J p 1005 note 48

59. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v Lake Erie, etc., R Co., 115 N E. 519, 277 Ill. 574, 582.
51 C J. p 1005 note 50.
Right of owners of private tracks or switches to connect with railroad see supra § 56

60. Ill—State Public Utilities Commission v. Lake Erie, etc, R. Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 1005 note 51.
Size of track
The statute requiring railroad to lay track with necessary connections and switches whenever any warehouse may be built within one hundred fifty feet of main line does not apply to private industrial spur track two thousand two hundred fifty-seven feet long—Booth-Kelly Lumber Co v Southern Pac. Co, C A.Or., 183 F 2d 902.

61. Pa.—Erie, etc, R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 74 Pa Super 338.
51 C J p 1005 note 54.
Duty of railroad to carry freight over private tracks connected to railroad see infra § 413

62. Pa—Lycoming Edison Co v Public Service Commission, 67 Pa. Super 608.

63. U.S—Booth-Kelly Lumber Co v Southern Pac Co., C.A.Or., 183 F.2d 902
Ky.—Luton Mining Co v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 123 S.W.2d 1055, 276 Ky. 321.

railroad,[64] and notwithstanding he had not previously shipped via the railroad asked to construct the connection switch,[65] and notwithstanding in constructing the private track applicant, a corporation, may have committed an ultra vires act.[66] Under this section the railroad cannot be ordered to build the switch until after the shipper has constructed the private siding.[67] Other provisions of the act specifying that the authority of the commission shall not extend to the construction or abandonment of switching tracks wholly within one state apply only to switches connecting public railroads and not to switches connecting private tracks with public tracks,[68] and such a switch and private side track do not become an extension of the railroad merely because the side track extends to an industry located on another railroad,[69] or because other carriers might possibly use the connection,[70] or because of provisions of state statutes limited to intra-state commerce.[71]

(c) Sidings and Spurs

The statutory duty of a railroad company to build side tracks is subordinate to the paramount rights of the public.

Under statutes requiring a railroad company to construct and operate side tracks when reasonably necessary for established or prospective industries, and reasonably remunerative to the road, the company's duty to construct and maintain side tracks is subordinate to paramount rights of the public,[72] and the police power of municipalities,[73] with respect to separation of street and railroad grades,[74] as by depression of the railroad.[75]

Statutes requiring railroad companies to build and maintain sidings and spur tracks sufficient to handle the business tendered impose on a company the duty to build spurs or sidings at places other than regular stations where such facilities are needed by the general public,[76] but do not impose the duty to build spurs or sidings away from the main line to accommodate individual interests.[77]

"Indispensable" spurs. Under a statute providing that every railroad shall construct, connect, maintain, and operate a reasonably adequate spur track whenever not necessarily exceeding three miles in length and when practically indispensable to an existing or proposed enterprise or industry, a railroad is under a duty to construct the spur where the statutory conditions prevail,[78] but need not take over an existing spur where the element of indispensability is missing.[79]

(4) Under Contract

The duty to construct switches, spurs, or sidings for the benefit of private interests may be imposed on a railroad company by contract.

Within limitations imposed by statutory or constitutional provisions, railroad companies have the right to contract with respect to the construction of switches, spurs, and sidings for the benefit of private interests[80] on such terms as may be agreed on,[81] and a duty to construct switches or sidings for the benefit of private persons may be imposed by such a contract.[82] The respective rights of shippers and railroads as to construction of private side tracks rest entirely on the contract made.[83] A railroad,

64. U.S.—Cleveland, etc, R Co v. U. S., Ill, 48 S.Ct 189, 275 U.S 404, 72 L Ed. 338.
51 C.J. p 1006 note 58

65. U S.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co v. U. S., supra.
51 C.J. p 1006 note 59.

66. U S.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co v U. S, supra
51 C.J p 1006 note 60.

67. U S.—Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v. U S, supra.

68. U S —Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v. U. S, supra

69. U.S.—Cleveland, etc, R Co v U. S., Ill., 48 S Ct 189, 275 U S 404, 409, 72 L Ed 338.
51 C.J. p 1006 note 63.

70. U.S.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

71. U.S.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v U. S., supra.

72. Minn —State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 131 N.W. 859, 115 Minn 51.

73. Minn.—Twin City Separator Co. v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 137 N W 193, 118 Minn. 491.
51 C J p 1006 note 69

74. Minn —Twin City Separator Co v Chicago, etc, R Co, supra
51 C J. p 1006 note 70.

75. Minn —Twin City Separator Co. v. Chicago, etc., R Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 1006 note 71.

76. Tex.—Crosbyton-Southplains R Co v Railroad Commission, Civ. App, 169 S W 1038
51 C J. p 1007 note 73.
Sidings at stations see infra § 408.

77. Tex —Railroad Commission v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 80 S W. 1141, 98 Tex. 67.
51 C.J p 1007 note 74.

78. Wis —Menasha Woodenware Co. v State R Commission, 166 N.W. 435, 167 Wis 19
51 C J. p 1007 note 76.

79. Wis —Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 225 N.W. 402, 199 Wis. 252.
51 C.J. p 1007 note 77.

80. Ga —Butler v Tifton, etc, R. Co, 49 S E 763, 121 Ga 817.
Mich —Grand Rapids & I. Ry. Co. v. Michigan Railroad Commission, 150 N W 154, 183 Mich. 383
Contract held valid
Tex.—Turner v. Texas & N O. Ry Co., Civ App., 59 S.W.2d 239, error refused.

81. Mich —Grand Rapids & I Ry. Co. v. Michigan Railroad Commission, 150 N W. 154, 183 Mich. 383.

82. Ga —Butler v. Tifton, T. & G. Ry Co, 49 S E 763, 121 Ga. 817.
51 C.J. p 624 note 21.
Specific performance of contract see infra § 125.

83. Mich —Grand Rapids, etc, R. Co. v Michigan R. Commission, 150 N W. 154, 183 Mich. 383, 397
51 C.J. p 1007 note 91
Cost of furnishing see infra § 414.
Construction of contract
Where purpose of contract was to afford switching facilities for benefit of industrial plant and railroad, contract must be read as a whole in under a license to use tracks on property of another, cannot be compelled to construct a siding on such property to connect with such tracks without the consent of the owner[84] A successor in title to land, who, with knowledge of the predecessor's agreements with the railroad company for the construction of sidings to serve industry located on such land, adopted and accepted the terms of the agreement and enjoyed the benefits of the sidings was bound by the agreements.[85]

A stranger to the contract has no rights thereunder[86]

Waiver and modification. The provisions of such a contract may be waived[87] or modified.[88]

§ 122. Authority to Construct

A railroad may be constructed only by legislative authority.

Since the right of a railroad to corporate existence depends on legislative enactment, as considered supra § 7, the right to condemn property for and to construct and operate a railroad is a franchise which can be exercised only by legislative authority.[89] Any conditions precedent to the commencement of the construction prescribed by statute or the charter of the company must be complied with,[90] and it is in some cases required as a prerequisite to the commencement of the work that the full capital stock shall be subscribed and a certain amount paid in or other arrangements made to insure the completion of the road,[91] or that the company shall deposit with the state treasurer a certain sum for each mile of the proposed road, the amount to be refunded in installments as the work of construction progresses,[92] or, as discussed supra § 6, that before beginning the work of construction it shall be determined by some tribunal designated for that purpose whether the public convenience and necessity require the construction of the proposed road.

Telegraph lines may be constructed under the authority to construct the railroad.[93]

Switches and sidings. While a railroad company desiring to construct switches or side tracks must have legislative authority therefor,[94] the company may construct switches or side tracks for the purpose of facilitating its operation on any land which it may own or acquire the legal consent of the owner to use for such purpose if no public interest or private right is affected thereby,[95] and legislative authority to construct a railroad includes the right to construct such turnouts, sidings and switches as are incident to the convenient and proper operation of the road.[96]

§ 123. Time for Commencement or Completion of Construction

There should be compliance with statutory or charter provisions as respects the time within which construction of the railroad is to begin or is to be completed.

In some cases there are statutory or charter provisions limiting the time within which the railroad company must begin or complete the construction of its road,[97] or requiring that it shall complete a certain number of miles each year;[98] and, where the time for completion is so limited, the company has light of such purpose—William Danzer & Co. v. Western Maryland Ry Co, 165 A. 463, 164 Md. 448.

84. Ala.—Alabama Cent. R Co. v Alabama Public Service Commission, 76 So 862, 200 Ala. 536, L.R.A.1918C 293.

Reason for rule

The railroad cannot be compelled to trespass on another's lands—Alabama Cent. R Co v. Alabama Public Service Commission, supra.

85. Md.—William Danzer & Co v. Western Maryland Ry. Co., 165 A. 463, 164 Md 448—Adamstown Canning & Supply Co v. Baltimore & O. R Co, 112 A. 286, 137 Md. 199.

86. Tex.—Beaumont, etc, R Co. v. Moore, Civ App., 174 S.W 844.
51 C.J. p 1008 note 94.

87. Ark.—Harbottle-Bailey Coal Co v. Bolton-Hale Coal Co., 234 S W. 476, 150 Ark. 473.
51 C.J p 1008 note 95.

88. Iowa.—Cedar Rapids, etc, R. Co. v Chicago, etc, R Co., 124 N W. 323, 145 Iowa 528.
51 C.J. p 1008 note 96

89. Ill.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v Dunbar, 95 Ill. 571.
Minn.—Blake v Winona, etc, R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am.R. 345.
Right to construct lateral branch roads see supra § 51.

90. N Y.—Astor v. New York Arcade R Co., 1 N.Y.S. 174, 48 Hun 562, affirmed 20 N.E. 594, 113 N Y. 93, 2 L R A 789—Bailey v New York Arcade R Co., 1 N Y.S 304, affirmed 20 N E. 594, 113 N.Y. 615

91. N Y.—Astor v New York Arcade R Co, 1 N.Y.S 174, 48 Hun 562, affirmed 20 N E 594, 113 N.Y 93, 2 L R.A. 789.
51 C.J. p 624 note 26.

92. N J.—Schlicher v. Trenton, etc, R Co, 75 A 809, 73 N J.Eq. 425.
51 C.J. p 624 note 27.

93. Iowa.—Snell v. Leonard, 8 N.W 425, 55 Iowa 553

94. U.S.—City of Memphis v. St. Louis & S F. R Co, 183 F 529, 106 C C A. 75

A branch track to connect with private tracks of a cotton compress company was held not to be a terminal facility or a turnout or switch within the meaning of a statute authorizing the construction of such tracks—City of Memphis v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., supra.

95. Ill.—Walther v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 117 Ill.App 364, affirmed 74 N E. 461, 215 Ill. 456
Me.—Bangor, etc., R. Co v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.
Lateral or branch roads as distinguished from switches and sidings see supra § 51.

96. Ill.—Lake Shore, etc, R Co v Baltimore, etc, R Co, 37 N E 91, 149 Ill. 272.
51 C J. p 624 note 32.

97. Conn.—Danbury, etc, R. Co v Wilson, 22 Conn 435.
51 C J. p 624 note 34.

98. Cal.—Madera R. Co. v. Raymond

no absolute right to extend its road beyond the point completed at the expiration of such time.[99] The commencement of the railroad, within the meaning of such statutes, is the actual commencement of the work of construction.[1] The time specified by a statute or charter for the commencement or completion of a railroad is not, however, irrevocable, but the legislature and the railroad company may by mutual consent change it at any time,[2] or the legislature may grant an extension of time,[3] but a statute granting an extension of time for the completion of any railroad not finished within the time originally limited does not extend the time originally limited for the commencement of its construction,[4] or have the effect of reviving a company whose corporate powers have already been forfeited at the time of the enactment of the statute;[5] nor does a general statute extending the time for the construction of railroads already in default apply so as to extend the time for constructing a railroad not then in default.[6] A contract between a railroad company and a landowner, by which the railroad company agrees to construct a bridge over its road at a certain point within a certain time after the completion of the road, imposes no obligation on the company to complete the road within any particular time or within a reasonable time.[7] Statutes declaring a forfeiture are not to be extended by implication beyond their direct meaning.[8]

Switches, sidings, branches, and extensions. Statutory or charter provisions limiting the time for the construction of a railroad do not apply to the construction of sidings and switches,[9] or to branch lines,[10] even where such branch lines are described in the articles of incorporation as a line of railroad.[11] If the company has constructed its road within the time limited, it may subsequently construct from time to time such switches and sidings as may be necessary for the handling of its business or proper operation of the road.[12] So, also, the time limited for the construction of a railroad applies to the road as authorized by its charter and not to an extension authorized by a subsequent statute.[13] Where a company is authorized to construct two branches from different places converging at a certain point, it is immaterial which of such branches is constructed first.[14]

§ 124. Maintenance and Repair

a. In general
b. Switches, spurs, and sidings

a. In General

A railroad company is under a duty to maintain its road in such condition and repair as properly to perform its duties to the public.

Since, as discussed infra § 390, it is the duty of a railroad company which has constructed a railroad to operate it, it is also its duty to maintain the road in such condition and repair as properly to perform its duties to the public,[15] and in some cases railroad commissioners are invested with authority to determine the necessity for, and character of, such repairs;[16] but it has been held that such a commission has no jurisdiction over a railroad making repairs which are mere replacements.[17] A railroad

Granite Co., 87 P. 27, 3 Cal.App. 668.
51 C.J. p. 625 note 35.

99. Mich.—Muskegon, etc., R. Co. v. Muskegon Heights, 162 N.W. 92, 194 Mich. 643.
51 C.J. p. 625 note 36.

1. N.J.—State v. Bergen Neck R. Co., 20 A. 762, 53 N.J.Law 108.
2. Ill.—Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.
3. N.J.—State v. Bergen Neck R. Co., 20 A. 762, 53 N.J.Law 108.
51 C.J. p. 625 note 41.
4. N.Y.—Farnham v. Benedict, 13 N.E. 784, 107 N.Y. 159.
5. N.Y.—Farnham v. Benedict, supra—Sodus Bay, etc., R. Co. v. Lapham, 43 Hun 314, 6 N.Y.St. 159.
6. N.Y.—In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N.Y. 245.
7. Ill.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lurton, 72 Ill. 118.
8. Cal.—Northwestern Pac. R. Co. v. Lambert, 137 P. 1116, 166 Cal. 749, followed in Northwestern Pac. R. Co. v. Snider, 137 P. 1119, 166 Cal. 781.
51 C.J. p. 626 note 55.

9. Cal.—Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 28 P. 676, 92 Cal. 639.
Pa.—Pottsville Borough v. People's R. Co., 23 A. 900, 148 Pa. 175.
51 C.J. p. 625 note 47.

10. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 28 A. 155, 159 Pa. 331.
51 C.J. p. 625 note 48.

11. Cal.—Northwestern Pac. R. Co. v. Lambert, 137 P. 1116, 166 Cal. 749, followed in Northwestern Pac. R. Co. v. Snider, 137 P. 1119, 166 Cal. 781.
12. Pa.—Pottsville Borough v. People's R. Co., 23 A. 900, 148 Pa. 175.
13. N.Y.—Hamilton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 9 Paige 171.
14. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Petty, 37 S.W. 300, 63 Ark. 94.
15. U.S.—Lowden v. Denton, C.C.A. Mo., 110 F.2d 274, certiorari denied Denton v. Lowden, 60 S.Ct. 1100, 310 U.S. 652, 84 L.Ed. 1417.
51 C.J. p. 626 note 55.

Mandamus to compel maintenance and repair see Mandamus § 231 d (2).

16. Kan.—State v. Kansas Cent. R. Co., 28 P. 208, 47 Kan. 497.
51 C.J. p. 626 note 56.

Sufficiency of findings and orders

The public utility commission's fact findings and order dismissing its order to show cause for denial of order to correct improper conditions in railroad company's yards because of absence of sufficient switch lights were not manifestly against weight of evidence, unreasonable, or unlawful and were not unlawful or unreasonable because of commission's alleged refusal to determine whether reflectorized target switch signals were safe, where there was no showing that accidents would be caused by use of reflectorized targets.—Cooperative Legislative Committee of Transp. Brotherhoods v. Public Utilities Commission, 85 N.E.2d 554, 151 Ohio St. 325.

17. Pa.—Schuylkill R. Co. v. State company, for the purpose of making necessary repairs, may dig up and temporarily disturb the surface of a street within the limits of its location.[18] It is also the duty of a railroad company to exercise ordinary care in guarding against probable obstructions of its track from causes not located on its own right of way,[19] and it may maintain a suit in equity for their removal from adjacent lands if they are of such a character as to constitute a source of danger.[20] In the absence of statute, a railroad company is not bound to keep in repair bridges on the company's right of way, but not in the roadbed, and not constructed by the company or required for its purposes.[21]

b. Switches, Spurs, and Sidings

In the absence of statute or contract, a railroad company ordinarily is under no duty to continue the maintenance of a spur track for the benefit of private interests.

In the absence of a duty imposed by statute or contract, a railroad company is not obligated to continue the maintenance of a spur track for the benefit of private interests.[22] Where, however, a switch track built and owned by private industries had become a part of the main line, was used for the benefit of the railroad company to serve such industries, and could be used to serve other shippers and the public at large, the railroad company was held to be under a duty of maintaining such switch track.[23] In order to invoke a constitutional provision relating to the duty of a railroad company to maintain switch connections with private sidings, it is essential that the conditions set forth in the provision be shown to exist.[24]

Contract. Within limitations imposed by constitutional or statutory provisions, a railroad company has the right to contract with respect to the maintenance of switches, spurs, and sidings for the benefit of private interests,[25] and the respective rights of the parties rest entirely on the contract made.[26] A duty to continue the maintenance of a spur track does not arise from a promise of the railroad unsupported by a valid consideration.[27] A contract by a railroad company to construct a switch to plaintiff's quarry does not require the company to maintain such switch in repair after its construction.[28]

Cost of maintaining a side track or trestle operated on the property and for the benefit of an individual is, in the absence of a contract or valid order of the public service commission to the contrary, on the individual,[29] unless a statute provides other-

Public Service Commission, 85 Pa Super. 259.

18. Mass.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 71 N.E. 557, 186 Mass. 249.
51 C.J. p. 626 note 58.

Ordinance requiring license

(1) A city ordinance forbidding the digging up of any street or otherwise obstructing it without first obtaining a written license from the superintendent of streets will not be construed as applying to a railroad company in making necessary repairs within the limits of its location at a street crossing.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 71 N.E. 557, 186 Mass. 249.

(2) Effect of ordinance on right to lay tracks in street see supra § 107

19. Ky.—Filbin v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 16 S.W. 92, 91 Ky. 444, 13 Ky.L. 14.
51 C.J. p. 626 note 59.

20. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 37 S.W. 844, 100 Ky. 153, 18 Ky.L. 624.
51 C.J. p. 626 note 60.

21. S.C.—Felder v. Southern R. Co., 57 S.E. 524, 76 S.C. 554.

22. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Toccoa Rock Crushing Co., 171 S.E. 179, 47 Ga.App. 558.

23. Ill.—Alton R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Moulding-Brownell Corp., 15 N.E. 2d 508, 368 Ill. 584, affirmed Alton R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 59 S.Ct. 340, 305 U.S. 548, 83 L.Ed. 344

Public switches

The statute requiring railroads to maintain adequate switches, spurs, and side tracks for handling freight transported by such railroads requires maintenance of public, not private, switches.—Booth-Kelly Lumber Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., C.A.Or., 133 F.2d 902

Switch track across public thoroughfare

Where railroad used switch track built by private funds and for most part on private property, but crossing public thoroughfares for railroad's benefit to serve industries located on switch track, and could use it and extensions of it to serve other shippers and public at large, the switch track and extensions constituted a part of the carrier's system, as regards carrier's duty to maintain switch track.—Alton R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, Ill., 59 S.Ct. 340, 305 U.S. 548, 83 L.Ed. 344.

24. U.S.—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 89 F.2d 94.

Quantity of business

In order to invoke provisions of constitutional provision relating to maintenance of switch connection by railroad, quantity of business must be sufficient to justify switch, and owners of industry must defray expense of construction and repair.—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 89 F.2d 94.

25. Mich.—Grand Rapids & I. Ry. Co. v. Michigan Railroad Commission, 150 N.W. 154, 183 Mich. 383

26. Ark.—Standard Gravel Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 43 S.W.2d 246, 184 Ark. 1194.
Md.—William Danzer & Co. v. Western Maryland Ry. Co., 165 A. 463, 164 Md. 448.
51 C.J. p. 1007 note 91

27. Ga.—Lucas v. Southern Ry. Co., 61 S.E. 404, 130 Ga. 606.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Toccoa Rock Crushing Co., 171 S.E. 179, 47 Ga.App. 558

Damnum absque injuria

Quarry owner, having no right to continued maintenance of spur track erected for his benefit, could not recover from railroad for depreciation in value of quarry caused by removal of spur track, such damage being damnum absque injuria.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Toccoa Rock Crushing Co., supra.

28. Mo.—Stolle Stone Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 175 S.W. 250, 189 Mo.App. 683.

29. N.C.—Aileen Mills v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 140 S.E. 306, 194 N.C. 647.

wise.[30] The cost of such maintenance, however, may be fixed by valid agreement, in which case the contract determines the obligation to pay such costs.[31]

§ 125. Remedies

A railroad company may be enjoined from commencing the construction of its road where it has failed to comply with statutory provisions on which construction of the road is conditioned.

If a railroad company has not complied with a statutory requirement which is a condition precedent to the commencement of the construction of its road, a person whose property will be injuriously affected thereby may enjoin the company from commencing the work of construction.[32] If a railroad company fails to commence or complete the construction of its road within the time limited by statute or its charter, the state alone can ordinarily take advantage of the failure and object to a continuation of the work of construction,[33] and such failure may be waived by the state and an extension of time granted.[34]

In the absence of such an extension or after it has expired, if the railroad company has not commenced the construction of its road, a landowner may resist a subsequent condemnation of his land therefor,[35] or, if partly completed, he may resist any new condemnation of his property for extending the road beyond the point then completed;[36] but, if the company before the expiration of such period has acquired the right of way, he cannot prevent the company from continuing the construction of its road thereon after the time limited for its completion has expired.[37]

So, also, if a landowner has agreed to convey a right of way before the expiration of the time limited, he is not released from his agreement where there is an extension of time for the construction of the road.[38] Where during the process of construction a controversy arises between a landowner and the company as to the true location of the road, which is a disputable question of fact depending on parol testimony, the court will not grant a preliminary injunction restraining the construction of the road, but will require the company to give security for the damages which the landowner may sustain if the decision on final hearing is adverse to the railroad company.[39] Where a railroad company has by contract bound itself to construct and maintain a siding for the benefit of a landowner, a court of equity may compel specific performance of the contract.[40] The railroad is liable in damages for failure to construct according to its agreement.[41]

30. Wis.—New Dells Lumber Co. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., 276 N.W. 632, 226 Wis. 614.

31. Ark.—Standard Gravel Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 43 S.W.2d 246, 184 Ark. 1194.
Iowa.—State v. Sprague, 281 N.W. 349, 225 Iowa 766.
51 C.J. p. 1008 note 93.

Contract construed

(1) An agreement between the state and a railway company for construction of a spur track from state property to the main track of the railway company, where by the first section thereof the state was obligated to pay the actual cost of materials necessary for construction, maintenance, or operation of the track and by the second section thereof the railway company was to construct, maintain, and operate the track, was held to obligate the state to pay the cost of maintenance while obligating the railway company to perform the physical acts necessary for such maintenance.—State v. Sprague, 281 N.W. 349, 225 Iowa 766.

(2) One using six hundred sixty-two feet of one thousand eight hundred-foot spur track under agreement to pay one half of construction, maintenance, and rental costs of track used was held properly charged with one half of one third of total cost.—Rockcastle River Ry. Co. v. Jewell Coal Co., 74 S.W.2d 340, 255 Ky. 389.

(3) Evidence of previous correspondence and oral discussions warranted conclusion that railroad company, which submitted detailed written estimate of costs in repairing defendant's switch track and received instructions from defendants to repair tracks, was entitled to recover actual cost of repairing track and not merely the estimated cost.—New Orleans Terminal Co. v. Dixie Rendering, La.App., 179 So. 98.

Change of grade

Where the contract relating to the construction of a spur track imposed the cost thereof, except for the rails, on the owner of the property, and railroad changed main line grade, expense of making spur track conform thereto was held required to be borne by owners of spur track.—Black's Executors and Trustees v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 47 S.W.2d 59, 242 Ky. 617.

Items recoverable

A railroad company suing for balance due on contract requiring defendant to pay cost of repair of switch track could not recover an item, representing rails which were not used by railroad company in the performance of the work, or a charge of overhead on labor and material, where railroad company did not include the overhead charges in detailed estimate furnished defendant.—New Orleans Terminal Co. v. Dixie Rendering, La.App., 179 So. 98.

32. N.Y.—Astor v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 N.Y.S. 174, 48 Hun 562, affirmed 20 N.E. 594, 113 N.Y. 93, 2 L.R.A. 789.

33. Ill.—Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.
Mo.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228.

34. Ill.—Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

35. N.Y.—In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N.Y. 245.

36. Me.—Peavey v. Calais R. Co., 30 Me. 498.

37. Mo.—Atlantic R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228.

38. Ill.—Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

39. U.S.—Rainey v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., C.C.Pa., 15 F. 767.

40. W.Va.—M. M. & D. D. Brown v. Western Maryland Ry. Co., 99 S.E. 457, 84 W.Va. 271, 4 A.L.R. 522.

41. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Farmers' Union Gin Co., 125 P. 894, 34 Okl. 270.
51 C.J. p. 627 note 76.

Cost of maintenance and repair. The railroad company may sue to enforce valid agreements with respect to the cost of maintaining and repairing side or spur tracks for the benefit of private interests.[42]

§ 126. Interference with Construction

Interference with construction of the road by the railroad company may be enjoined in a proper case.

It has been said that the courts are loath to interfere with the construction of railroads.[43] When the ownership of certain land over which the railroad seeks to construct a track is in dispute, an order granting an injunction to the railroad, restraining defendant from interfering with the construction, will not be reversed when the railroad has constructed its track according to the terms of that order pending the appeal,[44] but the order granting the injunction should not have been made unless the railroad was likewise enjoined from proceeding with the construction so as to preserve the status quo.[45]

It has been held that a state statute cannot interfere with the federal government in the construction and maintenance of a railroad right of way acquired by the condemnation decree of a federal court.[46]

§ 127. Penalties for Failure to Construct or Maintain

Penalties for failure to construct a crossing are considered infra § 147; and penalties for violation of regulations as to the operation and maintenance of the railroad are discussed infra §§ 437-446.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

B. PLAN AND MODE OF CONSTRUCTION

§ 128. In General

In the absence of statutory restrictions or agreements, a railroad company may construct its tracks on any part of the right of way it deems proper.

In the absence of any statutory restriction or agreement, a railroad company is not obliged to construct its track in the center of its right of way,[47] but may construct it on any part of the right of way it may deem proper,[48] and after construction may subsequently change its location to any point within the limits of the right of way.[49] So, also, in the absence of any restriction as to how the track shall be constructed with respect to the surface of the ground, the company is not obliged to construct it on the surface,[50] but may elevate its tracks whenever the character of the country makes it either convenient or necessary,[51] or it may construct them under ground.[52] It is also discretionary with the railroad company, where it is authorized to construct a road between different points, as to where it will begin the work of construction,[53] provided it is on the line authorized by the statute or charter,[54] and, where a railroad company is authorized to cross a river by means of a bridge or ferry "as may be most convenient," the decision as to which is most convenient rests with the railroad company.[55]

Branch roads. A railroad company authorized to construct a branch road may begin at a point remote from the main line,[56] provided it is the bona fide intention of the railroad company to continue it to a connection with the main line.[57]

Stations, baggage rooms, and platforms. Where the regulation and control of railroads are in the 42. Ky.—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Dry Branch Coal Co., 117 S.W 2d 1003, 274 Ky. 82.

Action against assignor

Ky —Louisville & N R Co. v. Dry Branch Coal Co., supra.

Evidence explaining ambiguous contract

(1) In weighing evidence of prior correspondence and oral discussions which were competent to explain ambiguity in contract for repair of switch track, motives of parties must be considered —New Orleans Terminal Co v. Dixie Rendering, La. App., 179 So. 98.

(2) A railroad company's statement, in letter to defendant, that work of repairing track would be started on receipt of certified check in a designated amount to cover "costs" of repairs, did not warrant conclusion that railroad agreed to do work for amount of check, where word "costs" referred to detailed estimate of costs contained in earlier portion of letter.—New Orleans Terminal Co. v. Dixie Rendering, supra.

43. N C —Seaboard Air Line R Co. v Thompson, 91 S.E 1013, 173 N.C 258

44. N.C —Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v Thompson, supra

45. N.C —Seaboard Air Line R. Co v Thompson, supra

46. N.Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp, 66 N E 2d 289, 295 N Y. 227

47. W.Va —Ohio River, etc, R Co v Johnson, 40 S E 407, 50 W.Va 499.
51 C J. p 627 note 79.

48. Mo.—Munkers v. Kansas City, etc, R. Co, 60 Mo 334.
51 C J p 627 note 80

49. Mo —Dougherty v. Wabash, etc, R. Co, 19 Mo App 419

50. Pa —Sparks v Philadelphia, etc, R Co, 61 A. 881, 212 Pa 105.

51. Ky —Fulton v Short Route R Transfer Co, 4 S.W. 332, 85 Ky 640, 9 Ky L. 291, 7 Am S R. 619
51 C.J p 627 note 83.

52. Pa —Sparks v Philadelphia, etc, R Co, 61 A 881, 212 Pa. 105.
51 C.J p 627 note 84

53. Pa —Cleveland, etc., R Co v Speer, 56 Pa 325, 94 Am D. 84

54. Pa —Commonwealth v. Franklin Canal Co, 21 Pa 117.

55. N J —Easton v New York, etc, R Co., 24 N J Eq. 49

56. Ark —St. Louis, etc., R Co v Petty, 37 S W 300, 63 Ark 94

57. Ark —St Louis, etc., R Co v Petty, 21 S W. 884, 57 Ark. 359, 20 L R A. 434.

public service commission, the commission may order the construction and plan of construction of improvements of approaches to stations whenever necessary,[58] and a plan submitted to the commission by the railroad, which is dangerous, may be rejected by it.[59] The material to be used in construction of a station is a matter for the discretion of the commission,[60] and its order, when reasonable, will not be interfered with.[61] Baggage rooms and platforms ordered constructed by the public service commission adjacent to a team track need not be constructed along and adjoining the team track.[62] Surroundings and approaches to stations must be constructed and maintained in a reasonably safe manner.[63]

§ 129. Construction in or along Streets and Highways

a. In general
b. Construction at, above, or below grade

a. In General

Where a railroad company is duly authorized to construct its railroad along a public street or highway, its right is subject to reasonable regulation by the municipality.

The right to construct a railroad on public streets, within corporate limits, is subject to reasonable regulations imposed by the municipality,[64] although such regulations cannot abridge or impair the rights and franchises of the railroad company as granted by the legislature,[65] and whenever a statute and an ordinance conflict, the former must control.[66] The right to construct a railroad on or along a street or highway gives the railroad company no right to destroy the street or highway[67] unless the legislature has so enacted,[68] nor does municipal consent to the construction of a railroad in a street confer any right to obstruct the street,[69] or impair the value of abutting property,[70] but it is the duty of the railroad company so to construct its road as not unnecessarily to injure the street or highway or impair the rights of the public in its use.[71]

Where municipal consent for the construction of the railroad is necessary, the municipality may, in granting it, do so subject to reasonable conditions,[72] such as pertain to the mode of construction,[73] or the performance of certain acts on the part of the railroad company, such as grading, paving, and the like,[74] and a railroad company assenting to or constructing its road under an ordinance prescribing such conditions will be bound thereby;[75] but the municipality will also be bound by its part of the agreement in respect to the rights and privileges conferred if it had authority to make such agreement.[76]

Where a railroad company is authorized to construct its road along a street, it need not necessarily construct it in the middle of the street,[77] and a municipality cannot compel a railroad to move its tracks from its private right of way along the side of a street to the center of the street;[78] but a provision in a franchise to use a public highway, requiring a change of the location of the tracks from the side to the center of the highway on permanent improvement thereof by paving, must be complied with.[79] The grade of a street is not altered by authorizing a railroad company to lay its tracks in a street on condition that it pay all damages occasioned by any change of grade.[80]

58. Vt—Bacon v Boston, etc, R Co, 77 A 858, 83 Vt. 528

59. Vt—Bacon v Boston, etc., R Co., supra.

60. Okl—St Louis, etc, R Co. v Sutton, 119 P 423, 29 Okl 553

61. Okl—St Louis, etc., R Co v. Sutton, supra

62. Vt—Bacon v Boston, etc., R. Co, 77 A 858, 83 Vt 528

63. Vt—Sabre v Rutland R Co, 85 A. 693, 86 Vt 347, Ann Cas 1915C 1269

64. Ill—Pittsburg, etc, R Co v Chicago, 42 N E 781, 159 Ill 369
51 C.J p 628 note 99.

65. Ky.—Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc, R Co., 40 S.W 916, 19 Ky L. 449
N J.—Allen v. Jersey City, 22 A. 257, 53 N J Law 522.

66. Wis—Oshkosh First Cong Church v. Milwaukee, etc, R. Co, 45 N.W 1086, 77 Wis 158.

67. Pa—Harnish v Quarryville R Co, 92 A 501, 246 Pa 426
51 C J p 628 note 3.

68. W Va—Moundsville v. Ohio River R Co, 16 S E 514, 37 W Va. 92, 20 L R A 161

69. Ind—Tate v. Ohio, etc, R. Co, 7 Ind 479
Tenn—Pepper v. Union R. Co, 85 S W 864, 113 Tenn 53

70. La—Lewis v Colorado Southern, etc, R. Co, 47 So 906, 122 La. 572

71. Tenn—Pepper v. Union R Co, 85 S.W 864, 113 Tenn 53
51 C J. p 628 note 7.

72. Md—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Baltimore, 21 Md 93.
W Va—Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co, 16 S E. 514, 37 W Va 92, 20 L R.A 161.

73. W.Va—Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co, supra.

74. W Va—Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co, supra
51 C J. p 628 note 11.

75. Ga—Lamb v Robinson, 87 S E 17, 144 Ga 334
W Va—Moundsville v. Ohio River R Co, 16 S E 514, 37 W Va 92, 20 L.R A 161.

76. Ill—Chicago, etc., R Co v Quincy, 27 N E 232, 136 Ill. 489

77. Wis—Oshkosh First Cong Church, etc v Milwaukee, etc, R Co, 45 N W 1086, 77 Wis. 158.

78. Wis—State v. Milwaukee Light, etc, Co., 180 N.W. 938, 173 Wis 225

79. Ohio—State v Columbus, etc, Electric Co, 135 N.E. 297, 104 Ohio St 120.

80. Ohio—Little Miami R. Co. v. Martin, 1 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 440, 10 West L J 54.

Lights. A railroad cannot be compelled to light streets adjacent to its tracks unless the presence of the railroad renders additional street lighting necessary.[81]

b. Construction at, above, or below Grade

While a railroad constructed along a public street should ordinarily conform to the grade of the surface of the street, the company may be authorized or required to construct its tracks above or below grade.

Where a railroad is constructed along a street, it should ordinarily conform to the grade of the surface of the street;[82] and an ordinance requiring conformity to the street grade must be complied with;[83] but owing to the variations in the grade of many streets and the necessity of maintaining a uniform grade for the railroad, conformity to the street grade is often impracticable, and in such case the railroad company may construct cuts and fills provided the use of the street is not unnecessarily interfered with.[84] Such necessary elevations and depressions of the track may be authorized by a municipality,[85] and, in the exercise of its police power, a municipality which has granted a railroad the right to lay its tracks in a street may, when necessary, by a reasonable ordinance, require the elevation of the tracks,[86] but it cannot impose such restrictions as to the grade of the railroad as will practically deprive the company of a statutory right to construct its road in the street;[87] and, where a railroad is constructed to conform to the existing surface of a street which has not been graded to the established line, the railroad company should not be required to raise or lower its tracks to such line until the city has graded the street conformably thereto.[88]

When the company charter was accepted under laws reserving to the legislature the right to alter, modify, or repeal it, by a subsequent act the railroad may be required to elevate or depress its tracks along its right of way within the limits of a street.[89] Where municipal consent is essential to the occupancy of a street by a railroad, such consent is also necessary for any subsequent material change in the mode of construction, such as a change in the grade of its tracks.[90] Authority to construct an elevated railroad along and over streets carries with it the right to place temporary posts in the street.[91]

§ 130. —— Restoring and Maintaining Highway

Where a railroad is constructed on a street or highway, the company should restore it to its former state or to such state as does not unnecessarily impair its usefulness.

Where a railroad company constructs its road on a street or highway, it is the duty of the company to restore it to its former state or to such state as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness.[92] This is a common-law duty,[93] but it is frequently imposed by statute[94] or ordinance,[95] and is a continuing duty[96] which devolves on a company suc-

81. D.C.—Washington Terminal Co v. District of Columbia, 265 F. 965, 49 App.D.C. 325.
Duty to light tracks on public streets see infra § 430

82. Ind.—Tate v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 479.
51 C.J. p. 629 note 19.

83. Iowa.—Slatten v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 29 Iowa 148, 4 Am. R. 205
51 C.J. p. 629 note 20.

84. W.Va.—Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 10 S.E. 14, 33 W.Va. 1, 5 L.R.A. 371.
51 C.J. p. 629 note 21.

85. Iowa.—Slatten v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 29 Iowa 148, 4 Am. R. 205.
W.Va.—Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 10 S.E. 14, 33 W.Va. 1, 5 L.R.A. 371.

86. Ill.—Murphy v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 N.E. 381, 247 Ill. 614
51 C.J. p. 629 note 23.
Abolition of grade crossings see infra §§ 161-167.

87. Ky.—Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 40 S.W. 916, 19 Ky.L. 449.

88. Iowa.—Given v. Des Moines, 27 N.W. 803, 70 Iowa 637

89. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. New York, 92 N.E. 681, 199 N.Y. 288.

90. Pa.—Chester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 66 A. 654, 217 Pa. 402

91. Del.—Solomon v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 77 A. 970, 23 Del. 21.

92. Mo.—State ex rel. Titus v. Wabash Ry. Co., 103 S.W. 1137, 206 Mo. 251.
51 C.J. p. 629 note 30.

93. Mo.—State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13.
W.Va.—Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 16 S.E. 514, 37 W.Va. 92, 20 L.R.A. 161.

94. N.Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp., 66 N.E.2d 289, 295 N.Y. 227
51 C.J. p. 630 note 32.
Improvement of highway
Provision of statute requiring railroad to pay for improvement of portion of highway occupied by its tracks, which imposed lien for cost of such improvement, was held not ineffective on ground that it was vague and indefinite as to property to be subject to lien.—State v. Indiana R. R., 2 N.E.2d 404, 210 Ind. 222.

95. Tex.—Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. City of Houston, Civ.App., 41 S.W. 2d 352
Right of way necessary for streets
Ordinances were held to make it duty of railroads operating trains through city to place and keep in repair portions of right of way found reasonably necessary for public streets.—Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. City of Houston, supra.

96. N.Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp., 66 N.E.2d 289, 295 N.Y. 227
Pa.—Commonwealth v. Allegheny Valley Railway Co., 14 Pa.Super. 336
51 C.J. p. 630 note 33.
Duty to repair
(1) Railroad company occupying portion of public highway must keep that portion of highway occupied by its tracks in proper repair, even though no such duty is imposed on it by charter, franchise, statute, or contract; and, if it fails to do so, it is liable for damages caused thereby.—Geiger v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 30 Pa.Dist. & Co. 107.

(2) Notwithstanding absence of ordinance requiring it, railroad maintaining tracks in street must ceeding to the rights and franchises of the company which constructed the road.[97] A county or municipality in which the highway is situated cannot release the company from this duty,[98] or aid it by agreeing to bear part of the expenses of restoration.[99] This statutory duty is not discharged by merely using ordinary care to maintain the tracks along a street,[1] but also requires the railroad to make such alterations of its highway appurtenances as from time to time become necessary to public safety and convenience in keeping with regional developments and growth of traffic.[2]

The requirement as to restoring streets and highways does not impose on the railroad company the duty of removing all danger incident to the use of the railroad lawfully constructed parallel with, and in close proximity to, a highway,[3] or require the railroad company to construct fences or barriers in such cases between the highway and the railroad track;[4] nor is there any common-law duty to do so.[5] Also the requirement does not contemplate that the highway shall be restored to its exact former state or its use in no degree impaired,[6] but only that there shall be no material and unnecessary impairment of its use;[7] but it does require that the highway shall be restored in such manner as not unnecessarily to impair its usefulness for ordinary travel.[8] If the railroad is constructed on, and so as to destroy the use of, the highway, the highway must be reconstructed on a new location.[9] Where it is necessary to construct a new highway, this must be done before the original highway is appropriated,[10] although the contrary has been held;[11] and any work of restoration must be done within a reasonable time.[12]

§ 131. Roadbed and Tracks

The roadbed and tracks of a railroad should be constructed in a skillful manner and with suitable materials so as to make the railroad safe for travel.

It is the duty of a railroad company to construct its roadbed and tracks in a skillful manner and with suitable materials so as to make the road safe for travel,[13] and subsequently to keep it in proper condition and repair;[14] but the company is not required. in order to make travel on the road entirely free from peril, to incur a degree of expense which would render the operation of the road impracticable.[15] A state or municipality may, in the exercise of its police power, compel a change of the roadbed where the safety of the public requires it.[16]

Statutes providing for clearances of structures adjacent to the tracks must be complied with;[17] and one seeking to construct a track with less than the required clearances must show that compliance with the requirement is impracticable.[18] The railroad keep portion of street so occupied and used in repair—Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. v. Brown, 181 N.E 654, 42 Ohio App. 109.

97. Pa.—Commonwealth v Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa Super. 336.

98. N.Y—Butin v New York Cent., etc, R. Co., 90 N.Y.S. 909, 100 App. Div. 42.
51 C.J. p 630 note 34.

99. Minn—Minneapolis, etc, Electric Tract Co. v Minneapolis, 145 N.W 609, 124 Minn. 351, 50 L.R.A., N.S, 143.

1. Tex—International, etc, R. Co v Haddox, 81 S.W. 1036, 36 Tex Civ App 385.

2. N.Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp, 66 N.E 2d 289, 295 N.Y. 227.

3. Conn—State v. New Haven, etc, Co, 45 Conn. 331.

4. N.Y.—Coy v. Utica, etc, R Co, 23 Barb. 643, disapproving Moshier v Utica, etc, R. Co., 8 Barb. 427

5. N.Y—Coy v. Utica, etc, R. Co, 23 Barb. 643, disapproving Moshier v. Utica, etc, R. Co., 8 Barb. 427.

6. Mo.—Ettenson v. Wabash R. Co., 154 S.W. 785, 248 Mo. 395.
51 C.J. p 630 note 41.

7. W.Va.—Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc, R Co, 10 S.E 14, 33 W.Va. 1, 5 L R.A. 371.

8. W.Va—Moundsville v Ohio River R. Co, 16 S.E 514, 37 W.Va 92, 20 L.R.A. 161

9. Pa—Luzerne v. Monongahela Rys Co, 154 A. 26, 303 Pa 37.
51 C.J. p 630 note 44.
Same width
Statute permitting railroad to appropriate road, and substitute new road therefor, was held to require that new road be same kind of road as old road; railroad appropriating old road discharged obligation under statute by reconstructing new road with same potential width and with same actual width as old road, and, while acceptance of reconstructed road by township supervisors did not, per se, discharge railroad from statutory obligations to reconstruct new road properly, the fact that township officials accepted new road as substitute for old road appropriated by railroad and acquiesced therein for many years was held evidence that reconstructed road was adequate—Luzerne Tp. v. Monongahela Rys. Co, supra.

10. Utah—Barboglio v. Gibson, 213 P. 885, 61 Utah 314.
51 C.J. p 630 note 45.

11. Pa—Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 73 Pa. 29.

12. Wis—Jamestown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 34 N.W 728, 69 Wis. 648.

13. Va.—Fisher v Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 52 S.E 373, 104 Va 635, 2 L.R.A,N.S, 954.
51 C.J. p 630 note 49.

14. Me—Libby v Maine Cent R. Co, 26 A. 943, 85 Me. 34, 20 L.R.A. 812.
51 C.J. p 630 note 50.
Maintenance and repair generally see supra § 124
Duty of inspection
Pa.—Hart v. Reading Co., Com Pl, 44 Sch Leg Rec 157.

15. Ill—Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co. v. Thompson, 56 Ill. 138.

16. Minn.—Twin City Separator Co v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 137 N.W. 193, 118 Minn. 491.
51 C.J. p 630 note 52.

17. Mo—State v. Brown, 19 S.W.2d 484, 323 Mo 382.
51 C.J. p 631 note 53.

18. Mo.—State v. Brown, supra.

company may also change the kind of rails on its road.[19] A statutory or charter authority to use steam as a motive power and to carry freight and passengers authorize the company to construct its track and roadbed in a manner suitable for the use of heavy cars and locomotive engines,[20] and to use the heavy "T" rails commonly used on steam railroads.[21] Where a statute prescribes a certain regulation as to the condition of railroad tracks which must be complied with by a certain date, a company whose road is not completed at the time specified is entitled to a reasonable time thereafter to comply with the statute.[22]

Gauge. Where a railroad is constructed under a statute expressly regulating the gauge, the company must conform thereto and cannot subsequently alter the gauge of the road,[23] but, if there is no statutory or charter provision or restriction as to the gauge, the company may adopt such gauge as it may deem proper,[24] and may, after the construction of the road, change from the gauge originally adopted,[25] which change may be made without the consent of the municipality through the streets of which the road is constructed.[26] What is a reasonable time for effecting and completing an authorized change of gauge depends on the circumstances of the particular case.[27]

§ 132. Remedies

The duty of a railroad company to restore a street or highway along which a railroad has been built may be enforced by injunction in a proper case.

Where a railroad company fails to restore a street or highway, along which a railroad has been built, to its former condition as required by statute, it may be compelled to do so by mandamus, as considered in Mandamus § 231 d (2) (c), or by suit in equity for a mandatory injunction,[28] and a town or municipality which is responsible for the condition of its streets and highways may maintain such suit.[29] So, also, a municipality may sue to enjoin a railroad company from obstructing a highway by abandoned structures erected by the company.[30] Where, in consideration of a grant by a municipality of the right to construct a railroad on a street, the railroad company assumes obligations with respect to the mode of construction or work to be done by it on the streets so used, the performance of such duties may be enforced by a suit in equity[31] or the municipality may sue for damages for breach of the agreement.[32] A court of equity has no power at the instance of highway commissioners to enjoin the construction of a railroad on or along highways where such construction is authorized by statute.[33]

With respect to the rights and remedies of abutting property owners, the general rule applies that equitable relief will not be granted where there is an adequate remedy at law.[34] An abutting lot owner cannot enjoin the railroad company from constructing its road in a particular manner if the mode of construction is authorized by competent authority,[35] or if the character and extent of the injury which may result are merely speculative,[36] but he may compel the restoration of the street where the railroad has failed to perform this duty.[37] One who suffers no injury different from that suffered by the public generally cannot enjoin the construction of the

19. Pa.—Millvale v Evergreen R Co, 18 A. 993, 131 Pa. 1, 7 L.R.A. 369

20. Pa.—Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., supra.

21. Pa.—Millvale v. Evergreen R Co, supra.

22. Me.—Gillin v. Patten, etc., R Co., 44 A. 361, 93 Me. 80.
51 C.J. p 631 note 58

23. Pa.—Western New York, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 44 A. 242, 193 Pa. 127.
51 C.J. p 631 note 59.

24. N.C.—State v. Richmond, etc., R. Co, 72 N.C. 634.
Pa.—Millvale v Evergreen R. Co., 18 A. 993, 131 Pa. 1, 7 L.R.A. 369.

25. Colo.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Domke, 17 P. 777, 11 Colo. 247.
51 C.J. p 631 note 61.

26. Pa.—Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., 18 A. 993, 131 Pa. 1, 7 L.R.A. 369.

27. Mo.—State v. Missouri Pac R. Co, 80 Mo 117.

28. W.Va.—Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 16 S.E. 514, 37 W.Va. 92, 20 L.R.A. 161.
Wis.—Jamestown v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, 34 N.W 728, 69 Wis. 648.

29. W.Va.—Moundsville v. Ohio River R Co., 16 S.E. 514, 37 W. Va. 92, 20 L.R.A. 161.
Wis.—Jamestown v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 34 N.W. 728, 69 Wis. 648.
Remedies by or against railroad company relating to use of street or highway generally see supra § 113

30. N.Y.—Village of Skaneateles v. Barber, 78 N.Y.S.2d 79.
Proper parties
In suit to enjoin obstruction of village street by structures which had been erected by railroad but which had been abandoned by railroad, one in possession and control of the structures was a necessary and proper party.—Village of Skaneateles v. Barber, supra

31. W.Va.—Moundsville, etc, R. Co v Ohio River R Co, 16 S.E. 514, 37 W.Va. 92, 20 L.R.A. 161.

32. Ohio.—Cincinnati, etc, R Co v Carthage, 36 Ohio St 631.
51 C.J. p 631 note 72.

33. N.Y.—Baxter v. Spuyten Duyvil, etc, R. Co., 61 Barb. 428, 11 Abb.Pr.,N.S, 178.

34. W.Va.—Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co, 10 S.E. 14, 33 W.Va. 1, 5 L.R.A. 371.
51 C.J. p 631 note 74.

35. Minn.—Twin City Separator Co v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 137 N.W 193, 118 Minn. 491.
51 C.J. p 632 note 77.

36. Ky.—Fulton v. Short Route, etc, R. Co., 4 S.W 332, 85 Ky. 640, 9 Ky.L. 291, 7 Am.S.R. 619

37. Mo.—Ettenson v Wabash R Co., 154 S.W. 785, 248 Mo. 395.

road.[38] So, also, if a railroad company has by lawful authority constructed its road in a street and is not restricted as to the gauge, an abutting lot owner cannot enjoin the company from subsequently widening the gauge.[39]

If, however, the railroad company is proceeding in an unauthorized manner which will occasion a special injury for which there is no adequate remedy at law, the abutting landowner is entitled to an injunction,[40] unless he has lost his right to such relief by his laches or acquiescence,[41] or, if the road has already been located on the street so as to occasion an injury of this character, he may by a suit in equity compel the company to relocate its tracks.[42] In order to recover damages for injuries resulting from nonperformance of duties incidental to the construction of the railroad it must be shown that such nonperformance was the cause of the injury.[43] Where a railroad has occupied a street for a long period of time, it will be presumed, in an action to restrain continued use of the street, that the railroad has acquired the right to use the street.[44]

A public service commission, under its power to determine the terms and conditions on which a railroad company may appropriate a county road, cannot order the company to construct a highway in lieu of one appropriated, as it has agreed to do.[45]

Interference with waters and watercourses. A suit in equity may also be maintained to restrain a railroad company from wrongfully diverting the waters of a stream,[46] or to compel it to restore a stream wrongfully diverted to its former channel,[47] or to remedy an improper mode of construction which will occasion constantly recurring injuries by overflowing plaintiff's land.[48] The statutory duty of a railroad company to construct necessary drains or culverts in connection with its roadbed necessarily implies an obligation to maintain the roadbed in accordance with the initial requirements of the statute[49] and a company failing to discharge such duty to the damage of others may be compelled to do so by injunction.[50] Several landowners may unite in a suit for injunctive relief from obstruction of a stream by construction of the road.[51]

Measure of damages for destruction of a road is only the cost of restoring it to as good a condition as it was before the railroad was built,[52] and inconvenience or injury to the traveling public cannot be considered.[53]

38. Pa.—Weihle v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 8 Pa Dist. 309—Dilley v. Wilkes-Barre, etc, Pass R Co, 2 Pa Dist 91, 12 Pa.Co. 270.

39. Colo.—Denver, etc, R. Co. v Barsaloux, 25 P. 165, 15 Colo. 290, 10 L.R.A. 89
51 C J. p 632 note 81.

40. Tenn.—Pepper v. Union R Co, 85 S W. 864, 113 Tenn. 53.
51 C J. p 632 note 82

41. Wash.—Kakeldy v. Columbia, etc, R. Co, 80 P 205, 37 Wash 675.
51 C.J. p 632 note 83.

42. La.—Hepting v. New Orleans Pac R. Co, 36 La Ann 898

43. Va.—Chesapeake, etc, R Co v Catlett, 94 S E 934, 122 Va. 232
51 C J. p 632 note 85.
Sufficiency of complaint
In an action against a railroad for injuries resulting from leaving stumps above the height prohibited by law, on a road which it constructed in place of a part of a public road taken for its right of way, fact that plaintiff alleged the injury was caused by not restoring the original road to its former state or to such condition as not to impair its usefulness, instead of from the company's failure to cut down the stumps in the new road, would not bar a recovery, even though the latter was the proximate cause of the injury, where the petition showed a cause of action without that averment, it being merely a legal conclusion.—Hall v Houston & T. C. R. Co, 114 S.W. 891, 52 Tex.Civ.App. 90.

44. N Y.—Mosner v. Rome, etc, R. Co, 5 N Y S. 807, 51 Hun 638.

45. Or.—In re County Road No 65, 177 P 426, 90 Or. 519.
51 C.J p 601 note 47

46. Kan.—Atchison, etc, R Co. v. Long, 27 P. 182, 46 Kan 701, 26 Am S R 165.
N Y.—Garwood v. New York Cent, etc, R Co, 83 N.Y. 400, 38 Am. R. 452

47. N Y.—Wright v Syracuse, etc., R Co, 3 N Y S 480, 49 Hun 445, affirmed 27 N.E 854, 124 N.Y. 668.

48. Tex.—Burlington-Rock Island R Co v. Newsom, Civ.App, 219 S.W 2d 129.

49. Tex.—Burlington-Rock Island R Co v. Newsom, supra.

50. Tex.—Burlington-Rock Island R Co. v Newsom, supra.
Sufficiency of evidence
Evidence sustained express finding of jury that culvert under railroad was insufficient to carry surface water from ordinary rainfall from adjoining land and findings of trial court implicit in judgment granting a mandatory judgment requiring railroad to construct such necessary culverts and drains as natural lay of the land adjacent thereto might require for necessary drainage of ordinary rainfall.—Burlington-Rock Island R Co v. Newsom, supra.

51. U. S.—Hagge v Kansas City, etc, R. Co., C C.Mo, 104 F. 391.

52. Ky.—Big Sandy R Co. v Boyd County, 101 S.W. 354, 125 Ky 345, 31 Ky L. 17.

53. Ky.—Big Sandy R. Co. v. Boyd County, supra.

C. CROSSING OTHER RAILROADS

§ 133. Right to Cross

a. In general
b. Street railroads and other railroads occupying streets or highways
c. Agreement or acquiescence
d. Injunction

a. In General

A railroad company may be authorized to construct its road across the tracks of another railroad company.

Railroad companies accept their charters and use their tracks subject to the power of the state to authorize the construction of other railroads across their tracks whenever the public welfare so requires,[54] and this right of crossing is not affected by the priority of charters[55] or the location or construction of the roads thereunder,[56] by the comparative length or amount of traffic on the respective roads,[57] or by the fact that the road crossed is in the hands of a receiver,[58] or that such company owns the title in fee to the property crossed,[59] nor is the right confined to the main tracks, but applies to the lateral and spur tracks and switches constituting a part of the system and necessary to enable the company properly to carry on its business.[60] The railroad seeking to cross must secure a right of way either by purchase or condemnation.[61]

The right to cross another railroad is generally provided for by statutory[62] or constitutional provisions,[63] which must be followed,[64] and where so conferred by statute it is paramount to a mortgage or lien on the property of one of the companies,[65] and the physical character of the railroad does not affect the applicability of such a statute.[66] However, the right to cross need not be conferred in express terms, since it will be implied from the right to construct a road between certain termini, where such crossing is necessary.[67] Statutory provisions applicable to the crossing of one railroad by any new railroad do not apply to a new and additional track of a railroad already crossing another.[68]

Where it is practicable to locate the second road without crossing the first, it should not be permitted to cross and recross the first merely as a matter of convenience or economy in construction,[69] and even where the right to cross is conferred by statute, it should not, in the absence of unequivocal language, be construed as conferring an absolute right to a crossing at the option of the company desiring to make it without regard to its necessity and the interests of the public.[70] One railroad company has no right so to cross the track of another as to deprive the latter of the use of the track or materially impair the exercise of its franchises;[71] but a crossing which is not of such a character may be made,[72] and even a temporary deprivation may, when necessary to effect the crossing, be permitted.[73] The inconvenience in op-

54. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac R. Co, 176 P 539, 104 Wash 405.
51 C J. p 632 note 94.

55. Mo.—Kansas City, etc, R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc, R. Co, 24 S W. 478, 118 Mo 599
Ohio—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc, R. Co., 30 Ohio St. 604.

56. Mo—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v Kansas City, etc, R Co, 24 S. W 478, 118 Mo. 599.
51 C J. p 633 note 96.

57. Wash.—Seattle, etc., R Co v. State, 34 P. 551, 7 Wash. 150, 38 Am S.R. 866, 22 L.R A. 217.

58. N.J.—New Jersey Cent R Co. v Pennsylvania R. Co, 31 N.J Eq. 475, reversed on other grounds 32 N.J Eq. 755

59. Pa.—Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc, R. Co, 44 A. 46, 192 Pa. 552
51 C.J. p 633 note 99.

60. Ala.—Mobile, etc, R Co v Louisville, etc., R. Co, 68 So. 905, 192 Ala. 136
51 C J p 633 note 1.

61. Wash—State v. State Public Works Dept, 286 P. 39, 155 Wash 665
Authority to take property of another railroad see Eminent Domain § 77.

62. N Y—Ft Edward v. Hudson Valley R Co., 84 N.E 962, 192 N. Y. 139
51 C.J. p 633 note 3.

63. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R Co. v. Texas, etc, R Co, C.C.Tex., 10 F. 497, 4 Woods 360
51 C J. p 633 note 4

64. Ind.—Lake Shore, etc, R. Co v Cincinnati, etc, R. Co, 19 N.E 440, 116 Ind. 578.
51 C.J. p 633 note 5

65. Ala.—Alabama, etc, R Co. v. South Alabama, etc, R. Co., 3 So 286, 84 Ala. 570, 5 Am.S R. 401.
51 C.J. p 633 note 6

66. W.Va—Tri-State Tract. Co v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 68 S.E. 25, 67 W.Va. 389.
51 C.J. p 633 note 7.

67. Pa.—Kushequa R. Co v. Pittsburgh, S. & N. R. Co., 50 A. 169, 200 Pa. 526—Perry County R Extension Co v. Newport, etc, R Co, 24 A 709, 150 Pa. 193.
51 C J p 633 note 8

68. N Y.—Buffalo Creek R. Co v. New York Cent R. Co, 160 N.Y S 546, 96 Misc 462

69. Pa.—Perry County R. Extension Co. v Newport, etc., R Co, 24 A 709, 150 Pa 193
Wash—Seattle, etc, R. Co. v. State, 34 P 551, 7 Wash 150, 38 Am S R 866, 22 L.R A. 217.

70. Minn.—In re St Paul, etc, R Co, 33 N W. 701, 37 Minn 164
Wash—Seattle, etc., R Co v. State, 34 P. 551, 7 Wash 150, 38 Am S.R 866, 22 L R.A. 217.

71. Mo—Kansas City, etc, R Co v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co, 24 S. W 478, 118 Mo. 599.
Wash.—Seattle, etc, R. Co. v State, 34 P 551, 7 Wash 150, 38 Am.S.R 866, 22 L R.A 217.

72. N.J—National Docks, etc, Co v State, 21 A. 570, 53 N.J.Law 217, 26 Am S.R. 421.

73. N.J.—National Docks, etc, R.

eration and the increased danger necessarily incident to the existence of the crossing are not such an impairment of the franchise,[74] and the crossing may be made although it shortens the storage tracks of the railroad crossed,[75] or necessitates a slight change of their grade,[76] or even an expensive alteration of the car yard when no other practical place for crossing can be found.[77]

b. Street Railroads and Other Railroads Occupying Streets or Highways

Street railroads and other railroads in or along a street or highway may be authorized to cross each other's tracks.

A railroad may be authorized to cross the tracks of another railroad located in or along a street or highway.[78] Such authority to cross may exist in a street railroad with respect to a steam railroad so located,[79] or in a steam railroad with respect to a street railroad.[80] Where the right of a street railroad to cross the tracks of another railroad is conferred by statutory or constitutional provision, there must be compliance with any conditions precedent imposed by such provisions before the crossing may be made.[81] It has been held that, in the absence of legislative authority, a private company because it must be assumed that the steam railroad company constructed its tracks across a street or highway with the understanding that a street railroad might thereafter be lawfully located on the street or highway and across the tracks at that point.—South East, etc., R. Co. v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 82 N.E. 765, 169 Ind. 339, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 916—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Cincinnati L. & A. Electric St. R. Co., 99 N.E. 1018, 52 Ind. App. 639

"Unite" and "connect" compared

Within the provision of the railroad law conferring on every steam railroad the right to cross or to unite its railroad with any other railroad already constructed, to any point on its road, and providing that every railroad corporation whose road is intersected by any new railroad shall unite with such road in forming necessary intersections and shall grant the requisite facilities, the word "cross" hardly could have been intended to apply to one kind of a railroad, and the word "unite" to another kind, and, as the legislature by the word "cross" intended to preserve the right of railroads of different kinds to cross each other, the word "connect" also should be construed to apply to different railroads, and, hence, the electric railroads are subject to the provisions of the statute.—Stillwater, etc., St. R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N.E. 511, 514, 171 N.Y. 589, 59 L.R.A. 489.

Co v. Pennsylvania R Co, 33 A. 860, 54 N J Eq 142, affirmed 41 A 1116, 55 N J Eq 820.

51 C.J. p 633 note 14.

74. Mo.—Kansas City, etc, R Co v Kansas City, etc, R Co., 24 S W 478, 118 Mo 599

51 C J p 633 note 15.

75. Mo —Kansas City, etc, R Co v Kansas City, etc, R Co., 24 S W 478, 118 Mo 599.

Mont.—Butte, etc, R Co v. Montana Union R Co, 41 P 248, 16 Mont 550.

76. Mont —Butte, etc., R. Co v. Montana Union R Co, supra

77. N J —National Docks, etc, R Co. v. State, 21 A. 570, 53 N.J.Law 217, 26 Am S.R. 421.

78. Mo —St Louis Transfer R. Co v. St Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal R. Co., 20 S.W. 319, 111 Mo. 666

Pa.—Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co v. Philadelphia, etc, R Co, 28 A. 784, 160 Pa. 277

Compensation see Eminent Domain § 131.

79. Conn —New York, etc, R. Co. v Bridgeport Traction Co, 32 A. 953, 65 Conn. 410, 29 L R A 367

Ind.—Pittsburgh, C, C & St L Ry Co. v Muncie & Portland Traction Co, 91 N.E. 600, 174 Ind 167—South East, etc., R. Co. v. Evansville, etc, Electric R. Co, 82 N E. 765, 169 Ind 339, 13 L R.A,N S, 916, 14 Ann Cas 214—Baltimore & O. S W. R. Co v Cincinnati L A. Electric St. R. Co., 99 N E 1018, 52 Ind App. 639.

Neb.—Chicago, etc., R. Co v. Steel, 66 N.W. 830, 47 Neb 741.

N.Y —Stillwater, etc., R Co. v. Boston, etc, R. Co, 64 N.E. 511, 171 N.Y. 589, 59 L.R.A. 489.

Ohio —Akron & Cuyaho Falls Rapid Transit Co. v Erie Ry., 28 Ohio Cir.Ct. 36, 76 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N S., 199 —Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v Urbana, etc., R. Co, 26 Ohio Cir.Ct. 180—Cincinnati, etc., Electric R Co v. Cincinnati, etc, R. Co., 21 Ohio Cir. Ct. 391, 12 Ohio Cir.Dec. 113.

Pa —Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Greensburg, etc, St R Co, 35 A 122, 176 Pa St 559, 36 L R A. 839—Pennsylvania R Co v Suburban Rapid Transit Co, 11 Pa Co 591.

Tex —Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v Houston Electric Co, 122 S W. 287, 57 Tex Civ App 170

51 C J p 634 note 22.

Reasons for rule

(1) The right of way acquired by a railroad is subject to the easement of the public in the street.

U S —East St Louis R Co. v. Louisville, etc, R Co, Ill., 149 F. 159, 79 C C.A. 107—Pennsylvania Co v Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., C C.Ohio, 146 F. 446.

Ga —Southern R. Co. v. Atlanta Rapid Transit Co., 36 S E. 873, 111 Ga 679, 51 L.R A. 125

Ill —Chicago, etc., R. Co v West Chicago St R. Co, 40 N E 1008, 156 Ill. 255, 29 L.R.A. 485.

Ind —South East, etc., R Co. v. Evansville, etc, R Co, 82 N.E 765, 169 Ind 339, 13 L.R A,N S, 916, 14 Ann.Cas 214—Evansville, etc., Traction Co v. Evansville Belt R Co, 87 N.E. 21, 44 Ind App. 155—Michigan Cent. R Co. v. Hammond, etc., Electric R Co., 83 N E 650, 42 Ind App 66

Neb —Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Steel, 66 N.W 830, 47 Neb. 741.

(2) A steam railroad takes a grant of a right to occupy a city street subject to the power of the city to authorize the construction of a street car line over the same, and to the right of the street car company to cross the railroad tracks by proper means, and with due regard for the railroad's rights —Evansville & S I Traction Co. v. Evansville Belt Ry. Co., 87 N E 21, 44 Ind.App. 155

(3) Operation of a street railroad imposes no additional burden on a street —Chicago, etc., R. Co v. Whiting, etc., R. Co., 38 N.E. 604, 139 Ind 297, 47 Am.S.R. 264, 26 L.R.A. 337—Baltimore & O. S. W. R Co. v Cincinnati, L. & A. Electric St. R. Co., 99 N E 1018, 52 Ind.App. 639.

Priority of construction confers no advantage on the steam railroad

80. Mass.—Lynn, etc., R Co. v. Boston, etc., R Corp., 114 Mass. 88

81. Conn —New York, N. H. & N. R Co v. Bridgeport Traction Co., 32 A 953, 65 Conn. 410, 29 L.R.A. 367.

Ga —Southern R. Co. v. Atlanta R., etc., Co., 36 S.E. 873, 111 Ga. 679, 51 L.R.A. 125.

Ky.—Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Ashland, etc., St. R. Co., 26 S.W. 131, 96 Ky 347, 16 Ky.L.Rep 42.

N Y.—Delaware, etc., R Co. v Syracuse, etc., R. Co, 59 N.Y.S 1035, 38 Misc. 456, affirmed 60 N.Y.S 336, 43 App.Div. 621.

tramroad cannot be constructed over a railroad track.[82]

c. Agreement or Acquiescence

The right of one railroad company to cross the tracks of another railroad company may be acquired by agreement between the companies.

The right to cross the tracks of another railroad may be acquired by agreement between the companies as well as by legal proceedings pursuant to statutory authority.[83] Where such a contract has been entered into, its terms determine the rights of the parties.[84] A waiver of the right to compensation is sufficient consideration for an agreement to cross.[85] Where the grant of the right to cross is a mere license to cross, it may be revoked at any time before the crossing is actually constructed.[86] A contract giving one railroad company the right to cross the tracks of another does not include the right to cross yards used for terminal purposes,[87] and a contract for a crossing will not be specifically enforced where plaintiff claims the right to cross at a place not contemplated by the parties and where it would greatly damage the other company.[88]

Where the officers of one railroad company assent, although not in the form of a binding contract, to a grade crossing of their road by another company and permit the latter to expend large sums of money in constructing their road with respect to such crossing, they cannot afterward enjoin the latter from constructing such crossing and insist on a crossing of a different character involving large additional expense,[89] but the fact that one railroad company is permitted to construct its road with the manifest intention of crossing another without objection by the latter constitutes no estoppel by acquiescence to a claim for damages,[90] nor does the fact that a railroad company permitted a street railroad company to cross its tracks for several months pending negotiations between the companies as to such crossing, which were subsequently broken off by the latter company, give such company any legal right to the use of the crossing.[91]

Under an agreement giving the right to cross but reserving to the grantor the right to lay additional tracks, the grantor may thereafter lay an additional track to convert its road from a narrow to a standard gauge.[92]

d. Injunction

An unauthorized crossing by one railroad of the tracks of another may be enjoined in a proper case. Conversely interference with a crossing may also be enjoined by a railroad duly authorized to make the crossing.

A court of equity will enjoin one railroad company from crossing the tracks of another without any legal authority to do so,[93] or from crossing

W.Va.—Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co., 48 S.E. 746, 56 W.Va. 18.

Railroad chartered by legislature

Where the charter of a street railroad company, although granted by the secretary of state, has been confirmed and validated by the legislature, such company is "chartered by the legislature," within a statute permitting any railroad company "heretofore or hereafter chartered by the legislature of this State" to cross the tracks of any other railroad under certain conditions.—Southern R. Co. v. Atlanta, R., etc., Co., 36 S.E. 873, 111 Ga. 679, 51 L.R.A. 125.

82. Fla.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. McRainey, 68 So. 753, 69 Fla. 462.

83. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Old Colony Trust Co., Iowa, 216 F. 577, 132 C.C.A. 581.
51 C.J. p. 634 note 26.

Application of contract to future

A contract giving a street railway company the right to cross the tracks of a railroad company, and allowing the street railroad company to make additional crossings required by additional tracks laid by the grantor, was held to apply to new tracks laid at any future times.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Kentucky Traction Co., 144 S.W. 739, 147 Ky. 513, Ann.Cas.1915A. 857.

84. N.J.—New Jersey Junction R. Co. v. Erie R. Co., 17 A.2d. 265, 128 N.J.Eq. 497.

Tracks which may be crossed

N.J.—New Jersey Junction R. Co. v. Erie R. Co., supra.

Despite a new franchise, the rights of a street railway corporation to a crossing over a railroad was held fixed by the contract made by its predecessor.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Kentucky Traction Co., 144 S.W. 739, 147 Ky. 513, Ann.Cas.1915A. 857.

"Flag the crossing" defined

Ill.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. East St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 206 Ill.App. 216.

Right to remove trolley wires

Although a contract authorized removal of street railway company's trolley wire, if it sagged where the street railway crossed its tracks, the railroad company was not justified in running wrecking train against it where it sagged, and breaking it.—Owensboro City R. Co. v. Louisville, H. & St. L. Ry. Co., 178 S.W. 1043, 165 Ky. 683.

85. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Old Colony Trust Co., Iowa, 216 F. 577, 132 C.C.A. 581.

86. Pa.—Lehigh, etc., R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 77 A. 552, 228 Pa. 350.
51 C.J. p. 634 note 30.

87. N.J.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Collector, 4 N.J.Law J. 247.

88. N.J.—Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 31 N.J.Eq. 105.

89. Pa.—Appeal of Catawissa R. Co., 2 Walk. 175.

90. N.J.—Coe v. New Nersey Midland R. Co., 31 N.J.Eq. 105.

91. N.Y.—Port Richmond, etc., Electric R. Co. v. Staten Island Rapid Transit R. Co., 39 N.E. 392, 144 N.Y. 445.

92. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Keating, etc., R. Co., 81 A. 935, 233 Pa. 71.

93. U.S.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Arizona, etc., R. Co., N.M., 34 S.Ct. 691, 233 U.S. 601, 58 L.Ed. 1111.
51 C.J. p. 634 note 37.
Injunction with respect to place or manner of crossing see infra § 134 e.

Grounds for relief

Where a bill to restrain a street railroad company from constructing a crossing over complainant's rail-without first making compensation where there is a right to such compensation,[94] although the contrary has been held where the statute does not make the fixing and payment of such compensation a condition precedent to the crossing;[95] and conversely, where one railroad company has a right to cross and is proceeding in a lawful and proper manner, the court will enjoin the company whose tracks are crossed from interfering with the work of construction,[96] or from interfering with the crossing or its use after it is constructed.[97] On the other hand, where a commercial railroad crosses a street or highway the company cannot enjoin the construction of a street railroad over such crossing, duly authorized, on the ground that it will interfere with property of the railroad company and render the crossing dangerous,[98] especially if the railroad does not own the fee in the right of way and the crossing is made with due regard to the railroad's property rights and the danger thereof is not increased.[99] The company whose road is being crossed cannot enjoin the crossing pending appeal from the proceedings in which the right to cross was granted.[1]

If a crossing has been already effected without authority and the company making it could not by legal proceedings acquire a right to the crossing in question, the court may not only enjoin its use but may compel its removal and the restoration of the road crossed to its original condition;[2] but if the company which has made the crossing might by proper proceedings acquire the right and has merely proceeded in an unauthorized manner, the court may, instead of enjoining its use unconditionally, require the company to conform to the legal requirements and make proper compensation, giving bond to comply with the order of the court.[3] Where a railroad company is proceeding in good faith with the construction of its road with apparent ability properly to perform the work of crossing another railroad, it will not be enjoined from so crossing merely because it has not yet secured a right of way over its entire route,[4] and where one railroad company is authorized to cross another below grade, provided the structures for crossing are approved by the railroad commissioners, the company whose location is crossed cannot, after such approval has been granted, alter the existing conditions and enjoin the other company from constructing the crossing as authorized.[5]

A railroad will not be enjoined from reconstructing spur tracks destroyed by another company in effecting a crossing.[6]

§ 134. Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossing

a. In general
b. Agreement between companies
c. Crossing at, above, or below grade
d. Expense of crossing
e. Injunction

a. In General

The crossing by one railroad of another should be so located and constructed as not to do unnecessary injury to the road crossed.

Where one railroad company crosses another, the crossing should be so located and constructed as not to do any unnecessary injury to the road crossed,[7] and in many jurisdictions the statutes in effect so provide;[8] but while such provisions clearly road tracks alleged that defendant was a corporation organized under the laws of Illinois, and prayed relief solely on the ground that complainant was about to improperly extend its street railway system across complainant's main track without complying with the law, and, on defendant denying that it was an Illinois corporation and alleging that it was organized under the laws of Maine, complainant did not seek to amend or file a replication, it could not claim relief on the ground that a foreign corporation could not maintain a street railway system or exercise its corporate functions in Illinois.—Chicago, P. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Jacksonville Ry. & Light Co., 91 N.E. 1024, 245 Ill. 155

94. Ga.—Georgia Midland, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus Southern R. Co., 15 S.E. 305, 89 Ga. 205
Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 15 Ill.App. 587.

95. N.Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Forty-second St., etc., R. Co., 50 Barb. 309, 32 How.Pr. 481.

96. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Whiting, etc., St. R. Co., 38 N.E. 604, 139 Ind. 297, 47 Am.S.R. 264, 26 L.R.A. 337
Pa.—Du Bois Tract. Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 24 A. 179, 149 Pa. 1.

Crossing by street railroad
Ohio.—The C. & H. Electric St. Ry. Co. v. The C. H. & I. R. R. Co., 21 Ohio Cir.Ct. 391, 12 Ohio Cir. Dec. 113.

97. Pa.—Du Bois Tract. Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 24 A. 179, 149 Pa. 1.
51 C.J. p. 635 note 42.

98. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Rome Ry. & Light Co., 77 S.E. 1126, 139 Ga. 726.

99. Pa.—Cumberland Val., etc., R. R. Co. v. Chambersburg, etc., Ry. Co., 15 Pa.Dist. 965.

1. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. La Fayette, etc., Tract., 94 N.E. 483, 175 Ind. 391.

2. U.S.—Chattanooga Terminal R. Co. v. Felton, C.C.Tenn., 69 F. 273

3. Mich.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 30 N.W. 595, 63 Mich. 645.

4. N.J.—National Docks, etc., Junction Connecting R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., Ch., 30 A. 1102, reversed on other grounds Pennsylvania R. Co. v. National Docks, etc., Junction Connecting R. Co., 32 A. 220, 53 N.J.Eq. 178.

5. Mass.—Fitchburg R. Co. v. New Haven, etc., Co., 134 Mass. 547.

6. Ga.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 58 S.E. 465, 129 Ga. 44.

7. Ala.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 68 So. 905, 907, 192 Ala. 136.
51 C.J. p. 635 note 50.

8. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tide-recognize that the rights of the first occupant are superior to those of the second,[9] they do not require that there shall be no injury whatever to the rights of the road crossed,[10] or require the selection of the place and mode which will least injure the company crossed, without regard to the interests and necessities of the other company, which must also be considered and the question determined according to the circumstances of the particular case.[11]

The provisions also apply only to direct interference with rights and not to consequential injury to interests, such as a diminution of traffic by competition.[12] While it has been held, under a statute giving one railroad company the right to cross another at any point, that the crossing company may select the place and manner of crossing, subject only to the condition of paying the damages inflicted,[13] but it has also been held that the right of crossing cannot be exercised arbitrarily, without regard to the necessities of the case and the interests of the other company,[14] even though the statute confers the right to cross at any point.[15]

In determining the place and mode of crossing, consideration should be given to the future necessities of the company whose road is crossed,[16] and also to the rights and necessities of the public in the use of streets and highways on which the roads may be located,[17] but mere possibilities should not be provided for.[18] A statute giving the right to cross another railroad does not necessarily require that the crossing shall be at right angles,[19] but one company should not, in crossing, be permitted unnecessarily to obstruct the track of the other in a longitudinal direction so as to impair the use of such road.[20] Where one railroad company has the right to cross the track of another, the latter has no right to dictate the terms on which the crossing shall be made.[21]

Street railways crossing a railroad on the bridge constructed to carry the street over the railroad are not bound to maintain any portion of the structure of the bridge, except to meet the expense caused by the extra burden of its tracks.[22] However, a street railway company which crossed a railroad bridge without obtaining leave as provided by statute cannot claim immunity from contribution to needed repairs entailed by reason of its operation over the bridge.[23]

Safety devices. In some states the statutes provide that the crossing company may be required to interlock the crossing,[24] and, although such a statute exempts from its requirements the crossing of side tracks, it does not exempt the crossing of a side track and a main line.[25] Such statutes have been held not to apply to crossings of railroads by street railways or interurban roads,[26] or to the crossing of street railroads by other railroads.[27] A water R. Co., 52 S.E. 852, 105 Va. 129

51 C.J. p 635 note 51.

Particular provisions

In some cases, the statutes provide that the crossing shall be made at such place and in such manner as will not unnecessarily impede or endanger the travel or transportation on the railroad so crossed.

N.J.—In re Atlantic, Highlands, etc., R. Co., Ch., 35 A. 387.

Pa.—Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Scranton, etc., Traction Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 287, 7 Kulp 509.

51 C.J. p 635 note 51 [a].

Reasonable or feasible point

Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bowling Green R. Co., 63 S.W. 4, 110 Ky. 788, 23 Ky.L.Rep. 273.

9. Pa.—Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 52 A. 88, 203 Pa. 176—Kushequa R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, S. & R. Co., 50 A. 169, 200 Pa. 526.
51 C.J. p 635 note 52.

10. Ala.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 68 So. 905, 192 Ala. 136
51 C.J. p 635 note 53.

11. Ala.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 635 note 54.

12. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Greensburg, etc., R. Co., 35 A. 122, 176 Pa. 559, 36 L.R.A. 839

13. Ill.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 97 Ill. 506.
51 C.J. p 636 note 56.

14. Wash.—Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 34 P. 551, 7 Wash. 150, 38 Am.S.R. 866, 22 L.R.A. 217.

15. Wash.—Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra.

16. Pa.—Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 52 A. 88, 203 Pa. 176.
51 C.J. p 636 note 59.

17. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 12, 15 Pa. Co. 454.
Wash.—Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 34 P. 551, 7 Wash. 150, 38 Am.S.R. 866, 22 L.R.A. 217.

18. Wash.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Tacoma, R., etc., Co., 102 P. 778, 53 Wash. 682
51 C.J. p 636 note 61.

19. Ala.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 3 So. 286, 84 Ala. 570, 5 Am.S.R. 401.
51 C.J. p 636 note 62.

20. Wash.—Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 34 P. 551, 7 Wash. 150, 38 Am.S.R. 866, 22 L.R.A. 217.

21. U.S.—Arkansas, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ark., 103 F. 747.
51 C.J. p 636 note 64

22. R.I.—United Electric R. Co. v. Cranston, 128 A. 213, 46 R.I. 425

23. N.H.—City of Laconia v. Boston & M. R. R., 128 A. 350, 81 N.H. 408.

24. Ohio.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio S. & C.P. 558, 5 Ohio N.P. 83.
51 C.J. p 636 note 65.

25. Tex.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Texas R. Commission, Civ.App., 281 S.W. 1084, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 155, 275 U.S. 503, 72 L.Ed. 395.

26. Iowa.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., 173 N.W. 283, 186 Iowa 1207.
Ohio.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 21 Ohio Cir. Ct. 391, 12 Ohio Cir.Dec. 113.

27. Tex.—Galveston & W. Ry. Co. v. Galveston Electric Co., 123 S.W. 1140, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 427.

All that street railroad company could require as to the crossing of its tracks by a steam railroad would be the installation of a reasonably safe crossing and one that was in common use.—Galveston, etc., R. Co.

statute authorizing a street railroad company to cross at grade, diagonally or transversely, any railroad operated by steam or otherwise, has been held not to confer an unqualified right so to cross at a place other than the crossing of the street or highway.[28]

b. Agreement between Companies

The place and manner of crossing may be based on an agreement between the companies.

The companies may agree on the place and manner of crossing,[29] and, where one company has assented to a crossing at a particular place and the other has constructed its road with respect thereto, the former should be held to be estopped to deny the necessity for the crossing or the propriety of the place agreed on.[30] An agreement between railroads allowing the new road to cross the other at grade will not prevent the senior road from elevating its tracks.[31] On failure of an electric railroad company to construct a bridge at a crossing as required by an agreement with a railroad company whose tracks were to be crossed, the latter may recover from the former the actual damages sustained[32] without first proceeding to construct such bridge.[33]

Lessee may be bound to maintain a crossing in compliance with a contract between its lessor and another railroad.[34]

c. Crossing at, above, or below Grade

The crossing of a railroad by another at, below, or above grade is often regulated by statute.

Whether or not a crossing may be at grade, or must be above or below grade, is, in most jurisdictions, regulated by statute.[35] In the absence of any express provision it has been held that a railroad having a right to cross the tracks of another has the right to determine the manner in which it will cross.[36] However, it has also been held that, unless the manner of crossing is specifically designated by statute, it is subject to the control of a court of equity, as discussed infra § 137, and that even a statutory right to cross at grade does not give the crossing company any perverse and arbitrary right to do so, regardless of the rights of the other company and the safety of the public.[37]

The state may, in the exercise of its police power, either authorize grade crossings[38] conditionally or unconditionally[39] or prohibit them.[40] A railroad has no absolute right to cross at grade under a constitutional provision authorizing a crossing but not specifying its character,[41] or under a statute giving the right to construct a road across, under,

v. Galveston Electric Co., 123 S.W. 1140, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 427.

28. Pa.—Northern Cent. Ry. Co. v. Harrisburg & M. Electric Ry. Co., 35 A. 624, 177 Pa. 142, 34 L.R.A. 572, modified on other grounds 36 A. 321, 180 Pa. 11, followed in Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Harrisburg & M. Electric Ry. Co., 35 A. 1133, 177 Pa. 155, modified on other grounds 36 A. 321, 180 Pa. 12—The Allen St. Ry. Co. v. The Lehigh & New England R. R., 17 Pa.Dist. 810.

Reason for rule

Since the location of street railroads is ordinarily authorized only on streets and highways, such a statutory provision as the above is predicated on that fact, and, hence, the authority therein granted is necessarily applicable only to crossings at points where the railroad is crossed by a street or highway.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Harrisburg, etc., Electric R. Co., 35 A. 624, 177 Pa. St. 142, 34 L.R.A. 572—Trenton Cut-off R. Co. v. Newtown Electric St. R. Co., 8 Pa.Dist. 549.

29. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Batchelder, 100 N.E. 495, 257 Ill. 107

51 C.J. p. 636 note 69.

Kind and character of the crossing, material, and appliances are proper subjects of contract.—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Cincinnati, L. & A. Electric St. R. Co., 99 N.E. 1018, 52 Ind.App. 639

30. U.S.—Arkansas, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ark., 103 F. 747.

31. Pa.—Lehigh, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 39 Pa.Co. 432.

32. La.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Orleans-Kenner Electric Ry. Co., 100 So. 704, 156 La. 522.

Measure of damages

Where electric road, in consideration of the right to cross tracks of another railroad, agreed to construct bridge at crossing, the second railroad, on first railroad's failure to construct bridge, could recover as damages sustained the value of the bridge at time specified for delivery, as shown by proof of what it would have cost to construct bridge, and was not limited to difference in value between the property with and without the bridge.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Orleans-Kenner Electric Ry. Co., supra.

33. La.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Orleans-Kenner Electric Ry. Co., supra.

34. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central Vermont R. Co., 196 N.E. 825, 243 Mass. 56.

35. W.Va.—Tri-State Tract. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 68 S.E. 25, 67 W.Va. 389.

51 C.J. p. 636 note 73.

36. N.J.—Jersey City, etc., R. Co. v. Central R. Co., 22 A. 728, 48 N.J.Eq. 379

51 C.J. p. 637 note 74.

37. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. 173—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., 13 Pa.Co. 291.

Proper regulations as to crossing

Although an electric railway may have the right to cross the tracks of a steam railroad at grade, the former may be compelled to adopt such regulations as to the structure of its road and the general management of the cars which may be run over it at the point of crossing, as may seem most likely to afford the greatest protection to the public.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Suburban Rapid Transit Co., 11 Pa.Co. 591.

38. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport Tract. Co., 32 A. 953, 65 Conn. 410, 29 L.R.A. 367.

39. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport Tract. Co., supra.

40. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport Tract. Co., supra.

Mich.—Jackson, etc., Traction Co. v. Railroad Com'r, 87 N.W. 133, 128 Mich. 164.

41. Pa.—Kushequa R. Co. v. Pitts-or over another railroad subject to the limitation that the crossing shall not unnecessarily interfere with the road crossed,[42] but under such a statute a grade crossing will be permitted where reasonably necessary,[43] taking into consideration the relative cost of the crossings.[44]

Statutes in some jurisdictions, while not expressly prohibiting grade crossings, provide that they shall not be permitted whenever it is reasonably practicable to construct a crossing of a different character,[45] and public safety so requires.[46] Under such statutes the character of the crossing to be employed depends on the circumstances of each particular case;[47] and if, under the circumstances of the particular case, a different mode of crossing is not possible or reasonably practicable, a grade crossing should be permitted.[48] The rights of the crossing company are secondary and subordinate to those of the company to be crossed,[49] and the burden rests on the crossing company to show that no unnecessary injury will be inflicted on the other by a crossing at grade, and that such a crossing cannot reasonably be avoided.[50]

Such provisions have been held to apply to roads chartered before the passage of the act,[51] and under statutes authorizing them to cross at grade.[52] The fact that the railroad has selected a route crossing another road at a place where no other than a grade crossing is practicable is no reason for allowing a grade crossing when another practicable route avoiding such crossing could have been chosen.[53] In determining which is the crossing company, the company which first surveys and stakes out its line and fixes and adopts its grade is entitled to construct its road on that grade, and the other company, although constructing its road burg, etc., R. Co., 50 A. 169, 200 Pa. 526

51 C.J. p. 637 note 79.

42. Iowa.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 58 N.W. 918, 91 Iowa 16.

43. Iowa.—Dubuque, etc., R. Co. v. Ft. Dodge, etc., R. Co., 125 N.W. 672, 146 Iowa 666, 670.
51 C.J. p. 637 note 81

44. Iowa.—Dubuque, etc., R. Co. v. Ft. Dodge, etc., R. Co., supra

45. N.J.—In re West Jersey Traction Co., 45 A. 282, 59 N.J.Eq. 63.
Ohio.—Akron & C. J. Ry. v. Sandusky, N. & M. Elec. Ry., 32 Ohio Cir. Ct. 608, 20 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 408.
Pa.—Delaware, etc. R. Co. v. Danville, etc., R. Co., 70 A. 578, 221 Pa.St. 149.
51 C.J. p. 637 note 83

Purpose of statutes is to discourage or do away with grade crossings, as far as is reasonable or practical
Ohio.—Akron & C. J. Ry. v. Sandusky, N. & M. Elec. Ry., 32 Ohio Cir. Ct. 608, 20 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 408.
Pa.—Kushequa R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, S. & N. R. Co., 50 A. 169, 200 Pa. 526.—Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., St. R. Co., 44 A. 46, 192 Pa.St. 552

Statute relating to street railroad
Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Indianapolis, C. & S. Traction Co., 81 N.E. 487, 169 Ind. 634

46. N.J.—In re West Jersey Traction Co., 45 A. 282, 59 N.J.Eq. 63.

47. Pa.—Kushequa R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, S. & N. R. Co., 50 A. 169, 200 Pa. 526—Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens & Williams Valley St. Ry. Co., 44 A. 46, 192 Pa. 552
51 C.J. p. 637 note 84.

In absence of agreement
Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Indianapolis, C. & S. Traction Co., 81 N.E. 487, 169 Ind. 634.

Determining factors
(1) Among the factors to be considered are the location and surroundings of the proposed crossing, the character of the roads and uses made and intended to be made of them, the increased cost of construction and expense of operation, the public safety and convenience, and the interest and convenience of the road intended to be crossed.—Altoona, etc., R. Co. v. Tyrone, etc., R. Co., 28 A. 997, 160 Pa. 623.—51 C.J. p. 637 note 84 [a] (1).

(2) What is reasonably practicable is determined mainly by what is physically practicable rather than by what is financially practicable to the road seeking to cross.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Danville, etc., St. R. Co., 70 A. 578, 221 Pa.St. 149.—Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., St. R. Co., 44 A. 46, 192 Pa.St. 552.—Chester Traction Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 41 A. 449, 188 Pa.St. 105, 44 L.R.A. 269.

(3) But it has been held that the term "reasonably practicable" does not refer to engineering difficulties alone.—In re Saddle River Traction Co., N.J.Ch., 41 A. 107.

(4) The extent to which the risk may be reduced by care and the cost of an overhead crossing are not to be considered.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Danville, etc., St. R. Co., 70 A. 578, 221 Pa.St. 149.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Warren St. R. Co., 41 A. 331, 188 Pa.St. 74.

(5) Nor does the fact that the traffic on one railroad is so great that the crossings of such railroad cross another are not sufficient to enable the former to quickly move its cars across the latter constitute such an "imperious necessity" as will entitle the former company to additional grade crossings on the latter.—Chester Traction Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 41 A. 449, 188 Pa.St. 105, 44 L.R.A. 269.

(6) If overhead crossings can be built, other considerations are immaterial.—Allen St. R. Co. v. Lehigh & New England R. R., 17 Pa.Dist. 810.

48. Del.—New Castle, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware R. Co., 68 A. 386, 8 Del.Ch. 419
51 C.J. p. 637 note 85.

Avoidance of grade crossing held practicable
Pa.—Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., St. R. Co., 44 A. 46, 192 Pa.St. 552.—Chester Traction Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 41 A. 449, 188 Pa.St. 105, 44 L.R.A. 269.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Warren St. R. Co., 41 A. 333, 188 Pa.St. 85.—Scranton, etc., Traction Co. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 37 A. 122, 180 Pa.St. 636.
51 C.J. p. 637 note 85 [b]

49. Pa.—Kushequa R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, S. & N. R. Co., 50 A. 169, 200 Pa. 526.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., 13 Pa.Co.Ct. 291.

50. Pa.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., supra

51. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. 173.

52. Pa.—Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 24 A. 709, 150 Pa. 193
51 C.J. p. 637 note 87

53. Ohio.—Toledo R., etc., Co. v. Lima, etc., Tract. Co., 86 N.E. 515, 79 Ohio St. 136
Pa.—Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 24 A. 709, 150 Pa. 193.

first, must so construct it as to avoid a grade crossing if practicable to do so.[54]

Where one railroad company crosses another by an overhead bridge, it is not required to maintain telltales to warn trainmen of the latter road of the danger,[55] but where one railroad crosses another by a bridge not originally intended for railroad purposes, the latter company is entitled to demand that it shall be strengthened and made safe for such use.[56]

A statute prohibiting grade crossings when practicable has been held applicable to the crossings of steam railroads by electric and street railroads;[57] and it is held that a statute subsequently enacted, authorizing street railroads to cross steam railroads at grade, is not intended to divest courts of equity of the power conferred by the prior statute to prevent grade crossings when practicable to do so.[58] A general statute prohibiting grade crossings by street railways except on application to, and approval by, the railroad commissioners does not apply to a street railway authorized to cross at grade by a special act passed before the general act took effect.[59]

d. Expense of Crossing

(1) In general
(2) Agreements between companies
(3) Remedies

(1) In general

Ordinarily the crossing company for whose benefit a crossing is made is under a duty to defray the entire cost of constructing the crossing and keeping it in repair.

Where one railroad crosses the track of another, it is ordinarily the duty of the crossing company at whose instance and for whose benefit the crossing is made to defray the entire expense of its construction in the first instance,[60] and subsequently to keep the crossing in repair,[61] and also to defray the expense of installing and maintaining whatever system of signals, safety devices, or precautions may be necessary for the public safety in the use of the crossing,[62] although it is held that seniority alone does not determine how the cost of constructing and maintaining such devices is to be borne,[63] and these rules have been held to apply to crossings by street railways of steam railroads.[64] A senior road does not become a junior road in relation to another road constructed after it by reason of an improvement of the senior road.[65]

54. Pa.—Kushequa R. Co. v Pittsburg, etc, R. Co, 50 A. 169, 200 Pa 526.

55. N.Y.—Neff v New York Cent, etc, R. Co., 30 N.Y.S 323, 80 Hun 394

56. Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co v Greensburg, etc, Electric St R Co, 35 A. 122, 176 Pa 559, 36 L R A 839.

57. Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Braddock Electric R Co, 25 A 780, 152 Pa St 116—Allen St Ry. Co. v. Lehigh & New England R R., 17 Pa Dist 810
51 C J. p 638 note 92.

58. Pa.—Williams Valley R Co. v Lykens, etc, St R Co, 44 A. 46, 192 Pa. 552.
51 C J. p 638 note 93.

59. Conn.—New York, etc, R Co. v Bridgeport Tract Co, 32 A 953, 65 Conn. 410, 29 L R A 367.

60. Ark.—St. Louis, etc, R Co. v Ft. Smith, etc., R Co, 148 S W 531, 104 Ark. 344.
51 C J. p 638 note 95.

61. Md.—Central Pass. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R Co., 52 A. 752, 95 Md. 428
51 C.J. p 638 note 96.

62. N J.—West Jersey, etc, R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc, Tract. Co., 56 A. 890, 65 N.J.Eq. 613
Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 94 P 907, 49 Wash. 78.

63. N Y.—People v Public Service Commission, 168 N Y S 331, 180 App Div. 773
51 C J p 638 note 98.

Constitutional immunity

Railroad has no constitutional immunity from having to contribute to cost of safeguarding crossing with another railroad merely because former was built before crossing was made.—Nashville, C. & St. L Ry. v Walters, Tenn, 55 S Ct. 486, 294 U. S. 405, 79 L Ed 949.

64. Ind.—Chicago, etc., Terminal R. Co v Whiting, etc., St. R. Co, 38 N.E 604, 139 Ind. 297, 47 Am.S R. 264, 26 L R A 337.
N J.—West Jersey, etc, R Co. v. Atlantic City, etc, Traction Co., 56 A 890, 65 N J Eq. 613.
51 C J. p 638 note 99

Duty to repair is on junior street railroad

Ga.—Macon Ry & Light Co. v. Southern Ry. Co, 110 S.E. 912, 28 Ga.App. 339
Mich.—Pere Marquette Ry. Co v. Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 188 N.W. 515, 218 Mich. 307.

Uncompensated crossing

Where a street railroad constructs its tracks crossing the tracks of an existing railroad company, under its right to do so without compensation, it cannot thereby impose on the railroad company any added burden in maintaining its tracks, so that the street railroad is required to bear the entire expense of repairing the frogs at the crossing, in the absence of any statutory provision to the contrary.—Pere Marquette Ry. Co v Michigan Public Utilities Commission, supra

Change of crossing

A street railroad company, the right of which to cross a railroad has been determined, has the right, if it is not its duty, on the old crossing wearing out, to put in a more modern one, which is an improvement.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v Hamond-Whiting, etc., Electric R. Co, 46 N.E. 999, 151 Ind 577.

65. U.S.—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v Old Colony Trust Co, Iowa, 216 F. 577, 132 C.C A. 581

Scrambling possession

Where defendant's first railroad track was laid years before plaintiff's intersecting street car track and defendant started to lay a second track before plaintiff, but plaintiff procured possession of crossing from fifteen minutes to an hour prior to defendant by proceeding to erect a second track at night, it was held that "scrambling possession" of plaintiff conferred no rights on it, and that it was liable for expenses of installing and maintaining crossing.—Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 173 N.W. 81, 186 Iowa 630.

A railroad is not liable for half the expense of a stationary flagman at a crossing when it derives no benefit therefrom,[66] nor will an order of a commission, requiring that a flagman be sent ahead at crossings, create any joint liability for the maintenance of a stationary flagman at the crossing.[67] Each company, however, owes a duty to the public as a common carrier to see that a grade crossing is kept in good repair, and either may and should make such repairs as are necessary,[68] unless the crossing is above or below grade,[69] and the company making them may recover from the other company if as between the companies it was the duty of the latter to do so,[70] or it may recover the proportion due from the other company where such expense is imposed by statute on the companies jointly.[71] Where, however, the safety of the public intervenes and requires a crossing of a particular character, to the necessity of which each of the roads contributes, the cost of construction should be apportioned,[72] and this is true where the safety of the public requires the installation of safety appliances at a crossing.[73] In some jurisdictions the question of the expense incident to the construction or maintenance of crossings and crossing appliances or its apportionment between the companies is regulated by statute.[74]

When the expense of construction and maintenance is to be apportioned, the amount for which each company may be assessed may be in proportion to the number of trains each operates over the crossing,[75] but it is held that the number of trains operated need not be taken arbitrarily as determinative of the amount to be assessed each road.[76] A city ordinance requiring apportionment of expenses of maintaining common crossings of street railroads in public streets has been held to apply to crossings of one steam railroad by another in a public street.[77]

Municipality operating street railway A municipality operating a street railway does not, in determining its right to require a railroad to construct a crossing over the tracks of the street railway, enjoy the status of a governmental agency.[78] The municipality in such a case is subject to same rules with respect to the cost of constructing and maintaining a crossing over the tracks of another railroad as is a private company,[79] and, where such cost and expense are imposed on a company seeking to cross another railroad, the municipality cannot impose the cost and expense on the railroad company whose tracks are to be crossed, under the guise of its sovereign privilege of regulation.[80]

(2) Agreements between Companies

As a general rule the companies may by valid agreement fix their respective rights and liabilities with respect to the cost of constructing and maintaining the crossing.

As a general rule it is competent for the companies to agree between themselves both as to the payment of the cost of original construction[81] and of subsequent maintenance and repairs,[82] even

66. La.—New Orleans Terminal Co. v. Pontchartrain R. Co., 99 So. 424, 155 La. 517

67. La.—New Orleans Terminal Co. v. Pontchartrain R. Co., supra.

68. Ga.—Macon R., etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 110 S.E. 912, 28 Ga.App. 339

Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 388, 44 Am.R. 799.

69. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 142.

70. Ga.—Macon R., etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 110 S.E. 912, 28 Ga.App. 339.

Md.—Central Pass. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 52 A. 752, 95 Md. 428.

71. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Ft. Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction Co., 138 N.E. 759, 193 Ind. 405

Ohio.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 16 N.E. 475, 45 Ohio St. 577

51 C.J. p 639 note 8.

72. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa.Dist. 12, 15 Pa.Co. 445, 454.

73. Mich.—Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Comr., 86 N.W. 842, 127 Mich. 219, 62 L.R.A. 149

74. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 161 P. 850, 94 Wash. 10.

51 C.J. p 639 note 11.

Statute as to street railway companies

Ohio.—The Northern Ohio Traction & Light Company v. City of Akron, 23 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 497.

75. Mo.—State v. Public Service Commission, 204 S.W. 531, 275 Mo. 72.

76. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 176 P. 539, 104 Wash. 405.

77. La.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans Terminal Co., 45 So. 962, 120 La. 978

51 C.J. p 640 note 14.

78. La.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. City of Monroe, 115 So. 136, 164 La. 1033.

79. La.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. City of Monroe, supra.

80. La.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. City of Monroe, supra.

Municipality must construct crossing at its own expense where it is the junior road.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. City of Monroe, supra.

Ordinance held ultra vires

La.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. City of Monroe, supra.

81. Ill.—Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. East St. Louis C. & W. Ry. v. East St. Louis & C. Ry. Co., 198 N.E. 716, 361 Ill. 606.

Mo.—State v. Public Service Commission, 204 S.W. 531, 275 Mo. 72

51 C.J. p 640 note 15.

82. Ind.—New Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 146 N.E. 111, 89 Ind.App. 205

51 C.J. p 640 note 16.

Expense resulting from relocation and extension of tracks

Tex.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., Civ. App., 59 S.W.2d 295.

Construction of contracts

(1) Where the purpose of the contract between the railroad company and a crossing street railroad company was to provide for the joint payment of expenses incurred by the two companies in their joint use of the crossing, it did not require the street railroad to pay one half of

though the regulation of such crossings is vested in a commission[83] or a court,[84] and such contracts have been held valid and binding as between the parties,[85] although such agreements have also been held void as against public policy.[86] Such an agreement includes the cost of maintaining an interlocker ordered by a commission.[87] Where it is necessary to apportion any expense incident to the construction and maintenance of a crossing, the court or commissioners should consider and give effect to any existing contracts between the companies relative thereto.[88]

The right to cross has been held a sufficient consideration to support a contract for construction and maintenance of the crossing,[89] but the contrary is held where the crossing road had such right independently of the other's consent,[90] although the contract is not unenforceable if there are present other elements constituting a valid consideration.[91] Thus, consent by the railroad to the crossing, without requiring proceedings to secure the right to cross, is sufficient consideration for a street railway's agreement to construct and maintain the crossing.[92] So a contract imposing an obligation on the crossing railroad or street railway to pay part of the cost of maintaining the crossing, which contains mutual promises and benefits independent of the right to cross, is not without consideration the wages of a gateman who operated the gates at the crossing, which the railroad was required by city ordinance to install, but who merely lowered and raised the gates on the approach and passing of trains, and gave no signals to the street cars, which were still required to be flagged by their conductors.—Southern Ry. Co v. South Carolina Light, Power & Rys. Co., 112 S E 75, 119 S C 162

(2) A contract between crossing railroads for contribution to expense of maintaining a flagman "whenever ordinances shall require" included ordinance theretofore existing—Illinois Cent. R. Co v Waterloo, C F. & N Ry. Co., 164 N.W 208, 182 Iowa 550, modified on other grounds 165 N W. 993.

(3) A contract between a railroad and a street railroad relating to the apportionment of cost for maintenance and repair of overhead bridge on which street railway maintained a double track railway was held to embrace the subsequent rebuilding of the bridge in accordance with directions of the public service commission, in that "renew," as used in the contract, naturally means to make new again, while "repair" is to mend—Pennsylvania R. Co v Pennsylvania-Ohio Electric Co, 145 A. 686, 296 Pa. 40.

83. Ill.—Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel East St Louis, C & W. Ry v East St. Louis & C. Ry. Co., 198 N E 716, 316 Ill 606
Mass—New York Cent R. Co. v Central Vermont R Co, 136 N E. 825, 243 Mass 56
Pa—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania-Ohio Electric Co, 145 A. 686, 296 Pa. 40.
51 C J. p 640 note 17.
Powers of commission relating to apportionment, or fixing of liability for, expenses see infra § 136.

Effect of order of commission

Contract of street railway company with railroad company to pay half the expense, if at any time it shall become necessary to maintain watchmen at their crossings, was unaffected by order of public service commission, in proceeding against railroad company, alone, and without knowledge of the contract, simply directing railroad company to provide watchmen; such order of the public service commission that railroad company provide watchmen at grade crossings makes them necessary, within the contract—Director General of Railroads v. West Penn Rys Co., 126 A. 767, 281 Pa 309.

Order annulling contract

Statutes requiring railroads to provide adequate service, statutes relating to highway grade crossings, statutes relative to apportionment of expense of effecting crossing between railroad lines, and statute relative to safety regulations for crossings, held inapplicable on question of jurisdiction of Illinois commerce commission to enter order annulling contract which apportioned between railroads cost of maintaining interlocking plant—Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel East St Louis, C. & W. Ry. v East St Louis & C. Ry. Co., 198 N.E 716, 361 Ill. 606.

84. Ind—Baltimore, etc, R. Co. v Wabash R Co., 67 N E 544, 31 Ind App 201.

85. U S—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v Old Colony Trust Co, Iowa, 216 F. 577, 132 C C A 581.
51 C J. p 640 note 19.

Repairs under common duty to public

Where one of the companies makes necessary repairs to a grade crossing under its common duty to the public to keep the crossing in good repair, it may recover the cost thereof from the other company which, under the contract between the two, is obligated to make such repairs.
Ill—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, etc., R Co., 105 Ill. 388, 44 Am.R 799.
Ky—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Central Kentucky Traction Co, 144 S W 739, 147 Ky. 513, Ann Cas. 1915A 857
51 C J p 639 note 7.

86. Ind—Vandalia R. Co v. Ft. Wayne, etc, Tract. Co, 118 N E 839, 68 Ind App. 120.

As to expense of repair

Ind.—Terre Haute, I. & W. Traction Co v Ross, 138 N E. 90, 84 Ind App 697, rehearing denied 139 N.E 295, 84 Ind App. 697

87. N Y—People v. Public Service Commission, 168 N Y S. 331, 180 App Div 773

88. Ind.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co v. Hunt, 81 N E 524, 40 Ind App. 168

89. Ohio—Harmon v. Toledo, etc, Tract. Co, 21 Ohio N.P,N S., 76.

Contract to share expense

The granting by a railroad to a street railroad company of permission to cross the right of way of the former is sufficient consideration for a contract whereby the street railroad company agreed to pay one half the expense of maintaining a flagman or lights at the crossing, if they were required by city ordinance, even though the railroad did not own the fee of the right of way.—Southern Ry. Co. v. South Carolina Light, Power & Rys Co., 112 S E. 75, 119 S.C 162.

90. Ind.—Terre Haute, I. & W Traction Co. v. Ross, 138 N.E. 90, 84 Ind.App 697, rehearing denied 139 N.E. 295, 84 Ind App. 697—Union Traction Co. of Indiana v. Ross, 125 N E. 72, 71 Ind App. 473.
51 C J. p 640 note 23.

91. U.S—Northern Ohio Traction & Light Co. v. Erie R Co., C.C.A Ohio, 8 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 46 S Ct. 350, 270 U.S. 650, 70 L Ed 780.

92. W.Va.—Steubenville, etc, Tract Co v. Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co, 142 S E 257, 105 W.Va 276.

merely because the right to cross exists apart from the contract.[93] The implied obligation in a contract between a street railway company and a railroad company for the latter's maintenance of gates at the crossing has been held to constitute sufficient consideration for the contract placing the larger part of maintaining the crossing on the street railway company, notwithstanding a statute requires the expense to be borne jointly.[94] The adjustment of controverted questions between a railroad and a street railroad relative to the right of the latter to use an overhead bridge for tracks, together with the settlement of pending litigation involving such right, afforded ample consideration for a contract apportioning the cost of maintenance of the bridge between the railroad and the street railroad.[95] In a suit between crossing railroads on a contract provision relating to contribution towards a particular expense of maintaining the crossing, other covenants may furnish the consideration to sustain the one on which the action is based.[96]

Agreements to maintain the crossing at the expense of one railroad are binding on the lessee of that road,[97] and a covenant in the lease which binds a lessee to perform all contracts of the lessor runs with the land so as to bind an assignee of the lease.[98]

(3) Remedies

Contracts relating to the cost of repairing the crossing may be enforced in the courts.

The question of the enforcement of a contract between a railroad company and a street railway company as to the expense of repairing a crossing has been held to be for the courts.[99] When the assignee of a lease is bound to repair a crossing in accordance with the lessor's agreement, the assignee may be sued by the other road to recover expenses incurred by it in making repairs which the assignee was bound to make,[1] without first obtaining an apportionment of the expenses by the railroad commission.[2]

General rules govern the pleadings in actions to enforce agreements with respect to the expense of constructing and maintaining a crossing.[3] A petition alleging a judgment requiring a railroad to maintain a crossing and its failure to do so states a cause of action.[4] Findings in such an action must be supported by the evidence.[5]

e. Injunction

Equity may enjoin a railroad company from crossing the tracks of another railroad company in an arbitrary or oppressive manner unnecessarily prejudicial to the rights of the latter.

A court of equity may enjoin one railroad company from exercising its right of crossing in an arbitrary and oppressive manner unnecessarily prejudicial to the rights of the other company,[6] and may enjoin the construction of a crossing at grade, where the statute provides that such crossings shall be prevented wherever it is practicable to do so,[7] or provides that the crossing shall be so constructed as not unnecessarily to impede the travel and transportation on the road crossed, and a grade crossing would, under the circumstances, constitute

93. U.S.—Northern Ohio Traction & Light Co. v. Erie R. Co., C.C.A. Ohio, 8 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 350, 270 U.S. 650, 70 L.Ed. 780.
Ky.—Owensboro City R. Co. v. Louisville, H. & St. L. Ry. Co., 178 S.W. 1043, 165 Ky. 683.
Mutual protection
When the rights of intersecting roads are equal, and the law and the terms of their franchises leave unsettled the details as to the manner in which the crossing is to be effected, maintained, and guarded, the mutual protection of the roads from the perils of the crossing alone furnishes a sufficient consideration for any contract they may make, and courts will not inquire into the manner in which the burden imposed by the contract is adjusted between the parties; hence, a contract, whereby a railroad whose tracks crossed a city street agreed to permit a street railroad to cross its tracks, the latter agreeing to construct and maintain the crossing at its own expense, and in a manner satisfactory to the railroad, was supported by a valid consideration, although the street railroad had under its franchise a right to use the street.—Evansville & S. I. Traction Co. v. Evansville Belt Ry. Co., 87 N.E. 21, 44 Ind.App. 155.

94. U.S.—Erie R. Co. v. Cleveland Ry. Co., C.C.A. Ohio, 15 F.2d 374.

95. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania-Ohio Electric Co., 145 A. 686, 296 Pa. 40.

96. Iowa.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 208, 182 Iowa 550, modified on other grounds 165 N.W. 993.

97. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central Vermont R. Co., 136 N.E. 825, 243 Mass. 56.
Pa.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Schuylkill R. Co., 11 Pa.Dist. & Co. 15.

98. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central Vermont R. Co., 136 N.E. 825, 243 Mass. 56.

99. Pa.—Schuylkill Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 85 Pa.Super.Ct. 259.

1. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central Vermont R. Co., 136 N.E. 825, 243 Mass. 56.

2. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central Vermont R. Co., supra.

3. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Ft. Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction Co., 138 N.E. 759, 193 Ind. 405.

4. Ohio.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 153 N.E. 295, 21 Ohio App. 231, affirmed 150 N.E. 621, 114 Ohio St. 98.

5. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central Vermont R. Co., 136 N.E. 825, 243 Mass. 56.
51 C.J. p. 640 note 32.

6. N.J.—West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc., Tract. Co., 56 A. 890, 65 N.J.Eq. 613.
51 C.J. p. 641 note 33.

7. Pa.—Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., R. Co., 44 A. 46, 192 Pa. 552.
51 C.J. p. 641 note 34.
Enjoining crossing generally see supra § 133 d.

an unnecessary interference therewith,[8] but, in the absence of statutory provisions as to the method of crossing, a court of equity cannot enjoin a grade crossing[9] except where, under the circumstances of the case, a grade crossing is not necessary and would materially interfere with the operation of the road crossed.[10] A bill by one railroad company to enjoin another from crossing its track on a highway at grade will be dismissed on the requisite authority for such a crossing being obtained from the county commissioners after the filing of the bill,[11] and the court will not require a trestle, constructed and used by the crossing company as a temporary substitute for a bridge, to be removed from property of the other company, which is not in actual use.[12]

Where, by statute, a court of equity must ascertain the mode of crossing to be used, an injunction will be granted restraining a crossing until after the decree determining the mode.[13] Where a railroad has been granted a crossing over another road, it cannot enjoin its grantor from subsequently altering its own road.[14] A railroad will not be enjoined from constructing a crossing in a manner authorized by a valid conclusive order of a railroad commission,[15] but where the order merely authorizes a crossing, a court of equity will enjoin the construction of a dangerous crossing.[16] Where the petition seeks only an injunction, the court cannot prescribe a crossing of a particular character.[17]

Street railroad. In the absence of constitutional or statutory provisions as to the method of crossing, equity will not enjoin a street railroad operating on a street or highway from crossing at grade the tracks of a steam railroad crossing such street or highway,[18] on the mere ground that the operation of the trains of the steam railroad company will be inconvenienced and the dangers of the street crossing increased,[19] unless it appears that the crossing company is insolvent,[20] or that the injury is irreparable,[21] or the proposed crossing will amount to a public nuisance.[22] Also, the mere fact that the street railroad company proceeds ultra vires or usurps a franchise does not give the steam railroad company any standing to ask for such an injunction unless it suffers some special damage differing in kind from that suffered by the rest of the community.[23]

8. Iowa—Chicago, etc, R. Co v Chicago, etc., R. Co, 58 N.W 918, 91 Iowa 16—Humeston, etc, R Co v Chicago, etc, R Co, 38 N.W. 413, 74 Iowa 554.

9. U S—Union R Co v Illinois Cent R. Co, Tenn, 207 F 745, 125 C C A 283, certiorari denied 34 S Ct 323, 231 U.S 754, 58 L Ed. 467
Ky—Elizabethtown, etc, R Co v Ashland, etc, St. R Co., 26 S W 181, 96 Ky 347, 16 Ky.L 42.

10. U S—Union R. Co. v. Illinois Cent R Co., Tenn, 207 F. 745, 125 C.C A 283, certiorari denied 34 S Ct 323, 231 U S 754, 58 L Ed 467—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, C.C Ill., 5 F Cas No 2,665, 6 Biss. 219

11. Mass.—Lynn, etc, R Co. v Boston, etc, R. Co, 114 Mass 88.

12. Pa—Appeal of Philadelphia R. Co, 2 Walk 243.

13. Pa—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R Co, 7 Pa.Co. 491.

14. N.Y—Buffalo Creek R Co v New York Cent. R. Co, 160 N Y S 546, 96 Misc 462
Pa—Lehigh, etc., R. Co v Delaware, etc., R Co, 87 A. 709, 240 Pa. 401.

15. Ky—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc, R Co, 58 S W 799, 22 Ky L 658.

16. Va.—Southern R. Co v Washington, etc, R. Co., 46 S E. 784, 102 Va. 483.
51 C J p 641 note 44.

17. Tex—Galveston, etc, R. Co. v. Galveston Electric Co, 123 S.W 1140, 58 Tex Civ App. 427.

18. U S—Pennsylvania Co v. Lake Erie, etc., R Co, C C Ohio, 146 F 446
Del.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Wilmington City R. Co., 38 A. 1067, 8 Del Ch 134.
Ga—Southern R Co v. Atlanta R, etc, Co, 36 S.E. 873, 111 Ga. 679, 51 L R A 125.
Ind—South East, etc, R. Co. v. Evansville, etc, Electric R. Co, 82 N E 765, 169 Ind. 339, 13 L R A,N S, 916, 14 Ann Cas. 214—Evansville, etc., Traction Co. v. Evansville Belt R. Co., 87 N E 21, 44 Ind App 155—Michigan Cent. R Co. v. Hammond, etc., Electric R. Co., 83 N E 650, 42 Ind App 66.
Ohio—Cleveland, etc, R Co. v Urbana, etc, R. Co, 26 Ohio Cir Ct 180

Where railroad company has located but not constructed a branch across a public road, it may sue to enjoin a street railway company from constructing its road across such branch at grade until the rights of the parties at the crossing are adjusted—Ohio River Junction R. Co. v. Freedom, etc, R. Co., 53 A. 773, 204 Pa 127.

19. U S.—East St. Louis R Co v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Ill., 149 F. 159, 79 C C.A 107.
Conn—New York, N H. & H R Co. v. Bridgeport Traction Co., 32 A. 953, 65 Conn 410, 29 L.R A 367.
Ky—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bowling Green R Co., 63 S W. 4, 110 Ky. 788, 23 Ky L Rep 273.
Ohio—Cleveland, etc, R Co. v. Urbana, etc., R. Co., 26 Ohio Cir Ct. 180.

Preliminary injunction

Where, in a suit by a steam railroad to restrain a street railway company from laying its tracks at grade over the tracks of the steam railroad, it appeared that the street was so closely built up that no view of coming trains could be had until the crossing was reached, that fourteen trains passed across the street daily, that because of a neighboring switch a large amount of shifting across the street was required, and that many vehicles and pedestrians passed hourly, a preliminary injunction to maintain the status quo was held proper—Delaware, etc., R. Co v. Danville, etc., R. Co., 61 A. 80, 211 Pa.St. 591.

20. Ala.—Highland Ave, etc, R. Co. v. Birmingham Union R. Co., 9 So 568, 93 Ala. 505.

21. Ala—Highland Ave., etc, R. Co v. Birmingham Union R. Co, supra.

22. Ala—Highland Ave, etc, R Co. v. Birmingham R, etc., Co, 21 So. 342, 113 Ala 239.

23. Del.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Wilmington City R. Co., 38 A. 1067, 8 Del Ch 134.
N J.—Consolidated Traction Co. v. South Orange, etc, Traction Co, 40 A 15, 56 N.J Eq. 569—West Jersey R Co. v. Camden, etc, R. Co., 29 A. 423, 52 N.J Eq 31—Mor-

Where the street railroad company is proceeding in a lawful and proper manner, the court will enjoin the railroad company whose tracks are to be crossed from interfering with the work of construction[24] or from interfering with the crossing or its use after it is constructed.[25] Where, by statute, the place and manner of crossing is to be determined by the court, the court in an action by a railroad to enjoin a street railway from crossing its tracks will not restrain the company whose tracks are to be crossed from interfering with the street railroad company in laying its tracks,[26] except to maintain or restore the status quo[27]

§ 135. Determination as to Necessity, Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossing

The legislature may regulate, or provide for the regulation of, the crossing of one railroad by another.

Under the general powers of control and regulation of railroads, as discussed supra §§ 27–30, the legislature may regulate the crossing of one railroad by another,[28] and such regulation is a valid exercise of the police power.[29] Where the railroad has a right to cross by virtue of a constitutional provision, as discussed supra § 133, the legislature cannot destroy such right,[30] but a statute requiring consent of a commission to a grade crossing does not deprive the railroad of its constitutional right.[31] The necessity for the crossing of one railroad by another is, in some cases, decided by the legislature itself.[32] Where a special procedure relative to crossings is provided by statute, it must be followed,[33] and the general provisions as to acquiring property for railroad purposes or determining the rights of other property owners are not applicable.[34]

In some jurisdictions the statutes conferring the right to cross provide that if the companies are unable to agree as to the compensation, place, and manner of crossing, these questions shall be determined by commissioners appointed by the court, as discussed infra § 136 b. Under other statutes these questions are to be determined by railroad commissioners, as considered infra § 136 a, and under others the place and manner of crossing are to be determined by courts of equity or other designated courts, as discussed infra § 137.

§ 136. —— Powers and Proceedings of Commissioners

a. In general
b. Commissioners appointed by courts

a. In General

The regulation and determination of the place and manner of crossings by one railroad over the tracks of another are, under many statutes, in a board of commissioners.

As discussed supra § 29, in many jurisdictions the regulation and control of railroads are vested in a commission or board of commissioners, and the statutes creating such a board give to the commission the right to regulate and determine all questions relating to the place and manner of crossings.[35] Such statutes have been held to give the commission power to order the raising of the grade ris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark Pass. R. Co., 29 A. 184, 51 N.J.Eq. 379, affirmed 31 A. 383, 52 N.J.Eq. 340.

Who may complain

Remedies to restrain, abate, or punish a public nuisance are to be invoked by the public officials who are charged with the duty in that respect and not by a mere volunteer, who is without special cause of complaint.—West Jersey R. Co. v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 29 A. 423, 52 N.J.Eq. 31.

Injury to property of railroad was held sufficient basis for injunction against street railroad attempting to build its tracks across those of the railroad at grade without authority—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. General Electric R. Co., 79 Ill.App. 569.

24. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Whiting, etc., St. R. Co., 38 N.E. 604, 139 Ind. 297, 47 Am.S.R. 264, 26 L.R.A. 337.

25. Pa.—Du Bois Traction Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 24 A. 179, 149 Pa. St. 1.

26. N.M.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., 113 P. 813, 16 N.M. 163

27. N.M.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., supra.

Mandatory injunction

N.M.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., supra.

28. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. 173.

Wash.—State v. Kuykendall, 222 P. 211, 128 Wash. 88.

29. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Puget Sound, etc., R. Co., Wash., 39 S.Ct. 474, 250 U.S. 332, 63 L.Ed. 1013.

30. Wash.—State v. Kuykendall, 222 P. 211, 128 Wash. 88.

31. S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 72 S.E. 18, 89 S.C. 472.

32. Wis.—In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 107 N.W. 496, 127 Wis. 641.

33. N.Y.—In re New York, etc., R. Co., 18 N.E. 120, 110 N.Y. 374. 51 C.J. p. 642 note 58.

Public is not affected where there is separation of crossing between two lines of railroad—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Paul & K. C. Short Line R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 92 S.W.2d 126, 338 Mo. 724.

34. Vt.—Central Vermont R. Co. v. Woodstock R. Co., 50 Vt. 452

35. Ill.—Chicago, P. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Jacksonville Ry. & Light Co., 91 N.E. 1024, 245 Ill. 155

Mich.—Pere Marquette Ry. Co. v. Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 188 N.W. 515, 218 Mich. 307.

N.H.—City of Laconia v. Boston & M. R. R., 128 A. 350, 81 N.H. 408.

N.Y.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Chautauqua Traction Co., 104 N.Y.S. 550, 54 Misc. 275.

51 C.J. p. 642 note 61, p. 641 note 56.

As to fixing liability for, or apportioning, expense

(1) Powers of commission under particular statutes generally.

of the senior road to enable the junior road to cross at grade,[36] or to require the installation of interlocking devices at grade crossings;[37] and it has been held that a municipal grant of the right to lay track in a street is subject to the right of the commission to regulate a crossing of another track previously laid.[38]

It has been held that the commission has no jurisdiction to determine the rights of the parties in an attempt by one road to take part of another's right of way where there is no intersection or union of the respective tracks;[39] nor has it jurisdiction to enforce contracts for the repair and maintenance of a crossing.[40] When no restrictions are placed on the commission as to the time and conditions on which it will approve a crossing, it may withhold its consent altogether[41] or grant it on such terms as it sees fit,[42] and where consent is secured on condition, the railroad has no absolute right to cross[43] without compliance with the orders of the commission.[44]

The order of a commission is sufficient authority for a railroad to enter on the right of way of another road for the purpose of constructing an interlocking system at the crossing.[45] The railroad commission cannot require the installation of a certain type of safety device where the railroads have agreed to another type equally safe.[46] Where the commission has made its final determination as to the necessity, place, mode, and compensation for the crossing, its authority is at an end,[47] and it cannot modify or change its decision.[48]

Street and electric railroads. As considered supra § 29, in some jurisdictions statutes giving supervision of railroads to the railroad commission have been held not to extend to electric roads, and in such case the commission has no jurisdiction to entertain an application for a crossing between a

Mich—Michigan Air Line Ry v Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 188 N.W 520, 218 Mich 320—Pere Marquette Ry. Co v Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 188 N W. 515, 218 Mich. 307.

N H—City of Laconia v. Boston & M R. R, 128 A. 350, 81 N H 408

51 C.J. p 642 note 61 [c] (1), (2), [d], [f], [h] (4), [i] (2), (4), p 639 note 11 [a], [c], [e] (2)

(2) Illinois commerce commission was held without jurisdiction to enter order annulling contract which apportioned between railroads cost of maintaining interlocking plant at crossing of lines, although contract injuriously affected net income of one of railroads.—Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. East St Louis C & W Ry. v. East St. Louis & C. Ry Co, 198 N.E. 716, 361 Ill. 606.

(3) The public service commission, in allocating cost of installing and operating an interlocking switch and signal mechanism at place where tracks of two railroads crossed, was not bound to adopt allocation agreed to by railroads a number of years before relative to an entirely different system, which was to cost about seven times as much, even though contract had been approved by commission, where approval was conditioned on immediate construction of system and nothing was done for many years.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 193 A. 127, 127 Pa Super. 544.

Approval of interstate commerce commission

(1) State railway commission could fix place and manner of crossing of railroad spur tracks, notwithstanding applicant's failure to secure certificate from interstate commerce commission for building proposed track—St Louis Southwestern Ry Co v. Missouri Pac R Co, Ark, 53 S Ct 516, 289 U S. 76, 77 L.Ed 1042

(2) Statutory injunction, to restrain construction of spur track or extension over another railroad without obtaining certificate from interstate commerce commission, affords competing carrier affirmative and complete remedy.—St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R Co, supra.

(3) Decree enjoining proceedings for grade crossing over another company's tracks before state commission until certificate of convenience from interstate commerce commission was obtained was held proper.—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co, C C A Ark, 41 F.2d 188, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct 74, 282 U S 866, 75 L.Ed. 765.

Matters considered by commission

On petition of one railroad for permission to cross the main line tracks of a second railroad with a spur track, where territory sought to be reached by first railroad was undeveloped, public service commission was not required to concern itself with questions of public convenience and necessity, and the dangers that inhere from the crossing by spur line of one railroad of main line tracks of second railroad at grade do not require public service commission, in exercise of its discretion, to deny authorization of such crossing if management of petitioning railroad feels that something is to be gained by such construction and crossing and if commission determines that by methods proposed crossing will be reasonably safe—Detroit & T. S L. R. Co. v. Michigan Public Service Commission, 36 N W. 2d 896, 324 Mich 195.

36. Ill.—Alton, etc, R. Co v. Vandalia R Co, 108 N E 800, 208 Ill. 68.

37. Mo.—State v Missouri Pac. R. Co, 218 S W 310, 280 Mo. 456.

51 C.J. p 643 note 63.

38. Ill—Chicago, etc, Tract. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co, 92 N.E 583, 246 Ill. 146.

39. Kan—Atchison, etc, R Co v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co, 70 P. 939, 73 P. 899, 67 Kan 569

40. Pa—Schuylkill R Co. v State Public Service Commission, 85 Pa Super. 259.

41. S.C—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 72 S E. 18, 89 S C. 472.

42. S C—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State R. Commission, supra

51 C J. p 643 note 68.

43. S.C—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State R Commission, supra—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v Seaboard Air Line R Co, 71 S E. 84, 88 S.C. 464.

44. S.C—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R Co, 71 S. E. 34, 88 S C. 464

45. Mo.—State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 218 S W. 310, 280 Mo 456.

46. N.C—State Corp. Commission v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 92 S. E 150, 173 N C. 413.

47. Kan.—Union Terminal R. Co. v. Railroad Comrs., 38 P 290, 54 Kan. 352.

48. Me.—Boston, etc., R. Co v. Saco Valley Electric R. Co, 86 A. 202, 98 Me. 78.

51 C.J. p 643 note 73.

steam and an electric railroad,[49] and an order approving or defining the mode and character of the crossing is not a condition precedent to the right to cross.[50] However, some statutes expressly extend jurisdiction of the commission to street or electric railroads in so far as a crossing over another railroad is concerned.[51] A constitutional provision prohibiting the passage of any law granting the right to construct and operate a street railroad within any municipality without consent of the municipality has been held not to preclude passage of a statute giving to a railroad commission jurisdiction to determine the manner in which one railroad shall cross another in so far as it relates to crossings within the streets of municipalities.[52]

b. Commissioners Appointed by Courts

Under some statutes where the companies involved fail to agree on the place and manner of crossing the questions are determined by commissioners appointed by the court.

In some jurisdictions statutes conferring the right to cross provide that if the companies are unable to agree as to the compensation, place, and manner of crossing the court will appoint commissioners to determine these questions,[53] and under some of these statutes it is held that an attempt and failure to agree are a necessary condition precedent to the right to invoke the legal proceeding provided for.[54] Such statutes have been held applicable to crossings of street and steam railways.[55] Under such statutes the court will not on an application for the appointment of commissioners, pass on any questions with respect to the crossing which it is the province of the commissioners to determine.[56]

These statutes are held to confer on the commissioners the power to determine all matters with respect to the crossing which would ordinarily be provided for by a contract or agreement between the companies if they had been able to agree,[57] and not only to determine such matters as relate to the interests of the companies, but also those relating to the safety of the public.[58] The commissioners may provide as to the materials to be used,[59] and the right to determine the manner of crossing does not relate merely to the mechanical means and appliances to be used, but includes the manner of using the crossing and precautions against accidents.[60] The commissioners should go on and view the premises where the crossing is located, but this fact need not be stated in their report.[61]

§ 137. —— Jurisdiction and Power of Courts

Jurisdiction to determine the place and manner of crossing is by some statutes conferred on the courts.

Statutory provisions in many jurisdictions authorize certain courts to regulate the place and manner of crossing.[62] Such a statute is an exer-

49. Kan.—Kansas City R. Co. v. Railroad Comrs., 84 P. 755, 73 Kan 168.

50. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bowling Green R. Co., 63 S.W. 4, 110 Ky. 788, 23 Ky L. 273.
Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston Electric Co., 123 S.W. 1140, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 427.

51. Kan.—State v. Parsons St. Ry. Co. & Electrical Co., 105 P. 704, 81 Kan. 430, 28 L.R.A.,N.S., 1082.
Wis.—Wisconsin Public Service Co. v. Railroad Commission, 201 N.W. 977, 185 Wis. 536, 40 A.L.R. 706.

Extent of power

(1) Under a statute empowering the railroad commissioners to determine whether there is a necessity for the crossing of a railroad by a street railway "and, if so, the plan thereof, whether it shall be over or under the existing railroad, or at grade, and in other respects the manner of such crossing," the board can authorize a street railway to construct a subway in a street under the tracks of a railroad, in accordance with whatever regulations it may see fit to impose, so that they have relation to the safe operation of both roads and are not unreasonable.—State v. Parsons St. Ry. Co. & Electrical Co., 105 P. 704, 81 Kan. 430, 28 L.R.A.,N.S., 1082.

(2) Under a statute giving the commissioner of railroads power to make all reasonable rules and regulations for the operation of street railroads, the railroad commissioner has power to compel a street railroad company to elevate its tracks over those of a steam railroad.—Jackson, etc., Traction Co. v. Railroad Com'r, 87 N.W. 133, 128 Mich. 164.

Apportionment of cost of viaduct

Fifty per cent of cost of widening and strengthening viaduct over railroad tracks for street car company was held properly apportioned by the commission to street car company, and balance to railroads; city not being chargeable therewith.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 30 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862.

52. Ill.—Chicago & S. Traction Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 92 N.E. 583, 246 Ill. 146.

53. N.Y.—Jennings v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 83 N.E. 1126, 190 N.Y. 544.
51 C.J. p. 644 note 77.

54. Ind.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 19 N.E. 440, 116 Ind. 578.
51 C.J. p. 641 note 54.

55. N.Y.—Stillwater, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N.E. 511, 171 N.Y. 589, 59 L.R.A. 489.—Matter of Saratoga Electric R. Co., 12 N.Y.S. 318, 58 Hun 287
51 C.J. p. 641 note 55.

56. N.Y.—Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc. R. Co., 25 N.Y.S. 265, 72 Hun 583
51 C.J. p. 644 note 78.

57. Mo.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 19 S.W. 826, 110 Mo. 510
N.Y.—In re Lockport, etc., R. Co., 19 Hun 38

58. N.Y.—In re Lockport, etc., R. Co., supra.

59. Mo.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 19 S.W. 826, 110 Mo. 510.

60. N.Y.—In re Lockport, etc., R. Co., 19 Hun 38
51 C.J. p. 644 note 82.

61. Mo.—St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 13 S.W. 710, 100 Mo. 419

62. N.M.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., 182 P. 871, 25 N.M. 345.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., 113 P. 810, 16 N.M. 154.
51 C.J. p. 644 note 84.

cise of the police power of the state,[63] and incorporation prior to the passage of such a statute has been held not to affect its applicability.[64] A statute giving to the court the power to determine the mode and apportionment of costs of a crossing applies to all crossings whether at, above, or below grade,[65] and its judgment thereon cannot be affected by a subsequent ordinance.[66] In some jurisdictions it has been held that the court may, in the exercise of the powers conferred on it, change the location of the crossing,[67] while in others the contrary has been held.[68]

Under some statutes it has been held that the court may prescribe the safety precautions to be taken by the railroad seeking to cross[69] or make a decree requiring the existing railroad to do certain acts.[70] Where the legislature has not prescribed the mode of crossing, courts of equity have jurisdiction to regulate the manner of crossing so as to protect the rights of the parties and prevent the infliction of unnecessary injury on the road crossed,[71] but it has been held that, unless the circumstances require it, the court cannot require other than a grade crossing.[72] A court of equity also has jurisdiction specifically to enforce a contract between the companies as to how a crossing shall be used,[73] and where two railroad companies have a community of interest in the land on which they cross each other and disagree as to their respective rights, a court of equity will control and direct its use.[74]

A court of equity having jurisdiction to prevent grade crossings may, on ordering a crossing of a different character, authorize the temporary use of a grade crossing for construction purposes,[75] but the time it may be used should be limited by the court.[76] A statute giving a court of equity power to determine the place and manner of crossing does not authorize it to condemn the property of the road crossed and fix the compensation, but the right to cross, unless the parties can agree, must be secured by proper proceedings at law.[77] Where the determination is by a court of equity, the proper proceeding is by bill or petition in equity.[78]

Change of crossing after construction is, in some jurisdictions, regulated by statute.[79]

Street railroad crossings. Various statutes giving the court the power to regulate crossings have been held applicable[80] and inapplicable[81] to street

Change of venue in controversies over the point of crossing of one steam railroad by another is not authorized—Vandalia R. Co. v. La Fayette & L Traction Co, 94 N.E 483, 175 Ind 391.

Laches

Where, by a supplemental complaint, railroad seeking to have the court determine the method of crossing its tracks by a street railroad showed that since the reversal of a former judgment for the street railroad and the filing of the supplemental complaint it had sought to settle its dispute, the complaint was not demurrable for laches, although five years had elapsed between the reversal of the former judgment and filing of the supplemental complaint —Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co v Citizens' Traction & Power Co, 182 P 871, 25 N M. 345.

63. Pa.—Delaware, etc, Canal Co. v. Scranton, etc, Tract. Co, 4 Pa Dist 287, 7 Kulp 509.

64. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co, 77 Pa. 173.

65. Ohio—Lima, etc, Tract. Co. v. Toledo R, etc, Co, 11 Ohio Cir Ct,N S, 17, 30 Ohio Cir Ct 355.

66. Ohio—Toledo, etc., R Co. v Toledo, etc., R Co, 153 N.E. 295, 21 Ohio App. 231.

67. Minn—State v. Hennepin County Dist. Ct, 29 N.W. 60, 35 Minn 461.

68. N.J.—In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., Electric R. Co, Ch, 35 A 387

69. Minn—Winona, etc, R. Co v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 N W. 657, 50 Minn 300.

70. Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa Dist 12, 15 Pa Co. 445, 454.

71. Iowa.—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Waterloo, etc, R Co, 164 N.W 208, 165 N W. 993, 182 Iowa 550. 51 C J. p 645 note 93.

72. U S—Union R. Co. v Illinois Cent. R. Co, Tenn, 207 F 745, 125 C C.A. 283, certiorari denied 34 S Ct. 323, 231 U S 754, 58 L Ed. 467

73. Pa.—Appeal of Cornwall, etc, R Co., 17 A. 427, 125 Pa. 232, 11 Am S.R 839.

74. N J.—West Jersey, etc., R. Co v. Atlantic City, etc, R. Co., 56 A 890, 65 N J Eq 613—National Docks, etc, R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., Ch, 30 A. 1102, reversed on other grounds Pennsylvania R Co v. National Docks & N J. J. C. Ry. Co, 32 A. 220, 53 N.J.Eq 178.

75. Pa.—Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co, 52 A. 88, 203 Pa. 176.

76. Pa.—Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., supra.

77. W.Va.—Wellsburg, etc., R. Co v Panhandle, etc., Tract. Co., 48 S.E 746, 56 W Va. 18.

78. Pa.—Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R Co. v Philadelphia, etc., R. Co, 7 Pa Co 490—Philadelphia, etc, R Co v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co, 7 Pa.Co. 381.

79. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co v. Indianapolis, etc., Tract. Co., 81 N. E. 487, 169 Ind 634.
51 C J. p 645 note 2.

80. N.J.—In re Saddle River Traction Co., Ch, 41 A. 107—New York, etc, R. Co. v. Atlantic Highlands, etc, Electric R Co, 37 A. 736, 55 N J.Eq. 522.
N M.—Atchison, T. & S F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co, 182 P. 871, 25 N M 345—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., 113 P. 810, 16 N.M. 154.
51 C J. p 645 note 3.

Apportionment of expense

Where a street railroad illegally made a crossing over a railroad, the court, after determining the amount a street railroad should have contributed to the installation of the crossing and its maintenance, will direct that a street railway should pay to the railroad moneys so expended—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co, 182 P. 871, 25 N.M. 345.

81. Ohio.—Dayton, etc, R. Co. v. Dayton, etc., Traction Co, 26 Ohio Cir Ct 1.
51 C.J. p 645 note 4.

railroads. An act giving street railroads the power to cross railroads at grade has been held not to affect the power of the court to prevent them from so doing.[82]

§ 138. —— Parties, Pleading, and Evidence

A petition to secure or fix a crossing must allege the necessary facts. On application to the court to define the place and manner of crossing the right to cross must be proved.

In a proceeding in equity to fix a crossing, holders of the mortgage bonds of defendant railroads are not necessary parties when the trustees in the mortgage are joined as parties.[83] Where a complete determination of the controversy cannot be had without the presence of other parties, such other parties may be brought into the case by a supplemental petition.[84]

Pleadings. A petition to fix or secure a crossing must sufficiently allege all the necessary facts.[85] The petition for appointment of commissioners in cases of disagreement must show a compliance with any statutory requirements and allege such facts as are necessary to show plaintiff's right to the crossing and to institute the proceedings therefor;[86] and so, where an attempt and failure on the part of the companies to agree as to the compensation, place, and manner of crossing are a necessary condition precedent to the right to institute legal proceedings to determine the same, this fact must be alleged.[87]

Evidence. On an application to the court to define the place and manner of crossing, the petitioning company must show that it has a legal right to construct its road,[88] but it is not necessary to show specifically a grant by a city of the right to cross when a franchise from the city to construct the road is shown.[89] Where the statute provides that the crossing shall be so located as to inflict the least practicable injury on the road crossed, the petitioning company must show such to be the case with respect to the proposed crossing,[90] and where the statute provides that grade crossings shall be prohibited whenever it is reasonably practicable to do so, it will be presumed that such a crossing may be avoided, and the burden is on the petitioning company to show the contrary,[91] but where grade crossings are permitted unless destructive of the senior company's rights, one seeking to prevent such a crossing must introduce evidence sufficient to show a practical destruction of such rights.[92] Where the abolition of a grade crossing is sought, evidence showing the possibility, but not the practicability, of the change is insufficient.[93]

§ 139. —— Review

As a general rule the decisions of court commissioners or of a railroad commission are reviewable by the courts.

Where the compensation, place, and manner of crossing are determined by commissioners appointed by the court, their decision is reviewable by the court[94] not only as to the compensation awarded, but also as to the place and manner of crossing,[95] and the decision of the trial court thereon is 82. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 25 A. 780, 152 Pa. 116—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, etc., R. Co., 11 Pa.Co. 165—Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Lackawanna Valley Traction Co., 2 Lack.Leg.N. 295.

83. W.Va.—Tri-State Tract. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 68 S.E. 25, 67 W.Va. 389.

84. N.M.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., 182 P. 871, 25 N.M. 345.

85. W.Va.—Tri-State Tract. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 68 S.E. 25, 67 W.Va. 389.
51 C.J. p. 645 note 8.

Necessary allegations

N.J.—Mercer County Traction Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 61 A. 461, 68 N.J.Eq. 715—Trenton St. R. Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 46 A. 763, 60 N.J.Eq. 500—In re West Jersey Traction Co., 45 A. 282, 59 N.J.Eq. 63—In re Trenton St. Ry. Co., 44 A. 177, 58 N.J.Eq. 533.

Supplemental complaint

N.M.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Citizens' Traction & Power Co., 182 P. 871, 25 N.M. 345.

86. Ind.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 19 N.E. 440, 116 Ind. 578.
51 C.J. p. 645 note 9.

Consent of property owners

N.Y.—Matter of Saratoga Electric R. Co., 12 N.Y.S. 318, 58 Hun 287.

87. Ind.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 19 N.E. 440, 116 Ind. 578.
51 C.J. p. 646 note 10.

88. N.J.—Mercer County Tract. Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 61 A. 461, 68 N.J.Eq. 715.

89. W.Va.—Tri-State Tract. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 68 S.E. 25, 67 W.Va. 389.

90. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwestern Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. 173—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa.Dist. 774.

91. Pa.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., St. R. Co., supra—Moosic Mountain Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 4 C.P.Rep. 189.

92. U.S.—Union R. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Tenn., 207 F. 745, 125 C.C.A. 283, certiorari denied 34 S.Ct. 323, 231 U.S. 754, 58 L.Ed. 467.
51 C.J. p. 646 note 16

93. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., Tract. Co., 81 N.E. 487, 169 Ind. 634.

94. Mo.—State v. Dearing, 73 S.W. 485, 173 Mo. 492.
51 C.J. p. 646 note 18.

Form of remedy

Railroad had right to appeal from order of public service commission, in nature of an action to vacate such order, where order permitted a competitor to cross railroad's main line tracks at grade with a spur track.—Detroit & T. S. L. R. Co. v. Michigan Public Service Commission, 36 N.W. 2d 896, 324 Mich. 195.

95. Mo.—State v. Dearing, 73 S.W. 485, 173 Mo. 492—St. Louis Trans-reviewable on appeal[96] but the decision cannot be considered on a bill to enjoin the crossing pending review of the decision.[97] It has been decided that an appeal does not lie to review a question of fact decided after hearing testimony and inspecting the place of crossing.[98] On appeal from an order appointing commissioners, the court cannot pass on the questions as to the place and manner of crossing which are to be determined in the first instance by the commissioners,[99] and it has also been held that the order appointing the commissioners is not appealable.[1]

While the decisions of a railroad commission have been held conclusive,[2] it also has been held that an appeal may be taken from the decision of the railroad commission,[3] but its decision is final unless appealed from,[4] and it will not be altered or reversed unless manifestly illegal or unjust,[5] or arbitrary,[6] or unless the findings are against the manifest weight of the evidence.[7] The exercise of discretion will not be reviewed unless there has been a clear abuse thereof,[8] hence, where the requirement of safety devices is, by statute, discretionary, an order, in the proper exercise of the commission's discretion, which does not provide for such devices will not be interfered with.[9]

Where the decision as to the place and manner of crossing is made by the court, the supreme court in reviewing the decision will only inquire as to legal errors or an abuse of discretion on the part of the trial court,[10] and may examine the record to see that the proceedings are in accordance with the provisions and purpose of the statutes.[11] Where a railroad company is enjoined from constructing a grade crossing and subsequently constructs an overhead crossing at the place in question, it waives any right to a grade crossing and the question of its right to such crossing will not be considered on appeal.[12] An objection to a proceeding to fix a crossing on the ground that the route of the road had not been finally determined is not tenable where the proceedings fixing the route had terminated before the order was made from which the appeal is taken.[13]

On review of a judgment setting aside an order of the commission apportioning the cost of the construction of a crossing, the court is limited, under some statutes, to consideration of the questions of whether the commission acted within its authority and whether its findings are supported by evidence or infringe constitutional rights.[14]

D. CROSSING HIGHWAYS

§ 140. What Constitutes a Crossing

A crossing of a railroad and highway generally includes an overhead crossing and an underpass as well as grade crossings.

A railroad crossing is the crossing of a public highway by a railroad.[15] A railroad "crossing" of roads, in the primary and natural sense of the fer R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 13 S.W. 710, 100 Mo. 419

96. Mo.—St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

97. Ind.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 70 N.E. 256, 162 Ind. 303.

98. N.Y.—In re New York, etc., R. Co., 2 N.E. 35, 99 N.Y. 388.

99. N.Y.—In re Boston Hoosac Tunnel, etc., Co., 79 N.Y. 64

Wis.—In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 107 N.W. 496, 127 Wis. 641.

1. N.Y.—Stillwater, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 73 N.Y.S. 744, 67 App.Div. 367, appeal dismissed 62 N.E. 1100, 170 N.Y. 573.

2. Ky.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 58 S.W. 799, 22 Ky.L. 658.

3. Ind.—Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 78 N.E. 358, 38 Ind.App. 657.

51 C.J. p. 646 notes 26–28, p. 647 notes 29–33

Apportionment of costs

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 193 A. 127, 127 Pa.Super. 544

4. Kan.—Union Terminal R. Co. v. Railroad Comrs., 38 P. 290, 54 Kan. 352

Me.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Saco Valley Electric R. Co., 56 A. 202, 98 Me. 78.

5. Me.—Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Waterville, etc., R., etc., Co., 36 A. 453, 89 Me. 328.

51 C.J. p. 646 note 28.

6. Kan.—State v. Parsons St. Ry. Co. & Electrical Co., 105 P. 704, 81 Kan. 430, 28 L.R.A.,N.S., 1082

7. Ill.—Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Vandalia R. Co., 108 N.E. 800, 268 Ill. 68.

51 C.J. p. 647 note 29.

8. Mich.—Jackson & S. Traction Co. v. Commissioner of Railroads, 87 N.W. 133, 128 Mich. 164.

9. Wash.—State v. Kuykendall, 222 P. 211, 128 Wash. 88.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 176 P. 539, 104 Wash. 405.

10. Minn.—In re Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 32 N.W. 556, 36 Minn. 481.

11. Ohio.—Toledo R., etc., Co. v. Lima, etc., Tract. Co., 86 N.E. 515, 79 Ohio St. 136.

12. Iowa.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 58 N.W. 918, 91 Iowa 16.

13. N.Y.—In re New York, etc., R. Co., 88 N.Y. 279

14. Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N.E. 177, 354 Ill. 58.

15. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Bunn, 58 S.E. 538, 2 Ga.App. 305

51 C.J. p. 369 note 2.

Accidents at crossings see infra § 710 et seq.

Footpath permissively used

A pathway which crossed a ditch by footlog, and continued over defendant's track, permissively used by public, was held not a crossing or an "alley," within a statute prohibiting blocking of crossings by trains for more than ten minutes, and, therefore, defendant, by failing to separate its train, violated no statuword, is an intersection of them in the same plane,[16] and does not include an underpass which eliminates the necessity for a crossing.[17] In a broader sense the word includes all means by which one may pass from one side of the obstructing railroad to the other,[18] and includes an underpass or overhead crossing as well as grade crossings.[19] A bridge carrying a highway over a railroad is a crossing.[20] A railroad crossing has been held to include the necessary approaches as well as the entire structure,[21] even though a part of the structure is outside the railroad right of way,[22] but it has also been held that a railroad crossing is limited to the space included within the boundaries of the right of way and the boundaries of the highway.[23]

§ 141. Right to Cross

The legislature may authorize a railroad to cross public highways, turnpikes, or streets.

The legislature may authorize a railroad company to construct its road across public highways,[24] turnpikes,[25] or streets.[26] The authority to cross need not be conferred in express terms since it will be implied from a grant of authority to construct a railroad on a certain route or between certain termini,[27] or to connect with another railroad,[28] and in cases where the right is expressly granted, it is not necessary to specify the particular streets or highways which may be crossed.[29] Such authority, however, does not extend to include branch lines not a part of, or appurtenant to, the main line.[30] In many jurisdictions the right to cross is given by statute.[31] The right to cross may not be acquired by purchase or condemnation.[32] If a statute requires an order of court to authorize the construction of tracks across a street or highway, such order is a condition precedent to the right to do so.[33] The power of a municipal corporation to construct subways under, or viaducts over, railroad tracks or property is discussed in Municipal Corporations § 1044 c (3).

Consent of municipal or other authorities. The legislature may authorize a railroad company to cross streets without the consent of the municipality,[34] and under some of the statutes regulating crossings it is held that such consent is not necessary.[35] It is also competent for the legislature to tory duty, and was not liable for injuries to a boy five years old who was run over while attempting to crawl under train, or while hanging on attempting to ride—St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Christian, 261 S.W. 297, 298, 164 Ark. 65.

16. Vt.—Libby v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 73 A. 593, 82 Vt. 316.
51 C.J. p. 647 note 37.

17. Vt.—Libby v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., supra.

18. Vt.—Libby v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., supra.

19. Mo.—State ex rel. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 197 S.W. 56, 58, 271 Mo. 270.
Tex.—Hays v. Texarkana & Fort Smith Ry. Co., Civ.App., 87 S.W.2d 1106, error dismissed.

20. N.H.—Pierce v. Boston & M. R. R., 143 A. 903, 83 N.H. 466—City of Laconia v. Boston & M. R. R., 128 A. 350, 351, 81 N.H. 408—Concord v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 38 A. 378, 69 N.H. 37.

21. Ark.—Payne v. Stockton, 229 S. W. 44, 47, 147 Ark. 598.
Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 159 S.W. 601, 128 Tenn. 172.
17 C.J. p. 385 note 24.

22. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 159 S.W. 601, 128 Tenn. 172.
17 C.J. p. 385 note 24.

23. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Redding, 187 S.W. 651, 124 Ark. 368, 372, Ann.Cas.1918D 183.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Woods, Com.App., 290 S.W. 729.
39 C.J. p. 351 note 86.

24. Minn.—International Falls v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 134 N.W. 302, 117 Minn. 14.
51 C.J. p. 647 note 43.

25. Ohio.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Spring Grove Ave. Co., 9 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 625, 15 Cinc.L.Bul. 384.
Vt.—White River Turnp. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 21 Vt. 590.

26. Miss.—Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 36 So. 266, 84 Miss. 268, 105 Am.S.R. 428, 65 L.R.A. 561.
51 C.J. p. 647 note 45.

27. Pa.—Northern Coal, etc., Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, 67 A. 352, 218 Pa. 269.
51 C.J. p. 647 note 46.

28. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 9 Baxt. 522.

29. Miss.—Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 36 So. 266, 84 Miss. 268, 105 Am.S.R. 428, 65 L.R.A. 561.

30. Minn.—St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Duluth, 76 N.W. 35, 73 Minn. 270, 43 L.R.A. 433.

31. Ky.—Husbands v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 195 S.W. 831, 176 Ky. 290.
51 C.J. p. 647 note 50.

Failure to exercise power

Code section providing that every railroad shall have power to construct its roads across, along, or on any street, avenue, or highway, which the route of its road intersects, crosses, or runs along, does not grant franchise rights and is at most a mere offer which must be accepted by user, and, until such acceptance by user, no right vests under it—People v. Ocean Shore R. R., 196 P.2d 570, 32 Cal.2d 406.

32. N.Y.—People v. State Tax Commission, 199 N.Y.S. 820, 205 App. Div. 462.

33. N.Y.—Osborne v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co., 27 Hun 539.
Ohio.—Youngstown & Ohio River Ry. v. East Liverpool, 10 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 157.

Construction by federal agency for war purposes

Under railroad law, New York supreme court has power to say whether railroad's construction along, on, or across a public highway in a town or village is proper as a matter of public propriety; but in construction of railroad to acquire materials for use of federal government in war, federal agency was not subject to provisions of state railroad law requiring an enabling order of the New York supreme court for construction of a railroad across state highways—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp., 66 N.E.2d 289, 295 N.Y. 227.

34. Iowa.—Clinton v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 24 Iowa 455.
Miss.—Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 36 So. 266, 84 Miss. 268, 105 Am.S.R. 428, 65 L.R.A. 561.

35. Iowa.—Morgan v. Des Moines require that the consent of the municipality shall be first obtained;[36] but, unless required, the municipal franchise is not necessary.[37] Under some statutes it has been held necessary to secure such consent[38] unless the railroad is empowered by its charter to cross without consent,[39] and other statutes expressly require such consent.[40] When consent is necessary, such permission when granted may be restricted by such reasonable conditions as the municipality may see fit to impose[41] Where its consent has been given, it may not be revoked.[42] Statutes prohibiting the construction of a railroad in or on a street or highway without consent of the municipality or county authorities have been held not to apply to a crossing,[43] and the same has been held of a statute providing for condemnation proceedings if the railroad and the municipality disagree as to the crossing.[44]

Consent of highway commissioner is not required by a statute prohibiting construction of a railroad over or across a highway which has been or may be improved except on such conditions as the highway commissioner prescribes.[45]

Consent of adjoining owners is not necessary when the railroad has the consent of the municipality and abutting owners to the crossing[46] Statutes requiring the consent or petition of abutting property owners to use the streets for railroad purposes do not apply to a mere crossing of the street.[47]

Nature and extent of rights acquired. Where a railroad crosses a highway, the company does not take the land of the highway as real estate of individuals is taken,[48] and the railroad company acquires no exclusive rights in the crossing, but only the right to use it in common with the public traveling on the highway,[49] and it has no right so to construct and use it as injuriously to affect the public traffic over the highway.[50] It may use the highway only for the purpose of crossing,[51] and the right to cross does not confer a right to use the full width of its authorized right of way but only such space as is reasonably necessary for the purpose of passage,[52] and, if the company acquires any rights within the limits of the highway beyond that actually occupied by the rails and roadbed, it is only such as is necessary to the full enjoyment of its right to lay the track across the highway and use it beneficially.[53] Where a railroad company constructs a bridge over its tracks at a street crossing, which is to constitute a part of the highway and to be maintained as such by the municipality, the title to the bridge is in the municipal-

Union R. Co, 85 N.W 902, 113 Iowa 561.
51 C J p 648 note 55.

36. Minn—International Falls v. Minnesota, etc, R Co, 134 N.W 302, 117 Minn 14

37. Minn—International Falls v Minnesota, etc, R Co, supra
51 C J p 648 note 57.

38. Pa—Philadelphia v Philadelphia, etc, R Co, 7 Pa Co 390.
51 C J p 648 note 58

39. Pa.—Pittsburg R Co. v Pittsburg, 75 A. 681, 226 Pa. 498.
51 C J. p 648 note 59.

40. N Y—People ex rel. New York Cent. R. Co. v State Tax Commission, 35 N Y S 2d 77, 264 App Div 80, modified on other grounds 54 N E 2d 332, 292 N Y 130, motion denied 56 N E 2d 122, 292 N Y. 717.
51 C J. p 648 note 60

Railroad constructed before area added to city

N Y—City of New York v Staten Island Rapid Transit Ry. Co, 82 N.Y.S.2d 682.

Additional tracks

N Y—City of New York v. Staten Island Rapid Transit Ry. Co, supra.

41. Ill—Chicago Terminal Transfer Co v. Chicago, 77 N E 204, 220 Ill 310.
51 C J. p 649 note 61.

Ordinance incorporated in contract

All material parts of ordinance affecting construction, including city's reservation of right to removal, were held incorporated into contract between manufacturing company and railroad for construction of switch tracks across street—City of Louisville v Chess & Wymond Co, 56 S W 2d 537, 247 Ky 53.

42. N.Y.—Ward v. Erie R. Co, 149 N Y S 717, 87 Misc 365, affirmed 154 N Y.S 94, 167 App Div 950, affirmed 109 N E 1095, 215 N Y. 629

43. Minn—International Falls v. Minnesota, etc, R Co, 134 N W 302, 117 Minn 14.
51 C J p 649 note 64

44. Minn—International Falls v Minnesota, etc, R Co, supra.

45. N Y—People v Delaware, etc, Co, 170 N Y S 240, 183 App Div 149, affirmed 127 N E 244, 228 N Y 279.
51 C J. p 649 note 66.

Railroad constructed by federal agency

Section of Highway Law empowering superintendent of public works to prescribe conditions and regulations in respect of construction of a railroad on any portion of a state highway was not applicable to construction of railroad by federal agency pursuant to authority obtained in federal courts—Sells v Defense Plant Corp., 66 N E 2d 289, 295 N.Y. 227

46. Mich—Wisher v Pere Marquette R. Co, 211 N W. 68, 237 Mich 117.

47. Ill—Chicago, etc., R Co v Dunbar, 100 Ill 110
N.Y.—Beekman v Brooklyn, etc, R. Co, 35 N.Y S 84, 89 Hun 14.

48. Me—Bangor, etc, R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me 34
Rights in, and use of, highways for right of way see supra § 102 et seq.

49. U S—Webster v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, Mo, 158 F 769, 86 C C A. 125, 42 L R A, N S, 568.
51 C J. p 649 note 70.

50. N J—Newark v Erie R Co, 71 A 620, 75 N J Eq 20, reversed on other grounds 74 A 505, 76 N.J. Eq. 317.
N C.—Tate v Seaboard Air Line R. Co, 84 S E 808, 168 N C 523

51. N.J—Newark v Erie R. Co, 71 A. 620, 75 N J Eq 20, 30, reversed on other grounds 74 A. 505, 76 N.J. Eq 317.
51 C J. p 649 note 72

52. Pa.—Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 32 A 535, 169 Pa. 333, 47 Am S R. 916.
Vt—State v. Vermont Cent. R Co., 27 Vt. 103

53. Me.—Bangor, etc, R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.

ity and not in the railroad company.[54]

Rights and remedies of public. A town may maintain an action for injunction to determine the right of a railroad to construct a crossing[55] Where the consent of the municipal or other public authorities is essential to the right to construct a railroad across a street or highway, a railroad may be enjoined from constructing such a crossing without the necessary consent,[56] or from operating its trains thereon if already constructed,[57] or the court of equity may grant such other equitable relief as may be appropriate and necessary;[58] but, unless a highway is materially obstructed or irreparable injury threatened, a mandatory injunction requiring the removal of the tracks will not be granted before final hearing,[59] and a railroad will not be enjoined from constructing an additional track at a crossing where such track is conducive to safety thereat.[60]

§ 142. Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossing

The legislature may, in the exercise of the police power, regulate the manner and character of railroad crossings

Where a railroad crosses a street or highway, the legislature, in the exercise of its police power, may regulate the manner and character of crossing,[61] or may delegate such power to an administrative agency[62] or to a municipal corporation,[63] and, where the mode and manner of crossing are prescribed by statute, the requirements must be complied with.[64] The mere right to cross a highway

54. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Greensburg, etc., St. R. Co., 35 A. 122, 176 Pa. 559, 36 L.R.A. 839

55. Mass.—Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. 63

56. Pa.—Pittsburg R. Co. v. Pittsburg, 75 A. 681, 226 Pa. 498
51 C.J. p. 650 note 78.

57. Ohio.—Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 554, 8 Cinc. L. Bul. 334.

58. Mo.—State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 288.

59. Ohio.—Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 554, 8 Cinc. L. Bul. 334.

60. N.J.—Newark v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 67 A. 1009, 73 N.J.Eq. 469.

61. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Franklin County, 56 N.E.2d 775, 387 Ill. 301.
51 C.J. p. 650 note 83.

Statutes construed together

Statute authorizing erection of railroad bridges across city streets and statute authorizing municipal authorities to enter into contracts with railroads for location, relocation, or change of tracks, bridges or facilities are neither inconsistent nor incapable of reconciliation.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Chiara, C.C.A.N.J., 95 F.2d 663, certiorari denied Chiara v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 59 S.Ct. 68, 305 U.S. 609, 83 L.Ed. 387.

62. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Franklin County, 56 N.E.2d 775, 387 Ill. 301.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Road Dist. No. 10, 187 N.E. 155, 353 Ill. 160.

Delegation of municipal functions

The statutes giving the public utility commission exclusive jurisdiction over construction and abolition of grade crossings and approval of contracts between cities and utilities are not violative of the constitution prohibiting the delegation of municipal functions to any "special commission" since the commission is not a "special commission."—Crown Products Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 31 A.2d 913, 32 A.2d 305, 152 Pa. Super. 345.

Jurisdiction or power of commission

(1) Statutory jurisdiction of railroad and warehouse commission over railroad crossings extends to reconstruction of bridge over highway, and is not limited to original construction attendant on separation of grades.—State ex rel. City of St. Paul v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 251 N.W. 275, 190 Minn. 162

(2) After a highway is once established, the location of the crossing where the highway crosses railroad and its construction and maintenance or alteration are within jurisdiction of corporation commission.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Citizens of Westville, 89 P.2d 320, 184 Okl. 100, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 774, 306 U.S. 658, 83 L.Ed. 1055.—City of Ardmore v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 45 P.2d 540, 172 Okl. 373

(3) The Public Utilities Act gives commerce commission plenary power over all questions relating to highway crossings over railroads and other equipment and appliances in interest of public safety.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Franklin County, 56 N.E.2d 775, 387 Ill. 301.

(4) Where public highway exists at railroad crossing, power of state commerce commission is limited to separation of grades or relocation of grade crossing at such point.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Road Dist. No. 10, 187 N.E. 155, 353 Ill. 160.

Implied repeal

Statute giving jurisdiction of public railroad crossings to overseer of roads of any road district or council or board of trustees of any city or town, or to fifty petitioners of any city or town who are interested, was held impliedly repealed by statute giving jurisdiction to corporation commission.—City of Ardmore v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 45 P.2d 540, 172 Okl. 373

63. Neb.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 66 N.W. 624, 47 Neb. 549, 53 Am.S.R. 557, 41 L.R.A. 481.
51 C.J. p. 650 note 84.

Increase in public safety

Ordinance, compliance with which will not increase public safety, is unreasonable.—Richmond-Ashland Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel. City of Richmond, 173 S.E. 892, 162 Va. 296

Arbitrary action

To require railroad to use girder rails at street intersection and permit others similarly situated to use T rails is arbitrary exercise of police power.—Richmond-Ashland Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel. City of Richmond, supra.

Relocation of tracks

Need for expenditure required in relocating railroad's tracks, changing grade thereof, and requiring paving of intersection at company's expense, should be urgent before such burden is imposed on insolvent company by ordinance.—Richmond-Ashland Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel. City of Richmond, supra.

Controversies between railroad and municipality

The public service commission has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies between a railroad and a municipality over the opening, closing, or maintenance of a railroad crossing within municipal limits, and rights of parties must be determined before that body.—Provo City v. Department of Business Regulation, Utah, 218 P.2d 675.

64. Me.—Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.
51 C.J. p. 650 note 85.

confers no right on a railroad company to destroy the highway or render it useless as such,[65] but the railroad should be so located and constructed as not unnecessarily to injure the highway or impair the rights of the public in its use;[66] and frequently there are statutory provisions to this effect.[67] The railroad company must construct and maintain a safe and suitable crossing for the passage of persons and vehicles along the highway at the crossing,[68] and this duty is frequently expressly imposed by statute.[69] This duty is imposed on the railroad under the police power of the state to secure the public from injury.[70] A railroad having the right to cross a street is not restricted as to the angle at which it may cross so long as its tracks are not laid in front of property belonging to others.[71]

In some jurisdictions the expense of making and maintaining a crossing of a railroad and a highway falls on the last one there, so that the expense of making and maintaining a crossing over an existing way falls on the railroad.[72]

Approaches. Since the term "crossing" includes the necessary embankments and approaches to the railroad,[73] the company must also construct and maintain safe and suitable approaches to the crossing.[74] The question of what is a suitable and sufficient approach depends on the circumstances of the particular case,[75] and may require the erection of guardrails at cuts or embankments.[76] The width of the crossing and approaches thereto depends on the circumstances of the case and the character and use of the highway,[77] since they do not necessarily imply the full width of the highway or right of way of the railroad.[78]

In the case of a street in a city they should ordinarily cover the entire width of the street;[79] but in the case of ordinary highways it is not necessary that they should cover the entire width of the high-

Previously existing crossing

Statute prescribing conditions for construction of railroad crossing was held inapplicable to previously existing grade crossing where railroad was not required to change crossing —Norfolk & W. Ry Co. v. Faris, 157 S E 819, 156 Va. 205.

65. Fla.—Palatka, etc, R. Co v State, 3 So. 158, 23 Fla. 546, 11 Am S R 395.
51 C J. p 650 note 86.

66. Ky.—Wickliffe v. Illinois Cent . R Co, 108 S.W. 243, 32 Ky L 1159.
51 C J. p 650 note 87—20 C J. p 617 note 22

Minimum injury

At common law, if a railroad crosses an existing street, it must do so with as little injury as possible to the street —Albright v Louisiana & M. R. R. Co, 195 S.W 2d 648, 355 Mo 211.

Not subject to control by railroad

The public authorities and not the railroad control the location of railroad crossings on a public road —Long v Norfolk & W Ry. Co, 23 S. E.2d 849, 222 N C. 523

67. Pa —North Manheim Tp. v. Reading, etc., R Co., 14 A. 137, 10 Pa Cas 261.
51 C J. p 650 note 88.
Restoring highway see infra § 148 et seq.

68. Ark —St. Louis, I M & S Ry. Co. v. Smith, 175 S.W. 415, 118 Ark. 72.
51 C J p 651 note 90.

Where streets end at opposite sides of railroad track, there is no crossing and railroad is not required to maintain a way connecting the two streets.—Curtis v. Southern Pac. Co., 8 P.2d 1078, 39 Ariz. 576.

69. U S —Chicago, St. P., M & O Ry Co v. Washington, C A.Minn, 179 F 2d 548.
Ill —Chicago, N S & M R Co v Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E. 177, 354 Ill. 58.
51 C.J p 651 note 91.

Duty limited to crossings

Statute requiring railroad to construct sufficient crossings where railroad crosses roads or streets, providing manner of maintenance, and authorizing municipality to construct crossing if railroad fails to do so and to recover double amount expended, applies only to railroad crossings and approaches thereto and not to rights of way outside of crossings and approaches.—City of Higginsville ex rel. and to Use of Kasco, Inc, v Alton R. Co., 171 S.W.2d 795, 237 Mo App 1204.

70. Wis —Milwaukee v. Chicago, etc, R Co., 171 N.W 54, 168 Wis 534

71. Iowa —Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 85 N.W. 902, 113 Iowa. 561.

72. Mass —Boston & M. R. R. v. Worcester County Com'rs, 15 N.E 2d 455, 300 Mass. 415.
Pa.—Reed v. Allegheny County, 199 A 187, 330 Pa. 300.
Opening or extension of way across existing railroad see infra § 156.

Reason for rule

The expense required for the laying out of a railroad over an existing way is incurred for the sole benefit of the railroad corporation, and it is equitable that such expense should be paid out of the fares and charges collected by the railroad corporation from those for whom it performed services rather than from the taxes assessed on the general public —Trustees of New York, N. H & H. R. Co v City of New Bedford, 52 N.E 2d 324, 315 Mass 154

Duty to maintain

Where the railroad corporation, in order to cross an existing way, elevates the way and carries it over the railroad by a bridge which it constructs, the railroad corporation is primarily liable for any neglect or refusal to keep the bridge in a reasonably safe condition for travelers thereon, and to maintain it so that it will not obstruct travel on the public way —Trustees of New York, N. H. & H R. Co. v City of New Bedford, supra.

73. Iowa —Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 42 Iowa 234.
Mo —Moberly v. Kansas City, etc., R Co., 17 Mo App. 518.

74. Ill —Illinois Cent R Co. v. Paradise Highway Comrs, 61 Ill.App. 203
51 C.J p 651 note 95

75. Ill —Bloomington v Illinois Cent. R. Co, 39 N E 478, 154 Ill 539.
51 C.J. p 651 note 96.

76. Ind —Evansville, etc, R. Co v. Allen, 73 N E. 630, 34 Ind App. 636.
51 C.J. p 651 note 97.

77. Ill.—Sample v Chicago, etc., R. Co, 84 N E 643, 233 Ill. 564.
51 C.J. p 651 note 98

78. Ill —O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R Co, 45 Ill App. 572.
51 C.J. p 651 note 99.

79. Ill.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Johns, 106 Ill.App. 427.
Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489 way, but only what is reasonably necessary for the accommodation of the public travel thereon,[80] and the same is true to a considerable extent with regard to streets in villages and some cities or particular localities therein.[81] So, also, the length of the approaches depends on the circumstances of the case,[82] and they need not necessarily extend back for the full width on the railroad right of way,[83] although the circumstances may require that they shall do so.[84]

Sidewalks When necessary to fulfill its obligation to provide a safe crossing, the railroad must construct sidewalks for pedestrians.[85] In some jurisdictions the duty to construct sidewalks at the crossing is imposed by statute; and this is a valid exercise of the police power of the state.[86]

Lights may not be required to be maintained in a street when not necessary for the protection of the public.[87]

§ 143. —— Crossing at, above, or below Grade

Where a railroad company has the right to cross a street or highway, it may ordinarily do so at grade or by means of a bridge or viaduct; statutes in many jurisdictions prohibit or restrict grade crossings.

In the absence of any statutory provision to the contrary, a railroad company having a right to construct a railroad which will cross a street or highway may cross the same at grade,[88] or it may carry its road above the street or highway by means of a bridge or viaduct.[89] A statutory provision that a street or highway in a town or city may be crossed by a bridge is not mandatory but permissive, leaving it optional with the railroad company to grade or bridge the crossing,[90] and a requirement that the company shall in crossing so construct its road as not to impede or obstruct the safe and convenient use of the highway does not require that the crossing shall be at grade;[91] while on the other hand a statute providing how grade crossings shall be constructed does not authorize all crossings to be at grade, but applies only where such crossings are proper.[92]

In many jurisdictions, by statute, the construction of grade crossings is prohibited or restricted.[93] Such statutes have been held to apply to all crossings thereafter established regardless of the time when the construction of the railroad was authorized,[94] although the contrary has also been held.[95] Where the statute provides that the crossing may be so constructed that the highway shall pass over or under the railroad, as may be found most expedient, the choice rests within the discretion of the railroad company,[96] which, if exercised in good faith, will not be interfered with by the courts,[97] and it seems that the term "under or over" authorizes a crossing at grade,[98] but a charter provision that the crossing shall be "over" the railroad has

80. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 45 P. 576, 57 Kan. 154.
51 C. J. p. 652 note 2.

81. Ill.—Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 39 N.E. 478, 154 Ill. 539.

82. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Truesdall, 68 Ill. App. 324.

83. Ill.—O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572.

84. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Truesdall, 68 Ill. App. 324.

85. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Redding, 187 S.W. 651, 124 Ark. 368, Ann.Cas.1918D 183.

86. U.S.—Great Northern R. Co. v. Minnesota, Minn., 38 S.Ct. 346, 246 U.S. 434, 62 L.Ed. 817.

87. Ill.—Chicago v. Pennsylvania Co., 96 N.E. 833, 252 Ill. 185, 36 L.R.A.,N.S., 1081, Ann.Cas.1912D 400.

88. U.S.—Morris v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., C.C.Iowa, 26 F. 22.
51 C. J. p. 652 note 11.

Grade crossing

(1) A grade crossing is a place where one highway crosses another; in particular, a place where a railroad is crossed at grade by a public or private road, or by another railroad.—Armour v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 A. 1031, 41 R.I. 361.—28 C.J. p. 755 note 61.

(2) The term "grade crossings" applies to the crossing of a highway by an operating railroad, not by an abandoned track.—Jennings v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 882, 885, 140 Pa. Super. 569.

(3) Where public service commission required street to pass under railroad tracks, specified permanent structure, and fixed nature of crossing as undercrossing, and railroad, with consent of commission and city, constructed temporary crossing and grade, decision of public service commission that crossing could not be included in elimination program because it was not a "grade crossing" was held error.—In re Grade Crossings in City of Buffalo, 167 N.E. 460, 251 N.Y. 331.

89. Del.—Bubenzer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., Ch., 61 A. 270.

90. U.S.—De Lucca v. North Little Rock, C.C.Ark., 142 F. 597.

91. R.I.—Johnston v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 10 R.I. 365.

92. Minn.—State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 N.W. 153, 39 Minn. 219.

93. Ala.—Tuscaloosa County v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 162 So. 681, 230 Ala. 599.
N.Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp., 66 N.E.2d 289, 295 N.Y. 227.
51 C. J. p. 652 note 13.
Abolition of grade crossings see infra §§ 161-167.

Statute held applicable only to grade crossings

N.Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp., supra.

Order permitting grade crossing held supported by evidence

Pa.—Arsenal Board of Trade v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 72 A.2d 612, 166 Pa.Super. 548.

94. Pa.—Clifton Heights Borough v. Thomas Kent Mfg. Co., 69 A. 1114, 220 Pa. 585.

95. Mass.—Attorney General v. Ware River R. Co., 115 Mass. 400.

96. N.Y.—Jamaica v. Long Island R. Co., 21 N.Y.S. 327, 66 Hun 631.
51 C. J. p. 653 note 22.

97. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N.Y. 302.
51 C.J. p. 653 note 23.

98. N.J.—In re West Jersey Tract. Co., 45 A. 282, 59 N.J.Eq. 63.

been held to mean above it.[99] A contract between a railroad and a municipality providing that the costs of all approaches to crossings above or below grade should be borne by the railroad has been construed to impose liability on the railroad only for reasonable incidental approaches.[1]

When railroad crosses by means of bridge, if practicable to do so, the bridge must be constructed so as to span the entire width of the way and not merely the traveled portion and without any pillars or abutments which will restrict the width or obstruct the use of the highway,[2] particularly in the case of streets.[3] It has been held that a municipal corporation has no right to authorize the construction of a bridge with pillars or abutments which constitute an obstruction to public travel,[4] but it has also been held that a grant to construct a bridge by erecting a foundation in the road to support center piers of the bridge was proper.[5]

Where highway is carried over railroad on bridge, the character of the bridge depends on the circumstances of the particular case,[6] and in the case of an ordinary highway it is not necessary to bridge the entire width of the highway, but only to construct a bridge reasonably sufficient to accommodate the public travel.[7] So, also, the bridge need only be of sufficient strength for the ordinary highway travel, and the railroad company is not required to make it sufficient to meet the additional use of a street railway.[8]

§ 144. —— Character of Highway

Statutes regulating the construction of crossings at intersections between railroads and public roads apply only to public crossings, and to legally established streets and highways.

The statutes regulating the construction of crossings at intersections between railroads and public roads or streets apply only to public crossings[9] and to streets and highways legally established,[10] and a statute requiring an under crossing where a railroad crosses "any public highway" at a certain grade above the original level of the highway applies only to a highway laid out pursuant to law or used for such length of time as to constitute it a public highway;[11] but a statute authorizing a town to require a bridge at the crossing of any highway therein applies to a highway established by law, although not constructed;[12] and a statute requiring that a railroad company when it crosses "any established road or way" shall be so constructed as not to impede the travel thereon applies to a street duly laid out, although not actually opened for public use;[13] and, where a city has obtained an easement for a crossing, it may require the railroad to construct it.[14] A statute prohibiting the crossing at grade of "the streets or highways in any city" does not apply to the crossing of a canal;[15] and a statute prohibiting a grade crossing of a street or highway leading to a public cemetery of a city does not apply to a street leading to a cemetery belonging to a private association.[16] A railroad is under no duty to establish and maintain a crossing over paths or unfrequented ways[17]

99. N J—South Amboy v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 73 A 852, 76 N J Eq 57, reversed on other grounds 76 A. 1038, 77 N.J Eq 242

1. N Y.—City of New York v. New York, W. & B Ry Co., 281 N Y S. 354, 245 App Div 109, affirmed 4 N E.2d 814, 272 N.Y 583

Structure required by natural conditions

Structure sixty feet wide and six hundred feet long, running from bridge over railroad tracks to abutment, and fill and retaining walls two hundred seventy feet long from abutment to natural level, was held required by natural conditions, rather than location of tracks of railroad, and not an "approach" within contract requiring railroad to bear cost of all "approaches" to crossings below or above grade—City of New York v. New York, W & B Ry. Co, supra.

2. N J—Raritan Tp v Port Reading R. Co, 23 A. 127, 49 N J Eq. 11

51 C.J. p 653 note 26.

Footbridges

Under a statute regulating the height of footbridges, and prohibiting the rebuilding of such bridges at less than the required height, a contract for repair is not within the prohibition against rebuilding—Ann Arbor R. Co. v Toledo, D C Ohio, 33 F 2d 939

3. Pa—Schwenk v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill R. Co., 2 Chest Co. 177.

4. N Y.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 53 N E 44, 533, 158 N.Y. 266, 478

Ohio.—Elyria v. Lake Shore, etc, R Co., 23 Ohio Cir.Ct. 482.

5. U S—Delaware, L & W R Co v. Chiara, C C.A N J, 95 F 2d 663, certiorari denied Chiara v. Delaware W. R Co, 59 S.Ct. 68, 305 U.S. 609, 83 L Ed. 387.

6. N.Y.—People v. New York, etc, R. Co., 89 N.Y. 266.

7. N J.—State v. Lackawanna R. Co, 86 A. 386, 84 N.J.Law 289.

51 C.J. p 653 note 33.

8. N.Y—People v. Adams, 34 N.Y.S. 579, 88 Hun 122, affirmed 42 N.E. 725, 147 N Y. 722

51 C.J. p 653 note 36

9. Utah—Bamberger Electric R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 204 P. 314, 59 Utah 351.

10. Ga.—Poole v. Southern R. Co, 129 S E 297, 34 Ga App. 290

51 C.J p 653 note 40.

11. N.H.—Northumberland v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co, 35 N H 574.

12. N H.—Worcester, etc., R Co v. Nashua, 4 A. 298, 63 N.H. 593.

13. Pa.—Chester v. Baltimore, etc., R Co, 21 A 320, 140 Pa. 275.

14. Ga—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Atlanta, 119 S E 712, 156 Ga. 251.

15. N.J.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dover, etc, R Co., 43 N J.Law 528

16. Ohio—Youngstown v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co, 3 Ohio Cir Ct. 214, 2 Ohio Cir.Dec. 121

17. Ga.—Berry v. Northeastern R. Co., 72 Ga. 137.

§ 145. —— Changing Location or Grade of Highway

A railroad company, in crossing a highway, may not change the location or grade of the highway unless authorized by statute.

In the absence of statute, a railroad company, in crossing a highway, has no right to change the location or route of the highway.[18] It may, however, be authorized to do so by its charter,[19] but to authorize such change the right must be conferred in express terms or by necessary implication.[20] The right is frequently expressly conferred by statutory provisions to make such changes in the location of a highway in certain cases and to acquire by purchase or condemnation such additional land as may be necessary for effecting the change.[21] Such statutes apply to crossings as well as to longitudinal occupation of a highway,[22] and, where so given, the exercise of such authority is discretionary with the railroad.[23] Such statutes are intended to preserve a highway for the public.[24]

The company is required, as discussed infra § 150, in making such change, to reconstruct the road at its own expense on a suitable location and in a proper manner so as to provide an adequate substitute for the original road, which when duly established becomes a part of the public highway, to be maintained as such and not a private road of the railroad company;[25] and after the new location has been duly completed and adopted and used by the public, the old way may not be reopened and the railroad company compelled to restore it.[26] A change of grade is authorized by statutes in some jurisdictions, and, if authorized to change the grade of highways, the railroad may alter the grade of a highway to bring it to the same level as the railroad,[27] or make such changes as are necessary on laying additional tracks;[28] but, when the grade is altered, it must be done in such manner as not substantially to impair the usefulness of the public road.[29] Under a statute conferring a right to cross a highway it has been held that the railroad may alter the grade of the highway.[30] It has been held that a statute authorizing a railroad to change the location of a highway does not authorize a change of grade.[31] Some statutes authorizing the raising or lowering of highways so that the railroad may cross over or under them have been held not to authorize a change of grade to make a grade crossing.[32]

§ 146. —— Remedies in General

Equity may compel the performance of duties imposed on a railroad with respect to railroad crossings.

A railroad company, when legally bound to construct a crossing or a crossing of a particular character, may be compelled to do so by a bill in equity to enforce the specific performance of such duty.[33] Where a railroad is in the hands of a receiver, the duty of constructing a crossing may be enforced by application to the court appointing the receiver.[34] Where the mode of crossing is discretionary with the railroad company, a court of equity will not interfere, in the absence of a gross abuse of such discretion after the road is built and in operation,[35] nor, where the construction has been allowed to proceed almost to completion without protest, will the railroad be required to change it.[36]

A railroad company may be enjoined from constructing a railroad bridge over a highway with abutments which encroach on the width of the highway,[37] or from constructing a crossing at grade

18. N.Y.—Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co, 43 N.E. 76, 148 N.Y. 640.
51 C.J. p. 654 note 50.
Relocation on abolition of grade crossings see infra § 163.

19. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bentley, 64 Ill. 438.
51 C.J. p. 654 note 51.

20. N.J.—State v. Warren R. Co, 29 N.J.Law 353.
51 C.J. p. 654 note 52.

21. Va.—Tazewell County v. Norfolk, etc, R. Co., 91 S.E. 124, 119 Va. 763.
51 C.J. p. 654 note 53.

22. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co, 18 A. 522, 128 Pa. 509
51 C.J. p. 655 note 54.

23. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co., supra
51 C.J. p. 655 note 55.

24. Fla.—Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 So. 158, 23 Fla. 546, 11 Am.S.R. 395

25. Fla.—Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra.
51 C.J. p. 655 note 58.

26. N.Y.—Schermerhorn v. Mt. McGregor R. Co., 23 N.Y.S. 417, 69 Hun 512.
Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co., 18 A. 522, 128 Pa. 509

27. Mass.—Newburyport Turnp. Corp. v. Eastern R. Co, 23 Pick. 326.

28. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 14 Gray 379.

29. Fla.—Palatka, etc, R. Co. v. State, 3 So. 158, 23 Fla. 546, 11 Am. S.R. 395.
Me.—Veazie v. Penobscot R. Co, 49 Me. 119.

30. N.Y.—Conklin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 6 N.E. 663, 102 N.Y. 107.

31. N.J.—State v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co, 32 N.J.Law 220

32. Iowa.—Gates v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, 48 N.W. 1040, 82 Iowa 518.

33. Mass.—Roxbury v. Boston, etc, R. Corp, 6 Cush. 424.
N.J.—Montclair Tp. v. New York, etc, R. Co., 18 A. 242, 45 N.J.Eq. 436

34. Iowa.—Ft. Dodge v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 54 N.W. 243, 87 Iowa 389.
51 C.J. p. 655 note 70.

35. Pa.—South Waverly v. New York, etc, R. Co, 11 A. 245, 7 Pa. Cas. 386.
51 C.J. p. 655 note 71.

36. Mich.—Ecorse Tp. v. Detroit, etc, R. Co., 119 N.W. 575, 155 Mich. 347.

37. Pa.—Schwenk v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co., 2 Chest. Co. 177.

where the statute provides that grade crossings shall be avoided whenever practicable to do so, and the proper authorities have not passed on and determined the character of crossing,[38] or from excessive use of its tracks,[39] or from laying such additional tracks as to destroy the street as a public highway,[40] or where, although having the power to cross at grade, it shows its intention not to comply with the laws relative to safeguards for grade crossings,[41] or where the only reason for constructing a new track at grade is a saving of some slight expense,[42] or from making an unauthorized change in the grade of a street at a crossing which will deprive the public of its convenient use.[43]

The court may not enjoin the construction of a crossing which the railroad is authorized to make.[44] No injunction will be granted where the mode of crossing does no serious public injury,[45] and construction of a grade crossing will not be enjoined merely because of some increase in danger.[46] Where no relief was asked against existing tracks, the construction of additional tracks will not be enjoined unless they further obstruct the highway.[47] A court of equity may compel a railroad to provide an equally convenient road after changing location, even though no contractual relation existed;[48] and a railroad having acted ex parte under the statute authorizing it to change the location of a road has the burden of showing that it performed its duties under that statute.[49]

When it is sought to enjoin the construction of a bridge over a turnpike on the objection that it is too low, the court may order the street to be lowered where this could be done at less than the cost of raising the bridge.[50] When an injunction is sought to restrain the obstruction of a highway by a grade crossing, the railroad, having alleged compliance with a statutory provision with respect to grade crossings, has the burden of proving compliance.[51] When a court decrees that a railroad either refrain from obstructing a highway or comply with the statute by constructing a grade crossing, in order to satisfy the decree it is only necessary for the railroad to show compliance with the statute.[52] An owner of private property will not be granted an injunction restraining construction across a street where he has an adequate remedy at law for any damage to his property.[53] An individual who suffers a peculiar injury to his property, in addition to the injuries suffered by the public generally, may enjoin the obstruction of a highway.[54]

Construction by county or municipal authorities. The county or municipal authorities may, on a failure or refusal of the railroad company to do so, do the work and recover from the railroad company.[55] Where a statute imperatively requires a railroad company to construct and maintain crossings where the railroad crosses a highway, the performance of such duty is not dependent on any notice from the public authorities in charge of highways,[56] but a notice to the railroad company is necessary in order to authorize the public authorities to do the work on a failure of the railroad company to do so and to recover therefor from the railroad company.[57] Where circumstances make it necessary that a road district construct a crossing, such district is not a mere volunteer as affecting its right to recover the cost from the railroad.[58] The existence of this right does not pre-

38. N.Y.—Bolivar v Pittsburg, etc, R. Co, 84 N Y S 678, 88 App Div 387, affirmed 71 N E 1141, 179 N. Y. 523

39. N J.—Newark v Erie R. Co, 71 A. 620, 75 N J.Eq. 20, reversed on other grounds 74 A. 505, 76 N J Eq. 317.

40. N.J.—Newark v. Delaware, etc, R Co., 7 A. 123, 42 N J Eq. 196.

41. N.J.—Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent R. Co, 59 A. 303, 68 N J.Eq. 500, affirmed 65 A. 1117, 70 N J.Eq 806

42. Pa.—Norristown v Philadelphia, etc., R. Co, 10 Pa Dist 539, 17 Montg.Co. 72.

43. N.J.—Jersey City v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 2 A. 262, 40 N. J Eq. 417.
51 C.J. p 655 note 79.

44. Pa.—Williamsport v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 22 Pa.Dist. 362.

45. N J.—Raritan Tp v. Port Reading R. Co, 23 A. 127, 49 N.J.Eq. 11.

46. Pa.—Abington Tp. v. Philadelphia, etc, R. Co., 10 Pa Dist. 719.

47. N.J.—Hudson County v. Delaware, etc, R Co, 91 A. 433, 83 N J.Eq 589.
51 C.J p 656 note 86

48. Va.—Tazewell County v. Norfolk, etc, R. Co., 91 S.E. 124, 119 Va. 763.

49. Va.—Tazewell County v. Norfolk, etc., R Co., supra.
51 C J. p 656 note 88

50. Ohio.—Wooster Turnp. Co. v Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio Cir.Ct 268, 8 Ohio Cir Dec. 269.

51. Ark.—St. Louis, etc, R. Co. v. Taylor, 196 S W 930, 130 Ark. 64

52. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, supra.

53. Ky.—Husbands v. Paducah, etc., R. Co, 195 S W 831, 176 Ky. 290.
51 C J. p 656 note 92

54. Ark.—St Louis, etc., R Co. v Taylor, 196 S.W 930, 130 Ark. 64

55. Ark.—St Louis-San Francisco R Co v Little River County Road Impr. Dist. No. 7, 4 S.W.2d 505, 176 Ark. 731.
Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co v. Baudat, 45 S W. 939, 18 Tex.Civ.App. 595.

56. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co v. Little River County Road Impr Dist. No. 7, 4 S.W.2d 505, 176 Ark. 731.
51 C J. p 656 note 95.

57. Mo.—Henry v. Wabash Western R Co., 44 Mo.App. 100.
51 C J. p 656 note 96.

58. Ark.—Little River County Road Impr. Dist. No. 7 v. St. Louis-San Francisco R Co., 288 S.W. 884, 172 Ark. 368.

clude the right to maintain a suit or proceeding to compel the railroad company to perform such duty,[59] and the cost of construction of a crossing may be recovered even though a remedy exists by mandamus[60]

Remedies of railroad. Where a city has the right to do so, a court will not generally interfere with its actions to compel the railroad to conform to the street grade.[61] A change in the location of a crossing will not be enjoined at the instance of the railroad where the change is not detrimental to the railroad.[62] Where interference with construction of a bridge which the railroad has a right to build will work irreparable injury, the railroad is entitled to an injunction against interference with its work.[63] When a crossing is clearly dangerous and a nuisance, a railroad cannot enjoin the municipality from removing it as a nuisance.[64]

§ 147. —— Penalty for Failure to Construct Crossing

Under some statutes, provision is made for a penalty for failure to construct a crossing within a specified time after the construction of the railroad.

Where the statutes provide for a penalty for failure to construct a crossing over a highway within a certain time after the railroad is constructed, the railroad is constructed, within the meaning of such a statute, when its track is laid at the crossing and ready for its trains to pass over it.[65] The penalty may be recovered without further condemnation proceedings when such proceedings were had before the building of the railroad, although the highway was not built until after the railroad[66] An action to recover a penalty payable to the county should be brought in the name of the state for the use of the county,[67] and not for the use of the road district in which the highway is located.[68] Where the penalty is designed to prevent temporary obstruction of a public way, it may not be recovered where no public way has ever been opened at the point where the crossing is to be built[69]

§ 148. Restoring and Maintaining Highway

It is the duty of a railroad company to keep and maintain crossings in a safe and suitable state of repair.

It is the duty of a railroad company to keep and maintain crossings in a safe and suitable state of repair,[70] including not only the crossing of the tracks, but also the approaches thereto.[71] This is a common-law duty,[72] although frequently imposed by statute,[73] and a statute providing merely that the

59. Mass.—Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R Corp, 6 Cush. 424.
N.J.—Montclair Tp. v New York, etc, R Co, 18 A. 242, 45 N J Eq 436

60. Ark.—Little River County Road Impr Dist. No 7 v St Louis-San Francisco R. Co, 288 S.W 884, 172 Ark 368.

61. Neb.—Omaha, etc., R. Co. v Lincoln, 149 N W. 319, 97 Neb. 122.
51 C J p 656 note 1.

62. Ga.—Seaboard Air-Line Ry. Co. v. Camden County, 159 S.E. 668, 173 Ga. 93

63. N J.—United New Jersey R., etc., Co. v. Hudson, 104 A 98, 89 N J Eq. 95, affirmed 105 A. 895, 89 N J Eq. 580
51 C J. p 656 note 2.

64. N Y.—New York, etc., R Co. v New York, 154 N.Y.S. 141, 90 Misc 178.

65. Ark.—St Louis, etc., R Co v. State, 114 S W. 703, 88 Ark 338

66. Ark.—St Louis, etc, R Co v. State, 109 S W 545, 85 Ark 561

67. Ark.—St Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra.

68. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra.

69. S C.—Pickens County v. Southern R. Co, 127 S E. 365, 131 S C 18.

70. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Donalsonville Grain & Elevator Co, 191 S E. 87, 184 Ga. 291
51 C J p 659 note 54.

Duty to keep clean

Railroad commission's order requiring railroad to "maintain" certain portion of viaduct was held to require keeping such portion in proper repair, but did not include duty of keeping roadway clean and free of foreign substances, such duty resting on city.—Bosqui v. City of San Bernardino, 43 P.2d 547, 2 Cal 2d 747.

Snow and ice

Statute imposes no duty on railroad to keep its crossing sidewalks free from snow and ice. Railroad Law, § 21.—Ego v Erie R Co, 252 N Y.S. 769, 234 App.Div. 649.

Trunk highway system

Constitution creating state trunk highway system and statute carrying system into effect was held not to relieve railroads from statutory burden of properly maintaining trunk highway crossing approaches.—Engstrom v Duluth, M. & N Ry. Co, 251 N W 134, 190 Minn 208

71. Wash.—Bullock v. Yakima Valley Transp Co, 184 P. 641, 108 Wash 413.
51 C J. p 659 note 55.

72. Wash.—Bullock v. Yakima Valley Transp. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 659 note 56

73. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Donalsonville Grain & Elevator Co, 191 S E 87, 184 Ga. 291.
Ind.—State v Indiana R. R., 2 N E 2d 404, 210 Ind 222
51 C.J. p 659 note 57.

Full width

Statutory requirement that railroad repair crossing "to full width of county road" is to be reasonably construed in light of purpose of statute, and requirement refers to full width of generally traveled way; if county widened right of way after construction of railroad crossing, railroad must likewise increase width of its right of way; but county authorities may not relieve railroad of duty to maintain crossing to full width of road, by constructing approaches of less than statutory width.—Norfolk & W Ry. Co. v. Faris, 157 S E 819, 156 Va. 205.

Implied repeal

(1) Statute requiring highway commission to take over duties of county or township in maintaining highways designated as state detours was held not to relieve railroads of duty of maintaining crossings imposed on them by prior statute, as against contention that subsequent statute repealed by implication statute imposing duty.—Chicago, I. & L Ry Co v. Downey, 5 N E 2d 656, 103 Ind App 672

(2) Statute providing for mainte-road be restored is not to be construed as abridging the common-law duty of maintaining the crossing.[74] These statutes, being police regulations, apply to railroads built before, as well as after, their passage.[75] While at common law the railroad was obliged to maintain approaches outside its right of way,[76] in some jurisdictions the statutes have been held not to require such maintenance.[77]

A continuing obligation to keep the crossing in repair is imposed by a statutory or charter provision that it shall be so constructed as not to obstruct the safe and convenient use of the highway;[78] that the highway shall be put in such condition and state of repair as not to impair its proper use;[79] or that the highway shall be restored to its former condition or such as not to have impaired its usefulness.[80] The structure of the crossing, whether of earth, wood, or other material which the existence of the railroad renders necessary, must be maintained and kept in repair by the railroad company;[81] but the duty to repair applies only to what is properly the crossing and approaches thereto, which do not necessarily include the entire width of the street or highway or right of way of the railroad.[82] It is not the duty of the railroad company to keep in repair as a part of the crossing a part of the highway which is not within the limits of the crossing,[83] but, where a railroad company constructs two parallel tracks close together across a highway, it must keep in repair the space between the two lines of tracks.[84]

Sidewalks. The common-law duty of maintaining a crossing requires the maintenance of sidewalks forming a part of the crossing or approaches thereto,[85] but a sidewalk which is no part of the crossing or approach thereto need not be maintained, even though within the limits of the railroad right of way.[86]

§ 149. —— Duty to Restore Highway

Where a railroad crosses a highway, it is the duty of the railroad company to restore the highway to its former condition or such condition as not unnecessarily to impair its usefulness.

Where a railroad crosses a highway, it is the duty of the railroad company to restore the highway to its former condition or such condition as not unnecessarily to impair its usefulness.[87] This is a common-law duty,[88] but is very generally imposed on railroad companies by statutory or charter provisions.[89] Such a statute contemplates restoration with respect to the new dangers rather than the old conditions.[90] Such statutes are a valid exercise of the power of the state to prescribe the conditions on which railroads acquire their right of way.[91] The duty of restoring the highway applies to any and all cases where the railroad crosses a highway, whether at grade or otherwise,[92]

nance of railroad grade crossings in certain manner was held not repealed by statute authorizing highway commission to compel railroads to improve crossings in manner approved by commission, and, until highway commission does undertake to order some change in particular crossing, statute providing for maintenance of grade crossings is in effect—Pagan v. Lowden, 66 P.2d 567, 145 Kan. 513.

74. Mich.—Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R Co, 17 N.W. 717, 52 Mich 108.
51 C J p 660 note 58.

75. Va—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co v Faris, 157 S E. 819, 156 Va. 205
51 C J. p 660 note 59

76. Ky—Fulton County Fiscal Ct v. Nashville, etc, R Co, 261 S W 617, 202 Ky. 846.

77. Ky—Fulton County Fiscal Ct v Nashville, etc, R Co, supra—Louisville, etc, R Co v Commonwealth, 149 S W 898, 149 Ky 459.

78. Me—Wellcome v. Leeds, 51 Me 313.
Vt.—Clarendon v Rutland R Co., 52 A. 1057, 75 Vt 6.

79. Minn—Wayzata v Great Northern R. Co., 52 N W. 913, 50 Minn 438.

80. N Y—New York Cent. R. Co v State, 287 N Y S. 850, 247 App Div 421.
51 C J p 660 note 64.

81. Iowa—Farley v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 42 Iowa 234.

82. Ill.—Bloomington v Illinois Cent R Co, 39 N E. 478, 154 Ill 539.
51 C J. p 660 note 66.

83. Ga—Brookins v. Central R, etc, Co, 48 Ga. 523—Gulf, etc, R. Co v Sneed, 36 So. 261, 84 Miss. 252.

84. Mass—Scanlan v. Boston, 2 N. E 787, 140 Mass 84.

85. Wash—Bullock v Yakima Valley Transp. Co., 184 P. 641, 108 Wash 413
51 C J. p 660 note 69.

86. Ill—Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R Co, 39 N E 478, 154 Ill 539

87. Tex—Corpus Juris cited in Lee v Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co., Civ. App, 157 S.W.2d 424, 426.
51 C J p 657 note 10.

88. Ky—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co v. City of Bellevue, 38 S.W 2d 943, 239 Ky 61
Mo—Albright v. Louisiana & M R R. Co, 195 S W.2d 648, 355 Mo. 211.
Tex.—Corpus Juris cited in Lee v. Gulf, C. & S F Ry. Co, Civ App, 157 S W 2d 424, 426
51 C J p 657 note 11.

89. Ind—Cincinnati, etc, R Co. v. Connersville, 83 N E 503, 170 Ind. 316.
Ky—Chesapeake & O Ry Co. v City of Bellevue, 38 S W 2d 943, 239 Ky. 61.
Wis.—Town of Janesville v Chicago & N W Ry. Co., 46 N W 2d 847, 258 Wis, 547.
51 C.J p 657 note 12.
Declaratory of common law
U.S.—In re Madison Rys. Co, C.C. A Wis, 115 F 2d 586

90. N.Y—Allen v. Buffalo, etc, R Co., 45 N E. 845, 151 N Y. 434

91. Ind—New York, etc, R Co v. Rhodes, 86 N E 840, 171 Ind. 521, 24 L.R A.,N S, 1225.

92. Ala.—Tuscaloosa County v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co, 162 So 681, 230 Ala. 599
Ky—Chesapeake & O. Ry Co v City of Bellevue, 38 S W 2d 943, 239 Ky 61
Wis.—Town of Janesville v. Chicago and is a condition inseparable from the right to cross,[93] or the right to alter the grade of a highway,[94] or to change the location of the highway where such change is authorized,[95] but is not a condition precedent to the right to cross it with the railroad.[96] Where in crossing it is necessary to reconstruct the highway, the company will not be required to complete the reconstructed way before it occupies the bed of the original way,[97] but until the company has proceeded in accordance with the statutory or charter provisions, to substitute the new way constructed by it for the old, the latter will be regarded as still existing.[98]

The duty of restoring a highway to a proper condition is imperative and it not discharged merely by the exercise of ordinary care.[99] The duty to restore the highway subsists and remains until such condition is fully performed,[1] and it does not mean a temporary, but a permanent, restoration, which continues as long as the highway exists and the company enjoys the right of crossing.[2] So, also, if changes are made by the railroad company, or occur in consequence of its operation, which affect the safety of the highway, the duty to preserve its usefulness attaches and remains until performed,[3] as where the railroad company subsequently changes the grade of its road at an existing crossing.[4] The statutory provisions have been held to apply where a road is crossed by an excavation and before any track is laid across such road.[5]

A public footpath falls within these rules as to restoration.[6]

§ 150. —— Mode and Sufficiency of Restoration

The duty to restore a street or highway crossed by a railroad requires that the street or highway be restored so that its use will not be materially or unnecessarily impaired or interfered with.

Statutes requiring the restoration of streets and highways to their former state or such state as not to impair their usefulness are to be given a reasonable construction,[7] and it is not necessary that the highway should be restored to its actual former condition, which would be practically impossible,[8] or that its use should not in any degree be impaired, since some increased danger or inconvenience to travel is necessarily incident to all crossings;[9] but the highway must be restored so that its use will not be materially or unnecessarily impaired or interfered with.[10] The duty to restore includes the doing of whatever is necessary to be done in order to restore the highway to such condition.[11] Whether the railroad company has fully and properly performed its duty in this respect must necessarily depend largely on the circumstances of the particular case,[12] and is ordinarily a question of fact for the jury in actions based on an alleged breach of such duty.[13]

Where a railroad crosses a city street, it must & N. W. Ry. Co., 46 N.W.2d 847, 258 Wis. 547.

51 C.J. p 657 note 15

Subway or viaduct

Wis.—Town of Janesville v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., supra.

93. Wis.—Oshkosh v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 43 N.W. 489, 74 Wis. 534, 17 Am.S.R. 175.
51 C.J. p 657 note 16.

94. Conn.—Hamden v. New Haven, etc., Co., 27 Conn. 158.

95. N.Y.—Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 45 N.E. 845, 151 N.Y. 434
51 C.J. p 657 note 18.

96. Vt.—Richardson v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 465, 60 Am.D 283.

97. Pa.—Ridley Tp. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 2 Lanc.L.Rev. 375.

98. Vt.—Barber v. Essex, 27 Vt. 62.

99. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Butcher, Civ.App., 81 S.W. 819, reversed on other grounds 84 S.W. 1052, 98 Tex. 462.

1. Mich.—Thayer v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 53 N.W. 216, 93 Mich. 150.
51 C.J. p 658 note 23

2. Tenn.—Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 11 S.W. 943, 87 Tenn. 712.
51 C.J. p 658 note 25.

3. N.Y.—Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 45 N.E. 845, 151 N.Y. 434.

Bridge destroyed by fire

Where railroad company constructed its railroad across the road by cutting a deep cut through the road, and it restored road by building a bridge over railroad tracks so that highway was in such condition that its usefulness was not materially impaired and so that public travel on highway passed above railroad traffic, and the bridge was destroyed by fire, and successor railroad refused to reconstruct the bridge, town was entitled to a mandatory injunction to compel successor railroad to reconstruct the bridge.—Town of Janesville v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 46 N.W.2d 847, 258 Wis. 547.

4. N.Y.—People v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 69 N.E. 651, 177 N.Y. 337

Change after construction generally see infra § 157.

5. Ga.—Mixon v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 111 S.E. 197, 152 Ga. 670, answers to certified questions conformed to 111 S.E. 690, 28 Ga.App. 390.

6. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 83 S.E. 421, 116 Va. 955.

7. Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 3, 35 Minn. 131, 59 Am.R. 313.

Va.—Charlottesville v. Southern R. Co., 34 S.E. 98, 97 Va. 428.

8. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Townsend, 81 P. 205, 71 Kan. 524
51 C.J. p 658 note 32.

9. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N.Y. 302.
51 C.J. p 658 note 33

10. Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 3, 35 Minn. 131, 59 Am.R. 313.
51 C.J. p 658 note 34

11. Ky.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. City of Bellevue, 38 S.W.2d 943, 239 Ky. 61.
51 C.J. p 658 note 35.

12. N.J.—South Amboy v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 73 A. 852, 76 N.J.Eq. 57, reversed on other grounds 76 A. 1038, 77 N.J.Eq. 242.
51 C.J. p 658 note 36.

13. Tex.—Horton v. Texas Midland R. Co., Civ.App., 171 S.W. 1023.
51 C.J. p 658 note 37.

be restored and made passable for the full width of the street,[14] and the same has been held in respect of an ordinary highway.[15] The duty of restoring the highway carries with it the right to exercise any powers conferred on the railroad company by statute which are necessary therefor;[16] and it has been held that for the purpose of restoration the railroad company may change the grade of a highway,[17] or change the location of the highway,[18] and acquire by purchase or condemnation the lands necessary for such change.[19] The mode of restoration should ordinarily be left in the first instance to the discretion of the railroad company,[20] and, in the absence of statutes, it may use its discretion as to the material it will use,[21] but it has no discretion as to whether it will restore the highway.[22] The duty to restore is not performed by a restoration which, although practicable, seriously affects the use of the highway, when another method of restoration would restore the use wholly unimpaired.[23]

After change in location of highway. Where, in constructing a crossing, it is necessary to change the location of a highway, it is not required that the new road be better than the old road,[24] but the new way must be so located and constructed as to furnish as safe and convenient a substitute for the original way as the circumstances will permit.[25] If the new road is dangerous because it is near a precipice, the railroad may be required to provide a guard or barrier.[26] It has been held that the railroad need not maintain the substitute road after it has been constructed.[27]

§ 151. —— Bridges and Approaches Thereto

If the proper restoration of a street or highway so as not to impair its usefulness demands a crossing by means of a bridge or viaduct, it is the duty of the railroad company to construct and maintain such a crossing.

While a railroad need not construct a bridge for a crossing unless it is necessary to secure the proper restoration of the highway,[28] if the proper restoration of a street or highway so as not to impair its usefulness demands a crossing by means of a bridge or viaduct, it is the duty of the railroad company to provide such a crossing[29] with the necessary excavations, embankments, and approaches thereto,[30] and it is the continuing duty of the railroad,[31] existing at common law,[32] but in many jurisdictions imposed by statute,[33] or in some jurisdictions in-

14. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R. Co v. State, 37 Ind 489
51 C.J. p 658 note 38

15. Ind.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co v McIntosh, 38 N.E. 476, 140 Ind 261.
51 C.J. p 658 note 39

16. N.Y.—People v. Dutchess, etc., R Co, 58 N.Y. 152

17. N.Y.—Rauenstein v. New York, etc, R Co., 32 N.E. 1047, 136 N. Y. 528, 18 L.R.A 768—Uline v. New York Cent, etc., R Co, 4 N.E. 536, 101 N.Y. 98, 54 Am R. 661.

18. N.Y.—Post v. West Shore R Co, 26 N.E 7, 123 N.Y. 580.
51 C.J. p 659 note 42.

19. N.Y.—Post v. West Shore R. Co, supra.
W.Va.—Davis v. Twin Mountain, etc., R Co, 87 S.E. 544, 77 W.Va. 400

20. N.Y.—People v. Delaware, etc, R. Co, 69 N.E. 651, 177 N.Y. 337—Post v. West Shore R Co., 26 N E 7, 123 N.Y 580.

21. N.C.—State v. Roanoke, R, etc., Co., 13 S.E. 719, 109 N.C. 860.

22. N.Y.—People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co, 58 N.Y 152.

23. N.Y.—People v. Delaware, etc, Co., 69 N.E. 651, 177 N.Y. 337.

24. W.Va.—Wetzel County Ct. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co, 87 S.E. 884, 77 W.Va. 538, L.R.A 1917C 967.

25. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Delaware, etc., R. Co, 64 A. 417, 215 Pa. 149
51 C.J. p 659 note 50

26. W.Va.—Wetzel County Ct. v Baltimore, etc, R Co, 87 S.E 884, 77 W.Va 538, L.R.A.1917C 967.

27. W.Va.—Wetzel County Ct. v. Baltimore, etc., R Co., supra.

28. Neb.—Sarpy County v. Omaha, etc, R. Co, 218 N.W. 403, 116 Neb. 516.

"Necessary"

Under statute requiring railway company to erect and keep in order bridges over highways at such points as bridges may be necessary to cross railway, railway's duty was not limited to erection and maintenance of bridges only at points where it was impossible otherwise to cross tracks. —Alabama & V. Ry. Co v. Graham, 157 So. 241, 171 Miss. 695.

Bridge under or over way

A "bridge under a public way," within statute requiring newly built railroad to maintain bridges which it is required to construct under a public way, is a bridge for travelers to use as part of a highway crossing railroad over level thereof, and a "bridge over a public way" means a bridge on which railroad runs above highway.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Worcester County Com'rs, 15 N.E.2d 455, 300 Mass. 415.

29. Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Worcester County Com'rs, supra.
Miss.—Corpus Juris cited in Alabama & V Ry. Co v Graham, 157 So. 241, 245, 171 Miss. 695.
51 C.J. p 660 note 72.

Police power

State, under police power, may require railroad which crosses highway to build and maintain bridge — Connersville Hydraulic Co. v. City of Connersville, 173 N.E 641, 95 Ind. App 234.

Underpass held necessary

Ky.—Chesapeake & O. Ry Co. v. City of Bellevue, 38 S.W.2d 948, 239 Ky. 61.

30. Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc, R. Co., 28 N.W. 3, 35 Minn. 131, 59 Am.R. 313.
Okl.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. Taylor, 192 P. 349, 79 Okl. 142.

31. Miss.—Corpus Juris cited in Alabama & V. Ry Co v. Graham, 157 So. 241, 245, 171 Miss. 695.
51 C.J. p 660 note 74.

32. Miss.—Corpus Juris cited in Alabama & V Ry. Co v. Graham, 157 So. 241, 245, 171 Miss 695
Tenn.—Louisville & N. R. v. Evins, 13 Tenn App. 57.
51 C.J p 660 note 75.

33. Miss.—Corpus Juris cited in Alabama & V. Ry. Co. v. Graham, 157 So 241, 245, 171 Miss. 695.
51 C.J p 660 note 76.

County assuming part of cost

Fact that county assumed part of cost of railway bridge over highway, and burden of erecting and maintaining bridge and approaches corporated as a provision in the charter,[34] subsequently to keep the bridge in repair,[35] and also to keep in repair the approaches thereto,[36] even though the bridge was formerly built and maintained by the municipality.[37]

The duty of making repairs applies to the whole structure built by the railroad company for the purpose of crossing,[38] although extending beyond the limits of the right of way,[39] and applies not only to the substructure or support, but also to the surface or roadway on the bridge or approaches,[40] unless it is otherwise provided by statute;[41] and, where the railroad crosses below the grade of the highway in a cut, the duty extends to the entire width of the excavation made for the railroad.[42]

The duty of a railroad company with respect to the maintenance and repair of bridges at crossings is not, however, any greater than that of the public authorities charged with the same duty as to other bridges along the highway,[43] and it need not keep in repair any portion of the street or highway beyond the limits of the approaches proper;[44] but a bridge which is a necessary part of the crossing or approach must be kept in repair by the railroad company.[45] It has been held that, in repairing a bridge, the railroad need not do more than bring the bridge to the standard of efficiency it had when constructed, and it need not strengthen it to meet increased traffic conditions.[46] thereto, did not relieve railway of statutory duty of maintaining bridge and approaches in good order and in condition reasonably safe for ordinary uses of public—Alabama & V Ry. Co v. Graham, 157 So. 241, 171 Miss. 695.

Subsequent statutes

Statutory requirement that railroads shall restore highways and streets intersected by rights of way has been limited by subsequent provision that roadway over bridge and approaches thereto shall be maintained by municipal or state authority and by provision that alterations can be made only pursuant to order of the commission, but original statutory requirement is a vital part of the statute and, with respect to bridges, there has been little change in view of provision that, when a highway crosses tracks by overhead bridge, framework of bridge and abutments shall be maintained by railroad.—Sturman v. New York Cent. R. Co., 19 N.E.2d 679, 280 N. Y. 57, reargument denied 21 N.E.2d 197, 280 N.Y. 688.

34. Vt.—Clarendon v. Rutland R. Co., 52 A. 1057, 75 Vt. 6.

35. Miss.—Corpus Juris cited in Alabama & V. Ry. Co v. Graham, 157 So. 241, 245, 171 Miss. 695.
51 C.J. p 661 note 78.

Constitutional limitation

The power to require railroad to maintain bridges crossing highways is subject to constitutional limitation that it may not be exerted unreasonably—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A.2d 588, 154 Pa.Super. 86

Duty to replace bridge

The duty of railroad to maintain and keep bridge in repair included duty to replace bridge when it ceased to be usable—Boston & M. R. R v. Worcester County Com'rs, 15 N.E.2d 455, 300 Mass 415—Boston & M. R. R. v. County Commissioners of Middlesex, 131 N.E. 283, 239 Mass. 127.

Agreement for joint operation

A railroad, under police power, may be required to maintain bridges over streets notwithstanding any agreement with another railroad for joint operation.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A.2d 588, 154 Pa.Super. 86.

Transfer of jurisdiction over highways

Amendment to constitution authorizing transfer of exclusive jurisdiction over state highways to state highway commission, and statutes, giving state highway commission such jurisdiction and charging it with duty of maintaining such highways, did not affect statutory duty of railway of maintaining bridges over railways and approaches thereto—Alabama & V Ry. Co. v Graham, 157 So. 241, 171 Miss. 195.

Duty enforceable by commission

N.J.—Hudson County v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 8 A.2d 556, 123 N.J.Law 204, affirmed 12 A. 2d 878, 124 N.J.Law 563, and 12 A. 2d 879, 124 N.J.Law 564—Erie R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 153 A. 268, 107 N.J.Law 409.

36. Miss.—Corpus Juris cited in Alabama & V. Ry Co v Graham, 157 So 241, 245, 171 Miss. 695.
51 C.J. p 661 note 79.

37. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 129 S.W. 94, 138 Ky. 742.

38. Mass.—White v. Quincy, 97 Mass. 430.
51 C.J. p 661 note 81.

39. Mass.—White v. Quincy, supra.

40. Ill.—McFarlane v. Chicago, 57 N.E. 12, 185 Ill. 242.
51 C.J. p 661 note 83.

41. N.Y.—Sturman v. New York Cent. R. Co, 19 N.E.2d 679, 280 N Y. 57.

Tex.—Hays v. Texarkana & Fort Smith Ry. Co., Civ.App., 87 S.W. 2d 1106, error dismissed.
51 C.J. p 661 note 84.

"Framework;" "roadway"

(1) Under statute requiring the "framework" and "abutments" of an overhead crossing to be maintained by the railroad and the "roadway" and approaches by the county, the word "framework" is used in the statute in contradistinction to the term "roadway" which is to be placed on the framework and the "abutments," and, hence, everything above the framework and abutments is a part of the roadway which would include the flooring and everything above that, as to which the duty to maintain would be on the county and not on the railroad—Pridmore v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 186 P. 862, 109 Wash 305.

(2) Railroads were held obligated to maintain and repair framework and abutments, but not roadways, of highway bridges passing over city railroad property used both for yard purposes and for operation of main line trains.—City of New York v Long Island R. Co., 5 N.E.2d 380, 272 N.Y. 658.

42. Mass.—Titcomb v. Fitchburg R. Co., 12 Allen 254

43. Pa.—Conshohocken R Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 15 Pa.Co. 445.
Tenn.—Louisville & N R. Co. v Evins, 13 Tenn.App. 57.

44. Minn.—In re Morrison County Trunk Highway No. 37 Separation of Grades, 223 N.W. 915, 176 Minn. 501.
51 C.J. p 662 note 87.

45. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Morris, 42 So. 19, 149 Ala 672.
51 C.J. p 662 note 88.

46. N.Y.—Matter of Morris Ave Bridge, 174 N.Y.S. 682, 105 Misc 659
Change after construction see infra § 157.

Where a railroad is carried over the highway by means of a bridge, it is not the duty of the railroad company to keep in repair that portion of the highway beneath the bridge,[47] although the contrary has been held;[48] and in some jurisdictions the statutes have been construed to require this to be done.[49] Where the bridge was originally constructed at a proper height above the level of the highway, the company is not required to keep the space the same by preventing any raise in the level of the highway or by raising the bridge in case the level of the highway is raised by natural causes or the action of the public authorities in repairing it.[50] Where a highway bridge over a railroad has become out of repair and dangerous, the railroad company has a right to close it to prevent persons going thereon, although it is a part of the public highway;[51] but, where a railroad company in making necessary repairs on a bridge over its tracks closes the bridge and opens a temporary roadway across its tracks at a different point, it must make the temporary roadway reasonably safe.[52] Where a bridge is already in existence, elevation of it by a railroad which constructs its tracks under it imposes no duty to repair it.[53] Where two or more railroads are liable for the repair of a viaduct, the cost of repairs will be apportioned between them.[54]

Highway bridges over streams. A railroad company is not required to bridge a stream where the necessity for the bridge as a part of the highway is not caused or affected by the existence of the railroad,[55] although it is within the limits of the railroad right of way.[56] It is not the duty of a railroad company to keep in repair a highway bridge across a stream outside of the limits of its right of way,[57] and, where a railroad company in crossing changes the location of a highway, it is not required to keep in repair a bridge which it constructs across a stream in building a new way, and which is outside of the right of way and not at the crossing,[58] although as to this the contrary has been held.[59] The company is not required to keep in repair bridges over streams or ditches, although within the limits of the right of way, if so far removed from the crossing as not to be included within the approaches thereto,[60] or the necessity for which is in no way caused or affected by the construction of the railroad;[61] but, if by construction of a railroad a bridge over a stream is made necessary as an approach to a crossing, it must be constructed and maintained by the railroad.[62]

Street railroads, whose tracks in a street do not constitute an additional servitude, need not contribute to the expense of a highway bridge over a railroad.[63] A street railway which passes over a bridge already constructed and sufficient for ordinary use imposes an additional servitude on the bridge so that it must contribute to the maintenance thereof.[64]

Lights for streets under viaducts. A statute requiring a railroad to light streets under its viaducts where such viaducts darken the streets has been held to be a valid exercise of police power.[65] When an ordinance requiring lights under a viaduct has been held invalid as not within the police power of

47. Conn.—Gray v. Danbury, 10 A. 198, 54 Conn 574.
Ill.—People v Illinois Cent R. Co., 85 N.E. 606, 235 Ill 374, 18 L.R.A., N.S., 915.

Grade of street
Under the statute providing that, when a public way passes under a railroad, the bridge and its abutments shall be kept and maintained by the railroad company, and the public way and its approaches be maintained and kept in repair by the municipality in which they are situated, a municipality has the duty of resurfacing a street and determining the grade of the street.—Yackee v. Village of Napoleon, 21 N.E.2d 111, 135 Ohio St 344.

48. N.J.—Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 69 A. 465, 73 N.J.Eq. 359.

49. N.J.—Hudson County v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 8 A.2d 556, 123 N.J.Law 204, affirmed 12 A.2d 878, 124 N.J.Law 563, and 12 A.2d 879, 124 N.J.Law 564.

Vt.—Waterbury v. Central Vermont R. Co., 108 A. 423, 93 Vt. 461.

50. Conn.—Gray v. Danbury, 10 A. 198, 54 Conn 574.

51. Ohio.—Toledo St. R. Co. v. Mammet, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 591, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 244

52. Va.—Marshall v. Valley R. Co., 34 S.E. 455, 97 Va. 653.

53. Mich.—Burdell Tp. v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., 121 N.W. 743, 157 Mich. 255.

54. Ill.—Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill.App. 591

55. Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport, 63 Ill.App. 224
Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 64 N.W. 1140, 62 Minn. 450.

56. Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport, 63 Ill.App. 224.

57. Ga.—Brookins v. Central R., etc., Co., 48 Ga. 523

58. Ga.—Brookins v. Central R., etc., Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 662 note 2.

59. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Irwin, 85 Pa. 336.

60. Ill.—Rutland v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill.App. 442.
51 C.J. p. 662 note 4.

61. Ill.—White County v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 172 N.E. 22, 340 Ill. 42
51 C.J. p. 662 note 5.

62. Ill.—Henderson County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 151 N.E. 542, 320 Ill. 608.
Minn.—Goodhue County v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 69 N.W. 898, 67 Minn. 213.

63. Mich.—Chicago, etc., Grand Trunk Junction R. Co. v. St. Clair Cir. Judge, 121 N.W. 297, 156 Mich. 567.

64. N.C.—Carolina Cent. R. Co. v. Wilmington St. R. Co., 26 S.E. 913, 120 N.C. 520.

65. D.C.—Washington Terminal Co. v. District of Columbia, 265 F. 965, 49 App.D.C. 325.
51 C.J. p. 662 note 9.

a municipality, a reënactment of the ordinance is likewise invalid.[66]

§ 152. —— Agreements for Restoration and Maintenance

Railroad companies and municipalities may contract as to the construction and maintenance of crossings.

A railroad may, by agreement with a municipality, bind itself to construct and maintain a crossing;[67] and a town or municipality invested with the regulation, control, and duty of maintaining and repairing the streets or highways within its limits may by contract assume and thereby relieve the railroad company from the duty of keeping a bridge or crossing in repair,[68] and such contract will relieve the railroad company from further liability to the public in this respect.[69] Since the acceptance of a municipal ordinance is a contract, the ordinance measures the duties and obligations of the railroad,[70] and the railroad is bound to perform the conditions of the ordinance[71] at its own expense,[72] but a railroad which, by accepting an ordinance, agrees to do what the city may require, is not bound to obey a subsequent unreasonable ordinance.[73] Any agreement of this nature is made subject to police power of the municipality to require maintenance by the railroad,[74] and is likewise subject to control by the state under its police power.[75]

Where the railroad is under a statutory duty to restore a highway, an agreement to do so does not transfer this legal duty into a mere personal obligation,[76] or in any sense limit or reduce the duty imposed by the statute;[77] and, where a railroad company constructs a bridge or viaduct pursuant to a contract with a municipality, by which the latter agrees to keep the same or its approaches in repair, if the railroad company was already legally bound to do the entire work of construction and maintenance, the contract is not only without consideration,[78] but is one which the municipality has no power to make,[79] and the existence of such contract will not prevent the municipality from instituting proceedings to compel the railroad company to make any necessary repairs.[80] If, however, the railroad company was under no legal obligation to construct the bridge, it may not be compelled to waive the contract of the municipality and repair it.[81]

An agreement on the part of a railroad company to construct suitable street crossings, in consideration of a right of way through a city, is enforceable against the railroad company;[82] but an agreement made in consideration of the right to lay a switch track across certain streets that the railroad company will construct and maintain "all the crossings of streets" over its tracks will be construed as applying only to the streets crossed by the switch track in question.[83] Where a railroad company changes the location of a highway in crossing and

66. Ill.—Cohen v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 239 Ill.App. 76

67. Fla.—Florida East Coast R Co v. Miami, 79 So 682, 76 Fla. 277.
51 C J. p 663 note 11

68. Va.—Hicks v Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 45 S.E. 888, 102 Va 197.
51 C J. p 663 note 12.

Deed not within contract

Where written contract between city and railroads provided for ceding properties, closing streets, and granting easements, subsequent deed provisions whereby railroads sought to impose obligation on city to maintain bridges entirely constituted material variation from contract, requiring, at least, resolution of approval by board of estimate to render deed effectual, and comptroller and corporation counsel had no power to bind city even if they did accept and record deed.—City of New York v. Long Island R. Co., 289 N.Y S. 217, 248 App.Div. 820, affirmed 5 N.E.2d 380, 272 N.Y. 658.

69. Va.—Hicks v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 45 S.E. 888, 102 Va. 197.

70. N Y.—New York, etc., R. Co v New York, 154 N.Y.S. 141, 90 Misc 178.
51 C.J. p 663 note 14.

71. Ill.—Chicago Terminal Transfer R Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill.App. 591

72. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc, R Co v. Dayton, 197 S W 969, 199 S.W. 25, 177 Ky. 502.

73. Kan.—Emporia v Atchison, etc., R. Co., 147 P. 1095, 94 Kan. 718

74. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 75 Pa Super. 282

75. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Public Utility Commission, 7 A 2d 86, 136 Pa.Super. 1.
51 C.J. p 663 note 19.

Enforcement of contract

Where railroad erected bridge, at its own expense, in order to eliminate grade crossing, and municipalities in which bridge was located each agreed in writing to accept and maintain portion of bridge which was located within particular municipality, the calling on railroad by public utility commission to maintain bridge, notwithstanding railroad's contracts with municipalities, did not abrogate railroad's contracts with municipalities, but, after commission had fixed liabilities of those concerned to the public, railroad could enforce its contract rights, if any, against municipalities.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Utility Commission, supra

76. Va.—Norfolk, etc, R. Co. v. Carroll County, 65 S.E. 531, 110 Va. 95.

77. N Y.—Matter of Henner, 211 N. Y.S. 334, 125 Misc. 472, affirmed 216 N Y.S. 844, 217 App Div. 785.

78. Minn.—State v. Northern Pac. R Co, 108 N W. 269, 98 Minn 429, affirmed 28 S Ct. 341, 208 U S. 583, 52 L.Ed 630.
51 C.J p 663 note 23.

79. Minn.—State v. Northern Pac R Co, supra.
51 C J. p 663 note 24.

80. Iowa.—Newton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 23 N.W. 905, 66 Iowa 422.
51 C.J. p 663 note 25.

81. Minn.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 89 N.W. 1, 85 Minn 416.

82. Ky.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Harrodsburg, 32 S.W. 604, 17 Ky. L. 780

83. La.—State v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 35 So. 432, 111 La. 120.

purchases additional land for a new location, it may legally agree with the grantor as to the character and location of the new way to be constructed thereon, which contract will be valid and binding between the parties, although not conclusive on the public as to whether the company has properly restored the use of the original highway.[84] Where a railroad has constructed a bridge and has for a long period of time kept the entire structure in repair, it is assumed that the bridge was built pursuant to an agreement with the municipality to make such repair.[85]

Agreement with street car company whereby the street car company undertakes to maintain a highway bridge over a railroad does not relieve the railroad from its statutory liability.[86]

§ 153. —— Character of Highway

Ordinarily a railroad is not under a duty to keep in repair a crossing of a road not legally established as such.

Since the duty of the railroad to construct a crossing is ordinarily limited to crossings of legally established streets and highways, as discussed supra § 144, a railroad is under no duty to keep in repair a crossing of a road not legally established as such,[87] and a provision as to "any regularly laid out public highway" in a statute imposing a penalty for noncompliance therewith will not be construed as including a public highway established by user only;[88] but a city street is a "highway" within the application of the statutes,[89] and the duty of restoring it applies to a street regularly designated and dedicated to the public, although not opened and fitted for use,[90] and in some jurisdictions it is held that the same duty attaches, under the statute, to neighborhood roads.[91]

Wherever a way existed as a public highway, however established, at the time the railroad company was constructed across it, it is the duty of the railroad company to keep the crossing in repair;[92] and if, although the highway crossed is not legally a public highway, the railroad company recognizes and invites the public to use it as such by assuming to construct or maintain a bridge or crossing, it is its duty to keep it in proper repair;[93] but the duty in such a case is a common-law and not a statutory duty,[94] and the rule does not apply where the railroad company has at no time recognized the way crossed as a public highway.[95]

§ 154. —— Companies and Persons Liable

The duty of restoring, maintaining, and repairing highways crossed by a railroad is a condition inseparable from the right to cross, and attaches to whatever person or company exercises the franchise.

The duty of restoring, maintaining, and repairing highways crossed by a railroad attaches to whatever person or company exercises the franchise,[96] and is therefore binding on the successors of the company by which the crossing was originally effected,[97] including purchasers at judicial sales[98] and lessees of the road.[99] This duty is not affected by the fact that the railroad company may be insolvent and in the hands of a receiver,[1] or the fact that a street railroad company whose tracks run along the highway is also under obligation to keep the highway between the rails of its tracks in repair,[2] or that, by contract another railroad company uses the tracks of defendant.[3] The fact that the charter of the railroad company imposes certain requirements as to crossings does not prevent the application of general statutory provisions not inconsistent therewith;[4] nor, in the absence of a contrary intention, express or

84. N.Y.—Post v. West Shore R. Co., 26 N.E. 7, 123 N.Y. 580.

85. Mich.—Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 195 N.W. 807, 225 Mich. 12

86. N.Y.—Middletown v. Wallkill Transit Co., 193 N.Y.S. 297, 118 Misc. 334

87. Kan.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684.
51 C.J. p. 663 note 33.

88. Kan.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, supra

89. Miss.—Hamline v. Southern R. Co., 25 So. 295, 76 Miss. 410.
51 C.J. p. 664 note 35.

90. Wis.—Racine v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 N.W. 857, 92 Wis. 118.

91. N.C.—Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 57 S.E. 209, 144 N.C. 569.

92. Pa.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Laceyville Bridge Co., 23 Pa. Co. 225.
51 C.J. p. 663 note 39.

93. Minn.—Lillstrom v. Northern Pa. R. Co., 55 N.W. 624, 53 Minn. 464, 20 L.R.A. 587.
51 C.J. p. 664 note 40.

94. Tex.—Taylor, etc., R. Co. v. Warner, 32 S.W. 868, 88 Tex. 642.

95. Kan.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, 19 S.W. 1015, 85 Tex. 64.

96. Tex.—Wichita Valley R. Co. v. Meyers, Civ.App., 248 S.W. 444.
51 C.J. p. 664 note 43

97. Tex.—Wichita Valley R. Co. v. Meyers, supra.
51 C.J. p. 664 note 44.

98. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Speckman, 133 S.W. 915, 169 Ky. 385
N.J.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 13 A. 1, 50 N.J.Law 303, affirmed 23 A. 168, 53 N.J.Law 244.

99. Tex.—Wichita Valley R. Co. v. Meyers, Civ.App., 248 S.W. 444.
51 C.J. p. 664 note 46.

1. Iowa.—Ft. Dodge v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 54 N.W. 243, 87 Iowa 389.

2. N.Y.—Masterson v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 84 N.Y. 247, 38 Am.R. 510.
Va.—Roanoke Ry. & Electric Co. v. Brown, 154 S.E. 526, 155 Va. 259.

3. Mich.—Chicago, etc., Grand Trunk Junction R. Co. v. St. Clair Cir. Judge, 121 N.W. 297, 156 Mich. 567.

4. Mo.—Henry v. Wabash Western R. Co., 44 Mo.App. 100.

implied does it affect any common-law duties of the railroad company in this respect.[5]

§ 155. —— Rights and Remedies of Public

A railroad's duty to restore and maintain a highway may be enforced by a proceeding in equity, or by an action for the expense incurred in doing the requisite work.

In many jurisdictions statutory provisions have been enacted to provide a means for enforcing performance of a railroad's duty to restore and maintain a highway,[6] but statutory remedies in such cases are ordinarily held to be cumulative and not to prevent a resort to the other remedies existing at common law or in equity.[7] Where a railroad company fails in its duty as to restoring and maintaining a street or highway which it has crossed, it may be proceeded against by indictment for a public nuisance in obstructing the highway, as discussed infra §§ 194–196, or by mandamus to compel a performance of such duty, as discussed in Mandamus § 231 d, or the public authorities may sue in equity to enjoin the further obstruction of the highway,[8] or to compel the railroad company properly to restore or maintain it,[9] and for damages for the obstruction prior to the suit.[10]

So, also, where a railroad company acquires a right of way through a town on condition that it will construct proper street crossings, the town may sue in equity for a specific performance of the agreement,[11] and, having accepted a right-of-way ordinance, the railroad may not deny that the street is a public way.[12] If an injury results for which the municipality is held liable in damages it may recover indemnity from the railroad company;[13] but a town has no such possession of a national road, the fee of which is in the state, as will enable it to maintain an action of trespass quare clausum fregit against a railroad company for failing to restore it at a crossing.[14]

It is not a bar to the maintenance of a suit or a proceeding to compel the railroad company to perform its duty that the public authorities might do the work and recover from the railroad company,[15] or proceed by indictment,[16] or recover a statutory penalty,[17] or sue the railroad company for indemnity in case of a resulting injury for which they should be held liable.[18] The duty to restore a highway, being a continuous duty, is not affected by the statute of limitations.[19] Laches may not be imputed to the state or the officers of the municipality in permitting the obstruction to exist for a long time [20] Enforced use of a new road is not an acceptance thereof so as to prevent an action to compel proper restoration of the old road.[21]

In an action to compel the restoration of a crossing in the absence of any testimony on the subject, the court may not assume that a railroad company acquired from the owner of the fee rights to the portion of its right of way which was a highway crossing other than those which the law entitled it to demand from him,[22] and, therefore, may not assume that the railroad company acquired from the owner of the fee the right to grant or withhold from the public permission to use as a public way such portion of its right of way as was a highway crossing,[23] but the court may assume that the railroad built its line by virtue of its right to occupy land of another in accordance with the general laws

5. Tenn.—Dyer County v. Paducah, etc, R. Co., 11 S.W. 943, 87 Tenn 712.

6. W.Va.—Davis v. Twin Mountain, etc, R. Co, 87 S.E. 544, 77 W.Va. 400.
51 C.J. p 664 note 52.

Order directing compliance
Court order that federal agency, and other defendants involved in construction of railroad, restore public highways at crossings to former condition thereof in accordance with railroad law, was unwarranted, where there was neither allegations nor evidence, nor finding of any failure of defendants to comply with railroad law.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp., 66 N.E.2d 289, 295 N.Y. 227.

7. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent, etc., R. Co., 74 N.Y. 302.
Ohio.—State v. Dayton, etc, R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434.

8. Ohio.—State v. Dayton, etc, R. Co, 36 Ohio St 434.
51 C.J. p 664 note 55.

9. N.J.—South Amboy v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 73 A. 852, 76 N.J.Eq 57, reversed on other grounds 76 A. 1038, 77 N.J.Eq 242.
51 C.J. p 665 note 56.

10. Ky.—Greenup County v. Maysville, etc, R. Co, 11 S.W. 774, 88 Ky. 659, 11 Ky.L. 169.
51 C.J. p 665 note 57.

11. Ky.—Louisville Southern R. Co. v. Harrodsburg, 32 S.W. 604, 17 Ky. L. 780.
51 C.J. p 665 note 59.

12. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v Dayton, 197 S.W. 969, 199 S.W. 25, 177 Ky. 502

13. Conn.—Hamden v. New Haven, etc., Co., 27 Conn. 158.
51 C.J. p 665 note 62

14. Ill.—St. Louis, etc, R. Co. v. Summit, 3 Ill.App. 155.

15. U.S.—Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co, C.C.Ind., 83 F. 284.
51 C.J. p 665 note 67.

16. U.S.—Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc, R. Co, supra

17. U.S.—Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc, R. Co, supra

18. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc, R. Co v. State, 37 Ind 489.

19. N.Y.—Windsor v. Delaware, etc, Canal Co, 36 N.Y.S. 863, 92 Hun 127, affirmed 49 N.E. 1105, 155 N.Y. 645—Hatch v. Syracuse, etc, R. Co, 4 N.Y.S. 509, 50 Hun 64

20. Pa.—Sharon Borough v. Pennsylvania Co, 44 Pa.Super 526.

21. Va.—Norfolk, etc, R. Co v. Carroll County, 65 S.E. 531, 110 Va. 95.

22. Tex.—Phillips v. Texas, etc, R. Co., Com.App, 296 S.W. 877.

23. Tex.—Phillips v. Texas, etc, R. Co., supra.

relating to that subject,[24] and may assume that it obtained from the owner in fee the right to construct on that portion of its right of way which was a highway crossing.[25]

Parties. A municipality, having power over the highway crossings within its limits, is the proper party to bring an action to compel removal of obstructions,[26] and a county in which the crossing lies may also sue,[27] and it has been held that suit may be brought by the attorney general of the state, with or without a relator.[28] It has been held that a county may be properly joined as complainant in a suit by a municipality to compel specific performance of the railroad's duty to repair.[29] Such suit may be maintained by an individual, suing on behalf of the public, if he has a special interest in the highway[30] When highway commissioners have no power over railroad crossings, they may not maintain an action to remove obstructions,[31] but, when given the necessary power, they may sue in the name of the town.[32]

Railroad commissions. In some jurisdictions the commissions created by statute to regulate and control railroads have been held to possess the power to require a railroad to repair a crossing.[33] Where, by statute, the control of highways at railroad crossings is vested in railroad commissioners, if a railroad company neglects to maintain crossings, the remedy of the public authorities is by application to the railroad commissioners.[34] An order of the commission must show what repairs are necessary and proper.[35] The commission may assess the costs of repair.[36]

Damages. A municipality which has suffered no injury may not recover damages on failure of a railroad to repair streets in accordance with its contract.[37] When a new road is formally accepted in lieu of the old road, the county is not entitled to damages for the taking of the old road,[38] and, if the new road is injured by the railroad, the measure of damages is the cost of restoring it to its condition when accepted by the county.[39] When a new ford across a stream is constructed but not accepted because defective, the measure of damages is the reasonable cost of making it reasonably safe.[40]

Penalty for failure to repair. Statutory provisions in some jurisdictions provide for the recovery of penalties on failure of the railroad to keep crossings in repair.[41] The provisions must be strictly complied with.[42] Where it is found that the railroad performed its duty to repair, a judgment for the statutory penalty should be reversed.[43] Where no crossing has ever been established, the penalty may not be recovered.[44] These statutes, being penal, have been held not to authorize actions for the penalty against receivers,[45] even though the receiver was appointed under the federal laws.[46]

Recovery of expense of restoring or maintaining highway. Where a railroad company has failed to restore a highway at a crossing to its former usefulness or to keep the crossing, bridge, or approaches in a proper state of repair, the municipal or other public authorities charged with the duty of main-

24. Tex.—Phillips v. Texas, etc., R Co, supra.

25. Tex.—Phillips v. Texas, etc., R. Co., supra

26. N.Y.—Mt Vernon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 133 N.E. 900, 232 N.Y. 309
Wis.—Jamestown v. Chicago, etc, R Co., 34 N.W. 728, 69 Wis. 648.

27. Ky.—Greenup County v Maysville, etc, R. Co., 11 S.W. 774, 88 Ky. 659, 11 Ky.L. 169.

28. Ohio—State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434.

29. N.J.—South Amboy v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 73 A. 852, 76 N.J.Eq 57.

30. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R Co v. Denton, 195 So. 218, 239 Ala. 301.

Action by public authorities

Where ordinance giving railroad right to use of city streets provided that crossing was to be constructed when city council so directed, and property owner, instead of requesting city council to direct railroad to build crossing, wrote letter to railroad official, railroad was not liable for damages for refusal to build crossing, without some showing of fraud or oppression in failure of council to direct crossing to be constructed—Call Bond & Mortgage Co v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 287 N.W. 832, 227 Iowa 142.

31. Ill.—Stephens v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 135 N.E 68, 303 Ill 49

32. N.Y.—Windsor v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co, 36 N.Y.S. 863, 92 Hun 127, affirmed 49 N.E. 1105, 155 N. Y. 645

33. Ill.—White County v. Louisville, etc, R. Co, 172 N.E. 22, 340 Ill. 42
51 C.J. p 666 note 85

34. Conn.—New York, etc, R. Co. v. New Haven, 39 A. 597, 70 Conn 390.
51 C.J. p 666 note 86.

35. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 75 Pa. Super 282

36. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R Co v. Public Service Commission, supra.

37. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Shelbyville, 200 S.W. 334, 179 Ky. 132.

38. Ky.—Elkhorn, etc, R. Co v Floyd County, 224 S.W. 682, 189 Ky 201.

39. Ky.—Elkhorn, etc., R. Co. v. Floyd County, supra.
51 C.J. p 666 note 91.

40. Ky.—Elkhorn, etc., R Co v. Floyd County, supra.

41. Ind.—Cummins v. Evansville, etc, R Co, 18 N.E. 6, 115 Ind. 417
51 C.J. p 666 note 93

42. Tex.—San Marcos v. International, etc, R Co., Civ.App., 203 S.W. 795.
51 C.J. p 666 note 94.

43. Ill.—People v. Illinois Cent R. Co, 152 Ill.App. 544.

44. Tex.—Atlanta v Texas, etc., R. Co, 120 S.W. 923, 56 Tex.Civ.App. 226.

45. Tex.—San Marcos v. International, etc., R Co., Civ.App, 203 S.W 458.

46. Tex.—San Marcos v. International, etc, R. Co, supra.

taining the highway at such place may do so and recover from the railroad company the expenses necessarily incurred,[47] and in some cases it is so provided by statutory provisions,[48] such statutes being valid police regulations.[49] Under a statute providing for repair by a municipality and recovery of expenses from the railroad on failure of the road to repair after notice, it is necessary, before serving any notice, that a record of the necessity and details of improvement should be made by the board.[50]

The right to do such work and recover therefor is not an exclusive remedy.[51] No recovery may be had for paving highways outside the right of way and in front of station grounds,[52] but the railroad may be required to pay for construction of a necessary drain across such a highway.[53] The fact that a street railroad agreed to maintain a bridge will not prevent recovery by the municipality from the railroad when the municipality was not a party to the contract.[54] Where a municipality reconstructs a road partly within and partly outside of the railroad right of way, it may recover only the cost of the part outside the right of way.[55] Where the city has parted with its possession and control of the street, it is a mere volunteer and may not recover from the railroad.[56]

§ 156. Opening or Extension of Public Ways across Existing Railroad

a. In general
b. Necessity for crossing
c. Manner of crossing
d. Construction and maintenance

a. In General

The public authorities authorized to open and extend streets and highways may ordinarily lay out or extend a street or highway across a railroad.

The public authorities authorized to open and extend streets and highways may ordinarily lay out or extend a street or highway across a railroad.[57] A mere permissive statute authorizing an agreement between a municipality and a railroad has been held not to deprive the city of its right to extend a street in accordance with the general statutory provisions.[58] In some jurisdictions the power to establish or extend highways or other public ways across an existing railroad has been vested by statute in a state board or commission,[59] but commis-

47. Kan.—McPherson County v. U. S. Railroad Administration, 203 P. 912, 110 Kan. 274, rehearing denied 206 P. 882, 111 Kan. 205.
51 C. J. p. 666 note 99.

48. W. Va.—Davis v. Twin Mountain, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 544, 77 W. Va. 400.
51 C. J. p. 667 note 1.

49. Vt.—Clarendon v. Rutland R. Co., 52 A. 1057, 75 Vt. 6.
Wis.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 197 N.W. 247, 182 Wis. 605.

50. Ill.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Leaf River, 135 Ill. App. 559.

51. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489.
51 C. J. p. 667 note 5.

52. Wis.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 197 N.W. 247, 182 Wis. 605.

53. Wis.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

54. N.Y.—Middletown v. Wallkill Transit Co., 193 N.Y.S. 297, 118 Misc. 334.

55. Pa.—Sugar Creek Tp. v. Erie R. Co., 89 A. 683, 242 Pa. 573.

56. Ill.—Chicago v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 146 Ill. App. 403, affirmed 89 N.E. 648, 242 Ill. 30.

57. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 57, 334 Mo. 995—State ex rel. and to Use of Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 51 S.W.2d 73, 330 Mo. 729, certiorari denied Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of State of Missouri, 53 S.Ct. 89, 287 U.S. 641, 77 L.Ed. 555.
Exercise of power of eminent domain to extend street or highway over railroad see Eminent Domain § 78.

Presumed exercise of police power
Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. State, 31 S.W.2d 739, 182 Ark. 409.

Quorum
Where a quorum of county board consisting of seven members was at all times present during a hearing with respect to the establishment of a crossing over a railroad and whether it was required by public convenience and necessity, such matter could be determined by a majority of the board acting for that body as effectively as though the entire membership were present, and the fact that three absent members joined the signing of the order respecting the establishment of the crossing did not affect its validity.—Prosser v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 56 S.E.2d 591, 216 S.C. 33, certiorari denied Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Prosser, 70 S.Ct. 559, 339 U.S. 911, 94 L.Ed. 1338.

58. N.Y.—Matter of Third Ave., 170 N.Y.S. 470, 183 App.Div. 688.

59. Cal.—City of Mountain View v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 36 P.2d 650, 1 Cal.App.2d 317.
Ill.—Yowell v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co., 195 N.E. 667, 360 Ill. 272.
Ind.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 185 N.E. 902, 206 Ind. 51, rehearing denied 188 N.E. 321, 206 Ind. 51.
N.J.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 170 A. 246, 112 N.J.Law 215 and 172 A. 357, 112 N.J.Law 559, affirmed Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. State Highway Commission, 176 A. 725, 114 N.J.Law 397—State Highway Commission v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 170 A. 246, 112 N.J.Law 215 and 172 A. 357, 112 N.J.Law 559, affirmed 176 A. 725, 114 N.J.Law 397.
Okl.—Thompson v. State, 164 P.2d 232, 196 Okl. 190.
51 C. J. p. 667 note 14.

Highway authorities and railroad unable to agree
Where construction of a state highway requires installation of a railroad crossing regarding which an agreement cannot be reached with railroad, controversy must be determined in first instance by public service commission, acting in a quasi-judicial capacity.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. McDonnell, N. D., 45 N.W.2d 721.

Consent of commission
Road, although laid out, may not be built across tracks of railroad without permission of public utilities commission.—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Stafficker, 151 A. 201, 106 N.J. Eq. 412.

Interference with railroad
The establishment of a railroad crossing which will substantially insions vested with control over railroads have no such power in the absence of statute,[60] and, unless authorized to do so, may not consider questions relating to the necessity, expediency, or propriety of establishing streets even when they cross railroads,[61] and a statute giving such commissions power to regulate the manner in which a crossing may be made does not qualify the power vested in local authorities to extend a highway over an existing railroad.[62] It has been held that a statute authorizing a railroad commission to determine the necessity for, and order the construction of, crossings of new highways over railroads does not give it exclusive jurisdiction to do so,[63] but is supplemental to all other statutes affecting such crossings.[64]

A parkway has been held to be a park and not a highway within the meaning of statutory provisions regulating extension of new streets or highways over railroads.[65]

b. Necessity for Crossing

Under some statutes, a new street or highway may not be established across a railroad unless such crossing is necessary.

Under some statutes, a new street or highway may not be established across a railroad unless such crossing is necessary.[66] Under such a statute the question to be decided is whether, in view of the location of other facilities for crossing, and other places where safe crossings could be ordered, the volume of public travel reasonably requires the crossing.[67] The determination of necessity may be appealed from,[68] and a decision thereon will be reversed when not supported by the evidence,[69] but, where no appeal is taken, it may not be questioned on an appeal from an order of the commission directing the manner of crossing.[70]

Notice and hearing. In some jurisdictions the statutes require that the railroad be given notice of the intention to establish the new street or highway and opportunity to be heard on the question of the necessity for it,[71] and, when required, no legal highway is established if sufficient notice is not given,[72] but a notice to the railroad that a resolution "will be adopted" at a stated hearing is sufficient.[73]

c. Manner of Crossing

Statutes prohibiting grade crossings, at least in the absence of specified conditions, apply to a crossing of a railroad by a new street or highway or an extension of an old one.

terfere with use of railroad facilities is a matter of state-wide concern rather than a "municipal affair" under control of city, and public utilities commission has exclusive jurisdiction to make the primary determination of the necessity and advisability of the change—Northwestern Pac. R. Co. v. Superior Court in and for Humboldt County, 211 P.2d 571, 34 Cal.2d 454.

60. N.D.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 N.W. 730, 37 N.D. 98
51 C.J. p 667 note 15.

61. Mo.—State ex rel Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 55, 334 Mo. 992.
51 C.J. p 667 note 16.

62. Mo.—State ex rel Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.
N.D.—Ashley v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 163 N.W. 727, 37 N.D. 147.
S.C.—Thomas v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 167 S.E. 239, 168 S.C. 185.

Matter of procuring right of way for highway over railroad right of way is within jurisdiction of local authorities—Midland Valley R. Co. v. Town of Panama, 12 P.2d 503, 158 Okl. 55.

63. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co. v. Bay, 23 S.W.2d 968, 180 Ark. 1040.

64. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co. v. Bay, supra.

65. N.Y.—In re Westchester County, 158 N.E. 881, 246 N.Y. 314.
51 C.J. p 667 note 21.

66. N.Y.—In re Town Highway in Town of Ballston, Saratoga County, 23 N.E.2d 10, 281 N.Y. 322.

67. N.Y.—Matter of Eighty-Fourth St., 178 N.Y.S. 617, 189 App.Div. 315.
51 C.J. p 667 note 23.

Discretion

Question of what is reasonable exercise of town board's discretion and judgment in determining necessity of new highway crossing railroad tracks depends on surrounding facts and circumstances.—In re Town Highway in Town of Ballston, Saratoga County, 23 N.E.2d 10, 281 N.Y. 322.

68. N.Y.—In re Town Highway in Town of Ballston, Saratoga County, supra—51 C.J. p 668 note 24.

69. N.Y.—In re Town Highway in Town of Ballston, Saratoga County, supra—In re Town Highway on Bridge W-454, Town of Brutus, Cayuga County, 46 N.Y.S.2d 293, 267 App.Div. 893
51 C.J. p 668 note 25.

Fully sufficient evidence required

N.Y.—In re Town Highway in Town of Ballston, Saratoga County, 23 N.E.2d 10, 281 N.Y. 322.

Evidence as to cost

In proceeding before town board in the matter of laying out highway across right of way and under railroad tracks, board erred in not receiving evidence proffered by railroad companies as to cost of proposed new highway—In re Town Highway on Bridge W-454, Town of Brutus, Cayuga County, 46 N.Y.S.2d 293, 267 App.Div. 803.

Where finding is supported by evidence, court is bound thereby—Prosser v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 56 S.E.2d 591, 216 S.C. 33, certiorari denied Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Prosser, 70 S.Ct. 569, 339 U.S. 911, 94 L.Ed. 1338—Thomas v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 167 S.E. 239, 168 S.C. 185.

Findings held supported by evidence
Okl.—Thompson v. State, 164 P.2d 232, 196 Okl. 190.
S.C.—Prosser v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 56 S.E.2d 591, 216 S.C. 33, certiorari denied Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Prosser, 70 S.Ct. 569, 339 U.S. 911, 94 L.Ed. 1338

70. N.Y.—Matter of Hobart, 198 N.Y.S. 638, 204 App.Div. 595, affirmed 142 N.E. 292, 236 N.Y. 582.

71. Mass.—Old Colony, etc., R. Co. v. Plymouth County, 11 Gray 512.
51 C.J. p 668 note 27.

72. N.Y.—Matter of Overheiser Road, 184 N.Y.S. 483, 193 App.Div. 924.

73. N.Y.—Matter of Hobart, 198 N.Y.S. 638, 204 App.Div. 595, affirmed 142 N.E. 292, 236 N.Y. 582.

Where a street or highway is laid out across a railroad, it should be so located and constructed as not unnecessarily to injure the railroad.[74] A statute providing that the street or highway may be constructed "over or across" the railroad authorizes the public authorities at their election to construct the street or highway across the railroad at grade,[75] and the right to cross at grade is not affected by a requirement that they shall restore the railroad crossing to its former state or so as not to impair its usefulness.[76]

In many jurisdictions statutes prohibit generally or except on specified conditions the crossing of a railroad by a new highway at grade,[77] while in other jurisdictions the statutes have been held to authorize municipalities to lay out grade crossings.[78] A statute requiring the crossing to be "under or over" the railroad contemplates a crossing at a different level and prohibits a grade crossing.[79] Statutes prohibiting the construction of streets or highways across railroads at grade apply to highways located and even partly constructed prior to the statute, if not fully completed for use by the public at the place of crossing,[80] and to crossings incidental to the relocation of an existing highway,[81] and apply notwithstanding the railroad company may consent to a crossing of its tracks at grade,[82] or a grade crossing would be more convenient to the public.[83]

Under some statutes, where a new highway is to be laid out over a railroad, the county commissioners must determine the mode of crossing,[84] and their decision is final.[85] Even if a municipality has power to lay out a new street over a railroad, it may not do so without the consent of the county commissioners.[86]

Regulation by state boards or commissions. The control of the manner in which streets, opened or extended across existing railroads, may cross such railroads is, by statute in many jurisdictions, vested in the commissions or boards given control generally over railroads,[87] or the consent of such commission is required for a crossing at grade.[88] These stat-

74. Vt.—Central Vermont R. Co. v. Royalton, 4 A. 868, 58 Vt. 234.
51 C J. p 668 note 30.

75. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Chicago, 30 N.E. 1044, 141 Ill. 586, 17 L.R.A. 530.
51 C J. p 668 note 31.

76. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Chicago, supra.

77. Ind.—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 188 N.E. 321, 206 Ind. 51.
51 C J. p 668 note 33.

No prohibition

The statutes relating to the establishment, method of construction, and maintenance of street crossings over railroad tracks in a municipality, while indicating an inclination toward the elimination of grade crossings, do not in fact prohibit such crossings.—City of Youngstown v. Youngstown & Suburban Ry. Co., 46 N.E.2d 682, 68 Ohio App 295.

78. Mass.—Cambridge v. Railroad Comrs., 26 N.E. 241, 153 Mass. 161.

Reasonably required

Proposed improvement consisting of extension of village street at grade over railroad right of way to accommodate approximately one fourth of the inhabitants of village was "reasonably required to accommodate the public" within statute permitting such crossing at grade when reasonably required.—Village of Coldwater v. Cincinnati Northern R. Co., 14 Ohio Supp. 14.

79. Vt.—Central Vermont R. Co. v. Royalton, 4 A. 868, 58 Vt. 234.
51 C J. p 668 note 35.

80. Or.—Butcher v Flagg, 203 P 2d 651, 185 Or 471.
51 C J. p 668 note 36.

81. Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co v Bogert, 59 A. 100, 209 Pa. 589.—In re Mifflinville Bridge, 55 A. 1122, 206 Pa. 420.

82. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co v. Waterbury, 10 A. 162, 55 Conn. 19.

83. Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Bogert, 59 A. 100, 209 Pa 589.

84. Mass.—Old Colony, etc., R. Co. v. Plymouth County Comrs., 11 Gray 512.
51 C J. p 669 note 56.

85. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Middlesex County, 1 Allen 324.

86. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Brookline, 136 N.E. 147, 242 Mass. 455.

87. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 55, 334 Mo. 992.
N Y.—New York Cent R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 194 N.E 761, 266 N.Y. 294.—People ex rel City of Niagara Falls v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 58 N.E. 166, 158 N.Y. 410.
51 C.J. p 668 note 40.

Power of highway commission

Although it was for highway commission to determine whether highway should cross railroad, it was for public service commission to determine its particular location and character and structure of crossing, and grant of such power to public service commission is not contrary to constitutional provision defining powers of highway commission.—State ex rel. and to Use of Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 51 S.W. 2d 73, 330 Mo 729, certiorari denied Chicago Great Western R Co v. Public Service Commission of State of Missouri, 53 S.Ct. 89, 287 U.S. 641, 77 L.Ed. 555.

Incomplete order

Failure of commission's order to provide for paving, curbing, gutters, and sidewalks within scope of project but outside the rights of way of railroads was held not to invalidate order in view of recitals therein that city had agreed that such street improvements should not be considered part of project, since agreement relieved railroads of any responsibility for payment for such improvements.—Petition of City of Buffalo, 279 N.Y.S. 873, 245 App.Div. 19.

88. Ind.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 188 N.E 321, 206 Ind. 51.
Or.—Butcher v. Flagg, 203 P.2d 651, 185 Or. 471.

Subject to power of commission

Town had authority to lay out and establish a public highway across railroad tracks at grade subject to power of commission, on application to it to determine if crossing should be at grade; the statute providing that, when a turnpike is laid out after the laying out and construction of a railroad so as to cross such railroad, the turnpike may pass over, under, or across railroad was not impliedly repealed by statute giving public service commission jurisdiction of matters relating to elimination of, or changes in, existing crossutes have been held not to require that the layout of the highway be completed before the commission may act.[89]

The commission, having jurisdiction over railroads, may, within reason, determine the manner in which a new highway may cross a railroad.[90] Under such statutes the commission's determination as to the manner of crossing is valid only as far as it acts within the authority delegated to it.[91] The commission is not bound to allow a dangerous grade crossing merely because that was the only feasible method by which the necessity for the road could be met.[92] These statutes have been held not to give the commission power to question the necessity for the new way,[93] or the reasonableness of its width.[94] The power of the commission extends to crossings laid out but not opened until after the passage of the statute.[95]

Where the power to open streets and control railroad crossings in incorporated cities, and villages is given to the municipal authorities, a commission's power is limited to crossings outside of cities and villages.[96] A statute giving the commission power to determine the manner in which a new street, or an additional width of a street or highway, shall cross a railroad refers to the carrying of a street, or a new portion of a street either as originally existing or as widened, across the tracks so as to furnish a direct line of traffic over the railroad,[97] and not the mere widening of a street running alongside of a railroad.[98] The fact that the contemplated extension may be illegal does not affect the power and duty of the commission to determine the manner in which the extension shall cross.[99] The commission has no power to order the construction of a bridge over a valley when only a small portion of the bridge would carry the street over the tracks,[1] but it may require the railroad to construct such portion.[2] Under a statute requiring permission of the railroad commission before a new street may be laid across a railroad and giving the commission the power to determine the mode of crossing, the commission may require an overhead crossing, even though local needs do not require it.[3]

Judicial interference with, or review of, orders. Statutes in many jurisdictions provide for review of orders of the commission,[4] but the court will not interfere so long as the order is not unreasonable or arbitrary.[5] Review is limited to the commission's power to enter the order;[6] the wisdom of the commission's order is not subject to consideration by the court.[7] An order which is not final may not be appealed from.[8] An order which is merely an approval of a general plan for carrying new streets across a ing or by statute giving public service commission general jurisdiction over grade crossings.—Central Vermont Ry. v. Hanley, 17 A.2d 249, 111 Vt. 425.

89. Conn.—Smith v. New Haven, 22 A. 146, 59 Conn. 203.

Acquisition of property

Public service commission's order was held not invalid because city had not taken preliminary steps toward acquiring property from private owners necessary for improvement. —Petition of City of Buffalo, 279 N.Y.S. 873, 245 App.Div. 19

90. Neb.—State v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 170 N.W. 496, 103 Neb. 40.
51 C.J. p. 668 note 42.

91. N.Y.—McAneny v. New York Cent. R. Co., 144 N.E. 362, 238 N.Y. 122
51 C.J. p. 669 note 43

92. N.Y.—Matter of Royalton, 122 N.Y.S. 844, 138 App.Div. 412.

93. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 55, 334 Mo. 992.
51 C.J. p. 669 note 45.

94. N.Y.—Matter of Third Ave., 170 N.Y.S. 470, 183 App.Div. 688

95. Or.—Butcher v. Flagg, 203 P.2d 651, 185 Or. 471.
51 C.J. p. 669 note 47.

"Constructed"

The use of the word "constructed" in act providing that no highway shall be constructed across the tracks of any railroad company at grade without permission from the board of public utility commissioners manifestly means the preparation of the highway for actual ordinary use, and not for mere delineation thereof on paper, or the taking of land for the purpose of a street.—Paterson, etc., R. Co. v. Paterson, 86 A. 68, 81 N.J.Eq. 124, 127.

96. Neb.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Nebraska State R. Commission, 132 N.W. 409, 89 Neb. 853.

97. N.Y.—Matter of Third Ave., 170 N.Y.S. 470, 183 App.Div. 688.

98. N.Y.—Matter of Third Ave., supra.
51 C.J. p. 669 note 50.

99. N.Y.—Matter of Third Ave., supra.

1. N.Y.—McAneny v. New York Cent. R. Co., 144 N.E. 362, 238 N.Y. 122.

2. N.Y.—In re East Two Hundred Thirty-Eighth St., 213 N.Y.S. 356, 215 App.Div. 152, affirmed 154 N.E. 610, 243 N.Y. 574

3. Mo.—State v. State Public Service Commission, 297 S.W. 47.

4. S.D.—Davison County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 127 N.W. 728, 26 S.D. 57.
51 C.J. p. 669 note 59.

5. N.D.—Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Stutsman, 154 N.W. 654, 31 N.D. 597.
51 C.J. p. 669 note 60.

6. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App.Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App.Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.

7. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App.Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App.Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.

8. N.Y.—Matter of Royalton, 122 N.Y.S. 844, 138 App.Div. 412.
51 C.J. p. 669 note 61.

railroad is not res judicata of the party to bear the expense of construction.[9]

d. Construction and Maintenance

As a general rule, under the police power, a state or municipality may require railroad companies at their own expense to construct and maintain crossings where streets or highways are established across existing railroads.

Since there is no common-law duty on a railroad to construct and maintain crossings where highways are laid out after the railroad has been constructed,[10] in the absence of statutes a railroad may not be required to do so,[11] even though its charter requires it to construct and maintain crossings,[12] but such duty is on the public authorities by whom the street is established and constructed.[13] In some jurisdictions, this view is reaffirmed by statute, and expenses incident to the construction[14] and maintenance[15] of a new way across an existing railroad are to be borne by the public body responsible for the way and not by the railroad.

While it has been held that a railroad company may not constitutionally be required by statute to do so without compensation,[16] as a general rule, a state or municipality may, under the police power, require railroad companies at their own expense to construct and maintain crossings where streets or highways are established across a railroad already constructed,[17] or to pay a portion of such expense,[18] and this rule applies to crossings by means of a bridge underpass, or viaduct as well as to crossings at grade,[19] and the right to enforce such

9. N.Y.—McAneny v. New York Cent. R. Co., 144 N.E. 362, 238 N.Y. 122.

10. U.S.—Contino v. Baltimore & Annapolis R. Co., C.A.Md., 178 F.2d 521.

Ala.—Corpus Juris cited in Tuscaloosa County v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 150 So. 328, 329, 227 Ala. 428.

51 C.J. p. 669 note 63

11. Pa.—Mauch Chunk Nat. Bank v. Mauch Chunk Switch-Back Ry. Co., 14 A.2d 95, 339 Pa. 317.

51 C.J. p. 669 note 64

12. Ala.—Corpus Juris cited in Tuscaloosa County v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 150 So. 328, 329, 227 Ala. 428.

N.J.—West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Woodbury, 84 A. 1047, 80 N.J.Eq. 412.

13. U.S.—Contino v. Baltimore & A. R. Co., C.A.Md., 178 F.2d 521.

51 C.J. p. 669 note 66.

14. Mass.—Trustees of New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. v. City of New Bedford, 52 N.E.2d 324, 315 Mass. 151—Boston & M. R. R. v. Worcester County Com'rs, 15 N.E.2d 455, 300 Mass. 415.

15. Mass.—Trustees of New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. v. City of New Bedford, 52 N.E.2d 324, 315 Mass. 154.

16. Minn.—State v. Hennepin County Dist. Ct., 44 N.W. 7, 42 Minn. 247, 7 L.R.A. 121.

51 C.J. p. 670 note 67.

17. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App.Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. City of Rochester, 37 N.Y.S.2d 471, affirmed 47 N.Y.S.2d 288, 267 App.Div. 801, affirmed 59 N.E.2d 178, 293 N.Y. 813.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A.2d 584, 154 Pa.Super. 272.

S.C.—Prosser v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 56 S.E.2d 591, 216 S.C. 33, certiorari denied Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Prosser, 70 S.Ct. 569, 339 U.S. 911, 94 L.Ed. 1338.

Va.—Richmond-Ashland Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel. City of Richmond, 173 S.E. 892, 162 Va. 296.

51 C.J. p. 670 note 70.

Where relocated highway required a new crossing, it must be regarded as a new road for purpose of crossing and proceeding lies under statute under which railroad may be required to bear expense of constructing crossing for new road, notwithstanding sole purpose of proceedings was the economical elimination of a dangerous crossing over two other railroads against which proceedings were brought under the Grade Crossing Elimination Act.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App.Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App.Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.

Side track.

(1) Order of public utility commission that railroad adjust to grade of new highway a portion of side track and maintain it, etc., was subject to implied limitation that railroad should be responsible for maintenance only as long as its trains were operated over the side track; on abandonment of side track, railroad's remedy would be to apply to commission for termination of order or relief from complying with it.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A.2d 584, 154 Pa.Super. 272.

(2) Whether railroad company or industrial plant should ultimately bear cost of construction and maintenance of side track to grade of new highway depended on railroad tariffs and contract unaffected by order of commission directed to railroad company.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, supra.

Permission to construct.

Fact that board of public utilities commissioners gave permission to erect proposed bridge did not settle question of duty to construct as between borough and railroad.—De Marmon v. Borough of Roselle, 152 A. 656, 8 N.J.Misc. 904.

18. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 22 A. 439, 60 Conn. 1.

51 C.J. p. 670 note 71.

19. U.S.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Walters, Tenn., 55 S.Ct. 486, 294 U.S. 405, 79 L.Ed. 949.

N.J.—De Marmon v. Borough of Roselle, 152 A. 656, 8 N.J.Misc. 904.

N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App.Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App.Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. City of Rochester, 37 N.Y.S.2d 471, affirmed 47 N.Y.S.2d 288, 267 App.Div. 801, affirmed 59 N.E.2d 178, 293 N.Y. 813.

Pa.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Public a requirement as a police regulation may not be divested by any contract between a municipality and a railroad company.[20]

Where the right to alter or amend a charter has been reserved, the legislature may require the construction and maintenance of such crossing by the railroad at its own expense.[21] It has been held proper, under the police power, to require the railroad to construct and maintain that portion of the highway within the limits of its right of way,[22] and by planking or its equivalent to adjust the surface of the street to the tops of the rails;[23] but on the contrary it has been held that the public authorities should construct and maintain that portion of the highway within the limits of the right of way which they would have been required to build if the railroad had not been constructed,[24] or that the expense thereof should be included in the estimate of damages to the railroad company,[25] notwithstanding the statute in terms imposes this duty on the railroad company,[26] and that the legislature may not constitutionally require the railroad company to construct at its own expense all that portion of the highway within the limits of the railroad right of way.[27]

Under some statutes, the railroad is required to pay part of the costs of the crossing,[28] and a statute requiring the railroad to pay half the costs has been held to require it to pay half the cost of approaches to the crossing.[29] In some jurisdictions the commission authorized to determine questions relating to crossings may apportion the costs of construction,[30] or, where the facts warrant it, may impose the entire costs on the railroad.[31] Where the statutes are held applicable and their validity sustained, the expense of constructing and maintaining a crossing is not to be considered or included in estimating the railroad company's damages for the condemnation of a right of way across its tracks.[32]

In some cases it has been held that particular statutes relating to the construction and maintenance of crossings were not intended to apply to streets and highways laid out across a railroad already constructed;[33] but in most jurisdictions the statutes

Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 161 A. 422, 105 Pa Super 423

S.C.—Prosser v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 56 S.E.2d 591, 216 S.C. 33, certiorari denied Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Prosser, 70 S.Ct. 569, 339 U.S. 911, 94 L.Ed. 1338.

51 C.J. p. 670 note 72, p. 680 note 53 [c].

Practical construction by parties

Where railroad company maintained bridge, built by it in 1890 to carry city street over its tracks, until 1932, and city always insisted that company was bound to make repairs to such bridge, company cannot deny its responsibility for such repairs and maintenance of bridge under statutes as interpreted by it, since such "practical construction" of terms of original grant by parties and acquiescence by railroad company are entitled to great weight in fixing scope of its statutory duty—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. City of Rochester, 37 N.Y.S.2d 471, affirmed 47 N.Y.S.2d 288, 267 App.Div. 801, affirmed 59 N.E.2d 178, 293 N.Y. 813.

Time to sue

City was held not required to construct through street up to both sides of railroad fill before it could sue to compel railroad to construct underpass.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. City of Bellevue, 38 S.W.2d 943, 239 Ky. 61.

20. Minn.—St. Paul v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 193 N.W. 175, 155 Minn. 237.
51 C.J. p. 670 note 73.

21. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 22 A. 439, 60 Conn. 1.

22. Me.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. York County Com'rs, 10 A. 113, 79 Me. 386—Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Deering, 2 A. 670, 78 Me. 61, 57 Am.R. 784

23. Wis.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fair Oaks, 122 N.W. 810, 140 Wis. 334—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 72 N.W. 1118, 97 Wis. 418.

24. Neb.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 45 N.W. 469, 29 Neb. 412.
51 C.J. p. 671 note 76.

25. Neb.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Cass County, 107 N.W. 773, 76 Neb. 396.

26. Neb.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Cass County, supra.

27. Mich.—People v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 17 N.W. 841, 52 Mich. 277

28. N.Y.—In re McKinley Parkway Extension Highway in City of Lackawanna, Erie County, 15 N.Y.S.2d 710, 258 App.Div. 844, reargument denied 17 N.Y.S.2d 862, 258 App.Div. 1033.
51 C.J. p. 671 note 80.

Motor way system

The provision of the special law providing for the greater motorways system of highways for Erie County that the highways shall be built and maintained at the expense of Erie County does not mean that the county is deprived of its right to resort to the provisions of the Railroad Law to compel railroads to contribute to the cost of building overhead bridges.—In re McKinley Parkway Extension Highway in City of Lackawanna, Erie County, 15 N.Y.S.2d 710, 258 App.Div. 844, reargument denied 17 N.Y.S.2d 862, 258 App.Div. 1033, appeal granted 26 N.E.2d 837, 282 N.Y. 808.

29. N.Y.—Matter of Park Lane South, 200 N.Y.S. 555, 206 App.Div. 269.

30. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 57, 334 Mo. 995—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 68 S.W.2d 691, 334 Mo. 832.
51 C.J. p. 672 note 93.

New or relocated underpass

Construction of new highway subway under railroad tracks near existing underpass, to be abandoned for highway purposes on completion of new highway, was held not mere reconstruction of present underpass to which statute prohibiting apportionment of over half of cost to state highway commission would not apply.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

31. Mo.—State v. Public Service Commission, 272 S.W. 957, 308 Mo. 359.
51 C.J. p. 672 note 94.

32. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 22 A. 439, 60 Conn. 1.
51 C.J. p. 671 note 85.

33. N.J.—Hackensack Impr. Commission v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 22 N.J.Eq. 94.
51 C.J. p. 671 note 82.

have been construed as applying to such cases,[34] although, since the duty imposed thereby exists solely by reason of the statute, it should not be extended beyond the fair import of the language used.[35]

A statute providing that all the expenses incident to the construction and maintenance of a way across a railroad shall be borne by the county, city, town, or other owner thereof, but that if the crossing is at grade the railroad company shall at its own expense guard and protect the rails so as to secure a safe and easy passage across its road, has been held to require payment by the municipality of the expense of maintaining a gateman;[36] and the railroad is entitled to compensation for erecting and maintaining the necessary structures,[37] but it must prepare the way over the space between the rails,[38] and the statute is given practical effect by including the expense for which the railroad company is not liable in its estimate of damages;[39] but, if the railroad company refuses to do the necessary work, it may not prevent the public authorities from going on its right of way and performing the work in any suitable manner.[40] Where the action of the public authorities in laying out the highway across the railroad is unauthorized, the railroad company may not be required to construct and maintain a crossing.[41]

Penalty for failure to construct crossing of a new highway over the railroad as provided by statute may not be recovered from the railroad where it had no notice or opportunity to be heard.[42]

§ 157. Change after Construction

The state, in the exercise of the police power, may compel a railroad to make such changes in railroad crossings at its own expense as the public safety and convenience may reasonably require.

The legislature may compel a railroad company after the construction of its road to make whatever changes in respect of the crossing of streets and highways the public safety and convenience may reasonably require,[43] and this power may be given to an administrative agency[44] or to a municipality,[45]

Statute relating to elimination of crossings

S C—State ex rel. State Highway Department v. Piedmont & N Ry. Co., 194 S E 631, 186 S C. 49.

34. Tex—Texas, etc., R Co v. Kaufman County, 42 S W. 586, 17 Tex Civ App 251
51 C.J. p 671 note 83.

35. Ill—O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill.App. 572.

36. Mass—Old Colony R Co. v. New Bedford, 74 N E. 468, 188 Mass. 234.

37. Mass—Boston, etc., R. Co. v Cambridge, 34 N.E 382, 159 Mass. 283

38. Mass—Old Colony R. Co. v. Fall River, 18 N E 425, 147 Mass. 455.
51 C.J p 672 note 90.

39. Mass—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 34 N.E. 382, 159 Mass. 283.

40. Mass—Old Colony R. Co. v Fall River, 18 N E 425, 147 Mass. 455

41. Me.—Chapin v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 53 A. 1105, 97 Me 151.
51 C.J p 671 note 86.

42. Tex.—Kansas, etc., R. Co. v. Grayson County, Civ.App., 5 S.W. 2d 542.

43. N.Y.—Petition of City of Rochester, 36 N.E.2d 72, 286 N Y. 109.
Va.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Faris, 157 S E 819, 156 Va. 205.
51 C.J p 672 note 97.

Power exercisable at any time

Pa.—Lehigh & New England R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 191 A. 880, 126 Pa Super. 565.

Right to do work

Where railroads were required to "reconstruct" viaduct by a statute, and ordinance provided that railroads should "pay for the cost thereof," railroads had right to do the work themselves if they chose to do so.—Finlay v. Union Pac. R. Co, D C Kan, 6 F.R D 284.

44. Ill—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Franklin, County, 56 N E 2d 775, 387 Ill 301—White County v Louisville & N. R. Co., 172 N E 22, 340 Ill 42

Mo—State ex rel Kurn v. Hughes, 153 S.W 2d 46, 348 Mo. 177, conformed to, App., 154 S W.2d 397—State ex rel. Alton R Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 57, 334 Mo 995

N.Y.—Petition of City of Rochester, 36 N E.2d 72, 286 N.Y 109

Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry Co v. Citizens of Westville, 89 P.2d 320, 184 Okl. 100, certiorari denied 59 S Ct. 774, 306 U S. 658, 83 L Ed. 1055.

Literal interpretation

Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry Co v. Citizens of Westville, supra.

Public convenience, safety

(1) Commerce commission can order reconstruction or improvement of railroad crossing only when necessary to preserve public safety.—White County v. Louisville & N. R Co., 172 N.E. 22, 340 Ill. 42.

(2) Railroad commission's order directing railroad to construct viaduct "as necessary for public convenience" was held not authorized by statute authorizing order for alterations of grade crossings "required for public safety."—Chicago & N. W Ry Co v. Railroad Commission, 238 N.W. 365, 205 Wis. 506.

Board's powers exceeded

Iowa.—Incorporated Town of Huxley v. Conway, 284 N.W. 136, 226 Iowa 268

Necessity of order

Cal—Black v Southern Pac Co., 12 P.2d 981, 124 Cal App 321.

Extension of underpass

N J—Erie R. Co v Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 153 A 268, 107 N. J Law 409, affirmed 160 A. 537, 109 N.J.Law 264.

Bridge

A bridge which crossed railroads only and which was erected by the city of Wilkes-Barre, a city of the third class, assisted by contributions of the county of Luzerne and the railroads was a "public utility" which the public utility commission could order the department of highways to reconstruct and allocate cost thereof among the railroads crossed, the city, the county, and state department of highways—City of Wilkes-Barre v Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 63 A.2d 452, 164 Pa Super. 210

Duty to seek change

There is no statutory duty of railroad to take initiative in advance of public to seek relocation of crossing with highway where inadequacy of such crossing is result of increase and change in character of travel over highway, duty of railroad arising where relocation has been made necessary by its own operation—Shea v. Boston & M R R, 191 A. 650, 88 N H. 462.

45. Ohio—Corpus Juris cited in Yackee v Village of Napoleon, 21 N.E 2d 111, 116, 135 Ohio St. 344.
51 C.J. p 672 note 98.

which must exercise it reasonably.[46] The duty of maintaining and keeping in repair and restoring highway crossings so as not to impair their usefulness is a continuing duty, requiring the railroad to put the street in such condition as changes in circumstances require;[47] and, when a crossing or mode of restoration originally sufficient becomes insufficient by reason of subsequent conditions, increased travel, character of vehicles used, and the like, it is the duty of the railroad company to do whatever the public convenience and necessity may require in order to meet such conditions,[48] rather than what may be required by convenience of the railroad.[49]

Changes within the application of the foregoing rules have been held to include the construction of a bridge or viaduct at a crossing formerly constructed at grade,[50] with the necessary excavations, embankments, and approaches therefor,[51] the widening of a crossing or its approaches to make it sufficient to accommodate the increased amount of travel or character of vehicles used,[52] the widening of a bridge and its approaches,[53] or strengthening it to bear the increased traffic,[54] construction of a fireproof bridge to replace a wooden bridge over the tracks,[55] the widening of the space where the street or highway passes under a railroad,[56] and the removal therefrom of pillars or abutments which reduce the width or obstruct the use of the highway,[57] altering the location of a crossing,[58] the removal of embankments closing a street,[59] reconstruction of inadequate drains to prevent water from flowing from the right of way into an underpass,[60] lowering the grade of a railroad constructed on an embankment to the level of a street,[61] or the changing of the grade of the railroad in order to conform to a change in the grade of a street.[62] However, it is not the duty of a railroad company to strengthen or reconstruct a bridge which is sufficiently strong and suitable for the ordinary highway traffic, so as to make it suitable for the additional use of a street railway,[63] although as to this the contrary has been held when the use of the street by a street railway is an appropriate and needed use.[64]

In the absence of express legislative requirement, a railroad company may not be required to change the location of its road in order to avoid frightening horses on a parallel highway, where the road was lawfully located and the only change of condition is that a greater number of persons are exposed to the danger and that the danger is increased by reason of the greater speed and number of trains.[65] Relocation of highways may, where necessary for the safety of the public, be required of the railroad at its expense under the police power of the state.[66] The closing of a crossing and the opening of a new crossing has been held to be within a statute providing for the alterations of cross-

46. Tex.—Houston & T. C. Ry Co v City of Houston, Civ App, 41 S W 2d 352.
51 C J. p 672 note 99

Evidence held to justify relocation
N Y.—In re South Oyster Bay Road, in Town of Oyster Bay, 101 N Y. S 2d 258, 277 App Div. 1142.

47. N.Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp, 66 N E 2d 289, 295 N Y 227—Sturman v. New York Cent R Co, 19 N.E 2d 679, 280 N.Y 57, reargument denied 21 N E 2d 197, 280 N Y. 688—New York Cent R Co v State, 287 N Y S. 850, 247 App Div 421
Va.—Norfolk & W Ry. Co. v. Faris, 157 S E 819, 156 Va. 205.
51 C.J p 672 note 1.

48. N Y.—Sells v. Defense Plant Corp, 66 N E 2d 289, 295 N Y 227—Sturman v New York Cent R Co, 19 N E 2d 679, 280 N.Y. 57, reargument denied 21 N E 2d 197, 280 N.Y. 688.
Va.—Norfolk & W Ry. Co. v Faris, 157 S.E 819, 156 Va. 205.
51 C.J. p 672 note 2.

49. Va.—Norfolk, etc, R. Co. v Bristol, 83 S E. 421, 116 Va 955.

50. Minn.—State v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 142 N W 312, 122 Minn 280
51 C J p 672 note 4

51. Conn.—Burritt v. New Haven, 42 Conn 174
Minn.—State v St. Paul, etc, R. Co, 28 N.W. 3, 35 Minn 131, 59 Am R 313

52. U S.—Indiana v Lake Erie, etc, R Co, C C Ind, 83 F 284.
Kan.—Atchison, etc, R Co. v. Henry, 45 P 576, 57 Kan 154

53. Mo.—State v Kansas City Terminal R Co, 168 S.W. 1144, 260 Mo 489
51 C J p 672 note 7.

54. Minn.—St Paul v. Great Northern R Co., 226 N.W 470, 178 Minn 193
R I.—Briden v New York, etc, R Co, 65 A. 315, 27 R I 569.

55. U S.—Carolina, etc., R. Co. v Lincolnton, C C A.N.C, 33 F.2d 719

56. Ind.—New York, C. & St L R. Co. v. Singleton, 190 N.E. 761, 207 Ind 449, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct 89, 296 U S 578, 80 L Ed. 409.
51 C J p 673 note 11.

57. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v Middlesex County, 131 N E 283, 239 Mass. 127
51 C J p 673 note 12.

58. N Y.—In re State Department of Public Works, 251 N Y.S 655, 233 App Div. 64.

59. Kan.—Emporia v. Atchison, etc, R Co, 129 P 161, 88 Kan 611.

60. N J.—Metuchen v Pennsylvania R Co, 69 A 465, 73 N J.Eq. 359.

61. Tex.—Houston, etc, R Co v. Dallas, 84 S W 648, 98 Tex 396, 70 L R.A 850.
51 C J. p 673 note 15.

62. N C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldsboro, 71 S E 514, 155 N C. 356, affirmed 34 S Ct. 364, 232 U.S. 548, 58 L Ed 721.
51 C J. p 673 note 16.

63. R.I.—Briden v. New York, etc., R Co, 65 A. 315, 27 R.I 569.
51 C.J. p 673 note 17.

64. Minn.—St Paul v. Great Northern R Co, 163 N W. 788, 138 Minn. 25, L.R A 1917F 485.

65. Conn.—State v New Haven, etc., R. Co., 45 Conn. 331.

66. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 158 N E. 376, 326 Ill. 625, 55 A.L R. 654.

ings[67] When the statutes provide for alteration of a highway on obtaining consent of the county supervisors,[68] the railroad need not build the new road before it can obtain the necessary consent.[69]

Cost of change. The legislature has the power to determine at whose expense an improvement at an existing crossing shall be made,[70] and any such changes falling properly within the police power of the state may be required to be made at the sole expense of the railroad company,[71] or the expense may be apportioned between the railroad and the municipality, in accordance with the various statutes permitting such apportionment.[72] It has been held that the proper basis of apportionment is the extent to which the presence of the railroad enhances the cost of the necessary improvements.[73]

Where the amount to be assessed the railroad is in accordance with the benefits it receives, the fact that it will not be required to separate grades may be considered,[74] but this does not preclude a subsequent separation.[75] Where an underpass may be used with safety by changing the highway to reduce a sharp curve therein, it is improper to require the railroad to bear the expense of a relocation of the underpass.[76] Under an agreement with the municipality whereby the railroad assumed the expense of all changes necessary and incident to a change of a crossing, the railroad is not liable for the cost of unnecessary changes.[77] Statutes providing for apportionment of cost of changes do not authorize the charging to a municipality a part of the cost of removing an illegal structure at a crossing.[78] If a railroad refuses to make the required changes, the municipality may do so and recover the expense thereof from the railroad.[79]

Review of orders requiring change. An order of a commission requiring a change in a railroad crossing will not be reversed where its findings are not against the weight of the evidence[80] and the order is not unreasonable or arbitrary[81] The court will

67. N.Y.—In re James Street Crossing, City of Oneida, 292 N Y S 877, 249 App Div. 875, affirmed In re Crossing of James St in City of Oneida and New York Cent R Co., 11 N.E 2d 779, 275 N Y. 609.

68. Va.—Carolina, etc, R Co v. Scott County, 63 S E. 412, 109 Va 34.
51 C J. p 673 note 21.

69. Va.—Carolina, etc, R Co v. Scott County, supra

70. N Y.—Petition of City of Rochester, 36 N E.2d 72, 286 N Y 109.
Va.—Norfolk & W Ry Co v. Faris, 157 S E 819, 156 Va 205.
51 C.J p 673 note 23

71. Va.—Norfolk & W. Ry Co. v. Faris, supra
51 C.J p 673 note 24

72. U.S.—Jackson County v. Alton R Co, C C A Mo., 105 F 2d 633, certiorari denied Alton R Co. v. Jackson County, Mo, 60 S Ct 175, 308 U S. 610, 84 L Ed. 510.
Ill.—Illinois Cent. R Co v Franklin County, 56 N E 2d 775, 387 Ill. 301.
N.Y.—Petition of City of Rochester, 36 N E 2d 72, 286 N.Y. 109—Public Service Commission. State Division, Department of Public Service v. Long Island R. Co, 18 N Y S 2d 914, 173 Misc 165.
Pa.—Lehigh & New England R Co. v. Public Service Commission, 191 A. 380, 126 Pa Super 565.
51 C J. p 674 notes 25, 26.

Exercise of police power
Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Franklin County, 56 N.E.2d 775, 387 Ill 301.

Street railroad
The cost of changing a bridge to accommodate a street railroad may be apportioned between the railroad and the street railroad in accordance with a statutory provision authorizing it.—New York, etc, R Co v Orange, 100 A 25, 91 Conn. 472

Binding effect of order
An order of public service commission requiring railway company to pay part of cost of constructing viaduct was binding on company after entry of supreme court's judgment, and the federal district court was required to recognize and give full credit to supreme court's judgment in county's action to recover part of cost of viaduct from railway company.—Jackson County v Alton R. Co, C C.A Mo., 105 F 2d 633, certiorari denied Alton R. Co v. Jackson County, Mo., 60 S.Ct. 175, 308 U S 610, 84 L Ed. 510.

73. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 57, 334 Mo 995—State ex rel. Kansas City Terminal R Co v Public Service Commission, 272 S W 957, 308 Mo. 359

Benefit to railroad is not fundamental consideratio in proportioning expense of widening viaduct, but true basis of apportionment is extent to which presence of railroad at place enhances cost of necessary improvements.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S W.2d 57, 334 Mo. 995.

Elimination of danger of collision between vehicles and trains and benefit to railroad should be considered in proportioning cost of widening viaduct, but such matters are not alone controlling.—State ex rel Alton R Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra

Approaches are properly considered as necessary parts of overhead crossings in making apportionment of cost between railroad and county.—State ex rel. Alton R Co v Public Service Commission, supra

74. Wis.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. State R. Commission, 188 N.W 86, 178 Wis 485.

75. Wis.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. State R Commission, supra

76. N Y.—In re State Department of Public Works, 251 N Y S. 655, 233 App Div. 64

77. Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co v Baltimore, 116 A. 859, 140 Md 77.

78. N.Y.—Mt Vernon v Public Service Commission, 196 N Y S 648, 119 Misc. 561.

79. R I.—Briden v. New York, etc, R Co, 65 A. 315, 27 R I. 569

80. N J.—Rahway Valley R Co v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 21 A 2d 302, 127 N J Law 164
51 C J p 674 note 34.

Prior ruling
The board of public utility commissioners was not concluded by opinion expressed more than ten years before that single highway crossing of railroad right of way at particular point was adequate, since increase of traffic demanded new measures to meet public need.—Rahway Valley R Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, supra

81. N J.—Rahway Valley R. Co v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, supra.
51 C.J p 674 note 35.

not substitute its judgment for that of the commission.[82]

Proceedings under Massachusetts statutes. In Massachusetts the procedure to secure the alteration of a crossing, where such alteration does not involve a change of grade, is regulated by particular statutory provisions.[83] Under these provisions the county commissioners may require whatever changes may be necessary,[84] such as the widening of the highway,[85] reconstruction of a footbridge,[86] or the alteration of the surface of a railroad bridge so as to prevent the discharge of water on a street below,[87] but the powers given the county commissioners by these provisions gives them no power to order elimination of a grade crossing.[88] The commissioners must prescribe the manner of making the changes and the limits in which they are to be made,[89] and an order which fails to do this properly is void for indefiniteness.[90] The decree of the county commissioners must be specifically performed.[91]

Where county commissioners are required to determine the necessity for alterations in a crossing, on an expression of an opinion by the municipal authorities or directors of the railroad company that it is necessary, an objection to the sufficiency of such expression of opinion should be made before the county commissioners, and may not be made in a collateral proceeding after they have ordered the alteration.[92] The supreme judicial court is given jurisdiction in equity to enforce the orders of county commissioners relating to crossings,[93] and the court has no authority to change the order but only to enforce it as made;[94] but the court may, where its jurisdiction is invoked under the statute, inquire whether the county commissioners have acted in excess of their jurisdiction.[95] The petition required by the statute must be brought under this statute and not the statute providing for relocation of highways,[96] or under the statute providing for abolition of grade crossings.[97] The petition need not set out any definite specification of the alteration.[98]

The statute provides for appointment of a special commission to apportion the costs of the alteration, and the apportionment must be left to this commission,[99] and the special commission may assess costs on the city.[1] The commission may apportion part of the costs on the railroad, even though it receives no benefit from the alteration,[2] and it has been held that it may not be ruled as a matter of law that a railroad receives no benefit from changes providing a more substantial and safe bridge.[3] A street railway having tracks on a way to be altered may be required to share in the expense of the alteration.[4] The special commission has no jurisdiction to apportion costs of a crossing already built,[5] and the appearance of a county's representative at the hearing before the commission will not confer jurisdiction.[6]

In view of its liability to compensate the railroad for the taking of land in order to establish the new highway, a town may, as a compromise, validly agree to bear the expense of future alterations of the crossings.[7] The railroad is not liable for interest on the amount it is required to pay until after the award, even though the town voluntarily did work before the decree.[8] When, as provided for

82. N J—Rahway Valley R Co v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, supra.

83. Mass—Petition of Brookline, 128 N E 97, 236 Mass. 260
51 C.J p 674 note 36.

84. Mass—Petition of Boston, etc, R. Co, 122 N.E. 191, 232 Mass 171.

85. Mass—Holliston v New York Cent., etc, R. Co, 81 N.E 204, 195 Mass 299—New England R Co v. Railroad Comrs, 50 N E 549, 171 Mass 135.

86. Mass—Petition of Boston, etc., R. Co, 136 N.E. 147, 242 Mass. 455.

87. Mass—Boston, etc, R Co. v. Hampden County, 42 N.E. 100, 164 Mass. 551.

88. Mass.—Boston, etc., R Corp v Middlesex County, 85 N E 108, 198 Mass 584—Boston, etc, R Co v. Hampden County, 116 Mass 73
Elimination of grade crossings generally see infra § 161 et seq.

89. Mass—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v Middlesex County, 85 N E. 108, 198 Mass 584.

90. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v Middlesex County, supra
51 C.J p 674 note 43.

91. Mass.—Petition of Vermont, etc, R Co., 136 N E 599, 242 Mass. 590

92. Mass—Parsons v. Northampton, 28 N E 350, 154 Mass. 410.

93. Mass—Nichols v. Boston, etc, R. Co., 54 N.E. 881, 174 Mass. 379
51 C J p 675 note 46.

94. Mass—Stanley v. Old Colony R Co., 57 N E 344, 176 Mass. 145.

95. Mass.—Nichols v. Boston, etc, R Co, 54 N E. 881, 174 Mass. 379

96. Mass—Boston, etc., R. Co v. Middlesex County, 59 N E. 115, 177 Mass 511.

97. Mass—Northampton v. New Haven, etc, R. Co., 56 N.E. 598, 175 Mass. 430.

98. Mass.—Boston, etc., R Co v. Hampden County Comrs, 42 N E 100, 164 Mass. 551.

99. Mass—Petition of Boston, etc, R Co, 140 N E 739, 246 Mass 286.
51 C.J. p 675 note 53.

1. Mass—Petition of Boston, etc, R Co, 122 N E 191, 232 Mass 171

2. Mass—Petition of Brookline, 128 N E 97, 236 Mass 260
51 C.J p 675 note 55.

3. Mass—Petition of Brookline, supra.
51 C.J. p 675 note 56

4. Mass—Fitchburg v Boston, etc., R. Co, 89 N E 438, 203 Mass 304.

5. Mass—Petition of Vermont, etc, R Co, 136 N E. 599, 242 Mass. 590.

6. Mass.—Petition of Vermont, etc., R. Co, supra

7. Mass.—Petition of Boston, etc, R Co, 136 N.E. 147, 242 Mass. 455.
51 C.J. p 675 note 60.

8. Mass—Petition of Brookline, 128 N E 97, 236 Mass. 260.

by the statute, a jury is applied for to revise the findings of the special commission apportioning the costs, the decision of the county commissioners must be assumed to rest on satisfactory evidence,[9] and evidence of another plan is not admissible.[10] The question of the necessity for, and manner of, making the alteration is not in issue.[11] It is for the attacking party to show that the apportionment by the special commission is wrong.[12] Where a jury is asked for, it may apportion the cost of the alterations,[13] and may lawfully assess the whole or part of the costs on the municipality.[14] On revision by a jury, immaterial rulings will not be given,[15] or requests which would require the jury to pass on all the facts found by the commissioners appointed to apportion costs.[16]

§ 158. Changing Crossings from Different Level to Grade

A municipality may change the grade of a street so as to reduce an overhead crossing to the grade of the railroad.

The exigencies of a particular locality may demand a grade crossing instead of a crossing at a different level,[17] and a municipality invested with authority to regulate, control, and improve its streets may, when it deems that the public necessities so require, change the grade of a street so as to reduce an overhead crossing to the grade of the railroad,[18] and it may not, in the absence of express legislative authority, divest itself of the power to make such a change,[19] although the legislature may authorize such a contract.[20]

§ 159. Determination as to Necessity, Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossings

In many jurisdictions, a commission or board, usually the one intrusted with the regulation of railroads generally, may determine all questions relative to crossings of railroads and highways

In many jurisdictions, a commission or board, usually the one intrusted with the regulation of railroads generally, may determine all questions relative to crossings of highways and railroads.[21] This

9. Mass.—Petition of Boston, etc., R. Co., 140 N.E. 739, 246 Mass. 286

10. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Winchester, 30 N.E. 1139, 156 Mass. 217.

11. Mass.—Petition of Boston, etc., R. Co., 140 N.E. 739, 246 Mass. 286

12. Mass.—Petition of Boston, etc., R. Co., 140 N.E. 739, 246 Mass. 286

13. Mass.—Petition of Boston, etc., R. Co., 136 N.E. 147, 242 Mass. 455.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Newton, 20 N.E. 106, 148 Mass. 474

14. Mass.—Petition of Boston, etc., R. Co., 136 N.E. 147, 242 Mass. 455

15. Mass.—Petition of Brookline, 128 N.E. 97, 236 Mass. 260

16. Mass.—Petition of Brookline, supra.

17. U.S.—Wabash R. Co. v. Defiance, Ohio, 17 S.Ct. 748, 167 U.S. 88, 42 L.Ed. 87.

Abandonment of underpass

Evidence sustained findings of public service commission as to need, safety, and advisability of abandonment of railroad underpass and that proposed construction of railroad-highway grade crossing protected by automatic warning signals would not be unduly hazardous to life and property considering volume of railroad and highway traffic involved.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. McDonnell, N.D., 45 N.W.2d 721.

18. U.S.—Wabash R. Co. v. Defiance, Ohio, 17 S.Ct. 748, 167 U.S. 88, 42 L.Ed. 87.

19. U.S.—Wabash R. Co. v. Defiance, supra.

51 C.J. p. 675 note 72.

20. Pa.—Appeal of Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 15 A. 476, 121 Pa. 44

51 C.J. p. 676 note 73.

21. U.S.—City of Tulsa, Okl. v. Midland Valley R. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 168 F.2d 252.

Mo.—American Petroleum Exchange v. Public Service Commission, 172 S.W.2d 952, transferred, see 176 S.W.2d 533, 238 Mo.App. 92—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 57, 334 Mo. 995—State ex rel. and to Use of Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 51 S.W.2d 73, 330 Mo. 729, certiorari denied Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 53 S.Ct. 89, 287 U.S. 641, 77 L.Ed. 555—Liddle v. Thompson, 162 S.W.2d 614, 236 Mo.App. 1071

N.J.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 170 A. 246, 112 N.J.Law 215, 172 A. 357, 112 N.J.Law 559, affirmed Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. State Highway Commission, 176 A. 725, 114 N.J.Law 397—State Highway Commission v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 170 A. 246, 112 N.J.Law 215, 172 A. 357, 112 N.J.Law 559, affirmed 176 A. 725, 114 N.J.Law 397.

N.Y.—In re State Department of Public Works, 251 N.Y.S. 655, 233 App.Div. 64.

Pa.—Petition of Allegheny County, 76 A.2d 184, 366 Pa. 66—St. Peter's Roman Catholic Congregation of McKeesport v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 54 A.2d 92, 161 Pa.Super. 64

51 C.J. p. 676 notes 75, 76.

Opening or extension of public way across existing railroad see supra § 156

Jurisdiction over private corporation

On petition of state highway commission to public service commission for an order modifying previous order permitting grade crossing on U.S. highway and its intersection with railroad tracks, public service commission did not have and could not exercise any jurisdiction over a private corporation owning buildings located on railroad's right of way under lease from railroad and allegedly obstructing views of travelers.—American Petroleum Exchange v. Public Service Commission, 172 S.W.2d 952, transferred, see 176 S.W.2d 533, 238 Mo.App. 92.

Private convenience

The convenience and necessity required to support an order directing the construction of a crossing are those of the public and not of the individual or a number of individuals.—Yowell v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co., 195 N.E. 667, 360 Ill. 272.

Findings

(1) Original determination of question whether public convenience and necessity exist for a highway-railroad grade crossing is for corporation commission and its findings of fact are prima facie just, reasonable, and correct.—Thompson v. State, 164 P.2d 232, 196 Okl. 190.

(2) Commerce commission's findings that statutory requirements for opening of highway had been complied with, that highway would more conveniently serve certain residents, that public convenience and necespower of regulation covers grade, subway, and overhead crossings,[22] and the commission may ordinarily determine and prescribe the manner in which the crossing is to be made,[23] the place where the crossing may be constructed,[24] the apportionment of expense,[25] and the safeguards to be provided where the crossing is to be at grade;[26] and a statute requiring the railroad to construct and maintain crossings at its own expense is not inconsistent with a statute giving a commission power to determine the place, mode, and expense of crossings so far as the latter gives the commission exclusive power to determine location.[27]

The commission has no authority beyond what is given it by the terms of the statute,[28] and a statute giving the commission exclusive power to determine and prescribe the manner of constructing crossings has no reference to granting permission to install them,[29] and statutory authority to regulate railroads in matters of transportation gives a commission no power to order construction of a crossing.[30] Where grade crossings are permitted, it is nevertheless improper to require the railroad to construct a grade crossing which would be dangerous.[31] The commission need not determine the manner of crossing at the time a certificate of public convenience and necessity is granted.[32] Where the commission has the right to change its orders on due notice to interested persons, the validity of its findings and order are not affected by the inclusion therein of a provision for reopening the matter on the occurrence of a specified event.[33]

Character of highway. The statutes giving a commission power to regulate crossings apply only to sity required highway to be extended at grade at certain point, and that no crossings had theretofore been provided in such part of town were held mere conclusions, and not to justify order requiring railroad to construct and maintain grade crossing at such point—Yowell v. Cleveland, C, C & St. L. R. Co, 195 N E 667, 360 Ill. 272.

22. Mo—State ex rel. Alton R Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 52, 334 Mo 985—State v. Public Service Commission, 197 S W. 56, 271 Mo. 270
N J—Erie R Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 153 A 268, 107 N. J.Law 409, affirmed 160 A. 537, 109 N J.Law 264.

Exclusive power as to grade crossings
Mo.—American Petroleum Exchange v. Public Service Commission, 172 S W 2d 952, transferred, see 176 S.W 2d 533, 238 Mo App. 92—Liddle v. Thompson, 162 S.W.2d 614, 236 Mo App. 1071.

23. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 57, 334 Mo. 995—City of St. Louis v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 50 S W.2d 637, 330 Mo 499
Okl—Midland Valley R. Co. v. Town of Panama, 12 P.2d 503, 158 Okl. 55.
Utah.—Provo City v. Department of Business Regulation, 218 P.2d 675.
51 C J. p 676 note 78.

Legislative or administrative question
Determination of question whether permission should be granted to construct a highway across railroad tracks at grade is a legislative or an administrative question—Butcher v. Flagg, 203 P.2d 651, 185 Or. 471

"And;" "or"
Statutory provision that width, height, strength, and materials of viaduct city of the first class intends to require railroad company to construct, shall be as required by board of public works, "and" as may be approved by the mayor and city council, would be construed to read "or" as may be approved by mayor and council, and mayor and council thereunder could require and approve the width, length, strength, and material of proposed underpass where city had no board of public works.—State ex rel City of Grand Island v. Union Pac R. Co, 42 N W.2d 867, 152 Neb 772.

24. U S—City of Tulsa, Okl v Midland Valley R. Co., C.C A.Okl., 168 F.2d 252
Mo—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S. W.2d 57, 334 Mo. 995—State ex rel and to Use of Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 51 S.W.2d 73, 330 Mo. 729, certiorari denied Chicago Great Western R. Co v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 53 S Ct. 89, 287 U S. 641, 77 L.Ed. 555.
Okl.—Thompson v. State, 164 P.2d 232, 196 Okl. 190—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co v. Citizens of Westville, 89 P 2d 320, 184 Okl 100, certiorari denied 59 S Ct. 774, 306 U.S 658, 83 L Ed 1055.
51 C.J. p 677 note 79

25. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 57, 334 Mo 995—State ex rel. and to Use of Chicago Great Western R Co v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 51 S.W 2d 73, 330 Mo. 729, certiorari denied Chicago Great Western R. Co v Public Service Commission of State of Missouri, 53 S.Ct. 89, 287 U.S 641, 77 L.Ed. 555.
51 C.J. p 677 note 80.

Full expense apportioned to railroad
It is within the discretion of the commission to assess the whole cost of maintenance on the railroad, and unless it abuses its discretion the ruling will not be set aside—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v State, 200 P. 208, 82 Okl. 221.

26. Mich—Fort-St Union Depot Co. v. State R Crossing Board, 45 N W 973, 81 Mich. 248.
51 C J. p 677 note 81.

27. Mo.—Kirksville v. Hines, 225 S. W. 950, 285 Mo. 233.

28. Mo—State v. Public Service Commission, 289 S.W. 785, 316 Mo. 233.
51 C.J p 677 note 83.

29. Mo—State v. Public Service Commission, 257 S.W. 462, 301 Mo. 179.

30. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State Corporation Commission, 170 P. 1156, 68 Okl. 1.

31. N.J—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Public Utility Comrs, 103 A. 1053, 91 N J.Law 701.

32. N.Y—People v. Railroad Comrs., 110 N Y.S. 862, 126 App.Div. 492.

33. Wash.—State ex rel. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co v. Walla Walla County, 104 P.2d 764, 5 Wash.2d 95.

Res judicata
Denial by corporation commission of application to open a crossing across railroad tracks was not determinative of the matter on subsequent application to open the same crossing and construct an overpass on same street over tracks of another railroad company, since the applications were not the same and, in any event, doctrine of res judicata is not applicable in proceedings before corporation commission.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. State, Okl, 225 P.2d 363.

public crossings.[34] Since a railroad need not construct a crossing at a point where no street or highway has been legally established, the commission has no authority to order such a crossing.[35]

Powers of courts. A court of equity, where it has jurisdiction, may decree the mode of crossing,[36] and, where the evidence warrants it, will order a grade crossing,[37] and, where a change from an overhead crossing to an underpass is necessary, the court may, where the parties fail to agree, authorize the construction of the underpass.[38] The necessity for the change of location of a highway has been held a question for the court.[39]

§ 160. —— Appeal from Orders of Commission

A commission's orders as to the necessity, place, mode, and expense of a crossing are generally subject to judicial review, but will not be disturbed where supported by substantial evidence.

When no appeal from the order of a commission is provided for, an appeal will be dismissed for want of jurisdiction;[40] and the order is as conclusive as a judgment of a court of last resort.[41] However, the commission's orders are generally subject to judicial review.[42] The question on review is whether or not the order is reasonable and lawful and not whether the court would have made the same order,[43] and the burden is on the party attacking the order to show that it is unreasonable and unlawful.[44] An order must be supported by substantial evidence,[45] and an order which has a substantial basis in the evidence will not be interfered with,[46] unless it is arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, an 34. Utah.—Bamberger Electric R Co v State Public Utilities Commission, 204 P. 314, 59 Utah 351.

Unused right of way

The statute providing that no public utility engaged in transportation of passengers or property shall without prior order of the public utility commission construct, alter, or abolish its facilities across any highway concerns only crossings where the line of an operating railroad crosses a highway or the line of another operating railroad and does not apply where a highway is crossed by an unused or abandoned right of way, since hazards with which the statute was intended to deal were those created by the movements of trains over tracks crossing the highway and not the mere presence of the highway or abandoned or dead rails.—Jennings v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A. 2d 882, 140 Pa Super 569

35. Okl.—St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co. v. State Corporation Commission, 218 P. 821, 95 Okl. 140
51 C.J. p 678 note 94.

36. N.J.—Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent R. Co., 59 A. 303, 68 N.J Eq 500, affirmed 65 A. 1117, 70 N J.Eq. 806.
51 C.J. p 678 note 96

37. N.J.—Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., supra.

38. N.J.—New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Hudson County, 130 A. 566, 98 N.J Eq. 677.

39. Ohio.—Brown v. Akron, etc., R. Co., 35 Ohio Cir Ct. 35, modified on other grounds 87 N.E. 1131, 79 Ohio St. 440.

40. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v Miller, 123 P. 1047, 31 Okl. 801—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 115 P. 874, 28 Okl. 802.

41. Conn.—Appeal of Waterbury, 17 A. 355, 57 Conn 84.
51 C.J. p 678 note 2.

42. N.J.—Central R Co of New Jersey v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 170 A. 246, 112 N.J Law 215, 172 A. 357, 112 N.J Law 559, affirmed Central R Co of New Jersey v. State Highway Commission, 176 A. 725, 114 N.J Law 397—State Highway Commission v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 170 A. 246, 112 N.J.Law 215, 172 A. 357, 112 N.J.Law 559, affirmed 176 A. 725, 114 N.J Law 397.
51 C.J. p 678 note 3.

43. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W 2d 52, 334 Mo 985.

Public convenience and necessity, considering interest and rights of public and railroad, are determinative factors as to reasonableness of corporation commission's order.—In re Protest Against Closing of Crossing Nine Poles South of Mile Post No. 31 at Moriarty, 20 P 2d 1029, 37 N.M. 226.

Evidence held to show order reasonable or not unreasonable

Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S W.2d 57, 334 Mo. 995—State ex rel Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W 2d 55, 334 Mo. 992—State ex rel. Alton R Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S W.2d 52, 334 Mo. 985.

N.J.—Erie R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 153 A. 268, 107 N. J.Law 409, affirmed 160 A. 537, 109 N.J.Law 264

Okl.—City of Tulsa v. State Corporation Commission, 37 P.2d 619, 169 Okl. 455.

Order held unreasonable

N.M.—In re Protest Against Closing of Crossing Nine Poles South of Mile Post No. 31 at Moriarty, 20 P 2d 1029, 37 N.M. 226

44. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R Co v. Public Service Commission, 70 S W.2d 57, 334 Mo 995—State ex rel. Alton R Co v Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 52, 334 Mo 985

Stipulation of parties that evidence introduced in circuit court should not be referred to commissioner, as provided in statute, did not relieve plaintiff of statutory burden of showing that commissioner's determination was unlawful and did not have the effect of transferring from commissioner to court determination of question whether permission should be granted.—Butcher v. Flagg, 203 P 2d 651, 185 Or 471.

45. Wash.—State ex rel. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co v. Walla Walla County, 104 P 2d 764, 5 Wash 2d 95.

46. Ill.—Public Utilities Commission v. Smith, 131 N.E 371, 293 Ill. 151.

Wash.—State ex rel Oregon-Washington R & Nav Co. v Walla Walla County, 104 P.2d 764, 5 Wash 2d 95

Evidence held sufficient to sustain findings or order

Mo.—State ex rel and to Use of Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 51 S.W 2d 73, 330 Mo. 729, certiorari denied Chicago Great Western R Co. v. Public Service Commission of State of Missouri, 53 S Ct. 89, 287 U.S. 641, 77 L.Ed 555.

Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. State, 225 P.2d 363.

Or.—Butcher v. Flagg, 203 P.2d 651, 185 Or 471

Pa.—St. Peter's Roman Catholic Congregation of McKeesport v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 54 A.2d 92, 161 Pa.Super. 64 error of law, or a violation of constitutional rights [47] Where the necessary jurisdictional facts appear by implication, the order will not be reversed for want of adequate findings of jurisdictional facts.[48]

§ 161. Abolition and Removal of Grade Crossings

Statutes as to the elimination of grade crossings are to be liberally and reasonably construed, having in mind their objectives.

The desirability of abolishing grade crossings is generally recognized,[49] and authority for, and the procedure to be followed in, eliminating grade crossings is frequently provided by statute.[50] The subject of grade crossing abolition may from time to time be regulated by the legislature and changes made in the statutes,[51] and such changes may be made applicable to pending cases.[52] Statutes as to the elimination of grade crossings are to be liberally and reasonably construed, having in mind their objectives,[53] and should not be so construed as to produce absurd consequences.[54] The elimination of a grade crossing is a public improvement or project,[55] even though the railroad will benefit thereby,[56] but a declaration by the legislature that the work of eliminating railroad crossings is public work has been held not to enlarge the legislature's power to regulate such work.[57] The public is affected by the elimination of a grade crossing both in the matter of the elimination of the crossing and the cost of the separation.[58]

A railroad may abolish a grade crossing of its own motion, as where the abolition of grade crossings has been a declared policy of the state,[59] or when required by law to construct and maintain bridges and passages at crossings and authorized to alter and grade highways so that public travel thereon shall not be impeded.[60]

§ 162. —— Contracts and Agreements for Abolition or Removal

Municipalities are generally authorized to enter into contracts with railroad companies to secure the abolition of grade crossings.

Municipalities are generally authorized to enter into contracts with railroad companies to secure the abolition of grade crossings,[61] and may also con-

Wash.—State ex rel. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Walla Walla County, 104 P.2d 764, 5 Wash.2d 95.

47. Pa.—St. Peter's Roman Catholic Congregation of McKeesport v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 54 A.2d 92, 161 Pa.Super. 64.

48. Vt.—Waterbury v. Central Vermont R. Co., 108 A. 423, 93 Vt. 461. 51 C.J. p. 678 note 5.

49. N.Y.—Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 N.Y.S. 32, 64 App.Div. 257, affirmed 63 N.E. 1115, 170 N.Y. 619.

50. Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. County Board of Dodge County, 28 N.W.2d 396, 148 Neb. 648.

Statute held complete and comprehensive

Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. County Board of Dodge County, supra.

Lessee of a railroad is the company operating a railroad within the meaning of a grade crossing's elimination act, so that it may be required to eliminate the grade crossing.—Erie R. Co. v. Public Utility Comrs., 98 A. 13, 89 N.J.Law 57, affirmed 103 A. 1052, 90 N.J.Law 673, affirmed 41 S.Ct. 169, 254 U.S. 394, 65 L.Ed. 322.

51. Mass.—In re Mayor and Aldermen of Taunton, 194 N.E. 919, 290 Mass. 118.

52. Mass.—In re Mayor and Aldermen of Taunton, supra.—In re City of Northampton, 33 N.E. 568, 158 Mass. 299.

53. N.Y.—City of New York v. Maltbie, 53 N.Y.S.2d 234, affirmed 53 N.Y.S.2d 953, 269 App.Div. 662, appeal denied 54 N.Y.S.2d 700, 269 App.Div. 685, affirmed 63 N.E.2d 119, 294 N.Y. 931.

54. N.Y.—City of New York v. Maltbie, supra.

55. Md.—Brehm v. Tabler, 5 A.2d 320, 6 A.2d 378, 176 Md. 411.

Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. County Board of Dodge County, 28 N.W.2d 396, 148 Neb. 648.

N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Department of Labor of State of New York, 247 N.Y.S. 278, 138 Misc. 612, affirmed 177 N.E. 17, 256 N.Y. 498.—Columbia Mach. Works v. Long Island R. Co., 41 N.Y.S.2d 581, reversed on other grounds 47 N.Y.S.2d 383, 267 App.Div. 582.

State's power of "supervision" over elimination of railroad grade crossings includes power to direct that work proceed in manner which will reasonably tend to promote efficiency and diminish danger of delay and interruption.—Long Island R. Co. v. Department of Labor of State of New York, 177 N.E. 17, 256 N.Y. 498.

Street improvements

The necessary change or elevation of grades of streets and the depression and elevation of railroad tracks crossing public streets, as authorized by a statute, abolishing grade crossings, are street improvements for the benefit of the traveling public, within the police power for the conservation of the public safety and welfare.—Morris v. Indianapolis, 94 N.E. 705, 177 Ind. 369, Ann.Cas. 1915A 65.

56. Md.—Brehm v. Tabler, 5 A.2d 320, 6 A.2d 378, 176 Md. 411.

N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Department of Labor of State of New York, 247 N.Y.S. 278, 138 Misc. 612, affirmed 177 N.E. 17, 256 N.Y. 498.

57. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Department of Labor of State of New York, 177 N.E. 17, 256 N.Y. 498.

58. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Paul & K. C. Short Line R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 92 S.W.2d 126, 338 Mo. 724.

59. Pa.—Ritter v. Lehigh Coal, etc., Co., 16 Pa.Dist. 715.

60. N.J.—West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Waterford Tp., 55 A. 157, 64 N.J.Eq. 663.

51 C.J. p. 678 note 10.

61. Mich.—Case v. City of Saginaw, 288 N.W. 357, 291 Mich. 130.

N.C.—Jones v. City of Durham, 147 S.E. 824, 197 N.C. 127.

51 C.J. p. 678 note 12.

Capacity and power of municipal corporations to contract generally see Municipal Corporations § 976 et seq.

Special legislation controlling

The provisions of Greater New York Charter that no contract not to be paid by assessments on prop-tract with the state with respect to the elimination of such crossings.[62] Where the statute authorizes contracts by municipalities, a township may enter into such a contract,[63] and where the statute authorizes a municipality to enter into contracts with companies entering the city, it has the power to enter into contracts with railroads constructed wholly within the city limits.[64] Where the legislature has power in the first instance to authorize a contract between the municipality and a railroad as to the abolition of grade crossings, it may ratify and confirm such a contract when made.[65] Where the exclusive power to determine the manner of crossing is vested in a commission, a railroad and a municipality may not determine the manner by agreement,[66] but a contract between a municipality and a railroad is subject to the approval of the commission.[67]

Such a contract may not be created by implication,[68] and the expenditure of a sum of money by a highway commission in anticipation of a contract does not constitute a contract so as to prevent the commission having control over crossings ordering abolition in accordance with another plan.[69] Under some statutes, provision is made for the appointment of commissioners, among whom representatives of the municipality shall be included for the negotiation of agreements for the accomplishment of such purpose and for the apportionment of the cost of the work,[70] and the validity of such a statute has been upheld,[71] notwithstanding the existence of general statutes requiring the consent of the municipality to the construction of railroad tracks on or across its streets;[72] but a statute providing that the filing in court of the resolution of the municipal council as to the conditions of an elimination of grade crossings, together with the railroad company's acceptance thereof, shall have the effect of a judicial decree is invalid as an interference with the judicial power of the courts.[73]

Validity The validity of agreements entered into under statutes of the character under consideration has been upheld,[74] for example, as against such erty benefited shall be binding without indorsement by comptroller were not applicable to contract for construction of sewers in connection with grade crossing elimination project, and the special legislation authorizing the grade crossing elimination was controlling—Remo Engineering Corporation v City of New York, 23 N Y S.2d 314, 260 App Div 587, affirmed 36 N E 2d 695, 286 N.Y 657.

Resolution or ordinance

Where statute authorized city to declare necessity for grade separation by resolution and charter of city did not require that contracts entered into by city be by ordinance, city was authorized to enter into contract for the erection of combination bridge and grade separation over an intersecting railroad by resolution as against contention that proceedings should have been by ordinance—Case v. City of Saginaw, 288 N.W 357, 291 Mich. 130.

Widening of highway

Although the powers conferred on the municipality with regard to agreements are limited to the elimination of grade crossings, nevertheless if it becomes necessary in order to eliminate the crossing that a street or highway should be widened, the widening is a proper exercise of the power conferred—Whittingham v. Millburn Tp, 100 A 854, 90 N J Law 344, affirmed 102 A 1054, 1055, 90 N J.Law 344, 348

Contemplation of more far reaching project

County commissioners who proceeded under statutory authority to eliminate grade crossings had right, in considering public convenience and necessity, to contemplate entire project as it would be when completed, and to contract with railway company that at proper time they would institute proceedings to vacate portion of road, and so to consider and contemplate did not constitute fraud, illegal collusion, or evidence of bad faith—Williams v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co., 7 N E.2d 570, 54 Ohio App 343

Contract for performance of work

(1) Where contract covering grade crossing elimination work expressly provided that project was being performed by railroad in conjunction with the transit commission, although contract named contractor and railroad as parties, law imposed on state obligation to pay expense of the project, which obligation was capable of enforcement in court of claims by appropriate action brought by appropriate party—Tomasetti Const. Co. v. Long Island R Co, 63 N.E.2d 78, 294 N.Y 501.

(2) Where state agreed to furnish certain materials for the relocation of a railroad line during construction of a grade crossing separation project, delay in furnishing material, which held up cement work until winter weather, constituted a breach of contract for which contractor could recover added costs, the state having given notice that it was ready to perform—E W. Foley, Inc., v. State, 61 N.Y.S.2d 118

62. Vt—Menut & Parks Co v. Cray, 39 A.2d 342, 114 Vt. 41, 156 A.L.R 404.

63. N J—Whittingham v Millburn Tp, 100 A. 854, 90 N J Law 344, affirmed 102 A. 1054, 1055, 90 N.J Law 344, 348
51 C J. p 679 note 18

64. N J—Morris, etc., Dredging Co. v. Jersey City, etc, R. Co., 46 A. 609, 64 N.J Law 587.

65. N.Y—Ward v. Erie R. Co., 149 N.Y S. 717, 87 Misc. 365, affirmed 154 N Y S. 94, 167 App.Div 950, affirmed 109 N E. 1095, 215 N.Y. 629.

66. Mo—State v. Public Service Commission, 272 S.W. 957, 308 Mo 359.

67. N.Y.—Borek v. Golder, 74 N.Y S 2d 675, 190 Misc 366.
Pa—Crown Products Co v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 31 A 2d 913, 32 A 2d 305, 152 Pa Super 345

68. U.S—Cincinnati, N. O. & T P. Ry. Co v. City of Lexington, D C Ky, 86 F Supp 913.

69. U.S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. New Jersey Public Utility Comrs, N.J, 49 S Ct. 69, 278 U S. 24, 73 L.Ed. 161, 62 A L R. 805.

70. Conn—Mooney v. Clark, 37 A. 506, 1080, 69 Conn 241
Apportionment of costs see infra § 165.

71. Conn—Mooney v. Clark, supra

72. N.Y.—McCutcheon v. Terminal Station Commission, 111 N E 661, 217 N.Y. 127.

73. Ohio.—Stockwell v. New York, etc, R. Co, 10 Ohio N.P.,N S, 29.

74. Mass—Old Colony R Co. v. Boston, 75 N E 134, 189 Mass. 116.
51 C.J. p 679 note 22.

contentions as that they are without consideration,[75] ultra vires the municipality,[76] or a surrender of the police power of the state[77] or of the municipality,[78] or that they are against public policy.[79] A contract which gives a railroad a right forever to maintain overhead bridges is not a violation of a city charter provision prohibiting the granting of a franchise for more than a certain period of time.[80] An agreement is not unlawful because it does not provide for the elimination of all grade crossings.[81]

Construction and operation. Contracts for the elimination of a grade crossing are governed by the provisions of the grade crossing statutes and by other laws and statutes,[82] and general rules apply as to the construction of such contracts.[83] Contracts of the character under consideration have been held to impose obligations on the railroad paramount to its prior private contracts,[84] as, for example, as to the maintenance of a siding[85] A contract between a city and a traction company with respect to the maintenance of a bridge over a railroad does not impose any contractual obligation in favor of the railroad.[86] An ordinance as to separation of grades which is contractual in its nature is not affected by a subsequent statute conferring on a state commission authority to regulate the construction and use of railroad crossings[87] Where a contract is embodied within an ordinance, the entire ordinance may be resorted to to determine the meaning of the words employed.[88]

Amendment of contract or plan. Contracts made under statutes authorizing them may be amended when the amendments concern the security of life and property[89] Where the statute, under which the commission acts, provides that the general plan when adopted may be amended only in matters of detail, a plan which involves no change of grade may not be amended so as to compel the railroad company to reconstruct its terminals and change the elevation of its tracks.[90]

Procedure on failure to agree. Where grade crossings are to be abolished by agreement, in some jurisdictions the statutes provide that, on failure to agree, the railroad or municipality may by petition submit the matter to a court, and the court may thereupon adopt the most reasonable and practicable of the plans submitted by the parties,[91] which may require a reasonable lateral diversion of the street or railroad where vertical elevation or depression of the tracks is impracticable.[92] The petition must show an attempt to reach an agreement.[93] A provision for the arbitration of disagreements between the parties to the contract has been held valid.[94]

Enforcement of agreement. In an action by a municipality to compel compliance with the con-

Abuse of discretion

Evidence was held insufficient to sustain finding of arbitrary abuse of discretion by city, contracting with railroad company for grade separations, because of wide discrepancy between agreed cost of railroad underpasses and value of street rights of way, acquired from railroad by city, and jury's findings of reasonable cost and value thereof—City of Beaumont v. Priddie, Civ App, 65 S W.2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N. O. R Co v Priddie, 95 S W.2d 1290, 127 Tex 629.

75. N Y—Ward v. Erie R. Co, 149 N Y S 717, 87 Misc. 365, affirmed 154 N.Y S. 94, 167 App Div. 950, affirmed 109 N.E 1095, 215 N.Y 629, 51 C J p 679 note 24

76. N.Y.—Ward v. Erie R. Co., supra.
Pa—Pittsburgh, etc, R Co. v. McKees Rocks, 135 A. 227, 287 Pa 311.

77. N Y.—Ward v. Erie R. Co, 149 N.Y.S. 717, 87 Misc 365, affirmed 154 N Y.S. 94, 167 App Div. 950, affirmed 109 N.E. 1095, 215 N.Y 629.
51 C.J. p 679 note 26.

78. Mo.—Kansas City v. Kansas City Terminal R Co., 25 S W.2d 1055, 324 Mo. 882.

79. N Y.—Ward v Erie R. Co, 149 N Y S 717, 87 Misc. 365, affirmed 154 N Y S. 94, 167 App Div 950, affirmed 109 N.E. 1095, 215 N.Y 629.
51 C J p 679 note 28.

80. N Y—Long Island R. Co. v Sherwood, 136 N.Y S. 752.

81. N Y—McCutcheon v. Terminal Station Commission, 111 N E. 661, 217 N Y. 127.

82. N.Y—Tomasetti Construction Co v. Long Island R Co, 63 N E 2d 78, 294 N.Y 501—Borek v. Golder, 74 N Y S 2d 675, 190 Misc. 366—Tomasetti Const Co v. State, 59 N Y S 2d 863, 186 Misc 790.

83. Wash—City of Seattle v. Northern Pac R Co., 121 P.2d 382, 12 Wash.2d 487.

Policy

The meaning of the word "policy" in constitutional amendment authorizing city to construct, maintain, and operate one or more railroad passenger stations and as an incident thereto to eliminate certain grade crossings did not control meaning of that word as used in contract entered into under the amendment.—Hotard v. City of New Orleans, 35 So.2d 752, 213 La 843, appeal dismissed 69 S. Ct. 57, 335 U.S. 803, 93 L.Ed. 360

84. N.J.—Swift v. Delaware, etc., R. Co, 57 A. 456, 66 N J.Eq. 34, affirmed 58 A. 939, 66 N J Eq. 452

85. N J.—Swift v. Delaware, etc, R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 679 note 32.

86. U S.—Cincinnati, N O. & T. P. Ry. Co. v. City of Lexington, D. C Ky, 86 F.Supp. 913.

87. Mo—Kansas City v Kansas City Terminal R Co, 25 S.W.2d 1055, 324 Mo. 882
51 C J p 679 note 33.

88. Mo—Kansas City v. Kansas City Terminal R. Co, supra.
51 C J. p 679 note 36

89. N J.—American Malleables Co. v. Bloomfield, 85 A. 167, 83 N J. Law 728.

90. N Y—Lehigh Valley R Co. v. Adam, 68 N E 665, 176 N Y 420.

91. Ohio.—Sandusky v. Baltimore, etc, R Co., 128 N E 84, 101 Ohio St 225
51 C J p 680 note 41.

92. Ohio.—Sandusky v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., supra.

93. Ohio.—Arbaugh v. Baltimore, etc., R Co., 135 N E. 281, 104 Ohio St. 110

94. La.—Hotard v. City of New Orleans, 35 So 2d 752, 213 La 843, appeal dismissed 69 S.Ct. 57, 335 U.S. 803, 93 L.Ed. 360.

tract, collateral matters as to title and maintenance of new crossings will not be considered.[95] Insolvency or financial difficulty will not relieve a railroad from performance of its contract.[96] The railroad may enjoin construction in violation of its agreements.[97]

Annulment or relief against agreement. The judgment of the municipality as to the necessity of eliminating grade crossings will not be reviewed in the absence of statutory provision therefor,[98] and a court of equity will not interfere with a contract unless on strong and conclusive evidence to justify such interference.[99] One who appeared and objected to a proceeding for the elimination of a grade crossing, not being a party to the proceeding, may maintain a taxpayer's suit to annul an agreement between the railroad and the municipality,[1] and, where the suit is in equity for injunctive relief, the rights of plaintiff, where dependent on a statute, are to be determined with respect to the statute in force at the time when the relief, if any, is to be awarded.[2] An injunction to restrain the performance of an agreement between a railroad and a municipality will not be granted a taxpayer where there is no reason why it should be granted.[3]

§ 163. —— Power to Require Abolition or Removal

a In general
b Public boards or commissions
c Municipal corporations
d. Courts of equity
e Special commissions

a. In General

The state in the exercise of its police power may require the elimination of grade crossings between railroads and streets or highways.

The elimination of grade crossings has been held to be a matter of state-wide concern,[4] and the state, in the exercise of its police power, may require the abolition or elimination of existing grade crossings between streets or highways and railroads,[5] or it may require such abolition by statute under a reserved power to alter or amend the charter of the railroad.[6] The state may confer such power on municipalities,[7] or it may act through the instrumentality of a commission,[8] which may be either general or special,[9] or it may act through some other state agency.[10] The police power of the state may not be alienated by contract.[11]

95. Mo.—Kansas City v. Kansas City Terminal R. Co., 25 S.W.2d 1055, 324 Mo. 882.

96. Ky.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. City of Louisville, 126 S.W.2d 840, 277 Ky. 402.
Mo.—Kansas City v. Kansas City Terminal R. Co., 25 S.W.2d 1055, 324 Mo. 882.

97. N.Y.—Erie R. Co. v. Buffalo, 73 N.E. 26, 180 N.Y. 192.

98. N.J.—Swift v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 57 A. 456, 66 N.J.Eq. 34, affirmed 58 A. 939, 66 N.J.Eq. 452.

99. Pa.—Chew v. Philadelphia, 101 A. 915, 257 Pa. 589, L.R.A.1918A 986.

1. N.Y.—Coykendall v. Kingston, 188 N.Y.S. 769, 115 Misc. 557.

2. N.Y.—Coykendall v. Kingston, supra.

3. N.Y.—Society for Prevention of Municipal Waste, etc. v. Mitchell, 166 N.Y.S. 17, 99 Misc. 552.

4. Cal.—Constantine v. City of Sunnyvale, 204 P.2d 922, 91 Cal.App.2d 278.

5. N.J.—Public Service Coordinated Transport v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 33 A.2d 579, 130 N.J.Law 409, affirmed 35 A.2d 895, 131 N.J.Law 226.
N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossing at Gate Grade of Lehigh Valley R. Co. in Village of Spencer, Tioga County, 5 N.Y.S.2d 946, 254 App.Div. 412—In re New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 280 N.Y.S. 174, 244 App.Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W. Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N.Y. 567.
Tex.—City of Beaumont v. Priddie, Civ.App., 65 S.W.2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N.O.R. Co. v. Priddie, 95 S.W.2d 1290, 127 Tex. 629.
51 C.J. p. 680 note 53.
Requiring elimination of grade crossing as.
Denial of due process see Constitutional Law § 698
Denial of equal protection of laws see Constitutional Law § 518
Impairment of obligation of contracts see Constitutional Law § 333.
Interference with interstate commerce see Commerce § 78.

6. U.S.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, Conn., 14 S.Ct. 437, 151 U.S. 556, 38 L.Ed. 269.
51 C.J. p. 681 note 57.
Reservation of power to alter or amend charter see supra § 18.

7. N.Y.—People v. Public Service Commission, 114 N.E. 1050, 220 N.Y. 1.
51 C.J. p. 681 note 54.
County, had right to improve county highway for purpose of eliminating railroad grade crossing.—Sherlock v. Mobile County, 2 So.2d 405, 241 Ala. 247.
Location of viaduct
Where statute authorized commissioners of District of Columbia to eliminate railroad grade crossing by constructing viaduct north of present line of avenue as might be determined by the commissioners, fact that viaduct was not entirely north of avenue did not require determination that viaduct as constructed was not authorized and was not within terms of statute, especially where statute left to discretion of commissioners exact location of viaduct.—Ralph v. Hazen, 93 F.2d 68, 68 App.D.C. 55.

8. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., 190 N.E. 896, 356 Ill. 501.
N.C.—Broadhurst v. Blythe Bros. Co., 17 S.E.2d 646, 220 N.C. 464.
51 C.J. p. 681 note 55.
Delegation of legislative power to abolish grade crossings generally see Constitutional Law § 138.

9. Conn.—Appeal of New York, etc., R. Co., 26 A. 122, 62 Conn. 527.
51 C.J. p. 681 note 56.

10. N.Y.—Solkat Realty Corp. v. State, 16 N.Y.S.2d 649, 172 Misc. 981, affirmed 29 N.Y.S.2d 622, 262 App.Div. 944, reargument denied 30 N.Y.S.2d 702, 262 App.Div. 987, affirmed 42 N.E.2d 13, 288 N.Y. 547.

11. U.S.—Erie R. Co. v. New Jersey Public Utility Comrs., N.J., 41 S.Ct. 169, 254 U.S. 394, 65 L.Ed. 322.
51 C.J. p. 681 note 58.

The public safety is the primary consideration in determining the necessity and extent of a grade crossing elimination.[12] The power to eliminate grade crossings must be reasonably exercised[13] and its exercise is always subject to judicial review on the question of reasonableness[14] Danger to the public will not justify great expenditures, unreasonably burdening the railroad, when less expenditure may reasonably accomplish the object of the improvement and eliminate the danger[15] In order to be authorized by the police power, the advantage to be gained by the elimination of a grade crossing must be real and substantial and must affect enough individuals so that it may reasonably be said that the public, and not an isolated few, are benefited.[16] The power may not be used to accomplish some other purpose not reasonably incident to the elimination of grade crossings.[17]

b. Public Boards or Commissions

State boards and commissions, usually those intrusted with the general control and regulation of railroads, are frequently given general control with respect to the elimination of grade crossings.

State boards or commissioners, usually those intrusted with the general control and regulation of railroads, are frequently given general control with respect to the elimination of grade crossings.[18] Their powers are controlled by the statutes confer-

12. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Creedon Crossing, 248 N.Y.S. 284, 231 App Div. 531.

13. Tex.—City of Beaumont v Priddie, Civ App., 65 S W 2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Priddie, 95 S.W.2d 1290, 127 Tex. 629

14. Tex—City of Beaumont v. Priddie, Civ App., 65 S W 2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N O R. Co. v Priddie, 95 S.W.2d 1290, 127 Tex. 629.

15. U S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs of New Jersey, N.J., 49 S Ct. 69, 278 U S. 24, 73 L.Ed. 161, 62 A L.R. 805

N Y.—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent. R. Co., 295 N Y. S 831, 251 App Div 72

Disproportion between benefit and expense

Public should not be compelled to share in expense of elimination of grade crossings, which expense is out of all proportion to benefit to be derived from improvement.—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

16. N Y.—In re New York, O. & W Ry Co., 280 N.Y.S. 174, 244 App Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O & W. Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N.Y. 567

17. N Y.—Long Island R Co v. Department of Labor of State of New York, 247 N.Y.S. 278, 138 Misc. 612, affirmed 177 N.E. 17, 256 N Y. 498.

18. Cal.—City of San Mateo v. Railroad Commission, 68 P 2d 713, 9 Cal 2d 1—S H Chase Lumber Co v. Railroad Commission of State of California, 300 P. 12, 212 Cal. 691.

Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 13 N.E 2d 177, 354 Ill. 58.

Mo—State ex rel. Kurn v Hughes, 153 S W 2d 46, 348 Mo 177—State ex rel. Alton R Co v Public Service Commission, 70 S W 2d 57, 334 Mo. 995—State ex rel Town of Carrollton v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 63 S W 2d 26

Neb—Chicago & N. W. Ry Co v. County Board of Dodge County, 28 N.W 2d 396, 148 Neb 648—Butler County v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 263 N W. 895, 130 Neb. 75.

N J—Neureiter & Horre v. Central R. Co of New Jersey, 200 A. 754, 124 N J.Eq 163—R. & A. Realty Corp. v Pennsylvania R Co, 3 A. 2d 293, 16 N J Misc 537—Pennsylvania R Co. v Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 180 A. 551, 13 N. J.Misc 766, appeal dismissed 184 A. 842, 116 N J Law 527.

N Y—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania Railroad Co., 299 N. Y.S 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S 2d 163, 254 App.Div 634, and 4 N.Y.S 2d 166, 251 App Div 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E 2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495

Pa.—Bartron v. Northampton County, 19 A 2d 263, 342 Pa 163—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A 2d 588, 154 Pa Super. 86—Borough of Middletown v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 17 A.2d 904, 143 Pa.Super. 444—Lehigh & New England R. Co. v Public Service Commission of Commonwealth, 191 A. 380, 126 Pa.Super. 565.

Utah—Provo City v Department of Business Regulation, 218 P.2d 675.

51 C J. p 681 note 62.

Legislative power

Making of regulations governing separation of grades by railroads is exercise of legislative or administrative power, not judicial power.—In re Chicago, M., St P. & P. R. Co., D.C.Minn., 50 F 2d 430.

Police power

In grade crossing eliminations, the public utility commission exercises the police power of the commonwealth—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A 2d 46, 168 Pa. Super 360

Plenary and exclusive jurisdiction

(1) Commerce commission's jurisdiction over all phases of grade crossing regulation is plenary and exclusive.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Chicago & W I. R Co, 190 N.E. 896, 356 Ill. 501.

(2) The powers of public utility commission are plenary with relation to crossing of railroad tracks by highways and construction of bridges or viaducts for elimination of grade crossings of railroads—Department of Highways of Pennsylvania v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 611, 141 Pa Super. 376.

Protection of public travel

The statute authorizing the board of public utility commissioners to act in eliminating danger at grade crossings evidences legislative policy to protect public travel.—Hudson County v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 8 A.2d 556, 123 N.J Law 204, affirmed 12 A 2d 878, 124 N J.Law 563, and 12 A.2d 879, 124 N.J.Law 564

Plan for improvement of highways

A certificate of public convenience evidencing public utility commission's approval of abolition of railroad crossings and erection of new overhead crossing was necessary, and commission had exclusive jurisdiction over a part of the project, notwithstanding the elimination of the crossings and the construction of the overhead crossing were part of a comprehensive plan of the department of highways for the relocation and improvement of a state highway. —Somerset County v Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 806, 132 Pa.Super. 585.

ring them,[19] and, where their powers conflict with those which would otherwise fall within the jurisdiction of municipal or highway authorities with respect to the control of streets or highways, the latter must give way,[20] and the action of a state agency in eliminating a grade crossing within a municipality has been held not to be an invasion of municipal powers.[21]

The commission may ordinarily determine the manner in which the separation is to be made,[22] the drainage requirements,[23] the clearance of a viaduct,[24] and, if an underpass is required, the commission may regulate the width of the road there-

19. Pa.—Borough of Whitaker v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 60 A.2d 341, 163 Pa.Super. 238—Somerset County v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 806, 132 Pa.Super. 585.
51 C.J. p. 681 note 63

Power equal to that of legislature
N.J.—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Public Utility Com'rs, 152 A. 378, 8 N.J.Misc. 899.

All necessary authority
The Grade Crossing Elimination Act confers on the public service commission all the authority necessary to discharge the function of eliminating grade crossings.—City of New York v. Maltbie, 53 N.Y.S.2d 234, affirmed 53 N.Y.S.2d 953, 269 App.Div. 662, appeal denied 54 N.Y.S.2d 700, 269 App.Div. 685, affirmed 63 N.E.2d 119, 294 N.Y. 931.

Literal interpretation
Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Citizens of Westville, 89 P.2d 320, 184 Okl. 100, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 774, 306 U.S. 658, 83 L.Ed. 1055.

Property owned by government
The proviso that no property owned by Commonwealth or any municipal corporation thereof at effective date of act should be subject to public utility commission was not intended to nullify plenary power vested in commission to appropriate property for abolition of grade crossings, and to determine point at which and manner in which crossing may be constructed, altered, relocated, or abolished.—Borough of Whitaker v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 60 A.2d 341, 163 Pa.Super. 238.

Public utility facilities
Commission possesses power to compel a public utility to remove its facilities from vacated highway.—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A.2d 46, 168 Pa.Super. 360.

20. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., 190 N.E. 896, 356 Ill. 501
N.Y.—Solkat Realty Corp. v. State, 16 N.Y.S.2d 649, 172 Misc. 981, affirmed 29 N.Y.S.2d 622, 262 App.Div. 944, reargument denied 30 N.Y.S.2d 702, 262 App.Div. 987, affirmed 42 N.E.2d 13, 288 N.Y. 547.
Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Citizens of Westville, 89 P.2d 320, 184 Okl. 100, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 774, 306 U.S. 658, 83 L.Ed. 1055
Pa.—Somerset County v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 806, 132 Pa.Super. 585.
51 C.J. p. 682 note 64.

City subsequently organized
The railroad commission has authority under constitution and statutes to abolish hazardous and unnecessary grade crossings with railroad performing state-wide service, which is binding on cities organized under general law and on those cities organized under general law at time of adoption of constitutional amendment retaining in cities such vested power of control over public utilities as they then possessed, even though such cities were thereafter organized under freeholder charters, on ground that authority is germane to regulation of railroads performing state-wide service.—City of San Mateo v. Railroad Commission, 68 P.2d 713, 9 Cal.2d 1.

Contract with railroad
Where municipality closed crossing pursuant to agreement with railroad, which performed its part of the bargain, commission could order its reopening since closing of crossing was unauthorized and commission was not estopped.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Citizens of Westville, 89 P.2d 320, 184 Okl. 100, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 774, 306 U.S. 658, 83 L.Ed. 1055.

Bridges
The act providing all bridges on state highways in cities of the third class shall be taken over by the department of highways and thereafter be maintained at the sole expense of the Commonwealth does not diminish the plenary power of the public utility commission under the law conferring power on the commission to regulate construction, alteration, or abolition of crossings of one utility by another and requiring the work incident thereto to be performed by the utility or municipal corporation concerned or by the commonwealth.—City of Butler v. Pennsylvania Public Commission, 75 A.2d 611, 167 Pa.Super. 463—City of Wilkes-Barre v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 63 A.2d 452, 164 Pa.Super. 210.

21. Mich.—Case v. City of Saginaw, 288 N.W. 357, 291 Mich. 130.
Pa.—Borough of Middletown v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 17 A.2d 904, 143 Pa.Super. 444

Special commission
The statutes giving the public utility commission exclusive jurisdiction over construction and abolition of grade crossings and approval of contracts between cities and utilities are not violative of the constitution prohibiting the delegation of municipal functions to any "special commission" since the commission is not a "special commission."—Crown Products Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 31 A.2d 913, 32 A.2d 305, 152 Pa.Super. 345

22. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 30 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862.
N.Y.—Consolidated Edison Co. of N.Y. v. State, 97 N.Y.S.2d 431, 276 App.Div. 677, affirmed 98 N.E.2d 587, 302 N.Y. 711—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania Railroad Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495
51 C.J. p. 682 note 65.

Capacity of bridge
Fact that bridge, substituted by state roads commission for eliminated railroad grade crossing as farm crossing over railroad, was designed to bear load of only eight tons and farm owner sometimes sent out heavier loads did not render new way unreasonable outlet.—Brehm v. Tabler, 5 A.2d 820, 6 A.2d 378, 176 Md. 411

Inconvenience to railroad in rearranging its sidings made necessary by underpass construction for accommodation of its patrons was held not to justify rejection of underpass in favor of overhead crossing.—In re Elimination of Highway Grade Crossings in Town of Canton, St. Lawrence County, 242 N.Y.S. 601, 229 App.Div. 607, appeal dismissed 174 N.E. 695, 255 N.Y. 320.

23. Mo.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State Highway Commission, 17 S.W.2d 535, 322 Mo. 419.

24. Mo.—State v. Public Service Commission, 295 S.W. 86, 317 Mo. 172.

under,[25] and the curve in the road so as to make it cross more nearly at right angles;[26] or it may extend a crossing over the entire right of way of the railroad,[27] or order whatever is necessary and incidental to the change of grade,[28] such as changes in property and facilities of the railroad,[29] relocation of a portion of the tracks,[30] relocation of a spur track,[31] construction of supporting abutments within the limits of the highway,[32] a change in the location of trolley tracks on the street or highway,[33] or construction of a farm crossing,[34] and it may provide for a contingent widening of the highway in the near future,[35] but the construction of a crossing abolishing a grade crossing may not be ordered because of some contingency which may not happen, the crossing not having any present use.[36]

The commission has no authority as an independent matter to discontinue existing highways or lay out new ones,[37] but, when necessary in order to effect the abolition of a grade crossing, the commission may change the location of the highway,[38] or may order a change in the grade of streets,[39] or the highway or a portion thereof may be discontinued and another substituted,[40] such changes being deemed to be merely alterations in the existing way and not an independent discontinuance or construction of a new way,[41] and such additional land may be taken as is necessary for effecting the change.[42] Where a grade crossing is eliminated by a change of grades, near-by crossings may be closed,[43] and the commission need not furnish a new crossing for each grade crossing which it or-

25. N J.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Public Utility Comrs, 137 A. 442, 5 N J.Misc 559.

26. N J —Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Public Utility Comrs, supra.

27. N.Y.—In re State Commission of Highways, 146 N E 379, 239 N Y 279.

28. N J.—Benton & Holden v Central R. Co. of New Jersey, 194 A 805, 122 N J Eq 309, affirmed 196 A 352, 123 N J Eq. 163.
51 C.J. p 682 note 71.

29. N.Y —In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing, City of Buffalo, 64 N Y.S 2d 764, 271 App Div. 266, appeal dismissed In re New York Cent R. R., 78 N E 2d 596, 297 N Y. 246
51 C J. p 682 note 72

Railroad station; signal system

In the elimination of grade crossings, a new railroad station and a new signal system were incidental improvements which the public service commission could order with the elimination and compel the railroad to pay for.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing, City of Buffalo, 64 N Y S.2d 764, 271 App Div 266, appeal dismissed In re New York Cent. R. R, 78 N E 2d 596, 297 N.Y. 246.

30. N.Y.—Matter of New York Cent, etc, R. Co, 121 N Y.S. 528, 136 App.Div. 756.

Necessity for change

Public service commission may make order requiring railroad to abandon its road and to relocate its tracks at another point, but such order can only be made where change of location is necessary to effect elimination of dangerous crossing, and change cannot be ordered unless it is reasonably necessary to abolish such crossing, and necessity must be shown by clear and convincing evidence.—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent. R. Co., 295 N. Y S 831, 251 App.Div 72.

31. Conn —Appeal of New York, etc, R Co, 53 A. 314, 75 Conn. 264
R I —Armour v. New York, etc, R Co, 103 A 1031, 41 R.I. 361.

32. Conn —Bristol v. New England R Co, 39 A. 235, 70 Conn. 305, 40 L R A 479
51 C J. p 682 note 75.

33. N Y.—New Paltz, etc, Tract Co v Central New England R. Co, 147 N Y S. 624, 84 Misc. 528
51 C J p 683 note 76

34. Vt —Sayers v. Montpelier, etc, R Co, 97 A. 660, 90 Vt. 201, Ann Cas 1918B 1050

35. N Y.—Matter of New York Cent R Co, 235 N Y.S. 505, 226 App Div 447, affirmed 170 N E 152, 252 N Y 583.

36. Neb —Sarpy County v. Omaha, etc., R Co, 218 N.W. 403, 116 Neb 516.
51 C J p 683 note 79.

37. Conn —Doolittle v. Branford, 22 A. 336, 59 Conn 402
51 C J. p 683 note 80.

38. Conn —Appeal of Town of Andover, 155 A. 717, 113 Conn. 494
Ind —Evansville, I. & T. H R. Co. v Board of Com'rs of Gibson County, 199 N.E 583, 210 Ind. 74.
51 C.J. p 683 note 82.

39. N.J.—Benton & Holden v. Central R Co of New Jersey, 194 A 805, 122 N J Eq. 309, affirmed 196 A 352, 123 N J Eq. 163.
N Y —Solkat Realty Corp. v State, 16 N Y S.2d 649, 172 Misc. 981, affirmed 29 N.Y.S.2d 622, 262 App. Div. 944, reargument denied 30 N. Y.S.2d 702, 262 App.Div. 987, affirmed 42 N E.2d 13, 288 N.Y. 547.

40. Cal.—S H Chase Lumber Co. v. Railroad Commission of State of California, 300 P. 12, 212 Cal. 691.
51 C J. p 683 note 84.

Power to determine usefulness of highway

(1) Under statute governing discontinuance of portion of state highway due to grade crossing elimination, determination that such portion of highway is no longer useful as part of state system need not be made by department of public works, and may be made by public service commission.—Isaac v. Town of Queensbury, 12 N.E.2d 785, 277 N Y. 37, reargument denied 15 N E 2d 73, 278 N.Y 483

(2) The public utility commission, in exercise of the police power, is authorized to abandon or vacate such highways or portions of highways as, in opinion of commission, may be rendered unnecessary for public use by the construction, relocation, or abandonment of grade crossings — Philadelphia Suburban Water Co v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A.2d 46, 168 Pa Super 360

41. Conn.—Doolittle v. Branford, 22 A 336, 59 Conn. 402.

42. Me —Maine Cent R. Co v Bangor, etc, R. Co., 36 A. 1050, 89 Me 555.
Mo —State v. Public Service Commission, 267 S W. 102, 306 Mo. 149.
N Y.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N E. 344, 264 N.Y 195

43. N Y.—Matter of Buffalo Terminal R Co., 106 N.Y S. 655, 659, 122 App Div 59, 896, affirmed 84 N.E. 1121, 192 N.Y. 534.
51 C.J p 683 note 83.

Closing underpass

The power of state highway commission, after construction of an overhead bridge over railroad tracks replacing an underpass, to order the underpass closed was implied, if not expressly covered, in language of statute authorizing commission not only to abandon roads where advisable, but, on relocation, to substitute

ders closed.[44]

A commission authorized to alter or abolish any grade crossing may not close a highway by abolishing a railroad crossing,[45] but in such case the power of the commission is limited to requiring a separation of grades or a relocation of the crossing,[46] and, under the power to change the location of a highway for the purpose of avoiding or improving a grade crossing, the commission has no power to discontinue any part of a highway except as such discontinuance results from a change in location.[47] The commission may make only such a discontinuance or new construction as is properly incidental to the necessary change in location of the crossing,[48] and the new way must serve practically the same public needs so as to be in fact a substitute for the original way and not a new highway.[49] The commission may be authorized to order a nongrade crossing at a different place,[50] but it has been held that the commission may not change the location of a way where it is practicable to separate the grades at the existing location.[51]

A plan which does not require abandonment of a road should receive careful consideration when the abandonment will cause great loss and inconvenience for which no recovery could be had.[52] In a statute conferring powers on a commission to eliminate and alter grade crossings in order that the safety of the public may be assured, the word "alter" will not be construed as meaning the change of a grade crossing without its destruction,[53] and, in order that the safety of the public may be "assured," it should be made certain and put beyond doubt.[54]

Crossings which may be abolished Where no highway exists, the commission may not order the abolition of a grade crossing.[55] The power of the commission has been held not to extend to private crossings at grade.[56] A grade crossing constructed by order of the commission as a temporary substitute for an undercrossing is a grade crossing which the commission has power to abolish.[57] Under a statute empowering the board of public utility commissioners to eliminate a grade crossing that impedes public travel, it is sufficient that the crossing checks, hinders, or delays travel.[58] Statutes authorizing a change of a highway to eliminate a grade crossing give no power to change a highway to avoid a grade crossing of a railroad not yet constructed.[59] Under a statute authorizing the elimination of grade crossings, the commission has power to require the elimination of a grade crossing by a spur track,[60] and, under a statute providing for one section for another; added inconvenience was not sufficient to support a cause of action by owners to prevent closing of the underpass.—Mosteller v. Southern Ry. Co., 17 S.E.2d 133, 220 N.C. 275.

44. Wis.—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 167 N.W. 266, 167 Wis. 185.

Reduction in number of crossings
Board of public utility commissioners had jurisdiction to authorize abandonment of five grade crossings and substitution of two others in place thereof.—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Public Utility Com'rs, 152 A. 378, 8 N.J.Misc. 899.

45. Ill.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Road Dist. No. 10, 187 N.E. 155, 353 Ill. 160.

Abandonment of highway
Only where there has been abandonment or vacation of highway as prescribed by law has state commerce commission power to abolish railroad grade crossing thereon.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Road Dist. No. 10, supra.

Substitute way
Board of public utility commissioners has no authority, under statute, to permit railroad to vacate a railroad crossing, in absence of proof that crossing was dangerous and the provision of a substitute way.—Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 176 A. 709, 13 N.J.Misc. 162

46. Ill.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Road Dist. No. 10, 187 N.E. 155, 353 Ill. 160.

47. N.H.—Blake v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 64 A. 202, 73 N.H. 597.

48. N.H.—Blake v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 64 A. 202, 73 N.H. 597.

49. N.H.—Blake v. Concord, etc., R. Co., supra.

50. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 68 S.W.2d 691, 334 Mo. 832.

Highway authorities have jurisdiction to establish underpass at point different from that at which existing highway crosses railroad
Miss.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. State Highway Commission, 144 So. 558, 164 Miss. 343.
Ohio.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 171 N.E. 854, 122 Ohio St. 380.

Order held not unreasonable
Public service commission's order, authorizing construction of subway under railroad tracks at new concrete highway crossing near existing gravel road underpass to eliminate danger from sharp curves and poor visibility as result of increased traffic and higher speed expected on new highway, was held not unreasonable or arbitrary.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 68 S.W.2d 691, 334 Mo. 832.

51. Conn.—Appeal of Fairfield, 17 A. 764, 57 Conn. 167

52. N.Y.—Matter of Grade Crossing Elimination, 234 N.Y.S. 605, 226 App.Div. 255.

53. R.I.—Armour v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 A. 1031, 41 R.I. 361

54. R.I.—Armour v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

55. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Shinnecock Hills, etc., Realty Co., 131 N.Y.S. 885, affirmed 141 N.Y.S. 1129, 156 App.Div. 912
Ohio.—Grinnell v. Portage County, 27 Ohio Cir.Ct. 118

56. Utah.—Bamberger Electric R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 204 P. 314, 59 Utah 351.
51 C.J. p. 683 note 95

57. N.Y.—In re Grade Crossings, 167 N.E. 460, 251 N.Y. 331.

58. N.J.—Erie R. Co. v. Public Utility Com'rs, 98 A. 13, 89 N.J.Law 57, affirmed 103 A. 1052, 90 N.J.Law 672, affirmed 41 S.Ct. 169, 254 U.S. 394, 65 L.Ed. 322.

59. Ohio.—Grinnell v. Portage County, 27 Ohio Cir.Ct. 118.
51 C.J. p. 683 note 92.

60. R.I.—Armour v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 A. 1031, 41 R.I. 361.

the elimination and alteration of grade crossings in order to assure the safety of the public, the commission may require the elimination of a spur track, although its use is not attended with the same elements of danger as attend the operation of through tracks.[61]

c. Municipal Corporations

Municipal corporations may have power to provide for the abolition of grade crossings within their borders.

A municipal corporation either by virtue of the general police power vested in it for the welfare and safety of its citizens,[62] or by virtue of powers expressly delegated[63] or necessarily implied from such powers,[64] may provide for the abolition of grade crossings within its limits, although its exercise of such powers must be reasonable,[65] and the municipality is confined to the exercise of such power as is expressly granted or reasonably implied.[66] The police power may not be in anyway impaired by the municipality,[67] and the fact that a railroad was permitted to cross a street at grade does not prevent the city from subsequently requiring a change of grade,[68] but the legislature may withdraw such power and confer it on a state agency.[69]

A statute authorizing a state commission to require the abolition of grade crossings has been held not to deprive a city of its police power, given by its charter, to do likewise.[70] A plan which is insufficient and unsafe,[71] or which is in conflict with the requirements of statutes of general application to railroads,[72] may not be enforced. It is not essential that the requirement of an overhead crossing be accompanied by a complete vacation or abandonment of the surface crossing,[73] and a grade crossing under a viaduct may be left open for travel.[74]

Legislative or judicial power. As a general rule, the power to compel an elimination of grade crossings is legislative rather than judicial,[75] and the city may not require the railroad to institute condemnation proceedings to bring about changes of grade and shift the burden of apportioning the cost to the courts.[76]

d. Courts of Equity

A court of equity may compel a railroad to perform its duty to abolish grade crossings.

When the charter of a railroad contains the provision that it shall keep in repair good and sufficient crossings over or under its road so as not to impede passage on the highway, a court of equity may compel the abolition of a grade crossing,[77] and, where the statute provides for suit in equity by a municipality to compel specific performance of a railroad's duties with respect to crossings, a court of equity has jurisdiction to require the railroad, by injunction, to cross in some manner other than at grade,[78] but, where the state has not, by statute, declared that grade crossings should be abolished, the court may not require their abolition unless by reason of some fact the grade crossings are especially dangerous.[79]

61. R.I.—Armour v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

62. Mont.—State v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 295 P. 257, 88 Mont. 529. Tenn.—Corpus Juris cited in Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. City of Chattanooga, 64 S.W.2d 196, 198, 166 Tenn. 626.
51 C.J. p. 684 note 2.

63. N.C.—Sanders v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 4 S.E.2d 902, 216 N.C. 312.
51 C.J. p. 684 note 3.

64. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 133 S.E. 800, 145 Va. 225.

Exclusive dominion over streets.
Delegation of state's police power to compel railroad company to eliminate grade crossings at its own cost or adjust expenses between them is implied in conferring on municipalities exclusive dominion over public streets within their boundaries.—City of Beaumont v. Priddie, Civ. App., 65 S.W.2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Priddie, 95 S.W.2d 1290, 127 Tex. 629.

65. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minneapolis, D.C.Minn., 238 F. 384.
51 C.J. p. 684 note 5.

66. Ind.—State v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., 66 N.E. 163, 160 Ind. 45, 60 L.R.A. 831.
51 C.J. p. 684 note 6.

67. Ill.—Otis El. Co. v. Chicago, 105 N.E. 338, 263 Ill. 419, 52 L.R.A., N.S., 192.
51 C.J. p. 684 note 7.

68. Minn.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 160 N.W. 773, 135 Minn. 277, L.R.A. 1917C 1174.

69. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., 190 N.E. 896, 356 Ill. 501.

70. N.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldsboro, 71 S.E. 514, 155 N.C. 356, affirmed 34 S.Ct. 364, 232 U.S. 548, 58 L.Ed. 721.

71. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minneapolis, D.C.Minn., 238 F. 384.

72. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minneapolis, supra.
51 C.J. p. 685 note 14.

73. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Omaha, Neb., 197 F. 516, 117 C.C.A. 12, affirmed 35 S.Ct. 82, 235 U.S. 121, 59 L.Ed. 157.

74. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Omaha, supra.

75. N.C.—Sanders v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 4 S.E.2d 902, 216 N.C. 312.
51 C.J. p. 685 note 10.

76. Wash.—Spokane v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., 135 P. 636, 75 Wash. 651.

77. N.J.—Newark v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 67 A. 1009, 73 N.J.Eq. 469.—Newark v. Erie R. Co., 68 A. 413, 72 N.J.Eq. 447.

78. N.J.—Newark v. Erie R. Co., 71 A. 620, 75 N.J.Eq. 20, reversed on other grounds 74 A. 505, 76 N.J.Eq. 317.—Newark v. Erie R. Co., 68 A. 413, 72 N.J.Eq. 447.

79. N.J.—Newark v. Erie R. Co., 71 A. 620, 75 N.J.Eq. 20, 28, reversed on other grounds 74 A. 505, 76 N.J. Eq. 317.
51 C.J. p. 685 note 20.

e. Special Commissions

Under some statutes, provision is made for the appointment of a special commission to determine the necessity, place, mode, and expense of abolishing grade crossings.

Where the statute so provides, on petition of the proper party to a designated court, a commission must be appointed to determine the necessity, place, mode, and expense of abolishing grade crossings,[80] and such a statute requires proceedings for the abolition of grade crossings to be brought under its provisions and not under provisions for the alteration of crossings which do not involve a change in grade.[81] The commission may provide for everything which is fairly incidental to the abolition of the crossing,[82] but beyond this it may not go.[83] The commission may provide for discontinuance of streets,[84] or for extensive alteration in the location of the railroad.[85] The location of the crossing may be changed,[86] and such land as is necessary to effect the change may be taken;[87] but no greater change in the location of a highway should be made than is reasonably necessary in order to avoid the grade crossings,[88] and the new way must be no more than a fair equivalent for that which is given up.[89] The commission is not required to reproduce or restore the exact conditions which existed before the change of grade either in respect of the railroad or of the public use.[90]

§ 164. —— Proceedings to Abolish or Remove

a. In general
b. Proceedings before state board or commission
c. Proceedings by municipal corporations
d. Proceedings before special commissioners

a. In General

Statutes frequently make comprehensive provisions as to the procedure for abolishing or eliminating grade crossings between railroads and streets or highways.

Statutes frequently make comprehensive provisions as to the procedure for abolishing or eliminating grade crossings between railroads and streets or highways.[91] Where a street is closed or altered as part of a grade crossing elimination, the statute as to the elimination of railroad crossings rather than the statute as to the closing of streets governs the proceedings.[92] When a change of grade is incidental to general plan to acquire additional facilities, the proceedings are properly conducted in accordance with that plan, rather than under the statutory provisions for alteration of grades.[93] A statute dealing with the elimination of grade crossings within a particular city has been held to be exclusive of all other remedies.[94]

Proceedings in equity. A bill in equity to compel a separation of grades is not defective because it fails to specify what kind of crossing is sought,[95] or because it fails to state that notice of intent to file the bill was given to the railroad.[96]

b. Proceedings before State Board or Commission

(1) In general
(2) Judicial review

80. Mass.—In re Waltham, 92 N.E. 477, 206 Mass. 208.
51 C.J. p. 685 note 21.

81. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Middlesex County, 85 N.E. 108, 198 Mass. 584.

82. Mass.—In re Waltham, 92 N.E. 477, 206 Mass. 208.

83. Mass.—In re Waltham, supra.
51 C.J. p. 685 note 24

84. Mass.—In re Westborough, 48 N.E. 763, 169 Mass. 495.
51 C.J. p. 685 note 25

85. Mass.—In re Westborough, supra.

86. Mass.—Davis v. Hampshire County Comrs., 26 N.E. 848, 153 Mass. 218, 11 L.R.A. 750.
51 C.J. p. 685 note 27

87. Mass.—Lancy v. Boston, 71 N.E. 302, 186 Mass. 128.

88. Mass.—Davis v. Hampshire County Comrs., 26 N.E. 848, 153 Mass. 218, 11 L.R.A. 750.

89. Mass.—Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 37 N.E. 199, 161 Mass. 259.
51 C.J. p. 686 note 30

90. Mass.—In re Waltham, 92 N.E. 477, 206 Mass. 208.
51 C.J. p. 686 note 31

91. Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. County Board of Dodge County, 28 N.W.2d 396, 148 Neb. 648.

Prior statute repealed

The 1921 statute prohibiting state railway commission from projecting a new public highway crossing over railroad or abandoning an existing public crossing was superseded and repealed by 1925 statute requiring commission to hear, and determine on the merits, applications relating to relocation of highways for grade crossing elimination purposes.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. County Board of Dodge County, supra.

92. Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. County Board of Dodge County, supra.

Special statute

A special statutory provision which relates to a particular subject and is part of an act complete in itself and which states that county board can establish, vacate, or relocate public highway at railroad crossing in compliance with board's agreement with railroad or order of state railway commission supersedes and governs general provisions of previously enacted statute requiring consent of majority of voters living within two miles of road to consent to vacation or change of road.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. County Board of Dodge County, supra.

93. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Sherwood, 136 N.Y.S. 752.

94. N.Y.—Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 97 N.Y.S.2d 279, 197 Misc. 192, modified on other grounds 32 N.Y.S.2d 620, 263 App.Div. 930, affirmed 49 N.E.2d 131, 290 N.Y. 632.

95. N.J.—Newark v. Erie R. Co., 68 A. 413, 72 N.J.Eq. 447.

96. N.J.—Newark v. Erie R. Co., supra.

(1) In General

Where a state commission has exclusive jurisdiction over grade crossings between railroads and streets or highways, proceedings for the elimination of a grade crossing must be instituted before the commission, which must consider all the facts and circumstances.

Where a state commission has exclusive jurisdiction over grade crossings between railroads and streets or highways, proceedings for the elimination of a grade crossing must be instituted before the commission.[97] Proceedings before the commission are administrative, not judicial.[98] As a general rule, the commission may proceed for the abolition of grade crossings of its own motion,[99] and, under some statutes, is required to institute proceedings where a proper petition is filed.[1] A company operating a railroad under a perpetual lease is the owner of the road within the application of the statute and may institute such proceedings.[2] The municipality within which the grade crossing lies is the only municipality which may petition for its abolition,[3] and other municipalities through which the highway passes are not necessary parties to the proceeding.[4] The failure of the commission to make the governmental body in charge of the road a party to the proceedings will not invalidate its order where that body subsequently intervenes in the proceeding in support of the commission's order.[5] An application for a continuance is addressed to the sound discretion of the commission.[6]

Petition. A petition to discontinue a grade crossing must be sufficiently broad to justify the relief sought.[7] The petition may include one or more crossings,[8] although it has been held necessary to institute separate proceedings for each crossing.[9] An objection to a petition to railroad commissioners for the abolition of a grade crossing, on the ground that it was not properly brought, is in the nature of a plea in abatement, and should be made at the hearing before the commissioners.[10]

Consolidation. The commission may have power to consolidate related proceedings,[11] and an original and a subsequent proceeding involving the same crossing may be consolidated.[12]

Hearing and notice. The commission must conduct a fair hearing before ordering the elimination of a grade crossing.[13] Where the state acts through an administrative body, there must be provision for a fair hearing on the fundamental facts,[14] and a statute authorizing an administrative officer to require a railroad to abolish grade crossings without notice or hearing is invalid, even though his actions are subject to judicial review where arbitrary,[15] but a proceeding similar to one in a court is not necessary.[16] Under some statutes,

97. Pa.—Bartron v. Northampton County, 19 A.2d 263, 342 Pa. 163

Appeal to commission

Appeal to public utilities commission from order of highway director directing railroad's elimination of grade crossing constitutes proceeding de novo.—Lake Shore Electric Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 180 N.E. 552, 125 Ohio St. 48

98. U.S.—In re Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., D.C.Minn., 50 F.2d 430

99. Pa.—Borough of Middletown v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 17 A.2d 904, 143 Pa. Super. 444

51 C.J. p. 686 note 33

1. Wash.—Department of Transp. of State v. Snohomish County, 212 P.2d 829, 35 Wash.2d 247

Purpose of statute dealing with petitions for change in existing railroad crossings is to promote the public safety.—Department of Transp. of State v. Snohomish County, supra

Department of highway proper petitioner

Pa.—Borough of Middletown v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 17 A.2d 904, 143 Pa. Super. 444.

2. Conn.—Appeal of Westbrook, 17 A. 368, 57 Conn. 95.

51 C.J. p. 686 note 34

3. N.Y.—People v. Public Service Commission, 114 N.E. 1050, 220 N.Y. 1.

4. Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N.E. 177, 354 Ill. 58

5. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 179 A. 850, 118 Pa. Super. 380

6. N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey, 184 A. 841, 116 N.J. Law 415

7. Ill.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Road Dist. No. 10, 187 N.E. 155, 353 Ill. 160

8. N.J.—Erie R. Co. v. Public Utility Comrs., 98 A. 13, 89 N.J. Law 57, affirmed 103 A. 1052, 90 N.J. Law 672, affirmed 41 S.Ct. 169, 254 U.S. 394, 65 L.Ed. 322

9. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 158 N.E. 376, 326 Ill. 625, 55 A.L.R. 654.

Mich.—Detroit v. Dailey, 120 N.W. 25, 156 Mich. 9

10. Conn.—Appeal of Westbrook, 17 A. 368, 57 Conn. 95

11. Pa.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 161 A. 422, 105 Pa. Super. 423.

12. Wash.—State v. Department of Public Works, 238 P. 621, 135 Wash. 644

13. Md.—Brehm v. Tabler, 5 A.2d 820, 6 A.2d 378, 176 Md. 411.

Participation as waiver of lack of notice

Where city participated in original hearing before commission on question of whether to close street crossing over railroad, and thereafter twice applied for reconsideration and took appeal to court, city could not thereafter for first time attack order closing crossing because of failure to give it notice of the original proceeding.—City of Tulsa, Okl. v. Midland Valley R. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 168 F.2d 252.

14. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth of Virginia ex rel. Shirley, Va., 54 S.Ct. 148, 290 U.S. 190, 78 L.Ed. 260

15. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. Commonwealth of Virginia ex rel. Shirley, supra.

16. Md.—Brehm v. Tabler, 5 A.2d 820, 6 A.2d 378, 176 Md. 411

Failure to call witnesses

A hearing before state roads commission on question of eliminating where a grade crossing is eliminated by a change of grade, only the railroad is entitled to notice and hearing,[17] but, where a grade crossing is eliminated by closing the crossing, the public and all persons affected are entitled to notice and hearing.[18] When a petition for the abolition of a grade crossing is brought by the railroad company, the municipality where the crossing is situated should be given notice of the proceedings, although the statute does not expressly require it.[19]

Necessity for elimination. The burden is on a railroad petitioning for permission to discontinue a grade crossing to establish that it is entitled to such relief.[20] It must be established that the elimination of the grade crossing is for the public benefit,[21] and is reasonably necessary,[22] and, in passing on the elimination of a grade crossing, the commission must consider all the facts and circumstances, including the location of the crossing, the surrounding physical conditions, and the volume of traffic.[23]

The commission may not require one railroad to eliminate a grade crossing in order to save another railroad the expense of eliminating another grade crossing, but the fact that such saving incidentally results from a valid order requiring the elimination of a grade crossing will not invalidate such order.[24] Grade crossing eliminations requiring great expenditures should not be ordered where the danger may be substantially eliminated by regulation of the manner of operation of the railroad.[25] Engineering questions are for the commission to determine.[26] The fact that a municipal corporation has not consented to the abolition of a grade crossing is not important where it will not bear the expense of, or be subjected to liability because of, the abolition.[27]

Findings The commission may be required to make findings of fact as to all of the principal issues,[28] and the findings should be sufficiently spe-railroad grade crossing was not legally inadequate because of commission's failure to call witnesses as to facts testified to and shown by photographs in evidence with respect to train and automobile traffic and obstruction of view at crossing or facts bearing on issue as to proper location of substituted overhead crossing.—Brehm v. Tabler, supra.

17. Ky.—McCreary County Fiscal Court v. Roberts, 166 S.W.2d 977, 292 Ky. 527.

18. Ky.—McCreary County Fiscal Court v Roberts, supra.

19. Conn.—Appeal of Westbrook, 17 A. 368, 57 Conn. 95.

20. Ill.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v Road Dist. No. 10, 187 N.E 155, 353 Ill. 160.

21. Ill.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 70 N E.2d 64, 395 Ill 303.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A.2d 588, 154 Pa.Super. 86

Benefit of particular individuals

Order of commerce commission directing that highway bridge over railroad be reconstructed would be set aside where it appeared that reconstruction of the bridge would be practically for sole convenience of an experimental farm operated by University of Illinois, and that the convenience of other members of the public would be purely negligible.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 70 N.E.2d 64, 395 Ill. 303.

22. N.Y.—In re Grade Crossing Elimination in Town of Wallkill, 263 N.Y.S 61, 238 App.Div. 854.

Va.—Richmond-Ashland Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel City of Richmond, 173 S E 892, 162 Va. 296.

Question of fact

Ill.—Commerce Commission v Cleveland, etc, R Co, 140 N E. 868, 309 Ill. 165—Cleveland, etc, R Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 112 N E. 689, 278 Ill 210.

Existence of grade crossing is not itself sufficient basis for determination by the commission that public safety required elimination.—Matter of Bay St Crossing, 221 N Y S 129, 220 App Div. 80, affirmed 157 N E 892, 245 N.Y. 643—51 C.J. p 687 note 47 [b].

Fact that no accident had ever happened at crossing does not preclude finding that crossing is dangerous.—Department of Transp of State v. Snohomish County, 212 P. 2d 829, 35 Wash 2d 247—51 C J. p 688 note 60 [a] (2)

Evidence as to use of pedestrian subway

N Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N Y S 693, 252 App Div 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S 2d 163, 254 App Div 634, and 4 N Y.S 2d 166, 254 App Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway In Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N Y 495

Reasonable necessity held not established

Minn.—Northern Pac Ry. Co. v Village of Rush City, Chisago County, 40 N.W.2d 886, 230 Minn. 144.

N.Y.—In re Grade Crossing Elimination in Town of Wallkill, 263 N. Y S. 61, 238 App.Div. 854.

23. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co, 190 N E 896, 356 Ill. 501.

24. N Y.—In re New York, O & W Ry. Co, 280 N.Y.S. 174, 244 App Div 664, affirmed In re New York, O & W Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N.E 2d 188, 271 N Y. 567

25. N Y.—In re New York O & W Ry. Co, 257 N Y.S 182, 235 App Div. 331.

26. N Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade in City of Batavia, Genesee County, 8 N.Y.S.2d 910, 256 App Div 6, affirmed In re Grade Crossing Elimination in City of Batavia, 24 N E 2d 987, 282 N Y. 570, reargument denied 26 N E 2d 810, 282 N.Y. 679—In re New York, O & W. Ry Co, 257 N Y.S. 182, 235 App Div. 331.

Grade of track at crossing was largely an engineering problem.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R Co., 299 N Y S 693, 252 App.Div 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N Y S 2d 163, 254 App Div. 634 and 4 N.Y S. 2d 166, 254 App.Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N E 2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.

27. Pa.—Borough of Middletown v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 17 A.2d 904, 143 Pa Super. 444.

28. Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co.

cific to enable the court intelligently to review the commission's decision and ascertain if the facts found afford a reasonable basis for the order.[29]

Order. A valid order determining the mode of elimination has the force and effect of a statute enacted by the legislature,[30] and remains in full force and effect until appealed from or vacated.[31] Where an order tentatively approving plans for the separation of grades at a crossing provided for the reopening of the proceeding if the parties were unable to agree on the plans, but no petition to reopen was filed, the order became final[32] and warranted the railroad in proceeding in compliance with it.[33] An order with respect to the elimination of a grade crossing must be reasonable,[34] and should not be rendered until a well considered and comprehensive plan has been worked out;[35] nor should such an order be made without determining the manner in which it shall be carried out,[36] and without making a fairly accurate estimate of the cost of the project.[37] The fact that the railroad is financially unable to comply with the commission's order for the elimination of a grade crossing does not affect its validity,[38] but it has been held, under a statute providing for the elimination of grade crossings where necessary and expedient, that a determination of expedience requires the consideration of the financial condition of the railroad.[39]

Unless the statute so provides, it is not necessary that there be an ascertainment of all the damages likely to result to property owners from putting a plan of grade crossing elimination into operation before a final order establishing such plan may be made,[40] nor is the payment of anticipatory damages to adjacent property owners a condition precedent to a performance of the work.[41] An order for the elimination of a grade crossing is not invalid for failure to make provision for reimburse-

v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N.E. 177, 354 Ill. 58.

Findings held sufficient

Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, supra.

29. Ill.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, supra

Judicial review of orders of commission see infra subdivision b (2) of this section.

30. N.Y.—Matter of Highway-R. Crossings, 234 N.Y.S. 480, 226 App. Div. 287, reversed on other grounds 167 N.E. 460, 251 N.Y. 331

Construction of order

U.S.—Montgomery v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 89 F. 2d 94.

31. N.Y.—Matter of Highway-R. Crossings, 234 N.Y.S. 480, 226 App. Div. 287, reversed on other grounds 167 N.E. 460, 251 N.Y. 331

Fraud or deception, if any, in obtaining conveyance of private roadway on grantor's land to railroad right of way by concealment of state roads commission's purpose to remove railroad grade crossing did not invalidate such removal, where conveyance did not bring about or aid in removal of crossing or placing of crossing and portion of road beyond it under commission's control.—Brehm v. Tabler, 5 A.2d 820, 6 A.2d 378, 176 Md. 411.

32. Ind.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Delaware County, 27 N.E.2d 89, 108 Ind. App. 335.

33. Ind.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Delaware County, supra

34. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App. Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App. Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App. Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495

Pa.—Pittsburgh & S. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 903, 141 Pa. Super. 233.

Financial ability of railroad

(1) The financial inability of the railroad to comply is to be considered in determining the reasonableness of the order.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 112 N.E. 689, 273 Ill. 210.

(2) Public service commission's order, authorizing construction of new highway subway under railroad tracks, was held not unreasonable or unlawful because of railroad company's distressed financial condition.—State ex rel Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 68 S.W.2d 691, 334 Mo. 832

(3) Allocation of expense of eliminating crossing see infra § 165.

35. N.Y.—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent. R. Co., 295 N.Y.S. 831, 251 App.Div. 72.

Choice of plan.

Public service commission must exercise its judgment and discretion in finally determining, after due hearing, which of several different plans for elimination of railroad grade crossing shall be adopted.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N.E. 344, 264 N.Y. 195.

36. N.Y.—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent. R. Co., 295 N.Y.S. 831, 251 App.Div. 72.

37. N.Y.—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

"Rough calculation" of cost of eliminating grade crossing will not justify public service commission in making final determination which will eventually result in expenditure by public and railroad of millions of dollars, although commission need not have before it exact amount which improvement will cost.—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent. R. Co., supra

38. N.Y.—In re New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 280 N.Y.S. 174, 244 App. Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W. Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N.Y. 567

51 C.J. p. 688 note 60 [a] (3).

Allocation of expense of eliminating crossing see infra § 165.

39. Ohio.—Lake Shore Electric Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 180 N.E. 552, 125 Ohio St. 48.

40. Pa.—Erie R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 76 Pa. Super. 170, affirmed 114 A. 357, 271 Pa. 409.

Damages generally see infra § 166

41. N.J.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Simandl, 1 A.2d 312, 124 N.J.Eq. 207, affirmed 4 A.2d 281, 125 N.J.Eq. 91.

ment of the railroad company as provided by statute, where the statute gives the railroad the right to reimbursement and the commission may enforce the right.[42] A statutory requirement that the railroad commissioners shall communicate their decision as to the abolition of a grade crossing to the parties within a certain time has been held to be merely directory and not to affect the validity of the order,[43] and the same has been held with respect to a requirement that the railroad commissioners shall file in their office and send copies of their decision to the railroad company.[44]

Rehearing. The commission may have power to reopen the proceeding[45] on its own motion,[46] even though its former decision has been approved on appeal,[47] and refusal to grant a rehearing has been held error when the railroad alleged new conditions justifying a modification of the order,[48] but it may not amend its order without affording the railroad notice and a hearing.[49]

Penalty for noncompliance with order. Where the statute provides for a penalty for noncompliance with the commission's order, the proceeding to recover such a penalty should be brought by the commission in the name of the state.[50] A plea excusing noncompliance must show facts indicating a reasonable effort to comply.[51] It is no defense that the date specified for compliance with the order passed because of litigation.[52]

Personal liability for order. The individual members of the board or commission are not personally liable for damages in an action arising out of an order directing the elimination of a grade crossing unless they were actuated by motives of private gain, oppression, or bad faith.[53]

(2) Judicial Review

Provision is generally made for judicial review of the commission's orders in grade crossing elimination proceedings.

Provision is generally made for judicial review of the commission's orders in grade crossing elimination proceedings.[54] As a general rule, a proceeding for judicial review does not lie until the commission has entered a final order,[55] but appeal has been held to lie from an interim order where the commission's jurisdiction is questioned.[56] Where proceedings for judicial review are not instituted within the time limited by law, the commission's order is final and conclusive,[57] and may not be reviewed in a collateral proceeding,[58] unless it is void, as where it was rendered without jurisdiction,[59] and this rule

42. N.Y.—Petition of City of Buffalo, 279 N.Y.S. 873, 245 App.Div. 19

43. Conn.—Appeal of Spencer, 61 A. 1010, 78 Conn. 301.

44. Me.—Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 36 A. 1050, 89 Me. 555.

45. Conn.—Appeal of Town of Andover, 155 A. 717, 113 Conn. 494
N.Y.—People v. State Public Service Commission, 114 N.Y.S. 636, 130 App.Div. 335, appeal dismissed 89 N.E. 1128, 195 N.Y. 562.

New matters
Grounds for reconsideration by commission of its order must be restricted to new matters and new or changed conditions set up in petition for reconsideration, which had arisen since, and were not presented in previous petitions for rehearing, which were dismissed by commission, and from which no appeal was taken within time limited by law.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 179 A. 850, 118 Pa. Super. 380

46. N.Y.—City of New York v. Maltbie, 53 N.Y.S.2d 234, affirmed 53 N.Y.S.2d 953, 269 App.Div. 662, appeal denied 54 N.Y.S.2d 700, 269 App.Div. 685, affirmed 63 N.E.2d 119, 294 N.Y. 931.

47. N.Y.—People v. State Public Service Commission, 114 N.Y.S. 636, 130 App.Div. 335, appeal dismissed 89 N.E. 1128, 195 N.Y. 562.

48. Pa.—Delaware, etc., Co. v. State Public Service Commission, 96 Pa. Super. 169

Financial condition; change of purpose
N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade of Lehigh Valley R. Co. in Village of Spencer, Tioga County, 5 N.Y.S.2d 946, 254 App.Div. 412.

49. N.Y.—In re Grade Crossing and Terminal Station Commission of City of Buffalo, 272 N.Y.S. 899, 242 App.Div. 36.

50. N.J.—State Public Utility Comrs. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 149 A. 263, 106 N.J.Law 411.

51. N.J.—State Public Utility Comrs. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., supra.

52. N.J.—State Public Utility Comrs. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., supra.

53. N.J.—R. & A. Realty Corp. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 3 A.2d 293, 16 N.J.Misc. 537.

54. Conn.—Levitt v. Attorney General, 151 A. 171, 111 Conn. 634.
N.Y.—In re New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 280 N.Y.S. 174, 244 App.Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W. Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N.Y. 567.
51 C.J. p. 686 note 46.

Cost bond
Superior court had jurisdiction to review an order by the director of the department of transportation closing grade crossing, although no cost bond was filed with petition for review.—Department of Transp. of State v. Snohomish County, 212 P.2d 829, 35 Wash.2d 247.

Review may not be used to delay the proceedings until the railroad is in a better financial position.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 180 A. 551, 13 N.J.Misc. 766, appeal dismissed 184 A. 842, 116 N.J.Law 527.

55. N.Y.—In re Grade Crossing of New York Cent. R. R., in City of Buffalo, 78 N.E.2d 596, 297 N.Y. 246.

56. Pa.—Borough of Whitaker v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 60 A.2d 341, 163 Pa.Super. 238.

57. Miss.—Alabama & V. Ry. Co. v. Graham, 157 So. 241, 171 Miss. 695.
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 179 A. 850, 118 Pa.Super. 380.

58. U.S.—Finlay v. Union Pac. R. Co., D.C.Kan., 6 F.R.D. 284
Conn.—Doolittle v. Branford, 22 A. 336, 59 Conn. 402
Pa.—Bartron v. Northampton County, 19 A.2d 263, 342 Pa. 163.

59. Vt.—Sayers v. Montpelier, etc., may not be avoided by an application to the commission for a rehearing after the time for appeal has expired.[60]

Parties. While the commission has been held not an indispensable party to judicial proceedings to determine the validity of its order,[61] it is a proper party.[62] Where the state has no pecuniary interest in the matter, it is not a real party in interest.[63] The railroad company may be a necessary party to an appeal from the commission's order,[64] but a railroad whose substantial rights are not affected by an order may not have it reviewed.[65] A demurrer has been held to lie to a pleading seeking judicial review of the commission's order where it fails to include all of the necessary parties.[66]

Scope of review. The courts will not interfere with the orders of the commission, without grave cause,[67] and the commission's orders as to the elimination of grade crossings may not be disturbed by the courts where they are lawful, reasonable, and supported by the evidence,[68] but it is the court's duty to keep the commission within the law and to protect the legal and constitutional rights of persons affected by its orders.[69] The commission's order may be set aside where it is illegal or unlawful,[70] as where it is beyond the commission's constitutional or statutory power,[71] or where it is unreasonable, arbitrary, and unjust,[72] or void for un-

R Co, 97 A 660, 90 Vt 201, Ann Cas 1918B 1050
51 C J p 688 note 75.

60. Pa—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Public Service Commission, 179 A 850, 118 Pa Super 380

61. U S—In re Chicago, M, St. P. & P. R Co, D C.Minn, 50 F.2d 430.

62. Conn.—Appeal of New York, etc, R Co, 26 A 122, 62 Conn 527, affirmed 14 S Ct 437, 151 U S 556, 38 L Ed 269

63. U.S—In re Chicago, M, St P. & P. R. Co., D C.Minn, 50 F 2d 430.

64. Conn—Appeal of Town of Andover, 155 A. 717, 113 Conn. 494.

65. N.Y—In re Grade Crossing of New York Cent R R, in City of Buffalo, 78 N E 2d 596, 297 N.Y. 246.

66. Conn—Appeal of Town of Andover, 155 A. 717, 113 Conn. 494

67. Wash—Department of Transp of State v Snohomish County, 212 P 2d 829, 35 Wash.2d 247

68. Mo—State ex rel. Chicago, R I & P. Ry. Co. v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 72 S W 2d 101, 335 Mo 180—State ex rel Town of Carrollton v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 63 S W.2d 26.
51 C.J. p 687 note 48.

69. N Y—In re Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade Operated by New York Cent R Co., 295 N.Y S 831, 251 App Div 72.

70. Conn—Levitt v. Attorney General, 151 A 171, 111 Conn 634
Ill.—Chicago, N S & M. R. Co v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N.E 177, 354 Ill 58
51 C J p 687 note 48

Compliance with statute

On appeal from orders of public service commission in grade crossing elimination proceedings, courts may ascertain if there has been compliance with statute—In re New York, O & W Ry Co, 257 N Y.S. 182, 235 App Div. 331.

Order held lawful

Mo—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S W 2d 61, 334 Mo. 1001

71. Ill—Chicago, N. S. & M R. Co v Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E. 177, 354 Ill. 58.
N Y—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania Railroad Co, 299 N Y S. 693, 252 App Div. 404, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N E 2d 915, 280 N Y. 495—In re New York, O & W Ry. Co, 280 N Y S 174, 244 App Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O & W Ry. at Seneca St in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N Y 567.

Lawfulness of order

U S—In re Chicago, M, St. P & P R Co, D.C Minn, 50 F 2d 430.

Power held not exceeded

Conn.—Appeal of Town of Andover, 155 A 717, 113 Conn. 494.

72. Conn—Levitt v. Attorney General, 151 A 171, 111 Conn 634
N Y—In re Elimination of Highway Grade Crossings in Town of Canton, St Lawrence County, 174 N E. 695, 255 N Y 320—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania Railroad Co, 299 N.Y S 693, 252 App. Div. 404, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E 2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495—In re New York, O. & W Ry. Co, 280 N.Y.S 174, 244 App Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O & W Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N.Y. 567—In re New York, O & W Ry. Co., 257 N Y S 182, 235 App.Div. 331.
51 C.J p 687 note 48.

Judicial question

U S—In re Chicago, M, St P & P. R Co, D C Minn, 50 F 2d 430.

In determining what is reasonable, the court does not substitute its own judgment for that of the commission, but does consider all the factors in the case—Lehigh Valley R Co v. Board of Public Utility Comrs, D.C N J., 33 F 2d 780, affirmed 49 S Ct 69, 278 U S. 24, 73 L Ed 161, 62 A L. R. 805—51 C J p 688 note 60

Test to be applied to commission's order requiring elimination of grade crossing is whether, in view of all the facts, commission's decision was arbitrary or was justified by public necessity which railroad could lawfully be compelled to recognize.—In re New York, O. & W. Ry Co, 280 N Y S 174, 244 App Div 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W Ry at Seneca St in City of Oswego, 3 N E 2d 188, 271 N.Y 567.

Order held reasonable or not unreasonable

Md—Brehm v. Tabler, 5 A.2d 820, 6 A.2d 378, 176 Md 411.
Mo—State ex rel Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S W.2d 61, 334 Mo 1001—State ex rel Town of Carrollton v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 63 S W.2d 26—State ex rel. St Louis-San Francisco Ry Co v Public Service Commission, 62 S. W 2d 1090—State ex rel. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v Public Service Commission, 53 S.W.2d 868, 331 Mo. 438
N J.—West Shore R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 164 A. 688, 112 N.J.Eq 149, affirmed 169 A. 829, 112 N.J Law 83, certiorari demed West Shore R Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey, 54 S Ct. 629, 292 U. S. 624, 78 L.Ed 1479—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 180 A. 551, 13 N J. Misc 766, appeal dismissed 184 A. 842, 116 N J.Law 527
N Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at certainty,[73] or founded on erroneous legal principles,[74] or where it is not supported by substantial evidence.[75] The mere fact that the grade crossing could have been eliminated by a less expensive method does not make the order unreasonable,[76] but it is the court's duty, where the cost is questioned, to determine whether it is within reasonable limits.[77]

Judicial review of the orders of the commission is limited to questions of law,[78] and the courts may not usurp the functions of the commission or interfere with their proper exercise,[79] or substitute their judgment for that of the commission.[80] The court will not itself weigh the evidence or pass on the facts,[81] and the fact findings of the commission, where supported by substantial evidence, will be accepted by the court.[82]

Questions not involved in or passed on in the Grade in City of Batavia, Genesee County, 8 N.Y.S.2d 910, 256 App. Div 6, reargument denied 11 N. Y S 2d 542, 256 App Div. 1043, affirmed In re Grade Crossing Elimination in City of Batavia, 24 N E 2d 987, 282 N.Y. 570, reargument denied 26 N E 2d 810, 282 N.Y. 679.

51 C J. p 687 note 48 [a]

73. Okl.—Missouri, etc, R Co. v. State, 200 P. 208, 82 Okl. 221.

Interlocutory provision

Provision in order eliminating grade crossing that subway drainage should be included as part of plan was held not to invalidate order because of indefiniteness, since provision was in its nature interlocutory and contemplated the furnishing of detailed plans for drainage system and final passing on such plans by commission.—Petition of City of Buffalo, 279 N.Y.S. 873, 245 App.Div. 19.

74. Ill—Chicago, N. S & M. R Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N.E 177, 354 Ill 58.
N.Y—In re New York, O & W Ry. Co, 280 N Y S. 174, 244 App Div 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N E 2d 188, 271 N.Y S 567.
51 C.J. p 687 note 50.

75. Ill—Chicago, N S & M. R. Co v Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E 177, 354 Ill 58.
Mass.—Boston & A. R. Co v. Department of Public Utilities, 51 N E 2d 445, 314 Mass 634
51 C J. p 687 note 52

76. U.S—Lehigh Valley R Co. v Board of Public Utility Comrs, N J., 49 S.Ct. 69, 278 U S. 24, 73 L Ed 161, 62 A.L R 805.
58 C.J. p 688 note 61.

77. U.S—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Comrs, N J., 49 S.Ct. 69, 278 U S. 24, 73 L.Ed 161, 62 A.L.R. 105
N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade of Lehigh Valley R. Co. in Village of Spencer, Tioga County, 5 N.Y S.2d 946, 254 App.Div 412.

78. Mass.—Boston & A. R Co. v. Department of Public Utilities, 51 N E 2d 445, 314 Mass. 634
N.Y—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade in City of Batavia, Genesee County, 8 N Y S 2d 910, 256 App Div 6, affirmed In re Grade Crossing Elimination in City of Batavia, 24 N.E 2d 987, 282 N Y 570, reargument denied 26 N E 2d 810, 282 N.Y 679—In re New York, O & W. Ry. Co, 280 N.Y S. 174, 244 App Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O & W. Ry. at Seneca St in City of Oswego, 3 N E 2d 188, 271 N.Y. 567.

Discretion

Court is not called on to exercise any discretion—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade in City of Batavia, Genesee County, 8 N.Y.S 2d 910, 256 App Div 6, reargument denied 11 N Y S.2d 542, 256 App.Div. 1043, affirmed In re Grade Crossing Elimination in City of Batavia, 24 N.E 2d 987, 282 N.Y. 570, reargument denied 26 N.E.2d 810, 282 N.Y. 679.

79. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania Railroad Co, 299 N Y S 693, 252 App Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y S 2d 163, 254 App Div 634, and 4 N Y S 2d 166, 254 App Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N E 2d 915, 280 N Y. 495—In re New York, O. & W. Ry. Co, 280 N Y S 174, 244 App Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W. Ry at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N E.2d 188, 271 N Y. 567.

Engineering questions will not be considered by the court—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade in City of Batavia, Genesee County, 8 N Y.S 2d 910, 256 App.Div. 6, reargument denied 11 N.Y.S.2d 542, 256 App Div 1043, affirmed In re Grade Crossing Elimination in City of Batavia, 24 N E.2d 987, 282 N.Y. 570, reargument denied 26 N E.2d 810, 282 N Y. 679.

Expediency and wisdom

Court may not pass on expediency or wisdom of commission's order requiring elimination of grade crossing—In re New York, O & W. Ry Co, 280 N Y S 174, 244 App Div 664, affirmed In re New York, O & W Ry. at Seneca St in City of Oswego, 3 N.E 2d 188, 271 N.Y 567

80. Ill—Chicago, N. S. & M R Co v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E 177, 354 Ill 58
N Y.—In re Elimination of Highway Grade Crossings in Town of Canton, St. Lawrence County, 174 N E 695, 255 N Y 320—In re New York, O & W Ry Co, 280 N Y S 174, 244 App Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W Ry at Seneca Street in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N.Y 567

81. Ill—Chicago, N S & M R Co v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E 177, 354 Ill 58
Mass—Boston & A. R. Co. v. Department of Public Utilities, 51 N. E 2d 445, 314 Mass 634.
N.Y—In re Elimination of Highway Grade Crossings in Town of Canton, St Lawrence County, 174 N E. 695, 255 N Y 320.

82. Cal.—City of San Mateo v. Railroad Commission, 68 P.2d 713, 9 Cal 2d 1.
Mo—State ex rel Chicago, R I & P Ry Co v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 72 S W 2d 101, 335 Mo 180—State ex rel Town of Carrollton v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 63 S W.2d 26—State ex rel and to Use of Chicago Great Western R Co v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 51 S.W.2d 73, 330 Mo 729, certiorari denied Chicago Great Western R Co. v. Public Service Commission of State of Missouri, 53 S.Ct 89, 287 U S. 641, 77 L Ed 555
N Y.—In re New York, O & W. Ry Co, 280 N Y.S. 174, 244 App Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W. Ry at Seneca St in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N Y. 567
51 C J. p 687 notes 47, 51

Use insufficient to establish public crossing

Cal—City of San Mateo v. Railroad Commission, 68 P.2d 713, 9 Cal 2d 1.

order reviewed will not be considered.[83] On review of an order abolishing a crossing, based on an erroneous finding that the crossing was public instead of private, the court need not determine the powers of the commission with respect to private crossings.[84] Under some statutes, the court is required to remand the matter to the commission where the commission failed to receive evidence properly offered, unless the court finds that such evidence is not controlling,[85] but a finding that the evidence is not controlling is not required where the evidence was not properly presented to the commission.[86]

The necessity of a grade crossing elimination is to some extent subject to judicial review.[87] Where the abolition is discretionary, the exercise of discretion is reviewable,[88] but courts will not interfere where it is fairly exercised.[89]

Presumption and burden of showing error. It is presumed that the decision of the commission is prima facie just, reasonable, and correct,[90] and the burden of showing its invalidity is on the party attacking the order.[91]

Determination. An order may, on review, be set aside as to the portion of it assessing costs without affecting the remainder of it,[92] or may be held erroneous as to one crossing without disturbing it as to other crossings.[93] Where, on appeal, it appears to the court that more definite evidence is necessary, the record may be returned to the commission so that additional evidence can be taken.[94]

Costs of review should be assessed against the railroad where the order from which it appealed is affirmed.[95]

Elimination unnecessary

Finding that grade crossing separation at place where view was unobstructed and flash signals were operating was unnecessary and inexpedient was held justified.—In re Elimination of Grade Crossing Over Tracks of Baltimore & O R. Co., 179 N.E. 139, 124 Ohio St. 406.

Evidence held sufficient to support order

Ill.—St. Clair County v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 N.E. 852, 342 Ill. 646.

Miss.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. State Highway Commission, 144 So. 558, 164 Miss. 343.

Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 68 S.W.2d 691, 334 Mo. 832.

N.Y.—In re New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 280 N.Y.S. 174, 244 App. Div. 664, affirmed In re New York, O. & W. Ry. at Seneca St. in City of Oswego, 3 N.E.2d 188, 271 N.Y. 567.—In re Elimination of Highway Grade Crossings in Town of Canton, St. Lawrence County, 242 N.Y.S. 601, 229 App.Div. 607, appeal dismissed 174 N.E. 695, 255 N.Y. 320.

Okl.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Citizens of Westville, 89 P.2d 320, 184 Okl. 100, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 774, 306 U.S. 658, 83 L.Ed. 1055.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 179 A. 850, 118 Pa. Super. 380.

Drainage

Evidence respecting inability to drain underpass highway and railroad crossing did not warrant order for overpass crossing.—In re Elimination of Highway Grade Crossings in Town of Canton, St. Lawrence County, 242 N.Y.S. 601, 229 App. Div. 607, appeal dismissed 174 N.E. 695, 255 N.Y. 320.

Subsequent review

On appeal to supreme court from a judgment of superior court reversing an order of the department of transportation closing a grade crossing, supreme court was not required to give findings of trial court same weight which supreme court would ordinarily give such findings when a case was tried before superior court without a jury and superior court saw and heard witnesses, since superior court was a reviewing court and did not, as such, see witnesses or hear them testify, and reached its conclusions from a transcript of oral evidence given at departmental hearing.—Department of Transp. of State v. Snohomish County, 212 P.2d 329, 35 Wash.2d 247.

83. Ind.—Evansville, I. & T. H. R. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Gibson County, 199 N.E. 583, 210 Ind. 74.

84. Utah.—Bamberger Electric R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 204 P. 314, 59 Utah 351.

85. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., 190 N.E. 896, 356 Ill. 501.

86. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., supra.

87. N.Y.—In re New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 257 N.Y.S. 182, 235 App. Div. 331.

88. U.S.—Erie R. Co. v. New Jersey Public Utility Comrs., N.J., 41 S.Ct. 169, 254 U.S. 394, 65 L.Ed. 322.

51 C.J. p. 687 note 56.

89. N.Y.—Matter of New York Cent. R. Co. Grade Crossings, 235 N.Y.S. 505, 226 App. Div. 447, affirmed 170 N.E. 152, 252 N.Y. 583.

51 C.J. p. 688 note 57.

Court will not substitute its discretion for that of commission

Conn.—Levitt v. Attorney General, 151 A. 171, 111 Conn. 634.

Discretion held not abused

Neb.—Butler County v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 263 N.W. 895, 130 Neb. 75.

90. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 97 S.E. 343, 124 Va. 36.

91. Ind.—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Singleton, 190 N.E. 761, 207 Ind. 449, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 89, 296 U.S. 578, 80 L.Ed. 409.

Mo.—State ex rel. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 53 S.W.2d 868, 331 Mo. 438.

51 C.J. p. 688 note 63.

Action growing out of exercise of powers

Action by railway to set aside order of public service commission requiring it to reconstruct and widen subway under its tracks was held "action growing out of exercise of authority and powers granted to commission," within statute placing burden on party adverse to commission to show that its ruling is unlawful.—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Singleton, 190 N.E. 761, 207 Ind. 449, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 89, 296 U.S. 578, 80 L.Ed. 409.

92. Mo.—State v. Public Service Commission, 272 S.W. 957, 308 Mo. 359.

93. Conn.—Appeal of Fairfield, 17 A. 764, 57 Conn. 167.

94. Pa.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. State Public Service Commission, 80 Pa.Super. 139.

95. Ill.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 112 N.E. 689, 273 Ill. 210.

Injunction against enforcement of order. Injunction will be granted to restrain enforcement of an order of the commission when it is the only adequate remedy, since certiorari will not stay execution of the order.[96]

c. Proceedings by Municipal Corporations

Ordinances providing for the abolition of grade crossings are not required to recite the reasons for their enactment. The right to judicial review exists under some statutes.

Ordinances providing for the abolition of grade crossings are not required to recite the reasons for their enactment,[97] as, for example, that a crossing is a nuisance[98] or dangerous.[99] The passage of an ordinance declaring the necessity for the elimination of a grade crossing does not place a mandatory duty on the council to act.[1] Where the railroad is entitled to such details of the work required that an adherence thereto must be accepted as a fulfillment of the requirement,[2] it is not necessary that such details be incorporated in the ordinance requiring the abolition of the crossings;[3] but the requirements may be expressed in general terms[4] and may be supplemented by plans and specifications for the purposes of the work prepared by authority of the municipal council.[5] Unless the statute so requires, a determination of the public necessity for a separation of grades[6] and an assessment of damages[7] need not be made before any work is done on the grade separation.

Judicial review. Notwithstanding the power to abolish grade crossings is conferred on a municipal legislative body, the statutes may provide for a right to test the legality of the action of such body by the courts.[8] The courts will not, in general, interfere with the determination of a municipal legislative body as to the necessity[9] and expediency[10] of a separation of grades at crossings in the absence of fraud or oppression constituting an abuse of discretion.[11] Where it is contended that the power of the city has been abused, all reasonable doubts should be resolved in favor of the valid exercise of the power,[12] and the case should be a clear one to justify judicial interference.[13] Where the city has entered into a contract which it is seeking to enforce, a court may, for the purposes of the contract, determine its reasonableness as a judicial question.[14]

Enforcement of orders. The work must be constructed in accordance with the plans and specifications established.[15] The municipality having power to compel a separation of grades may enforce such separation by the imposition of a penalty.[16] Where the city, in the exercise of its power, has, by ordinance, ordered the railroad to construct a viaduct, its right of action to compel construction is not affected by a statute giving a commission power over abolition of grade crossings.[17]

Alteration of plan. Where an ordinance providing plans and specifications for an elevation of tracks confers property rights on the railroad, such rights may not be taken away by a subsequent alteration of the plans without just compensation or due process of law.[18]

Effect of repeal of ordinance by general law. Where a municipal ordinance as to a separation of grade is repealed by a general law in conflict therewith, the rights acquired by the city[19] and acts legally done under the charter of the city and the

96. Vt.—Bessette v Goddard, 88 A 1, 87 Vt. 77

97. Mo.—State v Missouri Pac. R Co, 174 S.W. 73, 262 Mo 720.

98. Mo.—State v Missouri Pac R. Co, supra.

99. Mo.—State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., supra.

1. Ohio.—Schultz v City of Cincinnati, 194 N.E. 38, 48 Ohio App. 432.

Proceeding to compel municipality to act

Taxpayer cannot by mandatory injunction compel city and railroad company to proceed with elimination of a grade crossing after passage of ordinance declaring necessity for improvement and voting of bond issue therefor.—Schultz v. City of Cincinnati, supra

2. Colo.—Burlington, etc, R. Co. v People, 77 P. 1026, 20 Colo App 181.

3. Colo.—Burlington, etc., R Co. v. People, supra

4. Colo.—Burlington, etc., R. Co v. People, supra.

5. Colo.—Burlington, etc, R. Co v People, supra.

6. Mich.—Mead v. Michigan Cent R Co, 140 N.W. 973, 174 Mich 521.

7. Mich.—Mead v Michigan Cent R Co, supra

8. Ala.—Birmingham v. Louisville, etc, R. Co, 104 So. 258, 213 Ala. 92.

51 C J p 690 note 24.

9. Mo.—American Tobacco Co v. Missouri Pac. R Co., 157 S W 502, 247 Mo 374.

51 C J p 690 note 19

10. Mo.—American Tobacco Co. v. Missouri Pac. R Co, supra.

51 C J p 690 note 20

11. N.C.—Sanders v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 4 S E 2d 902, 216 N.C 312.

12. U.S.—Missouri Pac R Co v Omaha, Neb, 197 F 516, 117 C C A 12, affirmed 35 S Ct 82, 235 U S 121, 59 L Ed. 157.

13. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co v. Omaha, supra

14. Mo.—Kansas City v Kansas City Terminal R. Co, 25 S W 2d 1055, 324 Mo 882

51 C.J p 690 note 25

15. U S.—Chicago, etc, R Co v Minneapolis, D C Minn, 238 F 384

51 C J. p 690 note 26

16. Ill.—Hampton v Chicago, etc., R Co., 125 Ill App 412.

17. Wis.—Superior v Roemer, 141 N W 250, 154 Wis 345.

51 C J p 690 note 29.

18. U S.—Chicago v New York, etc, R Co, Ill, 216 F 735, 132 C.C.A 645

51 C J. p 690 note 30

19. Mo.—State v. Missouri Pac R. Co, 174 S W 73, 262 Mo. 720.

ordinance prior to the enactment of the statute[20] are not affected where the constitution of the state prohibits retrospective legislation.

d. Proceedings before Special Commissioners

Proceedings for the elimination of a grade crossing by special commission appointed by the court are proceedings in equity.

Under a statute providing for the determination of questions as to the abolition of grade crossings by a special commission appointed by the court on petition, the proceedings are, where the statute so declares, proceedings in equity.[21] The court with which the petition for the appointment of a commission is filed should not consider matters which are properly for the consideration of the commission,[22] and on appointing the commission the court should not restrict its power to consider less than the statute provides.[23]

Special statutes. A statute enacted to abolish grade crossings in a certain city does not affect the general statutory provisions except so far as they are expressly changed by it.[24]

Parties. The owner of adjacent land liable to be taken has no right to be made a party, or demand a hearing, in proceedings by the commission.[25] After the commission's report is filed the owner may then come into court and object to the legality of the commission's action in deciding to take his property.[26] In some cases the state is a proper party to a proceeding brought by a railroad against a municipality.[27]

Petition. A petition for the abolition of a grade crossing need not set out the precise manner in which the separation of grades is to be accomplished, nor need any plan or specification thereof accompany the petition.[28]

Discontinuance. A railroad having brought proceedings to abolish a grade crossing cannot discontinue them over the objection of the municipality which has entered an appearance.[29]

Hearing and determination. Hearings as to all matters arising under the petition should be held before the commission.[30] The commissioners are ordinarily the tribunal to decide the questions of fact in regard to the proposed change or abolition of a grade crossing[31] The commission may properly consider the financial condition of the railroad,[32] but this must be considered together with the other factors bearing on the question of abolition.[33]

Report and confirmation. Under the provision that the commission shall specify in its report the changes in the railroad necessary to secure elimination, the change in location may not be implied[34] The statute provides for the appointment of an auditor[35] whose findings may not be set aside unless inconsistent and plainly wrong.[36] Although required to apportion the costs, the commissioners need not ascertain and estimate the actual cost[37]

Review The court on appeal or the presentation of the report of the commissioners for confirmation or rejection may not reject it merely because it differs with the commissioners as to questions of fact;[38] nor may it consider the entire matter as one before it for original action and substitute its own opinion for that of the commissioners and order the change to be made according to a method different from that determined on by them.[39] In passing on whether what the commissioners order is reasonably necessary or fairly incidental, every presumption is to be made in favor of the conclusion of the commission.[40]

When commissioners have decided that it is not necessary to abolish a grade crossing, it is within the discretion of the court to recommit the ques-

20. Mo—State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, supra

21. Mass—In re Norwood, 66 N.E 637, 183 Mass 147
51 C J p 689 note 82

22. Mass—Framingham v. Boston, etc, R. Co, 167 N.E. 327, 268 Mass 93
51 C J p 689 note 83.

23. Mass.—Framingham v. Boston, etc, R. Co., supra.

24. Mass—Bay State R Co. v. Public Service Commission, 118 N.E. 669, 229 Mass 399
51 C J p 689 note 85

25. Mass—In re Old Colony R Co, 40 N E 198, 163 Mass 356

26. Mass.—In re Old Colony R Co, supra.

27. Mass—Boston, etc, R. Co v. Woburn, 165 N E 125, 266 Mass 358.

28. Mass.—Norwood v. New York, etc, R Co., 37 N E 199, 161 Mass. 259.

29. Mass—In re New York, etc., R. Co., 65 N.E. 815, 182 Mass. 439.

30. Mass.—Framingham v Boston, etc., R, 167 N E 327, 268 Mass. 93.

31. Mass.—In re Hadley, 59 N.E. 805, 178 Mass 319—In re Old Colony R Co., 40 N E. 198, 163 Mass. 356.

32. Mass—Framingham v. Boston, etc, R., 167 N.E. 327, 268 Mass 93—Lowell v. Boston, etc., R., 130 N.E 638, 238 Mass 328.

33. Mass—Framingham v. Boston, etc, R, 167 N E 327, 268 Mass. 93.

34. Mass—Howe v. Johnson, 128 N E. 634, 236 Mass 379.

35. Mass—Worcester v. Boston, etc, R., 100 N E 1014, 213 Mass 567

36. Mass—Worcester v. Boston, etc, R., supra.
51 C.J. p 689 note 98

37. Mass.—In re Westborough, 48 N.E. 763, 169 Mass. 495.

38. Mass—In re Hadley, 59 N E 805, 178 Mass 319.

39. Mass.—In re Old Colony R. Co., 40 N.E. 198, 163 Mass. 356

40. Mass.—In re Waltham, 92 N.E. 477, 206 Mass. 208.

tion to the commissioners.[41] When the public service commission acts as the special commission to abolish grade crossings, its rulings are subject to review under the statute relating to the abolition of grade crossings,[42] and not under the statute relating to review of orders and rulings of the commission acting as the public service commission.[43] When the report of the commissioners is sufficiently definite, it must be confirmed.[44]

Enforcement of order. Under the provisions of the statutes the superior court or any justice thereof sitting in equity may enforce the orders and decrees at the time of confirming the commissioners' decree.[45]

§ 165. —— Expenses and Apportionment

a. In general
b. Expenses which may be charged to railroad, or apportioned
c. Apportionment by commission
d. Contracts as to expenses

a. In General

Under the police power, a railroad may be required to bear part of, or the entire, expense of eliminating a grade crossing

Under its police power the state may require a railroad to bear part of, or the entire, expense of eliminating a grade crossing,[46] or may authorize a city to require it to do so;[47] and a municipality which has the power to require the abolition of grade crossings may require the railroad to bear the whole expense.[48] A railroad may be required to bear the expense of eliminating a grade crossing occasioned by a highway built after the railroad.[49] The exercise of this power is not precluded by the railroad's financial difficulties or prospective bankruptcy.[50] The fact that the railroad company will not receive any benefit from the elimination of a grade crossing does not preclude charging it with

41. Mass—Lowell v Boston, etc., R, 130 N.E. 638, 238 Mass. 328

42. Mass—Bay State St R. Co v Public Service Commission, 118 N. E 669, 229 Mass 399.

43. Mass—Bay State St R. Co v. Public Service Commission, supra

44. Mass—In re Westborough, 48 N E 763, 169 Mass. 495
51 C J. p 690 note 7.

45. Mass—Norwood v. New York, etc, R Co, 39 N E. 186, 162 Mass 564.

46. U S—Nashville, C & St L Ry v Walters, Tenn, 55 S Ct 486, 294 U.S 405, 79 L Ed 949, appeal dismissed Nashville, C. & St L Ry. v. Herndon, 55 S Ct 87, 293 U S 518, 79 L Ed 632.
Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St Paul & K. C Short Line R. Co. v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 92 S W.2d 126, 338 Mo 724
N.Y—Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission v. Delaware, L. & W R Co, 97 N.Y.S.2d 279, 197 Misc. 192, modified on other grounds 32 N.Y S 2d 620, 263 App Div. 930, affirmed 49 N E 2d 131, 290 N Y. 632—Long Island R Co. v. Department of Labor of State of New York, 247 N.Y.S. 278, 138 Misc 612, affirmed 177 N E. 17, 256 N.Y. 498.
Tenn—Nashville, C. & St. L Ry. v. Baker, 71 S.W 2d 678, 167 Tenn. 470, appeal dismissed Nashville, C & St. L Ry. v Herndon, 55 S Ct 87, 293 U.S. 518, 79 L Ed. 632, reversed on other grounds Nashville, C & St. L. Ry. v. Walters, 55 S. Ct. 486, 294 U S. 405, 79 L Ed 949
Tex.—City of Beaumont v Priddie, Civ.App., 65 S.W 2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N. O. R. Co v Priddie, 95 S W.2d 1290, 127 Tex. 629.
51 C.J. p 691 notes 35, 40.

Park roads

Where park roads were improved at public expense and used by the public as roadways, they were public highways and the commission could assess part of the cost of removing railroad grade crossings against the railroad, especially when made necessary by separation of grades outside the park—State ex rel. Wabash Ry. Co. v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S W 2d 522, 340 Mo. 225, 109 A L.R. 754.

Fact that federal government will reimburse state for a portion of the expenses of the improvement does not affect the liability of the railroad to contribute to the cost—Chicago, etc, R. Co v Public Service Commission, 287 S W 617, 315 Mo 1108.

47. Mo—American Tobacco Co. v Missouri Pac. R. Co, 157 S.W 502, 247 Mo 374.
51 C J. p 691 note 36.

48. Tenn—Cincinnati, N. O & T P. R Co v City of Chattanooga, 64 S W.2d 196, 166 Tenn. 626.
51 C J p 691 note 38.

Legislative policy

Where legislative policy of state was to require railroads to pay only part of cost of eliminating grade crossings, municipality could not require railroad to construct underpass for street at its own expense, in absence of special grant of such power by legislature.—City of Memphis v. Southern Ry Co, 87 S W 2d 552, 167 Tenn. 181—51 C J. p 691 note 38 [a].

Ordinance subject to subsequent exercise of state police power

Provisions of city ordinance requiring railroads to defray entire cost of subway were subject to such regulations as thereafter might be made by state in lawful exercise of its police power—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W I R Co, 190 N E. 896, 356 Ill 501

49. Tex—City of Beaumont v Priddie, Civ.App, 65 S W 2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N O R Co v. Priddie, 95 S W 2d 1290, 127 Tex 629

50. Miss—New Orleans & N E R Co v State Highway Commission, 144 So. 558, 164 Miss 343.
N Y—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade of Lehigh Valley R Co. in Village of Spencer, Tioga County, 5 N Y S 2d 946, 254 App Div 412
Tex—City of Beaumont v Priddie, Civ.App, 65 S W 2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N O R. Co v. Priddie, 95 S W.2d 1290, 127 Tex 629
51 C J. p 680 note 53 [a].

Current income less than current expenses

Inadequacy of railway company's revenues to meet current operating expenses and fixed charges was held not to relieve it from compliance with commission's order to pay for reconstructing subway at highway intersection, where its net income for five years exceeded its net loss for succeeding period by over fifty-one million dollars—State ex rel. Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 72 S W. 2d 101, 335 Mo 180.

all or part of the expense,[51] but in order to warrant imposing the cost of a grade crossing elimination on the railroad, there must be a reasonable relation between the elimination and the public safety and not merely the public convenience.[52] A contract by a municipality to pay for the construction of a railroad does not apply to the subsequent elimination of a grade crossing and does not preclude the railroad from being required to bear the expense of such elimination.[53]

The state may use its own funds to pay for such elimination,[54] or may apportion the burden between the railroad and a municipality.[55] There is no constitutional objection to requiring the county, town, or municipality where the crossing is located to pay a portion of the expense of the change.[56] Statutes in many jurisdictions provide for an apportionment of the expense between railroad companies, local authorities, and, sometimes, the state[57] which may be in proportions fixed without reference to the value of the property or the benefits severally received,[58] although the statute may provide that the expense shall be borne only by the municipalities or companies benefited.[59] Statutory provisions as to the manner of apportionment must be followed,[60] and,

51. Mo.—State ex rel Chicago, R I & P. Ry. Co v Public Service Commission of Missouri, supra.

Liability not limited to benefit

Mo.—State ex rel Alton R. Co v Public Service Commission, 68 S W 2d 691, 334 Mo. 832.

52. N Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade of Lehigh Valley R Co in Village of Spencer, Tioga County, 5 N.Y S 2d 946, 254 App Div. 412

53. Mo.—State ex rel. Wabash Ry Co v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S.W 2d 522, 340 Mo 225, 109 A L R 754

54. N.Y.—Long Island R Co v Department of Labor of State of New York, 247 N.Y.S 278, 138 Misc 612, affirmed 177 N E 17, 256 N.Y. 498

Motor fuel tax fund

Statute requiring state public works department to use its proportion of motor fuel tax fund for construction and maintenance of roads and separation of grades at railroad crossings does not require payment of entire expense of grade separation from such fund.—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N E. 177, 354 Ill 58.

Failure to provide for manner of payment

The department of highways was properly assessed by the public utility commission with commonwealth's share of cost of improving a viaduct carrying highway across tracks of railroads, notwithstanding statute does not specifically provide how expense charged to state shall be paid. —Department of Highways of Pennsylvania v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 611, 141 Pa Super. 376.

Interest

N.Y.—New York Cent. R Co v. Tremaine, 276 N.Y.S. 856, 243 App Div 181.

Regulation of wages and hours

Railroad company, having elected to accept benefits of payment by state or municipalities of one-half expense of grade crossing separation, could not reject burden imposed by state in regulating hours of work and wages of workmen.—Long Island R. Co v Department of Labor of State of New York, 177 N E 17, 256 N Y 498

55. Ill.—Chicago, etc, R. Co v Lake County, 122 N E 526, 287 Ill 337

La.—City of Shreveport v Texas & P Ry. Co, 161 So 12, 182 La. 36

51 C.J p 691 note 39

56. U S.—New York, etc, R Co v Bristol, Conn, 14 S Ct 437, 151 U. S 556, 38 L Ed 269

51 C.J. p 691 note 41

Fact that entire cost might be charged to railroad does not forbid charging part of cost to municipality.—State ex rel Wabash Ry. Co v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S W.2d 522, 340 Mo 225, 109 A L R 754.

57. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel Chicago & W. I R Co., 190 N E 896, 356 Ill 501.

Pa.—Somerset County v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A 2d 806, 132 Pa Super. 585.

51 C J. p 691 note 42

State contribution ex gratia

Pa.—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co v Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A.2d 46, 168 Pa.Super. 360

"Concerned;" "interested"

(1) Word "concerned," as used in statutory provision that public utilities commission may order work of construction, relocation, alteration, protection, or abolition of any grade crossing to be performed in whole or in part by any public utility or municipal corporation "concerned" or by commonwealth, is the equivalent of "interested."—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, supra.

(2) A county and township in which proposed grade-crossing elimination and new overhead crossing are located are "municipalities" which are "interested" or "concerned" in the improvement within statute authorizing public utility commission to place part of cost of such improvements on interested or concerned municipalities.—Somerset County v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 806, 132 Pa. Super. 585

(3) Two boroughs, between which a bridge carrying state highway route over a railroad and canal was constructed, were "municipal corporations concerned" in improvement within statute authorizing public utility commission to place part of cost of such improvement on interested and concerned municipalities.—Borough of West Conshohocken v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 5 A 2d 590, 135 Pa Super. 295.

58. Mo.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co v Public Service Commission, 30 S.W 2d 112, 325 Mo 862

Pa.—Lehigh Valley R Co. v Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 161 A. 422, 105 Pa Super. 423

51 C.J. p 691 note 48.

59. N Y.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N E. 344, 264 N Y. 195

60. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, supra.

51 C J. p 692 note 51.

Adjustments

While cost of railroad grade-crossing elimination, including property required for new highways, must be apportioned as statute provides, adjustment must be made, if new highways are turned over to municipalities or railroad desires to retain property it can use as part of its right of way.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, supra.

where the statute requires apportionment, a railroad may not be compelled to pay the whole cost of elimination;[61] nor may a municipality be assessed more than the amount, if any, limited by the statute.[62] A railroad may not be held liable under a statute requiring it to pay all or part of the expense of eliminating a grade crossing unless the statute is complied with.[63]

Street railroads. It is within the police power of the state to require that a percentage of the costs be borne by a street railroad using the crossing,[64] but a railroad which could have been assessed the whole cost may not complain that only a small percentage of the cost was assessed on a street railroad.[65] When the street railroad permits an interurban railroad to use its tracks, a portion of the cost may be assessed against it,[66] but it has been held that no part of the cost may be assessed against the interurban railroad when it is operating over the tracks as a mere licensee.[67]

Apportionment between railroads Where several railroads have agreed to share the expense of construction of a bridge over their respective rights of way in proportion to the width of the rights of way, the same proportion is fair as to the cost of the approaches.[68] The width of used parts of the rights of way is a good basis for apportionment,[69] and a track of one road crossing another street should not be considered.[70] Both railroads may be required to contribute equally to the cost of the approaches.[71] Where a railroad seeks to construct on a highway, at a point where another road crosses at grade, a bridge carrying the highway may be ordered at the expense of both companies.[72] The laws relating to apportionment of expenses of highway grade crossing elimination are paramount to those relating to crossings between railroads.[73]

Joint or several ownership of tracks. Where railroad tracks are owned by different companies jointly, the obligation to build a bridge or viaduct over them is a joint obligation;[74] but, where companies severally own parallel tracks to be crossed by a single bridge or viaduct, the liability of each is several,[75] and each company should be required to build that part of the bridge above its own tracks, including the width of its right of way,[76] and, if there is an intervening space between the rights of way, each company whose tracks are adjacent thereto should build over one half of such space,[77] and the companies owning the outside tracks should each

61. Wash.—State v. Department of Public Works, 238 P. 621, 135 Wash. 644
51 C.J. p 691 note 44.

62. N.Y.—Coykendall v. Kingston, 188 N.Y.S. 769, 115 Misc. 557
51 C.J. p 691 note 45.

63. S.C.—Powell v. Greenwood County, 1 S.E.2d 624, 189 S.C. 463—State ex rel. State Highway Department v. Southern Ry. Co., 195 S.E. 633, 186 S.C. 315.

Proceed under statute

Where highway department intends to hold railroad liable for proportionate part of construction of a grade-crossing elimination project, pursuant to statute, the department must proceed under the provisions of the applicable statute.—State ex rel. State Highway Department v. Southern Ry. Co., supra.

Notice and hearing

A railroad may not be assessed part of the costs of a relocation when not given the required notice and opportunity to be heard on the question of relocation.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 222 N.W. 816, 197 Wis. 640.

Burden of proof

S.C.—State ex rel. State Highway Department v. Southern Ry. Co., 195 S.E. 633, 186 S.C. 315.

Notice and opportunity to do work

The highway department could not hold railroad liable for its proportionate part of cost of construction of a grade-crossing elimination project where the highway department did not give the railroad notice contemplated by statute, which would give railroad opportunity to do the construction work if it so elected, since railroad might have done the work at lower cost than the highway department charged against it.—State ex rel. State Highway Department v. Southern Ry. Co., supra

64. N.J.—Public Service Co-ordinated Transport v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 33 A.2d 579, 130 N.J.Law 409, affirmed 35 A.2d 895, 131 N.J.Law 226.
51 C.J. p 692 note 52.

65. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 30 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862.
51 C.J. p 692 note 53.

66. Ill.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 112 N.E. 689, 273 Ill. 210.

67. Ill.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, supra.

68. Wash.—Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co. v. Pacific Coast R. Co., 244 P. 673, 138 Wash. 430.

69. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 221 P. 991, 128 Wash. 73.

Approaches

In distributing contribution agreed to be made by three railroads toward cost of viaduct, cost of approaches and span should be divided according to widths of respective rights of way.—State v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 29, 166 Wash. 437.

Possible number of tracks

Apportionment of cost of viaduct among railroads on basis of possible number of tracks maintainable on right of way of each railroad under viaduct was held proper.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 30 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862.

70. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 221 P. 991, 128 Wash. 73.

71. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., supra.

72. Mich.—Ft.-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Board, 45 N.W. 973, 81 Mich. 248.

73. N.Y.—New Paltz, etc., Tract Co. v. Central New England R. Co., 147 N.Y.S. 624, 84 Misc. 528.

74. Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 78 N.W. 87, 75 Minn. 473

75. Kan.—Kansas City v. Union Pac. R. Co., 196 P.2d 184, 165 Kan. 575.
51 C.J. p 693 note 64.

76. Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 78 N.W. 87, 75 Minn. 473—State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 N.W. 153, 39 Minn. 219

77. Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 78 N.W. 87, 75 Minn. 473.

build the approach to the bridge adjacent to its tracks.[78] Where two railroads contribute to the danger of the grade crossing, they may be jointly required to construct and maintain a bridge eliminating it.[79]

b. Expenses Which May Be Charged to Railroad, or Apportioned

Expenses reasonably necessary for the elimination of a grade crossing, such as the cost of constructing an approach to an overpass, may be charged to the railroad.

Statutory provisions as to the costs which may be included as part of the expense of eliminating a grade crossing must be followed.[80] A relocation of a road so as to divert some traffic which would otherwise use grade crossings, which, however, remained open and were used after the relocation, is not an elimination of the crossings so as to charge the railroad with part of the cost,[81] although the contrary has been held.[82] A municipality may not be required to share the expense of elimination unless the crossing is a public highway;[83] nor is it liable for any part of the cost of constructing undergrade crossings on new highways which it agreed to accept when completed with the crossings in place.[84]

A railroad may be charged with a share of the expense of a project reasonably necessary for the elimination of a grade crossing.[85] The expense of eliminating a grade crossing includes the expense of building an approach to an overpass or underpass,[86] and a railroad may be charged with the expense of improving a highway where the main purpose of the improvement is the public safety at the crossing.[87] Where the elimination of a grade crossing requires changes in the highways and the opening of a new highway, the railroad may be required to contribute to the expense of such chang-

78. Minn.—State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., supra.—State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 N.W. 153, 39 Minn. 219.

79. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 221 P. 991, 128 Wash. 73.

80. N.Y.—Petition of Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission, 3 N.Y.S.2d 942, 253 App. Div. 462.
51 C.J. p. 692 note 51.

Salaries of commissioners and employees

N.Y.—Kolb v. Holling, 32 N.E.2d 811, 285 N.Y. 104.—Petition of Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission, 3 N.Y.S.2d 942, 253 App. Div. 462.

Legal fees

N.Y.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Fengler, 26 N.Y.S.2d 331, 175 Misc. 1037, modified on other grounds 31 N.Y.S.2d 403, 262 App. Div. 685, affirmed 42 N.E.2d 6, 288 N.Y. 141.
51 C.J. p. 692 note 51 [a] (7), [b] (3) (4).

81. Kan.—Harvey County v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 220 P. 1056, 114 Kan. 816.

82. Wis.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 204 N.W. 606, 187 Wis. 364.
51 C.J. p. 693 note 69.

83. Vt.—Bacon v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 76 A. 128, 83 Vt. 421.
51 C.J. p. 692 note 46.

84. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Shinnecock Hills, etc., Realty Co., 131 N.Y.S. 885, affirmed 141 N.Y.S. 1129, 156 App. Div. 912.

85. N.Y.—In re Grade Crossing Elimination in Town of Whitestown, Oneida County, 264 N.Y.S. 651, 238 App. Div. 484, affirmed In re Elimination of Grade Crossing of New York Cent. R. Co. over State Highway in Town of Whitestown, 193 N.E. 412, 265 N.Y. 615.

86. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N.E. 344, 264 N.Y. 195.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App. Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App. Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App. Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.
51 C.J. p. 691 note 35 [b], p. 692 note 51 [a] (1).

Different grade

The approach to an overhead crossing or an underpass is not confined to the points in the highway at which the grade is depressed below or raised above the level of the surrounding land, as respects railroad's participation in payment of expense involved in elimination of grade crossing.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N.E. 344, 264 N.Y. 195.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App. Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App. Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App. Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.

Three thousand feet of highway

Order requiring railroads to share in expense of building approximately three thousand three hundred thirty-two feet of relocated highway outside of underpass itself as part of grade-crossing elimination project was not unauthorized under the evidence, notwithstanding new road crossed two existing highways before reaching point where railroad's obligation ceased.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App. Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App. Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App. Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.

Bridge over river

(1) Public service commission's order, requiring railroad company to pay more than cost of reproducing or changing location of old superstructure over river in grade-crossing elimination proceedings, was held proper, new river span being part of approach to span over railroad.—In re Grade Crossing Elimination in Town of Whitestown, Oneida County, 264 N.Y.S. 651, 238 App. Div. 484, affirmed In re Elimination of Grade Crossing of New York Cent. R. Co. over State Highway in Town of Whitestown, 193 N.E. 412, 265 N.Y. 615.

(2) Grade-crossing elimination order requiring construction of bridge twenty-four feet wide over railroad and stream was held not unreasonable because existing modern bridge over stream was only twenty feet wide.—In re Elimination of Creedon Crossing, 248 N.Y.S. 284, 231 App. Div. 531.

87. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Creedon Crossing, supra.

es.[88] However, only expenses which are reasonably necessary to eliminate the grade crossing may be charged or apportioned to the railroad.[89] The railroad may not be required to pay all or any part of the expense of general improvements in a system of highways not fairly incidental to changes in the crossing at the railroad.[90] Thus, the expense of what is primarily a highway improvement plan may not be allocated under a statute providing for the allocation of the expense of eliminating a grade crossing.[91]

Under some constitutional and statutory provisions, the state contributes to the expense of grade crossing eliminations and "incidental improvements connected therewith."[92] The relocation and reconstruction of utility structures made necessary by the elimination of a grade crossing are not within such a provision.[93]

The commission charged with the regulation of crossings is frequently authorized to determine, at least in the first instance, the expenditures chargeable to the elimination of a grade crossing or a separation of grades,[94] and its determination will be upheld where made in good faith,[95] but it may not saddle the railroad with the cost of an improvement having little or nothing to do with the elimination of the grade crossing.[96] The commission in allocating the expense of the grade crossing elimina-

88. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N.E. 344, 264 N.Y. 195.

Rule of reason

N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App. Div 634, and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App Div 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway v. Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495

89. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N.E. 344, 264 N.Y. 195

Pa.—Somerset County v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 806, 132 Pa.Super. 585.

51 C.J. p. 692 note 48

Bonus

Municipality may not be required to pay any part of a bonus given the contractors by the railroad—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 133 S.E. 800, 145 Va. 225.

90. Mass.—Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 37 N.E. 199, 161 Mass 259.

51 C.J. p. 692 note 50.

91. Pa.—Somerset County v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 806, 132 Pa.Super. 585—In re Northern Pipe Line Co., 1 A.2d 526, 132 Pa.Super 406—Pennsylvania Railroad Co. v. Public Service Commission, 179 A. 850, 118 Pa.Super. 380—Erie R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 77 Pa.Super. 196

Bridge across river

The construction of a highway bridge spanning a river and crossing railroad tracks was not within contemplation of statute requiring railroad to pay proportionate part of cost of construction of "grade-crossing elimination" projects, where the primary object of the project was to replace an old bridge which was subject to overflow and damage from high water—State ex rel. State Highway Department v. Southern Ry. Co., 195 S.E. 633, 186 S.C. 315.

92. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Highway Railroad Crossing in Town of Cheektowaga, Erie County, 18 N.Y.S.2d 613, 19 N.Y.S.2d 321, 259 App.Div. 141, affirmed In re Lehigh Valley R. Co. in Union Road, Town of Cheektowaga, Erie County, 28 N.E.2d 409, 283 N.Y. 687—Western New York Water Co. v. Brandt, 18 N.Y.S.2d 128, 259 App Div. 11, reargument denied 18 N.Y.S.2d 750, 259 App.Div. 764, appeal dismissed 28 N.E.2d 408, 283 N.Y. 686.

Railroad station and signaling system

Under the constitutional amendment and statute, the state is required to pay only for the elimination of dangers to the public arising from grade crossings, and the state was not required to pay for a railroad station and a signaling system which were required as result of elimination of grade crossings—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing, City of Buffalo, 64 N.Y.S.2d 764, 271 App.Div. 266, appeal dismissed In re New York Cent. R. R., 78 N.E.2d 596, 297 N.Y. 246.

Improvement of highway

Under constitution and enabling act transit commission had authority to charge state with improvement of highway where such improvement was found to be reasonably incidental to entire grade-crossing elimination project.—Consolidated Edison Co. of N. Y. v. State, 97 N.Y.S.2d 431, 276 App.Div. 677, affirmed 98 N.E.2d 587, 302 N.Y. 711.

93. N.Y.—Public Service Commission of New York v. City of New York, 49 N.Y.S.2d 214, 268 App.Div. 121, affirmed 63 N.E.2d 183, 294 N.Y. 951.

94. N.Y.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Fengler, 31 N.Y.S.2d 403, 262 App.Div. 685, affirmed 42 N.E.2d 6, 288 N.Y. 141.

Taking land for construction of highway

Whether the taking of private land for the construction of a new highway in connection with elimination of railroad grade crossings was an essential part of the grade separation, or merely accidental and required only for the new highway construction, was a matter of fact to be determined, in the first instance, by the public service commission.—Bartron v. Northampton County, 19 A.2d 263, 342 Pa. 163.

Condemnation proceeding

In condemnation proceeding by railroad to acquire realty in the city of Syracuse for railroad grade-crossing elimination, supreme court had no authority, as part of the judgment or award, to determine that reasonable compensation to attorneys was an "expense" of acquisition of realty within meaning of statute or to direct payment of such expense out of state moneys—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Fengler, 42 N.E.2d 6, 288 N.Y. 141.

Expenses of local commission

N.Y.—Petition of Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission, 3 N.Y.S.2d 942, 253 App.Div. 462.

95. N.Y.—Petition of Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission, supra.

96. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App. Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App.Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, tion which is part of a larger plan must determine the point at which the project ceases materially to concern the crossing.[97]

c. Apportionment by Commission

The commission having general jurisdiction over railroads or over railroad-highway crossings is frequently authorized to determine how the expense of eliminating a grade crossing shall be borne.

Statutes frequently provide for an apportionment or a determination by the commission having general jurisdiction over railroads or railroad-highway crossings of the manner in which the expense of eliminating a grade crossing shall be borne.[98] The apportionment must be just and reasonable[99] and must be made in accordance with the statute.[1] Where the commission may exercise the power of eminent domain, the necessary property should be condemned and its value ascertained before the work of elimination is commenced so that it may be known whether the order apportioning the expense is reasonable.[2]

The commission, in apportioning the costs, should consider all the factors entering into a proper division of the costs,[3] and it may, when the entire cost

Schuyler County, 265 N.Y.S. 963, 240 App. Div. 742.

97. Pa.—Somerset County v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 1 A.2d 806, 132 Pa.Super. 585

98. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., 190 N.E. 896, 356 Ill. 501—Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Department of Public Works and Buildings, 188 N.E. 177, 354 Ill. 58.

Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 30 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862

N.Y.—Application of Grade Crossing and Terminal Station Commission of City of Buffalo, 8 N.Y.S.2d 424, 255 App. Div. 342.

Pa.—Department of Highways of Pennsylvania v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 611, 141 Pa.Super. 376—Borough of West Conshohocken v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 5 A.2d 590, 135 Pa.Super. 295—Lehigh & New England R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Commonwealth, 191 A. 380, 126 Pa. Super. 565

51 C.J. p. 694 note 90.

Power as affected by contract between parties as to expenses see infra subdivision d of this section

Legislative, not judicial, function

N.Y.—Application of Grade Crossing and Terminal Station Commission of City of Buffalo, 8 N.Y.S.2d 424, 255 App.Div. 342.

Parties to proceeding

(1) Receivers of railroad were proper parties to proceeding before public service commission to apportion cost of grade-crossing elimination, although permission of federal court appointing them had not been obtained.—State ex rel. Wabash Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S.W.2d 522, 340 Mo. 225, 109 A.L.R. 754.

(2) The department of highways was a "necessary party" to proceedings wherein commission apportioned costs of improving and maintaining a viaduct carrying two state highway routes in city of third class across tracks and rights of way of two railroads among municipality, public utilities involved, and commonwealth.—Department of Highways of Pennsylvania v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 611, 141 Pa.Super. 376

City streets taken over by state

The power of commission to assess against commonwealth a portion of costs was not restricted by act which made a large number of city streets, including routes over viaduct, state highways, and which placed limitations on responsibilities of commonwealth in taking over such streets.—Department of Highways of Pennsylvania v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, supra.

Reconsideration of plan not required

Mo.—State ex rel. Wabash Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S.W.2d 522, 340 Mo. 225, 109 A.L.R. 754.

Formal order

The highway department could not hold railroad liable for part of cost of construction of grade-crossing elimination project as provided by statute, in absence of a formal order directing the railroad to proceed with construction, in view of statute permitting railroad to appeal from an order requiring it to proceed with construction, since, in absence of order, there was nothing from which the railroad could appeal.—State ex rel. State Highway Department v. Southern Ry. Co., 195 S.E. 633, 186 S.C. 315.

Receivership

In assessing cost of separation of grades of city streets and railroad owned by one company and used by another, where owner was in receivership, city had right to have share of other company allocated directly to it instead of assessing shares of both companies against the owner.—State ex rel. Wabash Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S.W.2d 522, 340 Mo. 225, 109 A.L.R. 754.

99. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 30 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862

N.Y.—In re Elimination of Highway-Railroad Crossing at Grade in Village of Burdett, Schuyler County, 190 N.E. 344, 264 N.Y. 195.

Pa.—Pittsburgh & S. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 903, 141 Pa.Super. 233

Percentage basis not applied

Pa.—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A.2d 46, 168 Pa. Super. 360.

Apportionment held proper

Ill.—City of Chicago v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., 190 N.E. 896, 356 Ill. 501

Mo.—State ex rel. Wabash Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S.W.2d 522, 340 Mo. 225, 109 A.L.R. 754—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 61, 334 Mo. 1001.

Pa.—Lehigh & New England R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 191 A. 380, 126 Pa.Super. 565—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 161 A. 422, 105 Pa.Super. 423.

1. U.S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Oregon, D.C.Or., 47 F.2d 778.

When notice and hearing are necessary before the commission may apportion the costs, a county or town which had notice and was represented cannot contend that the order was made without it being a party.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lake County, 122 N.E. 526, 287 Ill. 337.

2. Pa.—Erie R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 114 A. 357, 271 Pa. 409

3. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Service Commission, 71 Pa.Super. 15

51 C.J. p. 694 note 93.

can be ascertained in advance, order the municipality to pay a gross sum representing its proportion.[4] Where the statute authorizes but does not require apportionment, the commission may nevertheless impose the entire expense on the railroad.[5] The power of the commission to apportion the expenses implies that the parties shall be liable for the amounts assessed against them,[6] and the commission may compel an accounting and settlement of the costs of the new crossing,[7] and, where a county has, pursuant to contract with the railroad, performed the work pending judicial determination of the validity of the commission's order as to the cost to be borne by the railroad, the county may enforce the order.[8] Similarly, a railroad which performed the work may enforce the commission's order requiring others to share in the expense.[9]

The commission's order apportioning the cost of eliminating a grade crossing is subject to judicial review,[10] but, in at least one jurisdiction where the statute authorizes the commissioners to apportion the costs of the alteration according to their discretion, it has been held that their decision as to such apportionment is not reviewable.[11] When a rehearing is necessary, the order of a commission apportioning the costs of eliminating a grade crossing will not be considered by a court on appeal from the order.[12] On judicial review of the commission's order apportioning the expense, the burden is on the party attacking the order to show error.[13] It has been held that the financial difficulty of complying with the order is a matter addressed to the discretion of the commission and is not available on appeal.[14] The court may with the consent of the parties modify the commission's order rather than remand the matter to the commission for further proceedings.[15]

d. Contracts as to Expenses

A municipality may ordinarily undertake by contract to pay part of the expense of eliminating a grade crossing.

A municipality having power to enter into agreements with a railroad for the abolition of grade crossings, as discussed supra § 162, it may also agree as to the manner in which the expense of such elimination is to be borne,[16] and general rules apply in the construction of such contracts,[17] and the words used are to be construed in accordance with their usual and customary meaning.[18] The fact that the municipality has the power to require the railroad to bear the expense of a grade crossing elimination does not bar the municipality from undertaking by contract to pay part of the expense,[19] and, where the parties contract as to the manner in which the expense shall be borne, they

Factors to be considered
In apportioning costs of grade-crossing elimination, it was proper for public service commission to consider amount of traffic on highway and railroad to ascertain the degree of danger which existed at the crossing and the inconvenience that was eliminated by the separation.—State ex rel. Wabash Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S.W.2d 522, 340 Mo. 225, 109 A.L.R. 754.

4. Conn.—Doolittle v. Branford, 22 A. 336, 59 Conn. 402.

5. Conn.—Appeal of Fairfield, 17 A. 764, 57 Conn. 167.

6. Wis.—Polk v. State R. Commission, 143 N.W. 191, 154 Wis. 523.

7. N.Y.—People v. Public Service Commission, 159 N.Y.S. 48, 173 App. Div. 164, reversed on other grounds 114 N.E. 1050, 220 N.Y. 1.

8. U.S.—Jackson County v. Alton R. Co., C.C.A. Mo., 105 F.2d 633, certiorari denied Alton R. Co. v. Jackson County, Mo., 60 S.Ct. 175, 308 U.S. 610, 84 L.Ed. 510.

9. Ind.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Board of Commissioners of Delaware County, 27 N.E.2d 89, 108 Ind.App. 335.

10. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A.2d 584, 154 Pa. Super. 272.

11. N.H.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, 44 A. 808, 69 N.H. 91.
51 C.J. p. 688 note 58.

12. Pa.—Delaware, etc., Co. v. State Public Service Commission, 96 Pa. Super. 169.

13. Mo.—State ex rel. Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 70 S.W.2d 61, 334 Mo. 1001.

14. N.Y.—In re Elimination of Existing Highway-Railroad Crossings at Grade of Railroads Operated by Pennsylvania R. Co., 299 N.Y.S. 693, 252 App.Div. 404, reargument denied In re Farnham-Irving State Highway, 4 N.Y.S.2d 163, 254 App. Div. 634 and 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 254 App. Div. 634, affirmed In re Farnham-Irving State Highway in Town of Brant, 19 N.E.2d 915, 280 N.Y. 495.

15. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 80 S.W.2d 112, 325 Mo. 862.

16. N.Y.—Westchester Electric R. Co. v. Westchester County Park Commission, 174 N.E. 660, 255 N.Y. 297.

Contract between railroad and utility company
N.Y.—Staten Island Edison Corp. v. Staten Island Rapid Transit Ry. Co., 44 N.Y.S.2d 874, 267 App. Div. 152, affirmed 67 N.E.2d 514, 295 N.Y. 869.

17. Wash.—City of Seattle v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 121 P.2d 382, 12 Wash.2d 247.

Understanding and agreement of parties
Where contract was drawn by counsel, it would be presumed that they drew it according to understanding and agreement of the parties.—City of Seattle v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

18. Wash.—City of Seattle v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

"Right of way"
Wash.—City of Seattle v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

"Reconstruction"
Wash.—City of Seattle v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

19. La.—Hotard v. City of New Orleans, 35 So.2d 752, 213 La. 843, appeal dismissed 69 S.Ct. 57, 335 U.S. 803, 93 L.Ed. 360.
51 C.J. p. 693 note 77.

Contract not abuse of discretion
La.—Hotard v. City of New Orleans, supra.

may not thereafter rely on the statute as to the apportionment of such expense,[20] but charter and statutory provisions authorizing a municipality to require a railroad to avoid or eliminate grade crossings at the cost of the railroad are exclusive and to prohibit the municipality from bearing all or part of the cost[21] even where the railroad is the senior way.[22]

A statute giving a city the power to contract with the railroad and share expense is not a limitation on, but is an extension of, the power, given it by its charter, to require construction of a viaduct over tracks at the expense of the railroad.[23] A contract between a city and a railroad company, by which the railroad grants a right of way for a crossing in consideration of the undertaking by the city to bear the cost of construction of a subway, is not invalid as a surrender by the city of its police power,[24] or of its power of eminent domain.[25]

When a municipality has agreed to pay one half of the expense of elimination, it must share the entire cost and not merely the cost of construction across the tracks,[26] and must bear its share of the increased cost when the railroad was forced to make new contracts with builders at higher prices than the original contracts,[27] and may not set off the expense of drainage of a street when it contracted to pay for drainage.[28] Where a railroad and municipality have agreed to share the expense of abolition of a grade crossing, the city may not avoid its obligation by a resolution of its board of estimate and apportionment.[29] Where the railroad and the municipality have entered into a contract, and the municipality has agreed to secure the removal or relocation of telegraph lines, the railroad may not be held liable for the cost of removal.[30] Agreements requiring the construction of viaducts at the railroad's expense are not unfair.[31]

Where the municipality is without power to contribute to the cost of a grade crossing elimination, a contract provision obligating the municipality to remove certain property without cost to the railroad is not invalid where the municipality may perform the obligation without expense by the exercise of its police power.[32] Where a railroad and municipality agreed to share the expense of eliminating a grade crossing but were unable to agree as to their respective shares, an ordinance apportioning the burden is not an exercise of legislative power subject to judicial review only for arbitrary abuse[33]

Effect on jurisdiction of commission. A contract between a railroad and municipality as to the cost of eliminating a grade crossing does not deprive a commission of the jurisdiction it would otherwise have to apportion the cost of such improvement,[34] but the commission may adopt the agreement where its provisions are fair and equitable.[35]

Enforcement. Where a governmental body has contracted with a railroad to perform the work in accordance with the specifications of the railroad commission, compliance with the provision is necessary before the railroad's obligation to bear part of the cost may be enforced,[36] but variations not amounting to material departures will not bar recovery.[37]

20. S.C.—Powell v. Greenwood County, 1 S.E.2d 624, 189 S.C. 463

21. Tex.—City of Beaumont v. Priddie, Civ.App., 65 S.W.2d 434, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Priddie, 95 S.W.2d 1290, 127 Tex. 629.
51 C.J. p. 693 note 78.

22. Wis.—Application of Kaiser, 174 N.W. 714, 176 N.W. 781, 171 Wis. 40.

23. Wis.—Schmidt v. Milwaukee, 135 N.W. 883, 149 Wis. 367.

24. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Oklahoma, Okl., 46 S.Ct. 517, 271 U.S. 303, 70 L.Ed. 957.

25. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Oklahoma, supra.

26. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 133 S.E. 800, 145 Va. 225.
51 C.J. p. 693 note 81.

27. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, supra.

28. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, supra.

29. N.Y.—Long Island R. Co. v. Hylan, 206 N.Y.S. 239, 210 App.Div. 761, reversed on other grounds 148 N.E. 189, 240 N.Y. 199

30. N.J.—Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 104 A. 141, 89 N.J.Eq. 99, affirmed 106 A. 892, 90 N.J.Eq. 273.

31. Mo.—Kansas City v. Kansas City Terminal R. Co., 25 S.W.2d 1055, 324 Mo. 882

32. Tex.—City of Beaumont v. Priddie, Civ.App., 65 S.W.2d 434, reversed on other grounds Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Priddie, 95 S.W.2d 1290, 127 Tex. 629.

33. Wash.—State v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 29, 166 Wash. 437
Question of fact
Fair apportionment of contribution agreed to be made by railroads toward cost of viaduct was held question of fact that cannot be foreclosed by ordinance.—State v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

34. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Paul & K. C. Short Line R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 92 S.W.2d 126, 338 Mo. 724.
Apportionment by commission generally see supra subdivision c of this section.

35. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Paul & K. C. Short Line R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, supra.

36. U.S.—Jackson County v. Alton R. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 105 F.2d 633, certiorari denied Alton R. Co. v. Jackson County, Mo., 60 S.Ct. 175, 308 U.S. 610, 84 L.Ed. 510

37. U.S.—Jackson County v. Alton R. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 105 F.2d 633, certiorari denied Alton R. Co. v. Jackson County, Mo., 60 S.Ct. 175, 308 U.S. 610, 84 L.Ed. 510.

§ 166. —— Damages Because of Abolition

a. In general
b. Proceedings for assessment

a. In General

As a general rule one whose property is injured or damaged by the elimination of a grade crossing or a separation of grades is entitled to compensation, but recovery may not be had for damages different only in degree from those suffered by the general public; nor are consequential damages ordinarily recoverable.

Some statutes providing for the abolition of grade crossings also frequently, provide specifically for the ascertainment and award of damages occasioned by such improvements to property owners,[38] such provision being within the legislative power,[39] and the language, although permissive in form, is in fact peremptory.[40] Under general statutes allowing an abutting owner compensation for damages when the grade of a street or highway is changed, it has been held that the owner may recover damages for such a change of grade incidental to an elimination of a grade crossing by order of the railroad commissioners in proceedings under the general railroad law.[41]

One whose property is not taken but is damaged or injured by the elimination of a grade crossing or a separation of grades is entitled to compensation.[42] The property owner, when entitled to damages, is not limited to a damage sustained as to the particular use which is being made of the premises at the time of the assessment of damages.[43] Notwithstanding a statute may provide in general terms for compensation to the owners of property for damages sustained by them, they are not ordinarily regarded as entitled to recover damages different from those allowed in other cases of injury of an analogous nature.[44]

No recovery may be had for damages different only perhaps in degree from those suffered by the general public;[45] nor, in the absence of statute authorizing it, are consequential damages ordinarily recoverable.[46] A right of action may, however, arise where the act of the railroad is unlawful or without proper authority.[47] A statute whereby the state accepts liability in the first instance for damage to property in eliminating a grade crossing does not give landowners the right to recover for injuries which would not have been compensable in the absence of such statute,[48] and the same rule applies under statutes which provide for the deter-

38. Va.—Forest View Land Co. v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 91 S. E 198, 120 Va. 308.
51 C J. p 694 note 3.
Damages under provision against taking or injuring property for public use without compensation see Eminent Domain § 96 et seq.

Damages ascertained and determined by commission

Pa.—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A.2d 46, 168 Pa. Super 360.

Pending proceeding

A proceeding for the elimination of a grade crossing, which had been ordered by the public service commission in 1927 was "pending" within statute enacted in 1928 providing that it was not applicable to pending proceedings, notwithstanding work of elimination was not commenced until 1930.—Buffalo Co-op. Stove Co. v. State, 298 N.Y.S. 731, 252 App.Div. 228.

39. N.Y.—Corning v. O'Neill, 167 N.Y.S 743, 180 App.Div 454, affirmed 125 N.E. 914, 227 N.Y. 625.
Pa.—Knoll v. Harborcreek Tp, 86 Pa Super. 423.

40. N.J.—Clark v Elizabeth, 40 A. 616, 737, 61 N.J.Law 565.
51 C.J. p 695 note 5.

41. N.Y.—People v Hayes, 165 N. Y.S. 436, 178 App Div 301, modified on other grounds 166 N.Y.S. 1109, 179 App Div. 962.

42. N.Y.—Askey & Hager v State, 270 N.Y.S 704, 240 App Div. 451, affirmed 195 N.E. 212, 266 N.Y. 587

43. N.Y.—People v. Hennessy, 138 N.Y.S 659, 154 App.Div. 109.
51 C.J p 696 note 44.

44. Mass.—Farwell v. Boston, 62 N. E 751, 180 Mass 433
51 C.J. p 695 note 25.

45. Pa.—Rzasa v Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 156 A. 714, 103 Pa Super. 317.
51 C.J p 696 note 26.

46. N.Y.—Lane v. State, 37 N.Y.S 2d 810, 265 App Div 890—Judge v State, 31 N.Y.S 2d 59, 262 App.Div. 575, affirmed 45 N.E 2d 458, 289 N Y. 705.
Pa.—Hoffer v Reading Co, 134 A. 415, 287 Pa 120
51 C.J p 695 note 7.

Damage from change of grade

N.Y.—In re Buffalo Grade Crossing Commissioners, 94 N.E. 188, 201 N. Y. 32
51 C.J p 695 note 8

47. N.J.—United New Jersey R., etc., Co v. Lewis, 59 A. 227, 68 N.J.Eq 437, affirmed 66 A. 1134, 69 N.J.Eq. 843.
N.Y.—Brush v. New York, etc., R. Co., 112 N.E. 922, 218 N.Y. 264.

48. N.Y.—Consolidated Edison Co. of N. Y. v. State, 97 N.Y.S.2d 431, 276 App.Div. 677, affirmed 98 N.E. 2d 587, 302 N.Y. 711—Judge v. State, 31 N.Y.S.2d 59, 262 App Div. 575, affirmed 45 N.E.2d 458, 289 N Y 705—Hollman v. State, 13 N.Y. S 2d 857, 171 Misc. 768.

Town not liable

A town not being liable to landowners for damage caused by change of state highway grade in course of railroad grade-crossing elimination, where change was not made by town authorities, state assumed no liability therefor and such damage is damnum absque injuria.—Hollman v. State, supra.

Negligence in performance of work

(1) The statute providing that state shall be liable in first instance for damage to property caused by elimination of grade crossings does not embrace a claim for property damage resulting from negligence of state's agents.—Loft Properties v. Tully & Di Napoli, 55 N.Y.S 2d 659.

(2) The type of property damage for which state in first instance makes itself liable under statute consists of such damage as necessarily results to unappropriated property from elimination of grade crossings, such as deprivation of easements of light and air or completely cutting off or interfering with access to unacquired property, and does not include removal of lateral support caused by negligence of contractor and railroad in doing the work.—Loft Properties v. Tully & Di Napoli, supra.

mination of damages or which apportion the expenses of, or otherwise determine who shall pay for the damage caused by, the elimination of a grade crossing [49]

An abutting owner is entitled to compensation for damages arising from impairment of his easements of light, air, and access caused by a grade crossing elimination or a separation of grades.[50] He is not entitled, however, to damages for a mere change of grade of a street at some point not in front of his premises,[51] or the fact that it is closed altogether at some point not in front of, but beyond, his premises,[52] and this is more particularly true where his street facilities have been improved rather than impaired.[53] Where the statute so provides, the owners of land not abutting on the affected road may be entitled to compensation, provided the injury is proximate, immediate, and substantial.[54] Under such statute, recovery may be had for damages because of the vacation of a street, although the vacation is not directly in front of claimant's property.[55]

A statute providing for the payment of damages to any person whose land is taken and special damages which the owner of any land adjoining the street shall sustain by reason of a change of grade does not, by the provision for special damages, refer to mere consequential damages resulting from the vacation of a portion of the street,[56] and under such a statute the property owner may not recover for damages because of the vacation of a portion of the street on which his lot does not abut.[57] Where a statute for elimination provides for damages to persons injured by change of a street grade, no recovery can be had for change of a track grade.[58] Under a statute authorizing the recovery of damages by the owners of property abutting a street, the grade of which is changed by the abolition of a grade crossing, a property owner abutting on the railroad is not entitled to recover incidental damages,[59] as, for example, such as are occasioned by a diminution or loss in his ability to connect his property by switches or otherwise with the tracks as theretofore existing [60]

Questions of whether one, whose property is taken or injured by reason of a change of grade or other cause arising out of an abolition of a grade crossing, is entitled to damages therefor under a constitutional provision precluding the taking or injuring of property for public use without compensation therefor are treated in Eminent Domain § 96 et seq.

49. U S—S. B Penick & Co v. New York Cent. R. Co, C C.A.N J, 111 F 2d 1006.
Md—Krebs v. Uhl, 154 A. 131, 160 Md 584.
Pa.—Pennsylvania Co. for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities v. City of Philadelphia, 40 A 2d 461, 351 Pa 214—Hoffer v. Reading Co, 134 A. 415, 287 Pa. 120—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A.2d 46, 168 Pa. Super. 360.

50. N Y.—Harrison v. New York Central R. Co, 6 N.Y.S 2d 978, 255 App.Div. 183, reargument denied 8 N.Y.S.2d 1017, 255 App Div. 1032, affirmed 22 N E.2d 483, 281 N Y. 653—Buffalo Co-op Stove Co v. State, 298 N.Y S. 731, 252 App Div. 228—Knights v. State, 291 N.Y.S. 567, 161 Misc 552, affirmed 298 N. Y. 173, 251 App Div. 781—Caldwell & Ward Brass Co v State, 291 N. Y S. 564, 161 Misc. 147, affirmed 298 N.Y.S. 174, 251 App.Div. 781, affirmed 13 N E 2d 467, 277 N Y. 547—Champion Oil Co. v. State, 291 N Y S. 562, 161 Misc 143, affirmed 298 N Y.S. 174, 251 App.Div. 781.
Pa.—Knoll v. Harborcreek Tp., 86 Pa.Super. 423
51 C.J. p 696 note 28.
Damages for change of grade generally see Municipal Corporations § 1227 et seq.

Loss of view
Where following a grade-elimination project the railroad ran on an embankment above the level of claimant's land, while previously railroad was at grade, claimant was entitled to consequential damages against the state because of loss of view and because the embankment was unsightly—Lane v. State, 37 N Y.S 2d 810, 265 App Div. 890

51. N.Y.—Corning v. O'Neill, 167 N Y S. 743, 180 App Div. 454, affirmed 125 N E 914, 227 N.Y. 625.

52. N.Y—Buffalo Co-op Stove Co v. State, 298 N.Y S 731, 252 App Div. 228—Corning v. O'Neill, 167 N Y.S 743, 180 App Div. 454, affirmed 125 N.E 914, 227 N.Y. 625.

53. N Y.—Corning v. O'Neill, supra.

54. Pa.—Rzasa v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 156 A. 714, 102 Pa.Super. 317—Bodemer v. Northampton County, 101 Pa Super. 492.

No change in law
The Public Service Company Law, was not designed, by the use of the term "adjacent," as distinguished from "abutting," in referring to the allowance of compensation for damages which owners may sustain by reasons of changes in grade crossings, to effect any radical departure from the law regulating damages in eminent domain proceedings. In order to entitle adjacent property owners to recover damages the injury must still be proximate, immediate, and substantial—Holmes & Holmes v. Public Service Commission, 79 Pa Super. 381.

Light and air
It is error to allow a jury to award damages to an adjacent property owner for interference with the light and air of his property caused by a change in the grade of a railroad crossing in a public street, where there has been no disturbance of access, right of way, drainage, or any other existing right of property, and no actual invasion of property or imposition of an additional servitude—Holmes & Holmes v. Public Service Commission, supra.

55. Pa.—Donnelly v. Public Service Commission, 112 A. 160, 268 Pa. 345

56. Wis.—Chicago, etc., R. Co v. State R Commission, 167 N.W. 266, 167 Wis. 185.

57. Wis—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. State R. Commission, supra.

58. Mich.—Detroit v. Detroit United R. Co., 120 N.W. 600, 156 Mich. 106.
51 C.J. p 696 note 45.

59. U.S.—Pratt v. Cleveland, C.C. Ohio, 191 F. 65.

60. U S.—Pratt v. Cleveland, supra
51 C.J. p 696 note 47.

Temporary injuries. Special damages due to the property being rendered inaccessible in the carrying on of business during progress of the work,[61] or injury affecting the use of machinery from dust coming in during the process of construction,[62] may be recoverable under proper pleadings, but the owner may not recover for injuries suffered in common with the general public through inconvenience from the closing of the street totally or partially to travel during the progress of the work;[63] nor may he recover for injury to removable tools and appliances used in his business.[64] Damages for loss of profits of a business are too remote to be recoverable,[65] but incidental damages from loss of rentals may be recovered.[66] Under a statute providing for compensation for damages resulting from the change of grade of a street, damages may not be recovered for injury to a business as such carried on upon the land, whether by the owner of the land or by a tenant.[67]

Franchises in streets. Since persons having franchises in the streets hold them subject to the paramount rights of the public, they are not entitled to recover for the damage to such rights incident to the elimination of grade crossings [68]

Railroad property. Where land owned by the railroad is taken in connection with the elimination of a grade crossing, it has been held that the railroad is not entitled to compensation where no provision therefor is made in the statute,[69] even though the land was not being used for railroad purposes [70] Under some statutes, a railroad is entitled to compensation for its expense in connection

61. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v Boston, etc, R. Co, 89 N E 118, 202 Mass. 585.

62. Mass —Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co, supra

63. Mich —Detroit v. Detroit United R. Co, 120 N W. 600, 156 Mich 106.

64. Mass —Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc, R Corp, 95 N E 887, 209 Mass 298—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc, R Co, 89 N E. 118, 202 Mass 585.

65. Mich.—Detroit v. Detroit United R. Co., 120 N W. 600, 156 Mich 106.
N.Y —Corning v Holmes, 167 N Y S 746, 180 App Div. 458, affirmed 125 N E 913, 227 N.Y. 624.

66. N.Y.—Corning v. Holmes, supra.

67. Mich.—Detroit v. Detroit United R. Co., 120 N W. 600, 156 Mich 106.

68. Ky.—Union Light, Heat & Power Co. v. Louisville & N. R Co., 79 S W 2d 199, 257 Ky. 761.
N Y —Consolidated Edison Co. of N. Y. v State, 97 N.Y S.2d 431, 276 App.Div. 677, affirmed 98 N E 2d 587, 302 N.Y. 711.

Utilities owned by municipality

(1) Expense of rearrangement of utility structures in a public highway made necessary by grade-crossing elimination must be borne by owner, whether a private corporation or a municipality, if municipally-owned structure is operated by municipality in its proprietary capacity.—Public Service Commission of New York v. City of New York, 49 N.Y S.2d 214, 268 App.Div. 121, affirmed 63 N.E 2d 183, 294 N Y. 951.

(2) Cost of removing, relocating, and protecting transit facilities owned by New York City and operated by city in its proprietary capacity, although such rearrangement was necessitated by grade-crossing elimination, was not payable out of state grade-crossing elimination bond moneys but must be borne by city, although previous location of such structures was fixed by public service commission.—Public Service Commission of New York v. City of New York, supra.

Relocation of water mains

(1) The constitutional provision relating to grade-crossing elimination in the absence of specific declarations to that effect will not be construed as abolishing the established law that the utility must bear the expense of relocating its water mains affected by grade-crossing elimination.—In re Elimination of Highway Railroad Crossing in Town of Cheektowaga, Erie County, 18 N Y S 2d 613, 259 App Div. 141, affirmed In re Lehigh Valley R. Co. in Union Road, Town of Cheektowaga, Erie County, 28 N E 2d 409, 283 N Y 687 —In re Elimination of Highway Railroad Crossings in Town of Cheektowaga, Erie County, 19 N.Y S. 2d 321, 259 App.Div. 141—Western New York Water Co. v. Brandt, 18 N.Y S 2d 128, 259 App Div. 11, reargument denied 18 N Y.S 2d 750, 259 App Div. 764, appeal dismissed 28 N.E 2d 408, 283 N.Y. 686.

(2) Where relocation of city's water mains was made necessary by separation of grades of railroad and city streets, cost thereof was properly allowed as part of total cost assessed against city and railroad — State ex rel. Wabash Ry. Co v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 100 S W.2d 522, 340 Mo. 225, 109 A L R. 754.

(3) Public utility commission properly ordered water company to remove its pipe at its own expense from abolished portion of state highway.—Philadelphia Suburban Water Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 78 A 2d 46, 168 Pa.Super 360.

Relocation of gas mains

N Y.—Transit Commission v. Long Island R Co, 171 N E 565, 253 N Y 345.

Telegraph company, whose conduits and manholes in the street have been disturbed by a change of grade, has been held not to be an abutting owner entitled to damages. —Postal Tel. Cable Co v Baltimore, etc, R Co, 219 Ill App 304.

69. N.Y —Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission v. Delaware, L. & W R. Co, 97 N Y S 2d 279, 197 Misc. 192, modified on other grounds 32 N.Y.S 2d 620, 263 App Div. 930, affirmed 49 N E 2d 131, 290 N.Y 632 —Long Island R. Co. v. State, 102 N Y.S.2d 399.

Removal of switch tracks

Board of public works, in eliminating grade crossing which resulted in elimination of switch track, merely exercised right reserved in ordinance permitting construction which became part of contract between railroad and user of switch, so that user could not recover damages for removal.—City of Louisville v. Chess & Wymond Co, 56 S W.2d 537, 247 Ky. 53.

70. N Y.—Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission v. Delaware, L. & W R. Co, 97 N Y S 2d 279, 197 Misc 192, modified on other grounds 32 N Y.S 2d 620, 263 App Div 930, affirmed 49 N E 2d 131, 290 N.Y. 632 —Long Island R. Co. v. State, 102 N.Y.S 2d 399.

with or incidental to the elimination of a grade crossing.[71]

Lessee or lessor. Where the right to damages is recognized, a lessee may recover for injury to his leasehold,[72] or a recovery of damages may be apportioned between the lessee and the lessor,[73] the apportionment being a matter not concerning the railroad.[74] In the case of an injury to a leasehold through an abolition of a grade crossing, the measure of damages has been held to be the diminution in the fair market value of the leasehold, including its improvements.[75] The owner of a leasehold, who has been deprived of access to a street, is bound to make use of every reasonable means to obtain such access and may not enhance his damages by his inactivity,[76] but the damages which he actually suffers may not be diminished by his failure to make an attempt to obtain such access without a showing that practicable methods could have been adopted.[77]

Authority or power under which change made. Where the authority of the railroad to interfere with a street on an elevation of tracks is conferred by the state, notwithstanding the city exercises some police supervision over the change, the city may not be held liable in damages alleged to have been caused to abutting property by an illegal change of a street grade.[78] Where a municipality has no power to compel a railroad to construct subways under its tracks for streets or highways, the railroad may not be made responsible for damages because of a change of the grade of a street or a highway in connection therewith, in the absence of an agreement.[79] The railroad, as against a statutory liability for damages, may not assert that the change in the highway complained of was made without authority.[80]

Waiver or surrender of rights. When a franchise of a corporation reserves to the grantor the power to require changes in the company's works, such corporation is not entitled to damages for changes made by it because of a grade crossing elimination.[81] A waiver by a street car company of all damages includes damages suffered by it as an abutting owner.[82]

Contracts. When a railroad agrees with the municipality that it shall pay all damages, it must do so.[83] Where a railroad agrees to construct a viaduct and approaches at its own expense, it is liable for the damages to abutting property owners.[84] Contract provisions as to damages are normally construed as limited to such damages as are compensable aside from the contract.[85] Thus, under a provision that the railroad should pay for all damage resulting from the elimination of the grade crossing, the railroad is not liable to one who, in the absence of such contract, would not have been entitled to compensation,[86] and, where a city, for the purpose of securing elevation of tracks to eliminate grade crossings, agrees with the railroad to pay all damages for which the railroad company may be liable by reason of the elevation, the city is liable only where the company is liable.[87]

b. Proceedings for Assessment

The procedure for the assessment of damages arising out of the abolition of a grade crossing is ordinarily controlled by the statute conferring the right thereto.

The procedure for the assessment of damages, arising out of the abolition of a grade crossing, is ordinarily controlled by the statute conferring the right thereto.[88] Statutes as to the elimination of grade crossings are frequently construed as not

71. N.Y.—Staten Island Edison Corp. v. Staten Island Rapid Transit Ry. Co., 44 N.Y.S.2d 874, 267 App.Div. 152, affirmed 67 N.E.2d 514, 295 N.Y. 869.

Relocation of power lines on railroad's right of way was railroad company's expense incidental to elimination of grade crossing within statute requiring that railroad company be compensated for its expense in connection therewith.—Staten Island Edison Corp. v. Staten Island Rapid Transit Ry. Co., supra.

72. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 89 N.E. 118, 202 Mass. 585.

73. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 102 N.E. 625, 215 Mass. 381.
51 C.J. p. 695 note 22.

74. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 102 N.E. 625, 215 Mass. 381.

75. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 89 N.E. 118, 202 Mass. 585.
51 C.J. p. 697 note 48.

76. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 89 N.E. 118, 202 Mass. 585.

77. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 89 N.E. 118, 202 Mass. 585.

78. Wis.—Pabst Brewing Co. v. Milwaukee, 147 N.W. 46, 157 Wis. 158.

79. Wis.—Appeal of Schuessler, 196 N.W. 213, 182 Wis. 169—Application of Doss, 174 N.W. 718, 171 Wis. 52.

80. Mass.—Parker v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 3 Cush. 107, 50 Am.D. 709.

81. Ind.—Indianapolis v. Indianapolis Light, etc., Co., 95 N.E. 246, 177 Ind. 396
51 C.J. p. 695 note 13.

82. Mich.—Detroit v. Detroit United R. Co., 120 N.W. 600, 156 Mich. 106

83. Mass.—Gardiner v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 9 Cush. 1

84. Tenn.—Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. City of Chattanooga, 64 S.W.2d 196, 166 Tenn. 626.

85. Pa.—Pennsylvania Co. for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities v. City of Philadelphia, 40 A.2d 461, 351 Pa. 214.

86. Ky.—Union Light, Heat & Power Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 79 S.W.2d 199, 257 Ky. 761.

87. Ill.—Otis El. Co. v. Chicago, 105 N.E. 838, 263 Ill. 419, 52 L.R.A., N.S., 192.
51 C.J. p. 695 note 17.

88. Vt.—Menut & Parks Co. v. Cray, affecting existing remedies for damage caused by the elimination,[89] but, where a right which does not exist at common law is conferred by statute, the statutory remedy for the enforcement thereof is exclusive.[90] Statutes providing a method for the recovery of damages may be made retroactive in the absence of constitutional restrictions.[91] A statute, applicable to the procedure with respect to claims for damages to property not acquired, is inapplicable to a claim by a public utility corporation for the expense of changing its structure in a public highway necessitated by elimination of the grade crossing.[92]

Defenses. Where proceedings to ascertain damages are instituted on the petition of the property owners by a commission as required by statute, the commission in so doing will not be regarded as waiving any rights which may exist on behalf of the railroad companies,[93] or of the city,[94] or any defense which the commission has the right to interpose before the court.[95] Where, in proceedings for the elimination of a grade crossing, the railroad company and the city have treated a highway as existing, the railroad may not, as against a recovery of damages by an abutting owner, contend that the highway is abandoned.[96]

Parties and intervention. Although a statute makes a board of county commissioners a necessary party to proceedings before a commission for separation of grades, the board is not a necessary party to an action for damages to property from the separation of grades.[97] On intervention by a lessor in proceedings brought by the lessee, he should file a petition covering the land described in the lease and not a larger tract owned by him.[98] The lessee's petition should not be tried before it is ascertained whether separate verdicts taken on independent petitions by the lessor are or are not to stand.[99]

Evidence. As a general rule, any evidence otherwise competent, relevant to the amount of damages sustained, may be admitted.[1] Evidence, which is too uncertain in its nature to establish a right to compensation under the statute, may not be rendered sufficient by indulging the idea that the city is responsible for such uncertainty, because it is the moving party for the improvement.[2] In a proceeding to determine a landowner's damage from the taking of land for a highway, it has been presumed that the commission's order for such taking was based on the conclusion that such highway was part of, and was necessitated by, the grade crossing elimination.[3]

Award. An award of damages by a particular board or commission is binding only as far as it is within the power expressly or impliedly conferred on the board,[4] and will not afford a basis of a right of action in behalf of the person in whose favor it is made, without a showing of such power or authority.[5] Where, under a statute, the railroad is primarily to pay for all damages, the entire damages sustained by a petitioner through the discontinuance of a private way at a grade crossing and the taking

39 A.2d 342, 114 Vt. 41, 156 A.L.R. 404

51 C.J. p 697 note 49.

Board to which claim presented

City council, and not board of public works, was held "board" to which claim was properly presented by property owners for damages from grade separation for construction of underpass beneath railroad.—Musto-Keenan Co. v. City of Los Angeles, 34 P.2d 506, 139 Cal.App. 506

Adequate remedy

A statute providing for damages to adjacent property from elimination of grade crossing provided adjacent property owners with an adequate remedy at law for damages sustained by them.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Simandl, 1 A.2d 312, 124 N.J.Eq. 207, affirmed 4 A.2d 281, 125 N.J.Eq. 91.

89. N.Y.—Buffalo Co-op Stove Co. v. State, 298 N.Y.S. 731, 252 App.Div. 228—Askey & Hager v. State, 270 N.Y.S. 704, 240 App.Div. 451, affirmed 195 N.E. 212, 266 N.Y. 587

Remedy not created or destroyed

Statute relating to elimination of grade crossings in city did not create any new remedy against the state for damages resulting from work on grade-crossing elimination and did not destroy any remedy that existed under provisions of city charter.—Buffalo Co-op Stove Co. v. State, 298 N.Y.S. 731, 252 App.Div. 228.

90. N.Y.—Askey & Hager v. State, 270 N.Y.S. 704, 240 App.Div. 451, affirmed 195 N.E. 212, 266 N.Y. 587.

51 C.J. p 697 note 50.

91. Mich.—Detroit v. Grand Trunk R. Co. of Canada, 128 N.W. 250, 163 Mich. 229.

92. N.Y.—Transit Commission v. Long Island R. Co., 239 N.Y.S. 543, 228 App.Div. 290, reversed on other grounds 171 N.E. 565, 253 N.Y. 345.

51 C.J. p 697 note 52

93. N.Y.—In re Buffalo Grade Crossing Comrs., 94 N.E. 188, 201 N.Y. 32.

94. N.Y.—In re Buffalo Grade Crossing Comrs., supra.

95. N.Y.—In re Buffalo Grade Crossing Comrs., supra.

96. Wis.—Application of Kaiser, 174 N.W. 714, 176 N.W. 781, 171 Wis. 40.

97. Ind.—Rooker v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 114 N.E. 998, 66 Ind.App. 521.

98. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 95 N.E. 887, 209 Mass. 298

99. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., supra.

1. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 102 N.E. 625, 215 Mass. 381.

51 C.J. p 697 note 61.

2. Mich.—Detroit v. Detroit United R. Co., 120 N.W. 600, 156 Mich. 106.

3. Pa.—Bartron v. Northampton County, 19 A.2d 263, 342 Pa. 163

4. Ind.—Indianapolis v. Indianapolis Light, etc., Co., 95 N.E. 246, 177 Ind. 396.

5. Ind.—Indianapolis v. Indianapolis Light, etc., Co., supra.

of land for a public way are to be assessed against the railroad and not partly against the town and partly against the railroad.[6]

Review. A railroad company which is neither a necessary nor a proper party to the proceedings, although it has been allowed to participate therein, may not appeal from the decision.[7] Where, on petition by a lessee for damages for the abolition of a grade crossing, the lessor was entitled to damages subsequent to the lease, the lessor, not asking for a ruling that the lessee had no right to remove buildings and machinery, could not, on exceptions, urge that the lessee had no such right.[8]

§ 167. —— Maintenance and Repair

Statutes as to the elimination of grade crossings frequently provide as to the maintenance and repair of the structure substituted for the old crossing or authorize a commission to make such determination.

In some jurisdictions the statutes providing for abolition of grade crossings also provide for the subsequent maintenance and repair of the structure substituted for the old crossing,[9] or authorize the commission charged with the general regulation of railroads or railroad crossings to make such determination.[10] Where a bridge carries a highway over two railroads, the repair and maintenance of the bridge may be charged to both railroads.[11] Under a statute requiring a municipality to maintain a public way which passes under a railroad, the municipality may not impose on the railroad the expense of improving the road.[12] Under some statutes, the railroad is liable for the expense of altering, but not of repairing, a bridge across the railroad,[13] and, where the highway crosses a railroad by an overhead bridge, the framework of the bridge and its abutments must be maintained and kept in

6. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co v Boston, etc., R Co., 89 N.E. 118, 202 Mass. 585

7. Mo.—Kansas City v. Kansas City Terminal R. Co., 201 S.W. 541.

8. Mass.—Cornell-Andrews Smelting Co v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 102 N.E. 625, 215 Mass. 381.

9. S.C.—Powell v. Greenwood County, 1 S.E.2d 624, 189 S.C. 463

Statute as to elimination of grade crossings held inapplicable

U.S.—Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co. v. City of Lexington, D.C.Ky., 86 F.Supp. 913.

S.C.—Powell v. Greenwood County, 1 S.E.2d 624, 189 S.C. 463

"County bridge"

A bridge carrying state highway route over a railroad and a canal, constructed by order of public service commission, was not a "county bridge" within meaning of statute requiring counties to maintain expenses of lighting county bridges.—Borough of West Conshohocken v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 5 A.2d 590, 135 Pa.Super. 295

Statute relieving railroad of duty

Ark.—Greer v. City of Texarkana, 147 S.W.2d 1004, 201 Ark. 1041.

Bridges and approaches

(1) Under statute empowering public utility commission to require utilities to construct and maintain suitable "bridges," commission's power extends not only to the bridge but the approaches thereto with right to allocate the cost for repairs and maintenance, provided they are just and reasonable, since approaches are a necessary part of bridges.—Pittsburgh & S. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 903, 141 Pa.Super. 233.

(2) Where pursuant to order of board of public utility commissioners, issued under authority of Fielder Grade Crossing Act, a bridge was constructed over a railroad right of way and over a county highway running parallel to railroad right of way, responsibility of railroad to maintain and repair bridge was limited to portion of bridge within its right of way, and railroad was not required to maintain and repair the entire structure.—Bergen County v Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 68 A.2d 645, 5 N.J.Super. 185, petition denied 70 A.2d 539, 3 N.J. 381

(3) Portions of a bridge, although made of different types of construction, were not approaches to be repaired by the municipality.—Boston, etc., R. v. Lowell, 152 N.E. 633, 256 Mass. 293

10. Pa.—Pittsburgh & S. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 903, 141 Pa.Super. 233.—Borough of West Conshohocken v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 5 A.2d 590, 135 Pa.Super. 295.

51 C.J. p. 691 note 39 [a].

Sidewalk

The public service commission had power to order that sidewalk on bridge over railroad tracks should be maintained by town.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Erie County, 95 N.Y.S.2d 305, 197 Misc. 801.

Assigning definite items to each

Pa.—Borough of West Conshohocken, v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 5 A.2d 590, 135 Pa.Super. 295

Jointly operated bridge

The public utility commission's act in fixing initial liability for maintenance of bridges over streets on one railroad was not unreasonable notwithstanding bridges were operated jointly with another railroad, where contractual rights were not affected, and actual operating interests were not disclosed.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 35 A.2d 588, 154 Pa.Super. 86.

Assumption of responsibility by state

The statute providing that commonwealth would assume responsibility of county or township for construction or maintenance of bridge on state highway route carrying vehicular traffic over stream and facilities of any public service company, except that act shall not relieve any person, firm, association, or corporation of obligation under any agreement or order of court or under any order of public service commission, does not relieve boroughs from prorated cost of maintaining bridge assessed by public utility commission, since boroughs are "persons" within exception of statute.—Borough of West Conshohocken v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 5 A.2d 590, 135 Pa.Super. 295.

Order held valid

Pa.—Pittsburgh & S. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 14 A.2d 903, 141 Pa.Super. 233.—Borough of West Conshohocken v. Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, 5 A.2d 590, 135 Pa.Super. 295

11. Mich.—Attorney General v. Fort St. Union Depot Co., 76 N.W. 85, 117 Mich. 609

12. Ohio.—City of Bucyrus v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 188 N.E. 355, 127 Ohio St. 201.

13. Mass.—Boston & A. R. Co. v. Department of Public Utilities, 51 N.E.2d 445, 314 Mass. 634.

"Repair" and "alteration" distinguished

Mass.—Boston & A. R. Co. v. Department of Public Utilities, supra.

repair by the railroad, while the roadway and its approaches are to be maintained by the municipality.[14] A municipality which fails to exercise its power to impose the burden of maintenance on a railroad may not recover from the railroad its expenditures in maintaining the crossing.[15] Where a railroad sought recovery against a county for expenditures for repairs under a grade crossing elimination statute, it was held that it could not thereafter seek recovery under another statute.[16]

Contracts. It has been held that a contract between a railroad and a municipality as to the repair and maintenance is subject to the lawful exercise of the police power under which the burden may be placed on the railroad, although the agreement places it on the municipality,[17] but it has also been held that a municipality is not relieved from a contract to maintain a crossing at its expense by an order of a commission apportioning the cost of repairs,[18] and the railroad may bring action on such a contract without having appealed from the order.[19] A contract with respect to the maintenance of a grade crossing is not affected by a subsequently enacted statute unless such legislative intent is unequivocally expressed.[20]

E. CROSSING PRIVATE LANDS

§ 168. In General

A railroad company in constructing its road across private lands must do so in such manner as not to cause unnecessary injury thereto

A railroad company in constructing its road across private lands must do so in such manner as not to cause unnecessary injury thereto;[21] and during the process of construction the railroad company must use all prudent and reasonable means to enable the landowner to enjoy his property in the ordinary mode and to prevent injury thereto.[22]

Private roads. In some jurisdictions statutory provisions require a railroad to restore private roads crossed by it.[23] Such provisions have been held not to apply when the railroad has, by purchase, acquired the private passway from the owner.[24] A charter provision requiring the railroad so to construct its way as not to obstruct any private way which it crosses requires it to construct and maintain a safe and suitable crossing for such private way.[25]

§ 169. Private or Farm Crossings

A private crossing or a farm crossing is defined supra § 1, and the right and duty to cross or construct a private or farm crossing, infra § 170. The character of the lands and the persons entitled to a private or farm crossing and the location, number character, sufficiency, removal, change, or obstruction of such crossings are discussed infra §§ 171–174 and the effect of an agreement with, or waiver by the landowner infra § 175.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

§ 170. —— Right and Duty to Cross or Construct Crossings

a. In general
b. Duty of railroad to construct crossing
c. Maintenance and repair
d. Powers of railroad commission

a. In General

A private or farm crossing may be acquired by prescription in the absence of a statute providing otherwise, or the circumstances may be such as to entitle the landowner to a right of way of necessity.

The right to a private or farm crossing across or under a railroad track may be acquired by contract or covenant in the deed of conveyance of the right of way, as discussed supra §§ 88, 94, or by virtue of a statutory or charter provision expressly

14. N.Y.—City of New York v. New York Cent. R. Co., 48 N.Y.S.2d 189, 183 Misc. 104
51 C.J. p. 691 note 42 [b].

Railings along sidewalk
Under provision of Grade Crossing Elimination Act that "framework" of bridge shall be maintained by railroad, railings along sidewalk on bridge were not a part of the "framework," but were part of "sidewalk" and were required to be maintained by town under order of public service commission providing that framework should be maintained by railroad and sidewalks by town—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Erie County, 95 N.Y.S.2d 305, 197 Misc. 801.

15. Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., 27 N.W.2d 356, 250 Wis. 451.

16. S.C.—Powell v. Greenwood County, 1 S.E.2d 624, 189 S.C. 463

17. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Utility Commission, 7 A.2d 86, 136 Pa.Super. 1.

18. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. McKees Rocks, 135 A. 227, 287 Pa. 311.

19. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. McKees Rocks, supra.

20. N.Y.—Western N. Y. & P. Ry. Co. v. City of Buffalo, 71 N.E.2d 108, 296 N.Y. 93.

21. La.—Heath v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 37 La.Ann. 728.
51 C.J. p. 698 note 71.

22. Mo.—Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512.
51 C.J. p. 698 note 72.

23. Ga.—Willingham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 38 S.E. 843, 113 Ga. 374.
51 C.J. p. 698 note 80.

24. Ky.—Turner v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 225 S.W. 1072, 189 Ky. 714.

25. N.H.—Keefe v. Sullivan County R. Co., 63 N.H. 271.

conferring the right to cross,[26] or imposing on the railroad company the duty of constructing crossings, as discussed infra subdivision b of this section, or by prescription,[27] and, in the absence of statute providing otherwise, one whose land abuts on a strip of ground acquired by a railroad for its right of way may acquire by prescription a private right of way over[28] or under[29] the company's tracks, although, there is authority to the effect that a prescriptive way cannot be acquired across a railroad right of way, on the ground that it is held by the railroad for public purposes.[30]

The acquisition of a private right of way by prescription across a railroad company's tracks is not affected by a statute which prohibits persons from walking, standing, or driving on any railroad tracks,[31] or by a statute providing that, if an abutting landowner occupies for the purpose of cultivation or otherwise any land belonging to, or included within, the location of the railroad, no continuance of such occupancy shall create in him any right to the land so occupied.[32] On the other hand, a statute which provides that no right of way across any railroad track or location which is in use for railroad purposes shall hereafter be acquired by prescription, but nothing herein contained shall affect any existing right of way, prevents the acquisition of rights of way across railroads by prescription, whether or not the adverse use had begun prior to the passage of the statute.[33] In order to acquire an easement across, over, or under, a railroad track it is necessary that all of the conditions of adverse user essential to give a prescriptive right should be fulfilled,[34] and user, no matter how long continued, if permissive, cannot give such an easement by prescription.[35]

The circumstances may also be such as to entitle a landowner to a right of way of necessity,[36] and it has been held that one who conveys a right of way through his land so as to cut off access to a part of it has a way of necessity over the railroad,[37] although, where land is taken for a railroad but no right of crossing is reserved or ordered by the commissioners, there is no right of way by necessity, notwithstanding the owner is cut off from part of his land without such a right of way.[38] The

26. Limitation on right

A charter provision giving a landowner a right to cross the track gives him no right to cross in a manner which interferes with the reasonable use of the road by the railroad company.—Connecticut, etc, R Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

27. Miss—Hardy v Alabama, etc, R Co., 19 So. 661, 73 Miss. 719
51 C.J. p 699 note 83.

28. Ariz—Curtis v. Southern Pac Co, 8 P.2d 1078, 39 Ariz. 570.
Ark—St. Louis Southwestern Ry Co. v. Wallace, 229 S.W 2d 659—St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co v. Elmore, 47 S W.2d 39, 185 Ark. 364.
19 C.J p 900 note 35.

29. Ill—Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v Munsell, 94 Ill App 10.
19 C J p 900 note 35

30. Tenn.—Cincinnati, N. O. & T P. R Co. v. Sharp, 207 S.W. 728, 141 Tenn. 146.
19 C J. p 900 note 34.

31. Mass.—McCreary v. Boston, etc, R. Co., 26 N.E 864, 153 Mass. 300, 11 L.R A. 359.
19 C.J. p 901 note 39.

32. Mass.—Hall v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 97 N.E. 914, 211 Mass. 174—Fisher v. New York, etc., R Co, 135 Mass. 107.
19 C.J. p 901 note 40, p 900 note 37 [a].

33. Mass—Brooks v. West Boston Gas Co., 157 N.E 362, 266 Mass. 407—Simpson v. Boston, etc, R. Co., 57 N.E. 674, 176 Mass. 362, N.H—Costello v Grand Trunk R. Co, 47 A. 265, 70 N H. 403.

34. Tex—Texas & P Ry Co. v. Phillips, Civ App, 289 S.W 697, reversed on other grounds Phillips v Texas & P Ry Co, Com App, 296 S W. 877—Davis v Clark, Civ.App, 271 S W. 190—Quannah, A. & P Ry. Co v. Wiseman, Civ App, 247 S W. 695.
19 C J p 901 note 42—51 C.J. p 699 note 83 [a].

Statutory right of user

Prescriptive title may not be based on a landowner's use of railroad farm crossing under a statutory right of user.—Holly v. New York Cent. R. Co, 171 N.E. 367, 35 Ohio App. 1.

35. Iowa—Chicago, M, St. P. & P. R. Co. v. Cross, 234 N.W. 569, 212 Iowa 218—Whitham v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 160 N W. 913, 178 Iowa 1296—Hastings v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 126 N W 786, 148 Iowa 390—Schrimper v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, 82 N.W. 916, 87 N.W. 731, 115 Iowa 35
Mass—Cooley v. Boston & M R. R, 21 N.E 2d 953, 303 Mass. 371, 122 A.L R. 1166.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Phillips, Civ App, 289 S W. 697, reversed on other grounds Phillips v. Texas & P. Ry. Co, Com App, 296 S.W. 877.
51 C.J. p 699 note 83 [b]—19 C J. p 901 note 43, p 888 note 79 [a] (2)–(5).

36. Conn.—Housatonic R. Co. v. Waterbury, 23 Conn. 101.
51 C J p 699 note 88, p 575 note 44 [a]

Owner of land divided by railroad right of way may construct private driveway over right of way without permission from public service commission—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Public Service Commission of Indiana, 188 N E. 321, 206 Ind 51

Privity of ownership absent

Where tract owned by plaintiff was bisected by defendant's railroad track but there was no evidence that plaintiff or defendant was grantee or grantor of the other or that their predecessors in title occupied that status, plaintiff was not entitled to a private crossing over defendant's track on theory of easement of necessity impliedly granted or reserved—Texas & N. O. R. Co v Millard, Tex Civ.App, 181 S.W 2d 842

37. Ind—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Yarian, 39 N E.2d 604, 219 Ind. 477, 139 A.L.R 455—Cleveland, C, C & St. L. Ry. Co. v Smith, 97 N. E. 164, 177 Ind. 524
Mass.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Comrs., 38 N E. 27, 162 Mass 81.
Ohio—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Gilmore, 19 Ohio App. 489.
19 C.J. p 927 note 48.

38. Mass.—Cooley v. Boston & M. R R, 21 N E.2d 953, 303 Mass 371, 122 A.L.R. 1166—Googins v. Boston & A. R. Co, 30 N.E 71, 155 Mass. 505—Smith v. New York & N. E. R. Co., 6 N.E. 842, 142 Mass. 21.

necessity must be actual and not a mere matter of convenience,[39] but it need not be absolute, and a landowner whose property is divided by a railroad is entitled to use or make such a crossing or crossings as may be necessary for the reasonably convenient use of his land, provided he exercises his right with due regard to the paramount rights of the railroad company.[40]

In the absence of such provisions or conditions, the right of the railroad company in its right of way is exclusive, and adjacent landowners have no right to cross it,[41] or to construct crossings,[42] or if regular crossings are established to cross it at other places;[43] and in at least one jurisdiction the construction of crossings without the consent of the railroad company is expressly prohibited by statute.[44] Statutes giving landowners the right to private farm crossings are not grounded in the police power of the state,[45] but are grounded in the legislative control over persons or corporations seeking to exercise quasi-public functions.[46] Such a statute has been held to give the landowner an absolute right to a crossing,[47] but, on the contrary, it has been held that the right is not absolute but is subservient to public welfare.[48]

b. Duty of Railroad to Construct Crossing

Generally in the absence of a statute or agreement a railroad company is not obliged to construct a private or farm crossings for the benefit of adjacent landowners.

While it has been held to be the duty of the railroad to construct a private crossing on request of the landowner,[49] it has been said that the right to demand a private or farm crossing rests in statutory provisions or in private contract,[50] and in the absence of statute or agreement a railroad company is not obliged to construct private or farm crossings for the benefit of adjacent landowners,[51] nor is the railroad obliged to construct the crossing even though the landowner has a right of way of necessity.[52] The duty may be imposed on railroad companies by contract or covenant in the conveyance of the right of way, as discussed supra § 94, or by provision in the charter of the company.[53] Under such provisions the duty of the railroad is continuing, so as to require it to construct such additional crossings as may become necessary,[54] or if such crossing is a part of the plan of construction filed or agreed on by the railroad company and is considered in the award of damages to the landowner, the railroad company is bound to construct and maintain the crossing.[55]

There are also in a number of jurisdictions statutory provisions requiring railroad companies to construct such crossings or to do so in certain cases or under certain conditions.[56] These statutory

39. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Logue, 224 S.W.2d 42, 216 Ark. 64.
Tex.—McDaniel v. Burlington-Rock Island R. Co., Civ.App., 200 S.W.2d 724.
51 C.J. p. 699 note 90.

Lands accessible from public highway

No way of necessity exists across railroad track from one portion of farm to another where both portions are accessible by highway.
Ala.—McBurney v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 136 So. 796, 223 Ala. 390.
Mass.—Childs v. Boston & Maine R. R., 99 N.E. 957, 213 Mass. 91, 43 L.R.A.,N.S., 378.
Ohio.—Holly v. New York Cent. R. Co., 171 N.E. 367, 35 Ohio App. 1.
51 C.J. p. 699 note 90 [b].

40. Tex.—Missouri-Kansas-Texas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Cunningham, Civ.App., 273 S.W. 697.
51 C.J. p. 699 note 91.

41. Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Comstock, 22 A. 511, 60 Conn. 200.

42. Pa.—Speese v. Schuylkill River East Side R. Co., 8 Pa.Dist. 584, 23 Pa.Co. 17, 44 Wkly.N.C. 493.
Vt.—Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

43. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, 98 S.W. 1042, 30 Ky.L. 426.
Vt.—Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

44. Pa.—Mt. Pleasant Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 50 A. 251, 200 Pa. 434.
51 C.J. p. 699 note 95.

45. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 166 N.W. 237, 40 S.D. 84.

46. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

47. Iowa.—O'Malley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 165 N.W. 1002, 183 Iowa 749.

48. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 166 N.W. 237, 40 S.D. 84.
51 C.J. p. 699 note 99.

49. La.—Kirk v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 25 So. 463, 51 La.Ann. 664.—Heath v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 37 La.Ann. 728.

50. N.H.—Peppin v. Boston & M. R. R., 169 A. 877, 86 N.H. 395.
S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 166 N.W. 237, 40 S.D. 84.
W.Va.—Recco v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 32 S.E.2d 449, 127 W.Va. 321.

51. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 3 Tex.A.Civ.Cas. § 21.

52. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, supra.

53. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Emerson, 100 S.W. 863, 125 Ky. 104, 30 Ky.L. 1149
51 C.J. p. 700 note 7

54. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Troutman, 127 S.W. 474, 137 Ky. 827.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Emerson, 100 S.W. 863, 125 Ky. 104, 30 Ky.L. 1149

55. Kan.—Stone v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 90 P. 251, 75 Kan. 600.
51 C.J. p. 700 note 9.

56. Va.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Black, 8 S.E.2d 291, 175 Va. 256.
51 C.J. p. 700 note 10.

Construction and application of statutes

(1) The remedial statute authorizing establishment of wagonway across railroad right of way ought to receive a reasonable construction so as to make the remedy commensurate with the rights of the landowner and the mischief intended to be redressed, and should not be suffered to fall short of its admitted purpose by a too narrow interpretation.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Black, 8 S.E.2d 291, 175 Va. 256.—Adams v. Tidewater Ry. Co., 60 S.E. 129, 107 Va. 798.

(2) Words "necessary for proper use of land" in statute penalizing railroad for failure to provide necesrequirements apply whether the railroad company acquires its right of way by purchase or condemnation,[57] and the duty is not affected by the assessment and payment of damages in condemnation proceedings,[58] although the contrary has been held where the statute has been enacted subsequent to the assessment and payment of damages,[59] and a statute which attempts to impose such duty on a railroad which, prior to its enactment, has obtained a right of way and paid full compensation therefor, is unconstitutional,[60] as is a statute which requires a railroad to establish an underground private crossing merely for the convenience and benefit of the owner of the property.[61]

They also apply to railroads in process of construction as well as to completed roads[62] These statutes have been held not to affect provisions of charters granted before their enactment,[63] although on the contrary it has been held that they supersede charter provisions.[64] Where the railroad company contests the right of the landowner to a crossing, it is entitled to a reasonable time after the determination of the right in favor of the landowner to construct the crossing;[65] and where the duty of constructing the crossing is imposed by covenant in a deed of right of way but no time is specified, the company is entitled to a reasonable time after the road is built.[66]

Approaches. The duty of constructing a crossing includes the duty of constructing the necessary approaches thereto.[67]

Logging railroads are not railroads within the meaning of statutes requiring construction of private or farm crossings.[68]

Successors of railroad. A railroad's agreement to construct crossings is binding on its subsequent grantee or purchaser having notice of the agreement,[69] but a purchaser is not bound to maintain a crossing built under an oral agreement of which it had no notice[70]

c. Maintenance and Repair

While it has been held that the railroad has no duty to maintain a private or farm crossing, the statutory duty of constructing private or farm crossings includes the duty of maintaining and keeping them in repair as long as needed.

While it has been held, in the absence of statute or agreement, that the railroad has no duty to maintain a private or farm crossing,[71] the statutory duty of constructing such crossings includes the duty of maintaining and keeping them in repair as long as needed[72] The crossing being for the benefit of the landowner, the railroad is not obliged to maintain it in good condition for use by the public.[73] The railroad is not required to maintain a statutory crossing after it has been dedicated as a public street and ordered closed by the proper authorities;[74] and, where the crossing is constructed and maintained under a contract between the railroad and the landowner, the question of maintenance and repair depends on the terms of the contract.[75] In order to escape a statutory liability for failure to keep the crossing in repair, the railroad must show that it has in some lawful way been relieved of sary crossings mean way of necessity, not mere way of convenience.—McBurney v Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 136 So 796, 223 Ala. 390.

(3) Other statutes construed and applied see 51 C.J p 700 note 10 [a].

57. N.Y.—Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co, 63 N.Y. 58.
51 C.J p 701 note 11

58. N.Y—Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co, 36 N.E 877, 142 N.Y 173.
51 C.J. p 701 note 12.

59. Tex—Missouri, etc, R. Co. v. Chenault, 60 S.W 55, 24 Tex.Civ. App. 481.

60. Kan—Chamberlain v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 191 P. 261, 107 Kan 341, 12 A.L.R. 224.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co v. Rowland, 7 S.W. 718, 70 Tex. 298.

61. U.S—Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Holmberg, Neb., 51 S Ct. 56, 282 U.S. 162, 75 L.Ed. 270.

62. Va.—Adams v. Tidewater R. Co, 60 S.E. 129, 107 Va. 798.

63. Ky—Louisville, etc, R. Co v Robbins, 111 S.W. 283, 33 Ky.L 778.

64. N.H—Bolger v Boston, etc, R Co, 134 A 524, 82 N.H 372.

65. Miss—Alabama, etc., R. Co v Odeneal, 21 So. 52, 74 Miss. 824

66. Iowa—Livingston v. Iowa Midland R. Co, 35 Iowa 555

67. Mo—Birlew v. St. Louis, etc., R Co, 79 S.W. 490, 104 Mo.App. 561.

68. Miss—Eastman v. Sullivan, 95 So. 673, 131 Miss. 768—New Deemer Mfg Co v. Kilpatrick, 92 So. 71, 129 Miss. 268

69. Iowa—Swan v Burlington, etc, R Co., 34 N.W. 457, 72 Iowa 650.
51 C.J. p 701 note 23.

70. Ky—Forsythe v. Southern R Co, 113 S.W. 85.

71. Conn—New York, etc, R. Co v. Comstock, 22 A. 511, 60 Conn. 200.

72. Ky—Juett v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T P. Ry. Co, 53 S.W.2d 551, 245 Ky 379.
51 C.J. p 701 note 26.

73. Minn.—Johnson v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 104 N.W. 961, 96 Minn. 316.

74. N.J.—Hollinshead v. Atlantic City R. Co., 131 A. 915, 102 N.J. Law 303.

75. Minn—Walters v. Minneapolis, etc, R Co, 79 N.W. 516, 76 Minn. 506.
51 C.J. p 701 note 30.

Termination of contract

Contract of property owner with railroad to pay one-half cost of repairs of overpass terminated when railroad destroyed old bridge and built new one of greater size—Juett v. Cincinnati, N. O & T. P. Ry. Co., 53 S.W.2d 551, 245 Ky. 379.

Estoppel not shown

Property owner who originally agreed to share cost of repairs to overpass was held not estopped to deny liability for repairs on new bridge by failure to protest when railroad destroyed and rebuilt overpass or by recognizing contract obligation in his subsequent deed to another—Juett v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., supra.

responsibility by providing other proper and suitable crossings.[76]

d. Powers of Railroad Commission

The power of the railroad commission over private crossings depends on statutory provisions.

The statutes in some jurisdictions give the railroad commission no power over private crossings,[77] but in other jurisdictions the commission may by its order establish a private crossing[78] and may make orders as to continued maintenance, location, or arrangement of existing crossings, however they were established,[79] and by implication may discontinue them,[80] but the enforcement of rights is for the court.[81] Where one has a way of necessity, as discussed supra subdivision a of this section, a statute giving railroad commissioners power to require the railroad to maintain crossings is constitutional.[82] On appeal from an order of the commission the court will sustain the order if it is not improper.[83] A rehearing will ordinarily be granted if the findings of the commission are erroneous.[84]

§ 171. —— Character of Lands and Persons Entitled to Crossings

The character of the lands and the persons entitled to private or farm crossings may depend on statutory provisions.

Under some statutes the owner of land is entitled to a crossing even though the land is not inclosed,[85] but under other statutes the contrary is held;[86] and under some statutes a person owning land on only one side of the railroad is not entitled to a crossing.[87] Where the statute requires the construction of crossings for the use of the proprietors of the lands "adjoining" the railroad, its application is not limited to cases where the railroad divides a farm or tract of land or to conditions existing at the time of the original construction,[88] and under such a statute the landowner of land on one side only is entitled to a crossing in order to reach a highway,[89] or where, at the time of the construction of the railroad, he owned land on one side and subsequently purchases land on the other side,[90] or where he owns land on both sides of the railroad but there is a strip of land belonging to another intervening between the railroad and his land on one side,[91] and such a statute does not require that any particular quantity of land shall be benefited;[92] but where a landowner owns land on only one side of the railroad and a crossing would serve no useful purpose, the company will not be required to construct it;[93] and one whose property does not adjoin the right of way cannot compel the maintenance of a crossing[94] even though he acquires an easement over land which does adjoin.[95]

Under a statute requiring the construction of crossings for the use of the proprietors, the railroad owes no duty to a tenant by sufferance.[96] Where the statute requires crossings when a person owns land "on both sides of any railway," the term "railway" does not mean merely the right of way.[97]

76. Va.—Gaulding v. Virginian R. Co., 92 S.E. 832, 121 Va. 19.

77. Kan.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 158 P. 863, 98 Kan. 667.
51 C.J. p. 701 note 32.

78. N.H.—Bolger v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 134 A. 524, 82 N.H. 372.
51 C.J. p. 702 note 33.

79. N.H.—Bolger v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 702 note 34.

80. N.H.—Bolger v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.

81. N.H.—Bolger v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.

82. Mass.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Comrs., 38 N.E. 27, 162 Mass. 81.

83. N.H.—Bolger v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 134 A. 524, 82 N.H. 372.
51 C.J. p. 702 note 39.

84. N.H.—Bolger v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 702 note 40.

85. Miss.—Hardy v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 19 So. 661, 73 Miss. 719.

86. Tex.—Hines v. Baker, 248 S.W. 336, 112 Tex. 484.—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Millard, Civ. App., 181 S.W. 2d 842.

Transfer of land

One through whose farm a railroad company inclosed a right of way is entitled to have a farm crossing constructed, although, after construction of the railroad and fencing of the right of way, but before condemnation thereof, the owner deeded such inclosed strip to a third person.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Ford, Tex. Civ. App., 42 S.W. 589.—51 C.J. p. 702 note 50.

87. Ky.—Thompson v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 76 S.W. 44, 25 Ky.L. 529.
51 C.J. p. 702 note 43.

88. Mo.—Quantock v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 74 S.W. 1034, 117 Mo. App. 469, affirmed 94 S.W. 978, 197 Mo. 93.

89. N.Y.—Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 29 N.E. 121, 130 N.Y. 152.

Limitation

Statute requiring railroad to maintain farm crossing was never intended to give plaintiffs owning land only on one side of tracks right to access to lands of another on the opposite side.—Smith v. New York Cent. R. Co., 257 N.Y.S. 313, 235 App.Div. 262.

90. Mo.—Quantock v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 94 S.W. 978, 197 Mo. 93.
51 C.J. p. 702 note 46.

91. Ill.—Shea v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 95 N.E. 63, 250 Ill. 97.
51 C.J. p. 702 note 47.

92. N.Y.—Clarke v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 18 Barb. 350.

93. N.Y.—Kerr v. West Shore R. Co., 2 N.Y.S. 686, affirmed 53 Hun 634, 6 N.Y.S. 958, affirmed 27 N.E. 833, 127 N.Y. 269.

94. N.Y.—Smith v. New York Cent. R. Co., 257 N.Y.S. 313, 235 App. Div. 262.

95. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Malmgren, 224 Ill. App. 93.

96. Vt.—Marsh v. Rutland R. Co., 67 A. 1098, 80 Vt. 397.

97. Iowa.—Mattice v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 107 N.W. 949, 130 Iowa 749.
51 C.J. p. 702, note 52.

A statute requiring that when a person owns a certain amount of land in one body through which the railroad passes the railroad shall construct crossings applies only where the lands on each side are in one ownership at the time of the original construction,[98] and does not require the construction of additional crossings if the land is subsequently divided up into several tracts of over the amount specified,[99] although the contrary has also been held.[1]

A statute requiring "farm crossings" does not apply to residential property or to lots within city limits,[2] although the business conducted on such lots may necessitate crossing the railroad tracks in order to reach a street or alley.[3] A charter provision requiring a railroad company to provide proper crossings for persons through whose land the road passes imposes a continuing duty, and if at the time the road was constructed no crossing was necessary, but a crossing subsequently becomes necessary, it is the duty of the railroad company to construct it.[4] The statutes have been held not to apply unless the railroad enters the land of the owner seeking the crossing.[5] The fee owner of a right of way acquired by the railroad by an act of congress has no right to a private crossing.[6] Under a statute requiring a crossing where a railroad intersects land, if the parcel on one side is transferred, the grantee thereof is not entitled to a way across the railroad.[7] A railroad is not obliged to construct a crossing leading from a road into a private lane having no outlet.[8]

§ 172. —— Location, Number, and Purpose of Crossings

a. Location
b. Number
c. Purpose

a. Location

In the absence of a statute or agreement to the contrary, the railroad company may designate the location of the crossing, but where the statute authorizes the landowner to designate the place of crossing, the railroad company must construct it at the place designated if such location is a reasonable one.

In the location of the crossing the rights of both parties must be considered,[9] and whether the crossing is suitable and properly located is ordinarily a question of fact depending on the circumstances of the particular case.[10] In the absence of statute or agreement to the contrary, the railroad company may designate the location of the crossing,[11] but the landowner is entitled to be reasonably and fairly accommodated,[12] and the railroad company must consider his rights and cannot so locate the crossing as to subject him to needless and unreasonable injury or inconvenience.[13]

A landowner is not entitled to a crossing at a point where the safety of transportation would be endangered,[14] or at a point where the cost of construction would be out of all proportion to the benefits.[15] Where the statute authorizes the landowner to designate the place of crossing, the railroad company must construct it at the place designated if such location is a reasonable one;[16] but if the landowner refuses to designate the place of crossing, the railroad company may do so provided it furnishes an adequate crossing.[17]

Where the landowner is authorized to construct a crossing, on failure of the railroad to do so, and recover the cost from the railroad company, he must,

98. Ohio—Gratz v Lake Erie, etc., R. Co, 81 N.E. 239, 76 Ohio St 230

99. Ohio—Jones Fertilizing Co. v. Cleveland, etc, R Co, 2 Ohio S. & C. P. 511, 7 Ohio N.P 245

1. Ky—Louisville, etc, R Co v. Emerson, 100 S.W. 863, 125 Ky. 104, 30 Ky L. 1149
51 C.J. p 703 note 55

2. Iowa—Chicago, M, St. P & P R Co v Cross, 234 N.W. 569, 212 Iowa 218
N.Y.—Smith v. New York Cent. R. Co, 257 N.Y.S. 313, 235 App.Div 262.
51 C.J. p 703 note 58.
Purpose of crossing see infra § 172 c.

3. Ill.—Williams v. Chicago, etc., R Co, 81 N.E. 1133, 228 Ill. 593.

4. Md—Tolbert v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co, 95 A. 49, 126 Md. 569.
51 C.J. p 703 note 60.

5. Miss.—Jackson v St Louis, etc., R. Co, 81 So. 796, 120 Miss. 149—State R Commission v. Illinois Cent R Co., 73 So 878, 113 Miss. 92, L.R.A.1917D 907.

6. Colo—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Pacific Lumber Co., 278 P. 1022, 86 Colo 86

7. N.J—Marino v. New Jersey Cent. R Co., 56 A 306, 69 N.J.Law 628.

8. Tex—International, etc, R Co. v. Williams, Civ.App., 175 S.W. 486.

9. N.J.—W. A. Manda, Inc. v. Delaware, etc, R Co, 94 A. 637, 84 N.J.Eq 624.
51 C.J. p 703 note 65

10. N.Y.—Buffalo Stone, etc, Co. v Delaware, etc., R. Co., 7 N.Y.S. 604, affirmed 29 N.E 121, 130 N.Y. 152
51 C.J. p 703 note 66.

11. N.Y—Wademan v. Albany, etc, R Co., 51 N.Y. 568.
51 C.J. p 703 note 67.

12. N.Y.—Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190.

13. N.Y—Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R Co, 65 Hun 502, 20 N.Y.S. 458, affirmed 36 N.E. 877, 142 N.Y. 173.
51 C.J. p 703 note 69.

14. Tenn—Shipp v. Belt R Co, 180 S.W. 318, 133 Tenn 238
51 C.J. p 703 note 70.

15. Ill—Smith v. Bush, 211 Ill App. 83.
Tenn—Shipp v. Belt R. Co, 180 S. W. 318, 133 Tenn. 238.

16. Iowa.—Van Vranklin v Wisconsin, etc, R. Co, 27 N.W 761, 68 Iowa 576—Boggs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 6 N.W. 744, 54 Iowa 435.

17. Iowa.—Schrimper v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 82 N.W. 916, 87 N.W 731, 115 Iowa 35.

in locating the crossing, do so with due regard to the interest of the railroad company and the safety of the public[18] The fact that the landowner and the railroad cannot agree on the location does not relieve the railroad of its duties under the statute,[19] and in some jurisdictions the statutes provide that if the parties cannot agree as to the number and location of the crossings, these questions shall be determined by commissioners or some other tribunal designated for that purpose.[20]

b. Number

Where, by contract or covenant in the deed of right of way, the railroad agrees to construct several crossings, it must comply with its agreement, even though a statute requires only a single crossing. Where a statute requires only one crossing, the landowner is not entitled to more than one, but where a statute requires crossings or suitable, sufficient, or necessary crossings, the railroad company must construct whatever number is reasonably necessary.

Where, by contract or covenant in the deed of right of way, the railroad agrees to construct several crossings, it must comply with its agreement,[21] even though a statute requires only a single crossing[22] Where a statute requires only one crossing, the landowner is not entitled to more than one if a suitable crossing is provided,[23] but where it does not specify any number but merely requires crossings or suitable, sufficient, or necessary crossings, the railroad company must construct whatever number is reasonably necessary for the proper accommodation of the landowner,[24] which is ordinarily a question of fact depending on the circumstances of the particular case,[25] and if it be shown that the number originally constructed is not sufficient, the company may be compelled to construct additional crossings,[26] but it is not required to construct any more than are reasonably necessary;[27] nor has the landowner any right to construct additional crossings at other places at his own expense[28]

c. Purpose

In some jurisdictions the statutes requiring farm crossings are held not limited to crossings solely for agricultural purposes, but in other jurisdictions it is held that owners of land not used for agricultural purposes are not entitled to crossings.

In some jurisdictions the statutes requiring farm crossings are held not limited to crossings solely for agricultural purposes,[29] but include crossings to remove the natural products of the land[30] In other jurisdictions, however, it is held that owners of land not used for agricultural purposes are not entitled to crossings[31]

§ 173. —— Character and Sufficiency of Crossings

Where a railroad company is required to construct crossings, the crossing must be such as reasonably to meet the necessities and convenience of the land owner. It is competent for the railroad company and the landowner to agree as to the character of the crossing. If the statutes do not specify the character of the crossing, its character is to be determined on a proper consideration of all the interests involved.

Where a railroad company is required to construct crossings, the crossing must be such as reasonably to meet the necessities and convenience of the land owner.[32] It is competent for the railroad

18. Ill.—Chalcraft v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 113 Ill. 86.
51 C.J. p 703 note 74.

19. Del.—Richards v. Baltimore, etc, R Co., 143 A. 404, 4 W.W. Harr. 90.

20. Vt.—Connecticut, etc., R Co v Holton, 32 Vt 43.
51 C.J. p 703 note 76.

21. Iowa.—Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119.

22. Iowa.—Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co, supra.

23. Iowa.—State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co, 68 N.W. 819, 99 Iowa 565
Tex.—McDaniel v Burlington-Rock Island R. Co., Civ.App, 200 S W 2d 724.

24. Miss.—Alabama, etc, R. Co. v. Odeneal, 19 So. 202, 73 Miss. 34.
N.Y.—Jones v. Seligman, 81 N.Y 190.

25. N.Y.—Alabama, etc, R. Co v. Odeneal, 19 So 202, 73 Miss. 34.
51 C J p 704 note 81.

26. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Emerson, 100 S W 863, 30 Ky.L 1149.
51 C J. p 704 note 82

27. N.Y.—Van Kleeck v. Dutchess County R Co, 78 Hun 263, 28 N Y.S. 902.

28. Vt.—Connecticut, etc., R. Co v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

29. Pa.—Quigg v. Commonwealth, 54 Pa.Dist & Co 141, 61 Montg.Co. 189—Hespenheide v. King, 48 Pittsb Leg J. 242.
51 C J. p 704 note 85.
Working of land
(1) It may be that the use of the crossing is confined by the act to some purpose necessary to the working of the land, but that purpose need not necessarily be farming—Quigg v. Commonwealth, 54 Pa.Dist. & Co. 141, 61 Mont.Co. 189.

(2) Where the land was used as a golf course, the railroad was entitled to an injunction to restrain players from using a crossing in going from one part of the links to another, but the occupier of the land, in order to keep the links in proper condition by rolling and cutting the grass, had a right to take its rollers and mowing machines over the crossing.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Bala Golf Club, 16 Pa Dist 357.

30. N.Y.—Buffalo Stone, etc, Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co, 29 N.E 121, 130 N.Y. 152

31. Ill.—Williams v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 81 N E. 1133, 228 Ill 593
51 C.J. p 704 note 89
Statute requiring farm crossings as not applicable to residential property see supra § 171

32. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Troutman, 127 S W. 474, 137 Ky. 827.
51 C.J. p 704 note 91.
Sufficiency for mining equipment
Under statute, a railroad company is required to build a sufficient causeway to enable occupant to pass over with wagons, carts and implements of husbandry, but a railroad is not required to construct a cause-company and landowner to agree as to the character of the crossing,[33] if it is not such as to endanger the safety of the public,[34] and to provide whether it shall be at grade or otherwise.[35] If the statutes do not specify the character of crossing, its character is not to be determined solely with respect to the convenience of the landowner,[36] or the convenience of, or expense to, the railroad company,[37] but on a proper consideration of all the interests involved [38] In such cases the railroad company may decide the character of crossing, subject only to the limitation that it shall be suitable, sufficient, or adequate, within the meaning of the statutes,[39] which is ordinarily a question of fact to be determined with respect to the circumstances of the particular case,[40] and the landowner cannot demand as a matter of right either a grade crossing[41] or a crossing above or below grade.[42]

Grade crossings are the kind usually constructed and are ordinarily adequate;[43] but if owing to the location and conditions such a crossing is not adequate, the railroad company must provide an overcrossing or undercrossing,[44] although it involves considerable additional expense.[45] The statutes prohibiting grade crossings of highways do not apply to private ways,[46] but a statute abolishing private or farm grade crossings is a valid exercise of the police power of the state.[47] A statute requiring the railroad to construct farm crossings and cattle guards does not require construction of farm crossings which will need cattle guards.[48]

Open and closed crossings. The landowner and the railroad may agree on whether the crossing shall be open or provided with gates or bars.[49] Whether the crossing shall be an open one or may be constructed with gates or bars depends somewhat on the character of its use.[50] A closed crossing provided with suitable gates is not necessarily improper or inadequate,[51] and it has been held that such a crossing is sufficient as a means of affording access between adjacent fields or parts of a pasture,[52] but that, where the crossing is to afford access to a highway and is much used, the landowner is entitled to an open crossing unobstructed by gates,[53] unless the circumstances would render such a crossing dangerous to persons and property transported by the railroad.[54]

§ 174. —— Removal, Change, or Obstruction of Crossing

Where a landowner is entitled to the crossing and one has been constructed, the railroad company has no right to change or obstruct it.

Where a landowner is entitled to the crossing and one has been constructed, the railroad company has no right to change or obstruct it,[55] even though the obstruction of the crossing by the railroad company is created pursuant to an order of an administrative body,[56] and if it does so it may be required to restore the crossing or compensate the landowner way adequate for the passage of equipment necessary to mine and transport coal which is on the land, the owner's remedy for interference with mining and transporting his coal being through the jury of view appointed to determine general damages from construction of the railroad —Petition of Ferguson, 86 A. 73, 238 Pa. 78

33. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wynkoop, 85 P. 595, 73 Kan. 590. 51 C.J. p 704 note 92.

34. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Chenault, 60 S.W. 55, 24 Tex.Civ. App 481

35. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co v. Wynkoop, 85 P. 595, 73 Kan. 590.

36. Iowa.—Klopp v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 157 N.W. 230, 175 Iowa 534. 51 C.J. p 704 note 95.

37. Iowa.—Klopp v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra—Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 105 N.W. 436, 129 Iowa 507.

38. Iowa.—Truesdale v. Jensen, 59 N.W. 47, 91 Iowa 312. 51 C.J. p 705 note 97.

39. Iowa.—Guinn v. Iowa, etc., R. Co., 101 N.W. 94, 125 Iowa 301.

40. Iowa.—State v. Burlington, etc., R Co, 68 N.W. 819, 99 Iowa 565 51 C J. p 705 note 99.

41. Iowa.—Guinn v. Iowa, etc., R. Co., 101 N.W. 94, 125 Iowa 301.

42. Iowa —State v. Burlington, etc., R Co, 68 N.W. 819, 99 Iowa 565 51 C J. p 705 note 2

43. Iowa —Schrimper v. Chicago, etc, R Co., 82 N.W. 916, 87 N.W. 731, 115 Iowa 35. 51 C.J. p 705 note 3

44. Mo.—Powell v Atchison, etc., R Co., 114 S.W. 1067, 215 Mo. 339 51 C.J. p 705 note 4

45. Iowa.—Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 105 N.W. 436, 129 Iowa 507.

46. Ohio —Erie R. Co. v. S. H. Kleinman Realty Co., 110 N.E. 527, 92 Ohio St. 96.

47. Neb.—Holmberg v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 214 N.W. 746, 115 Neb. 727.

48. Vt.—Libby v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 73 A. 593, 82 Vt. 316.

49. N.H.—Peppin v. Boston & M. R. R., 169 A. 877, 86 N.H. 395. 51 C.J. p 705 note 9.

50. Iowa —State v. Burlington, etc, R. Co., 68 N.W. 819, 99 Iowa 565.

51. Miss —Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 25 So. 295, 76 Miss. 582. 51 C.J. p 705 note 11.

52. Iowa.—State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 68 N.W. 819, 99 Iowa 565. 51 C.J. p 705 note 12.

53. Iowa —Boggs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 6 N.W. 744, 54 Iowa 435— Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119.

54. Iowa —Truesdale v. Jensen, 59 N.W. 47, 91 Iowa 312.

55. Wis.—Henbest v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 207 N.W. 303, 189 Wis 141. 51 C.J p 705 note 15.

Expense of closing

If, in a proceeding for the elimination of public and grade crossings, it becomes necessary or expedient to close private crossings also, the expense of closing them must be borne by the railroad company and no part of it can be imposed on the municipal corporation.—In re New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 93 N.E. 515, 200 N.Y. 121.

56. Ariz —Curtis v. Southern Pac. Co., 8 P.2d 1078, 39 Ariz. 570.

in damages, as discussed infra § 182. It is held that the property owner has a vested right to the crossing,[57] and when a railroad, having agreed to maintain a crossing, constructs an open crossing, it cannot thereafter obstruct it with gates or bars;[58] and this is held where the railroad, having given a right of way deed over its tracks, allows an open crossing to be maintained for a long period of time;[59] and when a railroad, although not obliged to do so, constructs a crossing, it becomes the property of the landowner like any other fixture, so that it cannot be removed.[60] A landowner who is allowed the use of an archway under a track may go on the right of way to remove obstructions from the archway.[61] A crossing to which the landowner has no right, and has acquired none by prescription, may be closed by the railroad.[62] The landowner cannot require a change in the crossing constructed by the railroad under agreement with him unless changed conditions make the alteration necessary.[63] The landowner is, however, bound to anticipate such changes and alterations in the railroad as public necessity may require,[64] and the railroad company may, for the purpose of making such necessary alterations in its road, change the location of a crossing,[65] or change its character as from an under or overhead crossing to a grade crossing,[66] or place gates at an open crossing where its use as an open crossing has become dangerous to the operation of trains;[67] but where the only reason for changing the crossing is to save expense, safety of the public offers no excuse.[68] A railroad company may also change the location of a crossing where its existence at the original location interferes with the safe operation of the railroad.[69] However, the railroad company cannot, even where the changes are so made, deprive the landowner without compensation of the accommodation to which he is entitled,[70] and must provide such a crossing as he is entitled to or make compensation in damages,[71] although the changes are not made voluntarily by the railroad company but under the compulsion of a decree of court.[72] Where the contract of the railroad company to construct a crossing is so limited as not to include the approaches, if the grade of the crossing is subsequently changed the necessary alterations in the approaches must be made by the landowner.[73]

§ 175. —— Agreement with, or Waiver by, Landowner

The landowner may agree to the substitution of a new crossing at a different place for an old crossing to which he is entitled, and, where a railroad company is required by statute to construct crossings, this duty may be waived entirely by the landowner for whose benefit they are to be constructed.

The landowner may agree to the substitution of a new crossing at a different place for an old crossing to which he is entitled;[74] and, where a landowner expressly agrees to abandon an existing grade crossing in consideration of being allowed an overhead crossing, he cannot afterward use both.[75] So, also, where a railroad company is required by statute to construct crossings, this duty may be waived entirely by the landowner for whose benefit they are to be constructed;[76] but the right to a crossing or crossings of the number, location, and character to which he is entitled is not waived by the assessment and receipt of the damages in condemnation proceedings,[77] or by a conveyance of a right of way which makes no express provision as to crossings,[78] or by a right-of-way deed requiring the railroad to maintain cattle guards;[79] nor is an agree-

57. Pa.—Green v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 91 A. 248, 245 Pa. 35.

58. Mass.—Williams v. Clark, 5 N. E. 802, 140 Mass. 238.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Schawe, 55 S.W. 357, 22 Tex.Civ.App. 609

59. Mass.—Hamlin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 57 N.E. 1006, 176 Mass. 514.

60. N.H.—March v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 19 N.H. 372.

61. Iowa.—Hastings v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 126 N.W. 786, 148 Iowa 390

62. Ill.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Munsell, 61 N.E. 374, 192 Ill. 430

63. Neb.—Postle v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 152 N.W. 379, 98 Neb. 192.

64. N.J.—Speer v. Erie R. Co., 60 A. 197, 68 N.J.Eq. 615.
51 C.J. p. 706 note 24.

65. N.H.—Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 47 A. 265, 70 N.H. 403
51 C.J. p. 706 note 25.

66. Iowa.—Schrimper v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82 N.W. 916, 87 N.W. 731, 115 Iowa 35
51 C.J. p. 706 note 26.

67. Iowa.—Aistrope v. Tabor, etc., R. Co., 75 N.W. 334, 105 Iowa 463

68. Mo.—Swisher v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 138 S.W. 505, 235 Mo. 430.

69. Iowa.—Hartshorn v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 113 N.W. 840, 137 Iowa 324
N.H.—Bolger v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 134 A. 524, 82 N.H. 372.

70. N.J.—Speer v. Erie R. Co., 60 A. 197, 68 N.J.Eq. 615.
51 C.J. p. 706 note 30.

71. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, 98 S.W. 1042, 30 Ky.L. 426.
51 C.J. p. 706 note 31.

72. N.J.—Speer v. Erie R. Co., 60 A. 197, 68 N.J.Eq. 615.

73. Mass.—Williams v. Clark, 5 N. E. 802, 140 Mass. 238.
51 C.J. p. 706 note 33.

74. Mass.—Hamlin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 44 N.E. 444, 166 Mass. 462.
51 C.J. p. 706 note 35.

75. Pa.—Speese v. Schuylkill River East Side R. Co., 51 A. 316, 201 Pa. 568.

76. Md.—Tolbert v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 95 A. 49, 126 Md. 569
Mo.—Madison v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 60 Mo.App. 599.

77. N.Y.—Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 36 N.E. 877, 142 N.Y. 173.
51 C.J. p. 707 note 38.

78. Md.—Tolbert v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 95 A. 49, 126 Md. 569.
51 C.J. p. 707 note 39.

79. N.J.—Rockaway Rolling Mill

ment by a landowner to the construction of a public crossing on his land a waiver of his right to a private crossing to which he is entitled by statute;[80] but it has been held that conveyance of an additional strip of land along the right of way, without reserving a right to cross, estops the owner to claim a crossing.[81] Nonuser by the landowner may estop him to claim the right to a particular crossing.[82] Performance of the requirement of an agreement that stock gaps be constructed within a reasonable time is waived by the landowner thereafter urging performance and accepting it as satisfactory.[83]

§ 176. Fences and Cattle Guards

The duty to construct fences and cattle guards is discussed infra § 177, the time for construction infra § 178, and the places at which fences or cattle guards are required infra § 179. The nature and sufficiency of the fences and cattle guards are discussed infra § 180, and the effect of a waiver or an agreement with the adjoining landowner infra § 181.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

§ 177. —— Duty to Construct

In the absence of a statute or agreement, a railroad company is not obliged to fence its tracks or to construct cattle guards, but the railroad must erect or construct fences or cattle guards where its charter or a statute so provides.

In the absence of a statute or agreement, a railroad company is not obliged to fence its tracks[84] or to construct cattle guards,[85] and if it does so voluntarily, it is not obliged subsequently to maintain and keep them in repair,[86] although it has been held that, where it has done so for the prescriptive period, there is a conclusive presumption of an agreement binding the railroad to do so.[87] In the absence of a special statute or agreement, an adjoining landowner is not required to erect or assist in maintaining any part thereof,[88] nor has he any right to go on the railroad right of way and construct cattle guards for his own benefit where the road passes through his land.[89] Where a right of way is secured by expropriation, it is held that the railroad's duty to construct cattle guards results not from contract, but from law.[90]

The railroad must erect and maintain fences where its charter[91] or a statute[92] so provides. The legislature may, under the police power of the state, require railroad companies to fence their tracks or construct cattle guards,[93] or make the company liable without regard to negligence in the operation of trains in case of failure to do so.[94] Some of these statutes are not designed for, and have no

Corp. v Delaware, etc, R. Co, 137 A. 650, 101 N.J.Eq 192.

80. Iowa—Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 105 N.W 436, 129 Iowa 507.

81. Tenn—Shipp v. Belt R Co, 180 S.W. 318, 133 Tex. 238.
51 C.J. p 707 note 43.

82. Md—Cityco Realty Co. v. Philadelphia, etc, R. Co, 148 A. 441, 158 Md 221
51 C.J. p 707 note 44.

83. Ga.—Westmoreland v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 107 S.E. 891, 27 Ga App. 176.

84. La—Friedman's Estate v Texas & Pac Ry Co, 25 So 2d 88, 209 La. 540, 160 A.L.R 1228—Jackson v. Texas & Pac Ry. Co., 117 So 805, 166 La 718—Sanders v Illinois Central Railroad Co., 54 So 147, 127 La. 917—Moody v. Texas & P. Ry. Co, App., 37 So.2d 346—Smith v. Thompson, App, 185 So. 71—Davis v Louisiana Railway & Navigation Co., 127 So. 441, 13 La App 148
N.M.—Hittson v. Chicago, R I. & P Ry. Co, 86 P.2d 1037, 43 N M 122
Pa.—Malischewski v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 52 A.2d 215, 356 Pa. 554
51 C.J. p 707 note 47.

85. La.—Moody v. Texas P. Ry. Co, App, 37 So.2d 346.
51 C.J p 707 note 48.

86. La—Moody v. Texas & P. Ry Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 707 note 49.

87. Fla—McRae v. Atlanta & S A B. Ry. Co, 23 So 2d 76, 156 Fla. 200
N.J.—Titus v. Pennsylvania R Co, 92 A 944, 87 N.J.Law 157, Ann.Cas 1917B 1251

Commencement of prescriptive period

Where statute requiring fences inclosing railroads did not require railroad to build connecting fences where it entered or departed from inclosed farm land through which it passed, connecting fences constructed by railroad at such points were not constructed under statute and commencement of prescriptive period giving rise to right of landowner to continued maintenance of fences was not delayed until date when statute was held invalid.—McRae v. Atlanta & S A. B. Ry. Co, 23 So 2d 76, 156 Fla. 200.

88. Mass—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Briggs, 132 Mass. 24.
51 C.J. p 707 note 51.

89. Ill—Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Baugh, 14 Ill. 211.
51 C.J. p 707 note 52.

90. La—State v. Colorado Southern, etc, R. Co, 44 So. 905, 120 La 9.

91. Vt—Hurd v. Rutland, etc, R. Co., 25 Vt. 116.
51 C.J p 707 note 54.

92. Ohio—Davis v. Baltimore & O. R Co, 20 N.E.2d 381, 60 Ohio App. 245.
Utah—Wilde v. Union Pac. R. Co., 84 P.2d 1085, 96 Utah 164—Edwards v. Salt Lake & Utah R. Co, 261 P 445, 70 Utah 496.
51 C.J. p 707 note 55.

Damages not a penalty

In statute requiring railroad to fence track and erect farm crossings and cattle guards and imposing liability for "damages" in event of failure, word "damages" did not refer to a penalty.—Sycamore Preserve Works v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 1 N.E 2d 522, 284 Ill.App. 445, reversed on other grounds 7 N.E.2d 740, 366 Ill. 11, 111 A.L.R. 1133, conformed to 12 N.E.2d 42, 293 Ill.App. 20.

93. Okl.—Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. v. Stephens, 16 P 2d 117, 160 Okl. 143—St. Louis & S F. R. Co v. Williams, 122 P. 152, 31 Okl. 450.
51 C.J. p 708 note 56.

94. Wis—Quackenbush v Wisconsin, etc., R Co, 22 N.W. 519, 62 Wis. 411, 37 N.W 834, 71 Wis. 472.
51 C.J. p 708 note 57.

application to, the protection of the lands or property of the adjoining landowner, but are designed solely for the public safety, the protection of the railroad company and its freight and passengers, or to prevent animals from coming on the track and being injured.[95]

There are, however, in a number of jurisdictions, statutory provisions which are designed for, or the application of which includes, the protection of the lands, stock, and crops of adjacent landowners, and which require the railroad company to construct fences and cattle guards.[96] The statutes apply whether the railroad company acquires its right of way by purchase or condemnation,[97] and whether it has merely an easement or an absolute title,[98] and whether the road was chartered before or after its passage,[99] but the requirement does not apply if, in the assessment of damages in condemnation proceedings, the landowner received compensation for such fences as the statute requires.[1] The obligation, being purely statutory, comes into existence, is modified, or goes out of existence by the enactment, change, or repeal of the statutes,[2] and its nature and extent are determined by the provisions of the statute.[3]

These statutes are generally strictly construed,[4] although it has been held that, being remedial, they should receive a liberal construction.[5] A statute with respect to fencing will not be construed as repealing a former statute on the same subject or affecting the duties and liabilities imposed thereby if the two are not inconsistent and can stand together;[6] but a statute requiring in general terms that all railroad companies shall fence their tracks and construct cattle guards will be construed as repealing a former statute under which such duties were dependent on the action of the county commissioners in prescribing rules for their construction.[7] The duty to fence may be implied from statutes making railroads liable for injuries to animals where their tracks are not fenced,[8] or permitting adjoining owners, after notice to the company, to construct fences on its failure to do so, and to recover from the company the expenses of such construction.[9]

Cattle guards. The railroad must construct cattle guards when the statute or charter expressly requires it.[10] Without an express cattle guard provision, it is held that the duty exists by implication whenever a statute requires the erection and maintenance of fences.[11] If the statute requires the railroad company to fence its right of way through certain lands, it is not sufficient merely to construct cattle guards where the road enters and leaves such lands[12] or to keep a watchman on guard at such places;[13] and, conversely, if the statute requires the construction of cattle guards where the road passes through a field or inclosure, it is not sufficient to fence the right of way through such land.[14]

Repair. It is the duty of the company to keep fences and cattle guards, erected pursuant to statute, in a proper state of repair.[15]

95. Okl.—Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. v Stephens, 16 P.2d 117, 160 Okl. 143—St. Louis & S F R Co v. Williams, 122 P. 152, 31 Okl 450
51 C J. p 708 note 59.

96. Tenn—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Timmons, 91 S.W. 1116, 116 Tenn. 29
Tex.—Southwestern Tel., etc., Co v. Krause, Civ.App., 92 S W. 431

97. Tex—Missouri, etc., R Co v. Wetz, 80 S W. 988, 97 Tex 581
51 C.J. p 708 note 61.

98. Ark.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. Fitzhugh, 100 S.W. 1149, 82 Ark. 179.
Kan—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v Manson, 2 P. 800, 31 Kan. 337.

99. Ill.—Illinois Cent R. Co v Willenborg, 7 N E 698, 117 Ill. 203, 57 Am R. 862.
Me.—Wilder v. Maine Cent R. Co., 65 Me. 332, 20 Am R 698

1. Ky.—Hanger v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 236 S W. 568, 193 Ky. 419.
Pa.—Welles v. Northern Cent R. Co., 25 A. 51, 150 Pa. 620.

2. Wash—Huffman v. Oregon R., etc., Co, 107 P. 362, 57 Wash. 494.
51 C J p 709 note 65.

3. Ky—Crawford v. Southern R Co., 156 S.W. 861, 153 Ky. 812, 150 S W. 990, 150 Ky. 741.
51 C.J. p 709 note 66.

Acquisition of right of way prior to enactment

Where railroad right of way was donated by landowner prior to the enactment of a valid statute requiring railroad company to do all fencing and maintenance along right of way at its own cost, railroad was not required to repair and maintain the fencing along railroad right of way. —Southern Ry. Co. in Kentucky v. Dawson, 138 S.W.2d 326, 282 Ky. 198
51 C.J. p 709 note 66 [b] (6).

4. Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Carroll, 50 So. 235, 163 Ala. 84.
51 C.J p 709 note 67.

5. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co v. Miller, 90 N.E 907, 45 Ind.App. 366.
51 C.J. p 709 note 68.

6. Ind—Jeffersonville, etc., R. Co. v. Dunlap, 13 N E 403, 112 Ind 93.
51 C J. p 709 note 69.

7. Minn—Gowan v. St. Paul, etc., R Co, 25 Minn 328

8. Tenn—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Gillespie, 172 S W 2d 1015, 26 Tenn App. 390.
51 C J p 709 note 71.

9. N.H—Cornwall v. Sullivan R Co, 28 N H 161.

10. Ky—Lexington, etc., R. Co v. Russell, 197 S W. 523, 177 Ky. 79
51 C J. p 709 note 73.

11. Idaho—Patrie v Oregon Short-Line R Co., 56 P. 82, 6 Idaho 448.
51 C J p 710 note 74.

12. Mo—Shotwell v. St. Joseph, etc, R Co, 37 Mo.App. 654.

13. Mo—Shotwell v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., supra.

14. Tex—Missouri, etc., R. Co v Wetz, 80 S.W. 988, 97 Tex. 581

15. Ga—Elberton & E R. Co. v Campbell, 167 S E. 215, 46 Ga App. 203.
51 C.J. p 710 note 78.

Order by railroad commissions. Statutes in some jurisdictions empower the railroad commission to order fences and cattle guards[16] Such statutes have been held not to empower the commission to require cattle guards at crossings regardless of conditions thereat.[17] The commission should determine the kind of guards necessary to make the crossing safe.[18]

Electric railroads. Electric railroads have been held to be within the terms of statutes requiring fences and cattle guards.[19]

Statutes requiring demand or notice. Notice, or demand for construction, is in some jurisdictions required by statute before the railroad has the duty to do so[20] The notice or demand must comply with the statutory requirements.[21] Such a statute is not a penal statute requiring strict construction[22] While notice or demand, under such statutes, is necessary to secure the erection of cattle guards,[23] under some statutes no further demand is necessary to make it the duty of the railroad to repair.[24] Demand need not be made on the special agent who is authorized by the railroad to construct the guards[25] Where the railroad and landowner agree as to construction of fences, no demand is necessary.[26]

Application and effect of fence or stock laws. Railroad fences are not regarded as partition fences between adjoining landowners, to be constructed and maintained under the terms of the partition fence laws,[27] and the statutes relating to the construction and maintenance of partition fences are ordinarily held not to apply as between railroad companies and the owners of lands adjacent to the railroad right of way,[28] although a distinction has been made between cases where the railroad company has a mere easement and where it owns its right of way absolutely.[29] So, also, the existence of a stock law in a particular locality prohibiting stock from running at large does not affect the statutory duty of a railroad company to construct fences and cattle guards,[30] although it has been held that in such a locality stock gaps and cattle guards are unnecessary.[31]

§ 178. —— Time for Construction

The time for construction of fences or cattle guards depends on statutory provisions or on the provisions of the contract imposing the duty to construct.

In some jurisdictions the statutes require the construction of fences and cattle guards within a certain specified time,[32] and statutes requiring fencing within a certain time after the road is open for use have been held to mean after the railroad begins to run its trains.[33] Where the statutes require fencing but do not specify the time for their construction, the obligation is concurrent with the existence of the necessity for the protection which the requirement is designed to afford,[34] which necessity arises as soon as the railroad has opened up its right of way through the fences and inclosures of the lands through which it passes.[35]

The fences required should be constructed at least by the time the railroad is put in operation,[36] and while it cannot be said as a matter of law that the railroad company must construct them before this time,[37] it is not as a matter of law entitled to wait

Reasonable care
Railroad must exercise reasonable care in maintenance of its fences — Hildebrand v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 17 P.2d 651, 45 Wyo. 175.

16. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 166 N.W. 237, 40 S.D. 84.
51 C.J. p. 710 note 79.

17. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

18. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

19. Mo.—Morrison v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 145 S.W. 137, 162 Mo. App. 662.

20. Iowa.—Rutherford v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 121 N.W. 703, 142 Iowa 744.
51 C.J. p. 710 note 85.

21. Ala.—Alabama, etc., R. Corp. v. Norwood, etc., Farm, etc., Co., 92 So. 199, 18 Ala. App. 337.
51 C.J. p. 710 note 86.

22. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Steele, 133 P. 209, 37 Okl. 536.

23. Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Carroll, 50 So. 235, 163 Ala. 84—Alabama, etc., R. Corp. v. Norwood, etc., Farm, etc., Co., 92 So. 199, 18 Ala. App. 337

24. Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Carroll, 50 So. 235, 163 Ala. 84—Atlanta, etc., Air Line R. Co. v. Brown, 48 So. 73, 158 Ala. 607.

25. Ala.—Atlanta, etc., Air Line R. Co. v. Brown, supra.

26. Kan.—Stanley v. Atchison, etc., Co., 127 P. 620, 88 Kan. 84.
51 C.J. p. 710 note 91.

27. Minn.—Smith v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 33 N.W. 316, 37 Minn. 103.
Mo.—Busby v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 81 Mo. 43.

28. U.S.—Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., C.C.Tenn., 4 F. 862.
51 C.J. p. 710 note 93.

29. N.H.—Dean v. Sullivan R. Co., 22 N.H. 316.
51 C.J. p. 711 note 94.

30. N.C.—Shepard v. Suffolk, etc., R. Co., 53 S.E. 137, 140 N.C. 391.

Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Steele, 133 P. 209, 37 Okl. 536.

31. Miss.—Canton, etc., R. Co. v. French, 23 So. 357, 75 Miss. 939

32. Ill.—Sycamore Preserve Works v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 1 N.E. 2d 522, 284 Ill. App. 445, reversed on other grounds 7 N.E.2d 740, 366 Ill. 11, 111 A.L.R. 1133, conformed to 12 N.E.2d 42, 293 Ill.App. 20.
51 C.J. p. 711 note 98.

33. Ill.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 74 N.E. 1063, 216 Ill. 339.
51 C.J. p. 711 note 98.

34. Mo.—Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am.R. 118.
51 C.J. p. 711 note 99.

35. Mo.—Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 711 note 1.

36. Mo.—Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512.
51 C.J. p. 711 note 2.

37. Mo.—Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 711 note 3.

until such time,[38] or until the road is so far completed as to enable it to transport materials thereon from a distance,[39] and where during the process of construction the railroad company makes openings through the fences of a landowner, if it does not then construct its fences it must adopt other measures to protect the landowner and prevent the escape of his stock and prevent other stock from trespassing on his lands.[40]

Where the duty of fencing is imposed by a contract which does not specify the time for their construction, fences must be constructed within a reasonable time.[41] An agreement to fence within a reasonable time "after the completion" of the railroad will be construed as referring to the completion of the part running through the lands agreed to be fenced, and not to the completion of the entire road, where the completed parts of the road are being operated in advance of the completion of the whole.[42]

§ 179. —— At What Places Required

Under a statutory duty to fence, the places where fences are required depend on such statutory provisions, and a railroad is not required to fence places which are expressly excepted from the operation of the statute. Where the statute expressly designates the points at which cattle guards shall be constructed, it must be complied with.

Under a statutory duty to fence, the places where fences are required depend on such statutory provisions,[43] and a railroad is not required to fence places which are expressly excepted from the operation of the statute.[44] Statutes in some jurisdictions require railroads to fence their roads when they pass through, along, or adjoining inclosed or cultivated lands.[45] Such statutes have been held not to require fences in municipalities[46] or where the road runs through a narrow cañon where there are no cultivated lands,[47] but the fact that the road is double-tracked does not excuse the company from its duty, under the statute, to fence its tracks between proper station limits.[48]

A statute requiring the railroad company to fence where its road passes through inclosed lands applies although the fence inclosing such lands is not strictly a lawful fence,[49] unless the statute expressly requires that it shall be a lawful fence,[50] but the lands must be inclosed.[51] A statute requiring a railroad to fence its right of way where it passes through privately owned and improved lands imposes no duty on the railroad to fence where the right of way is along side of, but not through or over, lands which were or had been privately owned.[52]

Both sides of road. Where the statute requires a railroad company to fence on both sides of its road, it has reference to the sides of the right of way and not merely the track,[53] and the fence must be constructed on the outer edge of the right of way along the line where it meets the lands of the adjoining owner.[54] Under such a statute, it is not necessary to fence between two parallel rail-

38. Mich.—Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 47 Am.D. 722.
51 C.J. p 711 note 4

39. Mo.—Gordon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Mo.App. 201.

40. Mich.—Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 74 Am.D. 722.
51 C.J. p 711 note 7

41. Mass.—Lawton v. Fitchburg R. Co., 8 Cush. 230, 54 Am.D. 753.
51 C.J. p 711 note 8.

42. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. McClellan, 59 Ind. 440

43. Fla.—McRae v. Atlanta & S. A. B. Ry. Co., 23 So.2d 76, 156 Fla. 200.
Particular places where fence of cattle guard required or not required as affecting liability for injury to animals see infra §§ 569–574.

44. Property within corporate limits of city
Ill.—Mitchell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 51 N.E.2d 271, 384 Ill. 258, 149 A.L.R. 369.

45. Idaho.—Bernardi v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 542, 18 Idaho 76, 27 L.R.A.,N.S., 796.
51 C.J. p 711 note 11.

46. Idaho.—Bernardi v. Northern Pac. R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 711 note 12.

47. Idaho.—Bernardi v. Northern Pac. R. Co., supra

48. Mo.—Bridges v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 141 S.W. 440, 159 Mo.App. 577.

49. Mo.—Biggerstaff v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 567.

50. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Youngstrom, 27 P. 982, 47 Kan. 349.

51. Ind.—Akers v. Louisville, etc., Tract. Co., 127 N.E. 297, 73 Ind.App. 290.
Inclosure completed by railroad fence
Under statute providing that any person, owning land by or through which railroad has been or may be constructed, who has inclosed or may inclose such land or any part thereof with either a lawful or hog-tight fence, may demand of railroad that it inclose its line next thereto with lawful or hog-tight fence, landowner cannot compel railroad to build hog-tight right of way fence until railroad's fence with landowner's fence will complete hog-tight inclosure.—Samuelson v. Union Pac. R. Co., 18 P.2d 122, 136 Kan. 831.

52. Utah.—Wilde v. Union Pac. R. Co., 84 P.2d 1085, 96 Utah 164.
The phrase "passes through" as used in statute requiring railroad to fence right of way where it passes through privately owned and improved lands may mean more than dividing lands privately owned so that the same owner will have lands on both sides of right of way, and may apply where railroad is laid out along the dividing line between two owners or where it takes a strip of privately owned land along one side and where the other side abuts on publicly owned lands.—Wilde v. Union Pac. R. Co., supra

53. Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 13 N.E. 236, 121 Ill. 483.

54. Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, supra.
51 C.J. p 712 note 18.

roads whose exterior lines of their rights of way were properly fenced [55]

Track on bridge or trestle. Statutes requiring railroad companies to fence their tracks for the benefit of adjoining landowners apply although the road is constructed on a bridge or trestle, if there are openings through which stock could pass under the track from one side of the road to the other [56]

Highway crossing. A railroad is not required to fence its right of way across a highway, whether the highway is de facto or de jure a public way.[57]

Cattle guards. Where the statute expressly designates the points at which cattle guards shall be constructed, it must be complied with,[58] and if they cannot be located at the exact point required, they must be located as near thereto as practicable,[59] but the railroad is obliged to construct cattle guards only at the points designated by statute.[60] Where the statute requires cattle guards where a road passes through inclosed lands, it does not apply unless the lands are inclosed,[61] and if inclosed the inclosure must be a substantial one with a fence which will turn stock so as to make the cattle guards of some practical benefit;[62] but if the fence is reasonably sufficient for this purpose, it need not be a strictly lawful fence.[63] The owner of inclosed land has an unconditional right to a cattle guard.[64]

Under a statute requiring construction of cattle guards at terminal points of fences which are required by law, a railroad cannot be compelled to construct cattle guards except where fences may be required,[65] or until such fencing is erected.[66] A statute requiring cattle guards where the road enters or leaves inclosed lands applies to a town lot as well as lands in the country;[67] and a statute requiring cattle guards where the road enters or leaves any improved or fenced land applies to lands fenced or improved after the construction of the railroad as well as before,[68] and is not limited to division fences between different owners but applies to fences dividing the land of the same owner;[69] but if cattle guards are constructed where the road enters or leaves a large inclosure, it is not necessary to construct others between the different parcels of land into which it is divided if there are no fences between such parcels,[70] or to construct other cattle guards at a private crossing within such inclosure.[71]

A statute requiring cattle guards where the road enters the inclosure of a private owner does not apply where it runs between the lands of different owners without severing the lands of either;[72] and, where the statute requires the construction of suitable cattle guards, they need not be constructed at a private crossing where there is no dividing fence and the railroad company has fenced its track and provided gates;[73] and, where the statute requires cattle guards on the dividing line between adjoining owners "when necessary to protect such lands," it is not necessary to construct them if the lands are not inclosed.[74] A statute requiring cattle guards where a railroad crosses the line of any fence is not limited to fences existing at the time the road was built, but applies to those constructed at any time thereafter.[75] It does not apply when the land on which the fences stand is owned by the railroad in fee.[76]

A statute requiring cattle guards at road crossings applies to streets in municipalities as well as to country highways,[77] and the fact that inconven-

55. Ind.—Pickett v Toledo, etc, R. Co., 111 N.E 434, 61 Ind App. 26.

56. Mo.—Baker v Chicago, etc, R. Co, 41 Mo.App. 260

57. Mo.—Walker v Southwest Missouri R. Co, Mo.App, 198 S W. 441.

58. Tex.—Southwestern Tel., etc, Co v. Krause, Civ.App., 92 S.W 431.

59. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Manson, 2 P 800, 31 Kan. 337.
51 C.J. p 712 note 24.

60. Ky.—Mansfield v. Frankfort, etc., R Co, 234 S.W. 956, 193 Ky 95
51 C J p 712 note 25.

61. Miss.—Yazoo, etc, R. Co. v Sallis, 42 So. 202, 89 Miss. 636
51 C J. p 712 note 26.

62. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Sallis, supra.

Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 91 S W 1116, 116 Tenn 29.

63. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co v. Warner, 109 S W 1013, 86 Ark. 46—St. Louis, etc, R Co. v. Hale, 100 S W. 1148, 82 Ark 175.

64. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern R Co v Warner, 109 S W. 1013, 86 Ark 46.
51 C J p 712 note 29.

65. Ky.—Parrish v. Louisville, etc., R Co, 104 S W. 690, 126 Ky. 638, 31 Ky L. 1020, 78 S.W. 186, 25 Ky. L 1524.

66. Ky.—Parrish v. Louisville, etc, R Co, supra.

67. N C.—Shepard v. Suffolk, etc., R Co., 53 S E 137, 140 N C. 391.

68. Iowa.—Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 16 N.W. 525, 61 Iowa 467.

Kan.—Atchison, etc, R. Co v. Billings, 52 P. 61, 7 Kan App. 399

69. Iowa.—Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 38 Iowa 518.

70. Miss.—Gibbons v. Yazoo, etc, R. Co, 33 So. 5

71. Miss.—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v Ellis, 38 So 210, 85 Miss. 586.

72. Tex.—Gulf, etc, R. Co v London, 3 Tex.A Civ.Cas § 426

73. W Va.—Clarke v. Ohio River R. Co, 20 S E 696, 39 W.Va. 732.

74. Ga.—Alabama Great Southern R Co. v. Fowler, 30 S E 242, 104 Ga. 148.

75. S.C.—Burnett v. Southern R Co, 40 S E 679, 62 S C. 281.

76. S.C.—Anderson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 37 S.E. 944, 59 S C. 350.

77. N.Y.—Brace v. New York Cent. R. Co, 27 N.Y. 269.

ience would result to the railroad does not relieve them from compliance,[78] but such a statute does not require cattle guards at farm crossings.[79] When the statute requires cattle guards at highway crossings whenever the railroad right of way is fenced, the railroad must construct them whether its fencing was voluntary or required by law.[80]

Depot grounds. Fences and cattle guards are not required at depot grounds,[81] but a passing track has been held not to have such connection with a station as to be within the rule.[82] Under a statute expressly excepting depots from fencing, it is not necessary that the railroad maintain a building and a station agent at the point which it leaves unfenced as a depot.[83]

Intersecting railroads. An intersection of two railroads has been held not to be a public road crossing requiring construction of fences,[84] but it has been held that a statute requiring fences except at public crossings, and cattle guards at such crossings, requires a railroad to construct cattle guards connecting with its fences at an intersection with another railroad.[85]

§ 180. —— Nature and Sufficiency

Where a statute does not specifically describe the character of fence to be constructed, it must be reasonably sufficient to turn all kinds of domestic animals, and the cattle guards must also be such as are reasonably sufficient to prevent ingress or egress of stock.

Where a statute does not specifically describe the character of fence to be constructed, it must be reasonably sufficient to turn all kinds of domestic animals.[86] Gates of an efficiency corresponding to the statutory fencing requirements must be maintained by the railroad at private crossings.[87] The cattle guards must also be such as are reasonably sufficient to prevent ingress or egress of stock,[88] but the railroad company is not obliged to make them absolutely impassable for stock,[89] and they are sufficient if as well adapted for this purpose as it is practicable to make them with due regard to the safety of the roadbed and the operation of trains thereon.[90] The type of cattle guard should be that which is best calculated to keep out stock and at the same time be reasonably preservative of the safety of public travel.[91]

A cattle guard which is dangerous to stock attempting to pass over it is not for that reason negligently constructed.[92] The term "cattle guard" has no precise signification,[93] but the requirement contemplates a protection of the entire right of way against the passage of stock to and from adjoining lands;[94] so that the mere construction of a pit under the track is not sufficient,[95] but the cattle guards must, by means of wing fences or otherwise, be extended across the right of way to the adjoining lands,[96] the adjoining landowner not being required to extend his fences across the right of way to the track,[97] and in fact having no right to do so;[98] but they need not be extended across vacant lands owned by the railroad adjacent to its right of way.[99]

§ 181. —— Waiver or Agreement of Adjoining Landowner

The construction of fences and cattle guards, although required by statute, may be waived by an adjoining landowner, or he may agree with the company that he will himself construct and maintain them.

78. N Y—Tracy v Troy, etc., R. Co., 38 N.Y. 433, 98 Am D 54.

79. N.Y—Cross v New York Cent., etc, R Co, 123 N.Y.S 908
51 C J. p 713 note 45.

80. Idaho—Strong v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 169 P 179, 31 Idaho 48.

81. Iowa.—Chicago, etc, R Co v. Hanken, 118 N.W 527, 140 Iowa 372, 19 L.R.A ,N.S, 216.
51 C J. p 713 note 47

82. Mo.—Bridges v. Missouri, etc, R Co, 112 S W. 37, 132 Mo App. 576.

83. Mo.—Hay v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 142 S W. 468, 161 Mo App. 1—Welch v. St. Louis, etc, R. Co., 109 S.W. 1074, 131 Mo.App. 464.

84. Utah—Edwards v. Salt Lake, etc, R. Co, 261 P. 445, 70 Utah 496.

85. Ill—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Davidson, 125 Ill App. 420, affirmed 80 N E. 250, 225 Ill. 618.

86. Me—Cotton v. Wiscasset, etc, R Co., 57 A. 785, 98 Me. 511.
51 C J p 713 note 53.

87. Iowa—Claus v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 111 N W. 15, 136 Iowa 7.

88. Ky—Nashville, etc., R. Co. v Russell, 110 S.W. 317, 129 Ky. 14, 33 Ky L. 447.
51 C.J. p 713 note 55

89. Ky.—Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Russell, supra.
51 C J. p 713 note 56.

90. Ark—Choctaw, etc., R Co v. Vosburg, 72 S W. 574, 71 Ark 232—Choctaw, etc., R Co. v. Goset, 68 S W. 879, 70 Ark. 427.

91. Miss—Yazoo, etc, R. Co v. Harrington, 37 So. 1016, 85 Miss. 366.
51 C.J p 713 note 58.

92. Ala.—Davis v. Lawler, 96 So. 256, 209 Ala. 314—Carrollton Short Line R. Co v. Lipsey, 43 So. 836, 150 Ala 570

93. Iowa—Heskett v Wabash, etc, R. Co, 16 N W 525, 61 Iowa 467.

94. Ga—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Dawkins, 85 S E. 343, 143 Ga. 415.
51 C J p 713 note 62.

95. Kan—Missouri Pac R Co v. Manson, 2 P 800, 31 Kan 337.
51 C J. p 713 note 63.

96. Tenn—Louisville, etc., R. Co v. Timmons, 91 S.W. 1116, 116 Tenn. 29.
51 C J. p 713 note 64.

97. Ga.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Dawkins, 85 S.E. 343, 143 Ga. 415.
Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Morrow, 4 P. 87, 32 Kan 217.

98. Iowa.—Heskett v Wabash, etc, R. Co, 16 N W. 525, 61 Iowa 467.

99. Miss—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v. Allen, 110 So 844, 145 Miss. 415.

The construction of fences and cattle guards, although required by statute, may be waived by an adjoining landowner,[1] or he may agree with the company that he will himself construct and maintain them.[2] Such a contract is not invalid for want of consideration,[3] or for being contrary to public policy,[4] or because it is not in writing.[5] However, if it contains a clause by which the railroad company seeks to exempt itself from liability to the landowner for its negligence in operating its trains, it is against public policy and void.[6]

A landowner does not waive his rights to fences under the statute by failing to demand from the railroad a compliance with the law,[7] or by the railroad's neglect to perform its duty for a period of time equaling the prescriptive term,[8] or by a release in the grant of a right of way of all damages and claims "occasioned by the location, construction and operation" of the road over the premises conveyed,[9] or by a release of liability for damages resulting from "the location or construction of said work, or the repairing thereof,"[10] or by a stipulation in the grant of right of way that the railroad should construct wagon crossings at certain points over its tracks,[11] or by contracting to build the fence as agent of the railroad.[12]

§ 182. Actions and Proceedings to Enforce Rights

The statutes in many jurisdictions provide a remedy for the landowner on failure of the railroad to perform its duties relative to private or farm crossings, and where the statute provides the method of enforcement of this duty the statutory method must be followed; but the remedy given by statute will not be held to be exclusive unless the language of the statute so requires. Where a railroad company fails to construct or maintain fences or cattle guards as required by statute, the landowner may sue for damages, but he is not limited to such remedy and may sue to compel the railroad company specifically to perform its duty.

The statutes in many jurisdictions provide a remedy for the landowner on failure of the railroad to perform its duties relative to private or farm crossings,[13] and where the statute provides the method of enforcement of this duty the statutory method must be followed;[14] but a remedy given by statute will not be held to be exclusive unless the language of the statute so requires.[15] Where a railroad company is required to construct private or farm crossings, the landowner may recover damages for the loss or inconvenience sustained by reason of its failure to do so,[16] and damages may also be recovered for injuries sustained in the use of the crossing due to its negligent or improper construction or condition.[17]

The railroad company may be compelled by mandamus to construct crossings, as discussed in Mandamus § 231 d (2) (b), or such duty may be enforced by a suit in equity,[18] or the railroad commissioners may take cognizance of the matter and make an order which may be enforced by the court,[19] unless the statute provides a purely personal right enforceable only by the landowner.[20] Where the landowner is entitled to a crossing and one has been constructed, he may sue to enjoin the railroad company from removing, closing, or obstructing it,[21] or, if the company has already done so,

1. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 91 S.W. 1116, 116 Tenn. 29
51 C.J. p. 714 note 68.

2. Ill.—Lynch v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 88 N.E. 1034, 240 Ill. 567.
51 C.J. p. 714 note 69

3. Tenn.—Buford v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 240 S.W. 759, 146 Tenn. 262.

4. Tenn.—Buford v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

5. N.Y.—Talmadge v. Rensselaer, etc., R. Co., 13 Barb. 493.

6. Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Hammond, 99 So. 73, 19 Ala. App. 515, certiorari denied Ex parte Georgia Cent. R. Co., 99 So. 74, 210 Ala. App. 687.
Contract releasing railroad from liability for injury to property by negligent operation generally see infra § 481.

7. Mo.—Parks v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 20 Mo. App. 440.

8. Mo.—Parks v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., supra.

9. Mo.—Stoutimore v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. App. 257, 259.

10. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Crossley, 36 Ind. 370, 374.

11. Or.—Dibblee v. Astoria, etc., R. Co., 111 P. 242, 112 P. 416, 57 Or. 428.

12. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Swearingen, 33 Ill. 289.
51 C.J. p. 714 note 79.

13. Va.—Goulding v. Virginian R. Co., 92 S.E. 832, 121 Va. 19.
51 C.J. p. 714 note 81.

14. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eichman, 47 Ill. App. 156.
51 C.J. p. 715 note 82.

15. Iowa.—Swinney v. Chicago, 98 N.W. 635, 123 Iowa 219.
51 C.J. p. 715 note 83

16. Mo.—Price v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 113 S.W. 1136, 133 Mo. App. 653
51 C.J. p. 715 note 84.

17. N.Y.—Cotton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N.Y.S. 347, 65 Hun 625—Prince v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 14 N.Y.S. 817, 60 Hun 581.

18. Ill.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 75 N.E. 523, 217 Ill. 462
51 C.J. p. 715 note 91.

19. Iowa.—State v. Mason, etc., R. Co., 52 N.W. 490, 85 Iowa 516.
51 C.J. p. 715 note 92.
Limitation
Statute providing that one whose land is cut off by railroad may secure right to cross on application to county commissioners or to department of public utilities, applies only where owner has right to cross or to where he has received no compensation.—Cooley v. Boston & M. R. R., 21 N.E.2d 953, 303 Mass. 371, 122 A.L.R. 1166.

20. Miss.—State R. Commission v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 73 So. 878, 113 Miss. 92, L.R.A.1917D 907.
51 C.J. p. 715 note 93.

21. Conn.—New London v. New it may be compelled to restore it by a suit in equity.[22] Likewise, he may recover damages resulting from obstruction or removal of an existing crossing to which he is entitled[23] or from delay in constructing a new crossing made necessary by the alteration of the railroad,[24] but not for damages suffered by obstruction by reason of the proper operation of the road.[25]

While the court may compel a railroad company specifically to perform its duty with respect to the construction and maintenance of crossings,[26] and will do so where the conditions authorizing such a decree are present and other remedies are inadequate,[27] such a decree ordinarily is discretionary with the court, and in many cases may properly be denied and plaintiff left to his action for damages,[28] especially where the acts of the landowner raise an estoppel barring such relief,[29] whether the duty is imposed by statute[30] or by agreement.[31] If a landowner is using a crossing which he has no right to use, the railroad company may sue to enjoin him from so doing[32] or maintain an action of trespass for the wrongful entry upon its property.[33] A disputed right to an easement over a railroad is determinable at law.[34] On failure to agree on the location of a crossing, the landowner's remedy is not an action for damages, but an appeal to a court of equity to fix the location,[35] and where a court decree provides for a crossing at a point to be selected by the landowner, in the absence of proof that the landowner or his heirs ever selected such point or called on the railroad company to construct such crossing, the railroad company is not liable for failure to maintain the crossing.[36]

Fences and cattle guards. Where a railroad company fails to construct or maintain fences or cattle guards as required by statute, the landowner may sue for damages,[37] but he is not limited to such remedy and may sue to compel the railroad company specifically to perform its duty,[38] and a performance of such duty may be enforced by mandamus, as discussed in Mandamus § 231 d (2) (b), or mandatory injunction.[39] In some jurisdictions the landowner is authorized to construct them himself and recover from the railroad company, as discussed infra § 184. Where the duty is imposed by contract, the landowner may sue for damages for breach of the contract,[40] in equity for specific performance thereof,[41] unless specific performance would work hardship on the railroad without any benefit to the landowner.[42] Ejectment is not a proper remedy where the landowner permits the railroad company to enter upon his land and construct its road without objection, and the agreement to fence is a condition subsequent and not precedent.[43]

On breach of a contract to construct fences the landowner may recover as damages the reasonable cost of their construction without first constructing them;[44] and, where there has been a breach of the contract and an action instituted, the railroad company cannot defeat plaintiff's right to recover by subsequently constructing the fences unless it is done with plaintiff's consent[45] or he accepts what is done as a partial or complete discharge of the agreement.[46] If the covenant was to construct at such places as the landowner may designate, no right of action accrues until the designation has been made.[47] The landowner may waive his right to York, etc., R Co, 84 A. 114, 85 Conn 595.

51 C J. p 715 note 94.

22. Ky—Louisville, etc, R Co v Brooks, 77 S W. 693, 25 Ky.L. 1307
51 C J. p 715 note 96.

23. Pa.—Dubbs v. Philadelphia, etc., R Co., 23 A 883, 148 Pa. 66.
51 C.J. p 715 note 97.

24. N.H—Costello v. Grand Trunk R Co, 47 A. 265, 70 N H. 403.

25. Cal.—Matoza v. Southern Pac Co, 211 P. 252, 59 Cal App. 636.
51 C J p 716 note 99.

26. Ill.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v Brubaker, 75 N.E. 523, 217 Ill. 462.
51 C.J p 716 note 1.

27. Ill—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v Brubaker, supra.
Ky.—Louisville, etc, R. Co v. Brooks, 77 S.W. 693, 25 Ky.L. 1307

28. Me—Goding v. Bangor, etc, R Co., 48 A. 114, 94 Me 542.
51 C.J. p 716 note 3.

29. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v Smith, 78 S W. 160, 117 Ky. 364, 25 Ky L 1459.

30. N Y—Clarke v Rochester, etc, R. Co, 18 Barb 350

31. N.J—Speer v Erie R. Co., 60 A 197, 68 N.J Eq 615.
51 C J. p 716 note 5.

32. Conn—New York, etc, R. Co. v Comstock, 22 A. 511, 60 Conn 200.

33. Vt.—Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

34. N.J—Rockaway Rolling Mill Corp v Delaware, etc, R Co., 137 A. 650, 101 N.J.Eq 192

35. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Herringer, 164 S W. 948, 153 Ky. 267.

36. Ky—Buck Creek R. Co. v Haws, 94 S W.2d 980, 264 Ky. 436.

37. Minn.—Gould v. Great Northern R. Co, 65 N W. 125, 63 Minn. 37, 56 Am.S.R. 453, 30 L R.A. 590.
51 C J. p 716 note 10.

38. N Y.—Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y 190.

39. Kan—Atchison, etc, R Co v. Billings, 93 P 590, 77 Kan 119.

40. Cal—Taylor v. Northern Pac. Coast R Co, 56 Cal 317.
51 C J p 716 note 15.

41. Mo—Baker v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 57 Mo 265.

42. W Va.—Johnson v Ohio River R Co., 56 S E. 200, 61 W.Va 141

43. Mo—Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 57 Mo. 265.

44. Cal—Taylor v. Northern Pac. Coast R. Co, 56 Cal. 317.
Ind—Logansport, etc., R. Co. v. Wray, 52 Ind 578.

45. Ind—Indiana, etc, R Co. v. Adams, 14 N E. 80, 112 Ind 302.
Mass.—Lawton v. Fitchburg R Co, 8 Cush 230, 54 Am D. 753.

46. Ind—Indiana, etc, R Co. v. Adams, 14 N E. 80, 112 Ind. 302.

47. W.Va.—Johnson v. Ohio River R. Co., 56 S E 200, 61 W.Va. 141.

damages for failure to construct by agreeing, for a consideration, to build the fences and cattle guards himself.[48] Under some statutes it has been held that the proper action is not for negligently failing to erect a cattle guard, but an action for damages for failure to comply with the statute[49] or an action for the penalty prescribed by the statute.[50]

Persons entitled to sue and parties. An action to compel a railroad company to construct crossings can be maintained only by a person who is entitled to the benefit of the statute.[51] A tenant of a landowner cannot maintain the action,[52] and only those interested in the subject matter of the litigation are necessary parties.[53] In order to recover damages one must show that he has a right to a crossing from his own lands without having to pass over lands of others over which he has no right of way.[54] An action for damages for breach of contract to construct crossings forming a part of the consideration of a grant of a right of way may be maintained by the grantor after he has conveyed his remaining land in fee.[55]

Pleading. The rules of pleading requiring the complaint, petition, or declaration to set out all the facts necessary to state a cause of action apply to actions for the recovery of damages for failure of a railroad to perform its duty to construct private crossings or fences and cattle guards.[56] In an action for damages for failure to construct crossings, the complaint must show such an estate or interest in plaintiff as imposes a duty to him on the part of defendant to construct them.[57] Where the action is brought under a statute, a declaration substantially in the terms of the statute may state a cause of action.[58] In an action to compel the construction of a fence required by statute, it is not necessary for the complaint to negative any exceptions in the statute imposing such duty.[59] Where the statute requires notice to repair as a condition precedent to an action under the statute, a complaint, in order to state a cause of action, must allege the giving of the required notice.[60]

Evidence. The general rule that the burden of proof rests on the party who has the affirmative of the issue applies in actions to require construction of private or farm crossings.[61] Likewise, the general rules of admissibility apply,[62] and so with the rules as to the weight and sufficiency of the evidence.[63]

Trial. Ordinarily it is a question of fact for the jury or the court trying the case without a jury whether, under the circumstances of the particular case, crossings which the railroad company has provided are suitable and sufficient,[64] properly located,[65] and of sufficient number,[66] or, where the statute requires crossings for "necessary plantation roads," whether a particular road is necessary.[67] It is also a question of fact for the jury whether a cattle guard constructed is reasonably sufficient to turn stock;[68] and, in an action for failure to maintain a fence which the railroad company has removed, if it is contended that the action is barred by the statute of limitations, but the evidence as to the time of removal is conflicting, this question should be submitted to the jury.[69] The amount of damages recoverable for failure to construct a crossing is for the jury to determine under the evi-

48. Mo.—Porter v Illinois Southern R Co., 117 S W. 680, 137 Mo App. 233

49. Ala.—Alabama, etc., R Corp. v Norwood, etc, Farm, etc, Co., 92 So. 199, 18 Ala App. 337

50. Ala.—Alabama, etc., R Corp. v Norwood, etc., Farm, etc, Co, supra.
Actions to recover penalties see infra § 183 b.

51. Ala.—Georgia Cent. R. Co v Sturgis, 43 So 96, 149 Ala. 573
51 C J. p 717 note 26.

52. Ga.—Louisville. etc., R. Co. v. Nanny, 73 S E. 1052, 137 Ga. 607.
51 C.J. p 717 note 27.

53. Ill.—Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v Hobbie, 61 Ill App. 396.
51 C.J. p 717 note 28

54. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc, R. Co. v. Patton, 143 S W. 25, 146 Ky 656.

55. Ky.—Cincinnati Southern R. Co v Hudson, 11 S W. 509, 88 Ky. 480, 10 Ky.L. 1043.

56. Kan.—Breitenbach v. Anthony, etc, R. Co, 193 P. 312, 107 Kan 564.
51 C.J. p 717 note 32.

57. Vt.—Marsh v Rutland R. Co, 67 A 1098, 80 Vt. 397.

58. Va.—Gaulding v. Virginian R Co, 92 S E 832, 121 Va. 19.
51 C.J. p 717 note 34.

59. Ky.—Steadd v. Southern R Co, 58 S.W 581, 109 Ky 214, 22 Ky. L 713.

60. Ark.—Hester v Chicago, etc, R. Co., 222 S W 356, 144 Ark. 340.

61. Tex.—Texas & N. O R. Co. v. Millard, Civ.App, 181 S.W.2d 842.
51 C J. p 717 note 38.

62. Iowa.—Hemphill v Cedar Rapids, etc, R, etc., Co., 151 N W. 449, 169 Iowa 498.
51 C.J. p 718 note 39.

63. Evidence held sufficient
Va.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Black, 8 S E.2d 291, 175 Va. 256.
51 C J p 718 note 40 [a].
Evidence held insufficient
N H.—Farwell v. Boston, etc, R Co., 56 A. 751, 72 N.H 335.
51 C J. p 718 note 40 [b].

64. Tex.—Kendall v. Chicago, etc, R Co, Civ App, 95 S W. 757
51 C J. p 718 note 41

65. N.Y.—Jones v. Seligman, 81 N Y. 190—Buffalo Stone, etc., Co v Delaware, etc., R. Co, 7 N Y.S 604, affirmed 29 N E 121, 130 N.Y 152.

66. Miss.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 19 So. 202, 73 Miss. 34.
N.Y.—Jones v. Seligman, 81 N.Y. 190.

67. Miss.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 19 So 202, 73 Miss. 34.

68. Ark.—Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Goset, 68 S W. 879, 70 Ark. 427.

69. Iowa.—Hunter v. Burlington, etc, R. Co., 91 N W. 305, 76 Iowa 490.

dence.[70] As in other civil actions, the jury must be properly instructed.[71]

Review Under a statute providing for the establishment of crossings, the trial court is the final arbiter of the propriety of directing the crossing to be constructed and its judgment, unless contrary to law, should be affirmed.[72] When the sufficiency of the findings of a commission is not questioned on appeal, the absence of formal findings is not prejudicial.[73] The order will not be set aside when not an abuse of discretion.[74]

Damages. For breach of a statutory duty with respect to fences, cattle guards, etc., the railroad, where liable in damages, is, as in other cases, liable for the natural and direct or proximate consequences of the wrongful act or omission.[75] The measure of damages for breach of a contract on the part of a railroad company to construct fences, cattle guards, or crossings is not the difference in the value of the land with or without such improvements,[76] but is what it would reasonably cost to construct them.[77] Plaintiff is not, however, limited in his recovery to the cost of construction,[78] but he may also recover damages for the inconvenience which he has already sustained[79] and special damages occasioned by the failure of the railroad company to construct or maintain the fences, etc., such as for injuries to stock, crops, or pastures.[80] The measure of damages for the necessary destruction of a crossing in changing the grade of the railroad tracks depends on the character and use of the crossing.[81]

Contract to build and maintain. The measure of damages in an action for breach of the agreement, where a railroad company agrees to build and maintain a fence through a farm and only builds the fence, is the annual cost of keeping the fence in repair.[82]

§ 183. Penalty for Failure to Construct Crossings, Fences, or Cattle Guards

a. In general
b. Actions to recover penalties

a. In General

In many jurisdictions, by statute, a penalty may be recovered by a person interested on failure of a railroad to construct crossings, fences, or cattle guards when it passes through private lands. Such statutes, being penal, are to be strictly construed.

In order to compel a railroad to perform its duties relative to fences, the legislature may impose a penalty on it for its failure to do so;[83] and in many jurisdictions, by statute, a penalty may be recovered by a person interested on failure of a railroad to construct crossings, fences, or cattle guards when it passes through private lands.[84] These statutes, being penal, are to be strictly construed.[85] The statutes have been held to apply to a failure to repair as well as to a failure to construct.[86] Although a statute provides a penalty for failure to construct private crossings, and also for failure to construct cattle guards, where the crossing and the cattle guards are within the one inclosure only one penalty can be recovered.[87] The liability of the railroad does not depend on whether the "party interested" has suffered any damage.[88] The penalty may be recovered as often as the railroad fails to perform its duties,[89] but after judg-

70. Del.—Richards v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 143 A. 404, 4 W.W. Harr. 90

71. Mo.—Deal v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 129 S.W. 50, 144 Mo.App. 684. 51 C.J. p. 718 note 49.

72. Va.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Black, 8 S.E.2d 291, 175 Va. 256.

Weight attached to action of trial court

On appeal from judgment establishing wagonway across railroad track, action of trial court, which had advantage of seeing and hearing witnesses and of examining maps and estimates filed, in resolving all conflicts in evidence in favor of plaintiff is entitled to great weight. —Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Black, supra.

73. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 171 N.W. 760, 41 S.D. 535.

74. S.D.—Dwyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

75. Tex.—Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Isaacs, 49 S.W. 690, 20 Tex.Civ.App. 466. 51 C.J. p. 718 note 54.

76. Ky.—Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 11 S.W. 509, 88 Ky. 480, 10 Ky.L. 1043. 51 C.J. p. 719 note 55.

77. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 21 N.E. 751, 119 Ind. 269 51 C.J. p. 719 note 56.

78. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 5 N.E. 404, 106 Ind. 55, 55 Am.R. 719.

79. Ky.—Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 11 S.W. 509, 88 Ky. 480, 10 Ky.L. 1043.

80. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 21 N.E. 751, 119 Ind. 269. 51 C.J. p. 719 note 59.

81. N.J.—Speer v. Erie R. Co., 65 A. 1024, 72 N.J.Eq. 411.

82. Pa.—Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 101 Pa. 555.

83. Idaho.—Hindman v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 178 P. 837, 32 Idaho 133 51 C.J. p. 719 note 62.

84. Tex.—Bennett v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 146 S.W. 353. 51 C.J. p. 719 note 63.

85. Ala.—McBurney v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 136 So. 796, 223 Ala. 390—Atlanta & St. Andrews Bay R. R. Co. v. Fowler, 68 So. 283, 192 Ala. 373. 51 C.J. p. 719 note 64.

86. Ark.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. State, 121 S.W. 930, 92 Ark. 1

87. Miss.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 17 So. 168, 72 Miss. 491.

88. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Greer, 119 S.W. 1121, 90 Ark. 531 51 C.J. p. 719 note 68.

89. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fitzhugh, 104 S.W. 175, 83 Ark. 481. Miss.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 17 So. 168, 72 Miss. 491.

ment for a penalty the company is allowed a reasonable time before it is guilty of a further violation of its statutory duty.[90]

Notice to construct or repair. Under some of the statutes notice to the railroad to construct or repair is necessary to the recovery of the penalty.[91] Where no provision is made for service of notice, service on a station agent is sufficient.[92] However, where the notice must be served on an agent or officer of the railroad, service on a chief clerk in the office of a station agent is not service on an agent within the meaning of the statute.[93] Notice by one other than the owner of the land is not sufficient,[94] although an owner may authorize a tenant to give notice in the owner's name.[95]

Waiver. While it is said that a landowner may waive his right to recover a penalty for failure to construct stock guards by agreeing to accept a fence in lieu thereof,[96] when notice is given to construct stock guards before the railroad constructs the fence there is no waiver.[97]

b. Actions to Recover Penalties

Where no statutory provision is made as to the mode of recovery of the penalty, the common-law action of debt is the proper form of action. The statute can be invoked only by those whose lands are entered by the railroad, and the declaration, petition, or complaint must allege such facts as bring it within the law.

Although the mode of recovery of the penalty is frequently provided by statute, where no statutory provision is made the common-law action of debt is the proper form of action,[98] and not an action on the case.[99] The statutory penalty and also actual damages may be recovered in the same action [1] Under some of the statutes, however, it has been held that the right to recover the penalty prescribed is an exclusive remedy, and that the amount of the penalty is intended as full compensation for the injury received, so that no action for damages can be maintained.[2]

Persons entitled to sue and parties. The statute can be invoked only by those whose lands are entered by the railroad,[3] and cannot be invoked by one who owns land within the inclosure of a stock-law district when the railroad does not enter his land.[4] The fact that the crossing was from land owned in fee to land used by plaintiff as a tenant does not affect his right to the penalty.[5] A tenant or lessee may sue for the penalty,[6] although a tenant is not a necessary party to a suit by the landowner for a penalty.[7]

Pleading. In order to recover a penalty provided by statute, the declaration, petition, or complaint must allege such facts as bring it within the law.[8]

Evidence. The general rules applicable in civil actions as to the admissibility and weight and sufficiency of evidence apply in actions to recover penalties.[9] Evidence that the landowner took the proper steps to require construction of cattle guards should not be excluded.[10] Evidence of the value of stock injured by a defective cattle guard is admissible to enable the jury to determine the amount of the penalty.[11] In the absence of statute to the contrary, the return of a constable is not sufficient proof of service of the notice.[12]

Trial. Whether a crossing is convenient and suitable within the meaning of a statute providing a penalty for failure to construct a suitable crossing is a question of fact for the jury.[13] As in civil ac-

90. Miss.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 21 So. 52, 74 Miss. 827.
51 C.J. p 719 note 70

91. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hood, 55 S.W. 134, 67 Ark. 357.
51 C.J. p 719 note 71.

92. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hale, 100 S.W. 1148, 82 Ark. 175.

93. Ga.—Smith v. Southern R. Co., 63 S.E. 801, 132 Ga. 57.

94. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 106 S.W. 600, 84 Ark. 14.

95. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, supra.

96. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Crossen, 147 S.W. 48, 103 Ark. 613.

97. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Crossen, supra.

98. Va.—Russell v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 25 S.E. 99, 93 Va. 322.

99. Va.—Russell v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

1. Miss.—Sardis, etc., R. Co. v. Gordon, 57 So. 219, 100 Miss. 786—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 17 So. 168, 72 Miss. 491.

2. Ark.—Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburg, 72 S.W. 574, 71 Ark. 232.
51 C.J. p 720 note 82.

3. Miss.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 110 So. 844, 145 Miss. 415.
51 C.J. p 720 note 83.

4. Miss.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 18 So. 684, 73 Miss. 397.

5. Miss.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 17 So. 168, 72 Miss. 491.

6. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 28 So. 826.
51 C.J. p 720 note 86.

7. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Crossen, 147 S.W. 48, 103 Ark. 613.

8. Ga.—Gill v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 102 S.E. 457, 24 Ga.App. 780.
51 C.J. p 720 note 88.

9. Ala.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Fowler, 68 So. 283, 192 Ala. 373.
51 C.J. p 720 note 91.

Crossing not required

Evidence warranted finding, in action to recover penalty from railroad, that crossing which railroad failed to provide was not necessary for proper use of land.—McBurney v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 136 So. 796, 223 Ala. 390.

10. Va.—Russell v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 25 S.E. 99, 93 Va. 322.

11. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Busick, 86 S.W. 674, 74 Ark. 588.

12. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Mendenhall, 71 S.W. 269, 71 Ark. 133.
51 C.J. p 720 note 94.

13. Miss.—Sardis, etc., R. Co. v. Gordon, 57 So. 219, 100 Miss. 786.

tions generally, proper instructions should be given to the jury.[14] An instruction which is substantially in the language of the statute is good[15]

§ 184. Construction by Landowner and Recovery from Railroad Company

a. In general
b. Notice to railroad company
c. Character and location of work done by landowner
d. Actions for recovery

a. In General

Under statutes in some jurisdictions, if the railroad company fails or refuses to construct the fences, cattle guards, or farm crossings required, the landowner may do so and recover therefor from the railroad company.

In some jurisdictions the statutes provide that, if the railroad company fails or refuses to construct the fences required, the landowner may do so and recover therefor from the railroad company,[16] and there are similar provisions with respect to cattle guards and farm crossings[17] The statutes authorizing construction by the landowner and a recovery from the railroad company ordinarily are of a penal character,[18] and plaintiff must bring himself clearly within their provisions.[19] The statutes also authorize the making of necessary repairs by the landowner, and if the railroad company constructs a fence, and it is not such as the law requires, the landowner may make it sufficient,[20] or if the railroad company undertakes to repair the fence, and does not repair it properly, the landowner may make such further repairs as are necessary,[21] or if the fence is permitted to become so defective that it cannot be repaired the landowner may build a new fence and recover therefor.[22]

The fact that the landowner's other fences are out of repair does not affect his right to repair a fence along the right of way and recover therefor on failure of the railroad company, after notice, to do so.[23] The statutes in some cases authorize a recovery of double the value[24] or the recovery of attorney's fees.[25] The landowner cannot recover compensation for any fencing which it was not the duty of the railroad company to provide,[26] as where his lands were not inclosed by a lawful fence and the statute only requires the company to fence its track in such cases;[27] and, if the statute allows a certain period after the road is completed before any liability for failure to fence will attach, the landowner cannot fence and recover therefor before the expiration of this period.[28]

Also there can be no recovery under the statute for a fence constructed by the landowner where the cost of such fencing as the statute requires was included in his assessment of damages in the condemnation proceedings[29] or the landowner agreed to construct them and received compensation therefor;[30] but a personal contract on the part of the landowner to construct fences will not prevent his grantee who takes without notice of the contract from fencing and recovering therefor from the railroad company.[31]

Itemized statement. Some statutes require that after the construction or repairs the landowner shall furnish the railroad company an itemized statement of the expense a certain number of days before suit.[32]

Receivership. Where the statute provides that on failure of the railroad company to fence its road the adjoining landowner may do so and recover double the cost of the fencing, an action for such recovery may be maintained against the company, although the road is in the hands of a receiver.[33]

14. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R Co. v. Greer, 119 S.W. 1121, 90 Ark 531.
51 C.J. p 720 note 97

15. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Greer, supra.

16. Ill.—Indiana, etc., R. Co. v Sampson, 31 Ill.App. 513.
51 C.J. p 721 note 99.

17. Ind.—Indiana Union Tract Co v. Seisler, 106 N.E 911, 108 N.E 44, 58 Ind.App. 507.
51 C.J. p 721 note 2.

18. Ill.—Wabash, etc, R. Co. v Zeigler, 108 Ill 304.
51 C.J. p 723 note 39.

19. Ill.—Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Zeigler, supra
51 C.J. p 723 note 40.

20. Ill.—Lake Erie, etc, R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill.App. 144—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v. Croy, 71 N.E 671, 33 Ind App. 461.

21. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v Irons, 78 N.E. 207, 38 Ind App. 196.

22. Ind.—Terre Haute, etc, R. Co v. Erdel, 71 N.E 960, 163 Ind. 348.
51 C.J. p 721 note 6.

23. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Fetters, 82 N.E. 978, 40 Ind.App. 615.

24. Ill.—Lake Erie, etc, R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill.App. 144.
51 C J. p 721 note 8.

25. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stephens, 78 N.E. 1055, 39 Ind.App. 11.
51 C.J. p 721 note 9.

26. Mo.—Sharp v. Quincy, etc., R. Co, 123 S.W. 507, 139 Mo.App. 525.
51 C.J. p 721 note 10.

27. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co v Youngstrom, 27 P. 982, 47 Kan 349.

28. Mo.—McNear v. Wabash R. Co, 42 Mo App 14.

29. Pa.—Welles v Northern Cent. R. Co., 25 A. 51, 150 Pa. 620.

30. Ohio.—Warner v. Baltimore, etc, R. Co., 31 Ohio St 265

31. Ohio.—Pittsburg, etc, R Co. v. Bosworth, 18 N.E. 533, 46 Ohio St. 81, 2 L.R.A. 199.

32. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Croy, 71 N.E 671, 33 Ind.App. 461.
51 C.J. p 721 note 16.

33. Ill.—Ohio, etc, R Co v. Russell, 3 N.E. 561, 115 Ill. 52.
51 C.J. p 721 note 17.

Damages for failure to construct Although there is some authority to the contrary,[34] it is generally held that statutes providing that on failure of the railroad company to construct or repair fences the landowner may do so and recover the value thereof from the railroad company impose no duty on the landowner to do so,[35] but are merely permissive, affording a cumulative remedy,[36] and do not affect his right to recover damages sustained by reason of the failure of the railroad company to construct or repair them,[37] and the same rule applies to similar statutes relating to farm crossings,[38] but in an action for damages sustained plaintiff cannot also recover the cost of future construction which at the time of the action he has not performed.[39]

b. Notice to Railroad Company

Ordinarily the statutes require the landowner before proceeding to construct or repair fences or cattle guards to give notice to the railroad company, and, unless it has been waived, a compliance with this requirement is essential to a recovery.

Ordinarily the statutes require the landowner before proceeding to construct or repair fences or cattle guards to give notice to the railroad company,[40] and, unless it has been waived,[41] a compliance with this requirement is essential to a recovery;[42] but if the landowner has given notice of an intention to repair fences, and it is found that they are too defective to be repaired, he may proceed to construct new ones.[43] If the statute does not provide within what time after notice the landowner shall construct or repair the fence, a delay, if not prejudicial to the rights of the railroad company, will not affect his right to recover.[44]

c. Character and Location of Work Done by Landowner

Where a landowner constructs a fence on failure of the railroad company to do so, he must, in order to recover therefor, construct such a fence as the railroad company is required to construct, and must also locate the fence where the railroad company is required to locate it.

Where a landowner constructs a fence on failure of the railroad company to do so, he must, in order to recover therefor, construct such a fence as the railroad company is required to construct;[45] but he is not obliged to construct the cheapest kind of fence which will satisfy the requirement.[46] So also he need not fence both sides of the track, although the railroad company is required to do so,[47] or build the entire fence which he has notified the company to build, before he can recover for the part completed.[48] The landowner, in order to recover, must also locate the fence where the railroad company is required to locate it,[49] which, if the statute requires the company to fence on the sides of the road, means along the dividing line between the right of way and adjacent lands;[50] but a slight mislocation, while not concluding the railroad company as a boundary line,[51] will not defeat the landowner's right to recover the cost of constructing the fence.[52] The landowner has no right to set the fence back on the right of way so as to deprive the railroad company of any part thereof,[53] but if the railroad company itself voluntarily locates the fence away from this line on its right of way and fails to keep it in repair the landowner may repair it where located and recover therefor.[54]

d. Actions for Recovery

Under the statutes authorizing construction of fences,

34. Ohio—Millhouse v Chicago, etc., R. Co, 7 Ohio Cir Ct. 466, 4 Ohio Cir.Dec 682.

35. Ohio—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 38 Ohio St. 410.

36. Tex—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Knoepfli, 17 S W. 1052, 82 Tex 270
51 C J p 721 note 20.

37. Tex.—San Antonio, etc, R Co v. Knoepfli, supra.
51 C J. p 722 note 21—1 C.J. p 992 note 11 [a] (3).

38. Mo.—Sheridan v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 56 Mo.App. 68.
N.J—Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N.J.Law 486.

39. Ill.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v Campbell, 109 Ill.App. 125.

40. Ill.—Shea v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co, 95 N E 63, 250 Ill. 97.
51 C.J. p 722 note 24.

41. Ky.—Pitman v. Louisville, etc, R. Co, 104 S W. 693, 31 Ky.L 988

42. Ind—Chicago, etc., R Co. v. Abbott, 37 N E 557, 10 Ind.App 99.
Ky—Pitman v. Louisville, etc, R. Co., 104 S W. 693, 31 Ky.L. 988.

43. Ind.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Erdel, 71 N.E. 960, 162 Ind. 348
—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v Salmon, 73 N.E. 268, 34 Ind.App. 564.

44. Ind—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co v Barhart, 73 N E. 711, 35 Ind.App. 56.
51 C.J. p 722 note 28.

45. Neb.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 70 N W 261, 50 Neb. 640.
51 C.J. p 722 note 29.

46. Ind.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Salisbury, 77 N.E. 1097, 38 Ind.App. 100.
51 C.J. p 722 note 30.

47. Mo.—Fletcher v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co, 73 Mo. 142.
51 C.J. p 722 note 31.

48. Ill—Toledo, etc, R. Co. v. Sieberns, 63 Ill 217.
51 C.J. p 722 note 32.

49. Ind.—Wabash, etc, R Co. v. Zeigler, 108 Ill. 304—Evansville, etc., R. Co v. Huffman, 70 N.E 173, 32 Ind.App. 425

50. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R Co. v Wood, 66 N E. 923, 30 Ind.App. 650.
51 C.J. p 722 note 34

51. Ind.—Vandalia R Co. v. Seltenright, 82 N E 980, 40 Ind App. 659.

52. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Seltenright, supra.
51 C J. p 722 note 36.

53. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stephens, 78 N.E. 1055, 39 Ind.App. 11.
51 C.J. p 723 note 37.

54. Ill.—Lake Erie, etc, R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill.App 144.

etc., by the landowner and a recovery from the railroad company, the plaintiff must allege in the complaint, and on the trial establish by proof, every fact essential to a recovery.

Under the statutes authorizing construction of fences, etc., by the landowner and a recovery from the railroad company, plaintiff must allege in the complaint every fact essential to a recovery,[55] and so must allege that the road was not properly fenced at the time the notice was given,[56] that it had been constructed for such length of time as to make it the duty of the railroad company to fence,[57] that a proper notice to the railroad company was given,[58] and that the landowner constructed a fence of such character and at such place as the law required,[59] stating its cost,[60] and, where such fact is material, the date of its completion.[61] So it has been held necessary, where the statute excepts certain places from the duty of fencing, to negative such exceptions in the complaint.[62] It is not necessary, however, to file with, or embody in, the complaint the notice to the railroad company[63] or the itemized statement of the landowner's expenses which the statute requires to be furnished to the railroad company.[64]

Proof. Plaintiff must also establish by proof every fact essential to a recovery,[65] and must therefore show that the road had been completed for such time as to make it the duty of the railroad company to fence at the time the notice was given,[66] that his lands were inclosed by a lawful fence where the statute only requires the company to fence its tracks in such cases,[67] that a proper notice to the railroad company was given,[68] and that plaintiff constructed such a fence at such place as the law required.[69] Plaintiff's ownership of the land is sufficiently shown by proof that he and his grantees had been in possession for many years claiming to own it, without producing the title papers, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary.[70]

Basis of recovery. Where the statute allows a recovery of the value or double the value of the fence or repairs, the reasonable value and not the actual cost is the basis of calculation for the amount recoverable,[71] although the cost is evidence of the value.[72]

F. WATERS AND WATERCOURSES

§ 185. Right and Duty to Construct Railroad over or near Waters and Watercourses

Legislative authority is necessary to authorize a railroad company to construct its road and build bridges across an artificial watercourse and over nonnavigable waters.

While legislative authority is necessary, the legislature may, by express or implied provisions of statute, authorize a railroad company to construct its road and build bridges across an artificial watercourse such as a canal.[73] The construction of railroads over nonnavigable waters likewise requires legislative authority,[74] and such authority may be expressly conferred by statute,[75] or such authority

55. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 70 N.E. 173, 32 Ind.App. 425
51 C.J. p 723 note 41.
56. Ind.—Midland R. Co. v. Gascho, 34 N.E. 643, 7 Ind.App. 407
51 C.J. p 723 note 42.
57. Ind.—Midland R. Co. v. Gascho, supra.
51 C.J. p 723 note 43.
58. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vert, 56 N.E. 139, 24 Ind.App. 78.
51 C.J. p 723 note 44.
59. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stephens, 78 N.E. 1055, 39 Ind.App. 11.
51 C.J. p 723 note 45.
60. Ill.—Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill.App. 513.
61. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 70 N.E. 173, 32 Ind.App. 425.
62. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Butts, 59 N.E. 1070, 26 Ind.App. 413
51 C.J. p 723 note 48.
63. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 35 N.E. 290, 8 Ind.App. 188
64. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Fetters, 82 N.E. 978, 40 Ind.App. 615—Vandalia R. Co. v. Kanarr, 77 N.E. 1135, 38 Ind.App. 146.
65. Mo.—McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo.App. 14.
66. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abbott, 37 N.E. 557, 10 Ind.App. 99
Mo.—McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo.App. 14.
67. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Youngstrom, 27 P. 982, 47 Kan. 349.
68. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodard, 41 N.E. 544, 13 Ind.App. 296.
51 C.J. p 723 note 54.
69. Mo.—McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo.App. 14.
70. Ill.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 65 Ill.App. 101.
71. Ill.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, supra—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill.App. 144.
72. Ill.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 65 Ill.App. 101.
73. N.Y.—People v. Walsh, 105 N.E. 136, 211 N.Y. 90.
51 C.J. p 724 note 62.
Authority to:
Construct or maintain bridges over navigable waters see Navigable Waters § 33
Construct road below high-water mark see Navigable Waters § 109
74. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524.
Mo.—Abbott v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 83 Mo. 271, 53 Am.R. 581.
75. Mont.—Heckaman v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 20 P.2d 258, 93 Mont. 363.
51 C.J. p 724 note 64.
"Watercourse" within statute authorizing railroad to cross watercourse with its road is channel cut by running water with well defined banks through which water flows for substantial periods of year.—Hecka-may be impliedly conferred by statute [76]

Compelling construction and maintenance. A railroad company may be compelled by the exercise of the police power of the state to construct and maintain bridges or make changes in its roadbed so as to carry the road over a drain or watercourse [77] It cannot, however, be legally required to construct a larger opening or more bridging than is necessary or proper.[78] Similarly, it cannot be required to build a bridge over a ditch which was established after it had acquired its property and constructed a railroad thereon at its own expense.[79]

§ 186. Construction

a. In general
b. Statutory and charter provisions

a. In General

In crossing streams and watercourses, the railroad company must construct its road so as not to obstruct the flow of water, and it has no right to divert and collect surface waters and discharge them in large quantities upon the lands of another.

The construction of a permanent railroad bridge without draws across nonnavigable waters is not a public nuisance.[80] A railroad company which has erected a fixed bridge across a stream under a municipal franchise, and is about to construct a new bridge of the same kind on the abutments of the old one, cannot be compelled by the city to erect a drawbridge which will greatly increase the cost.[81]

Where a railroad company has in good faith located its road within the limits authorized by its charter, the fact that it may be constructed upon a wharf, or so as to injure it, does not entitle the owner to equitable relief against such construction.[82]

Obstructing or diverting flow of water in watercourse. In crossing streams and watercourses, the railroad company must construct its road so as not to obstruct the flow of water,[83] and must construct its bridges and culverts with sufficient openings and in such manner as properly to permit the passage of the water and prevent injury to riparian owners,[84] taking into consideration the nature of the country,[85] and making provision for the amount of water at all seasons,[86] and under conditions of storm and flood which are likely to occur,[87] and for the passage of floating ice[88] and driftwood[89] which may reasonably be expected. So a railroad company must construct its roadbed through a city in such a manner as not to obstruct a natural drain,[90] and this duty is a continuing one, to be performed as the necessity thereafter arises.[91] Where a railroad company builds an embankment on land of which it owns the fee, adjacent to a bridge over a stream, it should provide an outlet for overflowing water.[92]

The railroad company has no right to divert a stream so as to discharge the water upon the lands of another at a different place[93] or so as wrongfully to deprive one entitled thereto of the use of man v Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 20 P.2d 258, 93 Mont. 363

76. Kan.—Kaw Valley Drain. Dist. v. Missouri Pac R. Co., 161 P. 937, 99 Kan 188.
51 C.J. p 724 note 65.

77. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Appanoose County, Iowa, 182 F. 291, 104 C.C.A. 573, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 1117.
51 C.J. p 724 note 67.

78. Ill.—Dettmer v. Illinois Terminal R. Co., 123 N.E. 37, 287 Ill. 513.

79. Ohio.—Ashland, etc., R. Co. v. Board of Commissioners of Wayne County, 14 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S. 344.

80. Ill.—Joliet, etc., R. Co. v. Healy, 94 Ill. 416.
51 C.J. p 724 note 71.
Construction and maintenance of bridges and culverts over drains see Drains § 44.
Manner of construction of bridges over navigable waters see Navigable Waters § 34.

81. N.Y.—Buffalo v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 110 N.Y.S. 488, 126 App. Div. 125.

82. Mass.—Fall River Iron Works Co v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen 221.

83. Mo.—Smithpeter v. Wabash R. Co., 231 S.W.2d 135, 360 Mo. 835.
51 C.J. p 724 note 75
Nonstatutory liability for obstructing flow of watercourses see Waters § 20.

84. Ky.—Corpus Juris cited in Chesapeake & O. Ry Co. v. Saulsberry, 88 S.W.2d 949, 951, 262 Ky 31.
Mo.—Smithpeter v. Wabash R. Co., 231 S.W.2d 135, 360 Mo. 835.
51 C.J. p 724 note 76.
Making new channel
A railroad company cannot legally fill up a part of an old watercourse and make a new channel which is insufficient to provide for an increased flow of water which will be occasioned by needed drainage by proper artificial means and then require upper owners to pay for removing obstructions to such drainage and for an increase in amount of bridging.—Dettmer v. Illinois Terminal R. Co., 123 N.E. 37, 287 Ill. 513.

85. Ind.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 47 N.E. 1060, 49 N.E. 269, 149 Ind. 344.

86. Ind.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., supra—Dunn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 114 N.E. 888, 63 Ind.App. 553.

87. Ill.—Dettmer v. Illinois Terminal R. Co., 123 N.E. 37, 287 Ill. 513
Mo.—Smithpeter v. Wabash R. Co., 231 S.W.2d 135, 360 Mo. 835.
51 C.J. p 725 note 79.

88. Neb.—McGlenneghan v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 41 N.W. 350, 25 Neb. 523, 13 Am.S.R. 508.

89. Ind.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Watson, 146 N.E. 763, 82 Ind.App. 496.

90. La.—Shreveport v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 So. 648, 125 La. 575.

91. La.—Shreveport v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., supra.

92. N.Y.—Howard v. Buffalo, 105 N.E. 426, 211 N.Y. 241.

93. Ala.—Buckalew v. Lusk, 73 So. 917, 198 Ala. 519.
51 C.J. p 725 note 85.

the water of the stream,[94] and if any diversion is necessary because of cuts or fills a suitable new channel must be constructed and maintained.[95] The matter of diverting a stream may, however, be regulated by contract between the railroad company and the landowner.[96] Where a railroad crosses a watercourse, it is the duty of the company to restore such watercourse to its former condition of usefulness and saftey, even in the absence of express statutory requirement.[97] So, where a temporary diversion of the waters of a stream is necessary during the process of construction, the company must afterward restore the stream to its old channel.[98]

Obstructing or diverting flow of surface waters. A railroad must so construct its road as not to interfere with the natural drainage of the lands over or adjacent to which it passes,[99] and it has no right to divert and collect surface waters and discharge them in large quantities upon the lands of another.[1] It is not, however, obliged to keep open ditches outside its right of way upon the land of another,[2] or to construct ditches for the purpose of draining adjacent lands,[3] although, on the other hand, it has been held that, if the company builds an embankment it must construct culverts and drains sufficient to carry across the right of way the natural drainage,[4] but that it is not bound to provide sources of egress for accumulations of water due to extraordinary rains.[5]

b. Statutory and Charter Provisions

(1) Construction over or along watercourses
(2) Surface waters
(3) Wharves, docks, and access to waters
(4) Companies and persons affected

(1) Construction over or along Watercourses

Under some statutes, where a railroad company constructs its road along or across a stream it must do so in such manner as not to interfere with the free use thereof or it must restore the stream to its former state.

In some jurisdictions the statutes expressly provide that, where a railroad company constructs its road along or across a stream, it must do so in such manner as not to interfere with the free use thereof, and so as to afford security for life and property[6] or that it shall restore the stream to its former state or such state as will not unnecessarily impair its usefulness.[7] The right conferred thereby can only be exercised subject to the restrictions imposed,[8] and compliance with the statutory duty may be enforced by the proper governmental agencies.[9] Such statutes are merely declaratory of the common

94. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 P. 182, 46 Kan. 701, 26 Am S R 165.
51 C.J. p 725 note 86

95. N.Y.—Cott v. Lewiston R. Co., 36 N.Y. 214, 1 Transcr A. 26, 34 How Pr. 222.

96. Mo.—Harrelson v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 52 S.W. 368, 151 Mo. 482.
51 C.J. p 725 note 88

97. Ind.—Watts v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 129 N.E. 315, 191 Ind. 27
51 C.J. p 725 note 90.

98. N.Y.—Lefurgy v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N.Y.S. 302, 50 Hun 606.

99. Ill.—Strange v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 91 N.E. 1036, 245 Ill. 246—Smith v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 168 Ill.App. 670.

Nonstatutory liability for obstruction of natural flow of surface water see Waters § 115.

1. Del.—Chorman v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 54 A. 687, 19 Del. 407.
51 C.J. p 725 note 95.

2. Va.—Joliffe v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 20 S.E. 781.

3. Mo.—Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614.
51 C.J. p 725 note 97.

4. Ill.—Smith v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 168 Ill.App. 670.

5. Ill.—Smith v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., supra.

6. U.S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Wagner, C.C.A.Mont., 86 F.2d 63
Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Tarrant County Water Control & Improvement Dist. No. 1, 73 S.W.2d 55, 123 Tex. 432, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 921, 295 U.S. 762, 79 L.Ed. 1704.
51 C.J. p 726 note 3.

Statute construed

(1) Statute granting railroad right to construct road across, along, or upon stream must be interpreted in light of physiographic and meteorological conditions of territory to which it was intended to apply, and of constitutional, common-law, and statutory rights and privileges of those inhabiting territory—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Tarrant County Water Control & Improvement Dist. No. 1, supra.

(2) Statute giving railroad right to construct road across, along, or upon streams constituted grant of franchise subject to control of state and not irrevocable and uncontrollable grant of privilege.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Tarrant County Water Control & Improvement Dist. No. 1, supra.

7. Mont.—Heckaman v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 20 P.2d 258, 93 Mont. 363.
Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Tarrant County Water Control & Improvement Dist. No. 1, 73 S.W. 2d 55, 123 Tex. 432, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 921, 295 U.S. 762, 79 L.Ed 1704.
51 C.J. p 726 note 4—26 C.J. p 1010 note 13 [a].

Nature of duty

"Usefulness" or "franchise" of the ordinary nonnavigable stream within statute requiring railroad intersecting stream to restore it to its former state of usefulness, is its use for irrigation and drainage, and railroad's duty, which is clear and cannot be added to by court, does not require full width of channel to be left open, but it is not discharged by exercising reasonable care and skill in initial construction of embankment, if original opening be thereafter narrowed, or if subsequent experience proves that opening is insufficient.—Heckaman v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 20 P.2d 258, 93 Mont. 363.

8. S.D.—Langness v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 168 N.W. 1050, 40 S.D. 546.
51 C.J. p 726 note 5.

9. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Rockwall County Levee Impr. Dist. No. 3, 297 S.W. 206, 117 Tex. 34.

law.[10] They impose a continuing obligation,[11] and apply to nonnavigable as well as navigable streams,[12] but not to drainage ditches.[13] It has been held, under such a statute, that the obstruction of the natural flow of water in a watercourse is unlawful per se, irrespective of any negligence in constructing the road.[14] A statute prohibiting the construction of a solid embankment across a watercourse does not apply to a slough which is not an independent watercourse, but merely receives the overflow from a creek.[15]

(2) Surface Waters

As to surface waters, railroad companies may be required by statute to construct drainage ditches along the sides of the roadbed, or to construct culverts or sluices for drainage purposes.

Statutes regulating the rights and duties of railroad companies in respect of surface waters have been enacted in a number of jurisdictions.[16] In some jurisdictions railroad companies are expressly required by statute to construct drainage ditches along the sides of the roadbed, or to construct culverts or sluices for drainage purposes,[17] and the duty so imposed is imperative.[18] It may similarly be the duty of a railroad to construct a drainage sewer from one side of its right of way to the other.[19] Penalties for failure of railroads to drain their roadbeds or to construct drainage ditches along the sides of the roadbed are imposed by some statutes.[20]

(3) Wharves, Docks, and Access to Waters

A statutory requirement that a railroad company shall restore a stream to its former state or so as not to impair its usefulness does not require it to construct

10. Ind.—Watts v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 129 N.E. 315, 191 Ind. 27—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Luddington, 91 N.E. 939, 93 N.E. 273, 175 Ind. 35

11. Tex.—Corpus Juris cited in Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Tarrant County Water Control & Improvement Dist. No. 1, 73 S.W.2d 55, 63, 123 Tex. 432, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 921, 295 U.S. 762, 79 L.Ed. 1704.
51 C.J. p. 726 note 8.

12. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524.
Ind.—Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 N.E. 1055, 39 Ind.App. 294.

13. Ind.—New Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Tutt, 80 N.E. 420, 168 Ind. 205.
51 C.J. p. 726 note 10.

14. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, Civ.App., 97 S.W. 1081.

15. Mo.—Kenney v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo.App. 301.
51 C.J. p. 726 note 14.

16. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Ross, D.C.Mo., 88 F.Supp. 451
Tex.—Burlington-Rock Island R. Co. v. Newsom, Civ.App., 219 S.W.2d 129.
Wis.—Thomson v. Public Service Commission, 5 N.W.2d 769, 241 Wis. 243.
51 C.J. p. 726 note 15.
Statutory liability for property damage resulting from obstruction, diversion, or interference see infra § 471.

Flood waters

The law governing flood waters had no application in action to set aside an order of the commission requiring railroad to construct a culvert under its right of way so that property in the vicinity would not be damaged by surface waters accumulating in pot hole, since flood waters are those which break away from a stream under conditions which do not usually occur.—Thomson v. Public Service Commission, supra.

17. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Ross, D.C.Mo., 88 F.Supp. 451—Vollrath v. Wabash R. Co., D.C.Mo., 65 F.Supp. 766
Mo.—Smithpeter v. Wabash R. Co., 231 S.W.2d 135, 360 Mo. 835—Albright v. Louisiana & M. R. R. Co., 195 S.W.2d 648, 355 Mo. 211—Jones v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 125 S.W.2d 5, 343 Mo. 1104—Harris v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 27 S.W.2d 1072, 224 Mo.App. 455.
Tex.—Burlington-Rock Island R. Co. v. Newsom, Civ.App., 219 S.W.2d 129—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Kiel, Civ.App., 185 S.W.2d 144, reversed on other grounds 187 S.W.2d 371, 143 Tex. 601—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Reagan, Civ.App., 36 S.W.2d 564, affirmed 49 S.W.2d 414, 121 Tex. 233.
51 C.J. p. 726 note 16.

Necessity of drain or ditch

Railroad company need not construct openings through roadbed unless there is ditch, drain, or watercourse with which openings can be connected.
U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, D.C.Mo., 87 F.Supp. 313—Vollrath v. Wabash R. Co., D.C.Mo., 65 F.Supp. 766
Mo.—White v. Wabash R. Co., 207 S.W.2d 505, 240 Mo.App. 344—Cottier v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., App., 33 S.W.2d 173—Harris v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 27 S.W.2d 1072, 224 Mo.App. 455.
51 C.J. p. 726 note 16 [2] (3).

Water within statute

(1) "Surface water" includes water overflowing from a stream or watercourse as well as that falling as rain upon the surface of the land.—Jones v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 125 S.W.2d 5, 343 Mo. 1104—Harris v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 27 S.W.2d 1072, 224 Mo.App. 455—51 C.J. p. 726 note 16 [a] (7).

(2) Water moving down a watercourse is "water including surface water" which railroad has duty to let through its embankment.—Smithpeter v. Wabash R. Co., 231 S.W.2d 135, 360 Mo. 835—Terminal R. R. Ass'n of St. Louis v. City of Brentwood, 230 S.W.2d 768, 360 Mo. 777.

(3) Under the duty to maintain a "sufficient" outlet to permit all water to get through its embankment to lower side whenever draining of such water has been rendered necessary, the quoted word refers only to opening through embankment, and water which railroad must let through its embankment is not limited to such water as can be carried off within banks, drains, ditch or watercourse below railroad.—Smithpeter v. Wabash R. Co., 231 S.W.2d 135, 360 Mo. 835—Terminal R. R. Ass'n of St. Louis v. City of Brentwood, 230 S.W.2d 768, 360 Mo. 777.

18. Ill.—Swigert v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 203 Ill.App. 98.
51 C.J. p. 728 note 17.

19. Mo.—Terminal R. R. Ass'n of St. Louis v. City of Brentwood, 230 S.W.2d 768, 360 Mo. 777.

Word "sewer" applies only to drainage sewers and railroad could not be compelled to construct portions of a sanitary sewer system proposed across its right of way.—Terminal R. R. Ass'n of St. Louis v. City of Brentwood, 230 S.W.2d 768, 360 Mo. 777.

20. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Ross, D.C.Mo., 88 F.Supp. 451.
51 C.J. p. 728 note 18.

draw in its road, where constructed across a nonnavigable bay of a river, so as to afford access to a private wharf.

A statutory requirement that a railroad company shall restore a stream to its former state or so as not to impair its usefulness does not require it to construct a draw in its road, where constructed across a nonnavigable bay of a river, so as to afford access to a private wharf,[21] and a charter requirement that a railroad company shall construct drawbridges for the passage of vessels and boats, where it crosses bays, applies only to those which are generally navigable.[22] In some cases, however, railroad companies are required by statutory or charter provisions to extend docks which are cut off by the construction of a railroad[23] or to construct roads or passes over or under the road to afford adjacent landowners access to the water.[24]

(4) Companies and Persons Affected

A statutory provision requiring railroad companies to restore streams to their former state or so as not unnecessarily to have impaired their usefulness imposes an obligation which is binding on a purchasing company or consolidated company of which the company constructing the road is a constituent.

A statutory provision requiring railroad companies to restore streams to their former state or so as not unnecessarily to have impaired their usefulness imposes an obligation which is binding on a purchasing company[25] or consolidated company of which the company constructing the road is a constituent;[26] and a statute requiring every railroad company "operating" any railroad to construct ditches applies to a company taking charge of a road under a license from the owner.[27] A statute requiring railroad companies to keep in repair culverts sufficient for the free passage of water in watercourses crossed by the road has been held to apply only to roads constructed after the act went into effect.[28]

§ 187. Maintenance, Alterations, and Repairs

A railroad company which has constructed bridges or culverts over a watercourse must subsequently maintain them in proper condition and repair.

A railroad company which has constructed bridges or culverts over a watercourse must subsequently maintain them in proper condition and repair.[29] If a railroad fails to construct its structures so as not unnecessarily to impair the usefulness of streams, it must later adjust the structures when the public applies the streams to additional purposes,[30] and if a bridge, sufficient to meet the requirements at the time it was constructed, becomes inadequate through subsequent developments, it is the company's duty to improve it to meet the new conditions,[31] although it has been held that a statute requiring railroad companies to restore watercourses across or along where their roads are constructed to their former condition, and to build necessary culverts, does not require a change in the construction of a bridge which was built by a company before the enactment of the statute, and which was then sufficient to meet all requirements.[32]

The duty to keep bridges in repair is a statutory one in at least one jurisdiction.[33] In the absence of reservations, the grant of a franchise for the building of a bridge was held not only to include the right to maintain the original structure, but also the right to renew it when necessary, and, if worn out, to construct another of the same character without imposing an additional burden on the grantee because of the construction of such new bridge.[34]

Under statutes requiring railroad companies to construct necessary culverts for drainage purposes, it has been held to be the duty of a railroad to maintain such culverts in a proper condition,[35] and to maintain the roadbed in accordance with the initial requirements of the statute.[36] If they become insufficient by reason of a change of conditions

21. N.Y.—Kerr v. West Shore R. Co., 27 N.E. 832, 127 N.Y. 269.

22. N.Y.—Getty v. Hudson River R. Co., 31 Barb. 617.
51 C.J. p 728 note 21.

23. N.Y.—Tillotson v. Hudson River R. Co., 9 N.Y. 575.
51 C.J. p 728 note 22.

24. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 61 N.E. 172, 168 N.Y. 187.
51 C.J. p 728 note 24.

25. Ind.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Watson, 146 N.E. 763, 82 Ind.App. 496.
51 C.J. p 728 note 26.

26. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524.

27. Mo.—Graves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo.App. 574.

28. Ill.—Wabash R. Co. v. Sanders, 47 Ill.App. 496.

29. La.—Kirk v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 25 So. 457, 51 La.Ann. 667.
51 C.J. p 728 note 31.

30. Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Tarrant County Water Control & Improvement Dist. No. 1, 73 S.W.2d 55, 123 Tex. 422, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 991, 295 U.S. 762, 79 L.Ed. 1704.

31. Okl.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 126 P. 567, 34 Okl. 582.

32. U.S.—Hines v. Woodson, C.C.A. Ill., 280 F. 966.

33. Iowa.—Mason City, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 121 N.W. 39, 116 N.W. 805, 144 Iowa 10.
51 C.J. p 728 note 33.

34. N.Y.—Buffalo v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 110 N.Y.S. 488, 126 App.Div. 125.

35. Tex.—Millerman v. Houston & T. C. R. Co., Civ.App., 27 S.W.2d 897, error refused.
51 C.J. p 729 note 37.

36. Tex.—Burlington-Rock Island R. Co. v. Newsom, Civ.App., 219 S.W. 2d 129.

through the clearing and cultivation of the land, the company must make them sufficient;[37] but the rule is otherwise where the conditions are changed by ditches, embankments, or other obstructions made by third persons.[38] A statute requiring railroad companies to keep open all ditches and culverts constructed by them applies to a ditch voluntarily constructed to drain a right of way, and in existence when the statute was enacted;[39] and such a statute is not an unreasonable exercise of the police power of the state.[40]

A railroad company may, after the construction of its roadbed, make changes therein which may be found to be proper, but must do so with due regard to the rights of others.[41] Where particular work is being done by the railroad for its own benefit, a stipulation as to the character of the materials to be used may be waived without the consent of the party which had undertaken to pay the cost thereof.[42] A prescriptive right to maintain a culvert at the place and of the size as originally constructed does not include the right to maintain it as it was after it sank into a watercourse over which it was constructed so as to obstruct the flow of water.[43] Where a drainage ditch was not constructed by the railroad, but was created by the landowner or by his tenants, they could not foist on the railroad company the duty to maintain it.[44]

G. LIABILITIES FOR LABOR, MATERIALS, OR SUPPLIES

§ 188. In General

A railroad company which has contracted with a third person for railroad construction or repair work is not liable for work done for, and under the employment of, the contractor, or for materials furnished to him, except to the extent that it has become liable by agreement.

A railroad company which has contracted with a third person for railroad construction or repair work is not liable for work done for, and under the employment of, the contractor,[45] or for materials furnished to him,[46] except to the extent that it has become liable by agreement,[47] or is made liable by statute, as discussed infra § 189. The mere fact that a railroad company has the benefit of the work done by another does not make it responsible for such work where it does not agree to pay therefor.[48]

§ 189. Statutory Liability and Perfection and Enforcement of Claim against Company

a. In general
b. Limitations and restrictions affecting liability
c. Persons liable
d. Nature and purpose of labor, materials, or supplies
e. Persons entitled to benefit of statute
f. Perfection and enforcement of claim against company

a. In General

Statutes imposing a personal liability on the part of a railroad company to laborers employed by the contractor in the construction of the railroad, or to those who furnish labor, materials, or supplies to the contractor apply only to a company organized and operating as a railroad company, although they include companies incorporated prior to the enactment of the statutes.

Statutes imposing a personal liability on the part of a railroad company to laborers who are employed by a contractor in the construction of the railroad, or to those who furnish labor, materials, or supplies to the contractor, apply only to a company organized and operating as a railroad company;[49] but include companies incorporated prior

37. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co v. Rockwall County Levee Impr. Dist. No 3, 297 S.W. 206, 117 Tex 34—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co v. Jenkins, Civ.App., 89 S.W. 1106.

38. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Jenkins, supra.

39. Minn.—Peterson v. Northern Pac. R. Co, 156 N.W. 121, 132 Minn. 265.

40. Minn.—Peterson v. Northern Pac. R. Co., supra.

41. Mo.—George v. Wabash Western R. Co., 40 Mo.App. 433.
51 C.J. p 729 note 42.

42. Kan.—Kaw Valley Drainage Dist. of Wyandotte County v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 195 P. 983, 108 Kan. 314.

Regrading of track
Kan.—Kaw Valley Drainage Dist. of Wyandotte County v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

43. N.Y.—Corwin v. Erie R. Co., 82 N.Y.S. 753, 84 App.Div. 555, affirmed 70 N.E. 1097, 178 N.Y. 590.

44. Okl.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Rutledge, 47 P.2d 83, 173 Okl. 245.

45. Ind.—Fleming v. Greener, 87 N. E. 719, 173 Ind. 260, rehearing denied and modified on other grounds 90 N.E. 72, 73, 140 Am.S.R. 254, 21 Ann.Cas. 959
51 C.J. p 729 note 47.

46. La.—Cameron v. Orleans, etc., R. Co., 32 So 208, 108 La. 83.
51 C.J. p 729 note 48.

47. Ohio.—Pennsylvania Co. v. Mehaffey, 80 N.E. 177, 75 Ohio St. 422, 116 Am.S.R. 746, 9 Ann.Cas. 305.
51 C.J. p 729 note 49.

48. N.Y.—Woodruff v. Rochester & P. R. Co., 14 N.E. 832, 108 N.Y. 39.

49. Wash.—Cloud v. Greenwood Logging Co., 288 P. 216, 157 Wash. 261.
49 C.J. p 729 note 52.

o the enactment of the statutes,[50] and have been ıeld to be constitutıonal,[51] at least in so far as they apply to future contracts,[52] but not as to contracts which were entered into prior thereto,[53] although not performed until after the statute took effect.[54] These statutes are remedial as to the laborers and others provided for,[55] but, since they impose on the railroad companies liabilities which would not otherwise exist, they should not be extended beyond the fair import of the terms used.[56] Materialmen and laborers, however, are not bound to accept anything in payment except money, whatever may be the contract between the owner and contractor.[57]

The personal liability imposed by such statutes is merely a statutory substitute for the lien in rem against specific property;[58] and the purport of the statutes is to protect laborers, mechanics, and materialmen,[59] and to enable them to resort to the railroad company for amounts due and not paid by a contractor for railroad work.[60] Such a statute has no extraterritorial force and is inapplicable to a foreign railroad contracting in another state for the construction of the part of the road lying therein.[61]

b. Limitations and Restrictions Affecting Liability

The liability of the railroad company may be limited to claims for not more than a specified number of days of labor or limited to the amount due from the railroad company to the contractor at the time of the presentation of the claim for labor or materials.

Under some statutes the liability of the railroad company to claims for labor is limited to claims for not more than a specified number of days of labor,[62] but this does not require that the labor shall be performed on consecutive days in order to recover for the full number of days allowed by the statute.[63] Under other statutes it is limited to the amount due from the railroad company to the contractor at the time of the presentation of the claim for labor or materials,[64] and authorizes the railroad company to withhold money due to the contractor until claims for which it would be liable are paid,[65] and, where the statute prohibits payments or advances to contractors until the amounts due to laborers at the time of such payments are paid or secured, the railroad company cannot be held liable on an order for money drawn by a contractor who has not provided for the payment of wages due to his laborers, and which order the company has refused to accept.[66]

Taking bond for payment; exemption from liability. Under a statute which requires the railroad company to take a bond from the contractors, conditioned for the payment of laborers, materialmen, and those furnishing goods and provisions to a contractor, and provides that in case of failure to do so the railroad company shall be liable therefor, if such a bond is taken the railroad company is relieved from liability,[67] although the bond has not been filed;[68] but if the railroad company fails to take such bond the laborers or mechanics may maintain their action against it.[69] Such a bond is required for the benefit of laborers and those who furnish material for railroad construction,[70] and serves the double purpose of securing the performance of the contract and the payment of claims for labor and material employed in the work,[71] and laborers and materialmen have rights thereunder independent of the obligee,[72] and may maintain an action on the bond;[73] and no agreement between the railroad company and the contractor or between him and the

50. Mo.—Grannahan v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 30 Mo. 546—Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 23 Mo. 107.

51. Vt.—Brann v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 31 Vt. 214.
51 C.J. p. 729 note 54.

52. Mass.—Hart v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 121 Mass. 510.

53. Mass.—Parker v. Massachusetts R. Co., 115 Mass. 580.
51 C.J. p. 729 note 56.

54. Mass.—Parker v. Massachusetts R. Co., supra.

55. Mich.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 7 N.W. 213, 44 Mich. 538.

56. Me.—Blanchard v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 32 A. 890, 87 Me. 241.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 59.

57. Ind.—Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Canada, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 784, 127 Ind. 250, 11 L.R.A. 740.

58. Kan.—Crane Co. v. Wichita Union Terminal R. Co., 158 P. 59, 98 Kan. 336.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 61.

59. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 32 N.W. 884, 65 Mich. 655.
Neb.—Finegan v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 150 N.W. 818, 97 Neb. 474.

60. N.Y.—Kent v. New York Cent. R. Co., 12 N.Y. 628.

61. Vt.—Cartwright v. New York, etc., R. Co., 9 A. 370, 59 Vt. 675.

62. N.C.—Moore v. Cape Fear, etc., R. Co., 17 S.E. 152, 112 N.C. 236.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 65.

63. Mo.—Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586.

64. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 32 N.W. 884, 65 Mich. 655.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 67.

65. Mich.—Dawson v. Iron Range, etc., Co., 56 N.W. 106, 97 Mich. 33—Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 32 N.W. 884, 65 Mich. 655.

66. La.—Meyer v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 35 La. Ann. 897.

67. Kan.—Mann v. Burt, 10 P. 95, 35 Kan. 10.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 72.

68. Kan.—Mann v. Burt, supra.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 73.

69. Kan.—American Nat. Bank of Hutchinson v. Central Const. Co., 168 P.2d 369, 160 Kan. 400.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 74.

70. Kan.—Standard Asphalt, etc., Co. v. Texas Bldg. Co., 162 P. 299, 99 Kan. 567, L.R.A.1917C 490.

71. Kan.—Standard Asphalt, etc., Co. v. Texas Bldg. Co., supra.

72. Kan.—Standard Asphalt, etc., Co. v. Texas Bldg. Co., supra.

73. N.Y.—Adirondack Core & Plug Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 264 N.Y.S. 484, 238 App.Div. 346, affirmed 191 N.E. 503, 264 N.Y. 439.
51 C.J. p. 730 note 78.

guaranty company can affect such rights,[74] nor can their rights on the bond be impaired by omissions of the obligee or contractor for which they are not responsible.[75]

Where a surety becomes responsible merely for the performance of his principal's contract, however, and does not agree to pay for labor or material, he is not liable to laborers or materialmen.[76] Where the surety takes over the construction contract on the contractor's default, he is liable for the payment of an account for materials, which, for a sufficient consideration, he has assumed.[77] Where payments for materials furnished to a subcontractor are made by the contractor without directions to the subcontractor, who then pays by his own check out of his own bank account, the subcontractor has the right, as against the surety on the contractor's bond, to direct how the payments shall be applied.[78]

Prohibiting transfer of property. A statute which prohibits any transfer by a railroad company of its property while the claims of contractors and laborers employed in the construction or repair of its road are unpaid, and makes any transfer void as against such claims, applies only to those having a direct contractual relation with the company,[79] and this class of persons protected is not enlarged by a further statutory provision which merely aids such persons in their remedies,[80] nor is this statutory protection affected by another statute giving the railroad company authority to mortgage its property.[81]

c. Persons Liable

Under a statute which makes the stockholders of the railroad company individually liable after the assets of the company are exhausted for unpaid claims for labor performed in the construction of the road, a stockholder may not be held liable where the assets of the company have not been exhausted.

Under a statute which makes the stockholders of the railroad company individually liable after the assets of the company are exhausted for unpaid claims for labor performed in the construction of the road, a stockholder may not be held liable where the assets of the company have not been exhausted,[82] but a statutory provision for the liability of stockholders to laborers and servants, for services performed for the corporation, does not apply to services performed for contractors.[83] The liability of the railroad company and of a surety on a bond for payment are discussed supra subdivisions a, b.

Contractor. Where the construction contract requires the contractor to pay debts and liabilities against the railroad, except those created by the issuance of bonds and incurred for operating the road, and he carries on the construction work through the agency of the railroad and uses its credit for that purpose, he is responsible for the cost of the construction work,[84] and where the contract further stipulates that, if the railroad discharges any of the indebtedness incurred by doing any of the things contracted for, the sum paid shall be deducted from the amount owing to the contractor, whatever liability might be so incurred by the railroad is a debt of the contractor,[85] and the creditors of the railroad company, in the settlement of the affairs of the company on its insolvency, may insist that the contractor, before participating in the distribution of the assets, discharge his own obligations.[86] A contracting company, which receives money from the railway company under the provision of a contract, whereby a construction contract is assigned to it, that all amounts due the original contractor shall be paid to such company, does not, however, hold such money in trust for persons who furnished material, etc., to the original contract.[87]

d. Nature and Purpose of Labor, Materials, or Supplies

A railroad company's liability for labor and materials furnished to contractors applies only to labor performed

Provision for payment

Contractor's faithful-performance bond to railroad under grade crossing elimination contract did not render surety liable to materialman for material furnished before surety took over and completed contract, where contract contained no provision insuring prompt payment to materialmen, especially where railroad did not join in materialman's prayer.—Adirondack Core & Plug Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 264 N.Y.S. 484, 238 App.Div. 346, affirmed 191 N. E. 503, 264 N.Y. 439.

74. Kan.—Standard Asphalt, etc., Co. v. Texas Bldg. Co., 162 P. 299, 99 Kan. 567, L.R.A.1917C 496.

75. Kan.—Standard Asphalt, etc., Co v. Texas Bldg. Co, supra.

76. Ind.—Fleming v. Greener, 87 N. E. 719, 173 Ind. 260, rehearing denied and modified on other grounds 90 N.E. 72, 73, 140 Am.S.R. 254, 21 Ann.Cas. 959.

77. Wash.—Du Pont De Nemours v. Columbia Casualty Co., 273 P. 181, 149 Wash. 362.

78. Kan.—Crane Co. v. Wichita Union Terminal Co., 158 P. 59, 98 Kan. 336.

79. Pa.—Appeal of Hart, 96 Pa. 355.

80. Pa.—Appeal of Hart, supra.

81. Pa.—Tyron, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 79 Pa. 60.
51 C.J. p 731 note 87.

82. Ind.—Marks v Indianapolis, etc., R. Co, 38 Ind 440.

83. N.Y.—Boutwell v Townsend, 37 Barb 205.

84. Tex.—U. S, etc., Trust Co. v. Delaware Western Constr Co, Civ. App., 112 S.W. 447.

85. Tex.—U. S, etc., Trust Co. v. Delaware Western Constr. Co., supra.

86. Tex.—U. S, etc., Trust Co. v. Delaware Western Constr. Co, supra.

87. Ind.—Fleming v. Greener, 87 N. E. 719, 173 Ind. 260, rehearing denied and modified on other grounds 90 N.E. 72, 73, 140 Am.S.R. 254, 21 Ann.Cas. 959.

and materials used in the construction or repair of the road.

A railroad company's liability for labor and materials furnished to contractors, under statutory provisions, applies only to labor performed and materials used in the construction or repair of the road;[88] and applies not only to the original construction of the main track,[89] but also to the construction of additional sidetracks,[90] or the construction of a new bridge in place of an old one.[91]

Labor. The term "labor," under these statutes, applies only to the manual labor of the persons employed,[92] and includes services performed on a quantum meruit basis as well as for a stipulated price,[93] but does not apply to the furnishing of the labor of others[94] or to teams or wagons used on the work.[95]

Materials or supplies. The term "materials" includes only those which enter into the construction or repair of the road,[96] and does not include board or feed furnished for teams[97] or for employees of the contractor;[98] nor does it include goods, provisions, and other such supplies,[99] unless the statute expressly includes goods and provisions furnished to a contractor,[1] in which case the statute applies only where they are furnished to the contractor himself,[2] and does not apply to those furnished to, or on the order of, a subcontractor.[3]

e. Persons Entitled to Benefit of Statute

The benefit of statutes imposing a liability on railroad companies to laborers, materialmen, or persons furnishing supplies to contractors should not be extended to include persons not fairly within the terms of the statute, and statutes for the protection of laborers and materialmen do not include the contractors or subcontractors themselves.

The benefit of statutes imposing a liability on railroad companies to laborers, materialmen, or persons furnishing supplies to contractors should not be extended to include persons not fairly within the terms of the statute,[4] and statutes for the protection of laborers and materialmen do not include the contractors themselves.[5] A construction contract and a nonstatutory bond given in connection therewith[6] and all of the contract provisions[7] must be construed together in order to determine the intent of such bond with respect to the protection of third-party claimants and the liability of the bonding company to them.

Where a director of a railroad company is forbidden by statute to be interested in the furnishing of materials or supplies to the company, he cannot recover for material or supplies furnished while he is such a director,[8] but if after he quits the directorate his contract is again ratified he may recover for materials or supplies furnished thereafter.[9] A breach of such a statute, however, is not malum in se, but merely malum prohibitum, and bondholders and other creditors of the railroad company cannot recover amounts paid for supplies and materials to a construction company of which certain directors of the railroad company are managers.[10]

Laborers. Under statutes imposing a liability on railroad companies to laborers employed by con-

88. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R Co., 32 N.W. 884, 65 Mich. 655.

Machinery, tools, and equipment

The purchase price, rent, or value of use of machinery, tools, and equipment used in constructing railroad bridge is neither labor, material, provisions nor goods within statute.—American Nat. Bank of Hutchinson v. Central Const. Co., 163 P.2d 369, 160 Kan. 400.

89. Kan.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 14 Kan. 557.

90. Kan.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, supra.

91. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. McConnell, 25 Kan. 370.

92. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 32 N.W. 884, 65 Mich. 655.
N.Y.—Atcherson v. Troy, etc., R Co., 1 Abb.Dec. 13, 6 Abb.Pr.,N S, 329.

93. N.Y.—Chapman v Utica, etc., R. Co., 4 Lans. 96.

94. Mich.—Chicago, etc, R. Co v. Sturgis, 7 N.W. 213, 44 Mich. 538.
N.Y.—Cummings v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 Lans. 68.

95. Kan.—Mann v. Burt, 10 P 95, 35 Kan. 10.
51 C J. p 731 note 8.

96. Wash.—Du Pont De Nemours v. Columbia Casualty Co., 273 P. 181, 149 Wash. 362
51 C J. p 731 note 11.

97. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc, R. Co., 32 N.W. 884, 65 Mich. 655.

98. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc, R. Co., supra.

99. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc, R. Co., supra.

1. Kan.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 74 P. 232, 67 Kan. 791.
51 C.J. p 732 note 15.

2. Kan.—Parkinson v. Alexander, 14 P. 466, 37 Kan. 110.
51 C J. p 732 note 16.

3. Kan.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ritz, 1 P. 27, 30 Kan 30.
51 C J p 732 note 17.

4. Me.—Blanchard v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 32 A. 890, 87 Me. 241.
51 C.J p 732 note 18.

5. Mich.—Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 29 N.W. 40, 62 Mich. 458.

6. Kan.—American Nat. Bank of Hutchinson v. Central Const. Co, 163 P.2d 369, 160 Kan. 400

Bond not complying with statute providing for bond of contractors for protection of laborers, mechanics, and others, when construed with construction contract, was not intended to protect claims of creditors for purchase price, rent or value of use of machinery, tools and equipment used in constructing bridge where none of the claims were basis of mechanics' liens nor basis of charges or claims against the work or the railroad.—American Nat. Bank of Hutchinson v. Central Const. Co., supra.

7. Kan.—American Nat. Bank of Hutchinson v. Central Const. Co, supra.

8. Mo.—Browning v. North Missouri Cent. R. Co., 188 S.W. 143.

9. Mo.—Browning v. North Missouri Cent. R. Co., supra.

10. Mo.—Baumhoff v. Grueninger, 178 S.W. 102, L.R.A 1916A 779.

tractors, the term "laborer" usually is held to include only ordinary manual laborers[11] who have personally performed the labor for which the claim is made.[12] It has been held that the term "laborer" does not include persons employed as superintendents and timekeepers,[13] clerks,[14] or persons merely furnishing the labor of others[15] or furnishing teams and wagons.[16]

Where a laborer furnishes and works with his own team, it has been held that he cannot recover under the statute, where the services were performed at an agreed price for the joint labor of himself and team,[17] although the amount due for such labor is capable of being accurately ascertained and distinguished from that due for the teams and the driver employed by the laborer;[18] but it has been stated that, if there were separate agreements as to each, the laborer might recover for his personal services;[19] and in other cases it has been held, without special reference to the question of separate agreements, that a laborer may recover not only for his personal labor, but for the use of his team with which he worked.[20] A statute revoking a grant to an insolvent railroad company and conferring it on another on condition that it shall pay the claims of laborers against the other company does not include civil engineers or an assistant general manager of such company.[21]

Subcontractors and persons dealing with them. In the absence of statute or agreement, a railroad company is not liable for work done for, and under the employment of, a subcontractor,[22] nor is the principal contractor liable for labor so performed for a subcontractor[23] or for supplies furnished to or on his order.[24] The statutes for the protection of laborers and materialmen do not include subcontractors,[25] and a subcontractor is not entitled to recover as a laborer, although he personally labors along with those employed by him;[26] nor can he recover for the work of his teams.[27]

Statutes imposing a liability on the part of railroad companies to laborers of contractors generally employed on the work are, however, held to apply to laborers employed by subcontractors as well as those employed by the original contractor;[28] but a statute making a transfer or assignment of its property by a railroad company void as against the unpaid claims of contractors and laborers employed in the construction of the road has been held to be limited to those having a direct contractual relationship with the company, as discussed supra subdivision b, and not to include subcontractors or other employees.[29]

Where a company constructing a railroad, after the failure of the contractor, completes the work through its general manager, and a subcontractor completes its work and files a claim for a lien, as authorized by statute, it is entitled to recover a personal judgment against the company, but not against the manager.[30]

Assignees or purchasers of claims. Claims against railroad companies under their statutory liability for labor, materials, or supplies furnished to contractors are assignable,[31] and may be enforced against the railroad company in an action by the assignee,[32] but the mere fact that the laborer is paid by a third person, on orders drawn by the contractor or subcontractor, does not constitute an 11. Me.—Blanchard v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 32 A. 890, 87 Me. 241.

51 C.J. p. 732 note 25

12. N.Y.—Balch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 N.Y. 521.
51 C.J. p. 732 note 26.

13. Kan.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 14 Kan. 563.
51 C.J. p. 732 note 27.

14. Kan.—Mann v. Burt, 10 P. 95, 35 Kan. 10.

15. Mo.—Groves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 304.
51 C.J. p. 732 note 29.

16. N.Y.—Balch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 N.Y. 521.
51 C.J. p. 732 note 30.

17. Kan.—Mann v. Burt, 10 P. 95, 35 Kan. 10.
51 C.J. p. 732 note 31.

18. N.Y.—Atcherson v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 1 Abb.Dec. 13, 6 Abb.Pr., N.S., 329.

19. Kan.—Mann v. Burt, 10 P. 95, 35 Kan. 10.
N.Y.—Atcherson v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 1 Abb.Dec. 13, 6 Abb.Pr., N.S., 329.

20. Mich.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 7 N.W. 213, 44 Mich. 538.
Vt.—Branin v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 31 Vt. 214.

21. Wis.—State v. Rusk, 13 N.W. 452, 55 Wis. 465.

22. Mo.—Baker v. McMurry Contracting Co., 223 S.W. 45, 282 Mo. 682.
51 C.J. p. 733 note 37.

23. Ind.—Ferguson v. Despo, 34 N. E. 575, 8 Ind.App. 523.
Kan.—Streeter v. Dowell, 23 P. 599, 43 Kan. 545.

24. Ind.—Ferguson v. Despo, 34 N. E. 575, 8 Ind.App. 523.
Kan.—Streeter v. Dowell, 23 P. 599, 43 Kan. 545.

25. Mich.—Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 29 N.W. 40, 62 Mich. 458.
Neb.—Finegan v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 150 N.W. 818, 97 Neb. 474.

26. Me.—Rogers v. Dexter, etc., R. Co., 27 A. 257, 85 Me. 372, 21 L.R.A. 528.

27. Neb.—Finegan v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 150 N.W. 818, 97 Neb. 474.

28. Wis.—Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.
51 C.J. p. 733 note 43.

29. Pa.—Appeal of Hart, 96 Pa. 355.

30. Ky.—Simmons v. Fletcher, 170 S.W. 628, 161 Ky. 295.

31. Mich.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 7 N.W. 213, 44 Mich. 538.

32. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Cockrill, 10 S.W. 702, 72 Tex. 613
51 C.J. p. 733 note 50.

assignment to such person of the laborer's claim, so as to entitle him to sue thereon.[33]

f. Perfection and Enforcement of Claim against Company

A person who seeks to avail himself of the benefit of a statute imposing liability on a railroad company for labor, materials, or supplies must comply with all the requirements of the statute.

A person who seeks to avail himself of the benefit of a statute imposing liability on a railroad company for labor, materials, or supplies must comply with all the requirements of the statute.[34] Where the statute makes the liability of the railroad company conditional on the existence of an indebtedness on its part to the contractor, the existence of such indebtedness must be established,[35] but where the statute imposes a direct liability on the railroad company and requires the action to be brought within a specified time after the labor is performed it is immaterial whether or not at the time of the action there is anything due from the railroad company to the contractor.[36]

Notice. Where the statute requires a notice of the claim to be presented to, or served on, the railroad company within a certain time, the requirements of the statute as to such notice must be complied with,[37] such as to the form and contents of the notice;[38] it must also be complied with as to the time of giving it,[39] and as to its service on the company.[40] A laborer or materialman who has failed to give notice of his claim or lien, as required by statute, cannot hold the railroad company liable, on the theory of estoppel, substantially as a trustee of money which it has recovered from the contractor's surety, where the materialman's lien was only one element of the company's claim against the surety and where the amount so recovered is insufficient to pay all lien claims and all other claims recoverable against the surety,[41] and, where the issues as to individual claims were not clearly defined in the railroad company's action, evidence is admissible, in an action against it by the materialman, to show that the alleged liens were not urged as a valid basis for recovery in the former action.[42]

Actions. An action against a railroad company by a laborer or materialman may be brought before a justice of the peace for amounts within his jurisdiction,[43] and it is usually required that the action to enforce the claim shall be instituted within a certain time after notice of the claim.[44] Under a statute requiring a railroad company to provide in its contract for the payment of claims for labor and supplies, it has been held that the remedy of a person furnishing supplies to the contractor is a suit in equity for an accounting and not an action at law for personal judgment against the company.[45] In an action against a railroad company for labor done or materials and supplies furnished, plaintiff must allege and prove every fact essential to bring the claim within the application of the statute and to show his right to recover thereon;[46] and the usual rules apply as to the pleadings, issues, proof, and variance,[47] evidence,[48] and verdict.[49]

33. Mich.—Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 32 N.W. 884, 65 Mich. 655—Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 29 N.W. 40, 62 Mich. 458.

34. Mich.—Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 29 N.W. 40, 62 Mich. 458.
51 C.J. p. 733 note 53.

35. Mich.—Bottomly v. Port Huron, etc., R. Co., 7 N.W. 214, 44 Mich. 542.

36. Wis.—Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.

37. Ohio.—Scioto Valley R. Co. v. Cronin, 38 Ohio St. 122.
51 C.J. p. 733 note 57.

38. Mich.—Quackenbush v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 51 N.W. 383, 91 Mich. 308.
51 C.J. p. 733 note 58.

39. Me.—George v. Washington County R. Co., 44 A. 377, 93 Me. 134.
51 C.J. p. 734 note 59.

40. Mo.—Rapauno Chemical Co. v. Greenfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. App. 6.
51 C.J. p. 734 note 60.

41. Or.—Pankey v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 276 P. 277, 129 Or. 292.

42. Or.—Pankey v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., supra.

43. Mo.—Grannahan v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 30 Mo. 546.
Wis.—Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.

44. Ohio.—Scioto Valley R. Co. v. Cronin, 38 Ohio St. 122.
51 C.J. p. 734 note 66.

45. Ohio.—Schneider v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 364, 20 Cinc.L.Bul. 457.

46. Mich.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 7 N.W. 213, 44 Mich. 538.
51 C.J. p. 734 note 67.

47. Tex.—Richardson v. Herbert Civ.App., 135 S.W. 628.
51 C.J. p. 734 note 69.

48. Kan.—American Nat. Bank o. Hutchinson v. Central Const. Co. 163 P.2d 369, 160 Kan. 400.
51 C.J. p. 734 note 70.

Burden of proof on claimant
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Lucas Civ.App., 190 S.W. 800

Evidence held insufficient to support verdict
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Lucas supra.

49. Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Howrin, 9 S.W. 661.
51 C.J. p. 734 note 71.

H. CREATION OF NUISANCE BY CONSTRUCTION OF RAILROAD

§ 190. In General

a. In general
b. Construction in or along streets or highways
c. Construction of crossing

a. In General

The construction of a railroad does not constitute a nuisance per se, but it may become one as a matter of fact.

The construction of a railroad does not constitute a nuisance per se[50] but it may become one as a matter of fact.[51] Thus the construction of a railroad embankment so as to deposit destructive quantities of sand or debris on adjoining land constitutes a nuisance without regard to whether the embankment was negligently or unskillfully constructed,[52] and the owner of the adjoining land is entitled to have the nuisance abated and to damages.[53] A railroad is liable for maintaining a nuisance where, by reason of its construction, it creates a stagnant pond of water because of obstruction of natural drainage.[54]

The railroad is not, however, responsible for annoyances necessarily and unavoidably created by the work of construction.[55] The rule that one who merely passively continues a nuisance must have notice of the nuisance, as discussed in Nuisances § 86, applies to nuisances created by the construction of the railroad.[56]

Where the railroad company is authorized by law to construct its line, nothing connected with such activities constitutes a nuisance per se.[57] A railroad is not responsible for a public nuisance caused by construction of an embankment by the owner of a switch connecting with the railroad, where it was required by statute to allow the connection to be made.[58] Where, however, a statute which ratifies and confirms the construction of a railroad is passed after the completion of an embankment complained of as a nuisance, the railroad company is not exempted from liability because of such embankment.[59]

b. Construction in or along Streets or Highways

The mere construction of a railroad, although in a street or highway, if done by lawful authority, is not a nuisance.

The mere construction of a railroad, although in a street or highway, if done by lawful authority, is not a nuisance,[60] even though damages to abutting owners were not ascertained and paid before its construction;[61] nor is a partial and temporary obstruction necessarily caused by, and during the process of, construction a nuisance which will be enjoined.[62] It is a public nuisance, however, for a railroad company to construct its road on a public street or highway without legislative authority, granted either directly or indirectly,[63] or in excess of the limitations of the authority given,[64] and the company may be guilty of maintaining a nuisance by reason of the negligent or improper manner of constructing or maintaining its road,[65] or failing to restore a street or highway to its former state as required by statute[66] or to construct a new highway in the place of one destroyed by the construction of the railroad,[67] or by erecting a freight depot in the center of a town, causing the obstruction of streets by cars and rendering the streets dangerous;[68] or it may constitute a nuisance for it to exercise the right to use the street or highway by construction

50. La.—McGee v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 19 So.2d 21, 206 La. 121.
Operation of railroad as nuisance see Nuisances § 67.

51. La.—McGee v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 19 So.2d 21, 206 La. 121.

52. Ala.—Alabama Western R. Co. v. Wilson, 55 So. 932, 1 Ala.App. 306.

53. Minn.—Heath v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 148 N.W. 311, 126 Minn. 470, L.R.A.1916E 977.

54. Ga.—Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Jernigan, 57 S.E. 791, 128 Ga. 501.

55. Tex.—Cantelou v. Trinity, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 101 S.W. 1017.
51 C.J. p 735 note 78.

56. Tenn.—Grant v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 165 S.W. 963, 129 Tenn. 398.
51 C.J. p 735 note 80.

57. Mont.—Cashin v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 28 P.2d 862, 96 Mont. 92.

58. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 101 S.W. 382, 31 Ky.L. 65.

59. Mass.—Salem v. Eastern R. Co., 98 Mass. 431, 96 Am.D. 650.

60. Pa.—Danville, H. & W. R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 73 Pa. 29.
51 C.J. p 735 note 82.

61. Mich.—Plantenga v. Grand Rapids Terminal R. Co., 157 N.W. 425, 190 Mich. 661.

62. Miss.—Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 36 So. 266, 84 Miss. 268, 105 Am.S.R. 428, 65 L.R.A. 561.

63. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 14 Gray 93—Commonwealth v. Vermont, etc., R. Corp., 4 Gray 22.
51 C.J. p 735 note 85.

64. Ohio.—Yackee v. Village of Napoleon, 21 N.E.2d 111, 135 Ohio St. 344.

65. Ind.—Kelly v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 63 N.E. 233, 28 Ind.App. 457, 91 Am.S.R. 134.
51 C.J. p 735 note 86.

66. W.Va.—State v. Ohio River R. Co., 18 S.E. 582, 38 W.Va. 242—State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 16 S.E. 519, 37 W.Va. 108—Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 16 S.E. 514, 37 W.Va. 92, 20 L.R.A. 161.

67. W.Va.—State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 16 S.E. 519, 37 W.Va. 108.
Pa.—Commonwealth v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa.Super. 336.

68. N.C.—Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 53 S.E. 955, 141 N.C. 716.

of switches, sidetracks, and stations so as improperly or unreasonably to obstruct the public use thereof.[69]

A slight variation in the street surface by reason of the rails is not a nuisance where it does not affect or obstruct passage.[70] A switch track which is part of a general railway system, and which is open to all persons for shipping purposes, is a public utility, and does not constitute, when laid in a public street, a public nuisance per se,[71] although from its location and surroundings only a limited number of persons will have occasion to use it.[72] A company having the control and operation of a railroad will be equally liable with the owner thereof for the continuance of a nuisance growing out of the manner of its construction.[73]

c. Construction of Crossing

The mere construction of a railroad across a highway, pursuant to legislative authority, is not a public nuisance.

The mere construction of a railroad across a highway, pursuant to legislative authority, is not a public nuisance,[74] although the crossing is at grade;[75] nor, where a railroad in crossing has changed the location of the highway pursuant to legislative authority, is the new crossing a nuisance.[76] A railroad company may, however, be guilty of creating a nuisance by constructing a crossing in such a manner as improperly to obstruct or impair the use of the highway,[77] or to render the crossing of the tracks unsafe for travel,[78] or by locating the crossing at an unauthorized place,[79] or changing the location of the railroad without authority so as to cross the highway at a different place,[80] or changing the location or route of the highway,[81] or by erecting buildings within the limits of the highway.[82] It has been held that a grade crossing is in the nature of a nuisance which cannot exist without state authority.[83] Not every obstruction to the easement of the public in a street, by the construction of a railroad across it, is a public nuisance,[84] but only such an obstruction as is unnecessary to the more important easement of the public in the railroad.[85]

Failure to restore or maintain street crossed. A failure on the part of a railroad company to restore or maintain a highway which it has crossed, whereby the highway is improperly obstructed or travel thereon interfered with, or made dangerous, constitutes a public nuisance,[86] and renders the railroad company subject to indictment, as discussed infra §§ 194–196, or to an action for the abatement of the nuisance,[87] or liable in damages for special injuries sustained thereby, as discussed infra § 191, but not for a statutory penalty for obstruction of the road,[88] and the right to abate the nuisance is not lost by mere lapse of time.[89]

§ 191. Remedies

If the road is so constructed as to constitute a nuisance, a suit in equity may be maintained against the railroad to abate the nuisance, or an individual who sustains a special injury therefrom may maintain a private action to recover his special damages, or may bring suit for an injunction.

If the road is so constructed as to constitute a nuisance, the company is liable to indictment, as discussed infra §§ 194–196, or a suit in equity may be maintained to abate the nuisance,[90] or an in-

69. Ind.—State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 86 Ind. 114.

70. N.Y.—Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. 508.

71. Or.—Wolfard v. Fisher, 84 P. 850, 87 P. 530, 48 Or. 479, 7 L.R.A., N.S., 991.
51 C.J. p 735 note 92.

72. Utah—Stockdale v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 77 P. 849, 28 Utah 201.

73. Mo.—Tate v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 64 Mo. 149.

74. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 129 S.W. 96, 133 Ky. 749.
51 C.J. p 735 note 95.

75. N.J.—Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 59 A. 303, 68 N.J.Eq. 500, affirmed 65 A. 1117, 70 N.J.Eq. 806.
51 C.J. p 736 note 96.

76. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bentley, 64 Ill. 438.

Pa.—Commonwealth v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 37 Pa.Co. 5.

77. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Nashua, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray 54.
51 C.J. p 736 note 98

78. Ky.—Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 80 Ky. 147.
51 C.J. p 736 note 99.

79. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. 339, 67 Am.D. 471.

80. N.Y.—People v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 58 N.E. 138, 164 N.Y. 289.

81. N.J.—State v. Warren R. Co., 29 N.J.Law 353.

82. Vt.—State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103.

83. Conn.—Cowles v. New York, etc., R. Co., 66 A. 1024, 80 Conn. 58—Cowles v. New York, etc., R. Co., 66 A. 1020, 80 Conn. 48, 12 L.R.A., N.S., 1067, 10 Ann.Cas. 481.

84. N.Y.—Ward v. Erie R. Co., 149 N.Y.S. 717, 87 Misc. 365, affirmed 154 N.Y.S. 94, 167 App.Div. 950, affirmed 109 N.E. 1095, 215 N.Y. 629.
51 C.J. p 736 note 5.

85. N.Y.—Ward v. Erie R. Co., supra.

86. Fla.—Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 So. 158, 23 Fla. 546, 11 Am.S.R. 395.
51 C.J. p 736 note 7.

87. Mass.—Attwill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 140 N.E. 928, 246 Mass. 292.
Ohio.—Little Miami, etc., R. Co. v. Green County, 31 Ohio St. 338.

88. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 225 S.W. 502, 189 Ky. 599.

89. Mass.—Attwill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 140 N.E. 928, 246 Mass. 292.

90. Wash.—State v. Benton County Super. Ct., 111 P. 19, 60 Wash. 279.
51 C.J. p 736 note 14.

Regarded as unabatable

Permanent structures of a public character, such as railroads, resulting in damage from nuisance, are dividual who sustains a special injury therefrom may maintain a private action to recover his special damages or protect his rights,[91] or may bring suit for an injunction.[92]

A railroad track built under state franchise cannot be summarily removed by the municipality.[93] When a crossing, as constructed, constitutes a public nuisance, the municipality may summarily abate it,[94] and a municipality may compel the removal of tracks,[95] although where the track does not obstruct traffic the municipality cannot summarily remove it prior to formal declaration by the council that it is a nuisance.[96] In at least one jurisdiction it has been held that, if the railroad is constructed without authority, it is a public nuisance which cannot be enjoined by an abutting owner, but only by the public authorities.[97]

I. MOTIVE POWER AND ROLLING STOCK

§ 192. Motive Power

In the absence of any statutory or charter provision relating thereto, a railroad company may select the kind of motive power which it will use.

In the absence of any statutory or charter provision relating thereto, a railroad company may select the kind of motive power which it will use,[98] and may operate its trains by electricity,[99] the right to use electricity not being affected by the fact that, at the date of the statute under which the company was incorporated, electricity as a motive power was not known[1] or by the fact that the courts had been accustomed to designate railroads incorporated thereunder as steam railroads.[2] A railroad company expressly authorized to select its motive power may adopt whatever it chooses,[3] and may lawfully operate its trains by steam[4] or electricity;[5] and it has the same right with regard to the motive power to be used by another company which it may lawfully permit to use its tracks in the absence of any statutory restriction relating to the latter company.[6]

Where a railroad company is authorized to use either one or the other of two specified motive powers, its adoption of one is not final and it may subsequently change to the other;[7] and, where it is permitted by a municipality to construct its tracks therein on condition of using a certain motive power, the municipality may subsequently authorize it to change to another which it is authorized by its charter to use.[8] Where the right to select the kind of motive power is subsequently restricted by statute so as to exclude steam, the legislature may by a subsequent act remove the restriction.[9] Where regarded as unabatable, and the damage occasioned is at once recoverable.—Kent v. City of Trenton, Mo. App., 48 S.W.2d 571.

91. N.C.—Sarah Good Hosiery Mills v. Carolina, C. & O. Ry., 10 S.E.2d 817, 218 N.C. 277.
51 C.J. p. 736 note 15.

Complaint held sufficient to state cause of action

N.C.—Sarah Good Hosiery Mills v. Carolina, C. & O. Ry., supra.

"Speaking demurrer"

Demurrer which made reference to particular section of code relating to authority of town to close streets of the town was not a "speaking demurrer," and was not subject to objection by plaintiffs, especially where plaintiffs cited the same statute in an amendment to the complaint.—Sanders v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 4 S.E.2d 902, 216 N.C. 312.

92. N.Y.—Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 43 N.E. 76, 148 N.Y. 640.
51 C.J. p. 736 note 16.

93. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. New York, 127 N.Y.S. 513, 142 App.Div. 578, affirmed 95 N.E. 638, 202 N.Y. 212.
44 C.J. p. 1014 note 19.

94. N.Y.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 53 N.E. 44, 533, 158 N.Y. 266, 478.

95. Ind.—City of Indianapolis v. Link Realty Co., 179 N.E. 574, 94 Ind.App. 1.

Switch tracks of private corporation

Duty of private corporation to remove its railroad switch tracks from street after service of notice by city to do so was mandatory and city had power to remove them on corporation's failure to do so.—City of Indianapolis v. Link Realty Co., 179 N.E. 574, 94 Ind.App. 1.

96. Ohio.—Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 554, 8 Cinc.L.Bul. 334.

97. Ky.—Dulaney v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 38 S.W. 1050, 100 Ky. 628, 18 Ky.L. 1088.

98. Pa.—Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 62 A. 109, 213 Pa. 36, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 138.

99. Pa.—Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., supra.—Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 61 A. 881, 212 Pa. 105.

1. Pa.—Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 62 A. 109, 213 Pa. 36, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 138.—Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 61 A. 881, 212 Pa. 105.

2. Pa.—Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 62 A. 109, 213 Pa. 36, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 133.
51 C.J. p. 740 note 86.

3. N.Y.—People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N.Y. 75.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Untermyer, 117 N.Y.S. 443, 133 App.Div. 146, affirmed 89 N.E. 1106, 196 N.Y. 531.

4. N.Y.—People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N.Y. 75.
S.C.—State v. Tupper, 23 S.C.L. 135.

5. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Untermyer, 117 N.Y.S. 443, 133 App.Div. 146, affirmed 89 N.E. 1106, 196 N.Y. 531.

6. N.Y.—People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N.Y. 75.

7. Ill.—McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.—Aledo v. Tri County Light, etc., Co., 187 Ill. App. 554.

8. Ill.—McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.

9. N.Y.—People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N.Y. 75.
51 C.J. p. 741 note 93.

there are no restrictions in the charter as to motive power, an agreement by the company, in consideration of a subsidy from a township, to maintain the road, and to maintain its shops and terminals at a specified city, does not require it to continue the use of steam as a motive power.[10]

§ 193. Rolling Stock

The right to use steam as a motive power and to carry freight and passengers carries with it the right to construct and use the appliances ordinarily employed for such purposes.

The right to use steam as a motive power and to carry freight and passengers carries with it the right to construct and use the appliances ordinarily employed for such purposes, such as locomotive engines, heavy freight and passenger cars, and heavy T rails, commonly used on steam railroads;[11] and the fact that at the date of the statute under which the railroad company was incorporated particular kinds of rails and rolling stock were not in use does not, in the absence of express restriction, affect the right of the railroad company to adopt improved methods and appliances which will facilitate the conduct of its business and are consistent with the public safety.[12]

"Equipment," as applied to railroads, includes the rolling stock and other movable property used in operating the railroad,[13] such as cars, locomotives, etc.[14] While it may mean the necessary adjuncts of a railway,[15] it cannot, however, be construed to include everything that is necessary to the operation of the railroad, and therefore is not broad enough to include structures like machine shops, roundhouses, and the like.[16]

J. OFFENSES INCIDENT TO CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE

§ 194. Criminal Responsibility in General

A railroad company as well as a natural person is liable to indictment for unlawfully obstructing a public highway by the construction and maintenance of its road, and for a breach of duty imposed on it by law for the benefit of the public in respect of highways.

A railroad company as well as a natural person is liable to indictment for unlawfully obstructing a public highway by the construction and maintenance of its road,[17] and such indictment may be maintained either on common-law principles,[18] or under statutes making it an indictable offense for any person to obstruct a public highway.[19] So, also, a railroad company is liable to indictment for a breach of duty imposed on it by law for the benefit of the public in respect of highways,[20] whether such breach of duty assumes the shape of an act of misfeasance or of nonfeasance;[21] and, generally, whenever the act or omission of a company in the construction or maintenance of its road creates a public nuisance, the company is subject to indictment.[22]

Where a statute authorizes a railroad company to "alter and grade" highways at railroad crossings so that travel thereon will not be impeded, a change in the location or route of the highway, without any other statutory authority, is indictable.[23] A railroad company may also be criminally liable for failure to perform its duty to restore a highway to its former condition so as not unnecessarily to impair its usefulness,[24] or to construct a new and sufficient

10. Ind.—Union Trust Co. v. Curtin, 105 N.E. 562, 182 Ind. 61, L.R.A.1915A 699

11. Pa.—Millvale Borough v. Evergreen R. Co., 18 A. 993, 131 Pa. 1, 7 L.R.A. 369
Right to use steam as motive power see supra § 192.

12. Pa.—Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 62 A. 109, 213 Pa. 36, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 138.

13. Ala.—Corpus Juris quoted in W. T. Smith Lumber Co. v. Fox, 164 So. 214, 215, 231 Ala. 159.
Or.—Corpus Juris quoted in Paldanius v. Strauss, 198 P. 253, 255, 100 Or. 497.
Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sandal, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 379.

14. Ala.—Corpus Juris quoted in W. T. Smith Lumber Co. v. Fox, 164 So. 214, 215, 231 Ala. 159
Or.—Corpus Juris quoted in Paldanius v. Strauss, 198 P. 253, 255, 100 Or. 497.
20 C.J. p. 1301 note 57.

15. Ala.—Corpus Juris quoted in W. T. Smith Lumber Co. v. Fox, 164 So. 214, 215, 231 Ala. 159.
Or.—Corpus Juris quoted in Paldanius v. Strauss, 198 P. 253, 255, 100 Or. 497.
20 C.J. p. 1301 note 55.

16. Tex.—Cleburne Nat. Bank v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 66 S.W. 203, 95 Tex. 176.

17. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 225 S.W. 502, 189 Ky. 599.
51 C.J. p. 736 note 20.

18. N.J.—State v. Lackawanna R. Co., 90 A. 1103, 86 N.J.Law 62—New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 13 A. 1, 50 N.J.Law 303, affirmed 23 A. 168, 53 N.J.Law 244.

19. Miss.—Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. State, 8 So. 128, 64 Miss. 5.
51 C.J. p. 737 note 22.

20. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 58 S.W. 478, 702, 109 Ky. 59, 22 Ky.L. 572.
51 C.J. p. 737 note 23.

21. N.J.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 13 A. 1, 50 N.J.Law 303, affirmed 23 A. 168, 53 N.J.Law 244.
Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 101 Pa. 192.

22. W.Va.—State v. Ohio River R. Co., 18 S.E. 582, 38 W.Va. 242.
51 C.J. p. 737 note 26.

23. N.J.—State v. Warren R. Co., 29 N.J.Law 353.

24. W.Va.—State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 16 S.E. 519, 37 W.Va. 108.
51 C.J. p. 737 note 28.

highway in the place of the one appropriated.[25] So a failure to comply with the law requiring a railroad company to construct and maintain fences on the sides of its road,[26] or to construct suitable crossings at, and approaches to, highways,[27] or to keep such crossings and approaches in a safe and proper state of repair,[28] or to keep in repair a highway bridge crossing its track,[29] may render the company liable to prosecution. It is not an offense, however, to maintain an unguarded and dangerous crossing, lawfully constructed, in the absence of any statute requiring gates or watchmen at crossings.[30]

Companies liable. The lessee of a railroad may be liable to indictment for failing to construct a new highway in the place of the one taken by the lessor company in the construction of the road without performing such duty as required by statute.[31]

§ 195. Defenses

It is generally a good defense to an indictment and prosecution incident to construction and maintenance of a railroad that the act alleged was done under authority of the state or that it was done under authority of a municipality.

It is generally a good defense that the act alleged was done under authority of the state[32] or that it was done under the authority of a municipality.[33] So, on an indictment for obstructing a street, it is a good defense that the obstruction was caused by the act of the municipality in raising the grade of the street without requiring the railroad company to elevate its trestle, although such trestle constituted a nuisance.[34] A railroad company charged with maintaining a nuisance at a highway crossing may not show in defense that the crossing was no worse than other places on the highway;[35] nor is it a defense to an indictment against a company for obstructing a turnpike road that it would require a large sum of money so to lower the bed of the turnpike as to make it pass under the railroad, and thus remove the obstruction.[36] Long acquiescence by county authorities and the public in the obstruction of a highway by a railroad track across it will not bar the right to prosecute the company for a continuing obstruction of the road in violation of statute.[37]

Existence of other remedy. The remedy by indictment is not affected by the existence of a remedy by mandamus,[38] or the existence of a statutory remedy,[39] such as a penalty to be recovered by a civil action,[40] or by the fact that the public authorities in charge of highways might do what the railroad company omitted and recover therefor from the company;[41] nor does the fact that a person injured has a private remedy affect the right of the state to indict for the public wrong.[42]

Limitation of prosecution. Where the offense is a continuing one,[43] such as a failure to restore a highway to its former condition, or construct a new highway in lieu of one taken, as required by statute,[44] the statute of limitations does not apply, but the rule is otherwise where there is no act of continuous wrongdoing.[45]

§ 196. Prosecution and Punishment

a. In general
b. Evidence
c. Trial and judgment

a. In General

An indictment for obstructing a highway must allege with certainty every fact essential to show the commission of the offense charged, and the material facts must

25. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 12 A. 38, 117 Pa. 637.
51 C.J. p 737 note 29

26. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent. R. Co., 5 Park Cr. 195.

27. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N.Y. 302.

28. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 58 S.W. 478, 702, 109 Ky. 59, 22 Ky.L. 572.
51 C.J. p 737 note 32.

29. Me.—State v. Gorham, 37 Me. 451.
N.J.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 13 A. 1, 50 N.J.Law 303, affirmed 23 A. 168, 53 N.J.Law 244.
51 C.J. p 737 note 33.

30. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 28 Pa.Dist. 872.

31. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 12 A. 38, 117 Pa. 637.

32. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 78 Pa.Super. 389
51 C.J. p 737 note 36.

33. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 129 S.W. 96, 138 Ky. 749

34. Tenn.—Southern R. Co. v. State, 169 S.W. 1173, 130 Tenn. 261, L.R.A.1915B 766.

35. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 149 S.W. 898, 149 Ky. 459.

36. Pa.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 90 Pa. 300.

37. W.Va.—State v. Western Maryland R. Co., 81 S.E. 1039, 74 W.Va. 256

38. Ind.—State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 22 N.E. 207, 120 Ind. 298.
51 C.J. p 738 note 42.

39. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 11 S.W. 1035, 52 Ark. 51.

N.Y.—People v. New York Cent. R. Co., 74 N.Y. 302.

40. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 11 S.W. 1035, 52 Ark. 51.

41. N.J.—State v. Lackawanna R. Co., 90 A. 1103, 86 N.J.Law 62.
51 C.J. p 738 note 43.

42. Pa.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 90 Pa. 300.

43. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa.Super. 336.
W.Va.—State v. Ohio River R. Co., 18 S.E. 582, 38 W.Va. 242.

44. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa.Super. 336.
W.Va.—State v. Ohio River R. Co., 18 S.E. 582, 38 W.Va. 242.

45. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 26 S.W. 536, 16 Ky.L. 68.
51 C.J. p 738 note 50.

be charged with such fullness as to show the complete offense.

An indictment for obstructing a highway must allege with certainty[46] every fact essential to show the commission of the offense charged,[47] and the material facts must be charged with such fullness as to show the complete offense.[48] Where the offense consists in the omission of some duty which is purely statutory, the duty of the railroad company to perform the act omitted must be averred.[49] It is not necessary to use the exact language of the statute if words of equivalent import are used;[50] nor on an indictment under a statute for obstructing a public highway is it necessary to allege that the act was "knowingly and willfully" done where the statute does not use this expression as an element of the offense,[51] although the rule is otherwise where the statute requires that the obstruction must be willful in order to constitute an offense.[52] An indictment for encroaching on the highway, which is not based on a statute imposing on railroads the duty to construct sufficient bridges or passages over its tracks so as not to impede travel, need not set out such statute.[53]

If the acts alleged as constituting the offense might, under certain circumstances, be lawful, these circumstances must be negatived by proper averments;[54] and, hence, where the statute authorizes railroad companies to obstruct highways temporarily, an indictment for obstructing a highway must allege facts showing that the obstruction was not such as was authorized by statute.[55] So, where a company is authorized to construct its road across a highway, an indictment for maintaining a public nuisance in so doing must allege that the obstruction was maintained for an unreasonable length of time;[56] and, where a railroad company is authorized to construct a bridge across navigable waters, provided it is not so constructed as "to prevent" the navigation of such waters, an indictment which merely alleges that navigation is "obstructed and impeded" is not sufficient.[57] It has been held, however, that it is not necessary to aver that the railroad company had no license to occupy the highway,[58] or that it had not complied with the conditions of its franchise to cross the highway.[59]

Any material variance between the allegations of the indictment and the proof is fatal to a conviction.[60] Where an indictment charges the unlawful obstruction of a highway, in violation of statute, by maintaining a track across it so as to render such highway impassable, the state is not limited to showing that the highway was rendered impassable, but may show any unlawful obstruction.[61]

b. Evidence

The burden is on the state to prove every essential element of the offense charged, and on defendant railroad company to establish any matter of affirmative defense

In accordance with the rules of criminal procedure, the burden is on the state to prove every essential element of the offense charged,[62] and on defendant railroad company to establish any matter of affirmative defense.[63] The general rules of criminal procedure as to the admissibility[64] and sufficiency[65] of evidence are applicable in prosecutions against railroads.

c. Trial and Judgment

On an indictment against a railroad company for obstructing a highway, the question of the validity of the company's charter cannot be raised or determined.

On an indictment against a railroad company for obstructing a highway, the question of the validity of 46. Ky.—Maysville, etc., R Co. v. Commonwealth, 10 Ky.L. 818.

51 C.J. p 738 note 52

47. Iowa.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 19 N.W. 299, 63 Iowa 508.
51 C J p 738 note 53

48. N.C.—State v. Roanoke R, etc, Co, 13 S E. 713, 109 N C. 860.
51 C J p 738 note 54.

49. N Y.—People v. New York Cent. R Co, 5 Park.Cr. 195.
51 C.J. p 738 note 55.

50. Fla.—Palatka, etc, R. Co. v. State, 3 So. 158, 23 Fla 546, 11 Am. S R. 395.
51 C.J. p 738 note 56.

51. W Va.—State v. Chesapeake, etc, R. Co., 24 W Va. 809.
51 C.J. p 738 note 57.

52. Fla.—Savannah, etc, R. Co. v. State, 3 So. 204, 23 Fla. 579.

53. N J.—State v. Lackawanna R. Co, 90 A. 1103, 86 N J Law 62
51 C J. p 739 note 59.

54. Iowa.—State v. Chicago, etc., R Co, 19 N.W. 299, 63 Iowa 508
51 C J. p 739 note 60.

55. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 47 S W. 258, 104 Ky. 366, 20 Ky.L. 606.
51 C J. p 739 note 61.

56. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Morganfield, etc, R. Co., 101 S W. 304, 125 Ky 235, 30 Ky L 1274.
51 C.J. p 739 note 62.

57. Me.—State v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 57 Me. 402.

58. W Va.—State v. Dry Fork R. Co, 40 S.E 447, 50 W Va. 235.

59. W Va.—State v. Western Maryland R. Co., 81 S E 1039, 74 W.Va. 256.

60. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. Commonwealth, 149 S W 898, 149 Ky 459
51 C J. p 739 note 66.

61. W.Va.—State v. Western Maryland R. Co, 81 S E 1039, 74 W.Va. 256.
51 C J. p 739 note 67.

62. W Va.—State v Chesapeake, etc., R. Co, 24 W.Va. 809.
51 C J. p 739 note 69.

63. W Va.—State v Western Maryland R. Co, 81 S.E. 1039, 74 W.Va. 256.
51 C.J. p 739 note 70

64. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. Commonwealth, 149 S.W. 898, 149 Ky. 459
51 C.J. p 740 note 71.

65. Ky.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 129 S W. 94, 138 Ky 742.
51 C J. p 740 note 72.

the company's charter cannot be raised or determined.[66]

Questions for jury. On an indictment against a railroad company for obstructing a highway, where defendant claims to have constructed a new highway in the place of the one appropriated, the question of the sufficiency of the new highway is for the jury;[67] and, where a statute requires a railroad company to construct crossings so as not to impede travel on the highway, and on an indictment for maintaining an illegal crossing it is shown that the width of the highway was somewhat narrowed, but it is not free from doubt as to whether it was such as to impede travel, the question is for the jury.[68]

Instructions. On the trial of an indictment against a railroad corporation for encroaching on a highway, by constructing a bridge less than the width of the highway where its road crossed the highway below grade, it was error for the court to charge that the question of defendant's guilt depended on whether the bridge obstructed or hindered the enjoyment of the highway by the public, independently of the further question whether the company had, in compliance with the statute, restored the highway as nearly as might be to its former state, so as not unnecessarily to impair its usefulness, since the language of the charter implies that a railroad crossing will, to some extent, impair the usefulness of the road.[69]

Judgment. On an indictment for obstructing a highway, a judgment can be rendered requiring the removal of the obstruction,[70] although, where the illegality of the obstruction is due merely to the manner in which the railroad was constructed, the judgment should permit the company to make such changes as will prevent the railroad from obstructing travel, rather than order its absolute removal from the highway.[71] On an indictment for breach of a statutory duty to reconstruct a highway in lieu of one taken, however, the sentence cannot require the company to remove the obstruction from the old road or to construct a new one, but can go no further than to punish for the offense committed.[72] The confirmation by statute of the illegal location of a railroad in a highway is no ground for arresting judgment on an indictment for a nuisance by such obstruction on which the railroad company has been convicted before the passage of the statute.[73]

VIII. SALES, LEASES, TRAFFIC CONTRACTS, AND CONSOLIDATION

A. IN GENERAL

§ 197. Right to Alienate or Transfer Franchises or Property Generally

The power of a railroad company to alienate or transfer its property and franchises is governed by the general principle that a corporation may exercise only such powers as are expressly conferred or necessarily implied as fairly incidental thereto, and a company cannot, without legislative authority, alienate its franchises or property necessary for the exercise thereof.

The power of a railroad company to alienate or transfer its property and franchises is governed by the general principle that a corporation may exercise only such powers as are expressly conferred or necessarily implied as fairly incidental thereto;[74] and, further, that a charter to operate a railroad is granted primarily in the interest of the public, and its acceptance imposes on the company certain obligations to the public from which it cannot voluntarily absolve itself,[75] so that, although the legislature may authorize such alienation either in whole or in part,[76] a company cannot, without legislative authority, alienate its franchises or property necessary for the exercise thereof,[77] or by contract,[78]

66. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 23 Pa.Super. 235.

67. W.Va.—State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 16 S.E. 519, 37 W.Va. 108.

68. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 23 Pa.Super. 235.

69. N.Y.—People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N.Y. 266, 270.
51 C.J. p 740 note 77.

70. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 33 Pa.Super. 452.
51 C.J. p 740 note 78.

71. Fla.—Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 So. 158, 23 Fla. 546, 11 Am.S.R. 395.

72. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 101 Pa. 192—Commonwealth v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa.Super. 336.

73. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 14 Gray 93.

74. N.J.—Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 24 A. 964, 50 N.J.Eq. 52, 17 L.R.A. 97.
51 C.J. p 741 note 97.

75. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., Pa., 11 S.Ct. 478, 139 U.S. 24, 35 L.Ed. 55.
51 C.J. p 741 note 98.

76. Mass.—East Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Eastern R. Co., 13 Allen 422.

77. Ga.—South Western R. Co. v. Benton, 58 S.E.2d 905, 206 Ga. 770, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 44, 340 U.S. 815, 95 L.Ed. ——.
51 C.J. p 741 note 1.

78. Colo.—Pueblo, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 5 Colo. 1, 45 Am.R. 512.
51 C.J. p 741 note 2.
Lease to another railroad see infra § 203 et seq.
Sale or conveyance see infra § 199 et seq.

or otherwise[79] absolve or incapacitate itself from the proper performance of its public duties, or delegate them to another;[80] nor can a company, which has been granted a franchise to construct a public road, farm out a part of its franchise so as to enable a private individual to construct a part of such road on its right of way and operate it for his own benefit as a private road.[81]

§ 198. Constitutional and Statutory Provisions in General

Constitutional and statutory provisions authorizing a railroad to sell the road or to purchase the road of another are discussed infra § 199. Provisions authorizing the making or taking of a lease are discussed infra § 208, and authority to consolidate infra § 235.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

B. SALES

§ 199. Right to Sell or Purchase

A railroad company cannot, without legislative authority, sell its franchise to be a corporation, or its road and franchises for maintaining and operating it, or any real estate acquired and held solely for the purpose of exercising such franchises, and the same rule applies to the right to purchase the road, property, and franchises of another company.

A railroad company cannot, without legislative authority, sell its franchise to be a corporation,[82] or its road and franchises for maintaining and operating it,[83] or any real estate acquired and held solely for the purpose of exercising such franchises.[84] The same rule applies to the right to purchase the road, property, and franchises of another company.[85] To constitute a valid sale there must be both a power to sell in the vendor and a power to purchase in the vendee,[86] and a charter provision authorizing a particular company to purchase any other railroad confers no authority on any other company to sell to it,[87] but a provision authorizing it to purchase the property and franchises of a particular company impliedly authorizes the latter to sell.[88]

Authority to sell a railroad or to purchase the road of another company is in some cases conferred in express terms.[89] Express authority to sell need not have been conferred exclusively by an express amendment of the selling corporation's charter,[90] but a grant of power in another mode may be sufficient.[91] Authority to sell or purchase cannot be implied from authority to lease[92] or mortgage,[93] or generally, although the contrary has been held,[94] to consolidate,[95] or make running arrangements,[96] or connect or unite with,[97] other roads; nor can a prohibition against a sale to a parallel or competing line be construed as authority to sell to a company whose road is not parallel or competing.[98] The right of a railroad to take up its rails and dispose of them will not be implied from a court ruling that an order of the railroad commission requiring the road to operate at a loss was unreasonable.[99]

Even in the case of express authority to sell or purchase, the right cannot be extended beyond the provisions of the statute,[1] as where the statute refers

79. Mass.—Attorney General v Boston, etc, R Co, 124 N.E 257, 233 Mass 460.
51 C J. p 741 note 5.

80. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co, Pa, 11 S.Ct. 478, 139 U S 24, 35 L Ed 55.

81. Pa.—Appeal of Stewart, 56 Pa. 413.

82. N Y.—Welch v Old Dominion Min, etc., Co., 10 N.Y S. 174, 56 Hun 647.
51 C J. p 741 note 11.

83. U S.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Commonwealth, Ky, 16 S Ct 714, 161 U S 677, 40 L.Ed 849.
51 C J. p 741 note 12.

84. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Englestein, 164 N E 189, 333 Ill. 117.
51 C J p 741 note 13.

85. N C.—Manning v. Atlantic, etc, R. Co, 125 S.E 555, 188 N.C. 648.
51 C.J p 742 note 14.

86. Tex.—East Line, etc., R. Co v. Rushing, 6 S W. 834, 69 Tex. 306.

87. Md.—State v. Consolidation Coal Co, 46 Md. 1.

88. Conn.—New York, etc, R. Co. v. New York, etc, R. Co., 52 Conn 274.

89. Ill.—People v. City of Chicago, 182 N.E 419, 349 Ill. 304.
51 C.J p 742 note 18.
Sale to competitor
Statute authorizing railroads to sell properties to domestic corporations empowered to purchase such properties was held not objectionable because not expressly prohibiting sale to competitor.—People v. City of Chicago, supra.

90. N.C.—Manning v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 125 S.E. 555, 188 N C. 648.

91. N.C.—Manning v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co, supra.

92. N J.—Elkins v Camden, etc., R Co., 36 N.J.Eq. 5.

93. N.M.—Southern Pac R. Co v. Esquibel, 20 P. 109, 4 N M. 337
Tex.—Gulf, etc, R Co v. Morris, 4 S.W. 156, 67 Tex 692.

94. N.C.—Manning v. Atlantic, etc, R. Co, 125 S E. 555, 188 N.C. 648
51 C.J p 742 note 23.

95. U S.—Mackintosh v. Flint, etc, R. Co, C.C Mich, 34 F. 582.
51 C.J. p 742 note 24.

96. N M.—Southern Pac. R Co. v. Esquibel, 20 P. 109, 4 N.M. 337.

97. U S.—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. Commonwealth, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U S. 677, 40 L.Ed 849.
Ind.—Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc, R. Co., 50 Ind 85.

98. Tex.—East Line, etc, R. Co. v. State, 12 S.W. 690, 75 Tex. 434.

99. Ark.—State R. Commission v. Saline River R. Co., 177 S.W. 896, 119 Ark. 239.

1. Ala.—Spence v. Mobile, etc., R. Co, 79 Ala 576.
51 C J. p 743 note 30.

only to connecting lines[2] or companies of the same state[3] So, a statute authorizing a company which is unable to complete its road to sell to another company does not authorize the sale of a completed road;[4] and a statute authorizing a company to purchase any railroad "constructed" by any other company, if the roads of such companies are connected or continuous, does not authorize one company to purchase the property and franchises of another prior to the construction of its road[5] It has also been held that a grant of power to a company to locate and construct branch roads does not confer any authority to purchase and operate a road already constructed under a different charter,[6] but that a company authorized to construct a line of railroad on a particular route and to purchase property of all kinds may purchase as a part of its line a road already constructed on a part of the route authorized.[7] A company, although authorized to sell its road, has no power to sell its conditional stock subscriptions, where the condition has not been performed so as to entitle the purchaser to perform it and enforce the subscription;[8] and there can be no sale of the right of way apart from the franchise to operate the road to one having no right to exercise such franchise.[9]

Authority to sell franchise. The legislature may, subject to any constitutional limitations and restrictions, authorize one railroad company to purchase from another even its franchise to be a corporation.[10]

Ratification. The sale of a railroad, although made without legislative authority, may be ratified and rendered valid by a subsequent legislative enactment.[11]

§ 200. —— Continuous or Connecting Lines

A statute authorizing the purchase of connecting lines does not require a technical sale, but any contract or agreement by which a railroad acquires such lines in a lawful manner is sufficient.

A statute authorizing the purchase of connecting lines does not require a technical sale,[12] but any contract or agreement by which a railroad acquires such lines in a lawful manner is sufficient.[13] There is authority for the view that, where a railroad company, by reason of a lack of proper running arrangements with other roads, is unable to pay its expenses, and it appears unavoidable that it must go to sale, either under a mortgage or under judgments obtained by its general creditors, there is nothing wrong or fraudulent in connecting companies combining and forming an association for purchasing it, and for operating it, under such arrangements as will give it through connections, enable it better to serve the public, and afford profit to its owners.[14]

§ 201. —— Parallel or Competing Lines

The state may prohibit the sale of a railroad to a company owning a parallel or competing line, or restrict a general power to sell previously given so as to exclude sales to such companies where the right has not been acted on.

The state may prohibit the sale of a railroad to a company owning a parallel or competing line,[15] or restrict a general power to sell previously given so as to exclude sales to such companies where the right has not been acted on.[16] Accordingly, in some jurisdictions there are constitutional or statutory provisions expressly prohibiting a company from purchasing or acquiring control of a parallel or competing line,[17] the object being to promote competition and prevent monopolies.[18] Such a prohibition cannot be evaded by letting the transfer take the form of a judicial sale,[19] or a long-term lease with the power of renewal,[20] or the purchase of a controlling interest in the stock of such company,[21] or by interposing a nominal trustee as

2. Tex.—East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 12 S.W. 690, 75 Tex. 434—East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 6 S.W. 834, 69 Tex. 306.
3. Ga.—Upson County R. Co. v. Sharman, 37 Ga. 644.
4. U.S.—Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., C.C.Mich., 34 F. 582.
5. Neb.—Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Neb. 458, 5 Neb. 314.
6. N.J.—Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N.J.Eq. 5.
51 C.J. p 743 note 35.
7. U.S.—Branch v. Jesup, Ga., 1 S. Ct. 495, 106 U.S. 468, 27 L.Ed. 279.
8. Ohio.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Hinsdale, 15 N.E. 665, 45 Ohio St. 556.
9. U.S.—East Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Doe, Ala., 5 S.Ct. 869, 114 U.S. 340, 28 L.Ed. 136.
51 C.J. p 743 note 38.
10. Ohio.—State v. Sherman, 22 Ohio St. 411
51 C.J. p 743 note 39.
11. Ill.—Hatcher v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 62 Ill. 477.
R.I.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R.I. 260.
12. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Doyle, 100 N.E. 278, 256 Ill. 514.
13. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Doyle, supra.
14. Mo.—Kitchen v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo. 224.
15. Tex.—East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 6 S.W. 834, 69 Tex. 306.
16. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U.S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849—Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., Minn., 16 S.Ct. 705, 161 U.S. 646, 40 L.Ed. 838.
17. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 146 S.W. 767, 148 Ky. 94
51 C.J. p 743 note 46.
18. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 7 A. 363, 3 Pa.Cas. 83.
51 C.J. p 743 note 47.
19. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U.S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.
20. Ind.—Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85.
21. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v.

purchaser;[22] and stockholders have no such right to sell their stock as will prevent the granting of an injunction to prevent a company from obtaining control of a competing line.[23] Independently of express prohibition, such purchases are contrary to public policy.[24]

Lines within prohibition. In order to be within the prohibition of the constitutional and statutory provisions referred to, the roads need not be parallel in a strictly mathematical sense,[25] and may be competing, although not parallel,[26] or may be competing by reason of their relations with, control, or management of lines other than their own.[27] Lines still under construction and uncompleted may be within the prohibition,[28] but lines running in different directions, and which do not run through and serve the same territory and are not competitors for business, are not,[29] although a distant point may be reached by such lines through their connections.[30] A company may, for the purpose of facilitating and enlarging its business, acquire land and build an additional road parallel to its own.[31]

In determining whether they are parallel or competing, the lines which the companies are authorized by their charters to construct as well as those which have been actually constructed must be considered.[32]

Construction. Constitutional and statutory provisions prohibiting acquisition of competing lines should be reasonably construed according to the purposes of their enactment and their application limited accordingly.[33] Penal statutes must, in accordance with the general rule, be strictly construed.[34]

§ 202. —— Subscription to, or Purchase of, Stock

A railroad company has no right to become an incorporator or subscriber to the stock of another railroad company, or to invest its corporate funds in the purchase of such stock, except where it is authorized to do so by its charter or statute.

While a railroad company may take stock of another railroad company by way of security for a debt,[35] it has no right to become an incorporator or subscriber to the stock of another railroad company,[36] or to invest its corporate funds in the purchase of such stock,[37] particularly where the object is to secure an interest in the management of such road,[38] except where it is authorized to do so by its charter or statute;[39] and independently of the right to hold stock in another corporation the rule against the sale or purchase of a railroad without legislative authority prevents one railroad company from acquiring the virtual ownership or control of another by the acquisition of a controlling interest in its stock.[40]

If a statute authorizes a company to acquire by purchase or other lawful contract the road and franchises of any other company, however, it may purchase a majority of the stock of another company for the purpose of gaining the control and practical ownership thereof,[41] and, where a statute authorizes one company which is unable to complete the construction of its road to sell it to another company, such other company may purchase a controlling interest in its stock.[42] The legislature may, under a power reserved to alter or amend a charter, authorize one railroad company to subscribe to, or Commonwealth, 7 A. 368, 3 Pa.Cas 83.

51 C J. p 743 note 50.

22. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Commonwealth, supra—Commonwealth v. Beech Creek, etc, R. Co, 1 Pa.Co. 223, affirmed 7 A. 374, 3 Pa.Cas. 100

23. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 7 A. 368, 3 Pa Cas. 83.

24. Ga.—Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582.
51 C.J. p 744 note 53.

25. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 31 S.W. 476, 97 Ky. 675, 17 Ky.L. 427.

26. Tex.—East Line, etc., R Co. v. Rushing, 6 S.W. 834, 69 Tex. 306.

27. Tex.—East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 12 S W. 690, 75 Tex. 434.
51 C J. p 744 note 57.

28. Ohio.—State v. Cleveland, etc., R Co., 13 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 145, 32 Ohio Cir.Ct. 147.
51 C.J. p 744 note 58.

29. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co, 146 S W. 767, 148 Ky. 94.
51 C.J p 744 note 59.

30. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Franzen, 122 N.E. 492, 287 Ill. 346.

31. Ill.—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v. Chicago, etc, R. Co, 71 N.E 1017, 211 Ill 352.
51 C J p 744 note 61

32. Ill.—Illinois State Trust Co. v. St Louis, etc, R. Co., 75 N.E 562, 217 Ill. 504.
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 7 A. 368, 3 Pa.Cas. 83.

33. U S.—Kimball v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., C.C.Mo., 46 F. 888.
Ill.—Illinois State Trust Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 75 N E. 562, 217 Ill. 504

34. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 146 S.W. 767, 148 Ky. 94.
51 C J. p 744 note 65.

35. N.Y.—Milbank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 64 How Pr. 20.

36. Mass.—Williams v. Johnson, 95 N E 90, 208 Mass 544.
51 C.J. p 744 note 68.

37. Ga.—Hazelhurst v. Savannah, etc., R. Co, 43 Ga. 13.
51 C.J. p 744 note 69.

38. Ga.—Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga 582.
51 C.J. p 744 note 70.

39. N.Y.—Oelbermann v. New York, etc., R. Co., 29 N.Y.S. 545, 77 Hun 332.
51 C.J. p 744 note 71.

40. Ga.—Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582.
N.J.—Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co, 36 N.J.Eq. 5.

41. U.S.—Lisman v. Knickerbocker Trust Co., Mich., 211 F. 413, 128 C.C.A. 85.
N.Y.—Wehrhane v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 42 Hun 660, 4 N.Y.St.R. 541.

42. Mich.—Dewey v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 51 N.W. 1063, 91 Mich. 351.

purchase stock of, another company,[43] but the right to do so will not be implied but must be clearly conferred.[44]

A statute authorizing one company, for the purpose of forming a connection, to aid another in the construction of its road by means of a subscription to its capital stock does not authorize a purchase of the stock of such company from its stockholders,[45] or the purchase of the capital stock of a company other than a railroad company.[46] A provision forbidding a corporation to engage in business other than that expressly authorized does not prevent a railroad company from purchasing stock in other kinds of corporations.[47] In passing on such transaction the courts will have regard to their objects and purposes rather than the means by which they are effected.[48] Under some statutes, a railroad may own capital stock of a motor transportation company and enter into a working agreement with such company.[49]

Stock of connecting line. Ownership by a railroad company of the stock of a connecting line[50] or feeder[51] has been held not to be illegal. Statutes in some jurisdictions authorize railroads to purchase stock in connecting lines,[52] and a statute authorizing a railroad to purchase stock in any railroad whose line connects with its own applies to the purchase of stock of a foreign as well as a domestic company.[53]

§ 203. —— Consent and Rights of Stockholders

The consent of the stockholders of a railroad company, that seeks to sell, or purchase the road or the controlling interest in, the stock of another company, is a prerequisite to the validity of such sale or purchase, even where the sale or purchase is authorized by statute.

The consent of the stockholders of a railroad company, that seeks to sell its road, or purchase the road or the controlling interest in, the stock of another company, is a prerequisite to the validity of such sale[54] or purchase,[55] even where the sale or purchase is authorized by statute.[56] Where the sale or purchase is authorized and there is no provision to the contrary, the consent of a majority of the stockholders is sufficient,[57] but statutes in some jurisdictions control the matter.[58] Stockholders of one of the contracting railroads may sue to enjoin an ultra vires sale or purchase,[59] or, pending an inquiry into the adequacy of the consideration, a contemplated sale of the road.[60]

43. N.Y.—White v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 14 Barb. 559.

44. Ga.—Hazelhurst v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 43 Ga. 13.

45. Ohio.—Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Burke, 10 Ohio Dec. Reprint, 136, 19 Cinc. L. Bul. 27.

46. Ohio.—Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Burke, supra.
51 C.J. p. 745 note 79.

47. Mo.—State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 144 S.W. 863, 241 Mo. 1.
51 C.J. p. 745 note 80.

48. N.J.—Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N.J.Eq. 5.

49. Ohio.—Cleveland, Columbus & Cincinnati Highway v. Public Utilities Commission, 60 N.E.2d 166, 144 Ohio St. 557.

50. Mo.—State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 144 S.W. 863, 241 Mo. 1.
N.Y.—People v. Public Service Commission, 183 N.Y.S. 930, 193 App. Div. 322.

51. Ohio.—State v. Hocking Valley R. Co., 8 Ohio App. 450.

52. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Cochran, 23 P. 151, 43 Kan. 225, 19 Am.S.R. 129, 7 L.R.A. 414.
51 C.J. p. 745 note 84.

53. U.S.—Venner v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., C.C.Kan., 28 F. 581, appeal dismissed 9 S.Ct. 804, 131 U.S. 449, 33 L.Ed. 221.

54. R.I.—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R.I. 260.

55. U.S.—Nashua, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., Mass., 10 S. Ct. 1004, 136 U.S. 356, 34 L.Ed. 363.
51 C.J. p. 745 note 87.

56. U.S.—Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., C.C.Mich., 34 F. 582.
R.I.—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R.I. 260.

57. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Jarvis, 87 S.W. 759, 27 Ky.L. 986.
51 C.J. p. 746 note 89.

58. Ga.—South Western R. Co. v. Benton, 58 S.E.2d 905, 206 Ga. 770, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 44, 340 U.S. 815, 95 L.Ed. ——.
51 C.J. p. 746 note 90.

Amendment to authorize sale by majority stockholders

(1) Where charter granted by state to a railroad corporation does not itself contain authority to corporation to sell its franchise and property, and state does not therein or by general law in force at time charter is granted reserve right to change, alter, or modify charter, it cannot thereafter by specific amendment authorize such a sale without unanimous consent of stockholders.—South Western R. Co. v. Benton, supra.

(2) Where United States supreme court held that question of whether sale by defendant railroad of its franchises and properties was required to be authorized by unanimous consent or by majority vote only of its stockholders was one to be determined by state courts and state courts held unanimous consent to be necessary under charter granted to such corporation and under state law, it would not be assumed by state supreme court that either interstate commerce commission or federal courts would override and nullify such judgment on application made by defendants, and sustaining of demurrers to amendments to defendant's answers based on such allegations was not error.—South Western R. Co. v. Benton, supra.

Minor changes in roadbed

Statutory provisions authorizing sale of part of railroad or extension thereof only with consent of stockholders were held inapplicable to minor changes in roadbed and method of operation made necessary to enable railroad to use union passenger station.—Atwater v. Wheeling & L. E. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 56 F.2d 720.

59. Ga.—South Western R. Co. v. Benton, 58 S.E.2d 905, 206 Ga. 770, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 44, 340 U.S. 815, 95 L.Ed. ——.
51 C.J. p. 746 note 91.

Enjoining stockholders' meeting

Ga.—South Western R. Co. v. Benton, supra.

60. Ala.—South, etc., R. Co. v. Gray, 49 So. 347, 160 Ala. 497.
51 C.J. p. 746 note 92.

Estoppel. Stockholders may be estopped to question the validity of a sale or purchase, or to have it declared invalid.[61]

Stock of dissenting stockholder. An unauthorized attempted sale by the majority of the stock of minority stockholders may be enjoined by the latter.[62] Under a statute permitting a railroad corporation to petition for valuation of the stock, a dissenting minority stockholder may petition for an appraisal of his stock,[63] and, where the sale is made subject to the rights of the dissenting stockholder, the purchaser will be required to pay the excess value to him.[64]

Vendor's lien. When one company sells its right of way to another, a stockholder of the vendor company is not entitled to a vendor's lien on the property.[65]

§ 204. Requisites and Validity of Conveyance or Contract to Convey

Where the sale is authorized, a conveyance executed by the proper officers and under the corporate seal of the railroad corporation is prima facie valid.

General principles relating to deeds and the formal execution of corporate contracts govern in determining the validity of a conveyance of a railroad as affected by its formal requisites and mode of execution.[66] Where the sale is authorized, a conveyance executed by the proper officers and under the corporate seal of the corporation is prima facie valid.[67] Noncompliance with the requirements of the statute authorizing the sale that all the debts of the vendor shall first be paid will not invalidate the sale, where the amount of such debts is inconsiderable and the purchasing company agrees to pay them.[68]

Estoppel. Where the sale is authorized, the vendor company will be estopped to deny its validity, although there were irregularities in the proceeding, if the sale has been fully executed without question of its validity,[69] or if the purchasing company has been permitted without objection to take possession of the road and make improvements thereon;[70] and an estoppel to question the validity of the sale may also exist against nonconsenting stockholders, as discussed supra § 203, or creditors of the company.[71]

§ 205. Construction and Operation

The property and rights included under a sale of a railroad or of railroad property depends on the intention of the parties as shown by the terms and proper construction of the conveyance.

The property and rights included under a sale of a railroad or of railroad property depends on the intention of the parties as shown by the terms and proper construction of the conveyance,[72] construed in connection with, and subject to, the provisions of the statute authorizing the same,[73] and in connection with other instruments executed as part of the same transaction.[74] Generally speaking, the purchaser takes only what is described in the deed of conveyance,[75] and in the conveyance of a railroad and its "appurtenances" a separate road or interest therein cannot pass as an appurtenance to the road conveyed,[76] nor will land pass as appurtenant to other land, or property of the same class or kind as appurtenant to that conveyed.[77]

The sale of a railroad does not pass the franchise of being a corporation[78] or work a dissolution of the company.[79] A demise of all personal property of a railroad includes an equitable or contingent right to receive a possible surplus remaining from the proceeds of a foreclosure sale after satisfaction of the debt.[80] In a conveyance of railroad property it is not always practicable to require a specific description by metes and bounds of all grounds used for

61. Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Minis, 87 A. 1062, 120 Md. 461, 88 A. 310, 120 Md. 512
51 C.J. p. 746 note 93.

62. Ala.—South, etc., R. Co. v. Gray, 49 So. 347, 160 Ala. 497.

63. N.H.—Hackett v. Boston & M. R. R., 57 A.2d 266, 95 N.H. 45.

64. N.H.—Hackett v. Boston & M. R. R., supra.

65. Iowa.—Cross v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 12 N.W. 71, 58 Iowa 62.

66. Mich.—Young v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 43 N.W. 632, 76 Mich. 485.
51 C.J. p. 746 note 98.

67. Mo.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228.

68. Iowa.—Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437.

69. Ark.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663.
51 C.J. p. 747 note 2.

70. Iowa.—Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437.

71. U.S.—Fogg v. Blair, Mo., 10 S. Ct. 338, 133 U.S. 534, 33 L.Ed. 721
51 C.J. p. 747 note 5.

72. La.—Louisiana R., etc., Co. v. Coushatta, 48 So. 532, 122 La. 1079.
51 C.J. p. 747 note 6.

73. Tex.—Texas Southern R. Co. v. Harle, 105 S.W. 1107, 101 Tex. 170.
51 C.J. p. 747 note 7.

74. U.S.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., D.C.Minn., 53 F.Supp. 534.

75. U.S.—Philadelphia Inv. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 41 F. 378.

76. Pa.—Philadelphia v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. 253.

77. U.S.—Philadelphia Inv. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 41 F. 378.

78. Miss.—Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 17 Miss. 394, 48 Am.D. 719.

79. Miss.—Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, supra
Dissolution by sale of property generally see supra § 18.

80. Mass.—Gray v. Massachusetts Cent. R. Co., 50 N.E. 549, 171 Mass. 116.

depots, side tracks, and the like,[81] and the description will be held sufficient to convey title if it is such that the property intended to be conveyed can be identified and distinguished from all other property.[82]

§ 206. Rights and Liabilities of Purchasers

a. In general
b. Debts, contracts, and personal obligations
c. Covenants or conditions in grant of right of way

a. In General

A railroad company which purchases the road of another must carry out and perform the charter obligations and public duties of its vendor, and takes the road subject to any limitations and conditions imposed on the rights exercised by the grantor.

A railroad company which purchases the road of another must carry out and perform the charter obligations and public duties of its vendor,[83] and takes the road subject to any limitations and conditions imposed on the rights exercised by the grantor,[84] including any limitation or restriction as to the rates chargeable on the road for transportation by the vendor.[85] Special statutory exemptions or privileges of the vendor,[86] such as an immunity from taxation,[87] or the right to fix and determine the rates for transportation,[88] do not, in the absence of express statutory provision, pass to the purchasing company, particularly where the charter of the purchasing company provides that it shall be subject to all the laws applying to railroad companies generally.[89]

Where a contract for the purchase of land by a railroad provides for determination of compensation by commissioners in accordance with the provisions of a statute, the court cannot, after appointing such commissioners, require them to conduct the proceedings in a manner different from that agreed on.[90] Where a railroad company is authorized to purchase stock of another company, it is entitled to vote on such stock[91] and will be liable for assessments thereon.[92]

As to vendor. Conveyance of a majority of the stock of a railroad is not a sufficient compliance with a contract calling for conveyance of perfect title to the railroad,[93] and the vendor is liable for any amount expended by the vendee in perfecting its title to the road in question.[94] A railroad is not liable for the purchase price of a proposed extension after refusal of the interstate commerce commission to award a required certificate of convenience,[95] although there was bad faith on the part of such railroad in applying for the certificate.[96] The assignor can recover from a purchaser of its railroad damages it has sustained as a result of such purchaser's failure to perform a contract assigned by the vendor to the purchaser.[97]

Property impressed with trust. In accordance with the general rule, where any trust is imposed on the property conveyed, and the purchaser takes with knowledge thereof, it takes subject to the performance of the trust.[98]

b. Debts, Contracts, and Personal Obligations

The purchaser is not, in the absence of any statutory provision or agreement to the contrary, liable for the debts, contracts, or personal obligations of the vendor.

The purchaser is not, in the absence of any statutory provision or agreement to the contrary, liable for the debts, contracts, or personal obligations of 81. Mo.—Fordyce v. Rapp, 33 S.W. 57, 131 Mo. 354.

82. Ill.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. 38.
Mo.—Fordyce v. Rapp, 33 S.W. 57, 131 Mo. 354.

83. Kan.—State v. Dodge, etc., R. Co., 36 P. 747, 53 Kan. 377, 42 Am. S.R. 295.
51 C.J. p. 748 note 17.
Purchasers at foreclosure sale see infra §§ 328-338.

84. Ga.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Atlanta, 119 S.E. 712, 156 Ga. 251.
51 C.J. p. 748 note 18.

85. Ala.—Mobile v. Steiner, 61 Ala. 559.
Ohio.—Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 23 Ohio St. 168.

86. Mo.—Sublette v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 69 S.W. 745, 96 Mo.App. 113.
51 C.J. p. 748 note 20.

87. U.S.—Pickard v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 9 S.Ct. 640, 130 U.S. 637, 32 L.Ed. 1051.
51 C.J. p. 748 note 21.

88. U.S.—Matthews v. Corporation Comrs., C.C.N.C., 97 F. 400.
51 C.J. p. 748 note 22.

89. U.S.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pendleton, Va., 15 S.Ct. 413, 156 U.S. 667, 39 L.Ed. 574.

90. N.Y.—In re New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N.E. 559, 103 N.Y. 704.
20 C.J. p. 1032 note 76.

91. N.Y.—Venner v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 164 N.Y.S. 626, 177 App.Div. 296, affirmed 123 N.E. 893, 226 N.Y. 583—Oelbermann v. New York, etc., R. Co., 29 N.Y.S. 545, 77 Hun 332.

92. Ohio.—Smith v. Newark, etc., R. Co., 8 Ohio Cir.Ct. 583, 4 Ohio Cir.Dec. 356.

93. Mo.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Houck, App., 193 S.W. 26.

94. Mo.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Houck, supra.

95. W.Va.—Carleton Min., etc., Co. v. West Virginia Northern R. Co., 145 S.E. 42, 106 W.Va. 126.

96. W.Va.—Carleton Min., etc., Co. v. West Virginia Northern R. Co., supra.

97. Or.—Corvallis, etc., R. Co. v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 163 P. 1173, 84 Or. 524.

98. N.Y.—Thornton v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 45 How.Pr. 416.
51 C.J. p. 748 note 35.

the vendor,[99] where the purchase of a railroad is authorized and is made in good faith for a valuable consideration,[1] but takes the road free from all contracts and claims against the vendor which do not constitute valid liens,[2] or do not run with the land or otherwise bind the property or franchises purchased.[3] Such liability is in some cases imposed by the statute authorizing the sale or purchase,[4] or incorporating the purchasers,[5] or is expressly assumed by the purchaser in the contract of conveyance,[6] but, where the purchaser expressly assumes the debts of its predecessor, the creditors of such company do not acquire a lien on the property but merely the right to look to the purchasing company for payment.[7] The purchaser may adopt the contract imposing the liability, and in such case it will be bound by the terms thereof.[8]

c. Covenants or Conditions in Grant of Right of Way

The purchaser of a railroad is bound by any covenants in the original grant of the right of way which run with the land, but not by covenants which do not run with the land.

The purchaser of a railroad is bound by any covenants in the original grant of the right of way which run with the land,[9] but not by covenants which do not run with the land,[10] although, if a company purchases a road with knowledge of a contract on the part of its vendor, made in consideration of a grant of the right of way, it takes the road subject thereto.[11] Any conditions subsequent in grants of rights of way which will defeat the estate granted should be strictly construed,[12] and a sale and conveyance to another railroad company are not of themselves a breach of a condition that the road constructed on the right of way shall be kept up and operated,[13] or that the land granted shall be used for depot purposes only.[14] Where a company is granted a mere easement for the operation of its own road, an attempted sale of a portion of the right of way to another company for the construction of a road thereon operates as an abandonment of that portion of the right of way,[15] and the purchaser at such sale takes nothing thereunder.[16]

§ 207. Actions

Where the vendors of a railroad covenanted to pay all outstanding debts and deliver the property free from encumbrance, the performance of the covenants is not a condition precedent to the bringing of a suit on a note evidencing the last of a series of payments.

Although any outstanding debt, when the contract so provides, may be pleaded in reduction of the last payment, in an action on a note evidencing the last of a series of payments,[17] where the vendors of a railroad covenanted to pay all outstanding debts and deliver the property free from encumbrance, the performance of the covenants is not a condition precedent to the bringing of such a suit,[18] but the purchasers, in the absence of any charge of the vendors' insolvency, nonresidence, or other equitable reason, are remitted to their remedy in an action on the contract for breach of such covenant.[19] Where property is sold to a railroad company subject to the approval of a commission, which approval is refused, the vendor may sue in equity to cancel the sale and conveyance and require the railroad company to account for the profits derived by it.[20]

Where the sale is authorized, a deed from one railroad to another, signed by the proper officer and under the corporate seal of the grantor, being prima facie valid, as discussed supra § 204, the burden is on any party claiming the sale to be invalid as not assented to by the stockholders to establish such invalidity;[21] but, where the charter of a railroad

99. Kan.—Hukle v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 80 P. 603, 71 Kan. 251.
51 C.J. p. 748 note 36

1. Ga.—Hawkins v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 46 S.E. 82, 119 Ga. 159
Mo.—Powell v. North Missouri R. Co., 42 Mo. 63.

2. Wis.—Menasha v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 9 N.W. 396, 52 Wis. 414.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 38

3. U.S.—Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., Iowa, 10 S.Ct. 753, 135 U.S. 576, 34 L.Ed. 243.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 39

4. Tex.—Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. of Texas v. Johnson, Civ.App., 25 S.W.2d 956, error refused.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 40.

5. Ill.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 43 Ill. 199
51 C.J. p. 749 note 41

6. Iowa.—Woodworth v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 149 N.W. 522, 170 Iowa 697.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 42.

7. U.S.—Hervey v. Illinois Midland R. Co., C.C.Ill., 28 F. 169.

8. U.S.—Taenzer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 170 F. 240, 95 C.C.A. 436.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 44.

9. Ind.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Cosand, 33 N.E. 251, 6 Ind.App. 222.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 45.

10. Mo.—Dickey v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 26 S.W. 685, 122 Mo. 223.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 46.

11. Iowa.—Swan v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 34 N.W. 457, 72 Iowa 650.
51 C.J. p. 749 note 47.

12. N.J.—Southard v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 26 N.J.Law 13.

13. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covington, 2 Bush 526

14. N.J.—Southard v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 26 N.J.Law 13

15. Neb.—Blakely v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 64 N.W. 972, 46 Neb. 272.

16. Neb.—Blakely v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

17. Ga.—Baker v. Smith, 70 S.E. 239, 135 Ga. 628.

18. Ga.—Baker v. Smith, supra.

19. Ga.—Baker v. Smith, supra.

20. W.Va.—Carleton Mining & Power Co. v. West Virginia Northern R. Co., 159 S.E. 44, 110 W.Va. 631.

21. Mo.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228.

requires that the incorporators shall purchase the property and franchises of an existing company as a condition precedent to their organization as a corporate body, such company must, under a plea of nul tiel corporation, show that the purchase was made before it can recover property of the previously existing company [22]

Where the purchaser of a railroad agrees to deliver as a part of the purchase price certain of its own stock and bonds to a certain value and such delivery is not made, the vendor, in suing to recover the balance of the debt, is entitled to recover the full amount, although the market value of such stock and bonds is below par.[23]

By creditors. Where the statute under which the purchase is made imposes a liability on the purchasing company for the debts and liabilities of the vendor, it need not provide any specific remedies in favor of the creditors, but they may sue the purchasing company at common law in debt or assumpsit as the case may be;[24] and, where the purchasing company agrees to assume or pay the debts and liabilities of the vendor, such agreement constitutes a direct liability to creditors of the latter on which they may sue,[25] notwithstanding a provision in the contract of sale that nothing therein should confer any rights on any persons other than the parties thereto.[26] One creditor may sue for and recover the full amount of his claim without making the other creditors parties or suing in their behalf;[27] but, although such liability is imposed by statute, a judgment cannot be rendered against the purchasing company in an action brought against the vendor alone.[28] A contract between the purchasing company and a third party who guarantees that the vendor shall deliver the road free from all liens and encumbrances is personal to the purchasing company, and is not enforceable in equity for the benefit of bondholders of the vendor.[29]

Where railroad properties are sold subject to certain conditions subsequent on the breach of which the property is to revert to the grantor, if such conditions are not performed and the grantor does any act showing an intention to take advantage of the breach, the property is not thereafter subject to attachment for any debt incurred by the purchaser during his possession.[30]

Under a statute providing that actions on liabilities or obligations of a railroad company assumed by a purchasing company shall be barred one year "after notice" of the sale to the creditor or obligee, actual notice, and not constructive notice, is required.[31]

By state to cancel transfer. The state may be barred by laches from prosecuting an action to cancel the transfer by one railroad company of a part of its road to another company.[32]

C. LEASES

§ 208. Right to Make or Take Lease

A railroad cannot, without legislative authority, lease its road to another company.

A railroad company cannot, without legislative authority, lease its road to another company,[33] and in order to constitute a valid lease the lessee must have authority to take as well as the lessor to execute the lease.[34] A railroad may, however, lease to another railroad property which is not actually or potentially in use for railroad purposes,[35] or property which is not presently required in the performance of its duty to the public,[36] and legislative sanction is unnecessary to authorize the railroad's

22. Ill.—Wheadon v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 42 Ill. 494
23. Tex.—Texas Western R. Co. v. Gentry, 8 S.W. 98, 69 Tex. 625
24. Ill.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 43 Ill. 199.
51 C.J. p. 750 note 62.
25. Iowa.—Woodworth v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 149 N.W. 522, 170 Iowa 697.
Wis.—Lenz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 N.W. 607, 111 Wis. 198.
26. Iowa.—Woodworth v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 149 N.W. 522, 170 Iowa 697.
27. Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Butler, 56 Tex. 506.
28. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Fulmore, Civ.App., 26 S.W. 238.
29. Mich.—Randall v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 96 N.W. 567, 134 Mich. 493.
30. U.S.—Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., Mo., 14 S.Ct. 647, 152 U.S. 444, 38 L.Ed. 507.
31. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Batesville, etc., Tel. Co., 110 S.W. 1047, 86 Ark. 300.
32. N.C.—Manning v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 125 S.E. 555, 188 N.C. 648.
51 C.J. p. 750 note 70.
33. Tenn.—Briggs v. Clawson Bros., 8 Tenn.App. 251.
51 C.J. p. 750 note 72.
Permitting use of land by third persons generally see supra § 101.
Adoption of lease
The operation of a railroad in accordance with lease subsequent to time when power to make the lease was created constitutes an adoption of the lease which would otherwise be void as an ultra vires act.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., D.C.Minn., 53 F.Supp. 534.
34. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Ind., 6 S.Ct. 1094, 7 S.Ct. 24, 118 U.S. 290, 630, 30 L.Ed. 83, 284.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 74.
35. U.S.—Phoenix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. New York & H. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 59 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 91, 287 U.S. 645, 77 L.Ed. 558.
36. U.S.—Phoenix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. New York & H. R. Co., supra.

leases of property which it had discontinued using for railroad purposes.[37]

In construing legislative enactments to determine whether authority to make or take leases has been granted, general rules apply.[38] Thus, in determining the authority of a railroad to lease its property and franchises, its charter must be read as a whole,[39] and, if intention to authorize the power is doubtful, the authority must be considered not to have been granted.[40] A practical construction by the parties is not controlling in the absence of a legislative act acquiescing in such interpretation.[41]

An ultra vires lease made without statutory authority may be validated by a subsequent curative statute,[42] but the fact that the legislature, after a company has made an ultra vires lease, passes a statute forbidding the directors of the company, "its lessees or agents," from collecting more than a fixed sum of compensation for carrying passengers and freight, is not a ratification of the lease or an acknowledgment of its validity.[43]

Express grant. The right to lease is frequently conferred in express terms either generally[44] or as between companies of the same state,[45] and such authority may be given either by a charter provision or a subsequent statute, the provisions of which are accepted by the stockholders;[46] but a statute of one state authorizing a company to lease its road has no extraterritorial effect and does not authorize it to lease a road owned by it in another state.[47] In the case of express authority to lease, the right must be limited according to the express provisions of the statute,[48] as in cases where the statute refers only to connecting or continuous lines,[49] and a statute authorizing a lease to another railroad company does not authorize a lease to an individual,[50] nor does a charter provision authorizing a particular company to lease and operate other roads authorize it to lease its own road to another company.[51]

Implied grant. Authority to lease will not ordinarily be implied but must be clearly conferred.[52] Thus authority to lease will not be implied from the use of such terms as "assigns" or "successors,"[53] or from a prohibition against consolidation,[54] or from statutes authorizing the execution of mortgages,[55] or authorizing railroads to consolidate[56] or connect[57] with other roads, or to enter into traffic or other operating contracts,[58] or, although there is authority to the contrary,[59] from the usual grant of powers in railroad charters.[60] Similarly, a charter showing a railroad to be a connecting road between two existing roads,[61] or authorizing such a con-

37. U.S.—Phœnix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. New York & H. R. Co., supra.

38. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., Ill., 12 S. Ct. 953, 145 U.S. 393, 36 L.Ed. 748
51 C.J. p. 751 note 76.

"Rates" defined in connection with company's power to lease its road—Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Maddox, 42 S.E. 315, 116 Ga. 64

39. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., 133 S.E. 888, 145 Va. 266.

40. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 78

41. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., supra.

42. U.S.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, Ind., 102 F. 825, 42 C.C.A. 654, certiorari denied 21 S.Ct. 923, 181 U.S. 618, 45 L.Ed. 1030.

43. U.S.—Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., Pa., 101 U.S. 71, 25 L.Ed. 950.

44. U.S.—Phœnix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. New York & H. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 59 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 91, 287 U.S. 645, 77 L.Ed. 558.
N.Y.—Frank v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 24 N.Y.S.2d 846, 175 Misc. 902, applying Illinois law, affirmed 24 N.Y.S.2d 854, motion denied New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Frank, 61 S.Ct. 729, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 833, 313 U.S. 538, 85 L.Ed. 1507, vacated 61 S.Ct. 938, 313 U.S. 596, 85 L.Ed. 1550, and affirmed 62 S.Ct. 258, 314 U.S. 360, 86 L.Ed. 277.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 82
Continuous or connecting lines see infra § 211

45. Ill.—People v. City of Chicago, 182 N.E. 419, 349 Ill. 304.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 83

46. Vt.—Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1.

47. U.S.—Briscoe v. Southern Kansas R. Co., C.C.Ark., 40 F. 273, affirmed 12 S.Ct. 538, 144 U.S. 133, 36 L.Ed. 377.
Pa.—Van Steuben v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 35 A. 992, 178 Pa. 367, 34 L.R.A. 577.

48. Tenn.—Briggs v. Clawson Bros., 8 Tenn. App. 251

49. Ind.—Eel River R. Co. v. State, 57 N.E. 388, 155 Ind. 433.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 88.

50. N.Y.—Abbott v. Johnstown, etc., R. Co., 80 N.Y. 27, 36 Am.R. 572.
Tenn.—Briggs v. Clawson Bros., 8 Tenn. App. 251.

51. N.J.—Mills v. Central R. Co., 2 A. 453, 41 N.J.Eq. 1.

52. U.S.—Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., Or., 9 S.Ct. 409, 130 U.S. 1, 32 L.Ed. 837.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 93.

53. U.S.—Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., supra—Briscoe v. Southern Kansas R. Co., C.C.Ark., 40 F. 273, affirmed 13 S.Ct. 538, 144 U.S. 133, 36 L.Ed. 377.

54. Tex.—Central, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 3 S.W. 457, 68 Tex. 49.

55. La.—Muntz v. Algiers, etc., R. Co., 35 So. 624, 111 La. 423, 100 Am.S.R. 495, 64 L.R.A. 222
51 C.J. p. 751 note 96.

56. Ill.—Archer v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 102 Ill. 493.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 97.

57. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., Ill., 12 S.Ct. 953, 145 U.S. 393, 36 L.Ed. 748
Ind.—Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85

58. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., 133 S.E. 888, 145 Va. 266.
51 C.J. p. 751 note 99.

59. N.C.—Hyder v. Southern R. Co., 83 S.E. 689, 167 N.C. 584.

60. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Ind., 6 S.Ct. 1094, 7 S.Ct. 24, 118 U.S. 290, 630, 30 L.Ed. 83, 284.

61. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., 133 S.E. 888, 145 Va. 266.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 3.

recting road to agree on terms for transportation,[62] does not authorize a lease.

Certain statutes and charter provisions have, however, been held impliedly to authorize a lease, although not expressly so providing, as, for example, statutes authorizing companies to contract with others for the use of their respective roads,[63] or to purchase outright any other railroad,[64] or to purchase the property of any other railroad company not a competing or parallel line;[65] but a restricted right to sell to certain railroads does not carry the power to grant a perpetual lease.[66] So, a lease may be made under a charter authorizing a company to "farm out" its right of transportation,[67] or to "rent or farm out" its exclusive right of transportation on the road and the "privileges thereof;"[68] and it has been held that an authority granted to one company to take leases of other roads impliedly authorizes other companies to make leases.[69]

§ 209. —— Consent of Stockholders

Ordinarily a railroad has no right to make a lease of its road to another railroad without the consent of its stockholders.

Although there is authority to the contrary,[70] ordinarily a railroad has no right to make a lease of its road to another railroad without the consent of its stockholders,[71] and frequently the statutes so provide.[72] The consent of the stockholders must be obtained by a vote at a meeting,[73] and not by an informal consultation of them separately.[74] In the absence of evidence to the contrary, it will be presumed that the meeting was properly held[75] and that the proceedings were regular and valid,[76] but, if the lease undertakes to set out the proceedings, the presumption is that all are set out,[77] and, if no meeting is there shown, it will be presumed that there was none.[78]

Number of consenting stockholders. Statutes frequently prescribe the number of stockholders who must consent to the lease of a railroad.[79] In the absence of any provision as to the number, it has been held that a lease may be authorized by a majority,[80] but it has also been held that all of the stockholders must concur,[81] and that the legislature cannot authorize the execution of a lease by a majority against the will of a dissenting minority,[82] even where the right is reserved to alter or amend the charter.[83]

§ 210. —— Approval of Board or Commission

Statutes in some jurisdictions require railroad leases to be approved by the local board or commission charged with the supervision of railroad affairs.

Statutes in some jurisdictions require railroad leases to be approved by the local board or commission charged with the supervision of railroad affairs.[84] The primary purpose of such statutes is to prevent the making of leases which are inimical to

62. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., supra.

63. N.Y.—Beveridge v. New York El R. Co., 19 N.E. 489, 112 N.Y. 1, 2 L.R.A. 648.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 6.

64. Pa.—Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 66 A. 1108, 217 Pa. 599.

65. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McGuire's Adm'r, 38 S.W.2d 913, 239 Ky. 1.

66. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., 133 S.E. 888, 145 Va. 266
51 C.J. p. 752 note 8.

67. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. North Carolina R. Co., C.C.N.C., 81 F. 595.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 9.

68. Ga.—Central R., etc., Co. v. Macon, 43 Ga. 605.

69. Pa.—Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 66 A. 1108, 217 Pa. 599—Pinkerton v. Pennsylvania Tract. Co., 44 A. 284, 193 Pa. 229.

70. N.Y.—Beveridge v. New York, etc., R. Co., 19 N.E. 489, 112 N.Y. 1, 2 L.R.A. 648.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 13.
Rights of stockholders under lease see infra § 222.

71. N.C.—In re Opinion of Judges, 28 S.E. 18, 120 N.C. 623
51 C.J. p. 752 note 14.

72. U.S.—Atwater v. Wheeling & L. E. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 56 F.2d 720.
Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Robert S. Green, Inc., 187 A. 877, 171 Md. 63.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 15.
Changes in roadbed and method of operation
Statutory provisions authorizing lease of part of railroad or extension thereof only with consent of stockholders were held inapplicable to minor changes in roadbed and method of operation made necessary to enable railroad to use union passenger station.—Atwater v. Wheeling & L. E. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 56 F.2d 720.

73. Ala.—George v. Central R., etc., Co., 14 So. 752, 101 Ala. 607.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 16.

74. U.S.—Peters v. Lincoln, etc., R. Co., C.C.Neb., 12 F. 513, 2 McCrary 275.
Va.—Stevens v. Davison, 18 Gratt. 819, 59 Va. 819, 98 Am.D. 692

75. N.C.—Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 854, 143 N.C. 539, 9 L.R.A.,N.S., 606.

76. N.C.—Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., supra.

77. Ala.—George v. Central R., etc., Co., 14 So. 752, 101 Ala. 607.

78. Ala.—George v. Central R., etc., Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 21.

79. N.Y.—Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 79 N.E. 1026, 187 N.Y. 225.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 22

80. Me.—Waldoborough v. Knox, etc., R. Co., 24 A. 942, 84 Me. 469
51 C.J. p. 752 note 23.

81. N.J.—Mills v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 2 A. 453, 41 N.J.Eq. 1.
51 C.J. p. 752 note 24.

82. N.H.—Dow v. Northern R. Co., 36 A. 510, 67 N.H. 1.

83. N.H.—Dow v. Northern R. Co., supra.

84. Mass.—Hampden R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 124 N.E. 254, 233 Mass. 411.
51 C.J. p. 753 note 28.

the public interest[85] or which omit provisions requisite for the protection of such interest,[86] and accordingly the function of the commission in determining whether it shall approve the lease is not to guard the rights of the parties,[87] but to guard the rights of the public,[88] and to see that the statutes are complied with.[89] So it is the duty of the board to require that the instrument by which one railroad is leased to another shall be so framed as to put it beyond reasonable doubt that the limitations imposed on the right to lease have not been exceeded.[90] When the power to grant or withhold approval of leases is left by the legislature to the sound discretion of the board, a court will not substitute its own judgment in the matter for that of the legislative agent.[91]

§ 211. —— Continuous or Connecting Lines

In some jurisdictions the statutes expressly authorize leases in the case of roads which form connecting or continuous lines.

In some jurisdictions the statutes expressly authorize leases in the case of roads which form connecting or continuous lines.[92] Under these statutes it is not necessary that the roads should connect at their termini so as to make one an extension of the other,[93] or that the roads should be of the same gauge;[94] and the connection may be by means of an intervening road which one of the contracting companies has the right to operate or use,[95] but there must be an actual connection.[96]

§ 212. —— Parallel or Competing Lines

Where a statute authorizing a lease applies in terms only to connecting and continuous lines, it does not authorize a lease to a parallel and competing line.

In some jurisdictions the statutes expressly prohibit leases in the case of parallel or competing lines, and, where a statute authorizing a lease applies in terms only to connecting and continuous lines, it does not authorize a lease to a parallel and competing line.[97] In the absence of any express prohibition, it seems that such leases would be contrary to public policy.[98] It has been held, however, that where there is an express statutory authority to lease without any qualifications or restrictions,[99] or a general authority to railroads to contract with others "for the use of their respective roads,"[1] a lease may be made to parallel or competing lines, although, under a statute like the one last referred to, if the purpose is to hold the road vacant and unused, the lease is invalid.[2] An express prohibition against the consolidation of parallel or competing roads does not, according to one view, prevent a lease of one of them by the other;[3] but a contrary view has been taken.[4]

What roads are parallel or competing is to be determined principally by the question of competition,[5] and, in order to be within the constitutional or statutory prohibitions, the roads need not necessarily be parallel in a mathematical sense[6] or connect the same principal termini,[7] and may be competing by reason of their relations or connections with other

No undue burden on lessee assumed

Railroad's lease of its property to railroad stockholders being a contract between common carriers and subject to public regulation, it was assumed that it was intended by public authorities who were required to approve the lease that no undue burden was to be placed on the operating company and its revenues.—Louisville, H & St. L. Ry. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ky., 20 F.Supp. 483.

85. N.J.—West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Public Utility Comrs, 94 A. 57, 87 N.J.Law 170.

86. N.J.—West Jersey, etc, R. Co. v. Public Utility Comrs., supra.

87. N.Y.—Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v. Syracuse, etc., R Co, 161 N.Y.S. 759, 97 Misc. 471, reversed on other grounds 183 N.Y.S. 602, 192 App Div. 463, affirmed 135 N.E. 934, 233 N.Y. 600

88. N.Y.—Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v. Syracuse, etc, R. Co, supra.

89. N.Y.—Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v. Syracuse, etc, R Co, supra.

90. N.J.—West Jersey, etc, R. Co v. Public Utility Comrs., 89 A. 1017, 85 N.J.Law 468, affirmed 94 A. 57, 87 N.J.Law 170.

91. N.J.—West Jersey, etc., R. Co v Public Utility Comrs, 94 A 57, 87 N.J.Law 170.

92. Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v Robert S. Green, Inc., 187 A. 877, 171 Md. 63
51 C.J. p 753 note 36.

93. U.S.—Hancock v. Louisville, etc, R. Co, Ky, 12 S.Ct. 969, 145 U.S. 409, 36 L.Ed. 755
51 C.J. p 753 note 37.

94. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc, R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. 20.
51 C.J. p 753 note 38.

95. Kan.—Atchison, etc, R Co v. Fletcher, 10 P. 596, 35 Kan. 236.

96. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bedford, etc., R. Co, 81 Pa. 104.
51 C.J. p 753 note 40.

97. Ind.—Eel River R. Co. v. State, 57 N.E. 388, 155 Ind. 433.

98. Ind.—Eel River R. Co. v. State, supra.

99. Mont.—State v. Montana R Co, 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A 271.

1. N.Y.—Gere v New York Cent. R. Co, 19 Abb.N.Cas 193.

2. N.Y.—Troy, etc, R Co. v. Boston, etc, R. Co., 86 N.Y. 107

3. Mont.—State v Montana, etc., R. Co, 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271
N.Y.—Gere v. New York Cent. R Co., 19 Abb.N.Cas. 193

4. Neb.—State v. Atchison, etc, R Co, 38 N.W. 43, 24 Neb 143, 8 Am S.R. 164, 57 N.W. 20, 38 Neb. 437
51 C.J. p 753 note 51.

5. U.S.—East St. Louis Connecting R. Co v. Jarvis, Ill, 92 F. 735, 34 C.C.A. 639.
Mont.—State v Montana R Co, 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271.

6. U.S.—East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. Jarvis, Ill., 92 F. 735, 34 C.C.A. 639.
Mont.—State v. Montana R. Co, 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271.

7. U.S.—East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. Jarvis, Ill, 92 F. 735, 34 C.C.A. 639.
Mont.—State v. Montana R. Co., 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271.

roads or means of transportation.[8] Also it is not necessary that the roads should be actually engaged in cutting rates, but it is sufficient if they are in a position to do so.[9] Mere intersection with another line which might on occasion shorten a haul reached by a slightly more distant intersecting line is not, however, the sort of competition which concerns the public,[10] and a railroad is not in competition with another which has not actually constructed a competing line, and which would not do so if the lease were not executed.[11]

§ 213. —— Foreign Companies

Without legislative authority a company of one state cannot lease its road to a company of another state.

Without legislative authority a company of one state cannot lease its road to a company of another state,[12] and a statute authorizing leases to other companies of the same state confers no authority for a lease to a foreign company.[13] Such authority must be conferred on each of the contracting companies by their charters or the laws of the states creating them.[14] It has been held, however, that a lease to a company of another state may be made under a general authority to lease to another railroad company,[15] and in some cases the statutes authorizing the lease apply in express terms to companies of other states,[16] or to such companies in cases where their roads form a connecting and continuous line.[17] Conditions prescribed by statutes permitting lease to foreign companies must be complied with,[18] and a statute expressly prohibiting any lease to a foreign company until the assent of the legislature thereto has been obtained is not unconstitutional.[19] Where a statute authorizes leases to domestic companies but expressly prohibits leases to foreign companies, the prohibition cannot be evaded by interposing as a nominal lessee a domestic company which is in fact owned and controlled by a foreign company.[20] The view has been taken that only the state can take advantage of a violation of a constitutional provision prohibiting a foreign corporation from leasing a railroad within the state.[21]

§ 214. Requisites and Validity

a. In general
b. Validity

a. In General

Any statutory requirements with respect to leases between railroad companies must be complied with.

General principles relating to leases and the formal execution of corporate contracts govern the validity of a lease between railroad companies with respect to its formal requisites and mode of execution,[22] and any statutory requirements must be complied with;[23] but it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that all the proceedings of the directors and stockholders were regular and valid,[24] and although irregular, the acts done, if within the powers of the company, may be subsequently ratified.[25]

Assignment. An assignment of a lease of a railroad must be in writing.[26]

8. Mont.—State v. Montana R. Co., supra
51 C.J. p 754 note 55.

9. Ohio—Hafer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio S. & C.Pl. 487, 29 Cinc.L.Bul. 68.

10. U.S.—Rogers v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 91 F. 299, 33 C.C.A. 517.

11. La.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans Southern R. Co., 50 So. 467, 124 La. 471.
51 C.J. p 754 note 58.

12. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St Louis, etc., R. Co., Ind., 6 S.Ct. 1094, 118 U.S. 290, 30 L.Ed. 83, 7 S.Ct. 24, 118 U.S. 630, 30 L.Ed. 284.
51 C.J. p 754 note 59.

13. Minn.—Freeman v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 10 N.W. 594, 28 Minn. 443.
N.J.—Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N.J.Eq. 455.

14. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., Ill., 12 S.Ct. 953, 145 U.S. 393, 36 L.Ed. 748—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Ind., 6 S.Ct. 1094, 118 U.S. 290, 30 L.Ed. 83, 7 S.Ct. 24, 118 U.S. 630, 30 L.Ed. 284.

15. N.H.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 A. 529, 65 N.H. 393.
N.Y.—Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 13 N.E. 765, 107 N.Y. 129.

16. Mo.—Murrell v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 213 S.W. 964, 279 Mo. 92.
51 C.J. p 754 note 63.

17. Vt.—Sturges v. Knapp, 31 Vt. 1.
51 C.J. p 754 note 64.

18. Minn.—Freeman v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 10 N.W. 594, 28 Minn. 443.
51 C.J. p 754 note 65.

19. N.J.—Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 24 A. 964, 50 N.J.Eq. 52, 17 L.R.A. 97.
51 C.J. p 754 note 66.

20. N.J.—Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., supra.

21. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Cotton Seed Products Co., 148 So. 371, 166 Miss. 578.

22. U.S.—Dows v. Chicago & S. W. R. Co., C.C.Iowa, 7 F.Cas.No.4,048.
51 C.J. p 754 note 70.

23. Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Robert S. Green, Inc., 187 A. 877, 171 Md. 63.
50 C.J. p 754 note 71.

Filing requiring filing of lease in office of secretary of state, held not to require recordation of lease of railroad property among land records of each political or territorial unit of state through which railroad lines traversed.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Robert S. Green, Inc., supra.

24. U.S.—Oregon R. Co. v. Oregon R., etc., Co., C.C.Or., 28 F. 505, reversed on other grounds 10 S.Ct. 1072, 136 U.S. 646, 34 L.Ed. 552.
N.C.—Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 854, 142 N.C. 539, 9 L.R.A., N.S., 606.

25. U.S.—Oregon R. Co. v. Oregon R., etc., Co., C.C.Or., 28 F. 505.

26. N.Y.—Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N.Y.St. 814, modified on other grounds 25 N.E. 332, 122 N.Y. 197.

b. Validity

Any conditions in a lease between railroad companies imposed by the lessor which would prevent the lessee from properly performing its public duties as a common carrier are contrary to public policy and void.

Any conditions in a lease between railroad companies imposed by the lessor which would prevent the lessee from properly performing its public duties as a common carrier are contrary to public policy and void,[27] but if the conditions are conditions subsequent the lessee takes the road free from the illegal condition.[28] So a provision in a lease that the lessor renounces all its duties to the public vitiates the lease.[29] When the lease is not made in pursuance of any duty required of the lessor as a common carrier, a railroad, as owner of the ground leased, may stipulate for any exemption which would be valid in a lease between individuals.[30] A lease of a railroad is not invalid because executed pursuant to a scheme that another corporation shall own the stock of the lessee.[31] A provision in a lease attempting to set up an agency for its modification different from that established by law has been held illegal.[32] Where a company by a single instrument, the provisions of which are, however, separate and distinct, contracts to sell its road, and, until it can make a good title thereto free from encumbrances, to lease it to the purchaser, the lease if authorized is valid, although the contract of sale may be ultra vires.[33] An unrecorded lease is valid as between the parties.[34]

The right to operate a railroad and take tolls therefrom is not necessarily of a corporate character, so as to render a lease to an individual invalid;[35] and, where a statute permits companies to lease their roads to other railroad companies, a lease to a private individual, while not expressly authorized, is not void on grounds of public policy,[36] although such a lease has been held not to be legal.[37]

A lease procured through fraud or collusion[38] or by directors who are pecuniarily interested in both companies[39] is voidable, but is not absolutely void,[40] and may be ratified,[41] which may be by acquiescence or conduct inconsistent with any right or intention to avoid it.[42] A lease which is strictly ultra vires as being beyond the corporate powers of the company is void.[43]

Term of lease. A company may lease its road for a term longer than the period of its corporate existence where the charter is subject to renewal.[44]

Who may question validity. If a lease, although ultra vires, is not in violation of any statute or contrary to public policy, it seems that only the immediate parties thereto, the companies or the stockholders who are parties by representation, may question its validity on the ground of a want of authority to make it.[45] So, where the lease complies with the conditions prescribed by law as essential to the consent of the state, the state cannot have it set aside,[46] even if it is illegal in violating a contract between the lessor's stockholders;[47] but where the lease is unauthorized and contrary to public policy the state, by its attorney general, may sue in equity for preventive relief,[48] and is not confined to an action at law to forfeit the charter.[49]

A third person not a party to the lease who has entered into a valid contract with the lessee for services to be rendered by the latter, and received the benefit thereof, cannot, in an action on such contract, plead as a defense that the lessee was

27. U.S.—Metropolitan Trust Co v. Columbus, etc., R. Co, C.C.Ohio, 95 F. 18.

28. U.S.—Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc, R. Co, supra.

29. Mo.—Anderson v. Union Terminal R. Co., 61 S.W. 874, 161 Mo. 411.

30. Pa.—Rundell v Lehigh Valley R. Co., 98 A. 1054, 254 Pa. 529.

31. N.Y.—Flynn v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 41 N.Y.S. 566, 9 App.Div. 269, affirmed 53 N.E. 520, 158 N.Y. 493

32. N.Y.—Peabody v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 202 N.Y.S. 287, 121 Misc. 647, modified on other grounds 209 N.Y.S 380, 212 App Div. 502, affirmed 148 N.E. 768, 240 N.Y. 708.
51 C.J. p 755 note 81.

33. U.S.—U. S Trust Co v Mercantile Trust Co., Cal., 88 F. 140, 31 C.C.A. 427.

34. U.S.—Myer v. Western Car Co, Iowa, 102 U.S 1, 26 L.Ed. 59.
51 C.J. p 755 note 83.

35. Vt.—Middlebury Bank v. Edgerton, 30 Vt. 182.

36. N.Y.—Woodruff v. Erie, etc, R. Co, 93 N.Y. 609.

37. Tenn.—Briggs v. Clawson Bros., 8 Tenn.App. 251.

38. U.S.—Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co, C.C.Ill., 43 F. 483.
N.Y.—Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 145, 125 N.Y. 263.

39. N.Y.—Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co, 26 N.E. 145, 125 N.Y. 263.

40. U.S.—Jesup v Illinois Cent. R. Co, C.C.Ill., 43 F. 483.
51 C.J. p 755 note 89.

41. N.Y.—Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 79 N.E. 1026, 187 N.Y. 225.

42. N.Y.—Barr v New York, etc, R. Co, 26 N.E 145, 125 N.Y. 263

43. Tex.—Rue v. Missouri Pac R. Co, 8 S.W. 533, 74 Tex. 474, 15 Am. S.R. 852
51 C.J. p 755 note 92.

44. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb. 16 S.Ct 1173, 163 U.S 564, 41 L.Ed 265
N.Y.—Gere v. New York Cent., etc, R. Co, 19 Abb.N.Cas. 193.

45. Vt.—Vermont, etc, R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co, 34 Vt. 1.

46. N.H.—State v. Boston, etc, R. Co, 80 A. 858, 76 N.H. 146.

47. N.H.—State v. Boston, etc., R Co., supra.

48. N.J.—Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co, 24 A. 964, 50 N.J.Eq. 52, 17 L.R.A. 97.

49. N.J.—Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., supra.

operating under a void lease;[50] and in an action by the lessor and lessee to enjoin a third company from constructing a competing line without legislative authority, the fact that the lease was not acknowledged and recorded as required by statute cannot be set up by defendant.[51] The right to avoid a lease made by common directors is in the corporation and not the minority stockholders.[52]

Estoppel to deny validity. While there is some conflict of authority as to the application of the doctrine of estoppel in the case of corporate contracts generally, where the contract is ultra vires, the weight of authority as to railroad leases is that, if the lease is strictly ultra vires, it is void and cannot be made good by ratification or estoppel,[53] and that, although the contract has been partly executed and one company has enjoyed benefits thereunder, it is not estopped to set up its invalidity in an action to enforce a covenant in the lease[54] or to recover rents due according to the terms of the lease;[55] but there is some authority to the contrary.[56] An estoppel may arise where the lease is authorized and the alleged invalidity consists only in some irregularity or informality in its execution or ratification by the stockholders,[57] or where it is merely voidable because of the conflicting pecuniary interests of common directors in both companies.[58]

§ 215. Construction

Leases between railroad companies are to be so construed so as to carry out the intention of the parties, which must be gathered from the instrument as a whole.

General rules as to construction of contracts and leases apply in construing leases between railroad companies.[59] The contract must be so construed as to carry out the intention of the parties,[60] which must be gathered from the instrument as a whole,[61] and in case of doubt by reference to the subject matter, situation of the parties, and circumstances and conditions existing at the time of its execution.[62] The practical construction given to the contract by the parties as shown by their subsequent acts is also, in such case, a material factor in determining their intention.[63] Mere practical construction, however, must yield to the language of the instrument,[64] and where there is no uncertainty or ambiguity the terms of the contract as expressed therein must govern.[65]

In the absence of anything to show a contrary intention, the words used will be construed according to their ordinary and popular sense[66] and the con-

50. U.S.—Southern Pac. R. Co. v U. S., 28 Ct.Cl. 77.

51. N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v National R. Co., 23 N.J.Eq. 441.

52. N.Y.—Continental Ins. Co. v New York, etc., R. Co., 79 N.E. 1026, 187 N.Y. 225.

53. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., 133 S.E. 888, 145 Va. 266.
51 C.J. p. 756 note 9.

54. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v Pullman's Palace Car Co., Pa., 11 S.Ct. 478, 139 U.S. 24, 35 L.Ed. 55

55. U.S.—Oregon R., etc., Co. v Oregonian R. Co., Or., 12 S.Ct. 814, 145 U.S. 52, 36 L.Ed. 620.
51 C.J. p. 756 note 11.

56. N.J.—Camden, etc., R. Co. v May's Landing, etc., R. Co., 7 A. 523, 48 N.J.Law 530, 567.
51 C.J. p. 756 note 12.

57. U.S.—Humphreys v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 37 F. 307, appeal dismissed 12 S.Ct. 987, 145 U.S. 652, 36 L.Ed. 855.

58. U.S.—Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., C.C.Ill., 43 F. 483.
N.Y.—Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 145, 125 N.Y. 263.

59. U.S.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., D.C.Minn., 53 F.Supp. 534.
51 C.J. p. 756 note 18.

What law governs

(1) A lease of railroad properties, executed and to be performed in a state was governed by law of such state.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

(2) The contractual rights and obligations created by railroad leases are determined by the law of the place where the engagements were entered into.—U. S. v. Warren R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 127 F.2d 134.

(3) The contractual rights and obligations created by a railroad long-term lease were to be determined by laws of the place where the lease was executed, performance was to be, the lessor and lessee lived, and the leased premises were located.—In re Central of Georgia Ry. Co., D.C. Ga., 47 F.Supp. 786.

Expenses, repairs, and improvements

U.S.—Chicago & W. I. R. Co. v. Chicago & E. R. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 140 F. 2d 130, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1157, three cases, 322 U.S. 747, 88 L.Ed. 1579, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1284, three cases, 322 U.S. 772, 88 L.Ed. 1596.—St. Paul Union Depot Co. v. C. I. R., C.C.A.8, 123 F.2d 235.

Other contracts construed

U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. U. S., S.C., 52 S.Ct. 171, 284 U.S. 288, 76 L.Ed. 298.

Mo.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co., 231 S.W.2d 174.

60. N.H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Wilton R. Co., 181 A. 545, 87 N.H. 416.
51 C.J. p. 756 note 19.

61. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Franklin, etc., R. Co., 32 S.E. 485, 96 Va. 693, 44 L.R.A. 297.
51 C.J. p. 756 note 20.

62. Mich.—Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 104 N.W. 650, 141 Mich. 215.
51 C.J. p. 756 note 21

63. Tenn.—Nashville Terminal Co. v. Tennessee Central Ry. Co., 2 Tenn.App. 646.
51 C.J. p. 757 note 22.

Acts of assignee

Doctrine of practical construction held inapplicable to corporate acts of assignee done in performance of railroad lease executed by assignor corporation twenty to thirty years before.—Boston & M. R. R. v Peterborough R. R., 166 A. 275, 86 N.H. 217.

64. N.Y.—Brainard v. New York Cent. R. Co., 151 N.E. 152, 242 N. Y. 125, 45 A.L.R. 751.—Cayuga, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 213 N.Y.S. 586, 215 App.Div. 429.

65. N.H.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Northern R. Co., 142 A. 118, 83 N. H. 112.
51 C.J. p. 757 note 24.

66. Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 87 N.W. 271, 128 Mich. 333.

nection in which they are used.[67] The lease must also be construed with reference to the objects proposed by the existing charters of the companies at the time it was made.[68] Where the lessee controls a majority of the lessor's stock, the lease will be construed strictly against the lessee.[69] There is a presumption that a railroad lease was drafted in view of the general fund of knowledge at the time.[70]

Nature of contract. It is frequently important to determine, as affecting both the right to execute and the rights and liabilities resulting therefrom, whether a particular contract is in fact a lease,[71] and this must be determined not by the name given to it by the parties or the terms used, but by its essential character.[72] So where railroads have power to enter into certain contracts but not to lease, an instrument, although termed a lease, may be valid as a traffic or other operating contract,[73] while on the other hand, in the absence of statute, any contract is unauthorized which is in substance and effect a lease, although it is not so called.[74]

§ 216. Operation and Effect in General

An agreement in a lease between railroad companies to submit differences to arbitration does not permit one of the parties which has invoked the jurisdiction of a court of equity to limit such jurisdiction and to prevent the court from determining all the equities between the parties relative to the subject matter.

An agreement in a lease between railroad companies to submit differences to arbitration does not permit one of the parties which has invoked the jurisdiction of a court of equity to limit such jurisdiction and to prevent the court from determining all the equities between the parties relative to the subject matter,[75] or affect the right of stockholders to sue where the dispute is not between the companies but between the stockholders and the companies.[76] Such a provision for the submission to arbitration of disputes is binding not only on the parties thereto, but also on the real owner of the leased property.[77]

A lease made without legislative authority does not ipso facto dissolve the corporation[78] or release a subscriber to its stock from his subscription,[79] or affect the liability of the company to be sued on a liability incurred prior to the lease.[80] If the lease is strictly ultra vires, it is void, and cannot be made good by ratification or estoppel, as discussed supra § 214, or the basis of any right of action by or against either party.[81] Where the companies are in pari delicto, the court will aid neither party,[82] either to enforce the provisions of the lease or to cancel and set it aside.[83] Neither company can maintain a suit to enforce a covenant by the lessor that in case it should elect to terminate the lease before the end of the term it would pay the lessee the value of the unexpired term.[84] If, however, the lease is not only ultra vires but also contrary to

Connecting carrier

Railroad was a carrier connecting with leased railway within conditions of lease requiring maintenance of open route, notwithstanding connection was made over intermediate carrier rather than by direct physical connection. The term "connecting lines" is commonly used as referring to all the lines making up a through route.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. U. S., S.C., 52 S.Ct. 171, 284 U.S. 288, 76 L.Ed. 298.

67. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 153 N.E. 19, 256 Mass. 600.
51 C.J. p 757 note 26.

68. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N.H. 515.

69. N.Y.—Westchester F. Ins. Co. v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 183 N.Y.S. 602, 192 App.Div. 463.
51 C.J. p 757 note 28

Careful scrutiny

Lease of railroad required careful scrutiny, where lessee owned majority interest in lessor corporations.—New York Cent. Securities Corporation v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 122, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 45, 287 U.S. 12, 77 L.Ed. 138.

70. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Old Colony R. Co., 169 N.E. 157, 269 Mass. 190

71. U.S.—Joliet & C. R. Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.Ill., 118 F.2d 174, reversed on other grounds 62 S.Ct. 442, 315 U.S. 44, 86 L.Ed. 658.
51 C.J. p 757 note 30.

Lease in perpetuity

U.S.—Joliet & C. R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

72. U.S.—Joliet & C. R. Co. v. U. S., supra.
51 C.J. p 757 note 31.

73. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265
Mo.—St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 36 S.W. 602, 135 Mo. 173, 33 L.R.A. 607.

74. Ohio.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 458, 5 Am.L.Reg.,N.S., 733.
51 C.J. p 757 note 33.

75. Conn.—Chamberlain v. Connecticut Cent. R. Co., 2 A. 244, 54 Conn. 472.

76. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N.H. 515.

77. Ohio.—Cincinnati v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 6 Ohio Cir.Ct. 247, 3 Ohio Cir.Dec. 438.
44 C.J. p 1450 note 57 [2].

City as real owner

Ohio.—Cincinnati v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., supra.

78. N.Y.—Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Kerr, 17 Barb. 581.

79. Ill.—Ottawa, etc., R. Co. v. Black, 79 Ill. 262
51 C.J. p 757 note 38.

80. U.S.—U. S. v. Little Miami, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 1 F. 700, reversed on other grounds 2 S.Ct. 627, 108 U.S. 277, 27 L.Ed. 727.

81. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 12 S.Ct. 953, 145 U.S. 393, 36 L.Ed. 748.
51 C.J. p 757 note 42.

82. Ohio.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 458, 5 Am.L.Reg.,N.S., 733.
51 C.J. p 758 note 43.

83. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., Ill., 12 S.Ct. 953, 145 U.S. 393, 36 L.Ed. 748.
51 C.J. p 758 note 44.

84. U.S.—Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., Pa., 101 U.S. 71, 25 L.Ed. 950.

public policy, an action will lie by one of the parties, although it be in pari delicto, to set it aside,[85] but in such case the court will not proceed any further in behalf of the party suing than to declare the lease invalid.[86]

If the contract of lease is ultra vires, a contract by a third company to guarantee the performance of its conditions is also void and cannot be enforced.[87]

§ 217. Property, Rights, and Franchises Included

The property rights and franchises included in a lease between railroad companies must be determined by the terms and proper construction of the contract.

The property rights and franchises included in a lease between railroad companies must be determined by the terms and proper construction of the contract,[88] which, however, will be presumed to include whatever rights and property of the lessor are necessary for the operation of the road and the proper exercise of the rights granted.[89] So, although the lease includes all property, real and personal, and all assets of every kind and description of the lessor, it will be presumed that all the property leased was to be used for railroad purposes.[90]

Where a lease is made of all property of every name and nature for the full continuance of the charter, and all renewals thereof, title to the leased lands vests in the lessee.[91] A lease of a railroad with all its appurtenances includes a contract right acquired by the lessor to use a portion of the track of a third company[92] in the absence of any provision in the contract against its assignment.[93] A lease, demising among other things "contracts now owned by the lessor," operates as an assignment of the lessor's contract of a third person to cut and deliver wood on its right of way as fuel for its locomotives,[94] especially where the lessee has notice of the fact that the contract is in course of performance when the lease is made.[95]

§ 218. General Rights and Liabilities of Lessor and Lessee

a. In general
b. Of lessor
c. Of lessee

a. In General

The rights, duties, and liabilities of the lessor and lessee as between themselves, in so far as they are provided for in the lease, must be governed by the terms and proper construction of that contract.

The rights, duties, and liabilities of the lessor and lessee as between themselves, in so far as they are provided for in the lease, must be governed by the terms and proper construction of that contract;[96] and, where the lease specifies the duties and liabilities

85. N.Y.—Union Bridge Co. v. Troy, etc, R. Co., 7 Lans. 240.
51 C J. p 758 note 49

86. N.Y.—Union Bridge Co. v. Troy, etc, R. Co, supra.

87. U.S—Pennsylvania R Co. v St Louis, etc, R. Co, Ind., 6 S Ct 1094, 118 U.S. 290, 30 L Ed. 83, rehearing denied 7 S Ct. 24, 118 U.S 630, 30 L Ed. 284.

88. N C—Atlantic, etc., R. Co v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 61 S.E 185, 147 N. C 368, 23 L R.A.,N.S., 223, 125 Am. S.R. 550, 15 Ann.Cas. 363.
51 C.J. p 758 note 52.

89. U S—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co, Colo, 12 S Ct. 479, 143 U.S. 596, 36 L.Ed. 277

90. Md.—Buckler v. Safe Deposit, etc., Co., 80 A. 899, 115 Md. 222.

91. N.J.—United States Pipe Line Co. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. R. Co., 41 A. 759, 62 N.J.Law 254, 42 L R. A. 572.
N.Y.—Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 97 N.Y.S.2d 279, 197 Misc. 192, modified on other grounds 32 N.Y S.2d 620, 263 App.Div. 930, affirmed 49 N.E.2d 131, 290 N.Y. 632.

92. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. 20.

93. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc, R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., supra.

94. N.C.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co v. Atlantic, etc., Co, 61 S E 185, 147 N.C. 368, 23 L R A.,N S, 223, 125 Am S.R. 550, 15 Ann Cas 363.

95. N.C—Atlantic, etc, R. Co. v. Atlantic, etc, Co., supra.

96. N H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Suncook Val. R. R, 46 A 2d 773, 94 N.H. 81, certiorari denied 67 S. Ct. 89, 329 U.S. 731, 91 L.Ed. 632, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 186, 329 U.S. 828, 91 L.Ed. 703.
51 C J. p 758 note 60.
Liability for injuries see infra §§ 351-360.

Duty to return property

Where property used for railroad purposes had been leased for a term of years and the city sought to condemn a part of it for public streets, the lessee would not be permitted to let the city take possession against the will of the owner of the fee, for after the city once had possession, the lessee would not be able to regain possession and return it to the owner of the fee at the termination of the lease.—City of Chattanooga v. State of Georgia, 3 Tenn.App. 42.

Location under eminent domain

Notwithstanding some evidence that a switch to a warehouse was constructed before an agreement permitting use of the land for a switch connection was executed and a reference in the agreement to the ground on which the switch was located, there was no presumption that the switch was located on ground acquired by the railroad company under its power of eminent domain—Klingler v. Wick, 109 A. 542, 266 Pa. 1.

Right to share in lessee's profits

Lease of railroad property held not to reserve to lessor right to share in profits earned by lessee from demised property not strictly devoted to railroad purposes—Phœnix Ins. Co. of Hartford v New York & H. R. Co, C.C.A.N.Y., 59 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 91, 287 U. S. 645, 77 L.Ed. 553.

Operation by lessor over tracks demised

N.H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Suncook Val. R. R., 46 A.2d 773, 94 N.H. 81, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 89, 329 U.S. 731, 91 L.Ed. 632, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 186, 329 U S 828, 91 L.Ed. 703.

of each, neither company is restricted in any manner not provided in the contract,[97] but may obtain new legislative grants and avail itself of any new powers which will not interfere with the due operation of its contract with the other company.[98]

Breach of lease. In an action for damages for breach of the lease, the complaint or petition must state all facts necessary to entitle plaintiff to recover.[99]

b. Of Lessor

In the absence of any statutory provision or agreement to the contrary, the lessor company is not bound by any contracts entered into between the lessee and third persons to which it is not a party.

In the absence of any statutory provision or agreement to the contrary, the lessor company is not bound by any contracts entered into between the lessee and third persons to which it is not a party,[1] but if there is an agreement covering the matter the rights of the parties will be governed accordingly.[2] A stipulation that the lessor shall pay for all improvements made with his written consent imposes no duty on him so to consent.[3] If the lease is unauthorized, the lessor company remains liable for the proper performance of all its charter obligations and public duties.[4]

It has also been held that the lessor company remains liable for the performance of any of its corporate obligations antecedent to the lease,[5] although the lease is authorized and the lessee company is also liable.[6] Where one company has leased its road to another, it cannot bring an action against the latter merely to obtain an opinion of the court as to whether the lease is ultra vires, where neither company claims that it is invalid or asks to be relieved therefrom.[7]

c. Of Lessee

The lessee ordinarily, with respect to the leased property, succeeds to all the rights and franchises of the lessor.

The lessee ordinarily, with respect to the leased property, succeeds to all the rights and franchises of the lessor,[8] and in its operation of the leased road is not bound by any limitations in its own charter with respect to the rates which it is permitted to charge on its own road,[9] but it succeeds to no greater rights than those of the lessor,[10] and must, in operating the leased road, be governed by the charter of the lessor.[11] An authorized lease imposes on the lessee the duty of operating and conducting the road as the statute from which the lessor company derived its powers prescribes.[12] So also, where a company of one state leases a road in another state, it is subject to local legislation in that state in the same manner as the lessor would have been if no lease had been made.[13] The lessee may be estopped to assert its rights under the lease.[14] On sale of the leased property, the lessee must hold the money as the property of the lessor and recognize and preserve the title of the lessor thereto.[15] It has been held that the lessee cannot redeem a duly authorized long-term railroad lease under a

97. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N.H. 515.

98. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., supra.

99. Ga.—State v. Western, etc., R. Co., 71 S.E. 1055, 136 Ga. 619.
51 C.J. p. 759 note 64

1. U.S.—Empire Trust Co. v. Egypt R. Co., C.C.N.C., 182 F. 100.
51 C.J. p. 759 note 65.

2. Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Harbaugh, 4 Brewst. 115.
51 C.J. p. 759 note 66.

3. N.H.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Northern R. Co., 142 A. 118, 83 N.H. 312.

4. Tex.—Central, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 3 S.W. 457, 68 Tex. 49.

5. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crane, Iowa, 5 S.Ct. 578, 113 U.S. 424, 28 L.Ed. 1064.

6. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crane, supra.

7. N.Y.—Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 4 Hun 712

8. U.S.—Phoenix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. New York & H. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 59 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 91, 287 U.S. 645, 77 L.Ed. 558.
51 C.J. p. 759 note 76.

Exchanges of leased property

Lessee railroad's exchanges of portions of leased property for property belonging to city in connection with terminal station street improvement held not invalid.—Phoenix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. New York & H. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 59 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 91, 287 U.S. 645, 77 L.Ed. 558.

9. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Sly, 65 Pa. 205.
N.Y.—Palm v. New York, etc., R. Co., 17 N.Y.S. 471, 60 N.Y.Super. 162.

10. Miss.—State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 38 So. 732, 86 Miss. 172, 122 Am.S.R. 277.

11. S.C.—McCandless v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 16 S.E. 429, 38 S.C. 103, 18 L.R.A. 440.
51 C.J. p. 759 note 79.

12. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Pierce, 230 S.W.2d 430, 313 Ky. 189.

13. U.S.—Stone v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 6 S.Ct. 348, 388, 1191, 116 U.S. 347, 29 L.Ed. 650.
51 C.J. p. 759 note 80.

14. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., 133 S.E. 888, 145 Va. 266.
51 C.J. p. 759 note 81.

15. U.S.—Kansas City, St. L. & C. R. Co. v. Alton R. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 124 F.2d 780.

Money deposited in lessee's general account

Where money derived from sale of leased railroad land was deposited in lessee's general banking account and was carried on books as a non-negotiable debt owing to lessor, the handling of the fund by lessee created a debtor and creditor relationship between lessee and lessor and failed to recognize the property right of lessor in the fund.—Kansas City, St. L. & C. R. Co. v. Alton R. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 124 F.2d 780.

statute intended primarily to provide for the extinguishment of ground rents.[16]

As to public duties. The lessee succeeds to the charter obligations of the lessor and the necessity of performing its public duties.[17] It must operate the leased road,[18] and cannot abandon or cease to operate any part thereof,[19] or ordinarily, change its location,[20] although the parties to the lease may, after the track has been located and built, by oral agreement change its location within the limits specified in the lease.[21] The lessee must also provide and maintain at stations used by it the conveniences and accommodations required by law.[22] It must furnish all necessary rolling stock and equipment for its proper operation and for the transportation of both freight and passengers,[23] and may be compelled by mandamus to do so,[24] or enjoined from abandoning any of its public duties [25] If the lease is void, the lessee will not be compelled to operate the road.[26]

As to contracts of lessor. Although the lessee takes the property subject to any liens thereon securing the obligations of the lessor,[27] in the absence of any statutory provision or agreement to the contrary the lessee is not liable for debts of the lessor not constituting a lien on the leased property,[28] and is not bound by any contracts made by the lessor[29] or liable for any breach of contract committed by the lessor prior to the lease.[30] Where there is a provision in the lease as to debts and contracts, the rights and liabilities of the parties depend on the terms and proper consideration of the agreement.[31] A free pass given by the lessor, being a mere license without any consideration, is revoked by the lease and need not be honored by the lessee.[32]

§ 219. Rents and Advances

The power of a railroad company to lease its road to another company includes the power to fix the rent and the manner in which it shall be paid.

The power of a railroad company to lease its road to another company includes the power to fix the rent and the manner in which it shall be paid,[33] and, similarly, the power to take a lease includes the power to make agreements concerning the payment of rent.[34] The lessee may agree as rent to pay or guarantee the payment of the interest on the bonds of the lessor during the term of the lease,[35] or a part of the principal of such bonds, annually,[36] or the entire amount thereof at the expiration of the lease,[37] or it may agree to pay or guarantee payment of certain dividends on the lessor's stock.[38] Where the rent is to be paid in the form of dividends or interest on bonds, it may be made payable directly to the stockholders or bondholders instead of to the lessor company to be distributed by it.[39] An agreement to pay rent to a third company does

16. Md.—Buckler v. Safe Deposit, etc., Co., 80 A. 899, 115 Md. 222.
51 C.J. p. 760 note 89.

17. Va.—Winchester, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 55 S.E. 692, 106 Va. 264.
51 C.J. p. 760 note 90.

18. Ill.—People v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 52 N.E. 292, 176 Ill. 512, 35 L.R.A. 656.

19. Miss.—State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 38 So. 732, 86 Miss. 172, 122 Am.S.R. 277.

20. Miss.—State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., supra.

21. Minn.—Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 705, 35 Minn. 265.

22. Tex.—State v. Southern Kansas R. Co., Civ.App., 99 S.W. 167.

23. Ill.—People v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 52 N.E. 292, 176 Ill. 512, 35 L.R.A. 656.
51 C.J. p. 760 note 97.

24. Ill.—People v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

25. Miss.—State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 38 So. 732, 86 Miss. 172, 122 Am.S.R. 277.
51 C.J. p. 760 note 99.

26. U.S.—People v. Colorado, etc., R. Co., C.C.Colo., 42 F. 638.

27. Ky.—Hurley v. Big Sandy, etc., R. Co., 125 S.W. 302, 137 Ky. 216.
51 C.J. p. 760 note 4.

28. U.S.—Taenzer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 170 F. 240, 95 C.C.A. 436.
Tex.—Missouri, Pac. R. Co. v. Owens, 1 Tex.A.Civ.Cas. § 384.

29. Pa.—Pennsylvania Co. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 108 Pa. 621.
51 C.J. p. 760 note 6.
Assumption of obligations
Fact that railroads with which storage company had entered into contracts for handling by company of railroads' unclaimed package freight had leased their lines to another railroad did not release lessee, which had assumed obligations of original parties and succeeded to their rights and liabilities on such contracts.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Houston, C.C.A.Ohio, 81 F.2d 704.

30. Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Owens, 1 Tex.A.Civ.Cas. § 384.

31. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central Vermont R. Co., 136 N.E. 825, 243 Mass. 56.
51 C.J. p. 760 note 8.

32. N.C.—Turner v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 70 N.C. 1.

33. N.Y.—Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 13 N.E. 765, 107 N.Y. 129.
51 C.J. p. 761 note 11.

34. N.Y.—Frank v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 24 N.Y.S.2d 846, 175 Misc. 902, affirmed 24 N.Y.S.2d 854, motion denied New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Frank, 61 S.Ct. 729, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 833, 313 U.S. 538, 85 L.Ed. 1507, vacated 61 S.Ct. 938, 313 U.S. 596, 85 L.Ed. 1550, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 258, 314 U.S. 360, 86 L.Ed. 277.

35. U.S.—Eastern Townships' Bank v. St. Johnsbury, etc., R. Co., C.C.Vt., 40 F. 423, appeal dismissed 13 S.Ct. 1046, 149 U.S. 772, 37 L.Ed. 957.
51 C.J. p. 761 note 12.

36. N.Y.—Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 13 N.E. 765, 107 N.Y. 129.

37. N.Y.—Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb.N.Cas. 193.

38. N.Y.—Peabody v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 202 N.Y.S. 287, 121 Misc. 647, modified on other grounds 209 N.Y.S. 380, 212 App. Div. 502, affirmed 143 N.E. 768, 240 N.Y. 708.
51 C.J. p. 761 note 15.

39. U.S.—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Albany, etc., R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 156 F. 132, affirmed 170 F. 1019, 95 C.C.A. 393, not make the lease void for want of consideration, where such company owns substantially all of the stock and bonds of the lessor.[40]

Where there are express provisions in the lease as to the amount or method of computing the rent and the time and manner of payment, the rights and liabilities of the companies must be determined by a proper construction of the contract,[41] and, if no particular amount is stipulated, a promise to pay whatever is a reasonable amount will be implied.[42] A failure on the part of the lessor to perform an independent covenant does not affect the liability of the lessee for the agreed rent,[43] and a condemnation suit instituted by a railroad, lessee of another railroad, against the original lessor does not of itself terminate any liability for rent or use and occupation until an award of compensation.[44]

Where the lease is invalid, an action for rent due thereunder will not lie.[45] If, however, the lease, although ultra vires, is not tainted with any immorality and has been partly executed, a court of equity will, independently of the contract, as far as possible do justice between the companies, by compelling one to return or account for what it has received under the lease,[46] or make such compensation as may be just for the use actually enjoyed of the leased property;[47] but in such case the action is not maintained on the contract or according to its terms but on the implied contract of defendant to return or make compensation for property or money which it has no right to retain,[48] although the attempted lease may be used as a basis for determining the amount of such compensation.[49]

§ 220. Taxes and Assessments

a. In general
b. Income tax

a. In General

Where the duty of paying taxes and assessments is provided for by the covenants in the lease, the rights and liabilities of the parties to a lease between railroads, as between themselves, depend on the terms and construction of their agreement.

The question whether the duty of paying taxes and assessments chargeable against the leased property rests on the lessor or the lessee of a lease between railroads is frequently provided for by covenants in the lease, and in such case the rights and liabilities of the parties as between themselves depend on the terms and construction of their agreement,[50] the lessee being required to pay only such taxes as it has expressly assumed.[51] No particular form of expression is essential to create a covenant on the part of a lessee to pay taxes,[52] and such covenants run with the land.[53]

A statute may require the lessee to pay the taxes in the first instance with a right to recover the amount from the lessor or deduct it from the rent,[54] and such a statute has been held valid.[55] certiorari denied 30 S.Ct. 401, 215 U.S. 601, 54 L.Ed. 344.

40. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265.

41. U.S.—Beneficial Corp. v. Reading & S. W. St. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 91 F.Supp. 803, affirmed, C.A., 185 F.2d 238.
51 C.J. p. 761 note 18.
Dividends on lessor's stock
U.S.—New York Cent. Securities Corporation v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 54 F.2d 122, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 45, 287 U.S. 12, 77 L.Ed. 138—Beneficial Corp. v. Reading & S. W. St. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 91 F.Supp. 803, affirmed, C.A., 185 F.2d 238.
51 C.J. p. 761 note 18 [a].

42. Ga.—Rome R. Co. v. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co., 21 S.E. 69, 94 Ga. 422.

43. Va.—Miller v. Southern R. Co., 108 S.E. 838, 131 Va. 239.
51 C.J. p. 761 note 20.

44. Ill.—Leitch v. New York Cent. R. Co., 58 N.E.2d 16, 388 Ill. 236, 155 A.L.R. 835.

45. U.S.—Cox v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., Ind., 133 F. 371, 66 C.C.A. 433.
51 C.J. p. 761 note 22.

46. U.S.—Pullman's Palace-Car Co. v. Central Transp. Co., Pa., 18 S.Ct. 808, 171 U.S. 138, 43 L.Ed. 108
51 C.J. p. 762 note 23.

47. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., Ind., 8 S.Ct. 1011, 125 U.S. 658, 31 L.Ed. 832—Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., C.C.Neb., 2 F. 117, 1 McCrary 247.

48. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., Pa., 11 S.Ct. 478, 139 U.S. 24, 35 L.Ed. 55.
Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., 133 S.E. 888, 145 Va. 266.

49. Va.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Connection Co., supra.

50. U.S.—In re Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 94 F.2d 296.
51 C.J. p. 762 note 28.
Special assessments which represented cost of permanent improvements and additions to lessor's property were, in view of practical construction by parties, not working expenses payable by lessees on wheelage basis under contract for lease of terminal facilities to several railroads which provided that working expenses should include all taxes and assessments but not cost of permanent improvements and of additions to property.—Chicago & W. I. R. Co. v. Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 86 F.2d 441.
Stock and franchise tax
U.S.—In re Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 94 F.2d 296.

51. Pa.—North Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Reading Co., 183 A. 918, 320 Pa. 566.
51 C.J. p. 762 note 29.

52. Mass.—Boston, etc., Corp. v. Old Colony R. Co., 169 N.E. 157, 269 Mass. 190—Pittsfield, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 157 N.E. 611, 260 Mass. 390.

53. W.Va.—West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. McIntire, 28 S.E. 696, 44 W. Va. 210.

54. Vt.—Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 21 A. 262, 731, 63 Vt. 1, 10 L.R.A. 562
51 C.J. p. 762 note 32.

55. Vt.—Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 763 note 33.

b. Income Tax

A covenant in a lease between railroad companies that the lessee will pay all taxes and assessments which may be levied on the demised property or on the lessor by reason of its ownership thereof has been held not a covenant to pay the income tax on the rentals.

A covenant in a lease between railroad companies that the lessee will pay all taxes and assessments which may be levied on the demised property[56] or on the lessor by reason of its ownership thereof[57] is not a covenant to pay the income tax on the rentals, nor are general covenants to pay taxes,[58] or to pay all claims related to the railroad,[59] covenants to pay taxes on the business[60] or on the income or profits of the business[61] or on the lessor's business,[62] or the receipts, gross or net, derived therefrom,[63] on its franchise,[64] capital stock,[65] or dividends thereon,[66] or on bond issues, or interest thereon,[67] or to pay all taxes on any of its rights, privileges or franchises;[68] nor is an agreement to pay all expenses connected with the system growing out of the maintenance, operation, renewal, or replacement of the demised property a covenant to pay such income tax.[69]

Although there is some authority to the contrary,[70] it has been held that an agreement by the lessee to pay all taxes that may be imposed on or payable by the lessor on account of his property, franchise, capital stock, "or otherwise" binds it to pay an income tax on the rent paid,[71] as does an agreement to pay taxes on the rental of the lessor,[72] and as does an agreement to discharge all taxes imposed on the leased property or on any income therefrom.[73] Similarly, where the lessee is required to pay all taxes, ordinary or extraordinary, thereafter to be imposed on the lessor, he must pay the taxes on income from rentals.[74] Where the lessee assumes the obligation of taxes so that annually there might be a basis for the stockholders of the lessor to receive a certain per cent of their shares without any deduction whatever, the lessee will be liable for taxes on the rental.[75]

The determination of the question whether a federal income tax is included within the terms of an agreement to pay taxes depends on the words of the contract, the context in which they occur, and the subject matter to which they are applied.[76] A lessee will not be deemed to have covenanted to pay the income taxes of the lessor unless the obligation to do so is clearly and directly specified in the contract between them.[77] In any event, the intent of the parties will control,[78] and the matter may be gov-

56. U.S.—U. S. v Warren R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 127 F.2d 134.
N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. New York & H. R. Co., 56 N.Y.S.2d 712, 185 Misc. 420, affirmed 72 N.Y.S. 2d 404, 272 App.Div. 870, affirmed 78 N.E.2d 612, 297 N.Y. 820.
51 C.J. p. 763 note 35.

Assignee held not liable
N.H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Wilton R. Co., 181 A. 545, 87 N.H. 416—Boston & M. R. R. v. Peterborough R. R., 166 A. 275, 86 N.H. 217.

57. N.Y.—Brainard v. New York Cent. R. Co., 151 N.E. 152, 242 N.Y. 125, 45 A.L.R. 751.

58. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., C.C.A.Ind., 6 F.2d 830.
Va.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 141 S.E. 770, 149 Va. 701.

59. U.S.—U. S. v Warren R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 127 F.2d 134.

60. U.S.—U. S. v. Warren R. Co., supra.

61. U.S.—U. S. v. Warren R. Co., supra.

62. Mass.—Boston, etc., Corp. v. Old Colony R. Co., 169 N.E. 157, 269 Mass. 190.
51 C.J. p. 763 note 38.

63. Pa.—Sharon R. Co. v. Erie R. Co., 112 A. 242, 268 Pa. 396—Catawissa R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 99 A. 807, 255 Pa. 269.

64. Pa.—Catawissa R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 763 note 40.

65. Mass.—Stony Brook R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 157 N.E. 607, 260 Mass. 357, 53 A.L.R. 700.
51 C.J. p. 763 note 41.

66. Pa.—Catawissa R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 99 A. 807, 255 Pa. 269—Little Schuylkill Nav., etc., Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 25 Pa.Dist. 132, 44 Pa.Co. 197.

67. Pa.—Sharon R. Co. v. Erie R. Co., 112 A. 242, 268 Pa. 396—Catawissa R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 99 A. 807, 255 Pa. 269.

68. U.S.—U. S. v. Warren R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 127 F.2d 134.

69. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., C.C.A. Ind., 6 F.2d 830.

70. Iowa.—Des Moines Union R. Co. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 177 N.W. 90, 188 Iowa 1019, 9 A.L.R. 1557.
51 C.J. p. 763 note 45.

71. U.S.—Whitlock v. Boston, etc., R. Co., C.C.A.Mass., 29 F.2d 351.

72. U.S.—Gaston v. New London Northern R. Co., D.C.Conn., 38 F. 2d 183.
51 C.J. p. 763 note 47.

73. Ohio.—City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., 75 N.E.2d 200, 80 Ohio App. 213.

Liability for penalties
Where lease by its terms made company liable for income tax imposed by another state on city's income under lease, but both city and company, because of mutual error, unsuccessfully coöperated to defeat the tax in court of such other state, company was liable, not only for city's taxes, but also for penalties incurred because of the failure to pay the taxes when due.—City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., supra.

74. U.S.—In re Georgia Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 47 F.Supp. 786.

Long-term perpetually renewable lease
U.S.—In re Central of Georgia Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 47 F.Supp. 786

75. Me.—European & North American Ry. v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 196 A. 842, 135 Me. 338.

76. Mass.—Boston, etc., Corp. v. Old Colony R. Co., 169 N.E. 157, 269 Mass. 190—Stony Brook R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 157 N.E. 607, 260 Mass. 372, 53 A.L.R. 700.

77. U.S.—U. S. v. Warren R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 127 F.2d 134.

78. U.S.—In re Central of Georgia Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 47 F.Supp. 786.
N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. New York & H. R. Co., 56 N.Y.S.2d 712, 185 Misc. 420, affirmed 72 N.Y.S.

erned by a practical construction of ambiguous language in the contract by the parties thereto.[79] The lease is to be read as a whole in the light of its general plan or scheme.[80] The words used are to be given their common signification[81] although a qualification of the words used may be necessary.[82]

On the failure of the lessee to pay the lessor's income tax when obligated to do so, a breach of contract occurs,[83] for which the lessor may sue at once, since he will not be required first to pay the taxes,[84] whether the promise was to pay taxes or to indemnify against liability for taxes.[85]

§ 221. Subletting or Assignment

If a conveyance is of the entire interest of the lessee of a railroad, it is an assignment of the lease, but if of only a part of the unexpired term, it is a sublease.

In accordance with the rules relating to leases generally, if a conveyance is of the entire interest of the lessee, it is an assignment of the lease, but if of only a part of the unexpired term, it is a sublease,[86] whatever may be the form or language of the instrument,[87] and if the transfer affects only a part of the leased property, but passes the entire interest of the lessee in such portion, it is an assignment pro tanto.[88] A company in possession other than the lessee will be presumed to be in possession as the assignee of the term,[89] but is not estopped to show that it is not an assignee.[90] Where one railroad leases the road of another and agrees to assume a lease taken by the latter of a third road, whether such assumption applies to the whole term of the assumed lease or only to the part thereof covered by the term of the second will depend on the intention of the parties as shown by a proper construction of the contract.[91]

Right to sublet or assign. The legislative authority of a company to lease its road passes to the lessee as a part of the franchise, in the absence of any provision to the contrary, in the lease;[92] and the lessee may, in the absence of statute, sublet or assign the lease[93] except where it contains a covenant to the contrary.[94] Such a covenant cannot be evaded by any indirect proceeding, such as the assignment by the lessee of the entire gross earnings, with an agreement to continue to operate the road under the direction of the assignee,[95] but a covenant against subletting or assignment is not broken by giving another a mere license to use the leased property;[96] and where one company leases to another a portion of its right of way on which to construct the road of the latter, the lease being to the lessee and to "its successors and assigns forever," and another clause provides that the lessee shall not assign or sublet any of the rights granted, the latter clause will be construed as only preventing an assignment of such rights, separate from the road of the lessee, and not to prevent their passing to an assignee of the lessee's road as a part thereof.[97]

The validity of an assignment of a lease is not affected by the insolvency of the assignee.[98]

Operation and effect. An assignment of the lease creates a privity of estate between the original lessor and the assignee,[99] and the assignee is bound by covenants in the original lease which run with the

2d 404, 272 App Div. 870, affirmed 78 N E 2d 612, 297 N.Y 820

79. U.S.—In re Central of Georgia Ry. Co., D.C Ga., 47 F.Supp. 786
N.Y.—New York Cent R. Co. v. New York & H. R. Co, 56 N.Y S 2d 712, 185 Misc. 420, affirmed 72 N Y S. 2d 404, 272 App.Div. 870, affirmed 78 N.E.2d 612, 297 N.Y. 820.
51 C.J. p 763 note 48.

80. N.Y.—New York Cent. R Co. v. New York & H. R. Co., supra.

81. U.S—In re Central of Georgia Ry. Co., D C.Ga., 47 F.Supp. 786.
Charges
Ohio—City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., Com. Pl., 71 N E.2d 484, affirmed 75 N. E 2d 200, 80 Ohio App 213

82. U.S—In re Central of Georgia Ry. Co, D C.Ga., 47 F Supp. 786

83. Pa.—Valley R. Co. v. Delaware, L & W. R. Co., 31 A 2d 276, 346 Pa 579.

84. Pa—Valley R. Co. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

85. Pa.—Valley R Co. v. Delaware, L. & W. R Co, supra.

86. N.Y.—Stewart v. Long Island R. Co., 8 N E. 200, 102 N.Y. 601, 55 Am R. 844
51 C.J. p 763 note 50.

87. Mo—St. Joseph, etc, R Co v. St. Louis, etc, R Co, 36 S W. 602, 135 Mo. 173, 33 L R A. 607
N H—Boston, etc, R Co. v. Boston, etc, R Co., 23 A 529, 65 N H 393.

88. N H—Boston, etc., R Co. v. Boston, etc., R Co., supra.

89. Mo—Ecker v Chicago, etc., R. Co., 8 Mo App 223
N.Y—Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N Y St 814, modified on other grounds 25 N.E. 332, 122 N.Y. 197.

90. N.Y.—Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

91. U S.—Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., C C Ill., 43 F 483.
51 C.J. p 763 note 55.

92. Ga.—Georgia R, etc., Co. v. Maddox, 42 S E 315, 116 Ga. 64.
Property not needed for railroad purposes
Ga—State v. Western & Atlantic R. R., 196 S E 392, 185 Ga. 658

93. Pa—Philadelphia, etc, R Co. v. Catawissa R Co, 53 Pa. 20

94. Ill—Terre Haute, etc, R Co. v Peoria, etc, R Co, 61 Ill App. 405.
N H—Boston, etc, R Co v Boston, etc, R Co, 23 A. 529, 65 N.H. 393.

95. N.H—Boston, etc, R Co. v. Boston, etc., R Co, supra.

96. Minn—Pence v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 11 N.W. 80, 28 Minn. 488

97. Minn—Minneapolis, etc., R Co. v. St Paul, etc., R Co., 28 N W. 705, 35 Minn. 265.

98. N.Y.—Frank v. New York, etc, R. Co., 7 N Y.St. 814, modified on other grounds 25 N.E. 332, 122 N. Y. 197.

99. Mo.—St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc, R. Co, 36 S.W. 602, 135 Mo. 173, 33 L.R.A. 607.
51 C.J. p 764 note 64.

land,[1] including the covenants to pay rent,[2] and to pay bonds at maturity;[3] but there is no privity of contract between the original lessor and the assignee.[4] Between the original lessor and a sublessee there is no privity either of contract or estate,[5] and the sublessee is not bound by covenants in the original lease unless it has contracted to be bound.[6]

The assignee of a lease by taking assignment takes over the lessor's public utility duty,[7] and so, although a lease provides that it shall not be assignable, if the assignee takes and operates the road under and by virtue of the lease, it must be held to have assumed the duty imposed thereby on the lessee to operate the road.[8] Since the relationship between the lessor and lessee is one of privity, both of contract and estate, the lessee cannot avoid its liability by an assignment of the lease.[9] Where the lessee has assigned the demised property, the assignee is liable to the lessor for the rentals due thereon or for the value of such property as fixed in the lease if he has adopted the contract,[10] but not otherwise.[11]

§ 222. Rights and Remedies of Stockholders, Creditors, and Bondholders

a. Stockholders
b. Creditors and bondholders

a. Stockholders

Stockholders may sue to enjoin the execution of an unauthorized lease between railroad companies, or any operation thereunder, or to have it declared invalid and canceled.

Stockholders may sue to enjoin the execution of an unauthorized lease between railroad companies[12] or any operation thereunder,[13] or to have it declared invalid and canceled,[14] or to enforce any right growing out of the lease and affecting their interests where the company refuses to do so,[15] but not otherwise.[16] They have a right to insist that the terms of the lease as agreed on in so far as they affect their interests shall be carried out,[17] and in order to obtain this relief it is not necessary to charge any fraud or collusion on the part of the directors,[18] it being sufficient that the directors have misinterpreted the rights growing out of the lease.[19] Where, by statute, a certain proportion of the stockholders may authorize a lease, the minority cannot defeat the right on the ground that the lease would impair the market value of the stock or prevent the payment of dividends on the common stock during the term of the lease;[20] but where a lease is plainly unfair and oppressive of a minority stockholder the court may interfere for his protection.[21]

Rights on undertaking of lessee. An agreement by the lessee to pay a rental which will produce a certain dividend on the stock of the lessor does not constitute a contract to which the holders of such stock are parties or privies, so as to entitle them to maintain an action therefor against the lessee,[22] but

1. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v Central Vermont R. Co., 136 N.E. 825, 243 Mass. 56.
51 C.J. p 764 note 65.

2. N.Y.—Stewart v. Long Island R. Co., 8 N.E. 200, 102 N.Y. 601, 55 Am.R. 844—Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N.Y.St. 814, modified on other grounds 25 N.E. 332, 122 N.Y. 197.

3. U.S.—Zanes v. Lehigh Valley Transit Co., D.C.Pa., 41 F.2d 552, affirmed, C.C.A., Lehigh Valley Transit Co. v. Zanes, 46 F.2d 848, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 8, 284 U.S. 619, 76 L.Ed. 528

4. N.Y.—Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N.Y.S. 814, modified on other grounds 25 N.E. 332, 122 N.Y. 197.

5. Mo.—St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 36 S.W. 602, 135 Mo. 173, 33 L.R.A. 607.

Sublessee acts at his peril

Where lease of railroad property by state reserved to state power to authorize laying out and construction of ways, streets, roads, bridges, or viaducts along property leased, and sublease was made subject to conditions of leasehold granted by state, state would be authorized in future to use under ground and overhead space on right of way for construction of ways, streets, roads, bridges, or viaducts, and sublessee in erecting any structure in that space under sublease was acting at its peril.—State v. Western & Atlantic R. R., 196 S.E. 392, 185 Ga. 658.

6. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Keahey, 83 S.W. 1102, 37 Tex.Civ. App. 330.

7. N.H.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Northern R. Co., 142 A. 118, 83 N.H. 312.

8. Ky.—Schmidt v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 41 S.W. 1015, 101 Ky. 441, 19 Ky.L. 666, 38 L.R.A. 809.

9. N.Y.—Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N.Y.St. 814, modified on other grounds 25 N.E. 332, 122 N.Y. 197.

10. Ga.—Seaboard Air-Line R. Co. v Ocilla Southern R. Co., 85 S.E. 91, 143 Ga. 407.
51 C.J. p 764 note 73.

11. Ga.—Henderson v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 96 S.E. 995, 148 Ga. 385.

12. N.J.—Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N.J.Eq. 455.

13. N.H.—Dow v. Northern R. Co., 36 A. 510, 67 N.H. 1

14. Ala.—George v. Central R., etc., Co., 14 So. 752, 101 Ala. 607.
51 C.J. p 764 note 78.

15. Ohio.—Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C.P. 41, 2 Ohio N.P. 118.

16. N.Y.—Flynn v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 41 N.Y.S. 566, 9 App.Div. 269, affirmed 53 N.E. 520, 158 N.Y. 493.

17. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N.H. 515.

18. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., supra.

19. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., supra.

20. Conn.—Middletown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 5 A. 706, 53 Conn. 351.
51 C.J. p 764 note 84.

21. N.Y.—Westchester F. Ins. Co. v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 161 N.Y.S. 759, 97 Misc. 471, reversed on other grounds 183 N.Y.S. 602, 192 App. Div. 463, affirmed 135 N.E. 934, 233 N.Y. 600

22. N.Y.—Beveridge v. New York

a guaranty indorsed on stock certificates of the lessor's stockholders pursuant to the provisions of the lease is a promise to such stockholders on which they, as individuals, can sue,[23] without alleging that their corporation would not or could not sue thereon;[24] and the inability of the lessee in such case to pay does not permit it to repudiate its debts.[25]

Waiver and estoppel The consent of the stockholders, although required by law, as discussed supra § 209, is for their personal benefit and may be waived by them,[26] or the right to object that the lease was made without their consent may be barred by laches,[27] and this, although a contrary view has also been taken,[28] notwithstanding the statute provides that without such consent the lease shall not be perfected,[29] or shall be null and void.[30] A stockholder who voted for the lease cannot afterward dissent,[31] but acceptance by a stockholder of an extra dividend distributed at the time the lease was made does not estop him to object to it where the making of the lease had nothing to do with such dividend,[32] and a stockholder who voted for the lease will not be estopped to attack its validity after it has been formally repudiated as invalid by a subsequent meeting of the stockholders.[33]

b. Creditors and Bondholders

A railroad company in debt cannot lease its roads to a particular creditor to be operated by him indefinitely, according to his own discretion and for his own benefit.

A railroad company in debt cannot lease its road to a particular creditor to be operated by him indefinitely, according to his own discretion and for his own benefit.[34] A lease may be made on such terms as to constitute an assignment for the benefit of creditors,[35] in which case any provisions for preference, if forbidden by law, are void;[36] but, where a lease is authorized, an objection that it would impair the rights of bondholders or creditors can be made only by them and not by a stockholder.[37] A judgment rendered after a lease does not of its own right defeat the lease or deprive the lessee company of its interest or possession,[38] but operates against the lessor and the interest retained in the leased road.[39] Where a company has authority to lease its road, a statute authorizing it to mortgage the road will not be construed as impliedly prohibiting a lease,[40] but the lease will be enjoined at the instance of the mortgage trustee, where its terms are prejudicial to the rights of creditors as secured by the statute authorizing the mortgage.[41]

Remedies. A lease invalid as to creditors will be set aside in an action brought by them for the purpose,[42] but mortgage bondholders who stand on a security taken in express subjection to the lease cannot maintain such a suit.[43] If the lessee covenants to discharge all valid liens, creditors having such liens may sue in equity to enforce their payment,[44] and rents due under a lease are subject to garnish-

El R Co, 19 N E 489, 112 N.Y. 1, 2 L R A 648.

Rights in rent moneys

U S—U. S v. Warren R. Co., D.C.N. Y, 39 F Supp 135, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 127 F.2d 134.

23. N.Y—Peabody v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 209 N.Y.S. 380, 212 App.Div. 502, affirmed 148 N.E 768, 240 N.Y. 708.
51 C.J. p 765 note 87.

24. N.Y.—Bowers v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co, 201 N Y.S. 198, 121 Misc. 250, affirmed 202 N.Y S 917, 208 App.Div. 768.

25. N.Y.—Peabody v Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 209 N.Y.S. 376, 124 Misc. 801, affirmed 209 N.Y.S. 893, 213 App Div. 866, affirmed 148 N.E. 768, 240 N.Y. 708.

26. U.S.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., D C.Minn, 53 F.Supp. 534, applying Michigan statute.
51 C J. p 765 note 91.

Consent to perpetual lease

Where railroad accepted rent during eighteen months between passage of statute authorizing conveyance of railroad property with consent of majority of stockholders and rescission of perpetual lease of railroad properties, and stockholders voiced no objection to lease, stockholders' consent to such lease would be presumed.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co, supra

27. N.J.—Mills v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co, 2 A. 453, 41 N J.Eq. 1.
51 C.J. p 765 note 92

28. Ind.—Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc, R. Co., 50 Ind 85.
51 C.J. p 765 note 93.

29. U.S.—Eakin v. St Louis, etc, R. Co, C.C Mo., 8 F.Cas No.4,236.

30. U S—St. Louis, etc., R. Co v. Terre Haute, etc, R Co, C C.Ill., 12 S Ct. 953, 145 U S 393, 36 L.Ed. 748.

31. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 60 N E. 405, 179 Mass. 62
51 C.J. p 765 note 96.

32. N.Y.—Westchester F. Ins. Co. v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 161 N.Y.S. 759, 97 Misc. 471, reversed on other grounds 183 N Y S. 602, 192 App Div. 463, affirmed 135 N E. 934, 233 N.Y. 600.

33. Ala—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Grayson, 7 So. 122, 88 Ala. 572, 16 Am.S.R. 69.

34. U.S.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co, D C.Wis, 5 F.Cas No.2,887.

35. Pa—Bittenbender v. Sunbury, etc, R. Co., 40 Pa 269.
51 C.J. p 765 note 1.

36. Pa—Bittenbender v. Sunbury, etc., R. Co, supra.

37. Conn—Middletown v. Boston, etc, R Co., 5 A. 706, 53 Conn 351.

38. U S.—Chicago, etc., R Co v. Chicago Third Nat. Bank, Ill, 10 S Ct. 550, 134 U.S 276, 33 L Ed 900

39. U.S.—Chicago, etc, R Co v. Chicago Third Nat. Bank, supra.

40. Mass—Phillips v. Eastern R Co., 138 Mass. 122.

41. Mass.—Phillips v. Eastern R. Co, supra.

42. U.S.—Cleveland v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co., D C.Wis., 5 F.Cas No 2,887.
51 C.J. p 765 note 8.

43. Vt.—Vermont R. Co. v. Vermont Cent R Co, 34 Vt. 1.

44. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Third Nat. Bank, Ill., 10 S.Ct. 550, 134 U.S. 276, 33 L.Ed. 900.
51 C.J. p 765 note 10.

ment by creditors of the lessor[45] The lessee is liable in equity to a judgment creditor of the lessor for a fraudulent diversion of the proceeds of bonds of the lessor which would otherwise have been available for the payment of the lessor's debts,[46] and the lessee is not relieved from such liability by the fact that it afterward expended a larger sum in betterments and extensions of the leased road.[47]

Where, simultaneously with the execution of a lease, and as part of the same transaction, certain mortgages and agreements are made for the benefit of bondholders, a trustee for such bondholders may sue to compel the lessee specifically to perform its agreement to operate the road[48] or to recover damages for the breach of conditions of the lease;[49] but, where the trustee in such an action for the benefit of the bondholders recovers judgment against the lessee, the fact that the lessee denied the breach and resisted a recovery will not prevent it from asserting as owner of a portion of such bonds its right to a pro rata share of the recovery.[50]

§ 223. Continuance and Termination

a. In general
b. Rescission or cancellation
c. Forfeiture

a. In General

If the termination of a lease between railroad companies is provided for on a specified notice by either party, the lease is terminated when the stipulated notice is properly given.

If the termination of a lease between railroad companies is provided for on a specified notice by either party, the lease is terminated when the stipulated notice is properly given.[51] If the contract of the parties provides for a lease to be terminated on notice, and also for services to be performed by the lessor for the lessee over a term of years at a specified price, such provisions are independent of each other,[52] and the lease may be terminated without regard to the arrangement for future services.[53] If it is optional with the parties whether or not the lease should be terminated, they cannot be compelled to give notice of termination.[54]

Where the lessee wrongfully refuses to allow the lease to be terminated on proper notice and reentry by the lessor, basing its refusal on a collateral contract, the lessor may protect its rights by injunction as well as by action at law.[55]

b. Rescission or Cancellation

Authority to cancel a lease by mutual consent will be implied from the power to enter into it, but the consent of the stockholders is essential to authorize its subsequent rescission.

Authority to cancel a lease by mutual consent will be implied from the power to enter into it,[56] but the same consent of the stockholders as is necessary for its authorization in the first instance is essential to authorize its subsequent rescission.[57] Where a company has made a lease which is ultra vires and void, it may rescind or abandon it at any time,[58] and ought to do so at the earliest opportunity.[59] So also, a lessee desiring to rescind the lease for fraud or breach of warranty must act promptly on discovering the fraud or breach.[60] Where the lease is not void but merely voidable, the right to a rescission may be lost by laches[61] or acquiescence.[62]

In the absence of fraud, one of the companies is not entitled to a decree for the cancellation of a lease merely because its directors have been guilty of an error of judgment with respect to its terms.[63] A decree for the sale of a portion of the leased road

45. U.S.—Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v Brooks Locomotive Works, Wis., 7 S.Ct. 1094, 121 U.S. 430, 30 L.Ed. 995.
51 C.J. p 765 note 11.

46. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v Boyd, Wash., 33 S.Ct. 554, 228 U.S. 482, 57 L.Ed. 931.
51 C.J. p 766 note 12.

47. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Boyd, supra.

48. Ky.—Schmidtz v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 41 S.W. 1015, 101 Ky. 441, 19 Ky.L. 666, 38 L.R.A. 809.

49. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Schmidt, 66 S.W. 629, 112 Ky. 717, 23 Ky.L. 2097.

50. Ky.—Louisville First Nat. Bank v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 79 S.W. 280, 25 Ky.L. 2051.

51. Iowa.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 119 N.W. 261, 142 Iowa 459.
51 C.J. p 766 note 21.

52. Iowa.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., supra.

53. Iowa.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., supra.

54. N.Y.—Syracuse Grade Crossing Commission v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 97 N.Y.S.2d 279, 197 Misc. 192, modified on other grounds 33 N.Y.S.2d 620, 263 App.Div. 930, affirmed 49 N.E.2d 131, 290 N.Y. 632.

55. Iowa.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 119 N.W. 261, 142 Iowa 459.

56. N.Y.—Harkness v. Manhattan R. Co., 54 N.Y.Super. 174, 55 N.Y. Super. 532, affirmed 20 N.E. 877, 118 N.Y. 627.
Ohio.—Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C.P. 41, 2 Ohio N.P. 118.

57. Ohio.—Henry v Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C.P. 41, 2 Ohio N.P. 118.

58. U.S.—Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., Pa., 101 U.S. 71, 25 L.Ed. 950.

59. U.S.—Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., supra.

60. N.Y.—Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. O'Rourke Engineering Constr. Co., 108 N.Y.S. 707, 124 App.Div. 210, affirmed 89 N.E. 1108, 196 N.Y. 509.

61. U.S.—Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., C.C.Ill., 43 F. 483.

62. N.Y.—Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 145, 125 N.Y. 263.
51 C.J. p 766 note 33.

63. U.S.—Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., C.C.Ill., 43 F. 483.

to satisfy a mortgage made prior to the lease is not, while unexecuted, such an eviction of the lessee by paramount title as to entitle the lessee to a rescission,[64] nor will the appointment of a receiver, who is merely a receiver of the rents and profits due from the lessee and is under instruction not to interfere with the lessee's possession, have such effect.[65] The court will not, on failure of the lessor to perform its covenants, decree a rescission of the lease if such a decree would be inequitable.[66]

State as party. The state is not an indispensable party to a suit to cancel,[67] although the lease is claimed to be in violation of certain covenants of a mortgage which in turn are alleged to be illegal, so that, if the lease is abrogated, the parties will become liable to a forfeiture.[68]

c. Forfeiture

A forfeiture of a railroad lease is not favored by the courts.

A forfeiture of a railroad lease is not favored by the courts,[69] and provisions in the lease will, in cases of reasonable doubt, be construed as covenants, breach of which may be compensated by damages, rather than as conditions subsequent entailing a forfeiture.[70] Where the lease provides in case of a breach of any of its covenants for a right of reentry by the lessor, and termination of the rights and interests of the lessee, any breach of such covenants entitles the lessor to maintain an action for its forfeiture,[71] but a forfeiture will not be declared where the lessor did not elect so to declare it at the time of the breach, and the covenant was afterward performed by the lessee prior to the institution of suit.[72] It is competent for a state to provide that a foreign railroad company shall not enjoy a lease of a railroad in such state until it acquires it in conformity to the statutes, and that a failure to conform to the statutes shall be a ground for forfeiture of the lease.[73]

§ 224. Modification

The power to enter into a lease will impliedly authorize the companies by mutual consent subsequently to modify its terms, but the same consent of the stockholders as is necessary for the authorization of a lease in the first instance is essential to authorize a subsequent modification of its terms.

The power to enter into a lease will impliedly authorize the companies by mutual consent subsequently to modify its terms,[74] but the same consent of the stockholders as is necessary for the authorization of a lease in the first instance is essential to authorize a subsequent modification of its terms.[75] If such consent is not necessary to execute a lease, it is not necessary to modify one.[76] A requirement in the lease that certain modifications can be made only with the unanimous consent of the lessor's stockholders may, it has been held, be waived where the lease creates only obligations running from lessee to lessor.[77]

D. CONTRACTS FOR CONTROL, OPERATION, OR USE OF RAILROADS OR INCIDENTAL FACILITIES

§ 225. Right to Make Contracts

Railroads may make contracts for the control, operation, or use of their roads or other facilities, particularly where such contracts are in the public interest; but their power to contract is subject to statutory or charter restrictions.

While railroad companies, when not contracting in their character of common carrier, have the same

64. U.S.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ind., 19 F.Cas.No.11,197, 8 Biss. 456, appeal dismissed 14 S.Ct. 1180, 154 U.S. 626, 24 L.Ed. 270.

65. U.S.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., supra.

66. U.S.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 759 note 75 [a].

67. U.S.—U. S. Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 272 F. 458, certiorari denied 41 S. Ct. 538, 256 U.S. 699, 65 L.Ed. 1177.

68. U.S.—U. S. Mortgage, etc., Co. v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., supra.

69. N.C.—Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 854, 143 N.C. 539, 9 L.R.A.,N.S., 606.

70. N.C.—Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 767 note 43.

71. Ga.—South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 36 S.E. 593, 111 Ga. 420.

Property passing to trustee in reorganization proceedings

U.S.—In re Hoboken Mfrs. R. Co., C.C.A.N.J., 150 F.2d 921, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 947, 328 U.S. 123, 90 L.Ed. 1123, 168 A.L.R. 497—In re Hoboken Mfrs' R. Co., D.C.N.J., 93 F.Supp. 576.

72. Ga.—South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 36 S.E. 593, 111 Ga. 420.

73. Ark.—Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, 88 S.W. 559, 75 Ark. 435.
51 C.J. p 767 note 46.

74. N.Y.—Harkness v. Manhattan R. Co., 54 N.Y.Super. 174, affirmed 20 N.E. 877, 113 N.Y. 627.
Ohio.—Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C.P. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 113.

75. N.H.—March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N.H. 515.
51 C.J. p 767 note 50.

76. N.Y.—Beveridge v. New York El. R. Co., 19 N.E. 439, 112 N.Y. 1, 2 L.R.A. 648.
51 C.J. p 767 note 51.

77. N.Y.—Peabody v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 202 N.Y.S. 287, 121 Misc. 647, modified on other grounds 209 N.Y.S. 330, 212 App. Div. 502, affirmed 148 N.E. 768, 240 N.Y. 708
51 C.J. p 767 note 52.

right of contract as other corporations or persons,[78] they can make only such contracts with respect to the control, operation, or use of their roads or incidental facilities as are within the powers expressly granted by their charters or other statutes, or may be implied as being fairly incidental thereto,[79] and they cannot, without legislative authority, make any contract which incapacitates them from performing their public duties[80] or delegate such duties to another,[81] although the mere fact that the contract may in the future interfere with the proper performance of public duties does not affect its validity.[82]

A company cannot, without legislative authority, by any form of contract turn over its road and franchises to another company,[83] nor can any other company without similar authority make any contract to receive and operate the road and franchises of the first,[84] nor can one railroad company guarantee the performance by another of a contract which the latter had no authority to make.[85] In the absence of statute, a railroad company cannot be compelled to enter into traffic contracts or contracts for trackage or terminal facilities with other companies,[86] and a constitutional right to establish a physical connection of the tracks of one company with those of another confers no right to a business connection.[87] Where by statute the use of the terminal facilities of one railroad by another may be required, the railroads in making an amicable agreement may fix reasonable terms considering the financial condition of the contracting companies.[88]

Interest and convenience of public. While contracts are contrary to public policy which tend to disable a railroad company from performing its public duties,[89] or, as discussed infra § 227, which tend to stifle competition, the rule is otherwise where the contract tends to increase facilities for connections, through transportation, or otherwise to promote the interest and convenience of the public.[90] Statutes will be liberally construed to sustain contracts of this character,[91] and, if the subject matter of the contract is not foreign to the purposes for which the company was created, and it may fairly be regarded as incidental to, or consequential on, those things which the legislature has authorized, it ought not, unless expressly prohibited, be held ultra vires.[92] The validity of the contract must be determined not by the form of expression or name given to it by the parties, but by what rights and privileges are in fact granted and what burdens and obligations assumed.[93]

So, as being within the implied powers of such companies or the proper construction and application of governing statutes, contracts of the following types have been held valid: A contract between companies for the joint or interchangeable use of

78. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, 68 S.W. 159, 95 Tex. 461—Hicks v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., Civ. App., 212 S.W. 840.

79. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Ind., 6 S.Ct. 1094, 118 U.S. 290, 30 L.Ed. 83, rehearing denied 7 S.Ct. 24, 118 U.S. 630, 30 L.Ed. 284.
51 C.J. p. 767 note 55.

Use by industrial company

Railroad could permit use of engines and tracks by industrial company to facilitate latter's intraplant system operation by its employees and state statutes have been held not to prevent as illegal railroad's permitting industrial company to use tracks and engine for switching operations.—Stevenson v. Lake Terminal R. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 42 F.2d 357.

80. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., Pa., 11 S.Ct. 478, 139 U.S. 24, 35 L.Ed. 55.
51 C.J. p. 767 note 56.

81. U.S.—Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., Pa., 101 U.S. 71, 25 L.Ed. 950.

82. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265.
51 C.J. p. 767 note 58.

83. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Ind., 6 S.Ct. 1094, 118 U.S. 290, 30 L.Ed. 83, rehearing denied 7 S.Ct. 24, 118 U.S. 630, 30 L.Ed. 284.
51 C.J. p. 767 note 59.

84. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

85. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

86. U.S.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., Colo., 4 S.Ct. 185, 110 U.S. 667, 28 L.Ed. 291.
Ill.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 61 Ill.App. 405.

Implied contract

No implied promise to use a terminal company's station permanently by a railway company which owns part of the stock of the terminal company can be deduced from the fact that tracks connecting with those of another company were not built when the terminal station was constructed and that at the time of such construction the railway company intended to use the station permanently.—Chicago & Western Indiana R. Co. v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co., 172 Ill.App. 156, affirmed 103 N.E. 264, 260 Ill. 246.

87. U.S.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., Colo., 4 S.Ct. 185, 110 U.S. 667, 28 L.Ed. 291.

88. U.S.—Pittsburgh & W. V. Ry. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ohio, 41 F.2d 806.

Freedom to contract

While railroads are free to contract as to terms for use of terminals, a railroad need not have used terminal on terms offered, recourse to interstate commerce commission being open.—Erie R. Co. v. Long Island R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 59 F.2d 822.

89. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Des Moines Union R. Co., Iowa, 254 F. 927, 166 C.C.A. 289, modified on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 81, 254 U.S. 196, 65 L.Ed. 219.
Mo.—Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 S.W. 568, 30 S.W. 430, 128 Mo. 224.

90. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265.
51 C.J. p. 768 note 67.

91. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

92. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 768 note 69.

93. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 768 note 70.

their tracks,[94] bridges,[95] or terminal facilities;[96] a contract between two companies for the operation by one of the road of the other for a limited period;[97] a contract between a railroad company and a shipping company for a certain amount of space on the vessels of the latter to be filled with goods transported by the railroad company,[98] a contract between a railroad company and a terminal company conveying property of the former to secure a more efficient and economical operation thereof,[99] a contract by a railroad company for the lease of a hotel at the terminus of its road located at a distance from any town;[1] and contracts between railroad companies and bridge companies;[2] but a contract between a railroad company and a bridge company made for the purpose of operating a road beyond the terminus authorized by law is ultra vires and void.[3]

Partnership agreement. A railroad company cannot, except by legislative authority, enter into a partnership with another railroad company.[4]

§ 226. —— Continuous or Connecting Lines

Traffic contracts between connecting or continuous roads are generally regarded as beneficial to the public and are in some cases expressly authorized by constitutional or statutory provisions.

Traffic contracts between connecting roads for through transportation are not contrary to public policy but are beneficial to the public,[5] particularly where they are intended not to defeat, but to meet, competition,[6] and are in some cases expressly authorized by constitutional or statutory provisions.[7] Under statutes so providing one railroad company may, for the purpose of effecting connections, assist in the construction or extension of another road.[8]

What constitutes connecting lines. In order to be a connecting road within the application of statutes permitting traffic contracts between connecting lines, the connection need not be direct but may be by means of an intervening road[9] or ferry line.[10]

Joint operation, control, or liability It has been held that, while railroad companies may lawfully make a business connection for through traffic where each company separately operates it own road, the companies cannot form a partnership arrangement for the joint operation by both of the entire line and a division of the profits,[11] or although separately operated agree to share jointly the accidental losses in the through traffic occurring on both roads;[12] but elsewhere it has been held that two companies whose roads form a continuous line may enter into a joint arrangement for operating their roads as one line and become jointly liable for money borrowed in the furtherance of the business of such line,[13] or contract for the joint purchase and ownership of locomotives to be run over both roads.[14]

Transfer of practical control and management. Under some statutes, it has been held that one company may transfer the practical control and management of its road and property to a connecting line to be operated as a part of the system of such connecting line[15]

Miscellaneous agreements. It has been held in different jurisdictions, either as being within the implied powers or the application of governing statutes, that connecting railroads may make traffic contracts for through transportation over their

94. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 768 note 71.

95. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.
Minn.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 135 N.W. 984, 117 Minn. 217.

96. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265
51 C.J. p 768 note 73.

97. Mo.—St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St Louis, etc., R. Co., 36 S.W. 602, 135 Mo. 173, 33 L.R.A. 607.
51 C.J. p 768 note 74.

98. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Shippers' Compress Co., 2 S.E. 139, 83 Va. 272.

99. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Des Moines Union R. Co., Iowa, 254 F. 927, 166 C.C.A. 289, modified on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 81, 254 U.S. 196, 65 L.Ed. 219.

1. U.S.—Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Hooper, Fla., 16 S.Ct. 379, 160 U.S. 514, 40 L.Ed. 515.

2. U.S.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., Ill., 9 S.Ct. 770, 131 U.S. 371, 33 L.Ed. 157.
51 C.J. p 769 note 77.

3. N.Y.—Union Bridge Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 7 Lans. 240.

4. Ga.—South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., 33 S.E. 36, 107 Ga. 164.

5. Ohio.—Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir.Ct. 705, affirmed 67 N.E. 1100, 67 Ohio St. 523.
51 C.J. p 769 note 80.

6. Ga.—Graham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 49 S.E. 75, 120 Ga. 757.

7. Ohio.—Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir.Ct. 705, affirmed 67 N.E. 1100, 67 Ohio St. 523.
51 C.J. p 769 note 82.

8. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sidell, N.Y., 67 F. 464, 14 C.C.A. 477.
51 C.J. p 769 note 83.

9. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sidell, supra.

10. Md.—Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 21 Md. 50.

11. N.H.—Burke v. Concord R. Co., 61 N.H. 160.
51 C.J. p 769 note 85.

12. N.H.—State v. Concord R. Corp., 62 N.H. 375.

13. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ayres, 30 N.E. 687, 140 Ill. 644.

14. N.Y.—Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 27 N.Y. 546, 84 Am.D. 298.

15. Ohio.—State v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 6 Ohio Cir.Ct., 415, 3 Ohio Cir.Dec. 518.

lines,[16] or with connecting boat lines,[17] or ferries,[18] and that the companies may act together in fixing rates and agreeing on a uniform rate for through traffic over the entire line,[19] and may agree upon the basis of division of the joint profits of the through traffic,[20] which may be by an arbitrary schedule agreed on and not necessarily by giving to each company the share earned on its own line and on that only.[21]

The connecting companies may agree that, in so far as they may lawfully do so, each will deliver to the other all of the traffic controlled by it destined to points reached by way of the other,[22] and use its influence to promote the business of the other as far as it can do so with due regard to its own interests;[23] but while a railroad company may give a particular ferry the handling of all its business at a certain point to the exclusion of rival ferries,[24] it cannot bind itself not to use a different mode of transportation, such as a bridge, which will furnish a quicker and more convenient mode of crossing the stream.[25] A traffic contract for through transportation may include incompleted extensions or branches which have been authorized but not such as have not been authorized at the time of the contract.[26]

§ 227. —— Parallel or Competing Lines

While statutory provisions prohibit contracts between parallel or competing lines where the intention or effect is to stifle competition, independently of statute such contracts are regarded as contrary to public policy; but not all contracts between such lines are prohibited.

Besides the federal Interstate Commerce Act and the Anti-Trust Act, there are in some jurisdictions constitutional or statutory provisions prohibiting in the case of parallel or competing roads any contracts or combinations, the intention or effect of which is to give one the control of the other or otherwise stifle competition, and a contract contemplating an interchange of traffic between competing lines is within the prohibition of such statutes where one railroad agrees to guarantee the bonds of the other in consideration of transfer of half the latter's stock to stockholders of the former.[27] Independently of such provisions, as discussed in Monopolies §§ 63–72, contracts and combinations which tend to create monopolies or destroy proper competition are contrary to public policy.

"Pooling contracts" between competing roads are held to be invalid as against public policy,[28] and in violation of the statutes relating to contracts and combinations between parallel and competing roads,[29] and the same rule applies to a contract by which one company agrees not to extend its line beyond a certain point beyond which it would compete with another road.[30] All contracts which restrict competition are not, however, illegal or contrary to public policy,[31] and where the agreement is between roads parallel and competing for only a short distance, the local business insignificant, and the convenience to the public great, it may, in equity, be upheld.[32] So a contract which merely prevents an unlimited and ruinous competition without raising rates to an unjust standard or causing the other company to violate its duties to the public, should be sustained,[33] unless it falls within an express constitutional or statutory prohibition.[34]

§ 228. Requisites and Validity

The requisites and validity of traffic contracts are governed by the general rules as to contracts of corpora-

16. N.J.—Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N.J.Eq. 13, reversed on other grounds 20 N.J.Eq. 542.
51 C.J. p. 769 note 90.

17. U.S.—Green Bay, etc., R. Co. v. Union Steamboat Co., Wis., 2 S.Ct. 221, 107 U.S. 98, 27 L.Ed. 413.
51 C.J. p. 769 note 91.

18. Mo.—Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 389, 39 Am.R. 519.

19. U.S.—Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ind., 6 F.Cas.No. 3,047, 5 McLean 450.
51 C.J. p. 769 note 93.

20. N.J.—Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N.J.Eq. 13, reversed on other grounds 20 N.J.Eq. 542.
N.Y.—Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 26 N.Y.Super. 411.

21. N.J.—Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N.J.Eq. 13, reversed on other grounds 20 N.J.Eq. 542.

22. Ga.—Graham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 49 S.E. 75, 120 Ga. 757.
51 C.J. p. 770 note 96.

23. N.Y.—Tonawanda Valley, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 42 Hun 496, 4 N.Y.St. 744.
Pa.—Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Gettysburg, etc., R. Co., 35 A. 952, 177 Pa. 519.

24. Mo.—Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 389, 39 Am.R. 519.

25. Mo.—Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 S.W. 568, 30 S.W. 430, 128 Mo. 224.

26. N.J.—Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Sussex R. Co., 20 N.J.Eq. 542.

27. U.S.—Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., Minn., 16 S.Ct. 705, 161 U.S. 646, 40 L.Ed. 838.

28. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., Mo., 61 F. 993, 9 C.C.A. 659.
51 C.J. p. 770 note 8.

29. N.H.—Morrill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 55 N.H. 531.

30. N.Y.—Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 26 N.Y.Super. 411.

31. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., 20 A. 383, 66 N.H. 100, 49 Am.S.R. 582, 9 L.R.A. 689.
51 C.J. p. 770 note 12.

32. Ohio.—Dalton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 577.

33. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 20 A. 383, 66 N.H. 100, 49 Am.S.R. 582, 9 L.R.A. 689.

34. U.S.—U. S. v. Trans-Missouri Freight Assoc., Kan., 17 S.Ct. 540, 166 U.S. 290, 41 L.Ed. 1007.
N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 20 A. 383, 66 N.H. 100, 49 Am.S.R. 582, 9 L.R.A. 689.

tions and such statutes as relate specifically to railroads or the particular railroad in question.

In the absence of any statutory provision relating specifically to railroads or to the particular railroad in question, the general rules as to contracts of corporations are applicable to contracts of the kind under consideration and such contracts are entitled to the same presumptions as those applicable generally.[35] In order to render the contract valid, each of the contracting companies must have power to enter into it;[36] and, if the rights contracted for constitute an interest in land, the contract must be in writing.[37] A statutory provision requiring a certificate of convenience and necessity before a railroad may extend its lines applies to extension by way of a trackage agreement providing for joint use of a railroad line.[38] A contract between two railroad companies is not invalid because the charter of one will expire during the term of the contract, where the charter is capable of renewal and the contract is expressly made binding on the assigns and successors of the parties.[39]

A distinction exists between contracts which are strictly ultra vires, as beyond the powers of the company or contrary to public policy, and contracts where the invalidity consists in some improper exercise or lack of authority on the part of its officers or informality in the execution of the contract.[40] While the latter type may become valid by waiver, ratification, or estoppel,[41] those of the former class which are strictly ultra vires are void and cannot so be rendered valid,[42] and may be disaffirmed, although partly executed,[43] but where the contract has been partly executed and one company has received its benefits, it will not be permitted to retain such benefits and at the same time set up the invalidity of the contract,[44] and may be required in equity to account for and return what it has received under the contract,[45] at least where the other partly is not in pari delicto[46] or the contract is merely malum prohibitum.[47]

Partial invalidity. The fact that a contract is invalid as to some of its provisions does not necessarily make it invalid as a whole,[48] and if the contract is divisible, that part which is valid will be enforced.[49]

Contracts with subsidiaries. Intercompany transactions between a parent railroad and its subsidiary are required to be fair,[50] the test being whether the

35. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., Ill., 9 S.Ct. 770, 131 U.S. 371, 33 L.Ed. 157

Reopening transaction

Where operating agreement was made with new railroad which had evolved from reorganization of old one, but negotiations therefor were between grantee and bondholders of old road, who presumably dealt with grantee at arm's length, transaction was not subject to be reopened fifty years later, at instance of bondholders, because at the same time that agreement was made grantee bought half the shares of new railroad.—Ewen v. Peoria & E. Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 34 F.Supp. 332, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 138, 311 U.S. 700, 85 L.Ed. 454—Gilbert v. Peoria & E. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 34 F.Supp. 332, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 138, 311 U.S. 700, 85 L.Ed. 454.

36. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., Pa., 11 S.Ct. 478, 139 U.S. 24, 35 L.Ed. 55.

Agreement on terms

Under a statute authorizing carriers to agree on terms for use of terminal facilities, the word "terms" includes everything which may be regarded as consideration for affording these facilities, including relinquishment of damage claims against carrier owning terminal.—The Car Float No. 37, C.C.A.N.Y., 57 F.2d 144, reversed on other grounds The No. 37, 53 S.Ct. 328, 288 U.S. 239, 77 L.Ed. 721.

37. N.Y.—Port Jervis, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 30 N.E. 855, 132 N.Y. 439.

38. U.S.—Transit Commission v. U. S., N.Y., 53 S.Ct. 536, 289 U.S. 121, 77 L.Ed. 1075.

Agreement prior to statute

(1) Fact that joint use of tracks by two railroads under trackage agreement commenced before enactment of Transportation Act and was continuous thereafter did not prevent application of provision of statute requiring certificate of necessity and convenience from interstate commerce commission for extensions and operation of lines.—Transit Commission v. U. S., supra.

(2) Interstate commerce commission could attach conditions to certificate approving trackage agreement between two companies.—Transit Commission v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 595, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 536, 289 U.S. 121, 77 L.Ed. 1075

39. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265

40. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 51 F. 309, 2 C.C.A. 174, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265.
Pa.—South Side Pass. R. Co. v. Second Ave. R. Co., 43 A. 346, 191 Pa. 492.

41. Ohio.—U.S. Rolling Stock Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 34 Ohio St. 450, 32 Am.R. 380
51 C.J. p. 771 note 25

42. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., Pa., 11 S.Ct. 478, 139 U.S. 24, 35 L.Ed. 55.
51 C.J. p. 771 note 26.

43. U.S.—Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 771 note 27.

44. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 20 A. 383, 66 N.H. 100, 49 Am.S.R. 582, 9 L.R.A. 689.
51 C.J. p. 771 note 28.

45. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., supra.

46. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., supra.

47. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., supra.

48. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Neb., 16 S.Ct. 1173, 163 U.S. 564, 41 L.Ed. 265.
51 C.J. p. 771 note 32.

49. Ohio.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co., 7 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 163, 1 Cinc.L.Bul. 261.

50. U.S.—In re Missouri Pac. R. Co., D.C.Mo., 93 F.Supp. 832.

Fiduciary relationship

Fiduciary relationship between parent railroad company and subsidiary railroad required only that parent railroad fix terms of loans to subsidiary fairly, and parent was under no duty to make financing proposition submitted would have commended itself to an independent corporation.[51]

§ 229. Construction

Contracts between railroads are construed in accordance with the rules governing construction of contracts generally, the practical construction by the parties to the contract is a material factor in determining its meaning

In construing contracts between railroad companies the rules governing the construction of contracts generally apply[52] The contract must be given the meaning understood and intended by the parties at the time of its execution,[53] and in construing any part of it the court will examine the entire contract,[54] including the preamble thereto,[55] and may also consider the relations of the parties, their connection with the subject matter of the contract, and the circumstances under which it was signed,[56] as well as the conditions then existing.[57]

A rule that instruments executed contemporaneously and pertaining to the same transaction are to be read together has been held applicable.[58] If, however, there is no ambiguity in the language of the contract, the court cannot put on it any construction other than what the words signify,[59] and terms having a particular significance in the usage of persons operating railroads will be given that meaning in construing traffic contracts.[60] Where the contract is fairly and reasonably open to two constructions, one making it legal and the other illegal, the former will be adopted;[61] and where the contract is in any degree in restraint of competition, it will be strictly construed and not extended in its application beyond its express provisions;[62] nor will a contract be so construed as to militate against the convenience and comfort of the traveling public if it can fairly be construed otherwise.[63]

Practical construction. The practical construction given to the contract by the parties is a material factor in determining its meaning,[64] and where the parties by their acts and declarations have put a practical construction on the agreement existing between them, the courts will ordinarily adopt and enforce such construction;[65] but the doctrine of contemporaneous or practical construction has no application where the contract is unambiguous.[66] available to the subsidiary at an interest rate lower than the subsidiary could obtain elsewhere, and where parent railroad fulfilled its fiduciary duty to subsidiary railroad in fairly fixing the terms of loan to subsidiary, subsidiary could escape the terms of its obligation to parent only by payment and discharge.—In re Missouri Pac. R. Co., supra.

Interest rates on indebtedness

Where indebtedness of subsidiary railroad to parent railroad was evidenced for the most part only by unsecured notes, interest rates of five and one-half per cent and six per cent were reasonable.—In re Missouri Pac. R Co, supra.

51. U.S.—In re Missouri Pac. R. Co., supra.

52. U.S.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., C.C.A.Ind., 6 F.2d 830.
51 C.J. p 771 note 35.

Particular contracts construed

U.S.—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Peoria & P. U. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 72 F.2d 745—Ewen v. Peoria & E. Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 34 F.Supp. 332, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 138, 311 U.S. 700, 85 L.Ed. 454—Gilbert v. Peoria & E. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 34 F. Supp. 332, certiorari denied 61 S. Ct. 138, 311 U.S. 700, 85 L.Ed. 454—Delaware & H. R. Corporation v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 19 F.Supp. 700.
51 C.J. p 771 note 35 [a].

53. U.S.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., C.C.A.Ind., 6 F.2d 830.
51 C.J. p 772 note 38.

54. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., Colo., 12 S.Ct. 479, 143 U.S. 596, 36 L.Ed. 277.

55. U.S.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Pullman Co., D.C.Conn., 6 F.2d 36.

56. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., Colo., 12 S.Ct. 479, 143 U.S. 596, 36 L.Ed. 277.
51 C.J. p 772 note 39.

Joint or several operation

Where contract between five railroads for management and operation of a particular railroad yard facility established in fact a joint operation, the fact that agreements contained language appropriate to a landlord and tenant relationship and repeated assertion that railroads were contracting "severally" did not change fact that operation was a joint one.—Minker v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 63 F.Supp. 1017.

57. U.S.—Western Pac. R. Co. v. Nevada-California-Oregon R. Co., D.C.Cal., 40 F.2d 731.
51 C.J. p 773 note 40.

58. U.S.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., D.C.Minn., 53 F.Supp. 534.

Effect of dates

Fact that a traffic agreement between two railroads bore date of May 27, 1890, whereas other two instruments bore date of July 17, 1890, did not destroy rule requiring instruments executed contemporaneously and pertaining to same transaction to be read together.—McCulloch v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

59. Mich.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 200 N.W. 110, 228 Mich. 430.
51 C.J. p 773 note 41.

60. U.S.—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Peoria & P. U. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 72 F.2d 745.
Ill.—Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 37 N.E. 924, 150 Ill. 480.

61. U.S.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Kutter, N.Y., 147 F. 51, 77 C.C.A. 315, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 776, 203 U.S. 588, 51 L.Ed. 330.
51 C.J. p 773 note 43.

62. Ill.—Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 72 Ill. 360
Mo.—Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 S.W. 568, 30 S.W. 430, 128 Mo. 224.

63. U.S.—Central Trust Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., C.C.Mo., 29 F. 546, affirmed 11 S.Ct. 243, 138 U.S. 1, 34 L.Ed. 843.
Ohio.—Stanley v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 18 Ohio St. 552.

64. U.S.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Kutter, N.Y., 147 F. 51, 77 C.C.A. 315, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 776, 203 U.S. 588, 51 L.Ed. 330.
51 C.J. p 773 note 46.

65. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Des Moines Union R. Co., Iowa, 41 S.Ct. 81, 254 U.S. 196, 65 L.Ed. 219.
51 C.J. p 773 note 47.

66. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 4 So.2d 400, 241 Ala. 691.

The successor to a contract is not bound by the practical construction of its predecessor.[67]

§ 230. Assignment of Contract

Provision may be made for assignment of a contract between railroads.

An agreement between two companies, conferring on each the right to run its cars over the tracks of the other, each retaining the absolute control over its road for all other purposes, confers no interest which can be assigned or leased;[68] but the contract may expressly provide for an assignment of the rights acquired thereunder,[69] and one company may succeed to the rights and liabilities of another under a contract made expressly on behalf of the company "its successors and assigns,"[70] or which provides that it shall be binding on the lessees, assigns, grantees, or successors of each company.[71] An exception in the contract with respect to the rights granted is as binding on its representatives and assigns as on the original company.[72]

§ 231. Termination or Modification

Traffic or operating contracts may be terminated or modified in accordance with their express provisions or by agreement of the parties, but generally not by unilateral action.

A traffic or other operating contract between railroad companies cannot be altered or modified arbitrarily by either party but only by the concurrence of both,[73] and if the contract is fixed by its terms to continue for a certain period, it cannot be revoked by either party on notice,[74] but rights thereunder expire in accordance with the terms of the contract.[75] Where a franchise from the state is not required, the consent of the public service commission is not necessary for the termination of the agreement.[76] A contract may, of course, be terminated by either party in accordance with its express provisions.[77]

A contract between two companies for trackage, depot, or terminal facilities, containing no provision as to how long it is to remain in force, may be rescinded by either party at any time on reasonable notice.[78] So, where the legislature under a right reserved in the charter of a railroad permits another company to connect with, and enter on and use, its tracks for a fixed compensation, such right when acted on does not constitute a perpetual contract between the companies, and it is competent for the company using the tracks of the other to withdraw from such use and by legislative authority form connections with other roads.[79] In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, a trackage contract is not revoked by the lease of the tracks to another railroad which assumed all obligations of its lessor.[80] Where the same companies at different dates enter into traffic contracts with regard to their respective roads, if it appears that it was not the intention of the parties that the second contract should annul or alter the first, the failure of one of the companies to comply with the second contract will not affect its rights under the terms of the first.[81]

Waiver. The right to terminate a traffic or operating contract between railroads may be waived.[82]

Protection of rights after termination. If the companies cannot readjust their relations after the withdrawal of one from an existing contract, the courts will make such ad interim orders as may be

67. Ohio.—Dalton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio N. P.,N.S., 577.

68. N.Y.—Brooklyn Crosstown R. Co. v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 3 N. Y.S. 901, 51 Hun 600.

69. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., C.C.Colo., 46 F. 145, modified on other grounds 12 S.Ct. 479, 143 U.S. 596, 36 L.Ed. 277.
Mo.—Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 389, 39 Am.R. 519.

70. Ill.—Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 37 N.E. 924, 150 Ill. 480.

71. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., C.C.Colo., 46 F. 145, modified on other grounds 12 S.Ct. 479, 143 U.S. 596, 36 L.Ed. 277.

72. N.J.—Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 28 N.J.Eq. 100, affirmed 28 N.J.Eq. 593.

73. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. River Front R. Co., 31 A. 1098, 168 Pa. 357.
Modification by mutual consent
Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 4 So.2d 400, 241 Ala. 691.

74. Pa.—Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Gettysburg, etc., R. Co., 35 A. 952, 177 Pa. 519.
Va.—Norfolk Tidewater Terminals v. Norfolk & P. Belt Line R. Co., 195 S.E. 684, 170 Va. 118.

75. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 62 S.W.2d 955, 187 Ark. 803.

76. U.S.—General Finance Corporation v. New York State Rys., C.C. A.N.Y., 54 F.2d 1008.

77. Tex.—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Texas Mexican Ry. Co., Civ.App., 181 S.W.2d 895, error refused, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 937, 328 U.S. 134, 90 L.Ed. 1132.
51 C.J. p. 774 note 57.

78. U.S.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., C.C. Tenn., 44 F. 456.
Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. River Front R. Co., 31 A. 1098, 168 Pa. 357.

79. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 5 Cush. 375.

80. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Central New England R. Co., 162 N.E. 324, 264 Mass. 128, affirmed 49 S.Ct. 358, 279 U.S. 415, 73 L.Ed. 770.

81. Conn.—Bartlette v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 33 Conn. 560.
51 C.J. p. 774 note 62.

82. U.S.—Blytheville, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co., C. C.A.Ark., 33 F.2d 481.
51 C.J. p. 774 note 63.

necessary to protect the rights of the parties and secure the preservation and operation of the road.[83]

§ 232. Operation and Effect in General

The operation and effect of contracts between railroads will depend on their terms, but they do not run with the land or create a lien on the general property.

Traffic or operating contracts between two railroad companies do not run with the land[84] or create a lien on the general property;[85] nor is there a public interest which requires the imposition of such a lien to secure continued operation and use of the railroad facilities.[86] An improvement under a traffic agreement whereby one railroad operated trains over the lines of another between two points does not constitute an unauthorized construction by the former of a new railroad between such points;[87] and, although two railroads are operating under a traffic arrangement, one is not necessarily under the control of the other.[88]

A provision in a trackage agreement obligating one party to indemnify the other for loss or damage to it from its use or operation thereunder is not contrary to public policy and is valid,[89] as is a clause of a contract between a railroad company and a terminal company obligating the latter to make good any losses occasioned entirely through the fault of its own employees.[90] A contract may be of such a character as not to be affected by an authorized abandonment of that portion of the road connecting the lines of the contracting parties.[91]

§ 233. Rights, Liabilities, and Remedies

a. In general
b. Particular remedies

a. In General

The rights, duties, and liabilities of the parties to a traffic or operating contract as between themselves are governed by the terms and proper construction of the contract.

The rights, duties, and liabilities of the parties to a traffic or operating contract as between themselves in so far as they are provided for therein, must be governed by the terms and proper construction of the contract.[92] A company in permitting another to use a portion of its tracks is performing the duty of a common carrier in supplying an instrumentality of transportation and may charge only what is a reasonable sum for such use,[93] and a special charter privilege as to rates chargeable by a company does not so inhere in the road as to pass to another company which subsequently acquires the right to operate it.[94] An agreement for through traffic does not, in the absence of express stipulation, prevent one of the companies from subsequently altering the gauge of its road.[95]

Where a company contracts to allow another to use its right of way on such terms and for such compensation as may be agreed on by the companies, and subsequently denies the right to such use on any terms, so that a resort to the court is necessary to enforce the right, the court will determine the whole case and settle both the right and the compensation.[96] So, in a case involving trackage rights, some of which depend on whether certain features of a broad plan for constructing a new terminal would be carried out or abandoned, a court of equity should retain jurisdiction of the cause pending determination of that question.[97] In an action by a company to recover for the use of its tracks and terminal facilities, where there is no definite agreement as to the amount to be paid, the amount paid to it for a

83. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. River Front R. Co, 31 A. 1098, 168 Pa. 357.

84. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v Missouri Pac. R. Co., 62 S.W 2d 955, 187 Ark. 803.
51 C.J. p 774 note 66.

85. U.S.—Des Moines, etc., R. Co v. Wabash, etc, R. Co., Iowa, 10 S.Ct. 753, 135 U.S. 576, 34 L.Ed. 243.
51 C.J. p 774 note 67.

86. U.S.—Kansas City Terminal R. Co. v. New York Cent. Union Trust Co., C.C.A.Mo., 294 F. 32, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 402, 264 U.S. 588, 68 L.Ed. 863.

87. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Franzen, 122 N.E. 492, 287 Ill. 346, 357.
51 C.J. p 774 note 69.

88. Ark.—Fayetteville Wagon, etc., Co. v. Kenefick Constr. Co., 88 S.W. 1031, 338 Ark 31.
51 C.J. p 774 note 70.

89. W.Va.—Borderland Coal Co. v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 104 S.E. 624, 87 W.Va. 339
51 C.J. p 774 note 71.

90. La.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. New Orleans Terminal Co., 78 So. 738, 143 La. 467.

91. U.S.—Western Pac. R. Co. v. Nevada-California-Oregon R. Co, D.C.Cal., 40 F.2d 731.

92. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 4 So.2d 400, 241 Ala. 691.
Ky.—Elkhorn & Jellico Coal Co. v. Sandlick Coal Co., 204 S.W.2d 330, 305 Ky. 348.
51 C.J. p 775 note 75.

Rights of parent and subsidiary railroads
U.S.—Ewen v. Peoria & E. Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 78 F.Supp. 312.

93. Ohio.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C.P. 147, 7 Ohio N.P. 376.

94. Ohio.—Pittsburgh, etc, R Co v. Moore, 33 Ohio St. 384, 31 Am.R. 543.

95. N.J.—Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N.J.Eq. 13, reversed on other grounds 20 N.J.Eq. 542.

96. U.S.—Central Trust Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., C.C.Mo., 29 F. 546, affirmed 11 S.Ct 243, 138 U.S. 1, 34 L.Ed. 843.

97. U.S.—Byram v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 21 F.2d 383.

similar use by other roads, which in fact own all of its stock, affords no test of what is reasonable as between it and another company having no such connection with it.[98]

Where the contract between a bridge company and several railroad companies provides that they shall be charged on an equal basis and that the charges shall be limited to such rates as will produce a certain sum, if the bridge company charges a higher rate the surplus illegally accumulated may be recovered by the railroad companies in the same proportion in which it was paid.[99] Where several companies having termini in a certain city agree to connect their roads and organize a separate company for this purpose, the fact that one of them constructs a portion of the connecting line on its own land at its own expense makes it the legal owner of that portion,[1] but does not give it any right to prohibit its use by the other companies as a part of the continuous line.[2] A company by giving another company the right to use its tracks does not obligate itself to put the track in repair or make any change in its existing state.[3]

Where a corporation is formed to own and operate terminal facilities for the benefit of proprietary railroads, the railroads have such a beneficial interest in the terminal corporation as to make it a trustee,[4] and its officers and directors act in a fiduciary capacity,[5] precluding personal advantage;[6] and their acquisition as owners, through another corporation, of competing terminal facilities is a violation of their fiduciary duties, creating equities in favor of the trustee corporation.[7]

Under agreement to arbitrate. In the absence of statutes providing otherwise, the contract may require submission of any dispute arising therefrom to arbitrators whose decisions shall bind the parties;[8] and an award made by the arbitrators is final and conclusive,[9] and the matter cannot be relitigated on a charge of error in the award.[10]

As to third persons. The public duties of a carrier operating under a trackage agreement are not the general duties of a common carrier operating on its own road,[11] and such carrier cannot be required to furnish cars to a shipper if such service would violate a restriction contained in the agreement.[12]

b. Particular Remedies

Where the contract for control, etc., is valid, action may be brought thereon as in the case of contracts generally. In a proper case the remedy may be injunction, action to set aside the contract, a suit for accounting, or appropriate statutory remedies.

Where the contract is valid, the general rules with respect to contracts apply, and the party entitled may sue for and recover the amount due according to the terms of the contract,[13] or the damages sustained by reason of the breach thereof,[14] but no damages for the breach can arise until after the contract is made.[15] Where the contract is of such a character as not to be affected by an authorized abandonment of the line connecting the lines of the parties thereto, such abandonment is a defense to an action for breach of the agreement.[16]

98. U.S.—Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Ill., 8 S.Ct. 1125, 127 U.S. 200, 32 L.Ed. 110.

99. Ky.—Louisville Bridge Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 51 S.W. 185, 106 Ky. 674, 21 Ky.L. 271.

1. Pa.—Appeal of Pennsylvania R. Co., 80 Pa. 265.

2. U.S.—Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., C.C.Pa., 4 F. 41, 14 F.Cas.No.8,110, 9 Wkly.N.C. 277

3. N.H.—Murch v. Concord R. Corp., 29 N.H. 9, 61 Am.D. 631.

4. U.S.—Des Moines Terminal Co. v. Des Moines Union Ry. Co., C.C.A. Iowa, 52 F.2d 616, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 311, 285 U.S. 537, 76 L.Ed. 930.

5. U.S.—Des Moines Terminal Co. v. Des Moines Union Ry. Co., supra.

6. U.S.—Des Moines Terminal Co. v. Des Moines Union Ry. Co., supra.

7. U.S.—Des Moines Terminal Co. v. Des Moines Union Ry. Co., supra.

Rights, liabilities and remedies of proprietary railroads

U.S.—Des Moines Terminal Co. v. Des Moines Union Ry. Co., supra.

8. Number of arbitrators

Mich.—Pere Marquette Ry. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 22 N.W.2d 873, 314 Mich. 577.

9. D.C.—Washington R., etc., Co. v. Washington, etc., Electric R. Co., 32 F.2d 406, 59 App.D.C. 15.

10. U.S.—Washington R., etc., Co. v. Washington, etc., Electric R. Co., supra.

11. Ohio—Kanawha, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, 117 N.E. 353, 96 Ohio St. 414.

12. Ohio—Kanawha, etc., R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, supra.

13. U.S.—Central New England R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., Mass., 49 S.Ct. 358, 279 U.S. 415, 73 L.Ed. 770.
51 C.J. p. 775 note 94.

Parties

U.S.—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Peoria & P. U. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 72 F.2d 745.

Plea or answer

N.C.—Willcox v. Durham & C. R. Co., 67 S.E. 758, 152 N.C. 316.

Interest

In dispute involving question whether railroad under contract was obligated to pay portion of taxes assessed against and paid by terminal company, in which there was decree for terminal company, allowance of interest was proper.—Toledo, P. & W. R. R. v. Peoria & P. U. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 72 F.2d 745.

14. Ga.—Graham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 49 S.E. 75, 120 Ga. 757.
51 C.J. p. 776 note 95.

15. Tex.—Davis v. Phillips A. Ryan Lumber Co., Civ.App., 248 S.W. 448.
51 C.J. p. 776 note 96.

16. U.S.—Western Pac. R. Co. v. Nevada-California-Oregon R. Co., D.C.Cal., 40 F.2d 731.

Injunction. A court of equity will enjoin the execution of a contract by which one company without legislative authority unlawfully seeks to acquire the control of a parallel or competing line;[17] and where the road of one company, under the disguise of a traffic contract, has been illegally turned over to another, the stockholders who did not consent thereto may maintain a bill in equity to enjoin further operation under the contract and for an accounting and the appointment of a receiver.[18]

Where one company has a contract right to use a portion of the track of another as a part of its line, and such right is afterward denied, the company owning the track will be enjoined from interfering with such use,[19] but injunctive relief will be denied where plaintiff's right is doubtful,[20] or where plaintiff is in default,[21] or an action at law or in equity prosecuted in the ordinary manner will afford adequate redress.[22]

Action to set aside. A traffic contract may be set aside at the suit of the receiver of one of the companies as inequitable and unfair to such company.[23]

Accounting. One of several parties to an operating contract is, in a proper case, entitled to maintain an action against the other parties for an accounting.[24] If plaintiff predicates its right on the contract, it is not entitled to relief on the ground that the contract was unjustly discriminatory.[25] Where two railroads are under a joint manager who applies the joint funds belonging to both roads to the improvement of one of them, it may be required to account to the other therefor,[26] although the traffic contract for such joint management was ultra vires,[27] but the latter can recover only its proportionate share of the funds so expended, and not the entire amount.[28]

Statutory remedies. Where the right sought to be enforced, under a contract of the kind under consideration, is created by a statute which gives the appropriate remedy, such remedy is exclusive.[29]

E. CONSOLIDATION

§ 234. Definition and Distinctions

Consolidation as applied to railroad companies is the combination and union in one whole, by legal authority and agreement of the parties, of the rights, franchises, and effects of two or more corporations and the commission thereof to a single corporation.

While the term "consolidation," as applied to railroad companies, has been held to have no fixed, definite, and accepted meaning,[30] it may be defined as the combination and union in one whole, by legal authority and agreement of the parties, of the rights, franchises, and effects of two or more corporations, and the commission thereof to a single corporation, the stockholders of which are composed of those, who choose to become such, of the companies thus agreeing,[31] whether such single corporation, called the "consolidated company," be a new one then created, or one of the original companies continuing in existence with larger rights, capacities, and property,[32] although it has been said that a union of the latter character should be termed a "merger" rather than a "consolidation".[33] The term properly applies only to a corporate union of the

17. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 7 A. 374, 2 Pa. Cas. 83.

18. U.S.—Earle v. Seattle etc, R Co., C.C.Wash., 56 F 909.

19. U.S.—Blytheville, etc, R. Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co, C C A Ark, 33 F.2d 481.
51 C.J. p 776 note 3.

20. Ohio—Baltimore, etc, R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc, R. Co., 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 100, 1 Ohio Cir.Dec. 60.

21. N.J.—Elmira Iron, etc., Rolling Mill Co. v. Erie R. Co, 26 N J.Eq 284.

22. Ohio—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Cir.Ct. 100, 1 Ohio Cir.Dec. 60.

23. U.S.—New York Cent. Trust Co. v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., D.C.Ohio, 211 F. 515.
51 C.J. p 776 note 10.

24. N.Y.—Ticonderoga R. Co. v. Delaware, etc., Co., 97 N.E 475, 204 N.Y. 588
51 C J p 776 note 12.
Accounting between parent and subsidiary companies
U.S.—Ewen v. Peoria & E. Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y, 78 F.Supp 312.

25. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., C.C.A. Ind, 6 F 2d 630.

26. Mass.—Nashua, etc., R. Corp v. Boston, etc, R. Corp, 41 N.E. 268, 164 Mass. 222, 49 Am.S R. 454.

27. Mass.—Nashua, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 31 N.E. 1060, 157 Mass. 268.

28. Mass.—Nashua, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., supra.

29. Me.—Portland Terminal Co. v. Boston, etc, R. Co., 144 A. 390, 127 Me 428
51 C J. p 777 note 17.

30. Ala.—Meyer v. Johnston, 64 Ala 603

31. Ala.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 81 So 60, 202 Ala. 558.
51 C J. p 777 note 22
Anything short of ownership by one corporate entity of another corporate entity is not "consolidation."
—New York Cent. Securities Corporation v. U. S., D.C N.Y., 54 F 2d 122, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 45, 287 U S. 12, 77 L Ed. 138.

32. Ala.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 So 60, 202 Ala. 558.
51 C.J. p 777 note 23

33. U.S.—Lee v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, C.C.S C, 150 F 775, reversed on other grounds 166 F. 850, 94 C.C.A. 128.
51 C.J. p 777 note 24.

companies concerned,[34] as distinguished from a mere physical union or connection of their tracks,[35] or a business agreement affecting the ownership, operation, use, or control of their roads,[36] and is clearly distinguishable from a purchase[37] or lease[38] by one company of the railroad of another, a traffic agreement,[39] or the acquisition by one company of stock in another,[40] although the purchase or acquisition of stock may be the mode adopted to effect a consolidation.[41]

Term "amalgamation," as used in English and Canadian cases to designate a combination or merger to two railroad companies, is unfavorably regarded in this country,[42] and is seldom adopted by American courts.[43]

§ 235. Right to Consolidate

a. In general
b. As affected by relation of railroads
c. Companies in different states
d. Right to question validity of consolidation
e. Effect of curative statutes

a. In General

In the absence of constitutional or statutory authority a railroad has no power to consolidate with another, and authority to consolidate must be clearly given.

In the absence of constitutional or statutory authority, a railroad company has no power to consolidate with another or others,[44] and the fact that a proposed consolidation would be of advantage to the public cannot be considered where such authority is lacking.[45] Authority to consolidate must be conferred on, and possessed by, each company entering into a consolidation agreement, in order to render it valid.[46]

Grant and existence of authority. Authority to consolidate must be clearly given to a railroad company, in order to be deemed to exist, and cannot be implied from any uncertain or doubtful language with respect to the powers conferred on it;[47] and a constitutional or statutory prohibition against the consolidation of particular companies does not by implication authorize the consolidation of others.[48] Such authority may be given by provision therefor in the charter of the company,[49] or general law,[50] or by an enabling act,[51] or by special act consolidating designated companies and incorporating the consolidated company as such;[52] and the legislature may authorize either a modified surrender of the old

34. Mich.—Pingree v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 76 N.W. 635, 118 Mich. 314, 53 L.R.A. 274.
51 C.J. p 777 note 25.

35. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U.S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.

36. Mich.—Pingree v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 76 N.W. 635, 118 Mich. 314, 53 L.R.A. 274.
Tex.—Morrill v. Smith County, 36 S.W. 56, 89 Tex. 529.

37. U.S.—Green County v. Conners, Mo., 3 S.Ct. 69, 109 U.S. 104, 27 L.Ed. 872
51 C.J. p 777 note 28.

38. Mont.—State v. Montana R. Co., 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271.
51 C.J. p 777 note 29.

39. U.S.—Galveston Causeway Constr. Co. v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., D.C.Tex., 284 F. 137, affirmed, C.C.A., 287 F. 1021, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 503, 262 U.S. 747, 67 L.Ed. 1212.
51 C.J. p 777 note 30.

40. U.S.—New York Cent. Securities Corporation v. U. S., N.Y., 53 S.Ct. 45, 287 U.S. 12, 77 L.Ed. 138.
N.J.—Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N.J.Eq. 5.
Tex.—San Antonio, U. & G. R. Co. v. Nueces Valley Townsite Co., Civ. App., 34 S.W.2d 391, reversed on other grounds Nueces Valley Townsite Co. v. San Antonio, U. & G. R. Co., 67 S.W.2d 215, 123 Tex. 167.

41. Ga.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 75 S.E. 468, 138 Ga. 353.
51 C.J. p 778 note 33.
Effect of ownership
A railroad company which has paid for the construction of the line of another, owns practically all of its capital stock, and is in possession of its road under an agreement for future consolidation, will be considered as the owner within the meaning of a statute permitting reconsolidation in case of the breaking up of a consolidated road.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., Ohio, 95 F. 497, 36 C.C.A. 155, rehearing denied 96 F. 784, 37 C.C.A. 587, certiorari denied 20 S.Ct. 383, 176 U.S. 219, 44 L.Ed. 442.

42. Ala.—Meyer v. Johnston, 64 Ala. 603.
Significance of term
"An amalgamation implies such a consolidation as to reduce the companies to a common interest."—Powell v. North Missouri R. Co., 42 Mo. 63, 67.

43. Mont.—State v. Montana R. Co., 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271.

44. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U.S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.
51 C.J. p 778 note 38.

45. N.Y.—Continental Securities Co. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 151 N.Y.S. 534, appeal dismissed 152 N.Y.S. 1105, 167 App.Div. 934.

46. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U.S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.
51 C.J. p 778 note 40.

47. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, supra.
Tex.—Morrill v. Smith County, 36 S.W. 56, 33 S.W. 899, 89 Tex. 529.

48. Tex.—East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 12 S.W. 690, 75 Tex. 434.

49. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.
51 C.J. p 778 note 44.

50. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., supra.
Ind.—Smith v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 81 N.E. 501, 170 Ind. 382.

51. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.
N.C.—Spencer v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 49 S.E. 96, 137 N.C. 107, 1 L.R.A.,N.S., 604.

52. Me.—State v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 66 Me. 488, affirmed 96 U.S. 499, 24 L.Ed. 836.

companies or their total extinction and the creation by their union of a new company [53]

Under a general statute authorizing the consolidation of railroad companies, more than two, unless otherwise provided, may be consolidated at one time,[54] even though the statute refers to the "two" consolidating companies [55] Authority conferred on a designated company to consolidate with another or others does not pass to the resulting consolidated company so as to authorize it to make successive consolidations with other companies;[56] but, where the right to consolidate is conferred on railroad companies generally, the right is not exhausted by a single exercise or affected by the fact that one of the constituent companies is the product of a prior consolidation [57] The mere fact that one company owns property which another company is not empowered to hold does not prevent their consolidation.[58] A statute empowering one railroad company to "unite"[59] or "connect"[60] with another or other companies authorizes merely a physical connection of the tracks or a traffic consolidation, and not a corporate consolidation.

Conditions. The legislature in authorizing a consolidation of railroad companies may impose such conditions as it may deem proper;[61] and a company by exercising the authority so given impliedly consents to, and becomes bound by, the conditions imposed.[62]

Revocation or restriction of authority. The legislature may revoke a power to consolidate previously given, if it has not been executed,[63] or limit a general power previously given so as to exclude consolidations between parallel or competing lines,[64] even though power to alter or amend the charter of the company has not been reserved to the state.[65]

b. As Affected by Relation of Railroads

(1) Continuous or connecting lines
(2) Parallel or competing lines

(1) Continuous or Connecting Lines

Statutory or constitutional provisions may authorize consolidation of continuous or connecting railroads only, but direct connection has been held not essential although connection by a railroad not a party to the consolidation, may be insufficient.

Under constitutional or statutory provisions authorizing the consolidation of those railroad companies only whose roads connect or form a continuous line, it has been held that two railroads need not be connected directly,[66] but the connection may be made by an intervening railroad[67] or bridge,[68] even though it does not belong to either of the consolidating companies;[69] but there is authority to the effect that a connection by means of an intervening railroad owned by a company not a party to the consolidation is insufficient.[70] Such provisions contemplate that the consolidated road shall form one instead of two or more lines of road,[71] and must be construed subject to any statutory limitations with respect to the consolidation of parallel or competing lines.[72] The mere fact of connection between two railroads does not necessarily make them continuous, within the meaning of such statutes.[73]

A statute authorizing companies operating railroads partly or wholly within the state to consolidate with other companies operating connecting lines does not prevent a consolidation from including companies operating roads wholly outside the state and not directly connected with the lines of any company operating within the state, as long as the lines of the consolidated company form a continuous connecting system,[74] where there is a simultaneous 53. Me.—State v. Maine Cent. R. Co, supra.

54. U.S.—Bonner v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., Ind, 151 F. 985, 81 C. C.A. 476.
51 C.J. p 778 note 49.

55. Ind.—Smith v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 81 N.E. 501, 170 Ind. 382.

56. Tex.—Morrill v. Smith County, 36 S.W. 56, 89 Tex. 529.

57. Ind.—Smith v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 81 N.E. 501, 170 Ind. 382
N.Y.—Taylor v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 57 How.Pr. 26.

58. N.Y.—Venner v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 164 N.Y.S. 626, 177 App.Div. 296, affirmed 125 N.E. 893, 226 N.Y. 583.

59. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U. S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.

60. Tex.—Morrill v. Smith County, 36 S.W. 56, 89 Tex. 529.

61. U.S.—Ashley v. Ryan, Ohio, 14 S.Ct. 865, 153 U.S. 436, 38 L.Ed. 773.
51 C.J. p 779 note 59.

62. U.S.—Ashley v. Ryan, supra.
51 C.J. p 779 note 60.

63. U.S.—Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., Minn., 16 S.Ct. 705, 161 U.S. 646, 40 L.Ed. 838.

64. U.S.—Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., supra.

65. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U. S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.

66. N.J.—Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 22 N.J.Eq. 130.
N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Yonkers, 103 N.Y.S. 252

67. N.J.—Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 22 N.J.Eq. 130.

68. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Yonkers, 103 N.Y.S. 252

69. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Yonkers, supra.

70. Ohio.—State v. Vanderbilt, 37 Ohio St 590.
51 C.J. p 779 note 68.

71. N.Y.—People v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 12 Abb.N.Cas. 230.

72. N.Y.—People v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.
Ohio.—State v. Vanderbilt, 37 Ohio St. 590.

73. N.Y.—People v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 12 Abb.N.Cas. 230
Ohio.—State v. Vanderbilt, 37 Ohio St. 590.

74. N.Y.—Venner v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 164 N.Y.S. 626, 177 App.Div. 296, affirmed 125 N.E. 893, 226 N.Y. 583.

consolidation of all the companies.[75] Where a company is authorized to consolidate with any company in an "adjoining state," so as to form a continuous line, it may enter into a consolidation with a company having a road in a state adjoining that into which its line extends, although not adjoining the state in which it is incorporated.[76] Companies whose roads will be connected and continuous may consolidate prior to the construction and actual connection of such roads.[77]

(2) Parallel or Competing Lines

Consolidation of parallel or competing railroads may be prohibited, and within such prohibition are roads which run between the same two points or localities, or roads which are rivals in business

It is competent for a state to prohibit the consolidation of railroad companies owning parallel or competing lines,[78] even though power to amend the charters of the companies has not been reserved,[79] legislation of such character being within the police power,[80] and, although affecting interstate railroads, not an infringement of the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce,[81] and, where so prohibited, such consolidations are illegal and invalid.[82] The object of such provisions is to prevent monopolies and combinations which would interfere with the benefit to the public resulting from competition,[83] and they cannot be evaded by means of a judicial sale,[84] or the purchase by, or transfer to, one company of a controlling interest in the stock of another,[85] or any agreement or business consolidation, even though not a corporate consolidation, which would have the effect which it is the design of such provisions to prevent.[86]

Also, legislative acquiescence in the acquisition by a company of local and branch lines, although some are parallel to its own, will not estop the state to oppose a consolidation with a parallel and competing through line running between the same principal termini.[87] Railroad companies cannot be allowed to consolidate in violation of such provisions merely because their consolidation will result in better service to the public[88] or because one of the roads cannot be operated independently at a profit.[89]

What are parallel or competing roads. Parallel railroads, within the meaning of constitutional or statutory provisions prohibiting the consolidation of companies operating parallel or competing roads, are those which run between the same two points or localities;[90] and competing railroad companies are those which are rivals in business.[91] While it has been held that such a provision should not be construed as if it related to parallel "and" competing roads,[92] the question as to what companies are within the prohibition ordinarily depends principally on whether or not their consolidation would substantially affect competition.[93] Thus two roads, although in some respects parallel, are not within the prohibition where they do not connect common points,[94] particularly where another road under a different management is located between them;[95] and if the roads are not in their general features competing, as where they are widely divergent and reach different commercial centers, they are not within the prohibition,[96] although some incidental competition may result from their intersecting or crossing other lines which serve as feeders[97] or

75. N.Y.—Venner v New York Cent., etc, R Co, supra.

76. Ohio.—Adelbert College v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. P. 14, 3 Ohio N.P. 15.

77. U.S.—Livingston County v. Portsmouth First Nat. Bank, Mo., 9 S.Ct. 18, 128 U.S. 102, 32 L.Ed 359.

78. U.S.—Mobile, etc, R Co. v. Mississippi, Miss., 28 S Ct 650, 210 U.S. 187, 52 L Ed 1016.
51 C J. p 779 note 77.

79. U.S—Louisville, etc., R Co v Kentucky, Ky., 16 S Ct. 714, 161 U. S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.

80. U.S—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, supra.

81. U.S—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Kentucky, supra.

82. U.S—Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co, Minn, 16 S Ct. 705, 161 U.S. 646, 40 L Ed. 838.
51 C.J. p 779 note 81

83. U.S—East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Jarvis, Ill., 92 F. 735, 34 C.C.A. 639.
51 C J. p 779 note 82.

84. U.S—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, Ky., 16 S Ct. 714, 161 U. S. 677, 693, 40 L Ed. 849.
51 C.J. p 779 note 83.

85. U.S—Pearsall v. Great Northern R Co., Minn, 16 S.Ct. 705, 161 U S. 646, 40 L.Ed. 838.

86. U.S—Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co, supra.
51 C.J. p 780 note 85.

87. U.S.—Louisville, etc, R Co v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U.S. 677, 40 L.Ed 849.

88. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R Co, 138 S W 291, 144 Ky. 324, Ann.Cas.1913A 633.

89. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R Co., supra.

90. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co, supra.

91. N.Y—People v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 12 Abb.N Cas 230.

92. Ky—Commonwealth v Louisville, etc., R Co, 138 S W 291, 144 Ky 324, Ann Cas.1913A 633.

93. U S—Louisville, etc., R Co v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, Ky, 16 S Ct. 714, 161 U.S 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.
51 C J. p 780 note 92.

94. U S—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, supra —Kimball v Atchison, etc., R. Co., C.C Mo, 46 F. 888.

95. U S—Kimball v. Atchison, etc., R. Co, supra.

96. U.S—Dady v Georgia, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ga, 112 F. 838.
Ohio.—Burke v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 525, 21 Cinc L.Bul. 11.

97. Ohio.—Burke v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., supra.

crossing streams on which boats are operated as carriers.[98]

On the other hand, companies may be prohibited from consolidation, under such provisions, although their lines are not parallel in a mathematical sense;[99] so any roads which are parallel in a general sense and connect the same principal points so as to constitute competing lines are within the prohibition,[1] and two railroads, although not generally parallel or connecting the same termini, may be competing lines by reason of the companies' relations with, or control or management of, lines other than their own.[2] The applicability of such provisions is not affected by the fact that through trains are not run on one of the roads in question[3] or that one of the companies owns another line which is not parallel.[4]

Terminal railroad companies are not within the application of provisions prohibiting the consolidation of companies owning parallel or competing lines, such provisions being designed to apply to companies conducting an ordinary railroad business.[5]

c. Companies in Different States

Consolidation of companies of different states may be effected by concurrent acts of the respective legislatures authorizing companies organized under the laws of the respective states to consolidate.

A railroad company has no more power to consolidate with a company of another state without legislative authorization than it has to consolidate with any other company.[6] Moreover, a state legislature cannot grant complete authority for the consolidation of a company of its own state with a company or companies of a foreign state;[7] nor can the legislatures of two different states unite in forming from two or more existing companies a single company which shall be the same legal entity in both states;[8] but each may authorize a company organized under its own laws to consolidate with a company of the other,[9] and concurrent action of both legislatures is necessary to a valid consolidation.[10] Under such authority a consolidation may be effected prior to the construction of the railroads.[11] A statute authorizing companies of the state to consolidate with those of adjoining states applies to companies organized after, as well as before, the enactment of the statute;[12] but a statute authorizing such a consolidation and not in terms retroactive will not validate a consolidation with a foreign company entered into prior to its enactment.[13]

d. Right to Question Validity of Consolidation

(1) In general
(2) Estoppel

(1) In General

Generally, the validity of a consolidation may be questioned only by the state in a direct proceeding.

Ordinarily, the validity of a consolidation of railroad companies or the legal existence of the consolidated company may be attacked only by the state,[14] and cannot be questioned in a collateral proceeding,[15] or even in a direct action or proceeding by private persons,[16] such as stockholders[17] or bondholders[18] of the several companies consolidated, except that a stockholder who did not consent to the consolidation or have any knowledge of the proceedings is not precluded from questioning the validity of the consolidation in an action brought against him by the consolidated company to recover a stock assessment or to enforce his subscription even

98. U.S.—Dady v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ga., 112 F. 838.

99. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 138 S.W. 291, 144 Ky. 324, Ann.Cas.1913A 633.
51 C.J. p 780 note 98.

1. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, Ky., 16 S.Ct. 714, 161 U.S. 677, 40 L.Ed. 849.
51 C.J. p 780 note 99.

2. Mont.—State v. Montana R. Co., 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271.
51 C.J. p 780 note 1.

3. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 138 S.W. 291, 144 Ky. 324, Ann.Cas.1913A 633.

4. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.

5. Mo.—State v. St. Louis Terminal R. Assoc., 81 S.W. 395, 182 Mo. 284.

6. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.

7. N.Y.—People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 29 N.E. 959, 129 N.Y. 474, 15 L.R.A. 82.

8. Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 14 N.E. 874, 123 Ill. 467.
51 C.J. p 780 note 8.

9. N.Y.—People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 29 N.E. 959, 129 N.Y. 474, 15 L.R.A. 82.
51 C.J. p 780 note 9.

10. N.Y.—People v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

11. U.S.—Livingston County v. Portsmouth First Nat. Bank, Mo., 9 S.Ct. 18, 123 U.S. 102, 32 L.Ed. 359.

12. Ind.—Smith v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 81 N.E. 501, 170 Ind. 382.

13. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.

14. U.S.—Galveston Causeway Constr. Co. v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., D.C.Tex., 284 F. 137, affirmed, C.C.A., 287 F. 1021, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 503, 262 U.S. 747, 67 L.Ed. 1212.
51 C.J. p 781 note 14.

15. U.S.—Galveston Causeway Constr. Co. v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 751 note 15.

16. Wash.—Day v. Tacoma R., etc., Co., 141 P. 347, 80 Wash. 161, L.R.A.1915B 547.
51 C.J. p 751 note 16.

17. N.J.—Bell v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., Ch., 10 A. 741—Terhune v. Midland R. Co., 38 N.J.Eq. 423.

18. N.J.—Terhune v. Potts, 47 N.J. Law 218.

though the proceedings were sufficient to constitute the new company a corporation de facto.[19] The rule precluding collateral attack applies, however, only where the consolidated company is at least a corporation de facto,[20] and if there was no statutory authority for the consolidation, its validity may be collaterally attacked.[21]

(2) Estoppel

A railroad company formed by voluntary consolidation may be estopped to deny the validity of the consolidation, as is any one who has participated in the consolidation or benefited from it.

A railroad company formed by a voluntary consolidation, which has succeeded to possession of the property and to the exercise of the franchises of the constituent companies, or induced third persons to contract with it on the faith of its legal existence as a corporation, is estopped to deny the validity of the consolidation,[22] or the validity of contracts made by it and from which it has received the benefit,[23] its title to property mortgaged by it,[24] or its liabilities as a consolidated company.[25] Each of the constituent companies which has participated in all the steps essential to the creation of a de facto corporation by consolidation is similarly estopped to deny its legal existence,[26] as are stockholders of a constituent company who participated in the proceedings of that company by which it agreed to, and effected, the consolidation,[27] or who have enjoyed the benefits thereof,[28] or who have been guilty of laches in failing to make any objection until after a long lapse of time, during which rights and equities of third persons have intervened.[29] So, also, creditors of a consolidated company de facto, who have dealt with it as a corporation, are estopped to deny the validity of the consolidation for the purpose of defeating a mortgage made by the company,[30] and a municipal corporation which has issued its bonds in aid of the consolidated company is estopped in an action against it on the bonds to deny the corporate existence of the company or the validity of the consolidation.[31]

e. Effect of Curative Statutes

Curative legislation may validate an unauthorized or informal consolidation.

An unauthorized or informal consolidation of railroad companies may be validated by a subsequent curative act[32] or by legislative recognition of the consolidated company as a corporation de jure;[33] but a statute merely authorizing consolidations like one previously entered into without authority, which is not in terms retroactive, will not validate such consolidation.[34]

Constitutionality. A constitutional provision prohibiting the granting of special privileges does not invalidate a statute legalizing a prior consolidation.[35]

§ 236. Assent of Stockholders and Bondholders

Consolidation of railroads must be accomplished by the stockholders, and generally the stockholders of each company must assent to the consolidation.

A consolidation of two or more railroad companies cannot be effected by the action of the directors alone, but must be done by the stockholders.[36] Except where at the time of the subscription there existed constitutional or statutory provisions authorizing a consolidation or reserving to the state power to amend the charter of the company, the stockholders of each company must assent to the consolidation, in order to be bound thereby,[37] since the relationship between the stockholders and the company is contractual and cannot be impaired by the

19. Mich.—Tuttle v. Michigan Air Line R. Co., 35 Mich. 247.
Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Stout, 26 Ohio St. 241.

20. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.

21. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., supra.

22. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ashling, 43 N.E. 373, 160 Ill. 373.
51 C.J. p 781 note 22.

23. U.S.—Dimpfel v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ill., 7 F.Cas.No.3,918, 9 Biss. 127, 8 Reporter 641, affirmed 3 S.Ct. 573, 110 U.S. 209, 28 L.Ed. 121.

24. Ill.—Racine, etc., R. Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 49 Ill. 331, 95 Am.D. 595.

25. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hutcheson, 3 Tex.A.Civ.Cas. § 96.

26. Ind.—Bradford v. Frankfort, etc., R. Co., 40 N.E. 741, 41 N.E. 819, 142 Ind. 383.

27. Ind.—Bradford v. Frankfort, etc., R. Co., supra.

28. Pa.—Rothschild v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa.Co. 620

29. U.S.—Dimpfel v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ill., 7 F.Cas.No.3,918, 9 Biss. 127, 8 Reporter 641, affirmed 3 S.Ct. 573, 110 U.S. 209, 28 L.Ed. 121.

30. U.S.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., Ohio, 95 F. 497, 36 C.C.A. 155, certiorari denied 20 S.Ct. 383, 176 U.S. 219, 44 L.Ed. 442.
Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Lancaster, 100 S.E. 380, 149 Ga. 434.

31. U.S.—Lewis v. Clarendon, C.C. Ark., 15 F.Cas.No.8,320, 5 Dill. 329.

32. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.
51 C.J. p 781 note 32.

33. Conn.—Mead v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Conn. 199.
Ill.—McAuley v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 83 Ill. 348

34. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.

35. N.C.—Reid v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 78 S.E. 306, 162 N.C. 355.

36. U.S.—Mowrey v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ind., 17 F.Cas.No. 9,891, 4 Biss. 78.

37. U.S.—Mowrey v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 782 note 39.

legislature;[38] but a consolidation authorized by statute is not necessarily void without the assent of all the stockholders of the consolidating companies.[39]

Subscriptions to the stock of the consolidating companies must be deemed to have been made with respect to any constitutional or statutory provisions existing at the time thereof, authorizing a consolidation of such companies with others,[40] in which case a majority of the stockholders may exercise the power;[41] and, where there was in existence at such time a right reserved to alter or amend the charter of a company, the legislature may authorize a consolidation without the consent of all the stockholders.[42]

Mode of obtaining assent. Each consolidating railroad company should obtain the requisite assent of its stockholders to the consolidation in such manner, and at a meeting called in such way, as may be prescribed by law and its charter;[43] and when the companies are of different states, the method by which each secures the assent of its own stockholders is governed by the laws of its state and need not conform to the laws of the state in which another of the consolidating companies is organized.[44]

Bondholders. Where a railroad company has issued bonds under an agreement that it will not consolidate with another company without the approval of the bondholders, the assent of such bondholders is essential to the validity of a consolidation.[45]

§ 237. Remedies of Dissenting Stockholders

In a proper case a dissenting stockholder may sue to enjoin the consolidation.

Where the consent of all the stockholders is necessary to a valid consolidation, a dissenting stockholder may sue to enjoin the consolidation,[46] provided he has not been guilty of laches in making his objection,[47] except where the statute provides for the condemnation of the stock of dissenters by the majority stockholders and the payment of its value.[48]

§ 238. Agreements and Procedure for Consolidation

Where the procedure for consolidation is prescribed by statute there must be substantial compliance with it; and the terms of the agreement may be controlled by statutory provisions.

Where statutes prescribe the procedure to be followed in effecting a consolidation of railroad companies, the provisions thereof must be at least substantially complied with,[49] as where there is required an agreement between the boards of directors of the consolidating companies,[50] due notice thereof to the stockholders,[51] ratification or confirmation of the agreement by them,[52] the approval of designated officers of the state,[53] the filing with the secretary of state of a certificate or articles of consolidation[54] in a prescribed form,[55] or the payment of a consolidation tax[56] or a fee for filing the articles of consolidation;[57] and where the statute provides therefor, the election of a new board of directors by the consolidated company is essential to vest in it the title to the property of the constituent companies.[58] On compliance with such statutory requirements, a valid consolidation is effected,[59] and no formalities not so prescribed are requisite thereto.[60] A failure, however, to comply strictly with all the

38. Ind.—McCray v. Junction R. Co., 9 Ind. 358
Ky.—Owensboro Deposit Bank v. Barrett, 13 S.W. 337, 11 Ky.L. 337.

39. Ind.—Booe v Junction R. Co., 10 Ind 93—McCray v. Junction R. Co., 9 Ind. 358.

40. U.S.—Bonner v. Terre Haute, etc., R Co., Ind., 151 F. 985, 81 C.C.A. 476.
51 C.J. p 782 note 43.

41. U.S.—Bonner v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., supra.

42. Cal.—Market St. R. Co. v. Hellman, 42 P. 225, 109 Cal. 571.
51 C.J. p 782 note 45.

43. Ind.—Bradford v. Frankfort, etc., R. Co., 40 N.E. 741, 41 N.E. 819, 142 Ind. 383.

44. Ind.—Bradford v. Frankfort, etc., R. Co., supra.

45. N.Y.—Continental Securities Co. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 111 N.E. 484, 217 N.Y. 119.

46. U.S.—Mowrey v. Indianapolis, etc., R Co., C.C.Ind., 17 F.Cas.No 9,891, 4 Biss 78.
51 C.J. p 782 note 53.

47. N.J.—Bell v. Pennsylvania, etc., R Co., Ch., 10 A. 741.
N.C.—Spencer v. Seaboard, Air Line R. Co., 49 S.E. 96, 137 N.C. 107, 1 L.R.A.,N.S., 604

48. N.C.—Spencer v. Seaboard Air Line R Co., supra.

49. U.S.—Ashley v. Ryan, Ohio, 14 S.Ct. 865, 153 U.S. 436, 38 L.Ed. 773.
51 C.J. p 782 note 56

50. Mich.—Tuttle v. Michigan Air Line R. Co., 35 Mich. 247.

51. Mich.—Wells v. Rodgers, 27 N.W. 671, 60 Mich. 525.
51 C.J. p 782 note 58.

52. Mich.—Tuttle v. Michigan Air Line R. Co., 35 Mich. 247.

53. U.S.—Borg v. Illinois Terminal Co., C.C.A.Ill., 16 F.2d 988, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 20, 275 U.S. 528, 72 L.Ed. 408.

Mich.—Brown v. Dibble, 32 N.W. 656, 65 Mich. 520.

54. Ind.—State v Chicago, etc., R. Co., 43 N.E. 226, 145 Ind. 229
Mich.—Peninsular R. Co. v Tharp, 28 Mich. 506.

55. Ohio.—State v. Vanderbilt, 37 Ohio St. 590.

56. U.S.—Ashley v. Ryan, Ohio, 14 S.Ct. 865, 153 U.S. 436, 38 L.Ed. 773.

57. Ill.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 43 N.E. 226, 145 Ind. 229.

58. Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 Ohio St. 223.
51 C.J. p 783 note 65.

59. N.Y.—Western New York, etc., Tract Co. v. Erie R. Co., 178 N.Y. S. 491.
Pa.—Commonwealth v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 53 Pa. 9.

60. Ind.—Smith v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 81 N.E. 501, 170 Ind. 382

provisions of a statute will not necessarily render the consolidation void.[61] A failure on the part of one of several companies or of its stockholders to confirm an agreement of consolidation does not impair it as to the others, where the agreement expressly provides in such event for the perfection of the consolidation by those agreeing to it.[62] Rights acquired prior to the enactment of a statute prescribing the procedure for consolidation are not affected by the statute.[63]

Terms of agreement. While statutes sometimes in general language authorize railroad companies to consolidate on such terms as they may agree on, such provisions relate only to the adjustments of the interests of stockholders and to administrative details concerning the consolidation,[64] and do not authorize any action inconsistent with existing statutes or the provisions of the companies' charters,[65] or any contract or agreement between the companies which would conclude the rights of creditors or persons having claims against any of the consolidating companies,[66] or a transfer of the property and franchises of such companies to the consolidated company free from the liabilities, duties, and obligations which the former owed to private individuals or to the public generally.[67] Where a statute authorizing consolidations makes applicable to the consolidated company all the provisions of a general statute authorizing the incorporation of railroads, under which the incorporators are given power to fix the terms for which the company should continue to exist, it has been held that the agreement for consolidation may fix the term of existence of the consolidated company without regard to the time at which the charters of the consolidating companies would expire.[68]

§ 239. Operation and Effect of Consolidation

a. In general
b. Unauthorized or incomplete consolidation
c. Effect on particular matters

a. In General

The effect of consolidation generally is to create a new company and to dissolve or terminate the corporate existence of the consolidating companies; one or more companies may be absorbed or merged in another existing company which becomes the consolidated company

Ordinarily, the effect of a consolidation of railroad companies is to create a new company and to dissolve or terminate the corporate existence of the consolidating companies,[69] except in so far as their separate existence may be expressly continued by statute for the benefit of creditors,[70] and it has been asserted that such is the uniform and necessary effect of what is properly termed a consolidation.[71] However, such is not necessarily or always the case,[72] since a consolidation may be so effected that one or more companies are absorbed or merged into another existing company, which becomes the consolidated company, and does not lose its identity but merely continues with enlarged rights, capacities, and property under its original name,[73] or even under a new name without becoming a new company,[74] and it has even been said that a consolidation may be effected in such manner as to continue the corporate existence of each of the consolidating companies.[75] The question as to which result follows in a particular case is largely to be determined from the provision of the statute or charter authorizing the consolidation,[76] and the agreement made under, and by, the authority thereof.[77]

61. U.S.—Leavenworth County v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Mo., 10 S.Ct. 708, 134 U.S. 688, 33 L.Ed. 1064.
51 C.J. p 783 note 68.

62. U.S.—Phinizy v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., C.C.S.C., 62 F. 678.

63. Mo.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St Louis, 66 Mo. 228.

64. Miss.—Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 24 So. 200, 317, 28 So. 956, 77 Miss. 194, 60 L.R.A. 33, affirmed Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 21 S.Ct. 240, 180 U.S. 1, 45 L.Ed. 395.
51 C.J. p 783 note 73.

65. Miss.—Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 24 So. 200, 317, 28 So. 956, 77 Miss. 194, 60 L.R.A. 33, affirmed Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 21 S.Ct. 240, 180 U.S. 1, 45 L.Ed. 395.

66. Md.—State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 26 A. 865, 77 Md. 489.

67. Ga.—Tompkins v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 30 S.E. 992, 102 Ga. 436

68. N.Y.—New York Cent, etc., R. Co. v. Yonkers, 103 N.Y.S. 252.

69. U.S.—Gavin v. Hudson & M. R. Co., D.C.N.J., 90 F.Supp. 172, reversed on other grounds C.A., 185 F.2d 104.
51 C.J. p 783 note 79.

70. Me.—State v. Maine Cent R. Co., 66 Me. 488
Mont.—State v. Montana R. Co., 53 P. 623, 21 Mont. 221, 45 L.R.A. 271.

71. Miss.—Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 24 So. 200, 317, 28 So. 956, 77 Miss. 194, 60 L.R.A. 33, affirmed Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 21 S.Ct. 240, 180 U.S. 1, 45 L.Ed. 395.
51 C.J. p 784 note 81.

72. U.S.—Central R., etc., Co. v. Georgia, Ga., 92 U.S. 665, 23 L.Ed. 757.
51 C.J. p 784 note 82.

73. U.S.—Central R., etc., Co. v. Georgia, supra.
51 C.J. p 784 note 83.

74. Ala.—Meyer v. Johnston, 64 Ala. 603.

75. Ill.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Gage, 117 N.E. 726, 280 Ill. 639—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Doyle, 100 N.E. 278, 256 Ill. 514.

76. U.S.—Keokuk, etc., R. Co. v. Missouri, Mo., 14 S.Ct. 592, 152 U.S. 301, 38 L.Ed. 450.
51 C.J. p 784 note 86.

77. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Doyle, 100 N.E. 278, 256 Ill. 514.
51 C.J. p 784 note 87.

b. Unauthorized or Incomplete Consolidation

An attempt to consolidate without authority has no effect and does not create even a de facto corporation; but where authority exists, an attempted consolidation may create a de facto corporation despite irregularities in the proceedings

In view of the rule that a railroad company has no right to consolidate with another or other companies except where authorized by constitution or statute, an attempt to consolidate without such authority does not create even a corporation de facto,[78] and, accordingly, does not affect the identity of the constituent companies,[79] which will be liable for any acts done by the so-called consolidated company in the operation of their roads,[80] except that such constituent companies are not liable on contracts made by the consolidated company which were not within the corporate powers of those companies.[81] So a judgment rendered against the consolidated company is enforceable against the constituent companies where an illegal consolidation has been dissolved by judicial proceedings and a decree entered providing that obligations fairly incurred by the consolidated company for the benefit of the constituent companies shall be paid by them.[82]

Where, however, there is in existence a constitutional or statutory provision under which a consolidation might validly be made, the company formed by an attempted consolidation may be a corporation de facto notwithstanding irregularities in the consolidation proceedings[83] or the lack on the part of one or more of the consolidating companies of some of the necessary qualifications.[84]

Unexecuted authority to consolidate. So long as a constitutional or statutory provision authorizing one railroad company to consolidate with another or others is not acted on the unexecuted authority does not impose any liability on either company for debts of the other,[85] nor can any conditions imposed by the statute authorizing the consolidation be enforced;[86] and until the consolidation is consummated the several companies continue in the full enjoyment of their respective franchises.[87]

c. Effect on Particular Matters

(1) Property, rights, and privileges
(2) Duties and liabilities
(3) Liens and mortgages
(4) Pending actions

(1) Property, Rights, and Privileges

(a) In general
(b) Contract rights

(a) In General

Ordinarily the company formed by consolidation succeeds to all the property, and the rights, privileges and franchises previously enjoyed by the consolidating companies except as otherwise provided by statute.

Ordinarily, a railroad company formed by a consolidation of other companies succeeds to all the property of the consolidating companies,[88] and to causes of action belonging to it.[89] It has often been said that it succeeds also to all the rights, privileges, and franchises previously enjoyed by them,[90] except as otherwise provided by statute.[91] The rule so stated is, however, subject to qualification since, while the consolidated company succeeds to whatever rights, privileges, and immunities are possessed by each of the constituent companies in common,[92] and also to any special right or privilege enjoyed by one of them alone in so far as it may be separately exercised or enjoyed with respect only to the portion of the road or property derived from that company,[93] a separate right or privilege of one company does not pass to the consolidated company so as to become a general right of that company with respect to the entire road or property;[94] nor do any

78. Ill.—American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 42 N.E. 153, 157 Ill. 641.

79. N.Y.—Latham v Boston, etc., R. Co., 38 Hun 265.

80. N.Y.—Latham v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.

81. U.S.—Pearce v. Madison, etc., R Co., Ind., 21 How. 441, 16 L.Ed. 184.
51 C.J. p 784 note 92.

82. Ind.—Ketcham v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 20 Ind 260.

83. Ind.—Bradford v. Frankfort, etc., R. Co., 40 N.E. 741, 41 N.E. 819, 142 Ind. 383.
N.J.—Terhune v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 38 N.J.Eq. 423.

84. U.S.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., Ohio, 95 F. 497, 36 C.C.A. 155, certiorari denied 20 S.Ct. 383, 176 U.S. 219, 44 L.Ed. 442

85. Mo.—Southgate v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 61 Mo. 89.

86. S.C.—Gibbes v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 13 S.C. 228.

87. Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 Ohio St. 223.

88. Mass.—Proprietors Merrimack River Locks, etc. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 139 N.E. 839, 245 Mass. 52.
51 C.J. p 786 note 42.

89. N.J.—Day v. New York, etc., R. Co., 34 A. 1031, 58 N.J.Law 677.
51 C.J. p 786 note 43.

90. U.S.—Green County v. Conness, Mo., 3 S.Ct. 69, 109 U.S. 104, 27 L.Ed. 873.
51 C.J. p 786 note 44, p 787 note 46 [a].

91. Ala.—Georgia Pac. R. Co v. Gaines, 7 So. 383, 88 Ala. 377—Georgia Pac. R. Co. v. Wilks, 6 So. 34, 86 Ala. 478.
51 C.J. p 786 note 45.

92. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson County, Civ.App., 174 S.W. 305, affirmed 38 S.Ct. 370, 246 U.S. 424, 62 L.Ed. 807.
51 C.J. p 787 note 48.

93. U.S.—Tomlinson v. Branch, S.C., 15 Wall. 460, 21 L.Ed. 189.
51 C.J. p 787 note 49.

94. U.S.—Tomlinson v. Branch, supra.
51 C.J. p 787 note 50.

separate rights of the constituent companies pass to the consolidated company which from their nature cannot be exercised or enjoyed by it under its new constitution.[95] The consolidated company does not become invested with any other or greater rights than were possessed by the constituent companies,[96] unless they are conferred by statute.[97]

(b) Contract Rights

A consolidated railroad succeeds to the contract rights and privileges of its constituent companies.

A consolidated railroad company succeeds to the rights and privileges of its constituent companies under contracts made by them prior to the consolidation,[98] and may maintain actions to enforce them.[99] Its right to the benefit of such contracts is, however, subject to any conditions forming a part of the terms thereof,[1] which must be performed by it in order to entitle it to recover on the contract,[2] and if it is unable to do so according to the terms of the contract, it cannot recover thereon;[3] but if it can and does perform the conditions, it is entitled to recover on the contract.[4] The consolidated company may also recover on a fidelity bond given by an agent of one of the constituent companies to such company and its successors, for a defalcation occurring subsequent to the consolidation, where the agent is continued in the employment of the consolidated company with the same duties as before.[5]

(2) Duties and Liabilities

(a) In general

(b) Under contracts

(a) In General

Except as otherwise provided by statute a railroad company formed by consolidation is bound to perform the duties appertaining to the constituent companies.

Unless otherwise provided by statute, a railroad company formed by the consolidation of other companies is bound to perform the duties appertaining to the constituent companies,[6] and is liable for their existing debts, liabilities, and obligations,[7] at least to the extent of the assets received from the constituent company by which the liability was incurred.[8] While such liability of course exists where it is expressly imposed by the statute authorizing the consolidation[9] or expressly assumed by the articles of consolidation,[10] it exists independently of such provisions as a necessary legal result of the consolidation.[11] A statutory provision preserving the separate existence of consolidating companies with respect to their existing debts and liabilities so that actions may be maintained against them after the consolidation is merely a cumulative protection for creditors and does not affect the liability of the consolidated company.[12] If no part of the franchise is reserved to either of the constituent companies, they are not liable to the public after the consolidation for the performance of duties devolving on the consolidated company.[13]

(b) Under Contracts

A railroad corporation formed by consolidation succeeds to all obligations and liabilities of the constituent companies on contracts made by them before consolidation.

A railroad company formed by a consolidation succeeds to all the obligations and liabilities of its constituent companies arising out of contracts there-

95. U.S.—Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Maine, Me., 96 U.S. 499, 24 L.Ed. 836.
51 C.J. p 787 note 51.

96. Ill.—Ruggles v. People, 91 Ill. 256.
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Wehrle, 25 Pa.Dist. 824.

97. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Daniel, S.C., 68 S.Ct. 426, 333 U.S. 118, 92 L.Ed. 580.
Provision, in Interstate Commerce Act, relating to consolidations and mergers that any power granted thereunder to any carrier should be deemed to be in addition to, and in modification of, its powers under its corporate charter or under laws of any state, authorizes a railroad corporation to exercise the powers therein granted over and above those bestowed on it by the state of its creation and such federally conferred powers can be exercised in the same manner as though they had been granted a federally created corporation—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Daniel, supra.

98. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, 68 S.W. 159, 95 Tex. 461
51 C.J. p 757 note 54

99. Ind.—Sparrow v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 369
Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 Ohio St. 223

1. Mich.—Brown v. Dibble, 32 N.W. 656, 65 Mich. 520.

2. Mich.—Brown v. Dibble, supra.

3. N.J.—New Jersey Midland R. Co. v. Strait, 35 N.J.Law 322.
51 C.J. p 787 note 58.

4. Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Stout, 26 Ohio St. 223.

5. Pa.—Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Harkins, 24 A. 175, 149 Pa. 121

6. Ill.—People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 10 N.E. 657, 120 Ill. 48—Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Coal Valley Min. Co., 68 Ill. 489.

7. U.S.—Bailey v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., N.Y., 22 Wall. 604, 22 L.Ed. 840.
51 C.J. p 787 note 63

8. Kan.—Berry v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 36 P. 724, 52 Kan. 774, 39 Am.S.R. 381, 371.
51 C.J. p 788 note 64.

9. U.S.—Bailey v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., N.Y., 22 Wall. 604, 22 L.Ed. 840.
51 C.J. p 788 note 65.

10. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Cone, 48 So. 514, 53 Fla. 1017.
51 C.J. p 788 note 66.

11. Tex.—Gueringer v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Com.App., 23 S.W.2d 704
51 C.J. p 788 note 67.

12. S.C.—Pickett v. Southern R. Co., 48 S.E. 466, 69 S.C. 445.
51 C.J. p 788 note 70.

13. Ill.—Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Coal Valley Min. Co., 68 Ill. 489.

tofore made by them,[14] at least to the extent of the property acquired from the respective companies,[15] and in a proper case may be required specifically to perform[16] or respond in damages for failure to perform.[17]

(3) Liens and Mortgages

Existing liens and mortgages on property of the constituent companies are chargeable to the railroad company formed by consolidation.

A railroad company formed by consolidation is chargeable with notice of all existing liens on the property of the consolidating companies,[18] and such liens are not affected by the consolidation, but the new company takes the property subject thereto.[19] So the consolidation does not affect the rights of mortgage creditors[20] or bondholders.[21] However, a consolidation does not create any lien in favor of creditors of a constituent company who previously had none,[22] or extend an existing lien over property not previously subject thereto.[23]

(4) Pending Actions

Generally, consolidation of two or more railroad companies does not abate actions pending by or against the constituent companies, and the consolidated company may be substituted as a party.

Although there is authority for the view that the consolidation of two or more railroad companies works such a dissolution of the constituent companies as to abate any pending actions by or against them,[24] it is the more general rule that the consolidation does not abate pending actions,[25] and that the consolidated company may be substituted as plaintiff in an action theretofore brought by a constituent company.[26] In actions pending against a constituent company no new service of process is necessary,[27] but the consolidated company may be made a party by amendment of the pleadings,[28] or the pending action may be prosecuted to judgment against the constituent company and the judgment enforced against the consolidated company,[29] or the consolidated company may be substituted as a defendant even after verdict, and judgment rendered against it,[30] except where the statute authorizing the consolidation preserves the corporate existence of the consolidating companies and their liability for existing obligations, in which case judgment cannot be rendered against the consolidated company unless it is made a party to the action,[31] even though it has succeeded to, or assumed the liabilities of, its constituent companies.[32]

§ 240. —— Consolidation with Foreign Company

The consolidation of railroad companies of different states terminates the existence of the constituent companies and creates a new company, which is, however, a separate corporation in each state, having the status of a domestic corporation therein.

The consolidation of railroad companies of different states ordinarily has the effect of dissolving or terminating the existence of the constituent companies and creating a new company,[33] but the new

14. Ind.—Cox v Baltimore, etc., R Co., 103 N.E. 337, 180 Ind. 495, 50 L.R.A.,N.S., 453
51 C.J. p 788 note 72.

15. U.S.—Pullman's Palace-Car Co v Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo., 6 S. Ct 194, 115 U.S. 587, 29 L.Ed. 499.
51 C.J. p 788 note 73.

16. U.S.—Union Pac R. Co. v. McAlpine, Kan., 9 S.Ct. 286, 129 U.S. 305, 32 L.Ed 673.
51 C.J. p 788 note 74.

17. U.S.—Lisman v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co, C.C.Wis., 161 F. 472, affirmed 170 F. 1020, 95 C.C.A. 671, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 700, 214 U.S. 520, 53 L.Ed. 1065.
51 C.J. p 788 note 75.

18. U.S.—Western Div. R. Co. v. Drew, C.C.Fla., 29 F.Cas No 17,434, 3 Woods 691, affirmed 103 U.S. 118, 26 L.Ed. 327.
Miss.—Mississippi Valley Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 58 Miss. 846.

19. Ohio.—Citizens' Sav., etc., Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., Tract. Co., 140 N.E. 380, 106 Ohio St. 577.
51 C.J. p 789 note 78.

20. Ind.—Eaton, etc., R. Co. v. Hunt, 20 Ind 457.
51 C.J. p 789 note 79.
Interest on mortgage bonds
U.S.—In re Central of Ga. Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 58 F.Supp. 816.
Practical construction of parties
Where a railroad purchased another line, part of whose bonds were delivered as collateral for the railroad's divisional purchase-money mortgage, and there had been a practical construction for many years to the effect that interest on the collateral should not be collectable as long as interest was paid under the divisional mortgage, it was too late to make a contrary contention.—In re Central of Ga. Ry. Co., supra.

21. N.Y.—Weaver v. Pacific Impr. Co., 191 N.Y.S. 3, 541, 198 App.Div. 825, affirmed 138 N.E. 42, 234 N.Y. 418.

22. U.S.—Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Ham, Ind., 5 S.Ct. 1081, 114 U.S. 587, 29 L.Ed. 235.
51 C.J. p 789 note 81.

23. U.S.—Railway Steel Springs Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, D.C.Ill., 246 F 338.

24. Kan.—Wagner v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 58 P 1018, 9 Kan.App. 661.
51 C.J. p 789 note 84.

25. Ill.—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v. Ashling, 43 N.E. 373, 160 Ill. 373.
51 C.J. p 789 note 85.

26. N.J.—Day v. New York, etc, R. Co., 34 A. 1081, 58 N.J.Law 677.
51 C.J. p 789 note 86.

27. Mo.—Kinion v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo.App. 574—Kinion v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo.App. 382.

28. Mo.—Kinion v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo.App. 574.

29. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ashling, 43 N.E. 373, 160 Ill. 373.
51 C.J. p 789 note 89.

30. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Summers, 30 N.E. 873, 131 Ind. 241.
51 C.J. p 789 note 90.

31. Ga.—Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Harbin, 40 Ga. 706.

32. Ga.—Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Harbin, supra.

33. U.S.—Keokuk, etc., R. Co. v company, although having a single name and management, and but one set of stockholders, is nevertheless a separate corporation in each state,[34] having in each the status of a domestic corporation,[35] and its rights and liabilities in each are derived from, and determined by, the laws of that state,[36] unaffected by the law of the other state or states in which the company also exists.[37]

So it has been said that the consolidated company stands in each state as the original company stood in that state, with the same rights and liabilities;[38] it succeeds to the rights and privileges of the original company in that state,[39] and may exercise with respect to the entire road and property whatever rights it enjoys under the laws of both states,[40] such as the issuance of preferred or guaranteed stock,[41] or the issuance of bonds and the execution of mortgages,[42] which may cover property owned by the company as incorporated in both or all the states,[43] although the action of the company in one state in issuing bonds and executing mortgages which are valid in that state will not create a debt binding on the property of the company as incorporated in another state unless valid according to the laws of such other state.[44]

The result is that the consolidated company frequently possesses very different rights, powers, and privileges and is subject to different liabilities in the various states in which it is incorporated,[45] although, having but a single management, name, and corporate seal, it must necessarily act in the transaction of its business as a single company.[46] The directors, stockholders, and officers of the company may hold meetings and transact corporate business in any of the states in which it is incorporated;[47] and the company is not subject to a provision of a state constitution requiring that a majority of the directors of any railroad company incorporated by the laws of the state shall be residents thereof.[48]

§ 241. —— Rights and Liabilities of Stockholders and Subscribers to Stock

Where consolidation of railroad companies is effected without the required consent of a stockholder he may sue to recover the value of his interest or pursue available statutory remedies. Exchange of stock in a consolidated company for stock of the constituent companies must be on a fair and just basis.

Where a consolidation of railroad companies has been effected without the consent of a stockholder or subscriber to stock of a constituent company whose assent thereto is required, he is released from his subscription,[49] and, although he has no standing to maintain a suit to dissolve the consolidated company, he may unless barred by laches,[50] maintain a suit against the consolidated company to recover the value of his interest in the constituent company wrongfully appropriated by the former,[51] or, where the statute provides therefor, maintain proceedings to compel the ascertainment and payment of the value of the stock;[52] but he cannot recover a personal judgment against the directors of the new company.[53]

Missouri, Mo., 14 S.Ct. 592, 152 U.S. 301, 38 L.Ed. 450.
51 C.J. p 784 note 1.

34. U.S.—Steckler v. Pennroad Corp., D.C.Pa., 44 F.Supp. 800, affirmed, C.C.A., 136 F.2d 197, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 64, 320 U.S. 757, 88 L.Ed. 451.
51 C.J. p 784 note 3.

35. U.S.—Steckler v. Pennroad Corp., supra.
51 C.J. p 785 note 4.

36. U.S.—Pelk v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Wis., 94 U.S. 164, 24 L.Ed. 97.
51 C.J. p 785 note 5.

Status of new corporation

(1) Corporation resulting from consolidation of New York railroad and railroads of other states held not "corporation incorporated under any law of this state" within stock taxing statute.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Flynn, 251 N.Y.S. 343, 233 App.Div. 123, affirmed 178 N.E. 791, 257 N.Y. 553.

(2) Although consolidated railroad corporation's increase in capital stock is not taxable, corporation may obtain state's consent to the increase.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Flynn, supra.

37. Ala.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 81 So. 60, 202 Ala. 558
51 C.J. p 785 note 6

38. U.S.—Minot v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., Del., 18 Wall. 206, 21 L.Ed. 888
Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 14 N.E. 874, 123 Ill. 467.

39. Mo.—State v. Roach, 184 S.W. 969, 267 Mo. 300.
51 C.J. p 785 note 8.

40. Conn.—Mead v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Conn. 199.
N.Y.—Prouty v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., 1 Hun 655, 4 Thomps. & C. 230.

41. N.Y.—Prouty v. Michigan Southern, etc., R. Co., supra.

42. Conn.—Mead v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Conn. 199.

43. Ill.—Racine, etc., R. Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 49 Ill. 331, 95 Am.D. 595.

44. Pa.—Rothschild v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa.Co. 620.

45. Mich.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Auditor-Gen., 18 N.W. 586, 53 Mich. 79.

46. Ill.—Racine, etc., R. Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 49 Ill. 331, 95 Am.D. 595

47. U.S.—Pollitz v. Wabash R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 167 F. 145, reversed on other grounds 176 F. 333, 100 C.C.A. 1.
51 C.J. p 785 note 16.

48. Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 14 N.E. 874, 123 Ill. 467

49. Ind.—Booe v. Junction R. Co., 10 Ind. 93.
51 C.J. p 785 note 20.

50. Ark.—Auten v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 160 S.W. 873, 110 Ark. 24.
51 C.J. p 785 note 22.

51. Ky.—Owensboro Deposit Bank v. Barrett, 13 S.W. 337, 11 Ky.L. 910.
51 C.J. p 785 note 23.

52. Ohio.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Garrett, 34 N.E. 493, 50 Ohio St. 405.

53. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Bremond, 53 Tex. 96.

A dissenting stockholder is not released, however, if at the time of his subscription there was in existence a constitutional or statutory provision authorizing the consolidation,[54] or where at that time a right had been reserved to alter or amend the charter, and the consolidation has been authorized by the legislature to be made on consent of less than the entire number of stockholders,[55] or where the consolidation was clearly contemplated by the company's charter so that its effectuation does not constitute a fundamental change in the company's purposes or object.[56] A stockholder within a statute governing objections to merger of railroads has been held to be one who owns a share of corporate stock with the right to participate, according to his number of shares, in surplus profits and in assets or capital stock remaining after payment of debts on dissolution or termination of the corporation.[57] It is not necessary that he vote in order to dissent from the merger,[58] and he need not be a registered stockholder as long as he is the actual owner of stock.[59]

Exchange of stock. An exchange of stock in a consolidated company for the stock of the constituent companies must be made on a basis fair and just to all the stockholders,[60] and an unfair or unjust plan of exchange may be enjoined.[61] Where a statute or consolidation agreement provides for an exchange of stock, the approval of, or consent to, the consolidation constitutes an agreement to exchange;[62] but where such an exchange is not required thereby, the surrender by a stockholder of a consolidating company of a portion of his stock for shares of the new company does not bind him to exchange the balance.[63] Stockholders of a constituent company are not entitled to maintain any action against the new company to compel the issuance of stock which they could not have maintained against the former company before the consolidation.[64] Where a consolidation agreement provides that holders of unexchanged stock shall be entitled to share proportionately in the earnings of the consolidated company as if there had been no consolidation, a stockholder who has not exchanged his shares is entitled to an accounting of the earnings and cannot be compelled to take merely dividends declared.[65]

Enforcement of subscriptions. Since the consolidated company succeeds to the rights and property of the constituent companies, it may, except as to dissenting stockholders who have been released, sue for and recover any unpaid subscriptions to stock of the constituent companies,[66] and, for the purpose of rendering a subscription enforceable, may comply with any conditions attached thereto.[67] Similarly, creditors of the consolidated company on its insolvency may maintain a creditors' bill to enforce the liability of subscribers to stock of the constituent companies.[68]

Immunities of stockholders. An immunity from liability for debts of the corporation enjoyed by stockholders of the constituent companies does not, in the absence of express provision in the statute or the agreement of consolidation, pass to the stockholders of the consolidated company.[69]

§ 242. Actions Brought after Consolidation

After consolidation, actions on a cause arising prior to consolidation generally are maintainable by, or against, the consolidated company

In accordance with the general rule that on a consolidation of railroad companies the constituent

54. Ind.—Bish v. Johnson, 21 Ind 299
51 C.J. p 785 note 26.

55. Cal.—Market St. R. Co. v. Hellman, 42 P. 225, 109 Cal. 571.
Mass.—Hale v. Cheshire R. Co., 37 N. E. 307, 161 Mass. 443.

56. Ind.—Hanna v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 20 Ind. 30.

57. N.Y.—Application of Friedman, 54 N.Y.S.2d 45, 184 Misc. 639, modified on other grounds 56 N.Y.S.2d 516, 269 App.Div. 834

The object of statute authorizing appraisal of stock held by persons objecting to merger of railroads is to prevent forcing a dissenting stockholder to transpose his investment from one corporation into another, and nothing should be read into the statute that would limit or frustrate this salutary purpose.—Applications of Friedman, supra.

58. N.Y.—Applications of Friedman, supra

59. N.Y.—Applications of Friedman, supra.

Inclusion of unregistered shares in objection

Even if registration of stock was a condition precedent, fact that railroad stockholder's written objection to merger and demand for payment for his stock erroneously referred to one hundred ten shares owned by objecting stockholder, when only one hundred were registered in his name, was a mere irregularity which did not invalidate the objection.—Applications of Friedman, supra.

60. U.S.—De Koven v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 216 F. 955.

61. U.S.—Boyd v. New York, etc., R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 220 F. 174.
51 C.J. p 786 note 30.

62. U.S.—Miller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., N.Y., 193 F. 41, 113 C.C.A. 113

63. U.S.—Miller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

64. N.Y.—Babcock v. Schuylkill, etc., R. Co., 31 N.E. 30, 133 N.Y. 420
51 C.J. p 786 note 34.

65. U.S.—Miller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., N.Y., 204 F. 436, 122 C.C.A. 622.
51 C.J. p 786 note 35.

66. Ind.—Sparrow v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 369.
Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 Ohio St. 223

67. Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Stout, 26 Ohio St. 241.

68. Pa.—Hamilton v. Clarion, etc., R. Co., 23 A. 53, 144 Pa. 34, 13 L.R.R. 779.

69. U.S.—Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner, Minn., 20 S.Ct. 656, 177 U.S. 332, 44 L.Ed. 793.

companies cease to exist, actions brought after a consolidation on a cause arising prior thereto are maintainable by[70] or against,[71] the consolidated company only, rather than any of the companies out of which it was formed, except where, by constitutional or statutory provisions or by the terms of the consolidation agreement, the separate existence of the consolidating companies is continued, in which case action may also be brought against a constituent company after the consolidation on a liability previously incurred by it.[72] The petition or declaration should, however, designate the constituent company in favor of, or against which, the cause of action arose,[73] and allege the fact of consolidation and the consolidated company's assumption of, or succession to, the cause of action or the liability, as the case may be.[74] It is sufficient to allege that the companies were authorized to, and did, consolidate;[75] or, where the consolidation was under the laws of another state, to set out the statutes and allege that their provisions were complied with and the consolidation effected,[76] and it is not necessary that the steps taken to effect the consolidation be set forth,[77] or, it has been held, that legal authority for the consolidation be alleged.[78] It will be presumed, unless the contrary appears, that the consolidated company has been organized and a board of directors elected, so as to vest in it the rights of the constituent company, where it is shown that there was a consolidation,[79] but, where the date of such organization or election is material, the burden is on plaintiff to show that it occurred at such time as to authorize the maintenance of the action.[80] In an action against the consolidated company, a general denial, even though it is regarded as admitting defendant's corporate existence, does not admit an allegation of consolidation on which its liability depends.[81] Where railroad companies of different states consolidate, in whichever of such states the consolidated company is sued it is proper to designate it as a corporation created by, and existing under, the laws of that state.[82] In an action against the consolidated company to enforce a liability of one of the constituent companies, the directors or officers of the new company are not necessary or proper parties.[83]

IX. INDEBTEDNESS, SECURITIES, LIENS, AND MORTGAGES

A. NATURE AND EXTENT OF LIABILITIES

§ 243. In General

As a general rule, a railroad company has power to incur any indebtedness or obligation within the scope of its objects and purposes.

Within the limitations prescribed by its charter or governing statutes or by valid regulations, a railroad company, like any other corporation, as a general rule has power to incur any indebtedness or obligation for a proper or lawful purpose,[84] including those necessary to carry out the purposes and objects for which it was created,[85] such as indebtedness for construction.[86] A railroad company is liable on such obligations as its charter, which it has accepted, or governing statute expressly imposes on it.[87]

Limitation on power in general. Under general rules a railroad company has no power to make, and 70. Pa.—Dalmas v. Philipsburg, etc., R. Co., 98 A. 796, 254 Pa. 9.

71. Pa.—Dalmas v. Philipsburg, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 789 note 97.

72. S.C.—Stewart v. Walterboro, etc., R. Co., 41 S.E. 827, 64 S.C. 92.
51 C.J. p 790 note 99.

73. Mich.—Marquette, etc., R. Co v. Langton, 32 Mich. 251.

74. Tex.—Gueringer v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Com.App., 23 S.W.2d 704
51 C.J. p 790 note 2.

75. Tex.—Gueringer v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., 82 S.W.2d 935, 125 Tex. 418.
Wis.—Collins v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 14 Wis. 492.
Proof of consolidation
Tex.—Gueringer v. St. Louis, B & M. Ry. Co., 82 S.W.2d 935, 125 Tex 418.

76. N.Y.—Rothschild v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 18 N.Y.S. 548, 63 Hun 632, affirmed 58 N.E. 1091, 164 N.Y. 594, 595

77. N.Y.—Rothschild v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., supra.
Wis.—Collins v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 14 Wis. 492.

78. Tex.—Gueringer v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Com.App., 23 S.W.2d 704.
51 C.J. p 790 note 6.

79. Mich.—Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Starnes, 38 Mich 698.

80. Ohio.—Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 26 Ohio St. 223.

81. Iowa.—Koons v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 23 Iowa 493.

82. U.S.—Central Trust Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ark., 41 F. 551

83. N.Y.—Chase v. Vanderbilt, 62 N. Y. 307.

84. Mass.—Brown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 124 N.E. 322, 233 Mass. 502.
N.C.—Craven v. Atlantic, etc., R Co., 77 N.C. 289.
Capacity of corporations to incur indebtedness see Corporations § 1118 et seq.

85. Me.—Belfast, etc., R. Co. v. Belfast, 1 A. 362, 77 Me. 445.
51 C.J. p 790 note 17.

86. Me.—Belfast, etc., R. Co. v. Belfast, supra.
51 C.J. p 790 note 18.
Liability for expense of construction in general see supra §§ 188, 189.

87. La.—State v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 3 Rob. 418.
51 C.J. p 790 note 19.

is not liable on, contracts or obligations which are outside its purposes and objects[88] or outside the powers which it can delegate to its officers;[89] and these rules apply although its business is benefited as a direct result of such contract,[90] since every person who enters into an obligation with it is bound at his peril to take notice of the legal limits of its capacity to contract,[91] although it has been held that, notwithstanding the act creating the obligation is ultra vires, if the railroad company, with the permission and acquiescence of the stockholders, holds itself out as competent to contract and carry on its business under color of law and procures credit and induces creditors to part with money on the faith of such contract, the contract will be binding in a court of equity not only on the corporation, but also on the stockholders.[92]

Compromise and settlement. The power of a railroad company to sue and be sued carries with it as a necessary incident power either to compromise the whole claim against, or to secure relief for a time from, the prosecution of an action founded on the claim.[93]

Refunding indebtedness. The power of the legislature to authorize a corporation to issue securities for the purpose of refunding its valid indebtedness, on a vote of a majority of the stockholders, where the corporation is in dire financial straits, has been upheld.[94]

Confirmation or validation. An indebtedness which is merely ultra vires and which the legislature originally could authorize may subsequently be confirmed or validated by statute.[95]

§ 244. Amount of Indebtedness

A railroad company may be forbidden to incur an indebtedness exceeding a prescribed amount or a single obligation of less than a certain amount.

It is the policy of some states to regulate and supervise the issuance of securities of a railroad corporation, so as to prevent stock watering or financial exploitation of such corporations, and to protect the public against overcapitalization or an excessive indebtedness.[96] Either by statute or by the charter of the particular company, a railroad company may be forbidden to incur an indebtedness exceeding a prescribed amount.[97] This amount may be fixed at a certain per cent or fraction of the capital stock, with exceptions permitting an increased amount in aid of location, construction, and equipment.[98] It has been held, however, that a railroad company is not exempt from the rule forbidding a corporation which has received the full benefit of a loan to avoid its liability therefor by reason of a statute limiting the amount of indebtedness which it may incur.[99]

Minimum amount. Under a statute so providing a company cannot incur a single obligation of less than a certain amount.[1]

§ 245. Regulation and Control by Commissioners or Other Public Officers

Designated public officers may be vested by statute with power to regulate and control the incurrence of indebtedness or the issuance of evidences of indebtedness by railroad companies.

Designated commissioners or other public officers may be vested by statute with power to regulate and control the incurrence of indebtedness or the issuance of securities or other evidences of indebtedness by railroad companies.[2] The authorization of the commission for the issuance of securities or evidences of indebtedness may be required by statute,[3] and, where the statute so provides, evidences of indebtedness issued without the required authorization are void.[4] Such statutes have been held not to ap-

88. Nev.—George v. Nevada Cent. R. Co., 38 P. 441, 22 Nev. 228
Ultra vires contracts of corporation in general see Corporations §§ 1130–1133.

89. Nev.—George v. Nevada Cent. R. Co., supra.

90. Nev.—George v. Nevada Cent. R. Co., supra.

91. Nev.—George v. Nevada Cent. R. Co., supra.

92. Ga.—Johnson v. Mercantile Trust, etc., Co., 21 S.E. 576, 94 Ga. 324.

93. Mass.—Codman v. Dumaine, 144 N.E. 408, 249 Mass. 451.

94. Mass.—Brown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 124 N.E. 322, 233 Mass. 502.
51 C.J. p 791 note 27.

95. Mass.—Brown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 791 note 28.

96. Mass.—Bulkeley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 N.E. 1033, 216 Mass. 432.

97. Iowa.—Barnes v. Eastern Iowa R. Co., 134 N.W. 90, 136 N.W. 1058, 155 Iowa 721.

98. Iowa.—Barnes v. Eastern Iowa R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 791 note 33.

99. Iowa.—Beach v. Wakefield, 76 N.W. 688, 78 N.W. 191, 107 Iowa 567.

1. U.S.—Eastern Townships Bank v. St. Johnsbury & L. C. R. Co., C. C.Vt., 40 F. 423, error dismissed 13 S.Ct. 1046, 149 U.S. 772, 37 L.Ed. 957.
51 C.J. p 791 note 34.

2. Mass.—Bulkeley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 N.E. 1033, 216 Mass. 432.

3. N.Y.—People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 123 N.Y.S. 125, 138 App.Div. 601, affirmed 92 N.E. 1096, 199 N.Y. 539.
51 C.J. p 791 note 38.

4. Tex.—Davis v. Watertown Nat. Bank, Civ.App., 178 S.W. 593.
51 C.J. p 791 note 41.
Theory of money had and received is not available, it seems, to evade the effect of such invalidating statute and permit recovery of money received by the railroad as a result of an unauthorized issue.—Lumpkin ply to securities issued prior to their enactment,[5] or to a note executed in renewal and extension of a prior note and not in discharge thereof,[6] or in respect of an indebtedness which does not constitute a lien on the property of the railroad company essential to, or of use in, the operation of the road.[7]

The nature and scope of authority or jurisdiction of the commission to regulate and control the incurrence of indebtedness or the issuance of evidences of indebtedness are measured by the terms of statute conferring such authority construed in accordance with the general rules of statutory construction.[8] The commission usually is vested with discretionary powers,[9] and on an application for approval it is its duty to determine whether as a matter of law it is empowered to approve a proposed issue.[10] Under a statute so providing, it has authority to pass on the terms of the securities for which approval is sought,[11] and on the amount,[12] including the elements which may properly be considered in determining the amount.[13] The commission has no power to prevent the issuance of proposed securities for purposes for which the statute authorizes such issuance,[14] even though it may not agree with the company as to the wisdom of the business policy involved,[15] but it has power to ascertain whether the proposed issue is for such an authorized purpose[16] or whether the capital to be obtained is necessary and required for such purpose and will be used therefor.[17]

In giving effect either to general or specific statutory provisions governing the issuance of evidences of indebtedness, the courts have denied the authority of the state regulatory body to approve certain issues,[18] such as issues which would result in the capitalization of replacements of any physical property.[19] It has been held that an order of the public utilities commission authorizing the pledging of trust certificates, to be issued pursuant to an equipment trust agreement, is not objectionable as the creation of a double liability.[20] Under some statutes the commission may properly refuse authority to issue bonds where the railroad company has not obtained a certificate of convenience and necessity for the construction of the road.[21]

While in respect of a company operating an interstate railroad the right of a state through which it runs to ascertain whether any proposed issue of securities is bona fide has been recognized,[22] it has been held that such railroad company is not subject to the authority of the commission in respect of the financing of the entire system,[23] as where the moneys to be raised are to be expended beyond the limits of the state in the acquisition, extension, improvement, or maintenance of the facilities or terminals of the railroad.[24] However, the right of a company operating in several states to question the validity of a statutory requirement for the payment of fees in connection with a proceeding for the authorization of the issuance of securities, which it prosecuted without raising any objection as to the authority of the state commission to act in the matter, has been denied.[25]

The interstate commerce commission, on application by a newly organized railroad company for authority to issue securities to purchase the property

v. Brown, Tex.Com.App., 229 S.W. 498.

Statute applied to notes

Tex.—Davis v. Watertown Nat Bank, Civ.App., 178 S.W. 593
51 C.J. p 792 note 43.

5. Md.—Laird v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 88 A. 353, 121 Md. 193.

6. Tex.—Warren Cent. R. Co. v Texas Creosoting Co., Civ.App., 62 S.W.2d 691.

7. Tex.—Lumpkin v. Brown, Com. App., 229 S.W. 498.
51 C.J. p 793 note 42.

8. Commission held quasi-judicial tribunal

Mass.—Bulkeley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 N.E. 1033, 216 Mass. 432.

9. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co v. New York Cent. R. Co., 153 N.E. 19, 256 Mass. 600.

10. Mass.—Bulkeley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 N.E. 1033, 216 Mass. 432.

11. Mass.—Bulkeley v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 792 note 49.

12. Ohio.—Pollitz v. Public Utilities Commission, 119 N.E. 507, 97 Ohio St. 191.
51 C.J. p 792 note 50.

13. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 153 N.E. 19, 256 Mass. 600.
51 C.J. p 792 note 51.

14. N.Y.—People v. Stevens, 90 N.E. 60, 197 N.Y. 1.
51 C.J. p 792 note 52.

15. N.Y.—People v. Stevens, supra.
51 C.J. p 792 note 53.

16. N.Y.—People v. Stevens, supra.
51 C.J. p 792 note 54.

17. Kan.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Bristow, 167 P. 1138, 101 Kan. 557.
51 C.J. p 792 note 55.

18. Mass.—Bulkeley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 N.E. 1033, 216 Mass. 432, 439.
51 C.J. p 792 note 56.

19. Ohio.—Pollitz v Public Utilities Commission, 119 N.E. 507, 97 Ohio St. 191.
51 C.J. p 792 note 57.

20. Ohio.—Pollitz v. Public Utilities Commission, supra.
51 C.J. p 792 note 58.

21. Wis.—Wisconsin Southern R. Co v. State R Commission, 201 N.W. 244, 185 Wis. 313.

22. Md.—Laird v Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 88 A. 347, 348, 121 Md. 179, 47 L.R.A.,N.S., 1167, Ann.Cas.1915B 728.

23. Md.—Laird v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 88 A. 347, 348, 121 Md. 179, 47 L.R.A.,N.S., 1167, Ann.Cas.1915B 728.
51 C.J. p 793 note 61.

24. Md.—Laird v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 88 A. 347, 348, 121 Md. 179, 47 L.R.A.,N.S., 1167, Ann.Cas.1915B 728.

25. Mo.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 187 S.W. 827, 268 Mo. 641.

of an old railroad at foreclosure sale, is not concerned with a reorganization plan involved,[26] but will pass merely on the propriety of exchanging new securities for the old property.[27]

Proceedings before commission. In a proceeding by a railroad company before the interstate commerce commission for the issuance of new securities, the authorities of the states through which the railroad passes,[28] and no one else,[29] may object to the issuance of such securities. In such a proceeding the commission need make only such investigation as it considers necessary,[30] which investigation may be informal.[31] Under some statutes the commission has authority to require proof of the necessity for the issuance of securities other than that afforded by the verified application.[32] Where statutory authority therefor exists, the commission may impose, and fix the amount of, a fee on the authorization of the issuance of evidences of indebtedness.[33]

Review. General rules governing the review by the courts of decisions of public service commissions, as discussed in Public Utilities § 64, have been applied with respect to review of orders regulating or controlling the indebtedness or securities of railroad companies.[34] Accordingly, it has been held that a decision will not be set aside unless it appears from a consideration of the record that the decision was unreasonable or unlawful.[35] On the petition of stockholders of a railroad company who were not parties to a proceeding by the company to obtain authorization for a guaranty of bonds of another company, it has been held that the court will decide the question as to whether the guaranty was ultra vires.[36]

Objection by stockholders. Where statutory authority therefor exists, a stockholder has a right to invoke the protection of the court against a proposed issue of evidences of indebtedness after hearing and approval of the issue by the public utilities commission.[37]

Jurisdiction of equity. Where the remedy at law by appealing from an order of the commission is inadequate and incomplete, a court of competent jurisdiction may in a proper case issue an injunction modifying, suspending, staying, or annulling an order of the commission regulating or controlling the indebtedness or securities of a railroad company.[38]

§ 246. Borrowing Money

As a general rule, unless restrained by statute, a railroad company has power to borrow money for lawful or proper purposes.

In accordance with general rules with respect to corporations and subject to applicable exceptions and limitations, as discussed in Corporations § 1144, unless restrained by statute[39] a railroad company has power to borrow money for lawful or proper purposes,[40] including purposes incidental to its organization and operation,[41] such as for the purpose of constructing its road,[42] and in general to make and issue therefor negotiable paper, as discussed infra § 247, bonds, infra §§ 248-253, and mortgages, infra §§ 282-293. The power to borrow for corporate purposes has sometimes expressly been conferred by statute.[43] The power to borrow, however, may be subject to statutory restrictions,[44] such as that the company cannot borrow at a rate of interest exceeding a certain per cent, as discussed infra § 308. If money for the use of the railroad

26. U.S.—Miller v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 277 F. 95.

27. U.S.—Miller v. U. S., supra. 51 C.J. p. 793 note 65.

28. U.S.—Miller v. U. S., supra.

29. U.S.—Miller v. U. S., supra. 51 C.J. p. 793 note 68.

30. U.S.—Miller v. U. S., supra.

31. U.S.—Miller v. U. S., supra.

32. Kan.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Bristow, 167 P. 1138, 101 Kan. 557.

33. Fee assessed by commission held proper
Mo.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 187 S.W. 827, 268 Mo. 641.

34. An appellant who did not raise a question as to the standard adopted by the commission in determining matters affecting the amount of the issue cannot question such standard, at least where the reasons assigned by such body for its decision do not indicate the standard adopted.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 153 N.E. 19, 256 Mass. 600—51 C.J. p. 793 note 74.

35. Ohio.—Pollitz v. Public Utilities Commission, 119 N.E. 507, 97 Ohio St. 191.
51 C.J. p. 793 note 75.

36. Mich.—Pollitz v. State R. Commission, 172 N.W. 611, 205 Mich. 549.

37. Issue of convertible debentures and stock
Mass.—Bulkeley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 103 N.E. 1033, 216 Mass. 432.

38. Pa.—York Rys. Co. v. Driscoll, 200 A. 864, 331 Pa. 193.
County court held to have jurisdiction
Pa.—York Rys. Co. v. Driscoll, supra—Beaver Valley Water Co. v. Driscoll, Com.Pl., 51 Dauph.Co. 105.

39. Ala.—Kelly v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 489.
Mass.—Brown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 124 N.E. 322, 233 Mass. 502.

40. Mass.—Brown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 793 note 82.

41. Pa.—Gloninger v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 211, 139 Pa. 13.
51 C.J. p. 793 note 83.

42. Pa.—Gloninger v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p. 793 note 84.

43. N.Y.—Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 11 Abb.Pr.,N.S., 188, 42 How.Pr. 68.
51 C.J. p. 793 note 88.

44. U.S.—Memphis & L. R. Co. v. Dow, Ark., 7 S.Ct. 432, 120 U.S. 287, 30 L.Ed. 595.
Amount of indebtedness in general see supra § 244.

company is borrowed on the personal credit of an officer or agent of the company, and the lender accepts such personal responsibility, he cannot afterward make the company his debtor therefor.[45]

§ 247. Making, Accepting, and Indorsing Negotiable Instruments

As incidental to its other powers, a railroad company ordinarily has power to make, accept, and indorse negotiable paper in payment or settlement of debts or obligations which it may incur in respect of any matter within the purposes of its creation.

As incidental to its power to borrow money and to incur other indebtedness, and in accordance with rules with respect to corporations in general, and subject to applicable exceptions and limitations, a railroad company has power to make, accept, and indorse negotiable paper in payment or settlement of debts or obligations which it may incur in the course of its legitimate business or in respect of any matter within the purposes of its creation.[46] Under this power a railroad company may make and issue negotiable bonds[47] or negotiable certificates payable in money or bonds.[48] The power to issue notes is sometimes expressly conferred by statute.[49] In the absence of statutory authorization, a railroad company has no general power to make or accept negotiable instruments for purposes foreign to its creation,[50] such as accommodation paper to aid in an undertaking not contemplated by its charter.[51]

§ 248. Making and Issuing Bonds

The power of a railroad company to issue bonds, what law governs their validity, their form, requisites and validity generally, the negotiation or disposal thereof, and the rights of bondholders generally are considered infra §§ 249-253.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

§ 249. —— Power to Issue

A railroad company may have express power to make and issue bonds, or such power may be implied from its other powers.

A railroad company may have express power to make and issue bonds by virtue of its charter or governing statutes,[52] or, as in the case of other private corporations, discussed in Corporations § 1147, this power may be implied from its power to mortgage its property[53] or borrow money,[54] or from its power to incur any other indebtedness in carrying out the legitimate purposes of its creation,[55] and this includes the power to issue them in exchange for bonds previously issued.[56]

§ 250. —— What Law Governs

Bonds valid where issued have been held to be valid everywhere, and it has been held that it will be presumed that the parties contracted with reference to the laws of the state where payment is called for.

Where a railroad extends through two or more states and is incorporated by the laws of each, it has been held that an issue of bonds, if valid under the laws of the state in which they are issued, is valid everywhere, notwithstanding they would have been invalid if issued under the laws of one or more of such other states through which the road runs.[57] Where railroad bonds are payable in a state other than that in which the railroad is incorporated, it has been held that it will be presumed that the parties contracted with reference to the laws of the state where payment is called for, in the absence of anything in the bonds evincing an intent to the contrary.[58]

§ 251. —— Form, Requisites, and Validity

a. In general

b. Amount of issue

45. Va.—Strider v. Winchester, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. 440, 62 Va. 440.

46. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Texas & P. R. Co., C.C.A.La., 282 F. 61
51 C.J. p. 794 note 99.
Approval or consent of commission see supra § 245.
General power of corporations to make and indorse negotiable instruments see Corporations §§ 1224-1229.
Power to:
Borrow money see supra § 246.
Incur indebtedness see supra § 243.

47. N.Y.—Miller v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 Abb.Pr. 431, 18 How.Pr. 374.
Issuance of bonds in general see infra §§ 248-253.

48. N.Y.—Pusey v. New York West Line R. Co., 14 Abb.Pr.,N.S., 434.
51 C.J. p. 794 note 2.

49. U.S.—Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Railroad Equipment Co., Ohio, 108 F. 913, 48 C.C.A. 135.
51 C.J. p. 794 note 3.

50. Ga.—Brinson R. Co. v. Springfield Exch. Bank, 85 S.E. 634, 16 Ga. App. 425.
51 C.J. p. 794 note 5.

51. Ind.—Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104.
51 C.J. p. 794 note 6.

52. N.Y.—Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 11 Abb.Pr.,N.S., 188, 42 How.Pr. 68.
51 C.J. p. 795 note 10.

53. Pa.—Gloninger v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 211, 139 Pa. 13.

54. Ala.—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Lancaster, 62 Ala. 555
N.Y.—Miller v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 Abb.Pr. 431, 18 How.Pr. 374.

55. Conn.—Mead v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Conn. 199
51 C.J. p. 795 note 14.

56. Conn.—Mead v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

57. Va.—Atwood v. Shenandoah Valley R. Co., 9 S.E. 748, 85 Va. 966.
51 C.J. p. 795 note 16

58. U.S.—Mississippi Val. Trust Co. v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 156 F.2d 283.

c. Certification and delivery
d. Acquisition of bonds by directors

a. In General

Ordinarily a railroad company may issue its bonds in any form or on any conditions it deems proper, as long as they are not unauthorized and there is a compliance with all charter, statutory, or constitutional requirements in respect of the issuance of bonds.

Ordinarily a railroad company may issue its bonds in any form or on any conditions it deems proper, as long as they are not unauthorized[59] and the transaction possesses the essential and distinguishing qualities of a loan.[60] It is necessary that there be a compliance with all the charter, statutory, or constitutional requirements in respect of the issuance of bonds,[61] such as that they be issued within the restrictions and only for the purposes prescribed by such provisions,[62] although in respect of bona fide holders such bonds may be valid, although invalid as between the original parties, as considered infra § 253. The validity of bonds issued without any substantial consideration has been denied under general principles of equity.[63] A constitutional or statutory provision which prohibits railroad companies from issuing stock or bonds except for money, labor, or property actually received and applied to the purposes for which the company was created does not interfere with the usual methods of raising money by issuing stock and bonds for legitimate corporate purposes,[64] such as for the purpose of raising money to pay debts incurred in constructing and equipping its road,[65] nor does it prohibit the company from delivering bonds as advance payment on a contract obligation of as great value as the bonds.[66] An issue of bonds is not invalid as against the company merely because of some irregularity or fraud which does not affect the liability of the company as principal debtor.[67]

Invalidity of security. Bonds secured by mortgage are not necessarily invalid because of the invalidity of the security for the bonds,[68] as where they are secured by a mortgage and there was a want of power to execute the mortgage.[69]

Waiver and estoppel A railroad company may be estopped by its conduct to deny the validity of an issue of bonds.[70] It has been held that a subsequent creditor of a railroad company cannot attack the validity of bonds on grounds which the railroad company has waived or does not question.[71]

b. Amount of Issue

In general a railroad company may not issue bonds in an amount in excess of that fixed by its charter or other governing statute.

In accordance with general rules and subject to applicable qualifications and limitations, as discussed in Corporations § 1147, in general a railroad corporation may not issue bonds in an amount in excess of that fixed by its charter or other governing statute,[72] and ordinarily bonds are invalid if

59. N.J.—Willoughby v. Chicago Junction R., etc., Co., 25 A. 277, 50 N.J.Eq. 656
51 C.J. p 795 note 18.
Form, terms, and validity of corporate bonds generally see Corporations § 1150.

Provisions held sufficient to effect incorporation of trust deed provisions by reference into obligations of bonds.—Globe Indemnity Co. v. Mississippi Valley-Merchants' State Trust Co., 41 S.W.2d 962, 226 Mo.App. 92.

60. Irredeemable bonds entitling holder to share of earnings
A railroad company has no power, under its general authority to borrow money, to issue irredeemable or perpetual bonds entitling the holder merely to a share of earnings after payment of a certain dividend to stockholders, since such transaction lacks the essential qualities of a loan.—Taylor v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., C.C.Pa., 7 F. 386, 14 Phila. 479—
51 C.J. p 796 note 35.

61. U.S.—Union Trust & Savings Bank v. Southern Tract. Co., C.C.A. Ill., 283 F. 50, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 166, 260 U.S. 744, 67 L.Ed. 492.

62. U.S.—Kemble v. Wilmington & N. R. Co., C.C.Pa., 14 F.Cas.No. 7,684, 13 Phila. 469, 5 Wkly.N.C. 172.
51 C.J. p 795 note 21.

63. U.S.—Union Trust & Savings Bank v. Southern Tract Co., C.C.A.Ill., 283 F. 50, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 166, 260 U.S. 744, 67 L.Ed. 492.
Price and consideration in general see infra § 252.

64. U.S.—Memphis & L. R. R. Co. v. Dow, Ark., 7 S.Ct. 482, 120 U.S. 287, 30 L.Ed. 595.
Ill.—Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 103 Ill. 187.
51 C.J. p 795 note 24.

65. Ill.—Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, supra.
Pa.—Commonwealth v. Lehigh Ave. R. Co., 18 A. 414, 498, 139 Pa. 405, 5 L.R.A. 367.

66. Ill.—Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 103 Ill. 187.
N.Y.—Hudson River, etc., R. Co. v. Hanfield, 55 N.Y.S. 877, 36 App. Div. 605.

67. Ala.—Kelly v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 58 Ala. 489.
51 C.J. p 795 note 27.

68. Cal.—Illinois Trust, etc., Bank v. Pacific R. Co., 49 P. 197, 117 Cal. 332.

69. Cal.—Illinois Trust, etc., Bank v. Pacific R. Co., 49 P. 197, 117 Cal. 332
Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 33 Pa. 33, 75 Am.D. 574.

70. Ohio—Shoemaker v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio Dec., Reprint, 252, 19 Cinc.L.Bul. 322.
51 C.J. p 797 note 51.

71. U.S.—Toledo, St. L. & K. C. R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., Ohio, 95 F. 497, 36 C.C.A. 155, 96 F. 784, 37 C.C.A. 587, certiorari denied 20 S.Ct. 383, 176 U.S. 219, 44 L.Ed. 442.
51 C.J. p 797 note 52.

72. Iowa—Barnes v. Eastern Iowa R. Co., 134 N.W. 90, 136 N.W. 1053, 155 Iowa 721
51 C.J. p 798 note 33.
Amount of indebtedness in general see supra § 244.

for an amount in excess of the limit so prescribed.[73] However, according to some authorities, where the corporation has acted within the scope of its general powers, bonds are not void for all purposes merely because the authorized amount is exceeded.[74] Where a statute authorizes the issuance of bonds convertible into stock, it has been held that the fact that the authorized amount of stock may be exceeded by a particular issue of such convertible bonds does not render the bonds invalid;[75] and, where bonds are issued in good faith to pay or secure some legitimate corporate indebtedness, they are not rendered invalid by the mere fact that they are issued for a sum in excess of the indebtedness which they are issued to secure.[76]

c. Certification and Delivery

As a general rule a bond does not become a valid obligation of a railroad company until it is actually delivered for a valuable consideration, and, where the bonds are secured by mortgage, certification of the trustee may be required.

In accordance with the general rule, governing corporate bonds, discussed in Corporations § 1157 a bond, although completely executed in due form to be used as security, does not become a valid obligation of a railroad company until it is actually delivered for a valuable consideration.[77] Where bonds are secured by mortgage, the trustee thereunder can be compelled to deliver and certify them only as provided for in the mortgage.[78] In the absence of a certification by the trustee, a bond is invalid in the hands of the original holder where the bond contains a provision that it shall not be valid until certified by the trustee,[79] as is a bond issued in disregard of a provision of the contract specifying the evidence on which the certification by the trustee shall be based.[80]

d. Acquisition of Bonds by Directors

In the absence of statutory restriction, a director of a railroad corporation is not prevented under all circumstances from acquiring ownership of company bonds.

In the absence of any statutory restriction, a director of a railroad corporation is not prevented under all circumstances, merely by his relation to the corporation, from acquiring ownership of its bonds secured by a mortgage.[81] A statutory provision that bonds purchased from a corporation by a director of such corporation, either directly or indirectly, for less than the par value, shall be null and void has been construed as rendering bonds so purchased voidable only,[82] and subsequent creditors may not attack the validity of such bonds in the hands of directors where it is not questioned by the corporation or its stockholders.[83] Such statute applies only to original sales made by the company and does not affect the validity of bonds in which a director has acquired an interest through a third person.[84]

§ 252. —— Negotiation or Disposal

a. In general
b. Pledge
c. Price and consideration
d. Rights of creditors against subscribers to bonds

a. In General

In the absence of special statutes, general rules applicable to the sale or transfer of corporate bonds apply to the sale or disposal of railroad bonds.

In the absence of special statutes, general rules applicable to the sale or transfer of corporate bonds, discussed in Corporations §§ 1155–1160, apply to the sale or disposal of bonds of a railroad company.[85] However, the disposition or sale of such bonds may

73. N.J.—Baker v. Guarantee Trust, etc., Co., Ch., 31 A. 174.
51 C.J. p 796 note 34.

74. U.S.—Gibson v. Kansas City Refining Co., C.C.A.Mo., 32 F.2d 658.
51 C.J. p 796 note 36.
Protection of bona fide holders see infra § 253.

75. N.Y.—Belmont v. Erie R. Co., 52 Barb. 637—Ramsey v. Erie R. Co., 7 Abb.Pr.,N.S., 156, 38 How.Pr. 193.

76. U.S.—Sioux City, O'N. & W. R. Co. v. Manhattan Trust Co., Neb., 92 F. 428, 34 C.C.A. 431.
51 C.J. p 796 note 38.

77. N.Y.—Zimmermann v. Timmermann, 86 N.E. 540, 193 N.Y. 486.

78. N.Y.—Lehigh, etc., R. Co. v. Central Trust Co., 117 N.Y.S. 595, 133 App.Div. 304, affirmed 93 N.E. 376, 199 N.Y. 599.
51 C.J. p 796 note 42.

79. U.S.—Stewart v. Florida, G. & W. R. Co., Fla., 255 F. 616, 166 C.C.A. 650.
Certification of corporate bonds in general see Corporations § 1154.

80. U.S.—Stewart v. Florida G. & W. R. Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 796 note 44.

81. N.Y.—Harpending v. Munson, 91 N.Y. 650.

82. U.S.—Toledo, St. L. & K. C. R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., Ohio, 95 F. 497, 36 C.C.A. 155, 96 F. 784, 37 C.C.A. 587, certiorari denied 20 S.Ct. 383, 176 U.S. 219, 44 L.Ed. 442.

83. U.S.—Toledo, St. L. & K. C. R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 797 note 49.

84. U.S.—Toledo, St. L. & K. C. R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., supra.
51 C.J. p 797 note 50.

85. Representation by seller that "the road is in successful operation and earning net more than the interest on all its bonds" has been held to be a representation, not that the road was earning that amount at the exact date of the representation, but that the road was then on a paying basis and was steadily earning net more than the interest on all its bonds.—Blake v. Watson, 45 Conn. 323, 29 Am.R. 683.

be regulated by special statute,[86] or by action taken by a public regulatory body pursuant to statutory authority.[87]

Negotiability. Bonds issued by a railroad payable to bearer have been held to be negotiable instruments.[88] If, however, it appears to be the intention to burden a railroad bond with conditions of a collateral instrument it is not negotiable.[89]

Contracts. Railroad mortgage bondholders who subscribe to its debenture bonds, agreeing to pay specified portions of their subscription as called for, in effect agree to lend the company money and receive the bonds as security.[90] Where a contract for the purchase of railroad bonds provided for the submission to the purchaser's attorney of certain transactions incident to the purchase for approval by such attorney, the purchaser is not liable for his refusal to carry out the agreement where his attorney in good faith refused to give his approval.[91] It has been held that an agreement to subscribe to bonds to be issued in the future by a railroad company is unenforceable where no consideration for the promise to subscribe is made to appear.[92]

Authority of officers. The president of a railroad company may be vested with authority to make usual and reasonable contracts for the sale of bonds,[93] and where such bonds, complete in form, and negotiable by delivery, are placed in the custody of the president or other managing officer of the company he thereby becomes clothed with an apparent authority to dispose of them.[94]

b. Pledge

General authority to issue and dispose of railroad bonds for corporate purposes authorizes a pledge of them to obtain money for corporate purposes or to secure a corporate obligation.

General authority to issue and dispose of railroad bonds for corporate purposes authorizes a pledge of them to obtain money for corporate purposes[95] or to secure a corporate liability or obligation.[96] Where a statute so requires, the authorization of a public regulatory body is essential to a valid pledge of bonds by a railroad,[97] and the right to pledge may be restricted by the terms of a collateral mortgage.[98] The trustee under a mortgage given by a railroad company to secure its bonds is not a neces-

86. Statute expressly authorizing sale of bonds by railroad
Ohio—Ashland Bank v. Jones, 16 Ohio St. 145.
51 C.J. p 797 note 58.

87. Provision barring sale held not to create trust
U.S.—In re Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., D.C.Ill., 35 F.Supp 230, affirmed, C.C.A., 126 F.2d 351, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Mutual Sav. Bank Group Committee, 63 S.Ct. 987, 318 U.S. 793, 87 L.Ed. 1158, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct 1160, 319 U.S. 781, 87 L.Ed. 1726, certiorari denied Susman v Mutual Sav. Bank Group Committee, 63 S.Ct. 987, 318 U.S 793, 87 L.Ed 1158, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 1161, 319 U.S. 781, 87 L.Ed. 1726, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 988, 318 U.S. 793, 87 L.Ed 1158, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 1161, 319 U.S. 781, 87 L.Ed. 1726, certiorari denied City Bank Farmers Trust Co. v Life Ins. Group Committee, 63 S.Ct 988, 318 U.S. 793, 87 L.Ed. 1158, certiorari denied Irving Trust Co v. Mutual Sav. Bank Group Committee, 63 S.Ct. 989, 318 U.S. 793, 87 L.Ed. 1158, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 1161, 319 U.S. 781, 87 L.Ed 1726, certiorari denied Protective Committee for Holders of Common Stock v. Mutual Sav. Bank Group Committee, 63 S.Ct. 989, 318 U.S. 793, 87 L.Ed. 1158, certiorari denied Protective Committee for Holders of Preferred Stock v. Mutual Sav. Bank Group Committee, 63 S.Ct. 990, 318 U.S 793, 87 L.Ed 1158.

88. N.Y.—Frank v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 24 N.Y.S.2d 846, 175 Misc. 902, affirmed 24 N.Y.S.2d 854, motion denied New York, C. & St L. R. Co. v. Frank, 61 S.Ct. 729, affirmed 61 S.Ct. 833, 313 U.S 535, 85 L.Ed. 1507, vacated on other grounds 61 S.Ct 938, 313 U.S. 596, 85 L.Ed. 1550, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 258, 314 U.S. 360, 86 L.Ed. 277.
Negotiability of corporate bonds generally see Corporations § 1148.

89. Where trust deed precluding bondholders from suing on bonds was made part of bonds and interest coupons by reference, the bonds and coupons were nonnegotiable.
U.S.—Mississippi Val. Trust Co. v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 156 F.2d 283.
Mo.—Globe Indemnity Co. v. Mississippi Valley-Merchants' State Trust Co., 41 S.W.2d 962, 226 Mo. App. 92.

90. Mass.—Pettibone v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 19 N.E. 337, 148 Mass. 411, 1 L.R.A. 787.

91. N.Y.—Atkins v. Trowbridge, 148 N.Y.S. 181, 162 App.Div. 629.
51 C.J. p 797 note 60.

92. Pa.—Newport & S. V. R. Co v. Seager, 7 Pa.Super. 268.

93. N.Y.—Seligman v. South, etc., Alabama R. Co., 67 N.Y. 584.
51 C.J. p 797 note 62.

94. Ohio—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v Lynde, 44 N.E. 596, 55 Ohio St. 23, affirmed 19 S.Ct. 238, 172 U.S. 493, 43 L.Ed 528.

95. U.S.—Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Toledo & S. H. R. Co., Mich., 54 F. 759, 4 C.C.A. 561
51 C.J. p 797 note 66.

96. U.S.—Central Trust Co of New York v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 247 F. 586.
51 C.J. p 797 note 67.

97. Sufficient authorization
